

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. During the course of our Internal Security - Espionage Conference held at Seat of Government on October 22 and 23, 1956, discussion was had concerning information received by Bureau sources that both Soviet officials in Russia and Party officials in this country were dissatisfied with the system of communications between Soviet Union and Communist Party (CP), USA. It was agreed that we should attempt to fully capitalize upon this situation and that the most productive and valuable achievement from our point of view would be to guide one of our informants into the position of being selected by the CPUSA as a courier between the Party in this country and the Soviet Union.

Our efforts in this regard have progressed to the situation today whereby CG 5824-S has been designated by Eugene Dennis to operate as this courier. The Soviets have relayed word back through Canadian communist officials that CG 5824-S is perfectly acceptable to them as the CPUSA courier. CG 5824-S is scheduled to be in New York today (March 5, 1958) to discuss the various aspects of this trip with Dennis. Following this discussion, this matter should come to a head inasmuch as the Soviets have let it be known that they are extremely anxious to see CG 5824-S at the earliest possible moment.

CPUSA INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, IS-C. RE NY TEL FEBRUARY 15, LAST, CONCERNING A VISIT OF ELIZABETH MASCOLO TO NYC. NY 694-S* ORALLY FURNISHED THE FOLLOWING INFO TO SA JOHN E. KEATING ON FEBRUARY 15 LAST. IT IS SUGGESTED THAT UTMOST CAUTION BE USED IN HANDLING THIS INFO TO PROTECT THE SECURITY AND FUTURE OPERATIONS OF TWO HIGHLY PLACED INFORMANTS. THE NY INFORMANT ACCOMPANIED ELIZABETH MASCOLO TO THE RESIDENCE OF WILLIAM Z. FOSTER ON FEBRUARY 15, LAST. SINCE MASCOLO HAD STATED THAT SHE HAD TO DELIVER A MESSAGE FROM TIM BUCK TO FOSTER IN PERSON, AND THIS WAS HER FIRST VISIT TO THE FOSTER RESIDENCE, THE INFORMANT PURPOSELY REMAINED OUT OF THE BEDROOM WHILE SHE TALKED WITH FOSTER. THEIR DISCUSSION WAS INTERRUPTED WHEN THE ATTENDANT ARRIVED FOR ONE HOUR OF THERAPEUTIC TREATMENT. IN ALL, MASCOLO TALKED WITH FOSTER FOR ABOUT THIRTY-FIVE MINUTES. INFORMANT WAS ABLE TO GLANCE AT THE NOTES MASCOLO HAD PREPARED FOR THIS DISCUSSION. SHE SUBSEQUENTLY DISPOSED OF THESE NOTES IN A TOILET. THE NOTES INDICATED: 1. THAT THE RP WAS VERY ANXIOUS FOR BILL AND HIS FAMILY TO GO TO M. WHATEVER RESOURCES AND TECHNIQUES THEY HAVE AT THEIR DISPOSAL WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE TO HIM. INFORMANT INTERPRETED RP TO MEAN THE RUSSIAN PARTY OR THE CPSU. 2. AUTHORIZATION. 3. URGENT THAT ALL OF HIS ARTICLES AND WRITING BE SENT

TO THEM. 4. CHINESE PARTY URGENTLY REQUESTS FROM HIM TWO COPIES OF BITTELMAN'S LATEST ARTICLE AND FOSTER'S ANSWERS TO BITTELMAN. ALSO TWO COPIES OF CONTROVERSIAL ARTICLES BY THE RIGHT WING AND ANY ANSWERS BY FOSTER TO THESE ARTICLES. IN REGARD TO ITEM TWO CONCERNING AN AUTHORIZATION, THE INFORMANT ADVISED THAT BECAUSE FOSTER'S FAMILY WAS WORRIED THAT A LENGTHY DISCUSSION MIGHT AFFECT HIM, THE INFORMANT WENT INTO THE BEDROOM TO EXPEDITE THE DISCUSSION. AS MASCOLO LEFT FOSTER, HE TOLD HER THAT HE AGREED TO THE AUTHORIZATION AND HIS WIFE WOULD SIGN IT. MASCOLO THEN WENT INTO THE KITCHEN AND DICTATED THE FOLLOWING TO SYLVIA KOLKO, FOSTER'S DAUGHTER: ~~QUOTE~~ "FEBRUARY 15, 1958. ON BEHALF OF WILLIAM FOSTER, I AUTHORIZE THE INSTITUTE OF LITERATURE AND PUBLICATION TO MAKE WHATEVER EDITORIAL CHANGES ARE NECESSARY ~~UNQUOTE~~. ESTER FOSTER SIGNED THIS AUTHORIZATION. IT WAS GIVEN TO THE NEW YORK INFORMANT TO BE MAILED TO TIM BUCK BY SENDING IT TO [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] MASCOLO TOLD THE INFORMANT THIS AUTHORIZATION PERTAINED TO FOSTER'S LATEST BOOK. INFORMANT IS OF THE OPINION THIS MAY BE ~~THE~~ "THE HISTORY OF THE THREE INTERNATIONALS" ~~UNQUOTE~~. THE RUSSIANS ARE TRANSLATING THIS BOOK INTO RUSSIAN AND WANTED AUTHORITY TO MODIFY OR DELETE CERTAIN CRITICISMS OF TITO BY FOSTER. MASCOLO ALSO TOLD THE INFORMANT THAT DURING THE LAST TEN MINUTES OF HER CONVERSATION WITH FOSTER, HE WAS GIVING HER A PICTURE OF THE SITUATION IN THE CPUSA FOR DELIVERY TO BUCK. WHILE IN THE KITCHEN, SYLVIA KOLKO SAID TO MASCOLO THAT IT WOULD BE WONDERFUL FOR FOSTER TO GO THERE, THAT IS TO RUSSIA. MASCOLO REPLIED ~~QUOTE~~ "THAT IS WHAT I SPOKE TO BILL ABOUT. IN FACT THEY WOULD WANT THE WHOLE FAMILY TO GO THERE ~~UNQUOTE~~. MASCOLO SAID THAT THEY ARE VERY ANXIOUS FOR BILL TO GET THERE FOR THEY ARE SURE THAT THEY WOULD BE ABLE TO HELP HIM ALTHOUGH THEY CANNOT GUARANTEE A COMPLETE CURE. INFORMANT ADVISED THAT THEY, REFERS TO THE RUSSIANS.

If the intelligence contained in the above message is to be disseminated outside the Bureau, it is suggested that it be suitably paraphrased in order to protect the Bureau's cryptographic systems.

INFORMANT THEN ASKED IF BILL WANTS TO GO TO RUSSIA. MASCOLO SAID THAT FOSTER WANTS VERY MUCH TO GO TO RUSSIA BUT SAID THAT UNDER NO CIRCUMSTANCES WOULD HE STATE IN A PASSPORT APPLICATION THAT HE WAS NOT AND IS NOT A COMMUNIST PARTY MEMBER. SYLVIA SAID THAT THERE ARE A LOT OF HEALTH AND TECHNICAL PROBLEMS INVOLVED IN SUCH A TRIP. SYLVIA FURTHER STATED THAT FOSTER'S PHYSICIANS ARE WORKING ON AND NEXT WEEK WILL SUBMIT TO THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT, A MEDICAL REPORT ON FOSTER. THE PURPOSE OF THIS IS TO PAVE THE WAY FOR A TRIP TO RUSSIA BY FOSTER. SHE SAID HIS PHYSICIANS ARE VERY MUCH IN FAVOR OF SUCH A TRIP. BEFORE MASCOLO LEFT FOSTER'S RESIDENCE, FOSTER TOLD HER TO BE SURE TO GET WORD TO EUGENE DENNIS THAT THE RUSSIANS WANT FOSTER IN RUSSIA. MASCOLO SAID THAT SOME OTHER PERSON WAS TAKING CARE OF THIS. INFORMANT COMMENTED THAT THE LAST TIME MASCOLO WAS IN NEW YORK CITY, SHE HAD A MESSAGE FROM BUCK WHILE HE WAS IN MOSCOW. THIS MESSAGE FROM BUCK WAS TO BE DELIVERED TO FOSTER AND IT WAS THAT THE ANSWER WAS ~~WAS~~ "EMPHATICALLY YES" ~~UNQUOTE~~. INFORMANT IS NOW OF THE OPINION THAT FOSTER HAD REQUESTED BUCK TO DETERMINE IF FOSTER COULD GO TO RUSSIA AND THIS WAS THE ANSWER FROM THE RUSSIANS. MASCOLO ALSO TOLD SYLVIA THAT BUCK HAD SAID THAT HE TRIED TO SEE [REDACTED] IN MOSCOW. DESPITE EFFORTS OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE CPSU, [REDACTED] COULD NOT BE PERSUADED TO SEE BUCK. SHE HAS A MENTAL QUIRK IN THIS REGARD BUT IN GENERAL IS ALL RIGHT. INFORMANT ADVISED THAT WHILE THE ATTENDANT WAS PRESENT, FOSTER, WITH THE HELP OF THE ATTENDANT AND A CANE, WALKED TO THE LIVING ROOM. HIS LEFT HAND IS BEGINNING TO RETURN TO NORMAL BUT IS STILL DEFORMED. HE HAS A SLIGHT DEFECT IN THE LEFT SIDE OF HIS FACE AND LOWER LIP BUT IT DOES NOT AFFECT HIS SPEECH. HE SEES DENNIS, DAVIS AND ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN FROM TIME TO TIME. JACK SHULMAN TAKES DICTATION FROM HIM. HE HAS COMPLETED AN ARTICLE WHICH WILL APPEAR IN ~~QUOTE~~ "POLITICAL AFFAIRS" ~~UNQUOTE~~. IN A MOMENT OF WEAKNESS,

If the intelligence contained in the above message is to be disseminated outside the Bureau, it is suggested that it be suitably paraphrased in order to protect the Bureau's cryptographic systems.

HE CONSENTED TO LET SHULMAN INDICATE THAT HE IS THE CO-AUTHOR OF THE ARTICLE ALTHOUGH HE ONLY TOOK DICTATION FROM FOSTER, WHO NOW REGRETS GIVING SHULMAN THIS PERMISSION. SYLVIA TOLD INFORMANT THAT SHE AND HER FAMILY, INCLUDING FOSTER TO SOME EXTENT, DO NOT LIKE AND DO NOT TRUST SHULMAN. SHE SAID HE IS A VERY TALKATIVE AND VERY AMBITIOUS PERSON. HE TAKES TOO MUCH INTEREST IN WHAT IS GOING ON IN THE FOSTER RESIDENCE. WITH CYNICISM, SYLVIA REFERRED TO SHULMAN AS ~~THE~~ "THE PROFESSOR" ~~AND~~, AND SAID THAT BEING ASSOCIATED WITH FOSTER HAS GONE TO HIS HEAD. HE IS NOT POLITICALLY ASTUTE. SYLVIA SAID THAT THEY WOULD NOT TELL SHULMAN ABOUT THIS VISIT AND THAT SHULMAN DOES NOT KNOW THAT FOSTER AND HIS FAMILY WANT TO GO TO RUSSIA. WHILE THE ATTENDANT WAS PRESENT, INFORMANT ASKED MASCOLO IF BUCK HAD SAID ANYTHING ABOUT CHINA. SHE REPLIED THAT SHE HAD LITTLE TIME TO CONVERSE WITH HIM, HOWEVER, HE SAID THAT CHOU EN LAI HAD BEEN STABBED. THE WOUND WAS NOT SERIOUS AND HE IS WELL. THE WEAPON USED WAS A PENKNIFE. SINCE THIS INCIDENT, SECURITY PRECAUTIONS FOR LEADING PARTY MEMBERS HAVE BEEN TIGHTENED. FOR EXAMPLE, BUCK HAS A BODYGUARD AT ALL TIMES. ALTHOUGH HE PROTESTED, HE WAS TOLD THAT THE CITIES ARE VERY CROWDED AND THEY WOULD NOT TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY FOR ANYTHING HAPPENING TO HIM WHILE HE WAS IN CHINA. HE WAS PARTICULARLY INSTRUCTED CONCERNING WALKING THE CITY STREETS AT NIGHT, IN OTHER WORDS, THIS WAS FORBIDDEN. SHE STATED BUCK SAID MAO TSE TUNG TOOK A PERSONAL INTEREST IN HIS COMFORTS AND SENT HIM A COMPLETE WARDROBE, BEFITTING HIS STATION IN LIFE AND THE CLIMATE, TO BE WORN WHILE HE WAS IN CHINA. THE POLITBURO OF THE CP OF CHINA HONORED HIM WITH A BIRTHDAY PARTY AT THE HOME OF CHU TEH. INFORMANT FURTHER ADVISED THAT HE ARRANGED WITH FOSTER TO HAVE ALL DOCUMENTS FOSTER WANTS TO SEND TO RUSSIA TRANSMITTED THROUGH THE INFORMANT FOR DELIVERY TO CANADA. INFO CONCERNING THE ABOVE WAS ALSO FURNISHED BY NY 1697-S* AND WILL BE SUBMITTED TO THE BUREAU BY SEPARATE

COMMUNICATION. INFORMANT FURTHER ADVISED HE WAS PRESENT IN THE ROOM IN THE PRINCE GEORGE HOTEL IN NYC WHEN MASCOLO MET WITH ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG ON FEBRUARY 14, LAST. SINCE MASCOLO SAID SHE HAD TO PERSONALLY DELIVER THE MESSAGE FROM BUCK TO TRACHTENBERG, INFORMANT HAD TO FEIGN DISINTEREST IN THE CONVERSATION WHICH WAS CARRIED ON IN LOW TONES. SHE HAD A LIST OF NAMES AND TRACHTENBERG SAID THAT IF SHE GAVE HIM THE LIST, HE WOULD BE ABLE TO BETTER UNDERSTAND THE ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS OBTAINED FOR HIM BY BUCK. IN THE OPINION OF THE INFORMANT, TRACHTENBERG HAD ASKED THE RUSSIANS TO APPROVE ROYALTIES FOR CERTAIN WRITERS. AT ONE TIME DURING THE CONVERSATION, TRACHTENBERG SAID THAT HE HAD ALREADY RECEIVED MONEY FOR AN INDIVIDUAL SINCE HE LAST SAW MASCOLO. INFORMANT ONLY HEARD A NAME WHEN TRACHTENBERG WAS UNABLE TO READ MASCOLO'S NOTES. THE ONLY NAMES MENTIONED WERE HERBERT APTHEKER, BOB DUNNE, AND JIM ALLEN. NEW CENTURY PUBLISHERS WAS MENTIONED SEVERAL TIMES. OCCASIONALLY, TRACHTENBERG WOULD SAY THIS PERSON DOES NOT DESERVE ANY PAYMENT. MASCOLO WOULD REPLY THAT IT HAS ALREADY BEEN ARRANGED, AND IT IS TOO LATE TO CHANGE IT NOW. TRACHTENBERG SAID THAT HE WAS WELL PLEASED AND THAT SHE SHOULD TELL TIM BUCK THAT HE HAD DONE A GOOD JOB. MASCOLO TOLD TRACHTENBERG THE RUSSIANS WERE MOST ANXIOUS TO RECEIVE ~~SOME~~ "ECONOMIC NOTES" ~~WAS~~. HE REPLIED THAT HE HAD SENT THEM SOME ISSUES. SHE SAID THEY MUST HAVE GOTTEN LOST IN THE GENERAL SHUFFLE AND THAT IT WOULD BE BEST TO SEND THEM ~~TO~~^{TO*}. SHE THEN POINTED TO SOMETHING WRITTEN ON THE PIECE OF PAPER. AT THIS POINT CG 5824-S* JOINED THE OTHER THREE. TRACHTENBERG SAID THAT HE KNEW ABOUT THE PLAN TO HAVE FOSTER GO TO RUSSIA. HE SAID THAT A SERIES OF STEPS IS BEING PLANNED. FIRST THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT WOULD BE ASKED TO DISMISS OR SUSPEND THE SMITH ACT INDICTMENT AGAINST FOSTER BECAUSE OF HIS HEALTH. SUBSEQUENTLY, THE GOVERNMENT WOULD BE REQUESTED

TO ALLOW FOSTER, FOR HUMANITARIAN REASONS, TO GO TO RUSSIA. HE STATED THAT BOTH PHYSICIANS AND ATTORNEYS ARE WORKING ON THIS. TRACHTENBERG ALSO STATED THAT JACK SHULMAN STARTED A CAMPAIGN TO RAISE FUNDS FOR FOSTER SINCE MONEY WAS NOT AVAILABLE TO PAY FOR THE NURSES. HOWEVER, SINCE THERE ARE NOT SUFFICIENT FUNDS FOR THE NATIONAL OFFICE AND FOR ~~THE~~ "THE WORKER" ~~UNION~~, TRACHTENBERG AND OTHERS IN THE NATIONAL OFFICE FELT THAT IT WOULD NOT BE ADVISABLE TO PRIVATELY COLLECT MONEY FOR FOSTER. THEREFORE, SHULMAN WAS INSTRUCTED TO STOP THIS CAMPAIGN.

At noon on 2/15/58 ASAC Norman McCabe of the New York Office called and stated that NY 694-S and CG 5824-S had reported some most significant information concerning international relations between the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) and the Communist Party, Soviet Union (CPSU). Mr. McCabe stated that Elizabeth Mascolo, common-law wife of Tim Buck, Canadian CP leader, had come to New York and relayed information to our two informants from her husband. The information furnished by our informants is set out as follows:

On 2/14/58 Elizabeth Mascolo arrived unannounced at the office of NY 694-S in New York. She told him that Buck had returned to Canada on Wednesday, 2/12/58, and told her that she should proceed immediately to New York City with messages which she should personally deliver to Eugene Dennis, Alexander Trachtenberg and William Z. Foster. It is noted that Buck had just returned from a trip of a two-months' duration in Russia and China. NY 694-S contacted CG 5824-S at the National Office of the CPUSA and had him come to the office of NY 694-S to talk with Mascolo. CG 5824-S returned to the National Office and was able to contact Dennis, but Dennis told him that he was involved in a meeting and told CG 5824-S to get the message for him. This is the message that Mascolo gave to the Chicago informant for delivery to Dennis:

The Central Committee of the CP of the Soviet Union welcomed proposals that were made by Buck that a representative or representatives of the CPUSA go to Moscow for conferences with the CPSU. Mascolo said that this meant CG 5824-S and any other representative that the CPUSA might select to go with him. The American Section of the Foreign Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU was pleased to hear about this proposal and urged that it be carried through as soon as is expedient. Arrangements for travel should be handled with American passports and other papers, if possible. If this is not possible, the CP of Brazil will give assistance in this regard. If the assistance of the CP of Brazil is needed, Buck should be contacted for details.

Memorandum for A. H. Belmont
Re: CPUSA
International Relations

Further, Moscow would like to have two copies of all material pertaining to the present proceedings of the National Committee of CPUSA. If this material is not completely available, what is available should be transmitted as soon as possible with the other material following later. This material to be sent to Russia via Canada and Tim Buck. Further, CP of China wants an "active relationship" directly with the CPUSA through Eugene Dennis.

Mascolo also had some information for Dennis with regard to what she would discuss with Foster. Dennis should be told that Foster and his future were discussed with the highest authorities in Moscow and that they welcomed him to Russia. He will be welcomed whether he wants to come for treatment or to visit permanently. The Russians also welcomed Foster's family and feel that it might be beneficial for Foster's granddaughter if Foster's family would accompany him to Russia.

Dennis should also be told that Buck lived with copy of [redacted] with him to England and mailed it from England to Canada. It has not arrived in Canada as yet, but will be made available to Dennis when received. Further, [redacted] might mail correspondence to Eugene and Peggy Dennis. Further, Dennis is to be told that the leading comrades of the CPUSA would like to see more material on the Soviet Union printed in the CPUSA press, particularly "The Worker." The Russians will make arrangements to supply "The Worker" with a daily press service which is called something like Overseas Press. This service will come to Canada and will be remailed from there. Tim Buck wants to know from Dennis if this service should be sent to the office of "The Worker" or to some other address. In addition, the Russians would like to have a correspondent of "The Worker" stationed in Moscow. If this correspondent is "politically qualified," he could be the representative between the CPUSA and the CPSU. Dennis should be instructed, however, that

7 CPSU

Memorandum for A. H. Belmont
Re: CPUSA
International Relations

if this is not expedient at this time, the CPUSA should not worry much about it. In the meantime, "The Canadian Tribune" will send a correspondent who will also represent the CPUSA press from a news point of view. Mascolo stated that this correspondent for "The Canadian Tribune" had not been selected as yet. When this correspondent arrives in Moscow, he will receive assistance from the American Section of the Foreign Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU.

This American Section would also like to obtain copies of all material presently being disseminated by the CPUSA. This American Section would also like to have the CPUSA establish a relationship with the CP of Canada. This American Section also wants material in regard to labor and economic conditions in the U.S. Arrangements for economic notes and labor notes to be sent to Russia via Canada will be made with Trachtenberg. The CP of China is also desirous of obtaining the same type of material. This will also be discussed by Mascolo with Trachtenberg. Dennis should be given the address [redacted] [redacted] for purposes of sending any correspondence to Tim Buck. If the CPUSA wants to correspond directly with the CP of China, material should be sent to G. You, Post Office Box 509, Peking, China.

CG 5824-S commented that this message for Dennis from the leadership of CPSU means a recognition of Dennis as the leader of the CPUSA. NY 694-S was present on the afternoon of 2/14/58 when Mascolo talked with Trachtenberg. NY 694-S was also going to accompany Mascolo to the residence of Foster on the morning of 2/15/58. Details of the meet between Mascolo and Trachtenberg and Mascolo and Foster will be obtained from NY 694-S on the afternoon of 2/15/58.

OBSERVATIONS:

It would appear from the statement of the Soviets that they want CG 5824-S to come to Russia as soon as is feasible; that our intensive efforts over the past year to guide our informant into a position where he would be selected to act as liaison between the CPUSA and the CPSU is rapidly coming to a successful climax.

ACTION:

This matter is being followed extremely closely at the Seat of Government to insure it will be successfully carried out.

This is the preliminary report of CG 5824-S, who had to return to the National Committee meeting at once. Necessarily it must be handled most carefully both from the standpoint of action to be taken by the Bureau to capitalize on this information and from the standpoint of possible dissemination. When full details are received from both CG 5824-S and NY 694-S, we will be in a better position to consider both of these lines of action.

CONF. DINT-CG 5824-S

Solo

BACKGROUND:

We have been trying for sometime to produce direct evidence of the fact that the Communist Party, USA (CPUSA), follows orders and takes direction from the Communist Party, Soviet Union (CP-SU). If we are able to develop such evidence it would not only strengthen our case against the CPUSA but would enhance tremendously the Bureau's prestige as an intelligence agency.

We know that current leaders of the CPUSA have been discussing the need to establish direct contact with the CP-SU in Moscow. In this regard, Eugene Dennis, secretary of National Affairs, CPUSA, told CG 5824-S on July 29, 1957, that the CPUSA should start rebuilding connections with the CP-SU and suggested it would be a very good idea if the informant would consider taking a trip to Russia. The informant told Dennis such a trip would have to have more authority than the suggestion of one individual. Dennis dropped the matter at that point.

MEETING BETWEEN TIM BUCK AND CG 5824-S:

CG 5824-S, representing the CPUSA on July 3, 1957, had a meeting with Tim Buck, General Secretary of the Labor Progressive Party of Canada at Toronto. Informant told Buck that he is now a member of a foreign relations committee of the CPUSA and is being proposed for the position of International Secretary to coordinate contacts between the CPUSA and other Communist Parties. Buck indicated that he was pleased that informant had been chosen for this position and said if informant needs any help in communicating with Moscow or to establish a more efficient method of communicating with Moscow, he would be glad to help. Informant told Buck that he had discussed with Eugene Dennis, Sid Stein, and Fred Fine the need to establish direct contact with the CP-SU, Moscow. Informant also told Buck that he had conveyed to the above party leaders the information Buck had given to informant after Buck's latest trip to Moscow to the effect that the CP-SU would like to speak to a representative of the American party in Russia. Informant indicated to Buck that a decision would be made on this matter soon by the CPUSA and the big problem is travel papers and even if a passport could be obtained, the American representative could not leave directly from the United States. Buck indicated he understood and suggested that everything possible should be done to get travel papers from the United States and he could more efficiently arrange for transportation from Canada to Europe so there would be no problem of being stopped. In addition, he would communicate with Russia to inform them that someone from the United States is traveling to Russia.

OBSERVATIONS:

This is a most significant development of which we should take full advantage. The type of intelligence and evidence our informant could produce by talking face to face with Russian CP leaders in Moscow would be invaluable.

Leaders of the CPUSA have indicated dissatisfaction with the system of communication between the Soviet Union and the CPUSA. Within the past year informants have reported that an attempt might be made to set up a courier system but until now nothing as definite as above-outlined has developed. In CG 5824-S we have the best possibility in the Bureau's history of establishing a pipeline through which we can obtain evidence of a tie-in between the CP-SU and the CPUSA. Informant has established himself through recent trips to Mexico and Canada as a logical choice in the minds of Party leaders for this courier position. Informant has indicated his availability to the Party on other assignments and there is no reason why he could not likewise on this occasion.

One of the most favorable factors from our standpoint, should the Party select our informant as a liaison agent, is the fact he would have the position of CP representative and we would not have to establish a cover for him. This has been an almost unsurmountable problem in the past when we have attempted to set up such an operation.

Memorandum for Mr. Boardman
RE: COURIER SYSTEM BETWEEN
CPUSA AND CPSU

CG 5824-S

The biggest problem which will have to be solved in this operation is that of securing travel papers. If the party is not able to handle this aspect, it is possible that Tim Buck might be of some assistance as there has been considerable travel by the Canadian party between Canada and Europe without any unusual incidents. If the party makes any concrete suggestions to CG 5824-S regarding such a trip, we will have to carefully weigh the possibilities of informant getting into trouble through passport complications and thereby jeopardizing his future value to the Bureau. When the party gives CG 5824-S more encouragement and specific instructions, we will be in a position to properly advise informant. Since this is a most important development, we should alert Chicago to keep the informant aware of its possibilities and follow closely with the informant.

ACTION:

On 8-29-57 ASAC Schmit, Chicago, advised informant was going to Canada to attend the national plenum of the Canadian party on the instructions of the CP, USA. Thereafter he will report to the National Executive Committee of the CP, USA, in New York. While in Canada informant will inquire if the opportunity presents itself of the Canadian leaders concerning the possibilities of traveling to Moscow by way of Canada as a representative of the CP, USA. Chicago is alert to this situation and its importance to the Bureau's operations and the necessity for the informant to be most discreet so as not to jeopardize his position. Both the Chicago Office and the Bureau will carefully follow all developments and you will be kept advised.

CG 5824-S, one of our most highly placed informants, recently attended the national convention of the Labor Progressive Party (LPP), which is the Communist Party of Canada, as observer from Communist Party (CP), USA. While in Canada, informant had contact with various LPP functionaries as result of which following interesting possibilities developed: (1) during course of conversing with one Valdez, who represented CP of Mexico at LPP national convention, informant arranged for all communications between CPUSA and CP of Mexico to pass through him. Valdez also invited CPUSA to send a representative to attend a meeting of Central Committee of CP of Mexico on 5/11/57; (2) Tim Buck, general secretary, LPP, told informant that Communist Party of Soviet Union (CPSU) wants CPUSA to take greater interest in Latin American affairs. Buck further stated CPSU wants leading member of CPUSA to go to Russia to discuss activities of CPUSA. During conversation, Buck stated that if CPUSA representative could go to Mexico for one month he could be transported to Russia regardless of passport difficulties; (3) while in contact with John Weir, member of national committee, LPP, Weir told informant he could arrange for meeting in Canada between CPUSA representative and Russian diplomatic or trade personnel.

Upon return from Canada, informant advised Eugene Dennis, member of national committee, CPUSA, of his Canadian visit. While Dennis was noncommittal regarding possibility of meeting between CPUSA representative and Russian diplomatic or trade personnel in Canada, he evidenced great interest in CP of Mexico and stated CPUSA must strengthen its relationships not only in Latin America but in all international affairs. When informant mentioned invitation of CP of Mexico for a CPUSA representative to attend meeting in Mexico, Dennis urged informant to go as CPUSA representative. He also suggested that while there, informant should attempt to contact Frederick Vanderbilt Field, Albert Maltz and other former Americans ~~interested in Mexico~~, who might be induced to contribute to CPUSA.

Dennis ruled out any possibility that he would meet with representatives of CPSU outside of United States. He did mention possibility that someone from CPUSA, while attending the World Festival of Youth to be held in Moscow, Russia, in July, 1957, might act as CPUSA representative to CPSU. No concrete decisions, however, were made regarding this matter.

By teletype 5/6/57, Chicago was authorized to have informant go to Mexico as CPUSA representative. He departed from Chicago on 5/9/57. Upon his return we will, of course, obtain detailed information concerning this matter.

OBSERVATIONS:

The situation as it is developing appears to offer one of the best possibilities we have had in recent years to develop legally admissible evidence to the effect that CPUSA is directed and controlled by Russia, as well as valuable intelligence data relative to activities between CPUSA and other communist parties in this hemisphere.

While he may take no positive steps in the immediate future, it appears that Eugene Dennis will ultimately designate a CPUSA representative to meet with the Russians either in Moscow or some other locality. The possibility of our informant being selected for such an assignment is certainly a factor which we must explore to the utmost. Upon his return from Mexico and subsequent report to Dennis regarding his trip there, the informant may be able to obtain additional information relative to the above developments.

ACTION:

We will continue to give this matter our closest attention.

During the course of the recent Internal Security-Espionage Conference held at the Seat of Government on October 22 and 23, 1956, discussion was had concerning information recently received by Bureau sources that both the Soviet officials in Russia and Party officials in this country are dissatisfied with the system of communications between the Soviet Union and the CPUSA.

In this regard, it is noted that John Williamson, convicted Smith Act subject who accepted voluntary deportation to Scotland in 1955, is presently residing in London, England, and is serving as a medium for the transmission of information between the Soviet Union and the CPUSA. It is noted, however, that Gene Dennis, general secretary, CPUSA, has recently observed that Williamson is unsatisfactory in this capacity, primarily because he is out of touch with the American scene.

Along these same lines, it is noted that a prominent Soviet official recently told Tim Buck, functionary in the Canadian Communist Party, that the Russians would like to see Gene Dennis or some other high-ranking Party official who could speak for the CPUSA, visit Moscow.

In view of the foregoing, it appears entirely possible that some attempt may be made by the Party to set up a courier system between the CPUSA and Russia. It is felt that the Bureau should definitely explore this matter, especially from the standpoint of the possibility of arranging to have one of our informants or some other cooperative individual selected as such a courier.

The afore-mentioned conference felt that we should explore this possibility in two ways: (1) by a careful review of our current informants particularly those on relatively high levels, and (2) by considering businessmen and other individuals who periodically go to Russia on legitimate business. In connection with this latter category, it would appear more desirable that such an individual has a background sympathetic to communism but who is not sufficiently identified with communism so that he would be suspect to American authorities. Such an individual should, of course, be of such sympathy at the present time that we can approach him for the purpose of putting him in touch with the CPUSA in this regard.

It is desired that each office give this matter immediate attention since if anything is to be accomplished, now appears to be the most propitious time. Analysis should be made of each informant operated by you to ascertain whether he has any potential regarding selection by the Party as a courier. You should also be alert to any legitimate businessman or other cooperative citizen with suitable background who may be in a position to engage in such an operation in behalf of the Bureau.

It should also be borne in mind by each office that even though you have no individuals in the above categories who represent any potential, it is possible that you may have cooperative individuals in your territory who may be utilized in connection with a cover operation which such a courier would undoubtedly need.

During the course of your over-all analysis of this matter, you should remain particularly alert to any individuals, informants or otherwise, who have some form of connection with Russia such as having been born in Russia, having Russian parents, having visited Russia in the past, etc.

It is desired that each office immediately commence your analysis of this matter and forward your observations to the Bureau no later than November 17, 1956. Your replies should be concrete and specific in order that the potential of this situation can be properly evaluated.

IT IS SUGGESTED THAT THE FOLLOWING MATERIAL NOT BE DISSEMINATED OUTSIDE THE BUREAU AT THIS TIME IN ORDER TO PROTECT THE IDENTITY AND FUTURE OPERATIONS OF CG 5824-S*.

CG 5824-S* orally furnished the following information to SA JOHN E. KEATING on 2/18/58:

CG 5824-S* met with EUGENE DENNIS on 2/18/58 in DENNIS' office in the headquarters of the Communist Party - USA in New York City. CG 5824-S* gave DENNIS a report on the information which was transmitted by ELIZABETH MASCOLO from TIM BUCK for EUGENE DENNIS. CG 5824-S* stated that most of the discussion was carried on by the use of notes.
DENNIS burned his notes soon after they were made. DENNIS also made CG 5824-S* burn all of the notes he had made concerning the discussion with MASCOLO, except for the address in Toronto to which material for the Communist Party of the Soviet Union should be sent, and the address in Peking, China, to which material for the Communist Party of China should be sent.

DENNIS was disturbed that this discussion was carried on in the Party office and urged the Chicago informant to arrange to meet him in the country on his next trip to New York City. This trip to New York City would be subsequent to a trip to Canada and a personal discussion with TIM BUCK.

DENNIS was impressed and pleased that there is a good possibility that a representative of the Communist Party - USA can go to Russia. DENNIS urged CG 5824-S* to go to Canada as soon as possible to get details from TIM BUCK so that the informant can go to Russia immediately. DENNIS told the informant that now that the Left wing has gained control of the Communist Party - USA, he would take one or two other persons into his confidence so that CG 5824-S* would go to Russia officially as a representative of the Communist Party - USA. The informant commented that he wants to have some official title in the Communist Party - USA before making such a trip.

CG 5824-S* also told DENNIS that he did not want to rush into this trip, since there are many personal and technical problems involved. He asked DENNIS what he thought of the idea of applying to the United States State Department for a passport to Russia on humanitarian grounds -- that is, because of his or his wife's health. If such a passport could be obtained, then the informant could go to Russia legally. DENNIS indicated that he thought that this was a good idea. Beyond this there was no discussion about funds for the trip or any other technicalities. CG 5824-S* stated that DENNIS would expect the informant to work out these details with TIM BUCK.

During this portion of the discussion, DENNIS told the informant to be sure and explain our situation to them when you get over there. Then DENNIS wrote a dollar sign on a piece of paper. CG 5824-S* said that he replied, "Of course, I will". CG 5824-S* commented that this is the first time DENNIS has ever indicated to him that the Communist Party - USA might be able to obtain funds from Russia.

CG 5824-S* advised that DENNIS told the informant that the informant should mail two copies of all material issued in connection with the recent meeting of the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA to the addresses in Toronto, Canada, and China. DENNIS did not retain these addresses and told the informant that the informant should maintain this correspondence between the Communist Party - USA and the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, and between the Communist Party - USA and the Communist Party of China. Thus, DENNIS is trying to avoid any direct connections between himself and the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of China, and will try to have others take any risks involved.

In regard to the request of [redacted] for an address to which they might send letters to EUGENE and PEGGY DENNIS, DENNIS told the informant that he did not want to give him any address and that any material from EUGENE and PEGGY DENNIS for [redacted] would have to be carried personally by the informant on his trip to Russia.

DENNIS made no comment concerning the proposal of the Russians to have a correspondent of "The Worker" stationed in Moscow. In this regard, however, he did write down one word on a callendar in his office.

DENNIS made no comment concerning the possibility of using a correspondent of the "Canadian Tribune" to represent the Communist Party - USA in Moscow from a standpoint of news.

DENNIS made no comment concerning an address for material from Russia for use in "The Worker". CG 5824-S* commented that undoubtedly DENNIS will discuss this with the staff of "The Worker". DENNIS did ask whether or not this material would consist of public relations or if it would be inner Party documents.

CG 5824-S* has further advised that he made arrangements with ELIZABETH MASCOLO to mail to her suggested dates for a two-day meeting between the informant and TIM BUCK in Toronto. If these dates are satisfactory to BUCK, the informant will not receive any reply. As of 2/20/58, the informant had as yet not decided what dates he would select for a meeting with BUCK.

While the possibility of the informant making a trip to Russia now exists and there is no stumbling block as far as the Communist Party of the Soviet Union is concerned, such a venture does pose many problems to the informant and thus to the Bureau.

Comments in this regard by the informant and the Chicago Division will be submitted to the Bureau in the immediate future.

Re Chicago teletypes November 25, 1957 and December 5, 1957, reflecting that NY 694-S* had received a message from LESLIE MORRIS, Acting Secretary of the Labor Progressive Party of Canada in the absence of TIM BUCK, that the Russians are most happy and glad to make contact with CG 5824-S* and EUGENE DENNIS and are awaiting proposals from the states in regard to contact. It is noted that CG 5824-S* conveyed this message to EUGENE DENNIS in New York City on December 4, 1957. Since the discussion in regard to this matter was not concluded on December 4, 1957, DENNIS and CG 5824-S* agreed to conclude the discussion at the latter's residence.

CG 5824-S* orally advised SA JOHN E. KEATING on December 11, 1957, that he and DENNIS discussed this matter on December 10, 1957 in Chicago.

DENNIS indicated to the informant he is anxious to have the CP, USA make personal contact with the CP of the Soviet Union and realizes that he cannot stall the Russians much longer in regard to this contact. DENNIS instructed CG 5824-S* to go to Canada to see TIM BUCK as soon as information is received that BUCK has returned to Canada from Moscow. It is noted that BUCK is scheduled to return to Canada prior to the holidays. DENNIS asked CG 5824-S* to obtain any and all information BUCK may have in regard to a possible contact between the CP, USA and CP, SU.

DENNIS also stated that he thought that the picture in the CP would be clearer after the meeting of the National Executive Committee scheduled to start on December 20, 1957, and that any contact between the CP, USA and the CP, SU should be after the NEC meeting. He also stated that the picture in the CP, USA, that is, whether the Left-Wing or the Right-Wing gains control, should be even clearer after the meeting of the National Committee scheduled for February, 1958. DENNIS stated, however, that he thought that CG 5824-S* should plan to go to Russia prior to the National Committee meeting if the information from TIM BUCK is to the effect that the Russians want to make personal contact as soon as possible.

CG 5824-S* stated that he told DENNIS that he was not in a hurry to make the trip reminding DENNIS that it would be necessary to make many technical arrangements before such a trip could be made. DENNIS agreed that a full discussion and preparation of the technical arrangements would be necessary.

DENNIS further stated that he was considering the possibility of taking at least one other person from the Left-Wing into his confidence in regard to this trip so that CG 5824-S* would not go as a personal representative of DENNIS provided that the Left-Wing has not gained control of the Party prior to the trip.

CG 5824-S* asked DENNIS if he had considered sending someone with CG 5824-S* if this trip to Russia is made. DENNIS stated that he had no possibilities in mind to accompany the informant and that he believes that CG 5824-S* should make the trip alone. The Bureau will be promptly advised of any pertinent developments in this matter.

IT IS SUGGESTED THAT THIS INFORMATION NOT BE DISSEMINATED OUTSIDE THE BUREAU IN ORDER TO PROTECT THE INFORMANT.

Reference is made to previous memoranda relative to possibility that CG 5824-S, one of our most highly placed informants, may be selected by Communist Party, USA (CPUSA), to establish direct liaison with Soviet Union. ($) Solo $(u)

In this connection, CG 5824-S conversed with Sid Stein, secretary of organization, national committee, CPUSA, on 9-16-57 relative to the criticism of John Gates, member of national administrative committee, CPUSA, which appeared in last issue of Russian publication "The Communist." Stein agreed that this article was written to bring about the ouster of Gates and his associates in the CPUSA. Stein stated that present leadership of CPUSA is not going to accept this interference from Russia and that the article will be answered with a blast. Stein stated that he does not believe that this is the time for CPUSA to send a delegation to Russia since this delegation could not discuss things openly, could not be elected openly and could not send all factions within CPUSA. $(u)

CG 5824-S also conversed on 9-16-57 with Eugene Dennis, chairman, national administrative committee, CPUSA, at which time Dennis stated he believes this is an inopportune moment for CPUSA to send a delegation to Russia. Dennis stated that the technical difficulties are almost insurmountable and that no leading CP member wants to take a chance on a passport fraud or some similar development. $(u)

Dennis stated he had been thinking of an alternative to sending a CPUSA delegation to Russia. This alternate plan would involve arrangements with Canadian CP whereby John Williamson, deported Smith Act subject now residing in London, would make a trip from England to Canada. CPUSA would then send a couple of people to Canada to give Williamson the situation within CPUSA. Williamson would then go to Russia, present the facts to the Russians and obtain a clarification of policy. $(u)

Informant feels that it will be some time before Dennis finally makes up his mind concerning the idea of a delegation to Russia or the alternate plan of having Williamson come to Canada. $(u)

MAR 21 1958

On Monday, September 16, 1957, SID STEIN and MORRIS CHILDS were discussing the article by PONOMAREV in "The Communist", which is published in Moscow, Russia. STEIN and CHILDS both agreed that the article was written to bring about the ouster of JOHN GATES and those associated with him in the Communist Party - USA who want to split the Party.

CHILDS suggested that perhaps by the use of more diplomacy and tact, the Communist Party - USA could get the Russians to stop interfering in the affairs of the American Party. STEIN stated that the present leadership of the Communist Party - USA is not going to accept interference, that this article in "The Communist" will not only be answered, but it will be answered with a blast.

In answer to a comment by CHILDS that perhaps the Russians are criticizing the Communist Party - USA only because the American Party has a bad press, STEIN said that he did not think that this was so. He said that the Russians have received all the documents issued by the Communist Party - USA and he knows for a fact that they were delivered. STEIN then stated that the Soviet Party insists on obedient tools and we will not commit suicide by following them.

STEIN then discussed the fight in the National Executive Committee meeting held a few days prior to this conversation. He said that some people, such as BEN DAVIS, JR., and WILLIAM L. PATTERSON, wanted to embark upon a petition campaign. This petition would be presented to the United Nations and would charge the United States with suppression in regard to the Negro people. STEIN said that he is convinced that this move was instigated by the Russians. He said, We defeated it and we were fully aware that this was a gimmick to be utilized by Soviet diplomacy to avoid the Hungarian indictment.

SID STEIN then stated that he thinks that now is not the time for the Communist Party - USA to deal with the Russians. If, however, the Communist Party - USA would deal with the Russians, it should deal with them on an equal basis. We should tell them where we stand. STEIN repeated, however, that he thought that this would be an inopportune time to send a delegation to Russia, since this delegation could not discuss things openly, could not be elected openly, could not satisfy all groups in the Communist Party - USA, and it might be used against the Communist Party - USA.

In conclusion, STEIN stated that the Russians, the leadership of the Communist Party - SU, are not children. They think that their present activities in regard to the Communist Party - USA are helping this Party. STEIN stated, however, that he believes that the Russians are making a terrible mistake because they are alienating many people in the United States, the one country where they can least afford to alienate the people.

Subsequently on September 16, 1957, there was a meeting in Madison Park, New York City, between EUGENE DENNIS and MORRIS CHILDS. CHILDS discussed with DENNIS a recent conversation he had had with TIM BUCK, leader of the Labor Progressive Party, which is the Communist Party of Canada. This discussion between BUCK and CHILDS concerned the possibility of a delegation from the Communist Party - USA going to Russia to consult with the CPSU.

DENNIS stated that he was of the opinion that this might be an inopportune moment for the Communist Party - USA to send a delegation to the CPSU. He said that first of all he thought that the technical difficulties are almost insurmountable. He said that no leading comrade wants to take a chance of getting himself involved in such a manner that he might be picked up on a passport fraud or something else of that sort. In addition, he stated, we could not discuss these things openly. The most we can do is to give the Russians some information and wait for a more opportune moment.

Then DENNIS said that he had been thinking of an alternative to the sending of a delegation from the Communist Party - USA to Russia. This alternate plan would involve working out some arrangements with the Canadians, whereby JOHN WILLIAMSON would make a trip from England to Canada. Then the Communist Party - USA would send a couple of people to Canada to meet with WILLIAMSON and to give him a picture of the situation in the United States and in the Communist Party - USA. JOHN WILLIAMSON would then go to Russia and present to the Soviet Party the exact relationship of forces in the United States and obtain a clarification of policy. DENNIS stated that he thought that CHILDS should be on any committee which would meet with WILLIAMSON, but he said that he was not sure now that the Communist Party - USA could find a couple of additional people who could be placed on such a committee. He stated that certainly the Right wing would want to be represented and the Left wing would want to be represented. Yet, how can such a thing be debated in the open?

Concerning the Right wing, DENNIS said that the Soviets would not find any of the Right wing people acceptable, especially in direct negotiations, and, in fact, would not even let them into Russia. Thus, for the time being some alternative must be found. He thinks that the best alternative is to get JOHN WILLIAMSON into Canada, meet with him there and open up negotiations with the Russians in this fashion. Unless, of course, circumstances change so that a delegation can go directly to Russia.

In discussing the current situation in the leadership of the Communist Party - USA, DENNIS said that he sees no possibility of peace with GATES, nor does he see any possibility to reconcile with WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. DENNIS said that he thinks that the Soviet Party is making a mistake in giving the kind of backing that they are giving to FOSTER. CHILDS urged DENNIS to write some articles so that he, too, can appear in print in the Soviet press and speak for the Communist Party - USA.

COMMENTS OF CG 5824-S*

The leaders in the National Office of the Communist Party - USA are aware of the gathering storm in the Communist Party - USA. This is why they are not too anxious for a delegation or a delegation to talk to the Soviet Party at this juncture. Such a delegation would have to be a secret. It, therefore, could not speak up. If it did, it would speak only for a faction or two and not for the entire Party. Then there is the danger that news of the delegation might leak out to the United States Government because of technical difficulties. This, they believe, would endanger the Communist Party.

Further, the GATES faction would like to stay away from the Soviet connections. This faction has a free hand without Soviet connections. DENNIS would like to make contact with the Russians, but he does not want to create a situation whereby his opponents would have a weapon in their claim that the Party leadership, headed by DENNIS or that faction associated with DENNIS, is Soviet dominated. This was the charge of JOE CLARK.

Thus, it is necessary to keep in mind that the idea of a delegation from the Communist Party - USA to the USSR will be postponed. The plan of DENNIS to bring JOHN WILLIAMSON to Canada has to be organized. This will take time.

I believe that it would not be advisable for us to push the idea of a delegation to the USSR or even to rush the plan of DENNIS in regard to JOHN WILLIAMSON. It is necessary to keep in mind that the factional fight in the Communist Party - USA is going to intensify. Thus, it is necessary to avoid getting caught in the cross-fire of factionalism.

Re Chicago airtel March 3, 1958, entitled "CP, USA, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, INTERNAL SECURITY - C". Re airtel related to the proposed trip of CG 5824-S*.

It is believed that the negotiations as to this proposed trip to Russia by CG 5824-S* have now materialized to the point that very concrete plans must be made on the assumption that the trip may become a reality. In view of the extreme importance of this overall matter, I have been giving it my personal attention and on February 28, 1958, along with other representatives of this office, I met with CG 5824-S* as well as [redacted] for the purpose of determining all possible ramifications as well as the attitude of these two informants. I was very impressed with their capabilities and overall desires to be of continuing assistance to the Bureau.

As reflected in re Chicago airtel March 3, 1958, the Soviets are now definitely anticipating that CG 5824-S* will be given the assignment as representative of CP, USA or as a personal representative of EUGENE DENNIS. The informant is leaving for New York on the evening of March 5, 1958, to contact EUGENE DENNIS and furnish him the results of the informant's conversation with TIM BUCK. As soon as the results of this conference are received the Bureau will be promptly advised. It is believed, however, that as a result of this conference time may become of the essence and the informant will be placed in a position of having to proceed as quickly as possible to make the necessary arrangements to carry out this directive.

As a result of our conference with CG 5824-S*, informant will [redacted] these questions and problems with DENNIS:

- 1.) If DENNIS agrees, he will want to have DENNIS take into confidence one of the [redacted] top leaders in the Communist Party such as BOB THOMPSON and JIM JACKSON, in order that the informant is not placed in a

- position of representing DENNIS only rather than the leadership of the American Party.

2.) For security reasons he will make every effort to obtain funds to assist in making this trip. He recognizes that immediate funds may not be forthcoming and he may be instructed to secure the money through other sources, Communist or non-Communist, with the understanding that informant would be repaid by the Soviets. The informant is of this opinion that DENNIS may not be forthcoming with funds since even the national leadership admits they are unable to obtain any information concerning whatever might be remaining of reserve funds in New York.

3.) He plans to discuss with DENNIS the technical problems of securing a passport and obtain his viewpoints based upon the informant's discussion with TIM BUCK.

4.) While in New York City he plans to obtain the viewpoints of NY 694-S* as to technical problems involved in view of the latter's prior experience as an individual involved in the Comintern apparatus.

In looking over the overall situation, it is believed that the immediate decision to be made revolves around the method of obtaining a passport for the informant to leave the country. The possible alternatives are set forth on page 6 of re airtel. In considering all factors, the Chicago Office is of the opinion and CG 5824-S* agrees, that at this time it appears the most logical method of obtaining a passport is to use the name of another individual whose description is similar to that of the informant. Before a final decision can be made on this, however, it is believed essential to determine exactly what action is taken by the State Department upon receipt of an application for a passport. This is believed essential in order that we can fully explore what is necessary to insure full security for this cover.

In discussing this matter with the informant, it has been suggested by him that he could assume the identity of a cousin who died approximately two years ago. This cousin was born in Chicago and lived in Chicago practically all his life. It would be necessary, of course, to fully obtain the detailed background of his cousin from the informant to be certain that all of the necessary documents and papers were in order. We would not necessarily be restricted to the use of this cousin's name, but this is merely cited as an example and whether this or a fictitious name would be used would depend to a large extent on the result of our inquiries to the State Department on what check is made on applications for passports. There are many other ramifications in connection with handling this matter but details are not set forth at this time since it is felt that any further detailed planning will depend upon the outcome of the informant's conference with DENNIS as well as a check of State Department procedures.

As mentioned previously, I was most impressed with the informant in my conference with him. He fully recognizes all of the potential risks involved in his proposed venture as well as the extreme value of the results of such a mission, if successful, to the United States Government. He expressed a hope that this mission could be ~~successfully carried out~~ in order that it could open up possible future channels of information which would be of invaluable assistance to the Bureau on a continuing basis. He stated that he was fully cognizant of the fact that it might be most difficult to handle any information which might be obtained as a result of such a mission since any action which might be taken could well jeopardize the continued flow of future data through whatever channels might be open.

I am of the opinion that from an overall intelligence viewpoint, the opportunity now presents itself, barring unforeseen circumstances, to have one of our informants in the enviable position of acting as a courier between the CP, USA and the CP, SU. I feel that this matter should be given the most careful consideration by the Bureau and I further feel that it would be highly desirable for Assistant Director BELMONT to proceed to Chicago shortly after the return of the informant from New York in order that the Bureau's overall desires and policy in this matter can be fully discussed with the informant.

The following two immediate recommendations are made:

- 1.) The Bureau, through liaison channels, immediately check with the Passport Division of the State Department on a general basis and determine exactly what action is taken on a passport application. These inquiries should be of such a nature in order that we can determine what safeguards should be set up in order to insure the smooth processing of an application by the informant without the assistance of the Bureau or any other Governmental agency.

Re: CG 5824-S*

2.) CG 5824-S* tentatively plans to return to Chicago by the afternoon of March 8, 1958. If the Bureau favorably considers the recommendation that Assistant Director BELMONT proceed to Chicago for the purposes stated above, it is believed desirable that this be done during the week of March 10, 1958.

Overall Observations

As to recommendation #2 above, I feel very strongly as to the necessity for Assistant Director BELMONT to personally meet with CG 5824-S* at this time. The informant is now in a position after approximately six years of effort of culminating the most important assignment since he became a Bureau informant. His overall attitude is excellent. He is, of course, physically sick and a number of problems which can be handled locally must be resolved. These problems are the handling of his aged parents, his house while he is gone, the attitude of the CP functionaries to let the informant carry the burden and perfecting this mission.

His overall philosophy is that he is perfectly willing to undertake the risks involved if the long term importance of this assignment is fully recognized and the information gathered is not utilized by top Government officials outside the Bureau for "political expediency". I believe it is essential to put our best foot forward and the overall policy viewpoint in view of the top position which this informant now occupies, which can be presented only by an official of Assistant Director BELMONT's stature with his overall knowledge of Bureau policy and procedures.

Prompt receipt of the Bureau's views as to the above will be appreciated.

CG 5824-S* orally advised SA JOHN E. KEATING on 2/28/58 that he had received the following information from TIM BUCK, leader of the Labor Progressive Party (the Communist Party of Canada), on 2/25-26/58, in Toronto, Canada. It is noted that BUCK returned to Canada in February, 1958, after having spent over two months in Russia and China.

BUCK stated that he conveyed to the Russian leadership a message from EUGENE DENNIS that MORRIS CHILDS was selected as a representative to go to Russia. This message from DENNIS was in response to an original request from the Russians for such a representative from the United States. BUCK stated that MORRIS CHILDS was approved as a representative of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union by MIKHAIL SUSLOV, OTTO KUUSINEN and one BESIDEEN (ph). BUCK stated that they realized that it might be impossible for the Communist Party - USA to send an official delegate to the Soviet Union, and agreed to accept a personal representative of EUGENE DENNIS, who they consider to be the real leader of the Communist Party - USA.

BUCK further stated that these officials of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union wanted CHILDS to attend the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of the Soviet Union in Moscow and this is why a time limit was set in the message conveyed to LESLIE MORRIS, a member of the Secretariat of the Labor Progressive Party. When there was no response to this message, it was assumed that technical difficulties prevented CHILDS from making a trip to Russia on such short notice.

BUCK stated that the top Soviet leaders are very anxious to talk with a member of the Communist Party - USA. He said that they are hungry for first-hand news and a political interpretation of events in the Communist Party - USA and in the United States. BUCK also stated that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of China expressed a desire to see CHILDS. He told BUCK to tell CHILDS that he should go to the Chinese Embassy when he gets to Moscow and arrangements will be made for him to be taken by a jet plane to China, even if he can spend no more than one week in China.

According to BUCK, he was scheduled to meet with JANOS KADAR in Hungary after his return to Moscow from China. He was also scheduled to stop over in England on his return to Canada. KUUSINEN and SUSLOV told BUCK that they would send a courier to KADAR to get the information BUCK wanted from KADAR. They also told him not to lay over in England, but to get to Canada and convey the following information to EUGENE DENNIS or his representative:

- 1 (1) They understand that EUGENE DENNIS is doing the best he can under the circumstances and they are pleased with what he is doing.

(2) If BUCK is able to convey this information to DENNIS or his representative, perhaps it will give DENNIS some encouragement in the coming struggle in the Communist Party - USA and it might help the Communist Party of the Soviet Union to get information concerning the February, 1958, meeting of the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA as soon as possible.

(3) They are anxious for the representative of the Communist Party - USA to get to Russia and will try to make some technical provisions for such a trip if this is a problem.

BUCK said that he discussed technical problems with the Russians. He said that he told them that even with an American passport, a delegate from the Communist Party - USA to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union could not travel openly.

BUCK stated that the Russians told him that all housing and security precautions would be arranged for the delegate from the Communist Party - USA while he is in Russia. They also told him that they had talked specifically and concretely to the Brazilian Communist Party delegates to the 40th Anniversary celebration in Moscow. The Russians told BUCK that if the representative from the Communist Party - USA can get to Brazil, they will see that he gets to London and then through the Baltics to Helsinki, Finland. From Finland, the Russians would get him to Moscow.

BUCK stated that the Russians suggested Brazil because they thought that a person could go from the United States to Brazil without a passport. When they were told that a passport was needed for travel from the United States to Brazil, he said that this upset all the plans which had been made.

BUCK then stated that he had to send a letter by courier before Thursday, 2/27/58. This letter would go to Russia. It was to contain the results of the meeting of the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA held on 2/15-16/58. It was also to contain the resolution on the Party prepared by EUGENE

DENNIS and adopted by the National Committee. It was also to contain the resolution on JOHN GATES adopted at the National Committee meeting. It was also to contain the identities and the political composition of the new National Executive Committee of the Communist Party - USA. It was also to confirm that MORRIS CHILDS is to be the representative from the United States to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, and will set forth the problems involved in getting such a representative from the United States to Russia.

BUCK commented that MIKHAIL SUSLOV is very careful security-wise. BUCK said that SUSLOV stated that he would not send any messages in code to Brazil. He stated that even though their code is changed frequently, they operate on the theory that it can be broken at any time. Therefore, he would send any messages to Brazil by courier.

BUCK stated that it was necessary to emphasize that CHILDS should make the trip to Russia as soon as possible because the leaders of the Soviet Union stress the urgency of seeing a representative from the Communist Party - USA soon.

Then BUCK said that he still thought that the best bet is for CHILDS to get an American passport, if possible. BUCK even suggested the possibility of the use of the name of someone who resembles CHILDS in an effort to get an American passport. BUCK said that an American passport is still the best passport to have for travel in Europe and Asia.

BUCK further stated that the Russians would make provisions for CHILDS' wife, if she accompanied him.

BUCK said that it might be possible for CHILDS to go to Russia with a Canadian passport. However, this would mean that CHILDS would have to live in Canada, then apply for a passport, and then undergo an interview by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. BUCK said that if things did not go smoothly, there might be trouble in such a plan, but the main difficulty with such a plan is that it would cause a long delay. BUCK then mentioned that Mexico might be a possibility, and said that he would see what he could find out about this. He commented that if CHILDS could go to Mexico, perhaps the Mexican Communist Party could get him a passport. He commented that some of the Latin American delegates to the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of the Russian Revolution could not get passports from their own countries to Russia, so they left from other countries in Latin America and were given assistance by the Communist Party of Mexico.

BUCK stated that CHILDS should do everything possible on his own to get to Russia as soon as possible, but should use precaution so as not to alert United States Government authorities. In this regard, BUCK said that CHILDS should not go to Canada in the immediate future, if he is making preparations for this trip. BUCK said that if he receives any information from the Russians, he will have ELIZABETH MASCOLO call CHILDS' wife from a public telephone to see if CHILDS is at home. If he is, then MASCOLO will make a trip to CHILDS' residence and deliver the message to him or perhaps will request that CHILDS' brother make a trip to Toronto.

BUCK also stated that if the Communist Party - USA wants financial assistance from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, then CHILDS should be prepared to present proposals as to how this money might be supplied in an indirect manner; for example, royalties, etc.

BUCK also stated that any bulk material, as opposed to letters, which the Communist Party - USA wants him to transmit to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union should be addressed to Progress Books, 924 King Street West, Toronto, Canada. Any material which CHILDS wants sent to Russia for his use when he arrives in Moscow should be addressed to Progress Books Union, with the same Toronto address. BUCK gave the impression that the Russians gave him the assignment to get a representative from the Communist Party - USA to Russia as soon as possible, and that he does not want to fail in this mission.

Union. While this selection of CHILDS could not be altered in a short time, there should not be much delay in getting CHILDS to Russia. For this reason, his health permitting, EUGENE DENNIS should be given this information from BUCK personally during the week of 3/2/58. CHILDS might try the following:

- (1) Apply for a passport in his own name as a roving correspondent for "The Worker" and see what the attitude of the United States State Department would be.
- (2) Apply for a passport using the name of another individual whose description is similar to that of CHILDS'.
- (3) Go to Canada, live there for a while, and apply for a Canadian passport. The difficulty with this plan is that if anything happened to prevent CHILDS from obtaining this passport, the Soviets would have nothing to do with CHILDS in the future and would "disown him".
- (4) Attempt to get to Brazil by way of Mexico. One difficulty in this possibility is that CHILDS does not speak Spanish and might encounter difficulties while travelling on a Brazilian passport.

BUCK did not say how such a trip would be financed. Undoubtedly, DENNIS will tell CHILDS to try to borrow enough money to get to Russia, at which time he would be reimbursed and would also be provided with return transportation.

Comments of the Chicago Division

The major problems in regard to this matter appear to be the following:

- (1) The possibility of an immediate passport.
- (2) The need to make some temporary financial arrangements for [redacted] It is believed highly desirable that CG 5824-S* be accompanied by [redacted] yet, she may lose her job as a result of such an extended absence.

- (3) Maintenance and security of the residence of CG 5824-S* [redacted] while on a trip of possibly two months' duration.
- (4) A possible physical examination for CG 5824-S* before such a trip is undertaken. It is felt that such a trip would open up channels of communication and would have great value beyond the trip itself. Thus, it would be in the Bureau's interest to use every precaution to take full advantage of this.
- (5) The providing of funds for CG 5824-S* [redacted] to get to Russia. It would be understood that the Russians would be asked to make a reimbursement for travel expenses to Russia.

It is believed that the most serious problem is that of a passport. The Chicago Division will make recommendations in this regard as soon as the results of the next contact with EUGENE DENNIS are known.

With regard to the letter that BUCK was to send to Russia by courier, since CG 5824-S* left Canada before the date when this letter was to be sent, it is not known whether or not BUCK sent it, but it is assumed that he did.

Reference is made to my memorandum to you dated 2-15-58 setting forth information obtained by two of our most highly placed informants, NY 694-S and CG 5824-S, from Elizabeth Mascolo, common-law wife of Tim Buck, Canadian Communist Party (CP) leader. It is noted that this information had been furnished by Mascolo upon the instructions of Buck following his return from an extended trip to Moscow and China. The data primarily concerned international relations between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union. The substance of this information was disseminated to the White House and Attorney General by memorandum 2-17-58 under a "Top Secret" classification.

Among the data furnished to our informants by Mascolo was the address, _____ which was to be utilized by the CPUSA when it desired to send material to the Soviet Union through Tim Buck.

While the above address would undoubtedly be of interest to Canadian authorities, analysis of this matter reflects that certain factors must be taken into consideration. Since this address is to be utilized as a mail drop between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union, correspondence which would be directed to that address will undoubtedly pertain to activities of the CPUSA and will, therefore, be of far greater interest to the FBI than to Canadian authorities.

In addition, it is noted that when CG 5824-S relayed this information to Eugene Dennis, he told the informant to handle this correspondence between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union, obviously attempting to avoid any direct communications between himself and the Soviet Union. In this regard, we must bear in mind that our major objective in this over-all matter is to get CG 5824-S established as the courier between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union. No action should be taken which could in any way jeopardize this highly delicate and important operation.

In view of the above together with the fact that this Canadian address is known to an extremely limited number of people, it is not believed desirable that this address be furnished to Canadian authorities at this time. Re Bureau airtel dated 12/30/57.

CG 5824-S* was advised immediately upon receipt by the Chicago Division of information received by NY 694-S* that TIM BUCK would not return from abroad until "after the end of January".

The first reaction of CG 5824-S* to this information was that possibly the Russians desired to have a representative of the Communist Party - USA in Russia while BUCK was still there so that joint discussions could be carried on between the Labor Progressive Party, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party - USA. CG 5824-S* is of the opinion that this might explain the reference to a two-week period which was not clear in the original information received through LESLIE MORRIS.

It is noted that CG 5824-S* had transmitted the original information to EUGENE DENNIS and had personal discussions with DENNIS on this matter both in New York City and in Chicago. At that time, it was the decision of DENNIS that CG 5824-S* should wait until after BUCK's return to Canada and then go to Canada to discuss this matter with BUCK.

CG 5824-S* stated that the information that BUCK would not return to Canada until after the end of January, 1958, should have been conveyed to DENNIS in order to determine whether this information might in any way alter the decision made by DENNIS. However, this information could only be given to DENNIS by CG 5824-S* personally. CG 5824-S* felt that NY 694-S* could not personally contact DENNIS because of the POTASH case. CG 5824-S* believes that a matter such as this could only be given to DENNIS by personal contact with him. Outside of NY 694-S*, no other person should be involved in any way.

However, when this information was received, CG 5824-S* could not get to New York City much before the National Executive Committee meeting which was scheduled to start on 12/20/57. CG 5824-S* believed that DENNIS would be so busy preparing for and participating in this meeting that the informant might not be able to discuss this matter with DENNIS. Furthermore, CG 5824-S* felt that for security reasons it would be well for him to remain out of New York City during this particular NEC meeting, since it was known that a showdown between the Right wing and the Left wing might occur at this meeting.

As the Bureau is aware, the decision to cease publication of the "Daily Worker", the statement of JOHN GATES to the "New York Times", the opposing views on the declaration of the twelve CPs, etc., has brought the factional fight in the CP-USA to a head. CG 5824-S* further felt that he should avoid making a trip to New York City immediately following the NEC meeting in an effort to avoid the necessity of fully committing himself to either the Left wing or the Right wing. While CG 5824-S* and the Chicago Division have reached the conclusion that CG 5824-S* should be aligned with the Left wing, or that faction which will have ties with the CPSU, CG 5824-S* feels that he should avoid antagonizing anyone in the leadership as long as it is at all possible. Furthermore, CG 5824-S* is not anxious to go to Russia unless he can go as the representative of the CP-USA and not as the representative of one or a few individuals in the leadership. Also, it would be dangerous to go as the representative of the Left wing before the results of the fight between the Left wing and the Right wing are known. Of course, the Right wing is not anxious to have contact between the CP-USA and the CPSU.

CG 5824-S* stated on 1/2/58 that he is now of the opinion that he cannot delay a trip to New York City much longer, even though the factional struggle continues on such a high level. Therefore, health permitting, he plans to go to New York City sometime during the week of 1/5/58 to see EUGENE DENNIS. At this time, he would suggest to DENNIS that he make a trip to Canada, even though BUCK has not returned from Russia. The purpose of the informant's trip to Canada would be three-fold:

(1) To inform the LPP of all current developments in the CP-USA, the reason for the cessation of publication of the "Daily Worker", etc. CG 5824-S* believes that the LPP would convey this information to the CPSU and the current factional struggle within the CP-USA would explain to the CPSU why the CP-USA did not immediately send a representative to the CPSU.

(2) To attempt to obtain from the Russian Embassy in Canada, through the LPP, any information which would clarify the original message.

(3) To arrange to be notified as soon as BUCK returns to Canada so that a meeting with BUCK could be planned prior to the time BUCK becomes involved in reporting the results of his trip to the leading committees of the LPP.

CG 5824-S* further stated that he should make a trip to New York City soon, in any event, to maintain the pretext that he has to make periodic trips to New York City in connection with the business of NY 694-S*.

The Bureau will be advised of any pertinent developments in this matter and will be advised when CG 5824-S* plans to leave Chicago for New York City.

CG 5824-S*. KASHTAN and MORRIS stated that they were puzzled by the text of the original message received from the Russian Ambassador to Canada. They stated that they did not know whether this message originated with the Russians or whether it was a verification by the Russians of a discussion they had had with TIM BUCK either in Canada or in Russia.

MORRIS and KASHTAN stated that inasmuch as no further word had been received from the Russians, they believed that no action should be taken in this regard until BUCK's return to Canada. They also agreed with the informant that no action should be taken until the present complicated situation within the Communist Party - USA is cleared up so that a representative of the Communist Party - USA could represent the majority viewpoint in the American Party.

MORRIS and KASHTAN stated that TIM BUCK is presently in Peking, China. They have received letters from him, and received a letter on 1/7/58. In this letter, BUCK stated that he had been invited to China by MAO-TSE-TUNG and could not avoid the trip to China. MORRIS and KASHTAN stated that they had cabled BUCK, urging him to return to Canada for a meeting of the National Committee of the Labor Progressive Party, and indicated to BUCK that the membership of the Labor Progressive Party might criticize him for being absent for so long a period. Meanwhile, BUCK had written the letter which was received on 1/7/58. In this letter, BUCK stated that he felt that it would be inhospitable if he did not stay in China until the end of February, and urged MORRIS and KASHTAN to go ahead with the meeting of the National Committee of the Labor Progressive Party.

KASHTAN and MORRIS stated that they felt that BUCK could explain to the Chinese that he had to return to Canada and that as a result of their cable they might receive word that he would return to Canada for a meeting of the National Committee before the end of January.

KASHTAN and MORRIS told CG 5824-S* that they would advise him as soon as they knew when BUCK would return to Canada.

In connection with our present project regarding the development of CG 5824-S* as a courier between the Communist Party (CP), USA, and the Soviet Union, it is noted that prior correspondence has been handled under the caption "CPUSA, International Relations, Internal Security - C." For reasons of economy and to facilitate the administrative handling of this project, you are instructed that henceforth all correspondence having a direct bearing on this specific operation should bear the caption "Solo, Internal Security - C" as set forth above.

The primary purpose of establishing a separate file for this operation is to have all pertinent material readily available and easily located in one separate file rather than having it interspersed throughout the file captioned "CPUSA, International Relations, Internal Security - C" as is now the case. In this regard, there you should exercise good judgment in utilizing instant caption in order to insure that this new file does not become cluttered up with extraneous material. Nothing should go into this new file which does not specifically pertain to this courier operation involving CG 5824-S*. Where appropriate, of course, copies of your communication should be designated for related files.

In view of the highly sensitive nature of this over-all matter, it should be afforded the most careful handling and details concerning it should be limited to those on a "need-to-know" basis.

CHICAGO INFORMANT COMMENTED THAT DENNIS DEFINITELY WANTS PERSONAL CONTACT BETWEEN THE CP, USA, AND THE CPSU, ALTHOUGH HE DOES NOT WANT TO HAVE ANYTHING TO DO WITH THE TECHNICALITIES INVOLVED. HE IS TAKING THIS PRECAUTION SO THAT IF ANYTHING GOES WRONG, THE RISK WILL BE MINIMIZED NOT ONLY AS FAR AS HE IS PERSONALLY CONCERNED, BUT AS FAR AS THE CP LEADERSHIP AND THE ENTIRE CP, USA, IS CONCERNED. THIS IS NOT A NEW TECHNIQUE. THE POLITICAL LEADERSHIP OF THE CP, USA, HAS ALWAYS OPERATED IN THIS MANNER AND TRIED TO AVOID BECOMING INVOLVED IN ILLEGAL ACTIVITIES IT IS NOTED THAT SAM CARR HAS NEVER BEEN RETURNED TO THE LEADERSHIP OF THE LPP*, EVEN THOUGH HE BECAME INVOLVED IN THE CANADIAN ESPIONAGE CASE ON PARTY INSTRUCTIONS. IT IS THE OPINION OF CHICAGO INFORMANT THAT PREPARATIONS FOR THIS PROPOSED TRIP BE MADE AS SOON AS POSSIBLE WITH ALL NECESSARY PRECAUTIONS BEING TAKEN. CHICAGO INFORMANT ALSO BELIEVES THAT TIM BUCK, WHO IS DUE TO RETURN TO TORONTO ON MARCH 14, NEXT, FROM A TOUR TO WESTERN CANADA, SHOULD BE ADVISED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE THAT DENNIS IS OPPOSED TO THE USE OF THE CP OF MEXICO AND/OR THE CP OF BRAZIL FOR SUCH A TRIP AND THAT EFFORTS WILL BE MADE TO OBTAIN A U.S. PASSPORT USING ANOTHER NAME. CHICAGO INFORMANT ALSO BELIEVES THAT IF AN ATTEMPT IS MADE TO OBTAIN A US PASSPORT IN ANOTHER NAME, THOSE INVOLVED SHOULD BE GIVEN ASSURANCES THAT NO LEGAL ACTION WILL RESULT IF THIS EFFORT FAILS. THE CHICAGO DIVISION BELIEVES THAT WITH NECESSARY PRECAUTIONS, PLANS TO ACCOMPLISH THIS MISSION SHOULD NOW PROCEED AS SPEEDILY AS POSSIBLE, STARTING WITH THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN RE CG LET. IT IS ALSO BELIEVED THAT THE DESIRE OF DENNIS TO BE IGNORANT OF ALL TECHNICALITIES CAN BE USED TO ADVANTAGE AS FAR AS OBTAINING A PASSPORT AND AS FAR AS THE SUCCESS OF THIS MISSION, FROM AN INTELLIGENCE VIEWPOINT, IS CONCERNED.

Re attached memo of March 10 in this matter, I called SAC Auerbach, Chicago, on the afternoon of March 11 and advised him in accordance with the action set forth in referenced memorandum. Auerbach said that 5824-S feels he should consult with 694-S as to the procedures in obtaining a passport for travel to Russia, et cetera inasmuch as 694-S has had experience in the past in operating as a courier. 5824-S feels it is imperative he talk to 694-S promptly in Chicago and thereafter consideration be given to having 694-S go to Canada to advise Tim Buck 5824-S is arranging to take a trip abroad. Auerbach wanted authority to contact New York to get 694-S to Chicago and pay any necessary travel expenses therewith. I authorized him to do this.

Relative to 694-S going to Canada, I told Auerbach this should be carefully considered because we do not want to make any ill-considered or false move; that everything the informants have done has been cleared through the Party. Therefore, we should be sure that any moves by the informant follow the pattern of Party activity. Auerbach said this would be carefully considered.

Solo is the code name utilized to handle all correspondence having a direct bearing on the development of CG 5824-S as liaison between the Communist Party (CP), USA, and the Soviet Union.

Reference is made to my memorandum to you of 3-5-58 in which I advised that SAC Auerbach, Chicago Office, had called me and said that he was sending in a letter analyzing the problems that will be faced in working out the trip of CG 5824-S to the Soviet Union as a liaison between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union. The letter to which SAC Auerbach referred has now been received under date of 3-4-58.

Analysis of this letter reflects that two basic problems are involved. In considering the various methods by which our informant could travel to the Soviet Union, the Chicago Office has arrived at the conclusion, and we agree, that the most logical method is to have informant obtain a passport under the name of his cousin who has been dead for two years. Chicago requested that we check with State Department relative to passport procedures in order to ascertain if this action is feasible. If it is ascertained feasible, then Chicago will proceed to obtain necessary background information of informant's dead cousin and be certain that all necessary documents and papers are in order.*

It has been determined through our liaison representative that in applying for a passport, it is necessary for the applicant to submit his application accompanied by two photographs, necessary birth certificate and $10 application fee. State Department then will check its indices and, if no information is contained therein, will automatically issue the passport. No further check is made unless State Department files contain derogatory information, in which case additional inquiry such as request for FBI name check will be conducted.

While the utilization of the above procedure ENCLOSURE would constitute a violation of passport laws of this country, the value of this operation and intelligence to be gained certainly makes this procedure a worthwhile undertaking and the Bureau's position could be

*SAC Auerbach called me this afternoon (3-10-58) and advised that informant's dead cousin has a living wife and three children and assumption of his identity by our informant for passport purposes is out of the question. fully justified if such action became necessary in the future. As a matter of fact, it is felt that the Bureau could be the subject of justifiable criticism if we failed to take full advantage of this opportunity. In view of the security which must be afforded our informant, we should not take anyone outside the Bureau into our confidence.

The second problem posed by Chicago letter of 3-4-58 concerns Chicago's recommendation that I personally meet with CG 5824-S in the immediate future. Chicago Office pointed out that the informant is perfectly willing to undertake this operation if the long-range importance of this assignment is fully recognized and the information gathered is not utilized by top Government officials outside the Bureau for "political expediency." Chicago Office believed it essential that we put our best foot forward and that our over-all policy viewpoint be presented to the informant by a person of the stature of an Assistant Director of the FBI and who has over-all knowledge of Bureau policy and procedures.

In analyzing Chicago's recommendation in this regard, it appears that Chicago Office feels the informant needs to be reassured that the Bureau will look upon this operation as a long-range proposition and will not attempt to capitalize upon it immediately. The informant may be thinking of the Irving Potash arrest which shook informant's confidence regarding the security of his brother, NY 694-S, as well as himself. Obviously, the Bureau will continue this operation on a long-range intelligence basis and we would certainly take no risk to expose the operation merely to take credit for our coverage of this liaison between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union. This could be pointed out to SAC Auerbach although he should be told for his own information that obviously the Bureau cannot make a firm commitment to the informant. He should stress to the informant, however, that the Bureau regards this operation as one of the greatest value. Since SAC Auerbach can put across this thinking to the informant, there appears to be no reason for my going to Chicago for personal contact with this informant.

100-428091

In considering this matter, it must be taken into consideration that there is a definite advantage in keeping this operation on a field level. The informant has been successfully controlled on a field level so far and it appears to be advantageous to the Bureau to continue in this manner. It should be noted, too, that the control of the informant by the Chicago Office could be considerably weakened should I or some other Bureau official have personal contact with him in this matter since the informant would undoubtedly want to take up any future problems with Bureau officials rather than with the Chicago Office.

ACTION:

In accord with the above, it is recommended that I telephonically advise SAC Auerbach concerning State Department passport procedures and instruct SAC Auerbach to obtain the necessary background information concerning the individual whose identity the informant will utilize and to be certain that pertinent documents and papers are in order. It should also be pointed out to SAC Auerbach that the background of the individual whose identity is selected should be of such a nature that it will warrant the granting of a passport.

With regard to SAC Auerbach's request for my coming to Chicago for personal contact with the informant, it should be pointed out to SAC Auerbach that the Bureau obviously regards this operation as one of the greatest importance and will continue it on a long-range intelligence basis. Further that no risk would be taken by the Bureau to expose this operation merely to take credit for establishing coverage of the liaison between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union. He should be further advised that while the Bureau cannot commit itself to the informant along these lines, it should be stressed to the informant that the Bureau does look upon this proposition as one of extreme value. SAC Auerbach should be advised that the Bureau feels that he can successfully convey this thinking to the informant and, therefore, it is not deemed desirable or necessary that I personally contact the informant.

Reurtel 3-10-58 concerning conversation between Eugene Dennis and CG 5824-S*.

Captioned matter appears to be progressing most favorably and informant's trip to Russia is being rapidly finalized.

In order to avoid last-minute complications, it is felt we should at this time give attention as to what we hope to gain from this operation. First and foremost, of course, is the security of our informant. In this regard, it can be expected that informant will be subject to stringent security measures by Russians including physical search of his room and belongings. Informant should be cautioned to be sure that he has nothing in his possession including unusual amount of money which could possibly arouse suspicion of Soviets.

Regarding intelligence data which we could hope to obtain, informant should be briefed to be alert for information pertaining to such matters as (1) manner in which Soviet Union directs and controls other communist parties throughout world, particularly the Communist Party, USA, and communist parties in other countries in Western Hemisphere. Identity of responsible officials should be obtained if possible. (2) Any indications regarding Soviet plans for future aggression either against United States or in other parts of world. (3) General intelligence data which he may acquire through conversations with Soviet officials and which would not be normally available to our embassy officials in Russia.

Informant should be further advised that if at any time possible, we will want to see him upon his return to see he contacts Dennis or other Party officials.

You should afford this matter the close and alert supervision which it has been receiving to date. Problems regarding this matter should be anticipated and you should continue to resolve them locally if at all possible. Where necessary, Bureau should, of course, be advised promptly in order that due consideration can be given to solution of any such problems.

Bureau should be kept informed on current basis regarding over-all progress of this operation.

For record purposes and ready reference, there are set forth hereinafter details relative to the establishment of CG 5824-S*, our most highly placed informant, as liaison between the Communist Party (CP), USA, and the Soviet Union.

BACKGROUND

In recent years, there has been no direct liaison between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union due to such factors as passport restrictions in this country and other security measures in effect. In addition, the CPUSA has been fearful that such liaison would be detrimental to the Party's current appeal to the decision of the Subversive Activities Control Board that it is a communist action organization pursuant to the provisions of the Internal Security Act of 1950. Instructions and guidance from Moscow have, of course, continued to flow through such media as Soviet publications and public statements of Russian leaders.

In addition, the Labor Progressive Party (CP of Canada) has been utilized as a means of transmitting information and instructions between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union. In this regard, Canadian regulations apparently do not preclude the issuance of passports to active communists and about three or four times a year delegations of Canadian communist functionaries proceed to Moscow for consultation with Soviet officials. On the occasion of each such trip to Moscow, the Canadians send word to the CPUSA in the event the CPUSA desires to transmit any information or documents to the Soviets. Upon the return of the Canadian delegations, once again the CPUSA is notified and furnished any Soviet instructions. Our coverage of this operation has been extremely good inasmuch as NY 694-S*, a brother of CG 5824-S*, is utilized as the courier between the CPUSA and the Canadians.

During November, 1954, NY 694-S* was in contact with [redacted] of the Canadian CP, who had recently returned from a trip to Russia. [redacted] stated that while in Russia he learned that there was a particular group within the Central Committee of the CP of the Soviet Union (CPSU) known as the International Department which handles liaison with communist parties in foreign countries. According to [redacted], the International Department was headed by a member of the Central Committee and consisted of 25 other members, each of whom had exclusive authority over a particular country. (65-62041-123)

Through the above operation, we received information concerning a trip of Canadian communists to Russia in the Summer of 1955. Upon the return of this delegation, NY 694-S* proceeded to Toronto where he consulted with the Canadians from 8/8 to 16/55. He was told that John Williamson, former member of the national committee, CPUSA, who accepted voluntary deportation to Great Britain on 5/4/55 following completion of his sentence for violation of the Smith Act, had proceeded to Moscow where he reported to the Central Committee of the CPSU regarding the status of the CPUSA. Williamson reportedly had a personal interview with Mikhail Suslov, who was described as a member of the CPSU Secretariat in charge of the International Department. Suslov was generally critical of the programs of the CPUSA but promised that he would assist the CPUSA in every way possible. He instructed Williamson to return to London where he was to serve as a "listening post" and act as liaison between the Soviets and the CPUSA.

Williamson followed the above instructions and has since been utilized on various occasions to convey instructions and guidance from Moscow to the American CP.

Soviets Desire Closer Contact

Although this arrangement continued with some degree of effectiveness, information was subsequently received that in August, 1956, an official delegation of the Canadian CP went to Moscow at the invitation of the Soviets and held lengthy conferences with Nikita Khrushchev and other members of the Central Committee of the CPSU. Upon the return of the Canadian delegation, both CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* proceeded to Canada and discussed the trip with the Canadians. According to our informants, the Russians indicated to the Canadians that they were not being kept fully and currently apprised of the situation as it existed in the CPUSA. The Russians stated they would like to have one of the leaders of the American CP come to Moscow if possible and if this was out of the question the Russians would like to improve the communications system between the Soviet Union and the CPUSA. Dennis Concurs That Closer Contact Needed

On 10/2/56, CG 5824-S* reported to Eugene Dennis on the trip of the Canadian delegation to Russia. Dennis did not make any comment regarding the information that the Russians wanted him or some other leading member of the CPUSA to come to Moscow for discussions. He merely smiled and remained silent. At this same time, while discussing John Williamson, Dennis stated that Williamson continues to say that his stay in England is only temporary and that he would like to represent the American CP on the international scene. Dennis stated that he thought this was ridiculous and asked how can Williamson who is separated from the American scene represent the CPUSA. Dennis continued that it was necessary to consider the possibility of working out some other means of international communication even though Williamson may still be talking in the name of the CPUSA. He cautioned our informant not to furnish this information to other members of the national leadership under any circumstances. (100-3-69-2519)

Development of CG 5824-S* as Potential Courier

Since it was now apparent that both the Soviet officials in Russia and Party officials in this country were dissatisfied with the system of communications between the Soviet Union and the CPUSA, this matter was carefully analyzed by the Internal Security Section at the Seat of Government to determine if there was some manner in which we could capitalize upon this situation. In order to fully explore this matter, all field offices were advised by letter dated 11/2/56 to give it close attention. Specifically, they were instructed (1) to carefully review all current informants, particularly those on relatively high Party levels, and (2) to consider businessmen and other individuals who periodically go to Russia on legitimate business. Upon the receipt of the results of our survey of the various field offices, it was determined by the Internal Security Section that the most productive and desirable development from our point of view would be to guide one of our informants into the position of being selected by the CPUSA as a courier between the Party in this country and the Soviet Union. Analysis of this over-all matter indicated that CG 5824-S* undoubtedly represented our best potential in this regard in view of his background and his favorable associations with the leading Party functionaries. Our efforts were immediately concentrated on guiding this informant to the point where he would be designated as this courier.

CG 5824-S* Represents CPUSA in Canada and Mexico

A major step in the attainment of our objective developed when CG 5824-S* maneuvered himself into being selected on 4/21/57 by the Party's national headquarters to go to Canada, meet with the new national committee of the Canadian CP as the official representative from the CPUSA, and report to the national committee of the CPUSA upon his return. (100-3-81-7805)

CG 5824-S* proceeded immediately to Canada on 4/22/57 where he conferred with various communist functionaries. Tim Buck, general secretary of the Canadian CP, told our informant that the CPUSA was in the doghouse as far as the international communist movement was concerned. He also stated that the CPSU wanted a leading member of the CPUSA to proceed to Russia to discuss the activities of the CPUSA. During this conversation, Buck stated that if the CPUSA representative could go to Mexico for one month, he could be transported to Russia regardless of passport difficulties.

During this same trip to Canada, CG 5824-S* had a conversation with one Valdez, a representative of the Mexican CP who was in Canada to attend a national convention of the Canadian CP. Valdez, through our informant, invited the CPUSA to send a representative to attend a meeting of the Central Committee of the Mexican CP on 5/11/57. During this same conversation, our informant arranged for all communications between the CPUSA and the CP of Mexico to pass through him. (65-62041-292)

Upon his return to this country, CG 5824-S* met with Eugene Dennis on 4/30/57, at which time he furnished the results of his Canadian trip. At this time, Dennis ruled out any possibility that he himself would meet with representatives of the CPSU outside of the United States. When our informant mentioned the invitation from the CP of Mexico, Dennis urged our informant to go as the representative of the CPUSA. (100-3-81-7832)

As requested by Dennis, CG 5824-S* proceeded to Mexico where he met with four leading functionaries of the Mexican CP on 5/15/57. After briefing them on the situation within the CPUSA, informant was in turn furnished a report on the status of the Mexican CP and other communist parties in Latin and South America. (100-3-81-7849)

CG 5824-S* Appointed to Foreign Affairs Committee

Upon his return to this country, informant was requested to attend a meeting of the national executive committee on 6/22 and 23/57 where he reported on his Mexican trip. At this meeting, Dennis announced the formation of a foreign affairs committee headed by himself and including our informant as one of the members. (100-3-69-4441) In this regard, it is noted that Dennis had previously advised the informant that as soon as the Party's national office was organized he was going to suggest the establishing of a special committee on foreign affairs which, among other things, would deal with political problems such as the activities of communist parties in other countries. (100-3-81-7819)

Following the above meeting, the informant conferred with Sid Stein and Claude Lightfoot on 6/25/57. Stein stated that he, Lightfoot and Dennis had recommended that the informant become coordinator of international affairs for the CPUSA, although this position would not be given any publicity. During this discussion it was agreed that the informant would go to Canada to give the Canadians a report on his Mexican trip and also obtain information regarding the current situation within the Canadian CP, following which he would report back to the foreign affairs committee or possibly to the national executive committee. (100-3-81-7883)

Informant proceeded to Canada and met with Tim Buck in Toronto on 7/3 and 4/57. He told Buck that he had been selected as a member of the foreign affairs committee of the CPUSA and was also under consideration for the position of international secretary to coordinate contacts between the CPUSA and other communist parties. Buck indicated that he was pleased that the informant had been chosen for this position and advised that if the informant needed any help in communicating with Moscow or in establishing a more efficient method of communicating with Moscow, he would be glad to help.

Informant told Buck that he had discussed with Dennis, Stein and Fred Fine the need to establish direct contact with the CPSU in Moscow. He also told Buck that he had conveyed to the afore-mentioned individuals the information that Buck had given the informant to the effect that the CPSU would like to speak to a representative of the

RE: SOLO

CPUSA in Russia. Informant advised Buck that he expected a decision to be made on this matter by the CPUSA in the near future. He continued that the big problem would be travel papers. Buck indicated he understood and suggested that everything possible should be done to get travel papers from the United States and he could then more efficiently arrange for transportation from Canada to Europe so there would be no problem of being stopped. Buck advised the informant that he would communicate with Russia to inform them that someone from the United States would be traveling to Russia. (100-3-81-7896)

CG 5824-S* Selected as CPUSA Liaison With Moscow

Upon his return, the informant furnished the results of his trip to Stein and Dennis in New York City on 7/11/57. (100-3-81-7905) Subsequently on 7/29/57, Dennis and the informant discussed the matter of re-establishing contact with the Soviet Union in order to give the Russians a picture of the inner situation in the CPUSA. Dennis stated he thought that the CPUSA should start rebuilding these connections and that it would be a very good idea if the informant gave consideration to the thought of taking a trip to Russia. Dennis further instructed the informant to make another trip to Canada to get facts and material on the situation in the Canadian CP and then make a report to the next national executive committee meeting scheduled for 9/14 and 15/57. (100-3-81-7922)

Informant proceeded to Canada where he attended a meeting of the national committee of the Canadian CP from 8/31/57 to 9/2/57. He met with Tim Buck on 9/3/57 and discussed the possibility of a CPUSA representative going to Moscow. Buck told the informant he would get word to the Russians that the CPUSA wanted to send someone to Moscow. Buck pointed out that the representative would have to be someone acceptable to the Russians. The informant then stated that Dennis had suggested that the informant be this representative to which Buck replied there should be no question about the Russians accepting the informant as the CPUSA representative. (100-3-81-7966)

Upon reporting back to Dennis on 9/16/57, Dennis told our informant he was of the opinion that this might be an inopportune time for the CPUSA to send anyone to Russia. He pointed out the technical difficulties involved and also stated that no leading comrade would want to get involved in a passport fraud or some similar matter. He continued that he was thinking of an alternate plan of having John Williamson come to Canada where he would meet with a delegation from the CPUSA and be briefed on the situation within the CPUSA. Williamson would then go to Russia, present the facts to the Russians and obtain a clarification of policy. (100-3-81-7977)

Soviets Accept CG 5824-S* as CPUSA Liaison

On 11/12/57, Dennis advised informant that he was relying upon him to see Tim Buck as soon as possible following Buck's return from Moscow. It is noted that Buck had left for Russia around 11/5/57 and was supposed to be gone for a month to six weeks. (100-3-81-8025)

On 11/25/57, NY 694-S*, who had just returned from Canada on another matter, met CG 5824-S* in Chicago with information of great importance. While in Canada, NY 694-S* was advised by Leslie Morris, acting general secretary of the Canadian CP in the absence of Buck, that Morris had been called to Ottawa by the Soviet Ambassador who advised that the Russians would be most happy to meet with CG 5824-S* and Dennis and were waiting for proposals from the states concerning this contact and "how soon." (100-3-81-8038)

CG 5824-S* discussed the above information with Dennis on 12/4/57 and again on 12/10/57. Dennis indicated that he was anxious to have the CPUSA make personal contact with the Soviet Union and realized that it should be done as soon as possible. He again instructed the informant to go to Canada as soon as Buck returned from Russia and obtain all information Buck had concerning this contact. In discussing the possible trip of informant to Moscow, Dennis said that he thought the informant should go alone although he, Dennis, was considering taking at least one other person from the left wing in his confidence so that the informant would be making the trip as a representative of the CPUSA and not as the personal representative of Dennis. (100-3-81-8054)

On 12/16/57, NY 694-S* received word from the Canadians that Buck would not return from abroad until after the end of January. Upon receiving this information, CG 5824-S* decided to contact Dennis and suggest that even though Buck had not returned, the informant should go to Canada to attempt to obtain from the Russian Embassy, through the Canadian CP, any information which would clarify the original message from the Russians and also to make arrangements to be notified immediately upon Buck's return. (100-3-81-8063)

On 1/7/58, the informant proceeded to Canada where he conferred with Leslie Morris and Bill Kashtan, both members of the Secretariat of the Canadian CP. They were unable to furnish any additional information regarding the message from the Russian Embassy and recommended no further action until Buck returned. They further stated they would immediately notify informant as soon as Buck did return to Canada. Informant conveyed this information to Dennis on 1/8/58. (100-3-81-8075)

Soviets Desire Immediate Contact

On 2/14/58, Elizabeth Mascolo, common-law wife of Tim Buck, arrived unannounced at the office of NY 694-S* in New York City. She told him that Buck had returned to Canada on 2/12/58 and instructed her to proceed immediately to New York City with messages for personal delivery to Eugene Dennis, Alexander Trachtenberg, and William Z. Foster. NY 694-S* immediately contacted CG 5824-S* at the national headquarters of the CPUSA and had him come to the office of NY 694-S* to talk with Mascolo. Upon learning that Mascolo had a message for Dennis, CG 5824-S* returned to the Party's national headquarters and contacted Dennis who was attending a meeting of the national executive committee. Dennis advised the informant that he was involved in this meeting and told the informant to obtain the message from Mascolo.

Mascolo furnished the informant with the following information from Buck. The Central Committee of the CPSU welcomed the proposal that a representative of the CPUSA come to Moscow for conferences with the CPSU. The American Section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU urged that this proposal be carried through as soon as possible. Arrangements for travel should be handled with American passports and other papers, if possible. If this was not possible, the CP of Brazil would give assistance in this regard and, if such assistance was needed, Buck should be contacted for details.

Mascolo further advised that Moscow would like to have two copies of all material pertaining to the last meeting of the national committee of the CPUSA. This material was to be sent to Russia via Canada and Tim Buck. In addition, the CP of China, according to Mascolo, wanted an "active relationship" directly with the CPUSA through Dennis.

She further advised that William Z. Foster and his future were discussed with the highest authorities in Moscow and that Foster would be welcome to come to Russia whether for treatment or to visit permanently. The Russians would also welcome Foster's family and felt that it might be beneficial for Foster's granddaughter if Foster's family would accompany him to Russia.

In addition to the above, Mascolo advised that the Russian leaders would like to see more material on the Soviet Union printed in the CPUSA press, particularly "The Worker." The Russians would make arrangements to supply "The Worker" with a daily press service which would be transmitted to Canada and remailed to the CPUSA from there. Buck desired to know if this service should be mailed directly to the office of "The Worker" or to some other address. Mascolo continued that the Russians would like to have a correspondent of "The Worker" stationed in Moscow. Dennis was to be instructed, however, that if this was not expedient at this time the CPUSA should not worry about it. In the meantime, the "Canadian Tribune," Canadian CP publication, would send a correspondent who would also represent the CPUSA press from a news point of view.

Mascolo also advised that the American Section would like to obtain copies of all material presently being disseminated by the CPUSA. This American Section also wanted material in regard to labor and economic conditions in the United States. The CP of China also was desirous of obtaining the same type of material.

Mascolo stated that Dennis should be given the address [redacted] "for the purpose of sending any correspondence to Tim Buck. If the CPUSA wanted to correspond directly with the CP of China, material should be sent to "G. You, Post Office Box 509, Peking, China." (100-3-81-8192)

Dennis Urges Prompt Action

On 2/18/58, CG 5824-S* met with Dennis in New York City and gave him a report on the information obtained from Mascolo. Dennis was impressed and pleased with the possibility of a representative of the CPUSA going to Russia. He urged the informant to go to Canada as soon as possible to get additional details from Tim Buck so that the informant could go to Russia immediately. He also told the informant that now that the left wing had gained control of the CPUSA he would take one or two other persons into his confidence so that the informant would go to Russia officially as a representative of the CPUSA.

Dennis told the informant to be sure and explain the Party's situation to the Russians when he got over there. He then wrote a dollar sign on a piece of paper to which the informant replied: "Of course, I will." Informant noted that this is the first time Dennis has ever indicated to him that the CPUSA might be able to obtain funds from Russia.

Informant told Dennis that he did not want to rush into this trip since there were many personal and technical problems involved. He asked Dennis what he thought about the idea of applying for a passport to Russia on humanitarian grounds due to his or his wife's health. If such a passport could be obtained, then the informant could go to Russia legally. Dennis indicated that he thought this was a good idea but went into no further discussion about funds for the trip or any other technicalities. According to the informant, Dennis expected the informant to work out these details with Buck.

Dennis told the informant to mail two copies of all material issued in connection with the recent meeting of the national committee of the CPUSA to the addresses in Canada and China. Dennis did not retain these addresses and told the informant to maintain this correspondence between the CPUSA and the Soviet Union and also between the CPUSA and the CP of China.

Dennis made no comment concerning the proposal of the Russians to have a correspondent of "The Worker" stationed in Moscow. He likewise made no comment concerning the possibility of using a correspondent of the "Canadian Tribune" to represent the CPUSA in Moscow from a news standpoint. He also had no comment concerning an address for material from Russia for use in "The Worker," although he did ask whether this material would consist of public releases or if it would be inter-Party documents. (100-3-81-8115)

Discussion With Tim Buck Re Trip to Moscow

Pursuant to Dennis' request, informant proceeded to Canada where he met with Buck on 2/25 and 26/58. Buck advised informant that he had conveyed to the Russian leadership the information that CG 5824-S* had been selected as the CPUSA representative to go to Moscow. Buck continued that the informant was approved as a CPUSA representative by Michael Suslov, Otto Kuusinen, and one "Besideen" (phonetic). Buck stated that the Russians realized that it might be impossible for the CPUSA to send an official delegate to the Soviet Union and agreed to accept the informant as a personal representative of Eugene Dennis, whom they consider to be the real leader of the CPUSA.

Buck advised the informant that the top Soviet leaders were very anxious to talk with a member of the CPUSA. He said that they were hungry for firsthand news and a political interpretation of events in the CPUSA and in the United States.

Buck also stated that the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of China expressed a desire to see informant. This Chief Justice told Buck to tell the informant that he should go to the Chinese Embassy when he got to Moscow and arrangements would be made for him to be taken by jet plane to China even if he could spend no more than one week in China.

Buck then stated that he would send a letter to Russia by courier confirming the fact that the informant is to be the representative from the CPUSA to the CPSU. Buck continued that it was necessary to emphasize that the informant should make the trip to Russia as soon as possible because the leaders of the Soviet Union had stressed the urgency of seeing a CPUSA representative soon. Buck continued that the Russians would make provisions for the informant's wife if she accompanied him.

Buck said that he discussed with the Russians the technical problems involved in this trip. He continued that he told them that even with an American passport a delegate from the CPUSA to the CPSU could not travel openly. The Russians told Buck that if the representative from the CPUSA could get to Brazil they would see that he got to London and then through the Baltics to Helsinki, Finland. From Finland the Russians would get him to Moscow. According to Buck, the Russians suggested Brazil because they thought that a person could go from the United States to Brazil without a passport. When they were told that a passport was needed for travel from the United States to Brazil, this upset all the plans which had been made. Buck stated that he still thought that the best bet would be for the informant to get an American passport, if possible. He even suggested the possibility of the use of the name of someone resembling the informant in an effort to get an American passport.

Buck stated that it might be possible for the informant to go to Russia with a Canadian passport but this would mean that the informant would have to live in Canada, then apply for a passport, and subsequently undergo an interview by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Buck felt that there might be trouble in such a plan and that it would cause a long delay. He then mentioned that Mexico might be a possibility and stated he would see what he could find out about this. He commented that if the informant could go to Mexico, perhaps the Mexican CP could get him a passport.

Buck further stated that any bulky material, as opposed to letters, which the CPUSA wanted him to transmit to the CPSU should be addressed to "Progress Books, 924 King Street West, Toronto, Canada." Any material which the informant wanted sent to Russia for his own use upon arriving in Moscow should be addressed to "Progress Books Union," with the same Toronto address.

Buck also told the informant that if the CPUSA desired financial assistance from the CPSU the informant should be prepared to present proposals as to how this money might be supplied in an indirect manner; for example, royalties, et cetera. (100-3-81-8128)

Report to Dennis Re Proposed Trip

Upon his return to this country, the informant contacted Dennis on 3/6/58 and furnished him with the information he had obtained from Buck. Dennis was opposed to the tentative plan to use the CP of Mexico in any manner for travel since he does not trust the Mexican CP. He was also opposed to the use of Brazil for travel and stated that a previous comrade had used this method to go to Russia and it was not satisfactory. Dennis pointed out that there were dangers involved in attempting to obtain a United States passport and that he did not want to know any details concerning the attempt to obtain such a passport. He continued that if anything happened in regard to this proposed trip the CPUSA would have to "disown" anyone connected with it and that it might be necessary for the informant to "lay low" for a time after returning from such a trip. He gave the informant permission to attempt to make his own plans for the trip and indicated that despite the difficulties involved he was anxious for the informant to make this trip.

Dennis advised the informant that he had discussed the proposed trip with no one but that, depending on what happened to the contempt charges against [redacted] he might discuss it with [redacted]. He continued that the only other person he might discuss it with would be Gus Hall.

The informant asked Dennis if funds could be obtained from the reserve fund in the form of a 90-day loan to purchase the necessary transportation with the plan being to get the Russians to replace the borrowed money. Dennis gave the informant permission to obtain a loan of $1000 or $1200 from Isadore Wofsy but stated that Wofsy should not be told the purpose of the loan. It is noted Wofsy was contacted on 3/7/58 but did not have this sum available at that time. He requested informant to recontact him again for this loan.

Dennis had no immediate suggestions for methods in which the Russians could provide funds for the CPUSA in some disguised manner. (100-428091-4)

100-428091

Following the completion of his report to Dennis, the informant consulted with NY 694-S* on 3/13/58 as to the procedures in obtaining a passport for travel to Russia, et cetera, inasmuch as NY 694-S* has had experience in the past in operating as a courier. It was decided that the best way to proceed was to build up a back-ground based on a completely fictitious person. Three names were selected for the informant, together with a name for his wife. The names selected for the informant were Martin A. Carson, Martin A. Cane, and Martin A. Camp. The name for his wife was to be Sylvia Soney Schlosser. After checking our files as well as causing a confidential check of State Department files, it was determined that the name Martin A. Camp was the most suitable for use in connection with this operation. (100-428091-5 and 6)

Buck's Suggested Travel Plans

NY 694-S* then proceeded to Canada on 3/14/58 for the purpose of advising Tim Buck that CG 5824-S* was going to make the trip; to stop any attempt Buck was making to get a passport in Mexico; to ascertain what countries the informant would pass through and how visas would be obtained; and to take up the question of reimbursement of funds on the premise that the informant would be getting funds for the trip from the CPUSA on a loan basis. (100-428091-6)

After receiving the informant's report concerning the feasibility of proceeding through Mexico or Brazil, Buck stated there was no way whereby he could make arrangements in Canada for the immediate departure of CG 5824-S*. Buck stated that he recently discussed the subject of departure points from Latin American countries with a Russian in Canada and the latter had informed him that the Soviets were then conducting an investigation of this matter in various Latin American countries. Buck advised that he felt the best point of departure for the informant would be New York City and that the informant should travel on an American passport. He estimated that the informant and his wife would need approximately $1300 for the trip to Moscow. Buck advised that the Soviets definitely would reimburse the informant and stated that he was so certain of this that he was willing to give his personal guarantee to that effect.

Buck advised that "floating visas" as well as the name and description of the contact who would meet the informant and his wife in Moscow could be obtained in England or in France. He strongly suggested, however, that these visas be obtained in London because the informant would avoid language difficulties in London and also because there is a direct flight from London to Moscow. Buck stated that he would notify the Soviets immediately of the status of the situation and would indicate the possibility that the informant might leave for Moscow soon. In that connection, he requested two weeks' notice of the informant's departure date so that a courier could convey this information to Moscow. He stated that the Soviets would require sufficient notice to allow them "to clear the way for visas in other countries."

Buck also stated that the informant should furnish him as soon as possible the names and numbers that would appear on the passports of the informant and his wife. He continued that he strongly advised that the informant go to Peking, China, for ten days and that the Soviets would have no objection to such a trip. (100-428091-7)

Information to be Furnished Soviets

CG 5824-S*, upon receiving the above information from NY 694-S*, proceeded to New York where he was to attend a meeting of the national executive committee on 3/28 and 29/58. Following this meeting, he met with Dennis on 3/31/58, at which time Dennis briefed the informant on recent developments within the CPUSA for the purpose of transmitting this information to the CPSU. Dennis stated that he had heard that Foster had two new articles which were then in Moscow. He said that the Russians should be told that Foster's articles are intolerable because they are causing divisions in the rank of the CPUSA and are also endangering the legality of the CPUSA. He told the informant that he should tell the Russians that even before he became ill the "old man" (Foster) was doctrinaire, rigid, and in recent discussions in the CPUSA he was actually engaging in factionalism. Dennis advised the informant that he was not going to tell Foster about the informant going to Russia and that he, Dennis, would take the responsibility if Foster found out about it.

Dennis continued that the Russians should be told that there is a new round of attacks against the CPUSA and that some people would be tried concerning their membership in the Party. For this reason, spokesmen for the CPUSA have to be secure and careful.

The Russians were also to be told that in regard to the criticism of A. B. Magil in the "Kommunist," Soviet publication, some mistakes were made because the Russians were out of touch with the CPUSA. Dennis said that the Russians cannot investigate and thus do not know all the facts; therefore, they were just creating new problems for the CPUSA.

With regard to a representative from the CPUSA for the proposed international journal to be published in Prague, Czechoslovakia, Dennis stated that perhaps John Williamson could be the de facto representative for the CPUSA but he could not be the legal representative. He continued that Williamson might be able to supply information for this journal better than someone who was not acquainted with the United States. In this regard, Dennis discussed the possibility of Williamson making a trip from England to Canada about once a year where the informant could meet him and brief him on recent developments in the CPUSA thus permitting Williamson to act as the de facto representative for the CPUSA. When the informant asked Dennis if he should see Williamson on the way to Russia, Dennis stated it would be better to see Williamson on the return trip. If he would see Williamson he was to tell him that he was a careless correspondent and that he should know better than to write the type of letters and request the kind of answers that he has in his correspondence with Dennis.

When the informant asked Dennis if he should try to see Jaques Duclos in France, Dennis stated it would be best to try to see Duclos on the return trip. He also told the informant to find out what the CP of France is doing but not to tell them too much about the situation in the CPUSA.

Dennis told the informant to go to China from Russia and tell the Chinese that James Allen was concerning himself with the Chinese and that there was a subcommittee of people from Philadelphia and New York who were discussing the Chinese question and studying the Chinese situation.

Dennis stated that it would be all right for the Soviet press material to be sent directly from Russia to "The Worker" provided the Russians sent the same material to a couple other papers in the United States. If the Russians planned to send this material only to "The Worker," then it was not to be mailed directly.

Dennis commented that the Russians made a terrible mistake in the manner in which they sent Irving Potash back to this country. He said that if it had not been for Jack Childs the CPUSA would have been in terrible shape for the Party had a narrow escape. Dennis said the Russians should be told that Potash came back to the United States at the wrong time.

Dennis told the informant that he should find out in Moscow and/or in Paris what happened when the French CP and the Central Committee of the CPSU discussed the Jewish question sometime after November, 1957.

When asked by the informant as to who would know that the informant was going to Moscow, Dennis replied that the informant would speak for the Secretariat. Dennis identified this Secretariat as consisting of himself, Robert Thompson, Jack Stachel, James Jackson, and Hyman Lumer. He continued that at least three of these people would know that the informant was going to Moscow. The only one who would not know would be Lumer. Dennis then stated that the informant would speak for the Secretariat and that he, Dennis, spoke for the Secretariat.

Dennis had no suggestions as to how the CPUSA might receive funds in a disguised manner from the Soviet Union. (100-428091-14)

On the afternoon of 4/7/58, SAC Auerbach called from Chicago to advise that the passport applications of the informant and his wife had been submitted to the Department of State on that day under the names of Sylvia Soney Camp and Martin A. Camp.

SAC Auerbach continued that while the informant was recently in New York, Lem Harris gave him a loan of $1500 for this trip. This loan was made on the instructions of Dennis, who did not advise Harris as to the purpose of the loan. (100-428091-10)

Final Travel Plans

On the afternoon of 4/14/58, SAC Auerbach advised that NY 694-S* had gone to Canada to confer with Tim Buck regarding the proposed trip. (100-428091-13) Upon his return from Canada on 4/15/58, NY 694-S* furnished the results of his discussions with Tim Buck. Buck was advised that the passports had been obtained and was furnished with the names and numbers thereon. Buck stated that he would go immediately to Ottawa to see the Russian Ambassador and furnish him with the names and numbers on these passports inasmuch as the Russian Ambassador was scheduled to leave Canada for Russia on either 4/15 or 16/58.

Buck stated that he still thought New York City was the best point of departure. He also stated that the best method for a person traveling as a businessman would be to go to London, from there to Brussels and then on the Sabina Airlines to Prague and then from Prague to Moscow.

Buck continued that the Russian Ambassador would make the necessary arrangements for the "floating visas." He continued that the informant and his wife should be in London by 4/25/58 where the informant's wife was to go to the Russian Consulate, see the receptionist, identify herself and request to see the consul. She would then be furnished a "floating visa" for Russia which would not be attached to the informant's passport, thus not reflecting that he had been in Russia.

Buck continued that the informant's wife would then go to the Czechoslovakian Consulate in London and secure a "floating visa" there for Prague. They should then leave London for Brussels via Paris on 4/26 or 27/58. They should leave Brussels immediately for Prague where they would be met by a ground hostess to whom they would identify themselves through a series of exchanged words. The hostess would then arrange for hotel accommodations, travel to Moscow, et cetera. At Moscow they would be met by a representative of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU who would make all arrangements. When Buck was asked if any personal effects would be taken from the informant and his wife when they arrived in Moscow, he stated the only thing that would be taken would be their passports.

Buck stated that the informant should advise the Russians that the CPUSA wanted him to go to China to discuss the situation in the CPUSA with the leading comrades of the CP of China. He continued that the informant should go to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow and identify himself whereupon arrangements would be made for transportation from Moscow to Peking and return.

Buck stated that the ideal schedule in Moscow would be for the informant to meet with Michael Suslov, Otto Kuusinen, and B. Ponomareff in that order since they would have endless talks and discussions with him. He stated they would give the informant a lot of time and would be very thorough in their discussions. Usually at the conclusion of such discussions Nikita Khrushchev would summarize in one, two or three hours.

Buck continued that if the informant needed any additional documents or decisions from the CPUSA while in Moscow he should either send a letter to "Progress Union Books" in Toronto for Buck who would relay the message to NY 694-S* or he should telephone or send a cable to "Progress Union Books" if an immediate contact and answer was needed.

Buck continued that the Russians would not let the informant take his notes with him when he left Moscow. He said the informant should tell his Russian contact that it would be best if these notes were sent to Buck through his channels and Buck would make them available to the informant upon his return. Buck also suggested that the informant should organize with the Russians a more direct method for transmitting such material in the future.

Possible Soviet Financial Assistance to CPUSA

Buck was advised about the serious financial condition of the CPUSA. When the informant asked him for any suggestions he might have on how the Soviet Union might transmit any money it desired to give to the CPUSA, Buck stated that he would suggest that the first one or two sums of money from the Soviet Union be sent to Buck through his channels. He continued that the informant should suggest this to the Russians. Upon the arrival of such funds in Canada, Buck would make them available to NY 694-S* for delivery to the CPUSA. Buck continued that if money is sent this way the informant should emphasize to the Russians that it should be in $50 and $100 bills in order to reduce the bulk. Buck stated that because of its importance and urgency this method could be used once or twice. After the second time, however, the Russians should take a direct method transmitting funds between the Soviet Union and the CPUSA. He stated that the Russians know how to organize and establish the necessary arrangements in this regard.

Buck emphasized on more than one occasion that the informant should not leave his schedule in Russia up to the Russians. He stated that the informant should assert himself and make demands, commenting that the Russians consider the CPUSA of the utmost importance.

Both CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* estimated that this trip would take a minimum of 2½ months. (100-428091-21)

On 4/23/58, the New York Office telephonically advised that Elizabeth Mascolo arrived in New York City from Toronto on that day and contacted the informant. She told the informant that the instructions had been changed slightly and instead of the informant's wife going to the Soviet Consulate in London on 4/25/58 to pick up the "floating visas," she should instead go to the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Brussels on 4/28/58 to pick up the "floating visas" to Prague. At the time the informant's wife went to the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Brussels, she was to let that embassy know exactly when she and her husband would arrive in Moscow. (100-428091-22)

Financial Aid From Soviets For Trip

On 4/24/58, ASAC Simon, New York Office, telephonically advised that in her contact with our informant on 4/23/58, Mascolo gave the informant $1000 which she said came from the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. This money was in denominations of $100, $50 and $10 bills.

It is also noted that Mascolo on this same trip delivered $6000 to Alexander Trachtenberg. This money also came from the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa and, according to our informant, Mascolo stated that part of this money was to be given to the wife of Gilbert Green. (100-428091-19)

Departure of CG 5824-S*

On 4/24/58, ASAC Simon also advised that the informant and his wife were scheduled to leave New York on 4/24/58 at 5:00 P.M. on Flight 824, Trans World Airlines, from Idlewild, New York. They would go directly to Paris, France, arriving there at 2:00 P.M. on 4/25/58. They would leave Paris on 4/27/58 for Brussels via Sabina Airlines. They would then leave Brussels on 4/28/58 for Prague and subsequently to Moscow. (100-428091-23)

On 5/1/58, NY 694-S* advised that on that date he received an air mail letter in the handwriting of the informant's wife dated 4/29/58 at Brussels. According to NY 694-S*, this message, which was coded by prearrangements between NY 694-S* and CG 5824-S*, reflected that CG 5824-S* obtained the "floating visas" in Brussels and was about to leave for Prague on 4/29/58. He apparently had some slight difficulty in obtaining the visas and the letter indicated that he must have been sent from the Czechoslovakian Consulate to the Czechoslovakian Embassy, or vice versa, to obtain these visas. (100-428091-25)

No further information regarding this matter has been received to date.

While your suggestion as set forth in reairtel does have merit to a certain extent, it is believed that there will be a minimum number of instances wherein information obtained by a field division would be clarified should that field division have prior knowledge of the fact that the Communist Party (CP), USA, is presently in contact with the CP of the Soviet Union. Any such instances which do arise can be handled on an individual basis. In view of the over-all concern for the security of our informant in this operation, therefore, it is felt that any mention thereof should be held to an absolute minimum.

NOTE ON YELLOW:

Chicago Office suggests that we advise those field divisions handling major portion of security work that CPUSA is in contact with the Soviet Union. Chicago's suggestion is predicated upon information which was obtained by San Francisco Office concerning a conversation between Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and Mickey Lima, both members of the Party's national committee. In this conversation, Flynn made certain remarks regarding international ramifications of the CPUSA. Inasmuch as San Francisco is not intimately familiar with the Solo operation which involves the activities of our informant in a liaison capacity between CPUSA and Moscow, San Francisco was unable to interpret certain of Flynn's remarks. Upon receipt of New York comments from New York Office and Bureau, San Francisco will be appropriately advised concerning the correct interpretation of Flynn's statements.

On 5/1/58 NY 694-S advised that he received on that date an air-mail letter in the handwriting of CG 5824-S' wife, dated 4/29/58 at Brussels, the contents of which were as follows:

"Getting ready to leave, and despite the tourist crowd for the Fair, had no difficulty to obtain transportation to the next scenic spot.

"The travel agency was right. It is next to impossible to get a hotel room. I was lucky so far. The food at the beginning was fair but towards the end we found some excellent food and very fine service.

"Tough not to know languages. Feeling fine. Wish you were here to enjoy the carefree life of a tourist. Warm regards.

Jack"

According to NY 694-S, the above message, which is coded, reflects that CG 5824-S obtained floating visas in Brussels, and was about to leave for Prague on 4/29/58. The reference to "food at the beginning being fair" indicates that some slight difficulty was encountered in obtaining the visas in that CG 5824-S must have been sent from the Czech Consulate to the Czech Embassy, or vice versa, to obtain the visas.

"Tough not to know languages" indicates that CG 5824-S had to talk to the Czechs through an interpreter.

ASAC Simon of the New York Office advised the following is the itinerary of our informant in connection with his trip to Russia:

He was scheduled to leave New York on April 24 at 5:00 P.M. on Flight 824, Trans World Airlines; from Idlewild, New York, and would go direct to Paris, France; arriving there at 2:00 P.M. on April 25. While in Paris, he would be stopping at the Claridge Hotel, and the Party has made arrangements to reach him through the American Express in the event they wish to contact him. He would leave Paris on April 27 for Brussels via Sabina Airlines. He would stay at the Hotel Residence Belvedere in Brussels. He would leave Brussels on April 28 for Prague, Czechoslovakia. Arrangements were made by the Party to contact him through American Express at Prague should the Party wish to get in touch with him.

No further information was available concerning our informant's itinerary or the exact day he would arrive in Moscow.

At 12:35 PM, 4-23-58, Supervisor [redacted], NYO, telephonically advised that Tim Buck had traveled from Toronto to Ottawa on 4-22-58 and returned to Toronto the same day. Today, 4-23-58, Elizabeth Mascolo arrived in New York City from Toronto and contacted CG-5824-S*. She advised CG-5824-S* that the instructions had been changed somewhat and that instead of CG-5824-S*'s wife going to the Soviet Consulate in London on 4-25-58 to pick up floating visas, she should instead go to the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Brussels on 4-28-58 and pick up floating visas to Prague, Czechoslovakia and at the time CG-5824-S*'s wife goes to the Czechoslovakian Embassy in Brussels on 4-28-58, she is to let the Embassy know exactly when she and her husband will arrive in Moscow.

Elizabeth Mascolo brought down 2 batches of money; one batch is to be given to CG-5824-S* in connection with his trip and the other batch of money is for Trachtenberg. Supervisor [redacted] advised that CG-5824-S* is to meet with Mascolo again at 4:30 PM today, after which they will know how much money is being given to CG-5824-S*. New York will consult with Chicago and thereafter a recommendation will be made to the Bureau as to whether this money should be obtained from CG-5824-S* to replace monies we have furnished him for this trip, or whether some special reason exists as to why he should keep the specific money furnished to him by the Party. If CG-5824-S* has an opportunity, he will obtain the serial numbers from the money that is to be turned over to Trachtenberg.

Supervisor [redacted] advised that CG-5824-S* and his wife have not obtained final reservations as yet and as soon as this information is obtained, he will advise the Bureau.

The following information was furnished by NY 694-S* to SA JOHN E. KEATING on April 15, 1958. This information concerns discussions between NY 694-S* and TIM BUCK, leader of the Labor Progressive Party, the Communist Party of Canada, U.S. in Toronto, Canada, on Monday, April 14, 1958.

NY 694-S* met with BUCK on Monday morning, and again from 5:00 to 8:00 P.M. on Monday evening. BUCK cancelled a meeting of the Secretariat of the Labor Progressive Party in order to meet with NY 694-S*. BUCK talked with the radio on in his residence, and when it was necessary to refer to a name, he wrote it on a piece of paper. Also, a part of the discussion was carried on in streetcars and other public transportation.

NY 694-S* told BUCK that the passports had been obtained and furnished him with the names appearing on the passports and with the numbers of the passports. BUCK was told that the passports had been applied for from a small Midwestern town.

BUCK was most happy to receive this information. He stated that since the last trip of NY 694-S* to Toronto, he had sent word to the Russians that preparations were being made for CG 5824-S* and his wife to proceed to Russia and that they would arrive in Moscow as soon as possible. BUCK said that he had received an acknowledgement of this message, but the Russians wanted to know when CG 5824-S* and his wife would arrive in Moscow. BUCK said that this means that they are waiting for CG 5824-S* BUCK asked NY 694-S* when he was returning to the United States. NY 694-S* stated that he hoped to return on the evening of April 14, 1958.

BUCK stated that in view of the fact that the Russians are waiting for CG 5824-S*, he would take a train to Ottawa, Canada, on Monday night, April 14, 1958, and would see the Russian Ambassador to Canada, ~~CHUVACHIN~~ (ph), and would furnish him with the names and numbers which appear on the passports. He would also furnish him with the last twenty-eight issues of "Political Affairs", which CG 5824-S* had mailed to Canada for delivery to Russia to assist him in his discussions with the Russians. BUCK stated that CHUVACHIN was scheduled to leave Canada for Russia on either April 15 or 16, 1958.

NY 694-S* asked BUCK for guidance and advice as to the best point of departure for Europe, and asked if he had any new suggestions in this regard or if the point of departure should be New York City, which had been tentatively agreed upon during their last discussion.

BUCK said that he still thought that New York City was the best point of departure. He said that he was opposed to Montreal, since a list would be prepared containing the names of passengers leaving for Europe from Montreal. Since it would be more expensive to go to Europe from the United States by way of Montreal, this might arouse the curiosity of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Then BUCK said that at the time of their last discussion, he was certain that direct flights between London and Moscow had been inaugurated. He said that subsequently he learned that these flights have not started as yet. He said the only direct flights to Moscow from Europe are from the Scandinavian countries and he thought that from a security standpoint such a trip would be inadvisable at this time of the year. BUCK said that he thought that the best method for a person travelling as a businessman would be to go to London, and from London to Brussels, and then on the Sabina Airlines from Brussels to Prague, Czechoslovakia, and then from Prague to Moscow.

BUCK said that CHUVACHIN will make the arrangements for the floating visas and that CG 5824-S* [redacted] should do the following upon arriving in London:

[redacted] should go first to the Soviet Consulate in London. When she arrives at the Consulate, she should give her name, SYLVIA CAMP, to the receptionist. She should say that she is there in behalf of herself and her husband, and would like to see the Consul. She should also say, I am sure that he will see me. If there is any hesitancy on the part of the receptionist, she should say, We are going to Moscow. BUCK said that the First Consul will see her, unless he is not available. In that event, the First Secretary will see her. Probably they will give her the floating visas for Russia. There is a possibility, however, that the Consul will send her to the Soviet Embassy in London, since transit or floating visas are generally given only to the higher echelon of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union or to the diplomatic corps of the Soviet Union and are handled by the Embassy. It is possible that the Russians will not let the Consulate in London, England, handle this matter.

CG 134-46 (Sub B)

After obtaining the floating visas for Russia, she should then go to the Czechoslovakian Consulate in London and obtain the floating visas for Czechoslovakia. BUCK emphasized that the Czechoslovakians will not give the floating visas for Czechoslovakia unless one for Russia has been obtained first.

NY 694-S* told BUCK that, for security reasons, ^{Russ.} CG 5824-S* did not want to see JOHN WILLIAMSON in England on the way to Russia, but would try to see him on the return trip from Russia. NY 694-S* then asked BUCK what CG 5824-S* and [] should do if, for some reason, a floating visa was not obtained either from the Russians or from the Czechoslovakians in London. BUCK stated that as a last resort, they should contact JOHN WILLIAMSON, who would personally deliver the floating visas to them. NY 694-S* asked BUCK if there was any possibility that WILLIAMSON might go to Moscow for the May 1st celebration. BUCK said that this possibility exists, since the Russians usually invite him to this celebration.

NY 694-S* asked how CG 5824-S* [] should get transportation to Moscow. He said that they should not purchase the tickets from Prague to Moscow in Brussels, but should only purchase round trip tickets on Sabina Airlines from Brussels to Prague. Word will be sent to Prague from Russia to expect them there.

Then, in a most confidential manner, BUCK said that as they leave the plane at the airport in Prague, they will observe ground hostesses who are in uniform. BUCK stated that one of the functions of these ground hostesses is to take care of such passengers as CG 5824-S* []. They should contact one of the ground hostesses and tell her that they are in transit and are going to Moscow as guests of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. They should give her their names, MARTIN and SYLVIA CAMP. In the event that there are other people around the ground hostesses, and the majority of people on the plane will probably be Americans, then they should take a piece of paper, write the names MARTIN and SYLVIA CAMP and that they are going to Moscow as guests of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. They should then ask a ground hostess, who will speak English, How do I get here?, and then show her the piece of paper. She will reply innocently, Yes, yes, I will tell you how to get there. She will then take over and make necessary arrangements for transportation or for hotel reservations, if this is necessary. They should provide her with the money for the plane tickets from Prague to Moscow. BUCK also stated that their luggage would not be inspected between Brussels and Moscow.

ILL, ENG, POL, CZECH, RUSS, CHINA

BUCK said that when they arrive in Moscow, they will be met and greeted by a representative of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Probably this person will be ALEKSI (ph), whom he described as follows: He is young and is about the same height and weight as JOHN WILLIAMSON. He has a round face and his most outstanding characteristic is very pink cheeks. If it is not ALEKSI, it will probably be NICOLAI OFF (ph), who is older than ALEKSI and also represents the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. All arrangements will be made by the representative of the International Department, Central Committee, Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Russ NY 694-S* asked if any personal effects, such as money, would be taken from them when they arrive in Moscow. BUCK said that the only thing that would be taken from them would be the passports.

NY 694-S* asked what usually happens when you arrive in Moscow. BUCK stated that the representative of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union will have an outline of a schedule, which will have been arranged in advance. BUCK told NY 694-S* to tell CG 5824-S* to assert himself so that the Russians do not dominate the schedule. BUCK also stated that the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union representative will also make available to CG 5824-S* the material which has been sent to Moscow to assist in the discussions with the Russians.

NY 694-S* said that BUCK was very happy to learn that

CG 134-46 (Sub B)

EUGENE DENNIS wants CG 5824-S* to go to China. He told NY 694-S* to tell CG 5824-S* that he should tell the representative of the International Department, Central Committee, Communist Party of the Soviet Union, that the Communist Party - USA wants him to go to China to discuss the situation in the Communist Party - USA with the leading comrades of the Communist Party of China. Therefore, a break of from one week to ten days should be made in the schedule in order to permit this trip. BUCK said that this break might come after the discussions have been concluded and while CG 5824-S* is waiting for any decisions or instructions from the Russians.

BUCK said that CG 5824-S* should go to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow and tell them who he is -- that is, his real identity. They will make arrangements for transportation from Moscow to Peking, and back to Moscow.

^{Russ.} Then BUCK stated that the ideal schedule in Moscow would be for CG 5824-S* to meet with MIKHAIL ^{Russ.} SUSLOV, OTTO KUUSINEN and B. PONOMAREFF, in that order, since they would have endless talks and discussions with him. They would give CG 5824-S* a lot of time and would be very thorough in their discussions with him. Usually at the conclusion of such discussions, NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV will summarize in one, two or more hours.

NY 694-S* asked BUCK what CG 5824-S* should do if he needs some additional documents or decisions from the Communist Party - USA while he is in Moscow. BUCK said that this could be accomplished in two ways. The first would be to send a letter to Progress Union Books in Toronto, Canada, for TIM BUCK, who would relay any message to NY 694-S* in New York. If an immediate contact and answer is needed, then CG 5824-S* should either send a cable to Progress Union Books in Toronto, or should telephone to Progress Books in Toronto. If a telephone call is made, it will probably be answered by either BESS MASCOLO or [redacted] described by BUCK as two trusted individuals. If either answers the telephone, CG 5824-S* should say, This is [redacted] I will call tomorrow. BUCK will then know that this call is from CG 5824-S* and he will be waiting for the call at Progress Books the next day.

CG 134-46 (Sub B)

BUCK stated that the same system of communication should be used in case any emergency arises in London, Brussels, Paris, etc.

BUCK then stated that the Russians will not let CG 5824-S* take his notes with him when he leaves Moscow. Since the Communist Party - USA has no apparatus for the transmittal of these notes, BUCK stated that CG 5824-S* should tell his contact from the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union that it would be best if the notes were sent to BUCK through his channels and BUCK will make them available to CG 5824-S* through NY 694-S*. BUCK also suggested that for the future, CG 5824-S* should organize with the Russians a more direct method for transmitting such material.

NY 694-S* pointed out to BUCK that the Communist Party - USA is in a very serious financial condition. Yet, the Communist Party - USA has no apparatus to receive money from Russia. NY 694-S* asked BUCK for any suggestions he might have on how the Communist Party of the Soviet Union might transmit any money it might desire to give to the Communist Party - USA. BUCK stated that since the Communist Party - USA is in a serious financial situation, which requires immediate attention, he would suggest that the first one or two sums of money from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union to the Communist Party - USA be sent to BUCK through his channels and that CG 5824-S* should suggest this to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. When any such funds arrive in Canada, BUCK will make them available to NY 694-S* for delivery to the Communist Party - USA.

BUCK stated that if the money is sent this way, CG 5824-S* should emphasize to the Russians that it should not be in small denominations, since it would be difficult to transport it to the United States from Canada. He said that he thought that fifty and one hundred dollar bills would be best in order to reduce the bulk. BUCK said that because of its importance and urgency, that this method could be used once or twice. However, after the second time, the Russians should use a direct method of transmittal of funds between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party - USA. BUCK said that the Russians know how to organize and establish such an arrangement for the direct transmittal of funds between Russia and the United States.

Next, NY 694-S* and BUCK discussed when CG 5824-S* and might arrive in Moscow. BUCK said that it would be wonderful if they could arrive there before May 1, 1958, since important Communist Party leaders from all over the world will be in Moscow for the May Day celebration. If they could arrive in Moscow before May 1, 1958, then there would be time available to arrange for discussions with these leaders.

BUCK then stated that he would suggest the following: That CG 5824-S* [] pick up the floating visas in London on Friday, April 25, 1958. Then they could travel over the weekend of April 26 and 27, 1958, to Paris and Brussels, and would be ready to leave Brussels on April 28, 1958, for Prague, Czechoslovakia. Therefore, he will give the date of April 25, 1958, to CHUVACHIN as the date the visas will be picked up in London. Since the Consulate is closed on the weekend, an alternate date of Monday, April 28, 1958, will be given to provide for any delays in transportation. BUCK stated that this is more than a schedule, since all people enroute will be alerted in regard to this timetable.

BUCK also told NY 694-S* that he would "guarantee" that the Russians would reimburse CG 5824-S* for travel expenses. NY 694-S* told BUCK that the Communist Party - USA considers this trip so important that, despite the horrible financial situation which means that there is a crisis every week in order to issue "The Worker", the Communist Party - USA gave CG 5824-S* a loan of as much money as it could scrape up for the purposes of this trip.

NY 694-S* asked BUCK if the Labor Progressive Party could give CG 5824-S* a loan of a few hundred additional dollars for this trip. BUCK said that since no one other than himself in the Labor Progressive Party knows about the trip, it would be awkward for him to ask his Secretariat to approve such a loan. NY 694-S* said that he understood and that normally he would have been able to get a loan from JACK COWAN, except that COWAN is in Europe. NY 694-S* said that with BUCK's permission, he would see if he could get a loan from some of his friends in the Labor Progressive Party in Toronto. BUCK gave NY 694-S* this permission.

It is noted that NY 694-S* went through this procedure in regard to funds as an additional security measure.

NY 694-S* saw BUCK again from 5:00 to 8:00 P.M., at which time they merely went over the details of the previous discussion.

Miscellaneous

BUCK emphasized on more than one occasion that CG 5824-S* should not leave his schedule in Russia up to the Russians. He said that CG 5824-S* should assert himself and should make demands. He commented that the Russians consider the American Communist Party of the utmost importance.

Both CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* pointed out that despite BUCK's remarks in this regard, that the itinerary and schedule of CG 5824-S* in Russia will be very much under the control of the Russians. Unless some emergency arises or unless the Russians want CG 5824-S* to immediately transmit some instructions to the Communist Party - USA, they will proceed in a most leisurely fashion. Both CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* estimate that this trip will take a minimum of two and one-half months.

NY 694-S* also advised that he had discussed with TIM BUCK the possibility of JOHN WILLIAMSON coming to Canada from England for purposes of discussions with CG 5824-S*, since EUGENE DENNIS had raised this possibility with CG 5824-S*. NY 694-S* asked BUCK if it would make it tough on the Labor Progressive Party if WILLIAMSON were to come from England to Canada, stay for a while and then return to England. TIM BUCK stated that a British subject could come to Canada, but in the case of JOHN WILLIAMSON, he would have to go to the British authorities and say that he wanted to come to Canada as an immigrant. BUCK stated that in his opinion, if the British authorities did not recognize WILLIAMSON, then they would allow him to go to Canada as an immigrant, in which case he could stay in Canada for a few weeks and then return to England. BUCK stated that if the authorities did recognize him, they would undoubtedly refuse this permission to him. He stated that if WILLIAMSON would make such a trip, it would in no way affect the Labor Progressive Party.

In discussing where the floating visas should be obtained, BUCK stated that he was opposed to obtaining these visas in the Consulates or Embassies in Paris. He said that there are too many F.B.I. people in Paris. He said that there was a recent experience where some American, whom he did not name, went to the American Embassy in Paris because some emergency arose, and that the passport was taken away from him at the American Embassy.

ASAC Simon called this afternoon and advised that 5824-S was leaving New York at 3:00 PM today on TWA Flight 862, arriving London, 9 AM, April 25, 1958.

He said New York had discussed with Chicago the matter of the $900.00 which 5824-S had received from Canada. The $900.00 was obtained from the informant and is being sent to Chicago. 5824-S will indicate that he borrowed the money before leaving Chicago and turned the money he obtained from Canada over to his brother who will repay the loan.

At 11:20 AM, April 24, 1958, ASAC Simon of the NYO advised that the informant's itinerary has been changed slightly. Inasmuch as the floating visas are not to be obtained in London, the informant will not spend any time in London, but will go directly to Paris. He expects to arrive in Paris on April 25th. He will leave Paris on the afternoon of April 27th for Brussels. He will leave Brussels on April 28th and will arrive in Prague on the same day. From there he will proceed to the Soviet Union.

Elizabeth Mascolo, common-law wife of Tim Buck, Canadian communist leader, gave our informant $1,000 on April 23, 1958. This money, according to Mascolo, came from the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. The $1,000 was in denominations of 100, 50 and 10 dollar bills. Our informant gave Mascolo $100.00 and told her to give it to Tim Buck to compensate him for having sent Mascolo to New York with the money for our informant. The informant said this was a good-will gesture to Tim Buck. With respect to what disposition was to be made of the remaining $900.00, our informant stated he saw no reason why the Bureau should not take the $900.00. He didn't feel it was necessary for him to have the specific money which the Soviets had provided in his possession. ASAC Simon stated that he is going to discuss this matter with Chicago, the office of origin, to determine whether Chicago can advance any reason as to why the Bureau should not take the $900.00 from our informant. He asked for the Bureau's views as to this and was told that if the informant didn't feel it was necessary for him to have the specific money provided by the Soviets and the Chicago Office interposed no objection, then New York should accept the $900.00 from the informant and forward it to the office of origin, Chicago. Mr. Simon asked whether the informant should be reimbursed and was told that inasmuch as we had already advanced the informant sufficient funds, it was not necessary to reimburse the informant.

Our informant also advised that Elizabeth Mascolo delivered $6,000 to Alexander Trachtenberg, American communist functionary in New York. This $6,000 also came from the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. According to our informant, Mascolo stated that part of this $6,000 was to be given to the wife of Gilbert Green. Green was convicted in

At 5:30 p.m., April 21, 1958, SAC Auerbach, Chicago, called with reference to previous authorization by the Bureau to advance the informant $2000.00 for travel and other expenses on his trip to Moscow. Auerbach said that Chicago has carefully gone over with the informant the expenses anticipated and noted that informant on arrival in Moscow would have a maximum of approximately $500.00 and from this amount he might have to purchase transportation back to London. Auerbach stated that it was quite possible any Soviet advances of funds would be in an indirect fashion and would not be made available to the informant in Moscow and, therefore, he requested authority for an additional $500.00 advance. This would make a total advance of $2500.00 by the Bureau (informant was advanced $1500.00 by the Communist Party, USA). It is noted that it is hoped the Soviets will reimburse the informant for expenses of his trip and we may be reimbursed, at least in part.

Auerbach advised that the informant was leaving Chicago on April 22, 1958, and, therefore, Auerbach was authorized by Inspector D. E. Moore to advance the informant the additional $500.00.

Re Chicago letter to Bureau 4/16/58 captioned, "SOLO, IS - C", a copy of which was furnished to the New York office. Relet set forth results of the trip of NY 694-S* to Canada to make the final arrangements in connection with the Solo operation.

The Chicago office would like to make the following observations regarding this matter:

It is felt that NY 694-S* did an excellent job on obtaining full details as well as making the necessary arrangements to further enhance the success of the Solo operation. His inquiries were most penetrating and arrangements were made in such a manner so that any future operations along this line would result in the greatest possible value to the Bureau. It is felt that his questions of TIM BUCK were of such a nature as to forestall the possibilities of the unexpected occurring.

The Chicago office is further of the opinion that the value of NY 694-S* in furthering the success of this mission cannot be measured in dollars and cents, and without his assistance, plus his extensive knowledge of courier apparatus, this operation would not have been possible.

SAC Auerbach, Chicago, called on the morning of 4/16 to advise of developments regarding the proposed trip of 5824-S and his wife to Russia.

Auerbach said that 694-S reported concerning his conversation with Tim Buck in Canada. 694-S said that Buck's contact on this matter is directly with Soviet Ambassador Chuvachin (phonetic). He said there is an understanding that the Russians will reimburse the informant for the cost of this trip to Russia.

Relative to visas, as soon as Buck had talked to 694-S, securing the numbers of the passports, et cetera, Buck immediately arranged to contact the Soviet Ambassador, who was to leave for Russia on 4/15 or 4/16, and will set up appropriate arrangements for visas for the informants.

694-S reported that, according to Buck, the trip should be made promptly. 5824-S should be in London by 4/25. His wife is to go to the Russian Consulate there, see the receptionist and identify herself and request to see the consul. If there is any hesitation, she will say, "He will see me. My husband and I are going to Russia." She will secure a floating visa for Russia (a visa specifying no definite limits as to time and place). This visa will not be attached to the informant's passport, thus not reflecting, upon his return to the US, that he has been in Russia.

The informant's wife will then go to the Czechoslovakian Consulate in London and secure a floating visa there for Prague. The informant and his wife will leave London promptly for Brussels, via Paris, on 4/26 or 4/27. They will leave Brussels immediately for Prague. At Prague they will be met by a ground hostess, to whom they will identify themselves through a series of exchanged words. The hostess will arrange for hotel, etc., and travel to Moscow. At Moscow they will be met and their schedules will be arranged.

The informant is to plan for a side trip to China, leaving from Moscow and returning to Moscow. In China he is to talk to the Chinese leaders regarding the ~~CCP Communist Party~~.

Mr. Boardman

On his return trip from Moscow, informant is to stop in Paris and see Jaques DuClos, the Communist leader there.

The informant has an emergency contact in London if trouble arises over the visas, namely John Williamson. The informant also has an emergency cable or telephone contact at Toronto, Canada, which he can reach from the continent. This is a book shop in Toronto which will immediately contact 694-S in New York.

The expected duration of the informant's trip is a minimum of 2½ months. His schedule is to be set up and controlled by the Russians. The informant's notes and materials which he will compile will be sent back to this country through Russian control, probably through the Russian diplomatic pouch to Canada.

Tim Buck said that 5824-S should be sure to assert himself in Russia and make demands because of his position as representative of the CPUSA. Buck said that informant will be dealing on a high level of international communism and will be talking to the members of the Central Committee of the CP in the Soviet Union.

Auerbach said that the informant has a number of personal problems to handle before he leaves, such as setting up appropriate care of his house, his parents, handling a report to the CP on the activities of the Audit Commission, securing appropriate clothes, etc. Auerbach said that the Chicago office is giving him every assistance.

Relative to finances, you will recall that the CP loaned the informant $1500 for this trip. Auerbach said that this would be insufficient, and we will have to assist in financing the trip, although the Soviets are supposed to repay the informant for the trip. For example, the round trip ticket from NY to Brussels is $1206, and does not include expenses in London, Brussels, Prague, and the cost of the trip from Brussels to Moscow, etc.

Auerbach said that he contemplates sending SA Keating with the informant and his wife when they depart for NY on this trip, in order to assist them in their arrangements, clothes, etc. He said the informant is depending on the office to give them assistance. I told Auerbach that the Chicago office should give every assistance, and there was no objection to Keating going to NY, but only if this could be done with complete security. I told Auerbach that the informant would be undoubtedly contacting Communist leaders in NY before his departure and it is essential that complete security be observed in the handling of the informant.

Auerbach will advise us of further developments and the extent to which financial assistance will be required.

SAC Auerbach called at 10:25 a.m., 4/17, to advise that 5824-S and his wife will leave Chicago Monday for New York. They have a confirmed reservation on TWA, 3:00 p.m., on 4/24, New York to London, arriving at London 9:00 a.m., 4/25.

Auerbach requested authority to advance the informant $2,000 for travel and other expenses. It is hoped that the Russians will reimburse the informant for expense of this trip and the informant will be able to reimburse us at least in part.

Auerbach stated that the need for the $2,000 advance is reflected by the following expenses:

|--|----------|
| Round trip ticket Chicago to New York | $200.00 |
| Round trip ticket New York to London | 1,206.00 |
| Travel from London to Moscow and return | 700.00 |
| Expenses London and Brussels, Prague and while in Moscow and return to London | 750.00 |
| Local Chicago expenses for informant's parents, utilities and upkeep of house | 200.00 |
| Luggage, clothes, medicines, etc. | 350.00 |
| Literature, books, and postage which informant is sending first class through Canada | 75.00 |

Total.....$3,481.00

The informant was advanced $1,500 by the CP USA and with the $2,000 advance by the Bureau will be able to meet the expenses.

I authorized Auerbach to make this advance.

Auerbach said a separate file has been set up on the financing of this trip so that there will be no question as to the accuracy of the expenses, etc.

CG 5824-S*, on April 4, 1958, orally furnished the following information to SA JOHN E. KEATING. CG 5824-S* received most of this information in a conversation with EUGENE DENNIS on Monday, March 31, 1958. A very small portion of the information was received from DENNIS on April 1, 1958.

Inasmuch as DENNIS was briefing CG 5824-S* on recent developments in the Communist Party - USA for purposes of transmitting this information to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, DENNIS was attempting to place the Communist Party - USA in as favorable a light as possible. DENNIS was also issuing instructions to CG 5824-S* concerning his proposed trip to Russia and China.

FOR THE ABOVE REASONS IT IS FELT THAT THERE SHOULD BE NO DISSEMINATION OF ANY OF THIS INFORMATION AT THIS TIME. IN ORDER TO FULLY PROTECT THE IDENTITY OF CG 5824-S* AND THE SUCCESS OF THE "SOLO" OPERATION.

PAUL ROBESON's Book, "Here I Stand"

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

DENNIS stated that he has heard that WILLIAM Z. FOSTER has two new articles which are in Moscow. DENNIS stated that the Russians should be told that FOSTER's articles are intolerable because they are causing divisions in the ranks of the Communist Party - USA and they are also endangering the legality of the Communist Party - USA. DENNIS said that FOSTER raises problems which cannot be dealt with, especially by the Russian press.

DENNIS stated that CHILDS should tell the Russians that even before he became ill, the "old man" was doctrinaire, rigid, and in the recent discussions in the Communist Party - USA, he was actually engaging in factionalism. Further, FOSTER has never had an outlook toward the building of a future leadership; that is, he has never brought younger persons into the leadership.

As an example of what FOSTER is doing at the present time, DENNIS stated that a few days ago the old so-and-so picked up the telephone and called him. FOSTER told DENNIS that the Communist Party - USA should endorse NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV for Premier of the USSR. Further, that the Communist Party - USA should ask for democratic safeguards, since KHRUSHCHEV is now playing a dual role. DENNIS commented that this is an example of the disregard for security precautions by FOSTER, who would get the Communist Party - USA in trouble legally.

On April 1, 1958, CHILDS asked DENNIS if he would tell the "old man" that CHILDS was going to Russia. DENNIS said that he would not and that he, DENNIS, would take the responsibility if the "old man" finds out about it.

CHILDS asked about the plans of FOSTER to go to Moscow. DENNIS told CHILDS to tell the Russians that physically FOSTER is learning to walk. Further, that if FOSTER travels, it will have to be legally. The first task of the attorneys is to try to lift the Smith Act indictment against FOSTER. Also, the Communist Party - USA will not let FOSTER apply for a passport until after the decision is rendered in the ROCKWELL-KENT case. This decision may be rendered in June, 1958. It is not advisable for FOSTER to apply for a passport before a ruling on the KENT case, since the circumstances in regard to FOSTER would be very similar.

United States Government Action Against the Communist Party - USA

DENNIS stated that the Russians should be told that there is a new round of attacks against the Communist Party in the United States. They should be told that some people have to go on trial concerning membership in the Party. For this reason, the Communist Party - USA has to be secure and has to be careful. Spokesmen for the Communist Party - USA have to be secure and careful.

Criticism of ABE MAGIL in the "Kommunist"

DENNIS told CHILDS that the Russians should be informed that in regard to the criticism of ABE MAGIL in the "Kommunist", some mistakes were made because the Russians are out of touch with the Communist Party - USA. They cannot investigate and, thus, they do not know all the facts. Therefore, they are just creating new problems for the Communist Party - USA.

Representative for the Proposed International Journal

In regard to a representative from the Communist Party - USA for the proposed international journal to be published in Prague, Czechoslovakia, DENNIS said that perhaps JOHN WILLIAMSON could be the de facto representative for the Communist Party - USA for this journal, but WILLIAMSON cannot be the legal representative of the Communist Party - USA. DENNIS stated that WILLIAMSON might be able to supply information for this journal better than anyone who is not acquainted with the United States.

DENNIS asked CHILDS if he thought that it would be possible for WILLIAMSON to make a trip from England to Canada about once a year. CHILDS could meet WILLIAMSON in Canada and brief him on recent developments in the Communist Party - USA, thus permitting WILLIAMSON to act as the de facto representative for the Communist Party - USA on the proposed international journal and, therefore, in regard to any matters pertaining to the international Communist movement.

CHILDS asked DENNIS if he should see WILLIAMSON on the way to Russia. DENNIS hesitated, and then stated that it would be better to see WILLIAMSON on the return trip from Russia. If CHILDS does see WILLIAMSON, he should tell him that he is a careless correspondent. Further, CHILDS should tell WILLIAMSON that he should know better than to write the type of letters and request the kind of answers that he has in his correspondence with DENNIS.

JACQUES DUCLOS and the Communist Party of France

CHILDS asked DENNIS if he should try to see JACQUES DUCLOS in France. DENNIS stated that it would be best to try to see DUCLOS on the return trip from Paris. DENNIS also stated that CHILDS should find out what the Communist Party of France is doing, but should not tell the Communist Party of France too much about the situation in the Communist Party - USA.

Communist Party of China

DENNIS told CHILDS to go to China from Russia and tell the Chinese that JAMES ALLEN is concerning himself with the Chinese and a sub-committee of people from Philadelphia and New York, who are discussing the Chinese question and are studying the Chinese situation. DENNIS said that there is a person in Philadelphia who is just filled with knowledge about China and the Far East.

Russian Press Material for "The Worker"

DENNIS said that it is all right for the Soviet press material to be sent directly from Russia to "The Worker", providing that the Russians send the same material to a couple of other papers in the United States. If the Russians only plan to send this material to "The Worker", then it cannot be mailed directly.

HENRY WINSTON, GIL GREEN and IRVING POTASH

DENNIS stated that the attorney, JOHN ABT, visited with HENRY WINSTON, GIL GREEN and IRVING POTASH after the February, 1958, meeting of the National Committee. The attorney said that all three expressed full agreement with the line of the National Committee. All three also said that the economic question must be the key to everything in expanding the ties of the Communist Party - USA and breaking down the isolation of the Communist Party.

DENNIS said that WINSTON and GREEN are feeling all right, but POTASH is in bad health. POTASH expects to be released from prison in August, 1958, but the attorney believes that the Immigration and Naturalization Service may add an additional six months detention period.

DENNIS commented that the Russians made a terrible mistake in the manner in which they sent IRVING POTASH back to the United States. DENNIS said that if it had not been for JACK CHILDS, the Communist Party - USA would have been in terrible shape and the Party had a narrow escape. DENNIS said that the Russians should be told this and should be told that POTASH came back to the United States at the wrong time.

GUS HALL

DENNIS said that GUS HALL is having trouble. When he last reported to the Parole Office, the FBI had prepared a dossier showing that he had met with all kinds of Party people. The Parole Office threatened to lift his conditional release. DENNIS commented that this may knock GUS HALL out of circulation for some time.

Jewish Question

DENNIS told CHILDS that he should find out in Moscow and/or in Paris what happened when the French Communist Party and the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union discussed the Jewish question sometime after November, 1958.

DENNIS stated that CARL WINTER and JACK STACHEL will write an article on the Jewish question. It will be friendly and will place the Communist Party - USA in a different light in regard to this question than has been presented in the articles written by MORRIS SCHAPPES, PAUL NOVICK and others.

CHILDS was instructed by DENNIS to obtain photographs of [redacted] while he is in Moscow. DENNIS told CHILDS that any letter [redacted] to DENNIS should not contain any reference to [redacted]. DENNIS also suggested that [redacted] write to MORRIS CHILDS, who would then give the letter to DENNIS.

DENNIS asked CHILDS to take some gifts [redacted]. He suggested, in addition to the PAUL ROBESON book, FOSTER's history of the Communist Party - USA and FOSTER's history of the Negro people.

The Communist Party of Mexico

DENNIS stated that ORDOQUI (JOAQUIN ORDOQUI MESA), of the Cuban Communist Party, sent a document through the Communist Party - USA charging DIONISIO ENCINA, of the Communist Party of Mexico, with playing the game of the enemy. ORDOQUI indicated that the Mexican Communist Party leadership is honeycombed with spies.

Secretariat of the Communist Party - USA

DENNIS was asked by CHILDS who would know that CHILDS was going to Moscow. DENNIS replied, You will speak for the Secretariat. CHILDS asked, Do you have one? DENNIS replied, Well, we act as one, and it consists of the following:

EUGENE DENNIS, Secretary
BOB THOMPSON, Executive Secretary and Organization Department
JACK STACHEL, Associate Editor of "The Worker"
JAMES JACKSON, the South
HYMAN LUMER, Education

Parenthetically speaking, it is to be noted that DENNIS would expect that CHILDS would indicate to the Russians that DENNIS is the General Secretary, and thus is the leader of the Communist Party - USA. Thus, DENNIS is placing himself as the leader of the Communist Party - USA, as is the customary procedure in most Communist Parties.

DENNIS stated that at least three of these people will know that CHILDS is going to Moscow. The only one who will not know will be HY LUMER. Then DENNIS said, You will speak for the Secretariat and I speak for the Secretariat.

Transmittal of Funds

DENNIS had no suggestions at this time as to how the Communist Party - USA, in a disguised manner, might receive funds from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

OTHER INFORMATION FURNISHED BY DENNIS IN CONNECTION WITH THIS BRIEFING IS CONTAINED IN CHICAGO LETTER DATED APRIL 11, 1958, AND CAPTIONED "COMMUNIST PARTY, USA - ORGANIZATION, IS-C."

SAC Auerbach advised on the afternoon of 4/14 that 694-S had gone to Canada to confer with Tim Buck and was returning to NY via Chicago, arriving in Chicago on the morning of 4/15 and leaving for NY the evening of 4/15. He requested that our NY office be advised, and I so advised ASAC Ed McCabe, NY, on the evening of 4/14/58.

Auerbach said that the results of 694-S' conversation with Buck will be available on 4/15, but preliminary indications are that Buck advocated that the trip of 5824-S be started promptly and that he would be contacted in either London or Paris in order that he could secure the necessary visa to go into Russia.

Auerbach had previously raised the question whether the names and telephone numbers of our Legats in London and Paris should not be furnished to 5824-S. I told Auerbach I considered this inadvisable, as the informant would probably be searched and various listening devices might be used in his hotel rooms, etc.

Auerbach again raised this question, saying that the informant felt that he should have some one to contact in an emergency. Auerbach suggested that a drop system could be worked up whereby the informant could contact one of our Legats in an emergency.

I told Auerbach that we still considered this very inadvisable. I pointed out that, for all we know, the English and French may have technical coverage on the American Embassies, and might consequently cover any call the informant might make to the Legat. Relative to possible drops (cut-outs whereby the informant would get word to the Legat that he wanted to meet him at a specified place), I told Auerbach that this was a cloak-and-dagger maneuver and there was too much chance of a slip-up. I told Auerbach that if the informant gets into trouble he always can contact the American Embassy, as any other American citizen can do, and that, short of some difficulty with his health, I could not visualize a situation where the informant should be contacting anyone.

I told Auerbach to discuss this with the informant, and point out that our precaution in this matter is for his safety, as we do not want to set up any proposal which in any way could tie him into the FBI.

In connection with the above-captioned case, it is requested that the Chicago Office be furnished with the names and telephone numbers for the Legal Attaches in London and Paris. This information is being requested so that it can be furnished to CG 5824-S*. The informant would not contact the Legal Attaches unless some extreme emergency arose. In the event that it became necessary to contact either one of the Legal Attaches the informant would use the name MARTIN CAMP.

When the approximate date of departure for the informant is known the Bureau will be advised so that the Legal Attaches in London and Paris can be alerted for a possible emergency phone call.

SAC Auerbach called on the afternoon of April 7, 1958, from Chicago to advise that the passport applications of 5824-S* and his wife had been sent in to the State Department on April 7, under the names of Sylvia Soney Camp and Martin A. Camp.

Auerbach had previously advised that the informant was to take a trip to New York as a member of the CP auditing committee. Auerbach said that while the informant was there, Lem Harris gave the informant a loan of $1,500.00 for the trip. This was on the instructions of Eugene Dennis, who did not advise Harris as to the purpose of the loan. This $1,500.00 will be placed in the informant's account at the bank and will be drawn on for purposes of meeting expenses of the trip. Our Chicago office will take appropriate steps to have New York check on the serial numbers as to the source of the funds.

Auerbach said it will be necessary for 694-S* to come to Chicago later this month and then go to see Tim Buck in Canada to furnish him with the passport numbers in order to arrange for visas at London or Paris. I authorized expenses for 694-S* up to $300.00 for this trip.

Auerbach will keep us advised of developments.

I called SAC Auerbach at Chicago today relative to his advice yesterday that 5824-S and his wife had submitted their application for passports. I told Auerbach that unless the applicant reflects that he has a trip scheduled in the near future, the application will probably receive routine handling and it may be more than a month before the passports are received. For this reason, Chicago should be sure that informants have indicated an early date of departure. Auerbach said he would see this was done.

In connection with the trip of CG 5824-S to Russia as a representative from the Communist Party (CP), USA, SAC, Chicago, has made certain recommendations regarding financial arrangements with the informant and his wife, [redacted] who will accompany him as a cover for the trip. These informants have certain fixed financial obligations which will have to be met during their absence from this country. Chicago requests that authority be granted to advance CG 5824-S prior to the date of his departure his regularly authorized payment through May, 1958. It is noted that this informant is currently authorized to receive up to $900 per month which authorization extends through May, 1958.

Chicago also advised that [redacted] has made arrangements to take a leave of absence of approximately two months duration which will probably start sometime during the period between April 15 and 30, 1958. Inasmuch as [redacted] will be serving as a cover for the trip of CG 5824-S, SAC, Chicago, believes it highly desirable that she accompany him and recommends that authority be granted to pay her salary during the time she is on a leave of absence and that this be considered a part of the total cost of the Solo operation. The weekly salary of [redacted] is $102.50. She receives no regular payment from the Bureau.

OBSERVATIONS:

In view of the extreme importance of this operation, it is believed that the recommendations of the SAC, Chicago, should be approved.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the attached letter be sent to Chicago authorizing payment of the recommended sums.

NY 694-S advised on 3/18/58 that he returned from Toronto on evening of 3/17/58 with following message from Tim Buck to CG 5824-S*:

Buck was most happy to receive the Cuban CP documents sent to him from CG 5824-S* through NY 694-S*.

After receiving CG 5824-s*'s report concerning the feasibility of going abroad via Mexico or Brazil, Buck stated there was no way whereby he could make arrangements in Canada for the immediate departure of CG 5824-S*. When NY 694-S* told him that efforts are being made in USA to make such arrangements, Buck said it would be best for the Chicago informant to obtain an American passport. Buck said he recently discussed subject of departure points from Latin American countries with a Russian in Canada, and the latter had informed him that the Soviets currently are conducting an investigation of this matter in various Latin American countries. Despite what the Soviet investigation may reflect, Buck felt the best departure point is New York, and that CG 5824-S* should travel on an American passport.

Buck estimated that CG 5824-S* and his wife would need approximately $1,300 for the trip to Moscow. In connection therewith, NY 694-S* told Buck that CG 5824-S* would negotiate a ninety-day loan to finance the trip, and inquired whether the Soviets would reimburse the informant for the money spent. Buck replied that the Soviets definitely would reimburse CG 5824-S*, and stated he was so certain of this that he was willing to give his personal guaranty to that effect.

In discussing possible points of departure, Buck said Montreal at this time of year is too "barren" (devoid of traffic), and that departure from there would require that CG 5824-S*'s passport be stamped, reflecting Montreal as the point of departure.

Buck stated it would be best that, in his passport application, CG 5824-S* list the following as countries he desires to visit: England, Spain, France, The Netherlands, and Italy. He said it would be wise to avoid the Scandinavian countries at this time of year since there would be comparatively little traffic in those countries.

Buck said "floating visas" and the name and description of the contact who would meet CG 5824-S* and his wife in Moscow could be obtained in England or in France. Buck, however, strongly suggested that the visas be obtained in London for two reasons: (1) CG 5824-S* would avoid language difficulties in London; and (2) there is a direct flight from London to Moscow.

Buck advised against obtaining visas in France because (1) the French CP is difficult to deal with since it is too bureaucratic, and (2) because there is no direct flight from France to Moscow. From Paris CG 5824-S* would have to fly to Prague, where he would encounter the difficulty of making additional arrangements concerning entry and departure at Prague.

Buck mentioned that to avoid personal appearances at the Soviet consulates in England or France, CG 5824-S* could enlist the assistance of John Williamson in London and Duclos in Paris. When NY 694-S* reminded Buck of the secrecy of CG 5824-s*' mission, Buck agreed that CG 5824-S* would have to apply for the visas in person.

Buck said he would notify the Soviets immediately of the status of the situation, and indicate the possibility that CG 5824-S might leave for Moscow soon. In that connection, Buck requested two weeks notice of CG 5824-s*' departure date so that a courier might convey this info to Moscow. The Soviets, he said, would require sufficient notice to allow them "to clear the way for visas in other countries." The courier could be a "regular courier" (diplomatic courier), or "someone" whom the Canadian CP will send to Moscow to attend the 13th Kommsomol Congress on April 21, 1958. This individual from the Canadian CP will leave Canada on April 10 and will arrive in MOSCOW on April 12.

Buck said he desired CG 5824-S* to be informed that the Soviets request that a "youth delegate" from the CPUSA - or "someone like him" - attend the aforementioned 13th Kommsomol Congress in Moscow on April 21, 1958. If it is agreeable to the CPUSA, this "youth delegate" could leave from Canada for London on April 10 with the Canadian delegate to the Congress. The two of them could join the British delegate to the said Congress, and travel with him to Moscow. (NY 694-S* suggests that CG 5824-S*'s departure be timed to avoid meeting these individuals en route to Moscow.)

Buck said that CG 5824-S* should furnish him as soon as possible the names and numbers that will appear on the passports of CG 5824-S* and the latter's wife. Buck said he strongly advises that CG 5824-S* go to Peking for ten days. In reply to a question from NY 694-S* whether the Soviets would approve of CG 5824-s*' going to Peking, Buck said, "No question! They (the Soviets) would have no objection."

Buck said CG 5824-S* should be told that in Moscow he would have a most comfortable apartment - with personal servants - in the neighborhood of the "Dynamo" (ph) Stadium. When he is busy with "the brass," his wife would have excellent attention.

NY 694-S* advises that as soon as is convenient he will furnish info from Tim Buck not related to instant matter. The Bureau and Chicago will be advised re these matters by separate communication.

SAC Auerbach called on the afternoon of March 13 to advise that he had met with CG 5824-S and NY 694-S to further discuss the obtaining of a passport, etc., in connection with this project. He said they have arrived at the decision that the best way to proceed is to build up a background based on a completely fictitious person. They have selected three names, together with a name for the wife, and Auerbach would like to have us check these names to make sure that they are clean. They are as follows: Martin A. Carson, Martin A. Caine, and Martin A. Camp. The name for the wife would be Sylvia Soney Schlosser (together with the last name selected for the informant per above). These names should be checked through our files and it is suggested that they also be checked through State Department files to insure that there is no derogatory information concerning them. This should be handled at once.

Auerbach said it would be necessary to rent a small place with a mail box for about two months at a cost of about $30 per month in order to have a legitimate place to which the passport can be mailed. I told him this was satisfactory.

Auerbach said that NY 694-S will go to Canada tonight or tomorrow night for the purpose of advising Tim Buck that CG 5824-S is going to make the trip; also to stop any attempt the Canadian Party is making to get a passport in Mexico; to ascertain what countries the courier will pass through and how visas will be obtained and to take up the question of reimbursement of funds on the premise that the information will be getting funds for the trip on a loan basis.

ACTION:

REC-19 100-428071-6

These names should be checked at once and the results furnished to me so that Auerbach may be advised accordingly.

In connection with obtaining a passport by CG 5824-6*, your memorandum to Mr. Sizoo 3-13-58 reflected that Chigago has selected three names, along with a name for his wife, which informant may possibly utilize. These names are Martin A. Carson, Martin A. Caine and Martin A. Camp. The wife's name was indicated to be Sylvia Soney Schlosser. Set forth hereinafter are results of review of Bureau files regarding these names:

MARTIN A. CAINE:

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED
HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED

DATE 3-17-00 BY SP4 BJA/ALB #906318

Bureau indices are negative under the name Martin A. Caine. Under the name Martin Caine, however, Bureau files reflect that this name was utilized as an alias of one Morton Harry Blumenthal who was the subject of a Security Matter - G investigation in 1942 and 1943 based upon an allegation of subversive activities. Blumenthal resided in Virginia Beach, Virginia. Investigation failed to substantiate this allegation and the case was closed. No dissemination was made to State Department (100-94653).

Under the name Martin Caine, Bureau files further reflect that an individual by this name was the subject of a Fraud Against the Government, Surplus Property Act investigation in 1949. In connection with this matter, Caine, who resided in Long Island, New York, had requested various taxicab drivers, all veterans, to purchase surplus war equipment in a War Assets Administration sale in Atlanta, Georgia. The Department decided against any civil or criminal action in this matter and our case was closed. No dissemination was made to State Department (46-15983).

Bureau indices were completely negative regarding the name Sylvia Soney Schlosser Caine as well as any buildup or breakdown of this name.

MARTIN A. CARSON:

REC-62

Bureau files contain no pertinent information under the name Martin A. Carson or any buildup or breakdown of this name.

Bureau indices were likewise negative regarding Sylvia Soney Schlosser Carson. In breaking this name down, however, it is noted that our files contain two references to a Sylvia Carson. In one instance, her name appeared on a list of members of the Greenwich Village Club of the Communist Political Association in a New York report dated in 1945. According to this report, the date of the list was unknown (100-3-4-4436, page 47).

The second reference to Sylvia Carson reflected an individual by this name to be the wife of one Robert Carson, president of Carson Company, Incorporated of Mason City, Iowa. Carson Company, Incorporated, was involved in a Fraud Against the Government; Conflict of Interest investigation in 1955 due to actions of one of its employees. No derogatory information was developed during the course of this investigation regarding Robert Carson or Sylvia Carson. No dissemination was made to State Department (46-23548-3).

MARTIN A. CAMP:

Bureau indices were negative regarding the name ^{MYS} Martin A. Camp or any buildup or breakdown thereof.

Regarding Sylvia Soney Schlosser [✓] Camp, Bureau indices were likewise negative. In checking breakdowns of this name, however, it is noted that our files contained one reference of a pertinent nature regarding one Sylvia Camp. This reference reflected that she was the subject of a Fraud Against the Government; Dependents Assistance Act of 1950 investigation in 1954, inasmuch as she had received military subsistence from her soldier husband without having the benefit of a divorce from a prior husband. Files reflect that Sylvia Camp was born 10-15-28 at Holland, Belgium. Prosecution in this matter was declined. No dissemination was made to State Department (46-22306).

CHECK WITH STATE DEPARTMENT:

On 3-14-58, our Liaison representative checked with Mr. W. E. Jessop, State Department, on a confidential basis. Jessop advised that a review of State Department files contained no record of any of the above-mentioned names. He did advise, however, that State Department file contained a reference to one Sylvia Schlosser indicating that she was born in 1933 at Rochester, New York, and as late as 1956 worked for Pan American Airlines.

OBSERVATION:

From a review of the above data regarding the possible names which our informant could use, it is felt that although any of the names could be safely utilized, the name Martin A. Camp would be the most appropriate since we have no information under that name and only one reference on Sylvia Camp which could not possibly be linked up with our informant's wife.

Memorandum to Mr. Belmont
Re: SOLO

RECOMMENDATION:

It is recommended that SAC, Auerbach, Chicago Office, be telephonically advised of the results of the review of our files and the check with State Department as well as our recommendation that the name Martin A. Camp be utilized.

relative to recent discussions between leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA, I thought you would be interested in the following additional information which was obtained from sources who have furnished reliable data in the past.

The Soviet leaders stated that they have no doubt that communism will be ultimately victorious but that United States imperialism is standing in the way.
They further stated they do not want to overestimate United States imperialism since they felt it is not as strong as it appears and they have no doubt that Russia will surpass the United States industrially and agriculturally. They continued that they feel the United States is decaying economically but they wish they had the answer as to whether the United States will pursue a peaceful or an aggressive solution to its economic problems since armaments are a part of American economy. $U

These officials continued that the Soviets are trying to reach the American people with the idea that they want peace and that Americans can get jobs through increased trade. They continued, however, that if there

The Honorable
The Secretary of State

because it is weak, these should be forgotten and that the launching of Sputnik III was to remind the United States that Russia has missiles and armaments.

The Soviet leaders feel that Tito has to be isolated and destroyed to prevent him from opening up a gate through which imperialism might break into the socialist camp. They stated that Tito has sold out to American imperialism, thus opening up the "under belly" of the socialist states and they believe that he has reached some agreement with the United States.

These officials stated that Russia wants to unite all of the socialist countries into one camp and to mesh their economies, so that no socialist countries will be wasting energy and will be less dependent on the western world. Thus, while Czechoslovakia might place emphasis on the production of machinery, other socialist countries will provide Czechoslovakia with the necessary food.

One of the Soviet officials stated that Mikhail Suslov was "very sick" and that his role in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union is now being played by Peter Pospelov, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. It may be significant to note that Suslov who was formerly regarded as a likely successor to Khrushchev has been the subject of recent news reports containing speculation that he has fallen from favor.

Concerning the Communist Party, USA, the Soviet officials stated that they approve the current line of the Communist Party, USA, and feel that the American Party is now a functioning one. The Soviets stated that upon the completion of the draft program of the Communist Party, USA, which is presently being prepared, they want to obtain a copy since they may be able to give some help to the Communist Party, USA, with regard to this program.

The Honorable
The Secretary of State

With regard to "The Worker," east coast weekly communist newspaper, the Soviet officials stated that in August, 1958, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union will start getting 4,000 copies. They continued that "The Worker" is doing the best and most militant job of presenting the activities in the western world from the communist viewpoint in the English language. They also stated that copies of "The Worker" will be used in Russia to assist in the teaching of the reading and understanding of the English language.

In connection with American imperialism, Mao Tse-tung, leader of Red China, stated that it should not be overestimated but that it is necessary to pay attention to it. He continued that while it looks tough on the surface, it is not that powerful. He also stated that there "may be many Koreas" and that China intends to fight if the United States starts something. According to Mao, China has achieved a steel production which surpasses that of England but will not announce this for three years. Mao also stated that if American imperialists think that the son of Chiang Kai-shek can be trusted, they are wrong.

In discussing the Korean conflict, Mao stated that if General MacArthur had gone another mile, one-half of the Soviet Air Force and several Soviet divisions would have gone into action. He also stated that right now he thinks that American imperialism has been stymied.

In view of the extremely sensitive nature of the sources of our information, it is requested that the contents of this communication be afforded the most careful security and its use restricted to a need-to-know basis.

At 2:45 P.M. today (July 21, 1958), ASAC Norman McCabe, New York Office, telephonically advised that CG 5824-S had arrived in New York City shortly after 9:00 A.M. today. It is noted that this informant left the United States on April 24, 1958, to proceed to Moscow and Red China as a representative of the Communist Party (CP)-USA. BAUMGARDNER

According to McCabe, SA John A. Keating, Chicago contact agent of 5824 who is now in New York, has arranged to confer with 5824 tomorrow morning at 10:00 A.M. However, Keating has talked to 5824 today by phone and has learned that 5824 had a two-hour discussion in Peking with MAO Tse-tung, head of the CP of China. In addition, our informant met with the Secretariat of the CP, Soviet Union, but did not confer with Nikita Khrushchev, Premier of the Soviet Union. He had an appointment with Khrushchev but was delayed for two days in China because of weather, which resulted in his missing the appointment. Our informant also met with the head of the International Department, CP, Soviet Union, as well as the individual in charge of activities in both North and South America.

NY 694-S arrived in Toronto on the evening of 7/2/58 and immediately contacted TIM BUCK at the latter's home. ELIZABETH MASCOLO was in the house at the time, but was not present while the informant conferred with BUCK. The informant asked BUCK whether the latter had received any communication from the individuals identified with the case entitled "SOLO; IS-C," and BUCK stated that he had not. BUCK mentioned that he had not been in contact with the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa for the past two months, that he had been in Mexico for part of that period, and that if the Soviet Embassy was in receipt of any information regarding the individuals concerning whom NY 694-S inquired, BUCK had not been advised to that effect. (S)(U)

BUCK said there was no reason to worry about these individuals since it was premature to expect them to have completed their assignment at this time. He said, "They may be in China, and these things take a long time. Don't worry when you don't hear anything - worry when you hear too soon." According to NY 694-S, BUCK, by this remark, meant that to have heard "too soon" from the said individuals, would indicate that they had not been successful in making contact with persons they had hoped to meet. (S)(U)

BUCK stated that about a month ago, Canadian CP functionaries LESLIE MORRIS and BILL KASHTON, had gone to Moscow, whence they were to go to Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, and East Germany respectively, to attend the CP congresses in those countries. Thereafter, they were to attend the Stockholm Peace Conference. BUCK made a point of remarking that their going was not pursuant to an invitation to go, but rather pursuant to definite instructions from the Soviets to attend these functions. BUCK said that before leaving Canada, MORRIS and KASHTON had been instructed by him to try to make contact abroad with the individuals identified with the "SOLO; IS-C" case, and, if successful, to advise BUCK of such contact immediately. As yet, BUCK had heard nothing from MORRIS and KASHTON. He noted that they are scheduled to return to Canada on the 24th or 26th of July. (S)(U)

NY 694-S had a second meeting with BUCK on 7/3, when he briefed BUCK regarding the recent CPUSA Plenum in New York. BUCK (S)(U)

[NY 65-16441] (S)(U)

considered the information most important and took copious notes thereon. He said he was in complete agreement with the actions taken by the CPUSA leaders at the Plenum. He stated that the Canadian CP does not have the problem of a strong right wing and an ultra-left faction within the Party. The most pressing problem at the moment in the Canadian CP is the Jewish question. The Jews in the Party are still pressing for an explanation of Russia's mistreatment of Jews, and receiving none, they are continuing to defect from the Party. (S)(U)

BUCK and NY 694-S then discussed the IRVING POTASH case. The informant told BUCK that he had ROBERT "BOB" THOMPSON's permission to advise BUCK that, according to information given by POTASH to his attorney for transmittal to the CPUSA, POTASH either had left in Canada a sum of money intended for the CPUSA, or had arranged that a sum of money be sent to Canada for transfer to the CPUSA. (S)(U)

BUCK denied any knowledge of this money, but furnished the following information which he thought might have some bearing on the situation: (S)(U)

The "Polish apparatus" had handled POTASH's "itinerary," and had furnished him with all necessary "travel documents." Contemporaneously with POTASH's arrival in Canada, the Canadian CP lost contact with the Polish legation in Canada owing to the resignation from the Party of SAM LIPSHITZ, who was the Party's liaison with the Polish legation. LIPSHITZ had joined J. B. SALZBERG in the latter's attack on the Party regarding the Jewish Question. BUCK believed it possible that the Polish legation had the money in question, and said he would consider ways and means to ascertain the facts of the matter. (S)(U)

BUCK and the informant met again on 7/4/58, at which time BUCK said he intended to make a contact through whom he might obtain some information regarding the individuals identified with the "SOLO;IS-C" case, and regarding the POTASH money. He said that he expected, however, to be particularly busy for the next few days with Party business, handled ordinarily by LESLIE MORRIS and BILL KASHTON, and inquired whether NY 694-S would still be in Canada on 7/12/59, at which time he hoped to have some information for NY 694-S. (S)(U)

The informant told BUCK that he had come to Canada also on personal business, which would require his making some contacts in the Toronto area, and that since his arrival in Toronto, he had learned that JACK COWAN, [redacted] of Chicago, [redacted] of Buffalo, and "HY" LEWIS of Toronto were about to go on a fishing trip. NY 694-S told BUCK he would handle his personal business in Toronto, join the COWAN group on the fishing trip, and return to Toronto for a conference with BUCK on 7/12/58. BUCK was pleased with this arrangement, and said he felt certain he would have some information for NY 694-S on 7/12. (S)(U)

BUCK and the informant then discussed the China Trade Operation and the absence of activity so far in the said operation. BUCK remarked that NORMAN FREED and his partner, [redacted] who operate the Canadian part of the China Trade Operation, are "sitting on their hands, still waiting for their first order from China." (S)(U)

BUCK then stated that several months ago, he learned of the presence in Canada of a Chinese trade delegation, headed by CHAO TING CHI, at whose suggestion the China Trade Operation came into being. BUCK said he had conferred with CHAO TING CHI in China. On learning of CHI's being in Canada, BUCK wrote a carefully worded note to him, advising CHI of the China Trade Operation organization in Canada and of its ability to furnish him with fertilizer which CHI had indicated he needed. BUCK also requested an opportunity to confer with CHI. (S)(U)

BUCK gave the note to [redacted] (not otherwise identified) for delivery to CHI or to some member of the Chinese delegation, which, at that time, was in the Winnipeg area. [redacted] found it impossible to contact anyone in the Chinese delegation, so the note was not delivered. (S)(U)

A few weeks later, when the Chinese delegation was in the Montreal area, BUCK sent another note to CHI. This note was delivered to CHI, or to someone in the delegation. The messenger (not identified) received a two-word response to the note from someone - not CHI - in the delegation. The words were these: "Lay off!" (S)(U)

[NY 65-16441 (S)(u)]

BUCK attributed this response to one of two possibilities: Either the Chinese delegation had reason to believe that it was under close surveillance by the RCMP, or it was acting under instructions from the Chinese government to have no contact in Canada with the Canadian Party. (S)(u)

NY 694-S left Toronto on 7/5/58 and went with the fishing party to North Bay, Ontario, where the group fished in the French river. The only pertinent information obtained during the fishing party was the following: (S)(u)

According to JACK COWAN, when he was in London recently, he was surprised to be visited one day by a man who introduced himself as SOLOMON ADLER, "representing your New York friends". (SOLOMON ADLER is the London contact between CHAO TING CHI and the China Trade Operation group. NY 694-S advises that he had written a note to COWAN in London, informing the latter to expect a visit from ADLER, but that COWAN had not received the note.) ADLER mentioned to COWAN that he had been instructed by FRANK COE (head of the American group in the China Trade Operation) to contact COWAN. COWAN and ADLER discussed generally the subject of trade with China, but ADLER made no mention of CHAO TING CHI. COWAN explained to ADLER the Canadian-American China Trade Operation "set-up," with which ADLER apparently was not familiar. COWAN emphasized to ADLER that since the American-Canadian China Trade Operation groups were "ready, willing and able" to do business, it was ADLER's function "to produce the customer." (S)(u)

NY 694-S returned to Toronto on 7/11 and visited SAM CARR. CARR told him that CP functionary NORMAN FREED, whom the informant desired to contact, was in Montreal, and would be away for several days. CARR then discussed the Jewish Question, stating that the Canadian CP adheres strictly to the "Moscow line" regarding the Jewish Question. He mentioned that, at a recent provincial convention, a CP member made particularly anti-Semitic remarks which obviously were approved by the local leadership inasmuch as the remarks were printed - without any deletions - in the official Party publication. (S)(u)

CARR remarked that TIM BUCK's thinking on the Jewish Question is no different than it was before the 20th Russian (S)(u)

Congress. CARR predicted that there would be more defections among the Jewish CP members of the Canadian CP. (S)(U)

On the morning of July 12th, NY 694-S went to BUCK's home to confer with the latter, but was informed by ELIZABETH MASCOLO that BUCK had left Toronto quite unexpectedly on 7/11 and would not return until 7/14. She said BUCK suggested that it would be better that NY 694-S should not await his return. BUCK had told MASCOLO that if he should obtain the information NY 694-S desired, he would transmit the same to the informant in New York. In reply to a question from NY 694-S, MASCOLO said BUCK had gone to a meeting "somewhere in Ontario." In view of information later obtained from MASCOLO in New York (as appears hereinafter) that BUCK had gone to the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, NY 694-S believes that MASCOLO knew where BUCK had gone, but was under instructions not to disclose his destination to the informant. (S)(U)

According to NY 694-S, BUCK, MASCOLO, and the informant previously had discussed MASCOLO's desire to obtain a U.S. passport. BUCK and MASCOLO had said that MASCOLO always had had a passport, and thought that in view of recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions, the time was opportune for her to obtain a passport now. BUCK and MASCOLO indicated generally that if she could obtain a passport, MASCOLO would travel, but no specific travel plans were mentioned. BUCK and MASCOLO requested that NY 694-S obtain the opinion of ISIDORE "GIBBY" NEEDLEMAN regarding the advisability of MASCOLO's going to New York to apply for a passport. (S)(U)

Before leaving MASCOLO, NY 694-S told her he would return immediately to New York and would confer with NEEDLEMAN on Monday, 7/14/58, regarding the passport matter. (S)(U)

On 7/14/58, the informant discussed the proposed passport application of MASCOLO with NEEDLEMAN, who suggested that NY 694-S telephonically contact MASCOLO in Toronto and tell her to come to NEEDLEMAN's office on Tuesday, 7/15/58, with the informant. NY 694-S contacted MASCOLO, who told him she already had train reservations to New York and that she would meet the informant at 10:30 a. m. on 7/15 at NEEDLEMAN's office. (S)(U)

~~SECRET~~

At NEEDLEMAN's office on 7/15/58, the passport application was discussed, NEEDLEMAN stating that by reason of the recent Supreme Court decisions, MASCOLO should have no difficulty in obtaining a passport. He advised her to fill out the passport application "legally," pointing out that it would not be necessary for her to answer questions relative to her CP status. MASCOLO and NY 694-S then left NEEDLEMAN's office (S)(u)

Outside NEEDLEMAN's office, MASCOLO told NY 694-S she had "something for him." Subsequently, on the street she handed the informant a letter from one of the individuals identified with the "SOLO;IS-C" case. (The Bureau and Chicago were advised of this matter by New York airtel dated 7/15/58, captioned "CPUSA-INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS; IS-C." (S)(u)

NY 694-C told MASCOLO that he had been in direct contact on the previous day with the author of the letter, who had indicated that he had sent the letter in question about a month ago. (This matter was reported to the Bureau and Chicago by New York teletype dated 7/14/58, and captioned "SOLO;IS-C") (S)(u)

MASCOLO told NY 694-S that TIM BUCK had been at the Soviet Embassy during the past weekend, where he had been given the letter, and a sum of money for the CPUSA. The informant and MASCOLO then went to a bank where MASCOLO gave NY 694-S two packages of money - $4,000 in USA $10.00 bills. From MASCOLO's remarks, the informant inferred that the author of the letter had been instrumental in obtaining this money for the CPUSA (S)(u)

MASCOLO then said, "I am going to tell you something in strict confidence. If TIM knew what I am going to tell you, he would be very angry. It looks as if I'll have to make more special trips to New York because there is more money waiting in Ottawa for the CPUSA. TIM thought it inadvisable to bring more than $4,000 because the money is so bulky. The Russians questioned TIM at length concerning the security of the channels for transporting the money from Ottawa to the CPUSA. He assured them that he would be responsible personally - that perfectly safe channels would be used." (S)(u)

NY 694-S told MASCOLO not to be concerned about her having to make too many trips to New York with the money. The (S)(u)

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. informant said he would relieve her of some responsibility in the matter by making some of the trips for her; that if she desired, he would make alternate trips. MASCOLO and NY 694-S then parted, MASCOLO presumably going to file an application for a passport. She said she was staying at the home of her sister, KOHANA WILES, at 9 East 17th Street, New York City, and that she would return to Toronto via train on Thursday, 7/17/58. (S)(U)

On 7/16/58, NY 694-S met EUGENE DENNIS and drove the latter in the informant's car about New York City for several hours while they talked. The informant gave DENNIS the letter from the individual identified with the "SOLO;IS-C" case. DENNIS read the letter without comment. NY 694-S then told DENNIS that $4,000 had been sent to the CPUSA from "Canada," and that more was available there. DENNIS smiled broadly upon hearing this. The informant advised that he purposely avoided mentioning the Soviet Embassy in connection with the money because it is understood that DENNIS does not want to know such details. The informant told DENNIS that TIM BUCK was handling the matter. (S)(U)

The informant told DENNIS that as a security measure, he had changed the $4,000 from Canada into other currency. DENNIS expressed his approval, and requested that NY 694-S retain the money until DENNIS should ask for it. He emphasized that the informant should not disclose to anyone else that he has this money and that the money not be mingled with the CPUSA Reserve Fund. (S)(U)

NY 694-S then told DENNIS about his contact with the individual identified with the "SOLO;IS-C" case. DENNIS was visibly excited, said that was wonderful news, and that no one else was to know about this matter. He emphasized that neither ROBERT "BOB" THOMPSON nor JAMES JACKSON should be told anything about this matter at this time. He said he desired to be the first to talk to the aforementioned individual, and that thereafter he would acquaint THOMPSON and JACKSON with the facts. (S)(U)

DENNIS instructed NY 694-S to inform him immediately of the presence in New York of the individual identified with the "SOLO; IS - C" case. DENNIS said that he would keep JEAN SMITH, secretary at CP headquarters, advised of his daily (S)(U) whereabouts and that through her, NY 694-S should have no difficulty in locating DENNIS. (S)(u)

DENNIS then mentioned the IRVING POTASH case, stating it was the first opportunity he had to discuss the matter. He said he was very pleased that NY 694-S had handled "such a dangerous situation" so well. POTASH, he said, had made many serious mistakes. After POTASH is released from prison on 8/26/58, DENNIS will talk to him for a few weeks regarding political problems. After that, he intends "to lace it into POTASH" for the many "stupid things" the latter has done, particularly his method of coming back without notifying the Party. (S)(u)

DENNIS said it had been a serious mistake for POTASH to have talked so much to his attorney, MARY KAUFMAN. DENNIS believed POTASH had done so as a result of panic. He should have taken his punishment silently. He should not have mentioned his clothes to KAUFMAN. (S)(u)

At this point, NY 694-S interjected the comment, "I have news for you - he not only mentioned the clothes, but also his diaries." The informant then proceeded to describe the said diaries. Upon hearing this, DENNIS, according to NY 694-S, "almost dropped dead." He was furious, and said, "A diary should be kept in your head - not in a book!" (S)(u)

The informant then mentioned the fact that upon being arrested, POTASH had in his pocket the telephone number of NY 694-S' wife. DENNIS said he was hearing about this for the first time and again expressed his anger at POTASH. (S)(u)

NY 694-S then explained the seriousness of the situation after the arrest of POTASH - the fact that in the hotel room in Bronxville, there were documents of the greatest value to the CP, which, if they had fallen into the hands of the FBI, would have been "explosive." The informant explained the dilemma confronting him when he had to choose between destroying the documents and risking being apprehended with them on his person. DENNIS again commended NY 694-S for his good judgment and excellent handling of a bad situation. (S)(u)

allegedly left in Canada by POTASH, and the fact that MARY KAUFMAN was aware of this matter also. DENNIS said KAUFMAN should not have been told about this, and that at some future date, he would discuss this matter again with the informant. The informant told DENNIS that TIM BUCK currently is investigating the allegation. (S)(u)

DENNIS then discussed the Jewish Question, which, he said, is international in nature in that the Jewish anti-Party people maintain liaison with similar groups in Canada, France, England, Argentina, and Israel. DENNIS said he anticipates serious trouble here regarding the Jewish Question. He said that the CPUSA plans to send to Canada for discussions with the Canadian CP concerning the Jewish Question, V. J. JEROME, a member of the CPUSA, Jewish Sub-Committee. (S)(u)

NY 694-S told DENNIS that JEROME should talk first to TIM BUCK because many of the Canadian CP Jewish functionaries are not to be trusted. The informant suggested that DENNIS advise him in advance regarding JEROME's trip to Toronto so that the informant could arrange that TIM BUCK be there on JEROME's arrival. DENNIS thought this suggestion was good. The informant further suggested that JEROME's trip be postponed until DENNIS should have an opportunity to talk to the individual identified with the "SOLO; IS - C" case, who might furnish information from authoritative sources which could be subject of discussion by JEROME and the Canadian CP. DENNIS thought well of this suggestion also. (S)(u)

DENNIS' final comments to NY 694-S concerned the embezzlement of CP funds. Referring indirectly to GEORGE FLAKE CHARNEY, "BILL" NORMAN (WILLIAM MARRON) and CHARLES LOMAN, and possibly "BILL" LAWRENCE (WILLIAM LAZAR), DENNIS said these individuals not only embezzled CP funds, but had bought businesses from one another, reselling the business to one another at ridiculously low prices. Also, he said, before leaving the Party, they gave themselves "fantastic severance pay." He said that the Party had been victimized from both sides - the Right Wing and the Ultra-Left." He mentioned that SAM KANTER, of Brooklyn, had spent $6,000 in moving his furniture to the West Coast. (S)(u)

~~SECRET~~

According to DENNIS, the amount of money lost by the Party as a result of "business manipulations and severance pay" equals that lost by embezzlements. He said that "some guy" received $20,000 in severance pay. DENNIS said that in the future, no individual should be allowed to control large sums of money - that such money should be controlled by "a group of trustees." ~~(S)~~(U)

DENNIS left NY 694-S, remarking that his conference with the latter had been "very fruitful." ~~(S)~~(U)

Reurtel 7-14-58 to Bureau and Chicago.

With the return of CG 5824-S* to this country in the near future, it is expected that a considerable amount of valuable information will be obtained from him. It must be constantly borne in mind, however, that the security of our informant is of paramount importance. It is entirely possible that informant will be expected to make a prompt and lengthy report to Eugene Dennis regarding his trip. While we, of course, are extremely desirous of obtaining full and complete details as promptly as possible, extreme care must be utilized to insure that any contact with him will in no way jeopardize his informant status.

While his immediate plans upon return to this country are unknown, we should consider the possibility of his remaining in New York City for a period of time to make his report to Dennis. If such be the case, informant may request presence in New York City of his Chicago Office contact, SA J. E. Keating, as he has on occasion in the past for the purpose of any contacts with him by Bureau representatives. SA Keating should be available if at all possible to proceed to New York City in the event such action appears desirable.

Due to the very nature of this trip and the extent of its duration, it is obvious that the informant will be furnishing us with voluminous information pertaining to many diverse matters. In order to facilitate the handling and analysis of the information received from the informant, it is desired that careful consideration be given to this matter prior to your interviews with him. In this regard, when interviewing him and furnishing the Bureau the data obtained, you should attempt to exhaust each individual subject matter before proceeding to the next. If you

I also told Mr. Belmont that I wanted to have very prompt dissemination of the information which we have received from our highly confidential source in New York relative to certain contacts and connections with the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and that this dissemination should be, of course, limited to the Attorney General, the Secretary of State, the White House, and the Vice President, and should be so paraphrased as to in no way compromise the original source. I also stated that irrespective of who might seek to ascertain the identity of the original source, it was not to be disclosed, as this source was entirely too important to the effective operations of this Bureau and the meeting of our responsibilities in the internal security field to have the identity disclosed.

With regard to my letter of July 24, 1958, relative to recent discussions between leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA, I thought you would be interested in the following additional information which was obtained from sources who have furnished reliable data in the past.

The Soviet leaders stated that they have no doubt that communism will be ultimately victorious but that United States imperialism is standing in the way. They further stated they do not want to overestimate United States imperialism since they felt it is not as strong as it appears and they have no doubt that Russia will surpass the United States industrially and agriculturally. They continued that they feel the United States is decaying economically but they wish they had the answer as to whether the United States will pursue a peaceful or an aggressive solution to its economic problems since armaments are a part of American economy.

These officials continued that the Soviets are trying to reach the American people with the idea that they want peace and that Americans can get jobs through increased trade. They continued, however, that if there are any illusions that Russia wants peaceful coexistence because it is weak, these should be forgotten and that the launching of Sputnik III was to remind the United States that Russia has missiles and armaments.

The Soviet leaders feel that Tito has to be isolated and destroyed to prevent him from opening up a gate through which imperialism might break into the socialist camp. They stated that Tito has sold out to American imperialism, thus opening up the "under belly" of the socialist states and they believe that he has reached some agreement with the United States.

These officials stated that Russia wants to unite all of the socialist countries into one camp and to mesh their economies, so that no socialist countries will be wasting energy and will be less dependent on the western world. Thus, while Czechoslovakia might place emphasis on the production of machinery, other socialist countries will provide Czechoslovakia with the necessary food.

One of the Soviet officials stated that Mikhail Suslov was "very sick" and that his role in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union is now being played by Peter Pospelov, a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. It may be significant to note that Suslov who was formerly regarded as a likely successor to Khrushchev has been the subject of recent news reports containing speculation that he has fallen from favor.

Concerning the Communist Party, USA, the Soviet officials stated that they approve the current line of the Communist Party, USA, and feel that the American Party is now a functioning one. The Soviets stated that upon the completion of the draft program of the Communist Party, USA, which is presently being prepared, they want to obtain a copy since they may be able to give some help to the Communist Party, USA, with regard to this program.

With regard to "The Worker," east coast weekly communist newspaper, the Soviet officials stated that in August, 1958, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union will start getting 4,000 copies. They continued that "The Worker" is doing the best and most militant job of presenting the activities in the western world from the communist viewpoint in the English language. They also stated that copies of "The Worker" will be used in Russia to assist in the teaching of the reading and understanding of the English language.

In connection with American imperialism, Mao Tse-tung, leader of Red China, stated that it should not be overestimated but that it is necessary to pay attention to it. He continued that while it looks tough on the surface, it is not that powerful. He also stated that there "may be many Koreas" and that China intends to fight if the United States starts something. According to Mao, China has achieved a steel production which surpasses that of England but will not announce this for three years. Mao also stated that if American imperialists think that the son of Chiang Kai-shek can be trusted, they are wrong.

In discussing the Korean conflict, Mao stated that if General MacArthur had gone another mile, one-half of the Soviet Air Force and several Soviet divisions would have gone into action. He also stated that right now he thinks that American imperialism has been stymied.

In view of the extremely sensitive nature of the sources of our information, it is requested that the contents of this communication be afforded the most careful security and its use restricted to a need-to-know basis.

The foregoing is also being furnished to the Honorable Richard M. Nixon, The Vice President; the Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President; and the Honorable John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State.

NOTE ON YELLOW:

With regard to my communications of July 24, 25 and 31, 1958, I thought you would be interested in the following additional information relative to recent discussions between leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA. This information was received from sources which have furnished reliable data in the past.

The Soviet officials stated that Argentina is becoming more important than Mexico as a center for communist activities in Central and South America since both the Communist Party, USA, and the Communist Party of Cuba have indicated that they feel the leadership of the Communist Party of Mexico cannot be trusted. They further stated that Argentina is a good place to make travel arrangements to Russia. They continued that while Mexico is being used by certain semilegal and illegal communist parties in the Western Hemisphere, Argentina is being used to a greater extent in this regard.

In connection with his discussions with the Soviet officials, the representative of the Communist Party, USA, had occasion to travel through various parts of Russia and visited several cities including Leningrad, Stalingrad and Kiev. Following are his observations as obtained from our above-mentioned sources.

Many Soviet commercial jet airplanes were observed not only in the airports but in actual flight between cities. Most airports and factories in the outlying districts of Russia are ringed with Mig airplanes and hard clay runways are used for many of the fighter-type planes.

In Leningrad during the night of either June 8 or June 9, 1958, tanks and military vehicles with antiaircraft equipment, missiles and rockets were observed in movement for at least three or four hours.

Since he was always accompanied by someone from the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, it was impossible for the American representative to obtain the real feelings of the people with whom he talked on the farms and in the factories. Those persons with whom he did have conversation stated that the decentralization of both industry and agriculture has decreased red tape and increased production. Most of the Russian people are desirous of peace which may be attributed to the knowledge of the destructiveness of modern weapons as well as the fact that most Russians had casualties among close relatives during World War II and saw the devastation of many of their cities. Russian leaders in cities outside of Moscow stated they wanted to emphasize that communist parties in other countries have to talk about the strength of the socialist camp and the fact that all participants would suffer in the case of a universal war.

The American representative was taken to a shipbuilding yard in Leningrad and was shown the first atomic icebreaker called "The Lenin" which is due to be launched in the near future.

Many Soviet commercial jet airplanes were observed not only in the airports but in actual flight between cities. Most airports and factories in the outlying districts of Russia are ringed with Mig airplanes and hard clay runways are used for many of the fighter-type planes. $ (u)

In Leningrad during the night of either June 8 or June 9, 1958, tanks and military vehicles with anti-aircraft equipment, missiles and rockets were observed in movement for at least three or four hours. $ (u)

Since he was always accompanied by someone from the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, it was impossible for the American representative to obtain the real feelings of the people with whom he talked on the farms and in the factories. Those persons with whom he did have conversation stated that the decentralization of both industry and agriculture has decreased red tape and increased production. Most of the Russian people are desirous of peace which may be attributed to the knowledge of the destructiveness of modern weapons as well as the fact that most Russians had casualties among close relatives during World War II and saw the devastation of many of their cities. Russian leaders in cities outside of Moscow stated they wanted to emphasize that communist parties in other countries have to talk about the strength of the socialist camp and the fact that all participants would suffer in the case of a universal war. $ (u)

The American representative was taken to a shipbuilding yard in Leningrad and was shown the first atomic icebreaker called "The Lenin" which is due to be launched in the near future. $ (u)

The subway in Leningrad is being expanded and is even deeper than the one in Moscow which was deep enough to act as a shelter during World War II. $ (u)

TOO CONCERNED ABOUT THE SIZE OF THE CP, USA, AS LONG AS THE CP, USA, ACCEPTS MARXISM LENINISM AND IS ONE HUNDRED PER CENT LOYAL TO THE SOVIET UNION. IF THESE CONDITIONS EXIST, THIS IS WHAT THE CPSU WANTS AND WILL DO EVERYTHING POSSIBLE TO GIVE SUCH A PARTY ALL NECESSARY SUPPORT. DESPITE THE SIZE OF THE CP, USA, THE CPSU IS COUNTING HEAVILY UPON IT AND WANTS TO BUILD IT. THE ESSENCE OF THESE REMARKS WERE REPEATED AT ALL CONFERENCES WITH THE LEADERS OF THE CPSU. CG 5824-S* ALSO LEARNED BOTH IN RUSSIA AND FROM MAO TSE TUNG THAT MAO, WHO IS BOTH THE CHAIRMAN OF THE CP OF CHINE AND THE CHAIRMAN OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CHINA, HAS REQUESTED TO BE RELIEVED OF HIS POSITION AS CHAIRMAN OF THE GOVERNMENT, WHILE RETAINING HIS POSITION AS CHAIRMAN OF THE PARTY. MAO HOPES THAT HE CAN BE RELIEVED AS CHAIRMAN OF THE GOVERNMENT NO LATER THAN 1960, SO THAT HE CAN SPEND HIS TIME IN DEALING WITH COMMUNIST THEORY AND IN WRITING ABOUT COMMUNIST THEORY AND PHILOSOPHY. INFORMANT WAS TOLD THAT THIS INFORMATION SHOULD BE CONVEYED TO ONE OR TWO LEADING MEMBERS OF THE CP, USA, SO THAT WHEN THE ANNOUNCEMENT OF THIS IS MADE THEY WILL KNOW THAT ANY DISTORTIONS BY THE CAPITALIST PRESS AS TO THE ACTUAL REASON FOR HIS RELINQUISHING OF THE CHAIRMANSHIP OF THE GOVERNMENT WILL BE RECOGNIZED AS LIES. INFORMANT STATED NO ONE WAS MENTIONED AS A POSSIBLE SUCCESSOR TO MAO AS CHAIRMAN OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CHINA. INTERVIEWS WITH CG 5824-S* WILL CONTINUE ON JULY 29, NEXT. THE ABOVE REPRESENTS ONLY HIGHLIGHTS OF THE INTERVIEW OF JULY 28, INSTANT. DETAILS WILL BE SUBMITTED AS SOON AS POSSIBLE. IT SHOULD BE NOTED THAT IT IS EXTREMELY DIFFICULT FOR THE INFORMANT TO CONVEY THE INFORMATION IN A LOGICAL FASHION BECAUSE HE WAS UNABLE TO TAKE ANY NOTES OUT OF RUSSIA.

SAC Auerbach called on July 28, 1958, and advised that CG 5824-S and NY 694-S are due to go up to Canada to talk to Tim Buck prior to the first of August and probably will leave Wednesday or Thursday for Canada. From there CG 5824-S will go to Detroit to see Carl Winter and Helen Winter regarding reserve funds of the Party, NY 694-S will go back to New York. From Detroit CG 5824-S is scheduled to go up to Maine where Eugene Dennis will be on vacation for the purpose of going into further details of his trip abroad and plans of the Communist Party in connection therewith.

I told Mr. Auerbach that it was imperative that we spend enough time with the informant prior to his trip to Canada to get all of the necessary information regarding his trip and that it be furnished to the Bureau. I told Auerbach we do not want to be in the position where this man has gathered information of value to the Bureau and we delay in getting it; that despite the fact that the informant is very busy since his return from abroad, it is essential we get this information as rapidly as possible. Auerbach said that SA Keating is spending as much time with the informant as possible and will send the information into the Bureau as soon as it is secured from the informant.

CG 5824-S* was interviewed for approximately five hours on 7/30/58. Informant furnished voluminous details concerning his tour of various cities in Russia, including Kiev, Leningrad, and Stalingrad. Informant visited collective farms, steel plants, plants which manufacture tractors, power dams, plants which produce electronic equipment, museums, palaces of culture, etc. Since it is not felt that this information is of a type which requires immediate dissemination, details will be submitted in a subsequent communication as soon as possible.

CG 5824-S* also furnished details concerning the location of a resort reserved for persons who are in Russia as guests of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCPSU), and whose identities must be protected. This resort is located in Sochi and is known as "Leninka". Further details concerning this resort area have been furnished by CG 5824-S*.

Chinese in regard to the protection of the identities of persons who are in either Russia or China as guests of the CCCPSU and who might possibly be subject to prosecution in their native lands.

In regard to his tour of Russia, which lasted approximately four weeks, CG 5824-S* commented that except for "Pravda", he was out of touch with the outside world while on this tour. Until he got to Sochi, where a short-wave radio was available, the only knowledge he had of events in the Western world came from his reading of "Pravda" or other Russian publications. In Sochi, the informant was finally able to get two radio stations of the BBC, but was never able to obtain any American broadcast, despite the fact that a very powerful short-wave radio was available to him in Sochi.

Except for information which the informant may have temporarily forgotten and because of the fact that he is operating without any notes, most of the information concerning the activities in Russia of CG 5824-S* have been conveyed to the Chicago Office. The informant has been specifically questioned whether or not he had any information which might have some bearing on the policies of the United States Government, and he has stated that it is his belief that he has furnished all information obtained in Russia which might be of immediate interest to the United States Government.

CG 5824-S* on 7/30/58 discussed his trip from Russia to China and his reception in China. He furnished details concerning his residence in China and advised that he met with the following people in China:

during the week of 7/20/58. Since the leadership of the CP-USA knows that he has returned to the United States and since he has returned to his residence, and because Chicago is his base of operations in the CP-USA, CG 5824-S* felt that for security reasons and future operations within the CP-USA, he could not prolong indefinitely notification to CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT and other leaders of the CP of Illinois that he has returned to Chicago. Since these leaders will expect him to confer with them, the amount of time he may be able to spend with the contacting Agent may be somewhat reduced in the immediate future; however, efforts will be made to continue interviews with him on 7/31/58. It is also to be noted that CG 5824-S* may receive instructions at any time to proceed to Canada for conferences with TIM BUCK. At 2:40 p.m. on 8/6/58, I talked to ASAC Schmit in Chicago. I advised him, in confidence, that we are preparing material for the use of the Director in possibly briefing the Cabinet. Included in this material will be information regarding the Solo operation on a ~~Top Secret~~ basis. I told Schmit it is imperative, therefore, that all of the information furnished by 5824-S be submitted to the Bureau promptly. Schmit said that a 20-page letter had been mailed to the Bureau yesterday (8/5), containing the first installment of details given by 5824-S and that Agent Keating is dictating the remainder as rapidly as he can from the results of his interviews with 5824-S; that as fast as this can be put down on paper, it will be sent in to the Bureau. Schmit advised that 5824-S was not able to make notes; consequently, it has been a painstaking job to get the information and arrange it in proper order.

I also advised Schmit that we would like to have information so we could prepare a chart showing the complete itinerary of the informant, including dates, mode of travel between the various localities, identities of important individuals contacted at each place, and any other pertinent data of this type.

In addition, I told Schmit we would like to have information, for chart purposes, portraying the exact manner in which Soviet funds are to be furnished to the CP, USA, and that the results of the informant's contact with Tim Buck should be secured promptly to complete this picture.

I asked Mr. Schmit to submit the information for the charts and the information from 5824-S immediately, so that we could have time to work it into the brief. I told him that the identity of the informant would, of course, not be revealed and that the briefing would be on a Top Secret basis.

Schmit said that he grasped the potential of such a presentation and, if Chicago has any additional thoughts on the matter, they will advise the Bureau for our assistance. He said he would give this special attention.

It should be noted that the information in these letters concerned recent discussions by the leaders of the Soviet Union, Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, U.S.A. (CPUSA). It should also be noted that the material was furnished by a most valuable informant CG 5284-S. It should be further noted that in making his request, [redacted] used the singular whereas in our letters we used the plural in order to afford further protection to the informant, i.e. sources.

According to [redacted] the people in Secretary Dulles' office are extremely interested in the material contained in the two letters and have commented that a lot of the material confirmed what they already believed to be the communist line. They were also most interested to note new information concerning financial support by the Soviets to the CPUSA. [redacted] added that Dulles' office expressed a thought that this material may be from a source being used against us and possibly is planted material. Another thought expressed by the people in Dulles' office is that if the source is live and as close to these top officials as is indicated in the above two letters, the source would be of great value to the United States in passing material, that is planted material, back the other way. In any event, according to [redacted] Dulles' office considers it of the greatest importance to have more information concerning the source to assist in assessing and evaluating the information and in planning future U. S. moves on the basis of it. [redacted] said that if the Bureau could not see its way clear to identifying the source, State would still be very appreciative of any information which the Bureau could reveal as to the circumstances of the obtaining of the information; as to the evaluation of the source that is, if live and so forth; and such details as the Bureau could divulge might be passed on an off-the-record, strictly confidential basis, by some high official of the Bureau, possibly even the Director, to a high official in State, for example, Mr. Herter or Mr. O'Connor.

Memorandum Mr. Roach to Mr. Belmont

ACTION:

State is being furnished absolutely nothing which would indicate the identity of this source. We are advising State that we note their comments and request were based on the two letters of July 24 and 25, 1958; that we have two more letters going over to State; that in these latter two letters more information is being set forth including the maximum information concerning these sources which we can divulge. We are also advising State that these sources have furnished highly reliable information in the past and there has been no indication that the sources have furnished inaccurate information. We are also pointing out to State that these sources are not likely means at this time of passing material back to the Soviets.

My memorandum of 8-1-58 reflected that on that day we had received a request from State to be furnished the identity of the source (singular) of information we furnished to Secretary Dulles in top secret letters of 7-24 and 25-58 concerning recent discussions among leaders of the Soviet Union, Red China, and a representative of the Communist Party, USA. In making this request, State advised that the office of Secretary Dulles is extremely interested in this material; said that it confirmed much of what they already believed to be the communist line; but wondered if it might be planted; and indicated that the source might be of great value in passing planted material back to the Soviets. State requested, in the event we could not make the identity of the source known, any information as to the circumstances of obtaining the information, evaluation of the source, etc., as it considered it to be of the greatest importance to assist in assessing and evaluating the information and planning future United States moves on the basis of the material developed by the source.

On 8-1-58, Liaison advised [redacted] of State that we noted their comments and request were based on the letters of 7-24 and 25-58; that we have two more letters going over to State; that these latter letters contain more information from the sources, including the maximum information concerning these sources which we can divulge. [redacted] was also advised that these sources have furnished highly reliable information in the past; there has been no indication that the sources have furnished inaccurate information; and that these sources are not likely means at this time of passing material back to the Soviets. It should be noted that although our letters speak of sources (plural), State has used the singular. Actually, the source is a most valuable informant, CG 5284-S, and we have used the plural as an additional means of protection to the informant. We have furnished absolutely nothing which would indicate to State the identity of this source.

[redacted] said that he was most grateful for the prompt reply to his request inasmuch as Mr. Dulles' office is tremendously interested in the material we have been furnishing. He said that he had been instructed by Mr. Dulles' office to convey through the liaison representative, orally, the appreciation of Mr. Dulles for the information furnished in the letters thus far received. He added that Secretary Dulles will be sending a letter so expressing his appreciation in the near future.

UTMOST CARE MUST BE UTILIZED IN HANDLING THE FOLLOWING INFO IN ORDER TO PROTECT THE IDENTITY OF THE INFORMANTS.

The following is additional info obtained from CG 5824-S* and [redacted] on 7/22/58 in regard to the SOLO operation. In this first interview with the informants an effort was made to merely obtain what the informants considered the highlights of this operation. In future interviews and as time permits, each phase of the operation will be gone into in more detail.

has just become the head of the North and South American section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. He works under B. N. PONOMAREV, who is the head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU and a member of the Central Committee of the CPSU. The International Department is broken up by continents and countries. Canada is considered chiefly as a part of the North and South American section but at times is considered a part of the British section. NICOLAI is about 40 to 42 years of age, 5 ft. 10 inches, slim build, and wears glasses.

The two informants were taken to a chauffeur-driven automobile by NICOLAI. This auto was the one they used about 90% of the time they were in Moscow. It is a Central Committee automobile with license MU 22-98. A cardboard duplicate of this number is sometimes placed in the windshield to further indicate that it is an automobile of the Central Committee of the CPSU. Informants also rode in Central Committee cars with license numbers MU 22-64 and MU 22-06.

The informants were taken to a nine-story apartment building which has only a rear entrance. While the official address for this apartment building is 8 Gorki Street, it is actually on Sovietskaya (phonetic) Square and is ^{near} ~~really~~ the Moscow Soviet, a red building. The apartment building has two elevators, and it is necessary for a guard to open either elevator with a key. Informants believe that this apartment building is used by the CC CPSU to house individuals similar to the informants whose identity cannot be disclosed while they are in Moscow. The informants were taken to apartment No. 16 on the sixth floor. The apartment has seven rooms, including three bedrooms and a library. The library has current publications in several languages, including French, German, and English. The apartment has a television set and a short wave radio, however, the informants were never able to get any station outside of the Iron Curtain. A housekeeper stayed with the informants at all times. A cook would come each day, and every delicacy imaginable was made available to the informants. They were told that anything they desired would be provided for them; however, for their security they were not given any Russian money so that they would not go out on the streets and into the shops and be accidentally observed.

1917 On 4/30/58 ALEXAI ANDREOVICH GRECHENCO (all spellings phonetic and the last name is the word for buckwheat) appeared at the informants' apartment. He is about 35 to 40 years of age and is very similar in appearance to JOHN WILLIAMSON. He works in the North and South American section of the International Department of the CC CPSU under NICOLAI. ALEXAI met each day with the informants for three or four days. At the end of this time he left Moscow for the United States as part of the Russian "student editors delegation." See below*

Also on 4/30/58, NICOLAI appeared at the informants' apartment, and both stated how happy they were to see the informants. They stated that the CPSU leadership thanks the CP, USA for finally finding ways of making direct contact.

B. APPROX 1905
 On the evening of 4/30/58 ALEXAI and NICOLAI were joined in the informants' apartment by V. P. TERESHKIN, who is the Chief Deputy of PONOMAREV. The informants were officially welcomed by all three at a semi-formal dinner in the apartment. TERESHKIN is about 50 years of age, 5 ft., 5 inches in height, heavy build, and has a jolly personality. He speaks no English; however, NICOLAI and ALEXAI both speak and understand some English. All three stressed the importance of the American Communist Party. They stated that the Soviet Party is glad that the American Party was able to defeat the revisionists. In fact, this is the best news they have had in a long time. All present participated in toasts to proletarian internationalism, the health of the leadership of the CPSU, and the leadership of the CP, USA, and to the day the United States will arrive at Communism at the same time Russia does. In explaining this last toast, TERESHKIN stated that because of the industrial development in the US, once the Communists get rid of the bourgeoisie, then the US Communism can catch up with Russia, which is now in the first stages of Communism. CG 5824-S* explained that this was a paraphrasing of statements by KHRUSHCHEV that the grandchildren of adults in the United States will see Communism in the US.

* GRECHUKHIN was member of Soviet Student Editor Delegation which was in U.S. 5/17/58 to 6/16/58.

MAY DAY IN MOSCOW

On May 1, 1958, ALEXAI was accompanied by SEMA ~~KUZNETSOV~~ (last name means Smith) when he appeared at the informants' apartment. She is single, about 38 years of age, speaks English, and works with NICOLAI and ALEXAI. She was subsequently a frequent visitor in the informants' apartment.

M.T.
APPROX. 192

The informants had asked on April 30 for tickets to the May Day Parade. ALEXAI brought them two tickets, but when the informants stated that they had decided, for security reasons, not to attend the parade, ALEXAI and SEMA said they were happy with this most correct decision and that actually they could see the parade better on television.

The informants advised that the main slogans displayed at the parade dealt with peace and peace for the world. Other slogans urged the carrying out of decisions of the Central Committee to surpass the United States in production. Another slogan was "LONG LIVE THE GLORIOUS PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION." Another slogan was "LONG LIVE THE PARTY WHICH IS LEADING US TO COMMUNISM, THE DAWN OF HUMANITY." All slogans dealt with the supporting of the leadership and the issue of peace. There were none of the usual slogans of an anti-imperialist nature and calling for the end of imperialism.

CG 5824-S* stated that there was no photograph of STALIN in the parade, and that almost all photographs, statues, etc., of STALIN have been removed from Russia. Except for photographs of MARX and LENIN, other photographs were of the entire Presidium instead of a single photograph of NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV. Thus, according to the informant, the cult of the individual has been destroyed.

While there was some motorized military equipment and missiles in the parade, the military was not emphasized, and aircraft did not participate in the parade. The emphasis was on peaceful pursuits and "peaceful co-existence."

REQUESTS MADE OF THE INFORMANTS

On May 2, 1958, ALEXAI "suggested" to CG 5824-S* that he must have a number of questions to raise with the Central Committee of the CPSU as a representative of the CP, USA. The informant was asked to formulate in writing those questions the American Communist Party wanted to raise with the Secretariat or Presidium or Central Committee of the CPSU. Also, both CG 5824-S* and [] were asked to immediately prepare written biographies.

OTHER INDIVIDUALS WITH WHOM CG 5824-S* HAD CONTACT IN RUSSIA

Both informants advised that after ALEXAI left Moscow for the United States he was replaced as their daily contact by YURI SERGEVITCH IVANOV (spellings phonetic). He is about 28 years of age, and is a translator and security officer in the International Department. He speaks perfect English with a British accent. He carries the card or credentials of the Central Committee, which opens all doors at all times. He has lived in New Zealand and after World War II passed through the US on his way from China to Russia. He is a graduate of the Academy of Languages. His father was a military officer in the Russian Army and was killed in World War II. His mother perfected methods of teaching deaf and dumb children. His wife is studying English, which is considered the number one language in Russia after Russian.

b7cMEMBERS OF THE PRESIDIUM AND SECRETARIAT

CG 5824-S* met officially with B. N. PONOMAREV three times. He also met with ROMANOVSKY (phonetic), who is the head of the Young Communist League. He also met with OTTO KUUSINEN, member of the Presidium. He also met with PETER POSPELOV, described as one of the secretaries of the Central Committee and a member of the Presidium. He also met with M. B. ~~MITIN~~, head of the Marx-Engels Institute.

T U S S . 2

CG 5824-S* asked for a meeting with MIKHAIL SUSLOV and was told by NICOLAI that SUSLOV was "very sick." CG 5824-S* advised that POSPELOV is now playing the role in the CPSU that SUSLOV played. While the informant had an appointment with NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, a delay in the plane trip from Peking to Moscow because of weather conditions prevented the informant from keeping this appointment, and KHRUSHCHEV left for Eastern Germany.

While full details of these meetings with leading members of the CPSU could not be obtained in one interview with CG 5824-S*, the informant advised that he was thanked for information on the CP, USA and the economic situation in the US which he prepared for the Central Committee. All of the leaders of the CPSU were very much interested in the American situation. They were chiefly interested in stabilizing a leadership in the CP, USA which is loyal to them. KUUSINEN told CG 5824-S* to convey to the CP, USA that the CPSU is grateful that the CP,USA got rid of revisionists such as JOHN GATES, HOWARD FAST, and others.

KUUSINEN, POSPELOV, MITIN, and PONOMAREV stated that they had a great interest in the formulation of a correct Marxist-Leninist program by the CP,USA. They are also most interested in what will be the basic program of the CP,USA.

It was in meetings with these leaders of the CPSU that CG 5824-S* was told that when KHRUSHCHEV made his speech at the 20th Congress of the CPSU and talked about paths to Socialism and different roads to Socialism, including the peaceful path to Socialism, he had in mind various Communist Parties in capitalist countries. The CPSU felt that a number of Communist Parties were on the griddle because of the issue of force and violence. KHRUSHCHEV was trying to ease the situation for these Parties in capitalist countries from a tactical point of view. However, when KHRUSHCHEV, in the same speech, said that in some capitalist countries where there is a strong regime with military and police power at its disposal, the working class may have to fight and respond to force and violence, and this applied specifically and concretely to the United States. The Communist Party can talk about different roads, but programmatically there can be no illusion that the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat will ^{not} require force and violence to suppress the bourgeoisie who will resist.

No Communist Party in any capitalist country, particularly the United States, can hope to go through a transition to Socialism without a dictatorship of the proletariat or, in essence, the dictatorship of the proletariat must be contained in the program of the CP,USA. The dictatorship of the proletariat will be required in every country. The form it will take will depend on the relationship of the classes. The amount of force and violence required will depend upon the resistance of the bourgeoisie or ruling class.

CG 5824-S* also advised that PONOMAREV has criticized the "welfare state" of ALEXANDER BITTELMAN in the July issue of the "Kommunist."

The leading members of the CPSU with whom the informant talked stated that American imperialism is the chief enemy of mankind. They have no doubt that Communism will be victorious but US imperialism is standing in the way. They do not want to overestimate United States imperialism since they feel it is not as strong as it seems. They are not interested in war. They have no doubt that they will surpass the United States industrially and agriculturally. They feel that the United States is decaying economically but they wish they had the answer as to whether the United States will pursue a peaceful solution or an aggressive solution to its economic problems since armaments are a part of the American economy.

They stated that they are offering the people of the United States peaceful markets and believe the people in the US will accept this since it would relieve unemployment. They are trying to direct American efforts into peaceful trade. They are trying to reach the American people with the idea that they want peace and that Americans can get jobs through increased trade.

However, if there are any illusions that Russia wants peaceful co-existence because it is weak, these should be forgotten. To prove this, they will begin to show their ^{muscles} ~~missiles~~. The executions in Hungary and the launching of Sputnik No. 3 were evidence of this. Sputnik No. 3 is to remind the United States that Russia has missiles and armaments. It is "like a needle in Dulles' behind to remind him we have muscle and missiles."

A lot of stress is being placed on Latin America. The CPSU feels that the United States cannot rely on Latin America. It feels that Communism can go to town in Latin America. The tour of Vice President Richard Nixon proved that Latin America is not a preserve of the United States.

(Priority or Method of Mailing)YUGOSLAVIA AND MARSHAL TITO

The leaders of the CPSU feel that TITO has to be destroyed as an agent of imperialism. The fight against revisionism is a fight to keep the socialist camp united. Acceptance of the Soviet Party as the leading Party is a part of this. Loyalty of the socialist camp to proletariat internationalism is needed so that a united front can be presented against imperialism. TITO has sold out to American imperialism. TITO states that the socialist state has become a bureaucratic state. Thus TITO has opened up the "under belly" of the socialist states and it is believed that he has reached some agreement with the United States.

Only on a theoretical basis can the CPSU rally the other Communist Parties by showing that TITO violated Marxism-Leninism and then sold out to United States imperialism. Thus all Communist Parties will have to condemn him. Practical measures are needed to isolate and to defeat him.

NICOLAI stated that Russia gave aluminum to Yugoslavia and all that Russia received in exchange was pottery and prunes. Therefore, let TITO sell pottery and prunes to the United States and get his aluminum from the United States.

RUSSIA'S FOREIGN POLICY

The Russians want to isolate TITO so he cannot open up a gate through which imperialism might break into the socialist camp. In the struggle against United States imperialism, Russia wants to unite all the socialist countries into one camp and to mesh their economies so that no socialist country will be wasting energy. Thus while Czechoslovakia might place emphasis on the production of machinery, other socialist countries will provide Czechoslovakia with the necessary food. By intermeshing their economies, the socialist states will be less dependent on the West.

Russia also wants to neutralize the United States, but if the United States will not deal in a peaceful way, Russia is not afraid to use force.

(Priority or Method of Mailing)INFORMATION IN REGARD TO THE CPUSA

As soon as the Draft Program of the CPUSA is prepared, the CPSU wants a copy of it since the CPSU might be able to give some help to the CPUSA in regard to it.

CPSU is glad that the CPUSA has established contact with it. CPSU wants additional representatives from the CPUSA to come to Russia from time to time.

The CPSU wants young people from the CPUSA to come to Russia for training.

The Central Committee of the CPSU voted to give the CPUSA $200,000 by the end of December, 1958. Canada will be the main channel of communication for funds and messages. The only person who has been getting money from the CPSU has been ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG. B. N. PONOMAREV said that this $200,000 will come from an international fund "contributed by members of other parties." PONOMAREV also stated that $10,000 has been sent to TRACHTENBERG and another $10,000 would be sent to Canada to be given to NY 694-S* pursuant to this decision. Money will continue to be sent through TRACHTENBERG unless or until some other arrangement is made.

The official channel of communication between CPSU and CPUSA will be through TIM BUCK and the Labor Progressive Party. Documents not considered too confidential will be sent to two Post Office Box numbers in Chicago (supplied to CG 5824-S* by the Chicago Office).

In August, 1958, there will be an important meeting of the Communist Party of Uruguay. In December there will be a meeting of all Communist Parties in the Western Hemisphere. It may be held in Argentina and the CPSU wants a representative of the CPUSA to attend this meeting. The time and place for the meeting may be decided upon at the meeting of the Communist Party of Uruguay.

JOHN ABT and his wife, JESSICA SMITH, are on their way to or may be in Moscow at the present time. She will discuss "World Review" with the CPSU.

FRANCES LOMAN, wife of CHARLES LOMAN, and OLGA AGOSTO, supporters of the ultra-left viewpoint in the CPUSA, went to the Conference of the Women for Peace in Vienna, Austria and obtained permission to go to China via Russia. They were in China during the latter part of June or the first part of July, 1958. The leadership of the CPSU and the Communist Party of China would not meet with them.

TOUR OF RUSSIA BY CG 5824-S* [REDACTED]

CG 5824-S* [REDACTED] were on a tour of Russia for approximately one month. They were accompanied on this tour by YURI SERGEOVITCH IVANOV. Among the cities they visited were Leningrad, Kiev and Stalingrad and met with the leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union in these cities. Details of this tour have not been obtained from the informants as yet.

It is to be noted that CG 5824-S* had voluminous notes in regard to his meetings in Moscow and his tour of Russia; however, on the day he left Moscow for Prague, Czechoslovakia, to return to the United States, he was told that he could not take his notes with him. No promise was made to him that these notes would be sent to him and in fact he was told that he should memorize this material.

CG 5824-S* [] were in China for approximately 12 days during the latter part of June and the first part of July, 1958. CG 5824-S* met with MAO TSE TUNG and also with WANG CHIA-HSIANG, member of the Secretariat, the central committee and head of the International Liaison Department of the CP of China. He was the first Chinese Communist Ambassador to Russia. Translators present were YU CHI-YNG and THANG-MING-CHAO, who was known in the U.S. as CHU TONG and left the U.S. in 1951. The latter went to the 1958 Peace Conference in Stockholm, Sweden. CG 5824-S* also met with TENG HSIAO PING, Secretary of the Communist Party of China.

CG 5824-S* was able to get notes made during these conversations in China, out of China. They were mailed to Chicago and have been received and Photostated by the Chicago Division.

MAO said that the main enemy of Communism is the U.S. The workers need a strong Communist Party in the United States. Government ^{oppression} ~~opposition~~ of the CP, USA is good. It will make the party strong. Flowers that are raised in a hot house cannot weather a storm.

MAO asked if informant thought that JOHN FOSTER DULLES wants to start a war soon. He remarked that it is obvious that there are some differences among the bourgeoisie but asked if they are in agreement on helping the tensions to grow.

He commented that President EISENHOWER won the election on the basis of agreeing to stop the war in Korea. MAO asked why the United States didn't go into Viet-Nam? Why didn't it go into Indo-China? Why didn't it go into Syria? Why didn't the United States participate in the Egyptian invasion? After Sputnik I did the United States realize that it is lagging behind Russia. MAO stated that the U. S. imperialism had chances to fight small wars but lost the opportunities. The people in the United States were aroused and the government was worried because the people would not go along.

MAO said that he is not sure American foreign policy will be successful. He said he doubts that the U. S. can successfully carry on small wars.

MAO said that France's imperialism is losing. U. S. imperialism made noise in Syria but the Soviet Union and China said something and stopped the U. S. U. S. was not sure that the risks were not too great.

MAO said U. S. imperialism is not sure of itself. The leaders of the Latin American countries, who were the puppets of the U. S. Government, have been defeated. The peace movement is growing throughout the world and in the U. S. The U. S. imperialism faces many difficulties.

MAO said the CP, USA should not worry about the size of its party. Numbers mean nothing. The CP of China was small at one time too. The CP, USA must continue to fight against revisionism to the end. Then MAO asked if it is proper to have a Negro leading the CP in New York. He said he believes the CP should hold Negroes in the background in order to get wider support. He said that members of the CP, USA, should not worry about being called "Moscow agents"; only a TITO will not be called a Moscow Agent.

MAO said that the CP, USA, has got to stick to fundamental principles of Marxism-Leninism and must prepare to get out of its isolation. It must do hard and difficult mass work. MAO further stated he had talked with JACQUES DUCLOS at the 12 Party Conference in regard to the greetings or instructions he had sent to the CP, USA at the time of its 16th National Convention. MAO told the informant that he, MAO was glad the CP, USA solved its problems of revisionism all by itself since outside assistance can hurt. Then he asked if the Sputniks did not help to solve revisionist problems in the U. S.

In regard to American imperialism, MAO said that imperialism should not be over-estimated but that it is necessary to pay attention to it. Imperialism has many contradictions. Our enemy looks tough on the surface but is not that powerful. He said there may be many Koreas. China intends to fight if the U. S. starts something. China will fight if it has to and it has the Formosa Army in its pocket. MAO said, "We stopped the Americans militarily in Korea."

MAO said that if American imperialism thinks that the son of CHIANG KAI-SHEK can be trusted they are wrong.

In these discussions in China CG 5824-S* learned that China has stepped up industrial production. China claims to have achieved a steel production which surpasses that of England but China will not announce this for 3 years.

MAO said that he does not care whether or not China gets into the United Nations. He said the United Nations will come begging for China to join it. Further, if Great Britain does not give China full diplomatic recognition, China will break diplomatic relations with Britain.

MAO said that Japan is in dire competition for markets. Japan is in a vise. If Japan does not knuckle under to Russia and China it will lose what it has.

Both CG 5824-S* and [] advised that through observation they learned that there is a mass campaign including films and plays, to emphasize the military power of China. The Chinese children talk about "Heartbreak Ridge" and how they defeated the Americans in Korea.

MAO said if General MacARTHUR had gone another mile then one-half of the Soviet Air Force and several Russian Divisions would have come into action. He also stated that right now he thinks that American imperialism has been stymied.

The International Department of the CP of China offered aid in any amount in money to the CP, USA. CG 5824-S* was told to name the amount and it would be received. CG 5824-S* told the International Department of the CP of China that he had no instructions in regard to this from the CP, USA. CG 5824-S* was told at any time the CP, USA needs financial help it should let the CP of China know and this help would be given.

CG 5824-S* on 7/22/58, furnished the following highlights of his trip to Russia and China. CG 5824-S* spent approximately one month in Moscow, one month touring Russia in Leningrad, Kiev and Stalingrad and were in China for twelve days. CG 5824-S* was welcomed as a representative of the CPUSA and met with other members of the Presidium and Central Committee of both the CP of the Soviet Union and the CP of China. He was told by the leaders of both of these parties that the CP of the US is considered the most important CP in the western world because it is working inside the largest enemy, namely US Imperialism. The Central Committee of the CPSU agreed to send a total of $200,000 to the CPUSA by the end of 1958. In the past, money for the CPUSA has been transmitted through ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG.

The sum of $200,000. will be sent in installments through TIM BUCK and the Labor Progressive Party of Canada and also through TRACHTENBERG, unless the CPUSA can arrange a better means of transmittal. B. PONOMAREV, who is the head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU, stated that $10,000. has already been sent to TRACHTENBERG as a result of this decision and $10,000. has been sent to Canada. The CP of China offers any financial assistance desired by the CPUSA. The informant told the Chinese Party officers that he was not instructed to obtain any financial assistance from the CP of China, but would transmit this offer to CPUSA leadership. The CPSU leadership stated that the American CP is considered a part of the International Communist movement. The CPSU is happy that the CPUSA has taken a stand against revisionism and removed such members as JOHN GATES and HOWARD FAST. While WILLIAM Z. FOSTER is considered an honored leader of the CPUSA, from a practical standpoint, EUGENE DENNIS is accepted as the leader of the CPUSA. The informant arranged for any messages of not too confidential nature to be mailed to him in Chicago, from both the CP of China and the CPSU. Messages and documents consisting of a confidential nature ~~were~~ passed through TIM BUCK, who will be the connecting link for these messages between the CP of China, the CPSU and the CPUSA. The CPSU wants additional representatives from the CPUSA to come to Russia and also wants youth from the CPUSA to come to Russia for training. In a two hour discussion with MAO TSE TUNG, he told the informant that the main enemies of Communism is the US. He stated that the workers need a strong Communist Party in the US. He said that government oppression against the CP, USA will make it a stronger party. He stated that US seems afraid of a big war, yet it will not even fight little wars. He stated that after the sputniks, US imperialism realizes that it is lagging behind Russia and he doubts that the US can successfully carry on even small wars. He said the US imperialism is not sure of itself, it faces many difficulties. The peace movement is growing around the world and in the US. He said China is not worried about getting into the UN and that the other countries will come begging China to join the UN. He said that Japan is in a worse and if it doesn't knuckle down to Russia and Communism, it will lose what it has left. MAO also stated "We stopped the American military in Korea". MAO also stated that Communism is prepared to break diplomatic relations with Great Britain if Communism is not given full diplomatic recognition by Britain. The informant advised that discussions with Russian party leaders, shows that the CPSU is trying to neutralize the US with its program for peaceful co-existence; however, if the US will not deal in a peaceful way, the Russians are willing to use force. The CPSU feels that the US is backtracking on a Summit Meeting so it may be necessary to combine pressure for a Summit Meeting with the show of a united front among the Socialist countries and the willingness to ~~enforce~~ use force. This is the reason for the ideological battle against TITO, for the execution in Hungary, and for the launching of Sputnik III. The fight against revisionism is a fight to keep the Socialist camp united. Acceptance of the Soviet party as the leadership party is a part of this. The CPSU feels that TITO has sold out to US imperialism and that ~~particular~~ measures are needed to isolate or to defeat him. The CPSU is placing stress on Latin America. It feels that Communism can make strides in Latin America. In August there will be an important meeting of the CP of Uruguay. Sometime in December, 1958, there will be a meeting of all Communist parties in the Western Hemisphere. This meeting may be held in Argentina and the CPSU wants a representative of the CP, USA, to attend this meeting. The CPSU wants to stabilize a leadership in the CP, USA which is loyal to them. The informant was told that when KHRUSCHEV made his speech at the 20th Congress of the CPSU and mentioned the possibility of different roads to Socialism, including peaceful transition, He had in mind various Communist parties in capitalist countries. However KHRUSCHEV was talking from a tactical point of view. When, in the same speech, he stated, in essence, that in some capitalist or imperialist countries where there is a strong regime with military and police power at its disposal, the working class may have to fight and respond to force and violence. This applies specifically and concretely to the US. The CP can talk about different roads but programatically there can be no illusion that the

This goes down the line with the position the Bureau has taken on the Communist threat; therefore, I think we have to disseminate it, although it is exceedingly sensitive because of its source.

If you agree, we will disseminate it to the White House, the AG, the Vice President, and the Secretary of State, under Top Secret classification, with wording clearly reflecting the sensitivity of the source.

On 8/1/58, CG 5824-S* was interviewed for approximately four hours and furnished details concerning his trip to China. The informant furnished a lengthy report on a meeting with LI HSIEN-NIEN, who is a member of the Political Bureau and the Finance Minister of the Communist Party of China. The informant obtained considerable details concerning production figures for grain, coal, steel, and other items. LI stated that China has equalled England in the production of some items, and thinks that it is not impossible that it can become an industrial country which will eventually equal or surpass Soviet Russia and the United States. The informant commented, however, that while all of the people in China are well organized, that there is an obvious lack of machinery and that most of the work in China is still performed by hand. While the Chinese produce a few automobiles, most of the automobiles and heavy machinery is imported from Russia, Czechoslovakia and other European countries.

CG 5824-S* also furnished several pages of typewritten notes. These consist of extracts from a highly confidential document by LIU SHAO-CHI regarding underground operations. The informant stated that the material furnished to him contained an analysis of the underground experiences of the Communist Party of China, in which the emphasis was placed on the ability to infiltrate anything. He said that the Chinese were most anxious that he read this material and convey the information to the Communist Party - USA. He said that several members of the Communist Party of China stated that they were surprised to learn that the Communist Party - USA at the present time does not have a parallel organization and leadership in an underground capacity. In addition to being furnished with this material on the underground, the informant also was briefed on this material and the underground experiences of the Chinese by LIU NING-YI-TU, also a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. CHINA

CHINA The informant also has furnished a portion of the details of a discussion which lasted for several hours with KANG SHENG (ph), described by the informant as a member of the Political Bureau and a member of the Secretariat, and the person in charge of ideological work for the Communist Party of China. This discussion dealt with the rectification program of the Communist Party of China and the fact that once a Communist Party comes into power through force and violence, it must still spend many years in carrying on an ideological campaign in order to make it impossible for the Capitalists to regain power.

The informant also furnished the following address which he is to use for the purpose of sending documents of the Communist Party - USA to the Communist Party of China: TANG MING-CHAO, 9 Tai Chi Chang, Peking, China.

DECLASSIFIED BY SP4BJA-MUB

#906318

With regard to my communications of July 24 and 25, 1958, I thought you would be interested in the following additional information relative to recent discussions between leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA. This information was received from sources which have furnished reliable data in the past.

In discussing the new international communist magazine, "For Peace and Democracy" which is to be published in the near future in Prague, Czechoslovakia, one of the Soviet officials stated that this publication is nothing more than an international communist organization and is actually a communist information bureau in disguise. According to this official, most of the communist parties throughout the world will send representatives to Prague from time to time for international conferences and these representatives will have authority to act in behalf of their respective communist parties.

During the course of these discussions, the Soviet officials in general pointed out that some form of the dictatorship of the proletariat will be necessary to establish communism in all countries and that it is impossible to depart from this cardinal Marxist-Leninist principle. They stated that the Communist Party, USA, is a revolutionary party and it is necessary to get rid of anyone who says anything to the contrary. They continued that the Communist Party, USA, has to have as its final aim the overthrow of the bourgeois and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat. They also stated that it is important that the Communist Party, USA, accept this principle even though it may be disguised when it is incorporated in the Party program.

The Attorney General

The leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union indicated that they were not too concerned about the size of the Communist Party, USA, as long as it accepts Marxism-Leninism and is 100 per cent loyal to the Soviet Union. The Soviets indicated that if these conditions exist, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union will do everything possible to give the Communist Party, USA, all necessary support.

Mao Tse-tung, who is the chairman of the Communist Party of China as well as the chairman of the Chinese Government, stated that he has requested to be relieved of his position as chairman of the government while retaining his position as chairman of the Chinese Communist Party. He stated that he hopes that he can be relieved as chairman of the government no later than 1960 in order to spend his time in writing about communist theory and philosophy. Mao continued that this information should be conveyed to one or two leading members of the Communist Party, USA, so that when any announcement is made, the Communist Party, USA, will recognize as lies any distortions by the capitalist press as to the actual reason for Mao's relinquishing of the chairmanship of the Chinese Government. Mao did not mention any individual as a possible successor to the position of chairman of the Chinese Government.

In view of the extremely sensitive nature of the sources of our information, it is requested that the contents of this communication be afforded the most careful security and its use restricted to a need-to-know basis.

The foregoing is also being furnished to the Honorable Richard M. Nixon, The Vice President; the Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President; and the Honorable John Foster Dulles, Secretary of State.

NOTE ON YELLOW:

This memorandum classified "~~Top Secret~~" since it contains information from a most valuable informant, unauthorized disclosure of this information could easily jeopardize our informant, thereby considerably weakening our coverage of the Communist Party, USA, which could possibly result in grave damage to the national defense.

MOSCOW FROM VENEZUELA. INFORMANT DID MEET WITH AN UNDERGROUND LEADER OF THE CP OF CUBA WHILE IN MOSCOW. THE IDENTITY OF THIS LEADER WAS NOT DISCLOSED TO INFORMANT, NOR WAS THE IDENTITY OF CG 5824-S* DISCLOSED TO HIM. IT WAS AGREED THAT A LEADER OF THE CP OF CUBA WILL GO TO NYC AND WILL TELEPHONE THE OFFICE OF NY 694-S* AND SAY THAT HE IS MR. GARCIA. NY 694-S* WILL THEN PUT HIM IN CONTACT WITH THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CP, USA, FOR THE PURPOSE OF REESTABLISHING CONTACT BETWEEN THE CP, USA, AND THE CP OF CUBA AND TO DISCUSS MUTUAL PROBLEMS. INFORMANT FURTHER ADVISED THAT ONE KORIANOFF (PH) WAS IN CHARGE OF THE NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICAN SECTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF THE CCCPSU UNTIL RECENTLY. HE IS NOW IN CHARGE OF THE RUSSIAN DELEGATION WHICH IS IN PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, IN CONNECTION WITH THE NEW COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE ~~QUOTE~~ "FOR PEACE AND DEMOCRACY" ~~UNQUOTE~~. PAGE THREE FROM CHICAGO NUMBER 291115

WAS MUCH REPETITION IN THE REMARKS OF THE LEADERS OF THE CPSU PRESENT. THEY POINTED OUT THAT SOME FORM OF THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT WILL BE NECESSARY TO ESTABLISH COMMUNISM IN ALL COUNTRIES. IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO DEPART FROM THIS CARDINAL MARXIST LENINIST PRINCIPLE. THEY STATED THAT THE PROGRAM FOR THE CP, USA, MUST CONTAIN ~~QUOTE~~ MARXIST LENINIST PRINCIPLENESS WITH TACTICAL FLEXIBILITY ~~UNQUOTE~~. THEY QUOTED GENEROUSLY FROM LENIN'S ~~QUOTE~~ STATE AND REVOLUTION ~~UNQUOTE~~ CONCERNING THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT AND THE NEED FOR THE USE OF FORCE AND VIOLENCE. THEY STATED THAT THE CP, USA, IS A REVOLUTIONARY PARTY AND IT IS NECESSARY TO GET RID OF ANYBODY WHO SAYS ANYTHING TO THE CONTRARY. THE CP, USA, HAS TO BE A PARTY OF MARXISM LENINISM. THE CP, USA, HAS TO WIN A MAJORITY OF THE WORKING CLASS TO ITS SIDE AND FORM ALLIANCES. THE CP, USA, HAS TO HAVE AS ITS FINAL AIM THE OVERTHROW OF THE BOURGEOISE AND THE ESTABLISHMENT OF THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT. THE ESSENCE OF THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT MUST BE PRESENT, NO MATTER WHAT FORM IT TAKES. NO OTHER PARTY CAN DO THIS. NO OTHER PARTY CAN BE A VANGUARD PARTY. BY WINNING INFLUENCE OVER THE WORKING CLASS AND BY MAKING ALLIANCES, THE CP, USA, CAN ESTABLISH THE ESSENCE OF THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT, WHICH WILL DEFEND THE REVOLUTION AND THE GAINS MADE BY THE WORKING CLASS. IF ANYBODY FIGHTS AGAINST THE NEW SOCIAL SYSTEM, IT WILL BE NECESSARY TO FIGHT THEM BACK IN THE NAME OF THE MAJORITY. THE INFORMANT WAS TOLD THAT IT WILL BE NECESSARY FOR THE CP, USA, TO FIND A WAY OF FORMULATING IN ITS PROGRAM THE NECESSITY FOR ESTABLISHING THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT. IT IS IMPORTANT THAT THE CP, USA, ACCEPT THE PRINCIPLE OF THE DICTATORSHIP OF THE PROLETARIAT EVEN THOUGH THIS PRINCIPLE MAY BE DISGUISED WHEN IT IS INCORPORATED IN THE PARTY PROGRAM. FROM THESE DISCUSSIONS, THE INFORMANT LEARNED THAT THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CPSU IS NOT

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. Re Chicago teletypes dated 7/29/58; and re Chicago airtel dated 7/30/58.

CG 5824-S* furnished additional information concerning the above-captioned case on 7/31/58.

Informant advised that while he was in Moscow, he and ALEXAI ANDREOVICH GRENCHENCO (ph), of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCCPSU), went to the office of the Kommsomol (Young Communist League) at the request of (FNU) ROMANOVSKY (ph), one of the Secretaries of the Kommsomol. ROMANOVSKY stated that on the whole, the delegation from the United States to the World Youth Festival in Moscow in 1957 was not a good delegation. He stated that it is his opinion that the Communist Party - USA neglected this delegation and did not give it any leadership. He stated that there were some suspicions concerning [redacted], but more or less indicated it was the duty of the Communist Party - USA to determine whether or not she might be an "enemy agent". He stated that the next World Youth Festival will be held in Vienna in August, 1959, and that the governmental officials in Vienna have given official approval for this festival. ROMANOVSKY asked CG 5824-S* to furnish this information to the Communist Party - USA, and to ask the leadership of the Communist Party - USA to meet with youth leaders and begin immediate preparations for this festival. The Communist Party - USA should urge as many youth organizations as possible to get in touch with the Committee on preparations in Vienna in order to obtain official invitations or greetings or calls to this festival. ROMANOVSKY also wants the Communist Party - USA to send a list of youth organizations in the United States to the festival Committee so that invitations can be circulated to a large number of youth organizations in the United States.

On 7/31/58, CG 5824-S* continued his discussion of his activities while in China. On 7/2/58, informant met with TENG HSIAO-PING, General Secretary of the Communist Party of China. Approximately one-half dozen persons were in attendance at this meeting, including WANG CHIA-HSIANG and other members of the International Liaison Committee of the Communist Party of China.

The following paragraphs contain a synopsis of pertinent remarks made by TENG HSIAO-PING:

He stated that there is such a thing as United States imperialism and the fight against United States imperialism is the main struggle in the international field. When we can defeat United States imperialism, this will be the proof -- the test that Socialism is superior. He stated that the size of a Communist Party is not important. The important thing is to hold high the banner of Marxism-Leninism. We believe in the Communist Party - USA. We believe the Communist Party - USA held up this banner bravely. We know you faced a difficult situation during your 16th Congress. We did not know the details, but we knew GATES was spreading revisionism. We had confidence in the Communist Party - USA and knew that DENNIS and FOSTER would solve these difficulties.

Continuing, TENG stated that there would be no need for a Communist Party in the United States if the revisionist ideas of GATES had prevailed. He stated, in essence, that Gatesism and all revisionism is anti-Communist and anti-Soviet. He stated that it has been proven that once there is a clear banner of Marxism-Leninism, that revisionism can be eliminated and the Party can move forward when revisionism is cleared up. He said the situation in the United States proves that what the masses want is Marxism-Leninism and not revisionism, which is the voice of the bourgeoisie. He said he is happy with the results of the February plenum (National Committee meeting) of the Communist Party - USA. He pointed out that a few members of the Communist Party - USA have left, but the Party in the United States will become stronger. He stated that perhaps the Communist Party - USA will lose some more members, but who knows maybe it will become stronger if some more people drop out. It is better to have a small, but fighting, Party. A Communist Party is not a debating society. He stated that after the February meeting of the Communist Party - USA and the endorsement of the Declaration of the twelve Communist Parties, joy was brought to the comrades in China. The Communist Party of China never had any doubt but that the Communist Party - USA would reach this result, although it realized that the Communist Party - USA faces many difficulties and the enemy is powerful.

TENG also stated that Comrade MAO has raised a question with us. He asked who is stronger in the United States -- the Communist Party or DULLES. MAO said that DULLES and United States monopoly capital will be done away with. It has no future. Even if the membership in the Communist Party - USA continues to dwindle, the future belongs to the Communist Party in the United States. In the end, the people will realize that the Communist Party represents their interests. Of course, among the imperialist states the United States is the strongest. But Comrade MAO thinks that United States imperialism is a paper tiger and the most nervous man in the world is DULLES, who is confronted with troubles which develop here, there, and everywhere.

The number of persons in a Party does not always indicate the strength of the Party. For example, in Yugoslavia there are an average of $2\frac{1}{2}$ Party members for every one hundred persons. Yet, size does not necessarily mean that it is a good Party. Yugoslavia also has state power. But it has no future because it has discarded Marxism-Leninism and is a revisionist Party. It cannot help but to degenerate. Their ideological banner is wrong. The Communist Party - USA may be small, but it raises the banner of Marxism-Leninism high. It is ideologically correct and is moving in a correct direction.

Referring to CG 5824-S*, TENG said, We like you. You are full of confidence, as is the American Party. We are happy over the general situation in your Party. We firmly believe that work will develop your Party. We would like you to keep in mind what MAO has said and that is that the golden age of United States imperialism is over and that the East wind prevails over the West wind. In further quoting MAO, TENG said that the United States economic conditions make it more difficult for the workers to accept revolutionary ideas, but now there is an economic crisis developing. And even after a certain period of recovery, the general trend will be downward and the markets for United States imperialism will narrow. A revolutionary situation will eventually develop.

TENG then stated the slogan of the Soviet Union today is to surpass the United States in every field. In some aspects, the United States has already been surpassed. We want to surpass England in a short time.

We even think that it is possible for us to catch up with the United States. We cannot say how long it will take, but we do not think it will take us too long.

The Communist Parties in capitalist countries are carrying on propaganda to show the superiority of Socialism over Capitalism. What you are saying as propaganda will prove correct. Then the United States worker will be able to tell whether the words of EISENHOWER and STEVENSON are better than those of FOSTER and DENNIS. We believe that they will say that FOSTER's and DENNIS' are better.

The United States looks down on us now but we dealt with them in Korea and in Geneva.

Next, TENG stated that United States imperialism pretends and bluffs, but, as MAO said, it is a paper tiger. We have no fear of United States imperialism.

The United States thinks that we want to be admitted to the United Nations and that we are worried about the embargo. But the embargo will not hurt us and if a country of six hundred million people is left out of the United Nations, this is no credit to the United Nations but it is no harm to us. There will be a day when they will have to recognize us. But there will also be a day when the workers of the United States will recognize us. We are willing to wait until the day the Communist Party - USA wins. We are grateful to the United States for the embargo. It is helping to develop our economy and the economy in all Socialist countries. When we are forced to solve our own problems, things develop rapidly.

TENG also stated that the international Communist movement, as a result of the meetings in Moscow during November and December, 1957, is in good shape. We are all united for the same purpose and we are very happy about the entire situation.

TENG also stated that perhaps DE GAULLE coming into power is a good thing. The French Communist Party is confident too. We can conclude that the world belongs to the Socialist countries and the Communist Parties. It seems to us that the downward trend of United States economy is creating more difficulties for the Capitalist world. The first Sputnik destroyed the myth of the superiority of imperialist technology.

TENG further stated that in regard to world problems, there is either war or peace. The Declaration of the 64 Communist Parties stated that all Communist Parties want peace. We want peace because this will give us an opportunity to finish off Capitalism peacefully. We can surpass Capitalism in every line, and then the people can decide who to go with. Since we are not the Chief of Staff of the United States, we cannot decide whether or not the United States should go to war. But if the United States wants war, they will be burned. There will be loss of lives, destruction, but many countries will have their revolution faster. Wanting peace is not the same as being afraid of war. We do not want war because we can build more rapidly under peace. But EISENHOWER and DULLES will have to decide if they want war. If so, let's have it. One thing is certain. In war, they will be the losers. They will lose in peace or war, but will be bigger losers in the event of war.

CG 5824-S* also furnished information he had received from WANG CHIA-HSIANG, Head of the International Liaison Department of the Communist Party of China, concerning the Communist Party of Yugoslavia. While the informant furnished considerable details in this regard, the essence of the information from WANG is that the Communist Party of China is bitterly denouncing Yugoslavia and the League of Yugoslav Communists as revisionists and allies of the imperialist nations.

CG 5824-S* estimates that it will take a little more than one day to furnish the rest of the information in regard to the SOLO operation. Unless unforeseen difficulties are encountered, this information will be obtained on 8/1/58, and thereafter complete transcription will begin.

On August 12, 1958, [redacted] Bureau of Security and Consular Affairs, State, asked if the Bureau would have any objection to State making copies of our "Top Secret" letters of July 24, 25, 31, and August 1, 1958, for distribution to certain top level State officials, namely, Robert Murphy, Deputy Under Secretary of State; Walter Spencer Robertson, Assistant Secretary for Far Eastern Affairs; C. Burke Elbrick, Assistant Secretary for European Affairs and Mr. Hugh S. Cumming, Jr., Director of the Bureau of Intelligence and Research. He said that State desired to make these copies because the highly important and interesting information concerning top level meetings among Russian, Chinese and U. S. communist leaders should be made available to the above-mentioned individuals as quickly as possible.

We have disseminated the information from this source (CG 5824-S) under a "Top Secret" classification and have pointed out to State the extremely sensitive nature of the sources (plural used to further protect our source) and have requested that the information be given the most careful security and restricted to a need-to-know basis. State is keenly interested in the material we have been furnishing and has expressed its appreciation. They have also requested to be given further information about the source which we have declined to do. It is felt that to accede to State's present request for approval to make copies of our letters, while undoubtedly helpful to State, would increase the possibility of compromising our source.

ACTION:

Inasmuch as [redacted] requested that he be orally advised at the earliest possible moment of our decision, he was advised on the afternoon of August 12, 1958, that we have put restrictions in our letters in order to protect our most delicate sources and, therefore, we would prefer that copies not be made but that the letters, as sent, be brought to the attention of the appropriate officials in State.

TRIP OF INFORMANT Internal Security - Communist

SOLO IS-C. BUFILE 100-428091. DURING A FOUR HOUR INTERVIEW ON JULY 29, INSTANT, CG 5824-S* FURNISHED ADDITIONAL DETAILS PERTAINING TO THE SOLO OPERATION. INFORMANT ADVISED THAT HE LEARNED FROM NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH (PH), HEAD OF THE NORTH AND SOUTH AMERICAN SECTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL DEPARTMENT OF THE CCCPSU, AND HIS ASSISTANT, ALEXAI ANDREOVICH GRENCHENCO (PH) THAT ARGENTINA IS BECOMING A CENTER FOR COMMUNISTS IN LATIN AMERICA AND THAT ARGENTINA IS A GOOD PLACE TO MAKE TRAVEL ARRANGEMENTS TO RUSSIA. THEY INDICATED THAT ARGENTINA IS BECOMING MORE IMPORTANT THAN MEXICO AS A CENTER FOR COMMUNIST ACTIVITIES IN CENTRAL AND SOUTH AMERICA, BECAUSE BOTH THE CP, USA, AND THE CP OF CUBA HAVE INDICATED THAT THEY FEEL THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CP OF MEXICO CANNOT BE TRUSTED. WHILE MEXICO IS BEING USED BY CP IN THE WESTERN HEMISPHERE, THAT ARE SEMI-LEGAL AND ILLEGAL, ARGENTINA IS BEING USED TO A GREATER EXTENT IN THIS REGARD. IN PRESENTING OBSERVATIONS OF HIS TOUR THROUGH LENINGRAD, STALINGRAD, KIEV, AND OTHER RUSSIAN CITIES AND HIS TRAVEL FROM RUSSIA AND CHINA, INFORMANT ADVISED THAT HE SAW MANY SOVIET COMMERCIAL JET AIRPLANES, NOT ONLY AT THE AIRPORTS, BUT IN ACTUAL FLIGHT BETWEEN CITIES. HE ALSO STATED HE OBSERVED THAT MOST AIRPORTS AND FACTORIES IN THE OUTLYING DISTRICTS IN RUSSIA ARE RINGED WITH MIG AIRPLANES AND THAT HARD CLAY RUNWAYS ARE USED

FOR MANY OF THE FIGHTER TYPE PLANES. INFORMANT ALSO ADVISED THAT WHEN HE WAS IN LENINGRAD DURING FIRST PART OF JUNE, 1958, ON EITHER JUNE 8 OR 9, LAST, DURING THE NIGHT, TANKS AND MILITARY VEHICLES WITH ANTIAIRCRAFT EQUIPMENT, MISSILES AND ROCKETS PASSED BY THE PALACE HE WAS RESIDING AT FOR AT LEAST 3 OR 4 HOURS. INFORMANT STATED HE DID NOT KNOW REASON FOR THIS MILITARY MANEUVERING. INFORMANT ADVISED THAT SINCE HE WAS ALWAYS ACCOMPANIED BY SOMEONE FROM THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE CPSU AND WAS IN RUSSIA WITH AN ASSUMED IDENTITY, IT WAS IMPOSSIBLE FOR HIM TO ACTUALLY GET THE REAL FEELINGS OF THE PEOPLE WITH WHOM HE TALKED ON THE FARMS AND IN THE FACTORIES. HOWEVER, THOSE PERSONS WITH WHOM HE DID HAVE CONVERSATIONS STATED THAT THE DECENTRALIZATION OF BOTH INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE HAS DECREASED RED TAPE AND INCREASED PRODUCTION. INFORMANT WAS IMPRESSED WITH THE ADVANCES MADE IN THE STANDARD OF LIVING OF THE AVERAGE RUSSIAN DURING THE YEARS SINCE 1947, WHEN HE LAST VISITED RUSSIA. INFORMANT STATED THAT IT IS OBVIOUS THAT MOST OF THE RUSSIAN PEOPLE ARE DESIROUS OF PEACE. THIS MAY BE ATTRIBUTED TO THE KNOWLEDGE OF THE DESTRUCTIVENESS OF MODERN WEAPONS, BUT ALSO TO THE FACT THAT MOST RUSSIANS HAD CASUALTIES AMONG CLOSE RELATIVES DURING WORLD WAR TWO AND SAW THE DEVASTATION OF MANY OF THEIR CITIES. ON MORE THAN ONE OCCASION THE INFORMANT WAS ASKED BY PERSONS IN FACTORIES IF THE AMERICAN PEOPLE ARE CONSCIOUS OF THE NEED FOR PEACE. PARTY LEADERS IN CITIES OUTSIDE OF MOSCOW STATED THAT THEY WANTED TO EMPHASIZE THAT CP IN OTHER COUNTRIES HAVE TO TALK ABOUT THE STRENGTH OF THE SOCIALIST CAMP AND THE FACT THAT ALL PARTICIPANTS WOULD SUFFER IN THE CASE OF A UNIVERSAL WAR. INFORMANT WAS TAKEN TO A SHIP BUILDING YARD IN LENINGRAD AND WAS SHOWN THE FIRST ATOMIC ICE BREAKER CALLED QUOTE "THE LENIN" UNQUOTE, WHICH IS DUE TO BE LAUNCHED IN THE NEAR FUTURE. HE COMMENTED THAT THEY ARE EXPANDING THE SUBWAY IN LENINGRAD AND THAT IT IS EVEN DEEPER THAN THE ONE IN MOSCOW, WHICH WAS DEEP ENOUGH TO ACT AS A SHELTER DURING WORLD WAR TWO.

INFORMANT ALSO NOTICED IN BOTH RUSSIA AND CHINA THAT MILITARY FORCES ARE USED TO BUILD ROADS, RAILROADS, WORK ON RESERVOIRS, REBUILD TELEPHONE LINES, AND WORK ON SIMILAR PROJECTS. IN COMMENTING UPON THE SOLO OPERATION, INFORMANT FEELS THAT IT WAS A SUCCESS SINCE HE WAS ABLE TO TALK OFFICIALLY WITH LEADERS OF BOTH THE CPSU AND THE CP OF CHINA AND HAS OPENED UP LINES OF COMMUNICATION, OVER WHICH HE WILL HAVE SOME KNOWLEDGE AND CONTROL. INFORMANT FEELS THAT ONE OF THE MOST IMPORTANT PIECES OF INFORMATION WITH REGARD TO THE RELATIONSHIP AND COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN THE CP, USA, AND THE CPSU WAS THE FACT THAT HE LEARNED THAT ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG HAS BEEN THE SOLE OFFICIAL CONTACT BETWEEN THE CPSU AND THE CP, USA. INFORMANT LEARNED THIS NOT ONLY FROM HIS CONVERSATIONS WITH THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CPSU, BUT ALSO FROM TRACHTENBERG HIMSELF. TRACHTENBERG DID NOT IDENTIFY THE PERSON WITH WHOM HE IS IN CONTACT, BUT THE INFORMANT IS OF THE OPINION THAT IT IS A LEADING MEMBER OF THE RUSSIAN DELEGATION TO THE U.N. INFORMANT ALSO PAVED THE WAY, FROM A PERSONAL POINT OF VIEW, FOR FUTURE TRIPS OF THIS NATURE TO THE SOVIET UNION AND HE HOPES TO BE ABLE IN THE NEAR FUTURE TO CONVINCE THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CP, USA, PARTICULARLY EUGENE DENNIS, THAT HE SHOULD BE ADDED TO THE NATIONAL COMMITTEE SO THAT HE WOULD HAVE MORE OFFICIAL POSITION ON ANY SUBSEQUENT TRIP TO THE SOVIET UNION. ON JULY 29, INSTANT, INFORMANT ALSO FURNISHED INFORMATION RECEIVED IN DISCUSSIONS WITH JOHN WILLIAMSON IN LONDON, ON JULY 17 AND 18, LAST. INFORMANT ADVISED THAT AS A RESULT OF HIS DISCUSSIONS WITH JOHN WILLIAMSON, HE IS CONVINCED THAT WILLIAMSON IS IN A STRATEGIC POSITION, SINCE HE MAINTAINS CONTACT WITH MANY MEMBERS OF THE CP, USA, BY MEANS OF LETTERS, INCLUDING EUGENE DENNIS, AND IS ALSO IN COMMUNICATION WITH FORMER AMERICANS NOW LIVING IN EUROPE, AND IS IN CONTACT WITH THE CP THROUGHOUT THE WORLD. HE IS REGARDED AS AN EXPERT ON THE CP, USA, AND MANY CP WRITE TO HIM FOR INFORMATION AND OPINIONS REGARDING THE UNITED STATES AND THE CP, USA, WHEN THEY

FEEL THEY CANNOT COMMUNICATE DIRECTLY WITH THE CP, USA. INFORMANT CONVEYED TO WILLIAMSON THE SUGGESTION OF DENNIS THAT WILLIAMSON REPRESENT THE CP, USA, ON THE NEW COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL MAGAZINE QUOTE "FOR PEACE AND DEMOCRACY" UNQUOTE, WHICH WILL BE PUBLISHED IN PRAGUE. WILLIAMSON STATED HE WAS NOT DESIROUS OF ACCEPTION THIS POST BECAUSE IT WOULD MEAN HE WOULD HAVE TO MOVE HIS FAMILY ONCE AGAIN. FURTHER, HE IS NOT A MEMBER OF THE NC OF THE CP, USA. ALSO, HE IS FINDING DIFFICULTY IN ESTABLISHING ROOTS IN THE CPGB AND FEELS THAT AN ABSENCE FROM GREAT BRITAIN FOR THIS PURPOSE WOULD DISSIPATE WHATEVER BASES HE HAS ESTABLISHED. HE STATED THAT IF HE WERE MADE A MEMBER OF THE NC OF THE CP, USA, AND RECEIVED AN OFFICIAL MANDATE FROM DENNIS AND APPROVAL OF THE CPGB, HE WOULD BE WILLING TO GO TO PRAGUE FOR A FEW WEEKS. WILLIAMSON EXHIBITED TO INFORMANT LETTERS HE HAD RECEIVED FROM DENNIS AND IN ONE OF THESE LETTERS DENNIS HAD GIVEN WILLIAMSON A SUMMARY AND INTERPRETATION OF THE LAST MEETING OF THE NC OF CP, USA. WILLIAMSON IS AN ASSISTANT NATIONAL ORGANIZATION SECRETARY OF THE CPGB AND IS PAID BY THE PARTY. HE WAS ALSO GIVEN MONEY BY THE CPSU AND CPGB FOR HIS CURRENT RESIDENCE. HE IS NOT A MEMBER OF THE NEC OF THE CPGB, WHICH IS SIMILAR TO THE NC OF THE CP, USA. WILLIAMSON WANTS THE CP, USA, TO CARRY ON A CAMPAIGN TO PERMIT HIM TO RETURN TO THE U.S. HE TOLD INFORMANT HE BELIEVES THAT CLAUDIA JONES IS MENTALLY ILL AND SHOULD BE IN A MENTAL INSTITUTION. WILLIAMSON WAS INVOLVED IN THE PLANS FOR THE CONCERT TOUR OF PAUL ROBESON IN GREAT BRITAIN AND ADVISED THE INFORMANT THAT ROBESON PLANNED TO TRAVEL TO RUSSIA, GHANA, AND INDIA, AND THEN WOULD RETURN TO ENGLAND. WILLIAMSON ALSO STATED THAT W.E.B. DU BOIS WAS DUE TO ARRIVE IN ENGLAND AND THAT HE, TOO, PLANNED TO GO TO RUSSIA. WILLIAMSON ASKED THE INFORMANT IF THERE WAS STILL FRICTION BETWEEN GUS HALL AND EUGENE DENNIS, INFORMANT ADVISED HE DID NOT KNOW THERE HAD BEEN ANY FRICTION BETWEEN HALL AND DENNIS. WILLIAMSON STATED THAT [REDACTED] IS STILL IN WARSAW

CG 5824-S* orally advised SA JOHN E. KEATING on 8/12/58 that on that date he had sent a note to ROBERT THOMPSON in New York City. In this note, CG 5824-S* stated that he had learned unofficially that the Communist Party of Uruguay would hold a convention starting August 17, 1958. CG 5824-S* suggested to THOMPSON that the Communist Party - USA send greetings to the Communist Party of Uruguay by telegram or cablegram. CG 5824-S* also told THOMPSON that he would give him the details when he sees him in New York City during the week of 8/17/58.

CG 5824-S* commented that he did not suggest to THOMPSON that the Communist Party - USA send a representative to the convention of the Communist Party of Uruguay and that he had delayed sending this information to THOMPSON as long as he thought advisable and yet long enough so that it will be difficult for the Communist Party - USA to actually get a representative to Uruguay in time for its convention.

MEETING WITH ROMANOVSKY (PHONETIC), ONE OF THE SECRETARIES OF THE KOMSOMOL OF THE U.S.S.R.

While I was in Moscow during the latter part of May, 1958, I went with ALEXAI KRENCHENCO of the International U.S.S.R. Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU to the Komsomol or Young Communist League office. This is a large building located one block east of the headquarters of the Central Committee of the CPSU. There are plain clothes guards at the entrances. They ask for passes and follow security procedures similar to those used at the headquarters of the CCCPSU. There are also guards on the main floor and a guard at the elevators on the upper floors. We went to either the third or fourth floor to the office of ROMANOVSKY, who is one of the secretaries of the Komsomol. The first name of ROMANOVSKY may be SERGI ROMANOVSK (phonetic). It is believed that he may have been the spokesman for the youth delegation from the U.S.S.R. which visited in the United States during July, 1958. If photographs of the persons in this delegation are available it would be possible to determine if he was in this delegation. U.S.S.R.

When we arrived in the outer office of his secretary and were announced, ROMANOVSKY sent word that we should be patient and that he would cancel his other appointments. Some people left his office before we entered. They did not look like Russians. It is possible that they were from Young Communist League organizations in Europe or the so called People's Democracies.

ROMANOVSKY is about 6' in height, has light complexion, brown hair, light eyes and looks and dresses like a young executive.

ROMANOVSKY gave me a brief review of what happened at the World Youth Festival in Moscow in 1957. His comments about the American and British press were bitter. He said that they were responsible for a lot of the trouble and provocations. He stated that the American and British press tried to take photographs illegally, tried to interview delegates, etc. He said that while there was not much to be expected from the American delegation, it lacked leadership and was a bad delegation on the whole. He said that they are angry with [redacted] and they thought that the CPUSA neglected the United States delegation by not dealing with it in an organized way and by not assigning some Party leader to help co-ordinate and to give leadership to the delegation. He said that the leadership of this American delegation was actually selected and elected in Moscow. It was led by inexperienced youngsters. There was also some dissension. They were convinced that there were spies and provocateurs from the United States intelligence agencies in the delegation.

ROMANOVSKY said that they have some suspicions about [redacted]. He said that perhaps she is working for some intelligence agency, but the fact is she did come to Moscow. It is possible that the youngsters in the American delegation did not know how to correctly involve her in activities in order to prevent the factionalism which developed in the American delegation.

^{U.S.S.R.}
NICOLAI DIMITROVICH MATKOFsky (all spellings phonetic), ^{b6} head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, had previously discussed ^{b7C} the American delegation to the World Youth Festival with me. NICOLAI was positive in stating that the American delegation was no good, while ROMANOVSKY said it lacked leadership but was the best delegation which could be expected under the circumstances. NICOLAI was very sharp in his comments about [redacted]. He said that [redacted] has been in touch with the Russians again. However, it is up to the CPUSA to determine who is who in regard to possible enemy agents.

1959 WORLD YOUTH FESTIVAL IN VIENNA, AUSTRIA

ROMANOVSKY said that the 1959 World Youth Festival will be held in Vienna, Austria. A headquarters has been established for a temporary Preparatory Committee for this World Youth Festival. The address is Vienne I, Seilerstatte, 15, Autriche. This Preparatory Committee is composed of Communist Party members or Komsomols.

According to ROMANOVSKY, the Chancellor and the government officials of Austria have agreed to permit this festival to be held in Vienna. It was even dealt with officially on radio and television in Vienna and they have placed no obstacles in the way of this meeting. They permitted the setting up of the temporary Preparatory Committee.

ROMANOVSKY said that the Socialist Youth Federation and the Social Democrats would not endorse or join in this

ESPIONAGE - R

Sash is the control file for information regarding the court operations of NY 694-S* between the Communist Party (CP), USA, and the Labor Progressive Party (CP of Canada). NY 694-S* recently returned from Canada where he had conferred with Tim Buck and Norman Freed, leading functionaries of Canadian CP, during the period 7-30-58 to 8-4-58. Buck advised informant that William Kashtan and Leslie Morris, both members of Canadian CP, had recently returned from European trip during which they had attended CP congresses in Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and East Germany. They had also spent several days in Hungary and five days in Moscow. He requested our informant to convey an important matter to Eugene Dennis, leading functionary of CPUSA, it being noted informant assumes this information was received by Buck from Kashtan and Morris who apparently had received same from sources in Moscow.

International Communist Journal:

Buck told informant to advise Dennis that English edition of the new international communist journal, "World Marxist Review" will be printed in the near future in Canada. According to Buck, the headquarters of this journal will be in Prague and the translated text will be shipped from Prague to Canada where the English translation will be printed. According to Buck, the CPUSA should immediately make arrangements to provide this journal the widest possible distribution in this country. Buck indicated to our informant that this information was received by Buck from Morris who in turn had carried the message directly to Canada from Moscow.

Developments in Hungary:

Buck advised NY 694-S* that Kashtan and Morris had told him that Premier Janos Kadar of Hungary in a meeting with officials of the Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia CPs had stated that the timing of the execution of Imre Nagy in Hungary had to take place when it did due to inner pressures within Hungary. Kadar stated that "we were aware and are aware of the timing of this execution was not of the best but it had to take place when it did. He continued that he could not give full details at present time but might do so later on. Kadar also indicated that the Hungarian secret police are continuing their search for additional revolutionary forces in Hungary.

According to Buck, Morris and Kashtan also had a private conversation with an individual identified only as Khiss, reportedly a Jew in command in Hungary. Khiss also indicated that the Hungarian persecutions were ill timed and that the Hungarians were severely persecuted by the Russians. Khiss also stated that there would be "many many more" executions in Hungary in time to come.

According to Khiss, CP membership in Hungary is presently 100 and it will be maintained at this figure. The greatest strength within Hungarian CP is the necessity to strengthen its communist ideology. Another great weakness in Hungary according to Khiss is the economic problem.

Miscellaneous:

Buck also advised informant that he had determined from Morris and Kashtan that by 1965, East Germany would surpass West Germany in industrial production. Morris and Kashtan also advised Buck that Gomulka, a Polish leader, told them that there will be no further trouble from the anti-Jewish "Folkstimme" which first revealed the persecution of Jews in the Soviet Union. According to Buck, this indicated that the people's publication had either been purged or brought into line.

RECOMMENDATION:

1. It would appear that the above information is of sufficient national significance as to warrant dissemination on a high level and a "Top Secret" classification.

2. If you approve, we will immediately disseminate this information to the Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President, Vice President Nixon, Secretary of State, Central Intelligence Agency and the Attorney General under a "Top Secret" classification. The information will be carefully paraphrased in order to adequately protect our informant.

NICOLAI X MATKOF SKY
While I was in Moscow, Russia, I learned from NICOLAI DIMITROVICH MATKOF SKY (phonetic), head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, and ALEXAI GRECHENCO (phonetic), of the International Department of the CCCPSU, that the Communist Party of Uruguay is scheduled to hold a convention in August, 1958.
This convention will give Communist Parties in South and Central America, and even other Communist Parties, a good excuse to go to Uruguay. Thus, they will have a gathering of most Latin American Communist leaders and this convention is considered important for that reason. At this convention a decision will be made in regard to a date and place for a meeting of all Communist Parties in the Western Hemisphere.
This meeting of all Communist Parties in the Western Hemisphere will most likely take place in Argentina. It is hoped that this meeting can be held in December, but a decision may be made to hold it in January.

The CPSU wants the CPUSA to send a delegate to the convention of the Communist Party of Uruguay for the purpose of getting details in regard to the meeting of all Communist Parties in the Western Hemisphere.

ARGENTINA

While the meeting of all Communist Parties in the Western Hemisphere will most likely be held in Argentina, Venezuela and Columbia were mentioned. Argentina was talked about as a center for Communists in Latin America. It is one of the biggest bases for carrying on illegal international Communist activity, such as conspiracy and espionage, in the general sense, not in a narrow sense. It is also a base for establishing relationships between Communist Parties in the Western Hemisphere and for the co-ordination of the policies of these Communist Parties in the fight against imperialism.

When I discussed with NICOLAI and ALEXAI the difficulty of getting to Russia from the United States because of passport restrictions (this was before the recent Supreme Court decision), they said that Argentina is a good place to make travel arrangements. Brazil and even Venezuela were mentioned in this connection but were not emphasized as Argentina was.

MEETING WITH UNDERGROUND LEADER OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CUBA

While I was in Moscow, a meeting with an underground leader of the Communist Party of Cuba was arranged by the Russians. This meeting was held in the apartment in which I was staying in Moscow. ALEXAI served as the interpreter. Also present was someone from the Latin American Bureau of the International Department of the CCCPSU who speaks Russian and Spanish. It is noted that some Latin Americans operate almost openly in the CCCPSU. No names were used. The Cuban was merely told that I was a representative of the CPUSA in Russia incognito. This Cuban is described as follows: age, about 50; weight, 175; height, 5' 10"; complexion, very light, almost white; eyes, dark. He is almost bald and has just a fringe of hair. He is pleasant looking and does not speak English.

We agreed that if a leader of the Communist Party of Cuba comes to New York City, calls my brother and says that he is "Mr. Garcia", my brother will put him in contact with the leadership of the CPUSA in order to re-establish a good contact between the two Parties and to discuss mutual problems, the political situation in Cuba, what the CPUSA can do for the CP of Cuba, etc.

COMMUNIST PARTY OF VENEZUELA

EDUARDO MACHADO and his wife from the CP of Venezuela were scheduled to be in Russia while I was there according to information from NICOLAI. However, they and some representatives of the CP of Argentina and the CP of Columbia were delayed. Otherwise, I probably would have met with them.

COMMUNIST PARTY OF MEXICO AND GUS HALL

NICOLAI and ALEXAI discussed the arrest of GUS HALL. They stated that while Mexico City still remains a Communist center, it cannot be depended upon any more. They said that both the CPUSA and the CP of Cuba have handed in reports to the effect that something is wrong in the Mexican Party and that the Mexican Communists cannot be trusted. They asked me if I thought this information throwing suspicion on the CP of Mexico might account for the arrest of GUS HALL. They asked if I thought the CP of Mexico betrayed GUS HALL. I replied that I did not know but that there does seem to be some suspicion in regard to the CP of Mexico.

COMMENTS

While Mexico is still being used by Communist Parties which are semi-legal or illegal, Argentina is being used to a greater extent.

I learned from NICOLAI and ALEXAI that a number of Communist leaders from Latin America are planning to go to Moscow for conferences.

During the visit of Vice President RICHARD NIXON to South America my Russian contacts told me that they were glad that the CPUSA is paying attention to events in Latin America.

The attached letter indicates Chicago 5824-S is being considered for membership in the National Committee which is governing body of CP and consists of approximately 60 persons.

youth organizations as possible to make contact with the Preparatory Committee in order to get information, official calls to the festival, etc.

ROMANOVSKY also asked that a list of youth organizations in the United States be sent by the CPUSA to the Preparatory Committee in Vienna so that the Preparatory Committee can circularize invitations to a broader group of organizations and people. He said that in this way they can help to keep out hostile organizations and enemy agents from penetrating and taking the lead at this festival which will be held, after all, in capitalist surroundings. Yet, there is a positive element in holding the festival in a capitalist country. He said that it was hard to get some people to go beyond the borders of the socialist countries to attend the festivals held in Warsaw, Prague and Moscow. It should be easy for people to travel to Vienna, if they are afraid of passport or visa difficulties, because the festival is being held in a capitalist country.

World Youth Festival, although it is being held in Vienna. However, in view of the official action taken by the Austrian Government, ROMANOVSKY doubts that the Social Democrats or the members of the Socialist Youth Federation will actively oppose the World Youth Festival. While they may try to keep their members from participating in it, they dare not oppose the decisions of the government.

ROMANOVSKY said that it should be kept in mind that this festival will take place in hostile surroundings. After all, Austria is a capitalist country and undoubtedly enemy agents will start working now and the festival will be deluged with such agents. Secondly, there will be a serious financial problem in connection with this festival. When it was held in Moscow the delegates were charged a very nominal fee, approximately $2.00 a day, and were supplied with housing, meeting places and food. Even expense money was provided for those who needed it, particularly those in sympathetic delegations. Thus, all the delegations really needed was money for transportation to and from Moscow. In addition, some delegations received help through the international fund of the World Youth Festival Committee. He said that in Vienna they will probably price them to death or will try to do so. Thus, it will be necessary for the youth delegations or organizations to begin raising a little more money than last time. Yet, money will not be the main obstacle which will prevent delegations from going to Vienna since they can make appeals to this Preparatory Committee and will also be able to obtain some international funds of the World Youth Festival Committee.

ROMANOVSKY cited figures to show that there has been a constant increase in attendance at the World Youth Festivals. The largest meeting was the one held in Moscow when about 30,000 delegates from all over the world were in attendance. He said that they do not expect as many delegates to go to Vienna and will be satisfied with an attendance of 18,000 to 20,000.

INSTRUCTIONS TO THE CPUSA IN REGARD TO THE 1959 WORLD YOUTH FESTIVAL IN VIENNA

ROMANOVSKY suggested that I inform the CPUSA about the 1959 World Youth Festival in Vienna. He suggested that the CPUSA should meet with youth leaders and begin to make preparations right now. The CPUSA should also urge as many

LAST DAYS IN MOSCOW

I returned from China by Russian jet plane on July 9, 1958. While I was supposed to meet with NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, my stay in China had been extended and NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV and OTTO KUUSINEN left Russia on July 8, 1958, for the Congress of the Eastern German Communist Party, which started on July 10, 1958.

At the time of my return to Moscow from Sochi about June 25, 1958, at the time of my return to Moscow from China on July 9, 1958, and at the time of my departure from Moscow for Prague, Czechoslovakia, on July 12, 1958, there were all kinds of military vehicles and personnel controlling traffic around the Moscow Airport and the roads leading into the city. A similar situation prevailed at the airport in Peking, China, on July 9, 1958. There were encampments of soldiers in the parks and these were not a part of the military personnel at the Ming Tombs Reservoir. I cannot say whether these were merely summer maneuvers or whether they had some connection with the developing crisis in the Middle East.

All the other meetings that were scheduled for me after my return from China were cancelled, except for the meeting with the Cuban underground leader and contacts with NICOLAI MATKOVSKY (ph) and ALEXAI GRECHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. All of a sudden they began to rush me. I can only attribute this to the delay in China and to the international situation. I think that they were anxious to get me past Prague, Czechoslovakia, in the event that trouble broke out in the Middle East. I am sure that the rush had nothing to do with a lack of confidence in me. During the last few days in Moscow, they were very attentive. They took us to a large department store through a secret entrance. We were able to order items without going into the store itself. I was treated with respect about equal to that which a General Secretary of a Communist Party would receive.

The Russians took minutes of the official meetings I had with members of the Central Committee. They were supposed to compare notes with me. Instead, they gave me a reading of their minutes, and NICOLAI said that I had to leave my notes in Russia. He said, You can remember the basic things. I believe that they are worried stiff about notes which concern their leading Party people.

The day before I left Russia, I wrote another letter to the Central Committee. In this letter, I said that the Central Committee had helped to clarify a number of problems, particularly in relation to a Party program for the Communist Party - USA. I also stated that answers which had been given to me by the Central Committee on a number of questions had been verified as I travelled throughout the Soviet Union and through my conversations with local Party leaders, workers in the factories, collective farmers, etc. I promised that I would take up with the leadership of the Communist Party - USA the questions which the Communist Party of the Soviet Union had raised, such as more frequent contacts, the sending of more delegations to Moscow in the future, the sending of young people to Moscow for training, etc. I thanked the Central Committee for its proletarian internationalism and for the care and consideration they had given for our material welfare. I thanked the representatives of the International Department, who were in daily contact with us, for their co-operation and for making the journey a success.

The Russians gave me $400 for transportation and similar expenses and for the purchase of souvenirs in Prague, Czechoslovakia. Once we arrived in Prague, we started to act as typical American tourists. They also gave me the following address for the mailing of material published by the Communist Party - USA: Main Post Office Box 341, Moscow, USSR.

INFORMATION PERTAINING TO INDIVIDUALS

The Russians thought very highly of [redacted]. While [redacted] was in Russia, he learned to read and write Russian. Several people with whom I talked asked what had happened to the [redacted]s. YURI IVANOV, of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, is a particularly good friend of [redacted]. [redacted] taught IVANOV all the songs in "My Fair Lady" and other American songs. The [redacted]s lived in a dachi in Moscow known as "Seribniabor" (phonetic -- means "silver woods"). YURI IVANOV gave me a silver spoon to give to the [redacted]s.

It is noted that there is no such thing as individual correspondence for the Russians.

EUGENE DENNIS told me on July 23, 1958, that he did not know the [redacted]s.

The Wife and Son of [redacted]

[redacted] told me that [redacted]'s wife is in Russia. He said that she was in exile in a labor camp for about eighteen years and has just come back from this labor camp.

The [] have a son named [] [] said that he is a very brilliant civil engineer. He was raised in a home and just met his mother recently. He claims that she was framed and that because of []'s activities, she was punished. The child was too young to be punished, so he was allowed to go to school. [] went to a special school for Americans. Funds for their education came from a committee for international aid. [] lives in []

By way of background, I had arranged a code with [] in order to communicate with him about Party matters when he left Moscow in the early 1930's. We discontinued our association when he was expelled from the Communist Party - USA in 1934 or 1935. He was a part of the FOSTER group during the fight with J. LOVESTONE. He had been sent to Venezuela and was arrested there. When he got out of jail, he went back to the United States and broke with the Communist Party. He was expelled by EARL BROWDER.

SSR [] who currently works in the National Office of the Communist Party - USA, told me that when they had a cleansing in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union in January, 1930, [] and others all bore witness against her. She said that she thought that she would never see the light of day after this cleansing was completed, but a person named [] from the Comintern, saved her.

In conversations with [] both at his and at my apartment in Moscow, he said that he has not been satisfied with his studies lately. He has a number of degrees, including a Ph.D. He said that he does not intend to be a routine personage or even a routine Party leader. He said that he likes to delve deeply into history and Communist theory. He said this is the only way he can work. He commented that MAO Tse-tung's thoughts are similar. He said that he hopes to be able to participate in political work, but not purely as a politician. He wants to participate in the field of history and in a deeper study of politics.

[] said that the book [] is only a portion of a thesis which he has written on the Negro question. He said he had been a news analyst and commentator on international radio. He has been working with the International Department of the Central working with International Department of the Communist

Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union for about one year. They are grooming him. He is considered to be an expert on America, American labor history, and on history in general. He is now being utilized by the Central Committee as one of a delegation of ten from Moscow who will work on the English language section of the international Communist magazine which is being published in Prague, Czechoslovakia. The emphasis will be on the United States in the English language section of this magazine. He has been writing articles in various Soviet magazines and newspapers. He said that he was not too happy about this because he wants to write more learned articles. He has also been participating in many discussions in the Academy of Political Science and Economy.

[redacted] is making a lot of money. He objected to the fact that we brought gifts to him. He said that he can afford to support his father now. He commands a high base salary and also gets paid for the articles he writes. His wife, who is about 21 years of age, is studying geopolitics and has one year of study left. She gets paid for going to school. They have a very nice apartment. She will join [redacted] in Prague in September.

He is currently using the name [redacted] which means [redacted]. This is his public name. In regard to this name, he said that at one time he needed a passport to go to England with a delegation. So they hurriedly thought up this name for him. He is very nice looking. He looks like his mother. He would like to believe that he looks like his father (whoever he may be). He is about [redacted] tall, has dark eyes, weighs about [redacted] lbs., and has [redacted], which he is [redacted].

I would have obtained more information from [redacted] if I had had an opportunity to see him more frequently. He will talk to me in confidence because I am supposed to be a friend of his father. He was very happy to hear about the main resolution presented by EUGENE DENNIS and adopted at the February meeting of the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA. I did not give him details in regard to my discussions with the Russian leadership. I also did not tell him too much about the situation in the Communist Party - USA, except for some generalities.

I was supposed to see [redacted] in Prague in order to obtain his address, but I did not contact him in Prague. I gave him an address in Chicago for the purpose of writing letters to me for delivery to his father and mother.

He gave me photographs of his wife and small son to give to his parents. He said that ALEXAI GRECHENCO and NICOLAI MATKOVSKY would not permit him to send photographs of himself because there might be too strong a family resemblance.

When I spoke with [] in New York City on July 23, 1958, he did not know that he has a grandson named '[]'.

I wanted to see [] the granddaughter of [] NICOLAI and ALEXAI dissuaded me from doing this. I said that I could not return to the United States without seeing her. NICOLAI said, Let me tell you about her. She is mentally ill. We have taken her to every hospital and to specialists. She refused to submit to therapy. The doctors made certain suggestions which might have helped her, but we could not budge her.

NICOLAI said that they gave her an apartment. Everyone who has gone to see her up to the present time has been thrown down the steps. IRVING POTASH was slapped in the face. TIM BUCK was slapped twice. NICOLAI said she also slapped him in the face. [] said he will not go near her again.

They give her one thousand rubles a month in cash through the International Red Cross. She has become an alcoholic. She spends some money on food, but mostly on liquor. She cannot speak.

She has a three and one-half room apartment in a large apartment building on [] (phonetic -- means '[]'). They finally persuaded me to just take a look at the apartment. Ordinarily, they would place such a person in a mental institution, but they would not do it to the granddaughter of []

MEETING WITH EUGENE DENNIS IN NEW YORK CITY ON JULY 23, 1958

On July 23, 1958, I met with EUGENE DENNIS in New York City, and gave him some details of my trip. I did not complete my discussions with DENNIS at this time. DENNIS' comments have been set forth in the various portions of this report. My brother and I met DENNIS, and he asked where we had rented the car, what the procedure was, etc. We showed DENNIS the bill from the Hertz Company. DENNIS commented that a rented car cannot be wired. Then during the trip toward Poughkeepsie, we occasionally stopped suddenly, pulled off the road, and let the cars behind us go by. It was a damn good thing we did not do it any other way, or we would have had problems with DENNIS, who is extremely security conscious. As it was, most of the important part of the discussion was conducted outside of the car in parks and in wooded areas.

COMMENTS CONCERNING THIS TRIP TO RUSSIA AND CHINA

I think that this trip was successful because we were able to be the first ones to penetrate the secret precincts of Russia and China and were able to open up the lines of communication. So, we have some control over the lines of communication as of now. We also have knowledge of the means of communication. We know that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG is the center for communications directly with the Russians. We knew it in general before, but we could not verify it. Now we have verified it.

Also, the door is open for the future both for contacts in the Soviet Union and in China, with one or two qualifications. One cannot make such a trip as an individual unless there is some kind of a mandate from the National Committee or from individual leaders in the Party. Unless I am elected to the National Committee, a similar trip in the future will be more difficult. The promise has been made to me by JAMES JACKSON that I will be added to the National Committee, but there is no guarantee of this. Also, I did not want to be added to the National Committee publicly. While I would like to be added to the National Committee, I would be in a better position if I were a so-called "quiet" member. Publicity would not help us any, but a title of some sort which is more definite than the titles I now have could help us in future endeavors in this regard.

Another drawback has been the decision of the United States Supreme Court in regard to passports. Until this decision, we had a monopoly. This decision has made it a bit more difficult for us. I do not mean by this that they are going to open up new lines of communications. First of all, DENNIS would not do it right now. He would not dare to start all over again. If he tried to change connections, he would be undermining himself. He may reward some people with a trip to Russia for the purpose of attending some anniversary celebration or something similar to this; however, this would be different from sending someone to Russia as an official delegate from the Communist Party - USA. Further, the Russians would not talk to a person going to Russia for that purpose as freely and in as much detail as they did with me. Also, I doubt that the Russians would want to change the arrangements right away. They know that I was a representative of the Secretariat and the DENNIS leadership of the Communist Party - USA, and they are satisfied with this. If we follow through by sending material published by the Communist Party - USA to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, and if this material is not impeded in transit, then we will be in a pretty solid position. No one else is in a position at this moment to supply them with the information they want. We should try to strengthen our hold on this apparatus, which leads to the two most powerful groups in the international Communist movement. I still put the Soviet Union first, and China next.

We dealt with most of the important people, even if we did not deal with all of them. With the exception of an individual here and there, we dealt with the most important people in the international Communist movement. Yet, our connections in the Soviet Union are pretty limited. We will have to decide how to build up the hold we have now. We have not finished the job as yet. While they invited me to return to Russia, it is necessary to have a political mandate from the Communist Party - USA for a really successful trip.

No one knows that I travelled with an American passport. EUGENE DENNIS assumes that I returned to the United States through another country, such as Canada or Mexico. When ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG asked me if the "people up North" (Canadians) gave me a lift, I answered affirmatively. The Russians will not tell anyone from the Communist Party - USA that I travelled on an American passport. Therefore, we should consider whether or not it would be advisable for me to file for a passport in my own name and in another city before any Congressional legislation is passed in regard to passport restrictions.

Re Chicago letters (two) dated August 8, 1958, reflecting that BORIS PONOMAREV, Head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, had participated in the formal meetings which CG 5824-S* had with the leadership of the CCCPSU, and that CG 5824-S* had met with PONOMAREV and NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH MATKOVSKY (ph), Head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, in regard to funds for the Communist Party - USA.

On August 14, 1958, CG 5824-S* called attention to the attached photograph, which appeared in the August 18, 1958, edition of "Time" magazine. CG 5824-S* stated that the man in the background in this photograph is PONOMAREV and that in the opinion of the informant, the position of BORIS PONOMAREV in this photograph indicates that he may have been the number two man to NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV on this particular trip.

NY 694-S* advised informant left NYC by plane on Friday, 8/15/58, arriving on the same date at 10:30 a.m. in Boston. Informant met CG 5824-S* in Boston, after the latter had arrived by plane from Chicago. NY 694-S* rented a Hertz automobile, and both informants proceeded towards Bangor, Maine, intending to meet EUGENE DENNIS in front of the Post Office at Stonington, Maine, at noon on 8/16/58, as had been pre-arranged. On the evening of 8/15/58, both informants stopped over at a motel on the outskirts of Bangor. ~~(u)~~

Early in the a.m. of 8/16/58, both informants departed for Stonington, Maine, where they arrived approximately 10:00 a.m. and waited in a restaurant where they could observe traffic in front of the Post Office. At approximately 10:30 a.m., EUGENE DENNIS and his wife, PEGGY DENNIS, arrived in an automobile (NY 694-S* advised this automobile was also a Hertz rented car bearing New York registration and was a 1958 Chevrolet Bel-Air Sedan.) and indicated to the informants that they should follow his automobile. ~~(u)~~

NY 694-S* drove his car in back of DENNIS for several miles until DENNIS turned into a wooded picnic area beyond Stonington. When informants engaged DENNIS in conversation at this point, the latter indicated he did not desire to talk there, and it was agreed that informants would drive in the direction of Bar Harbor, Maine, where they would spend the night at a motel seven miles south of Bar Harbor on Route 3, and DENNIS would reside in a motel approximately one mile north of Bar Harbor. NY 694-S* commented that EUGENE DENNIS was apparently somewhat familiar with this area and knew the identities of the motels in which he instructed informants to stop. ~~(u)~~

NY 694-S* commented that while in the picnic grove, a car steered into the area, backed up, and drove out of the area, and this action apparently unnerved DENNIS to the extent that for security reasons he declined to engage in extended conversation in this area. ~~(u)~~

Allowing approximately six to seven hours to get to Bar Harbor and settle down in the motel, it was agreed by the ~~(u)~~ informants and DENNIS that they would meet at six that evening at DENNIS' motel, approximately one mile north of Bar Harbor. Informants met DENNIS at the motel and they proceeded in the informant's rented car in the direction of Jordan's Pond, which they circled around, and with NY 694-S* driving, stopped at a remote restaurant on Highway #3. At the restaurant, it was agreed that CG 5824-S* and GENE DENNIS would again meet for talks on the a.m. of 8/17/58, at which time CG 5824-S* would be picked up at the informant's motel and they would drive to a suitable place. It was also agreed that NY 694-S* would "disappear" to allow CG 5824-S* and DENNIS to engage in private conversation for the entire day on 8/17/58. $(u)

It is noted NY 694-S* commented that at this point, EUGENE DENNIS confided in the informants that his wife, PEGGY, was unaware that CG 5824-S* had travelled in connection with the SOLO operation. It was agreed by DENNIS and the informants that DENNIS would tell his wife briefly, but not in detail, regarding the SOLO operation. $(u)

On Sunday, 8/17/58, in the a.m., as previously agreed, DENNIS, in the company of his wife, picked up CG 5824-S* at the latter's motel and they drove to a mountain area where they would talk and picnic (as a cover). NY 694-S* commented that PEGGY DENNIS, although in the company of the informant and EUGENE DENNIS, would not sit in on the conversations. NY 694-S*, himself, went fishing to cover his activities. $(u)

At approximately 6:00 p.m. on 8/17/58, DENNIS, his wife and CG 5824-S* picked up NY 694-S* at the latter's motel, and they had dinner at a local restaurant and agreed to meet at the DENNIS motel on Monday, 8/18/58. $(u)

On 8/18/58, NY 694-S*, CG 5824-S* and EUGENE DENNIS conferred in the latter's motel kitchen, with PEGGY DENNIS present in the other room. NY 694-S*, in the presence of CG 5824-S*, advised DENNIS of the information regarding the "World Marxist Review" that informant had been asked to convey to DENNIS by TIM BUCK, Canadian LPP leader, on a recent trip to Canada. NY 694-S* pointed out to DENNIS the problems concerning the printing of this world Communist publication in Canada, the price, and $(u) distribution, and conveyed to DENNIS, BUCK's suggestion that an individual be appointed by the CP, USA to be responsible for distribution of the publication in the U. S. ~~(U)~~

(It is noted information regarding the world Communist publication was forwarded to the Bureau by airtel dated 8/5/58, captioned SASH, ESP - R.) ~~(U)~~

NY 694-S* then made available to DENNIS the handwritten note on the back of an envelope informant had been given by TIM BUCK to forward to EUGENE DENNIS. Informant commented that the salutation and signature had been cut off this note by the informant prior to giving it to DENNIS. ~~(U)~~

(It is noted full information regarding the above-described note was forwarded to the Bureau by airtel dated 8/6/58, captioned CP, USA - INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS, IS - C. The note, which was apparently forwarded to BUCK by LESLIE MORRIS who had recently returned from abroad, set out that BEATRICE SISKIND had asked MORRIS in Berlin that the CP, USA be suggested to utilize the services of GEORGE SISKIND, currently in Poland, in an editorial capacity on the new world Communist journal.) ~~(U)~~

It is noted NY 694-S* advised that during this conversation, DENNIS insisted that a portable radio be turned on and that the information be conveyed to him by NY 694-S* in handwritten notes. After furnishing the information to DENNIS, the informant advised DENNIS destroyed both the handwritten notes and the SISKIND note in the fireplace. DENNIS nodded and indicated to NY 694-S* that he would discuss the matters conveyed to him by NY 694-S* with CG 5824-S* ~~(U)~~

Later on Monday, 8/18/58, NY 694-S* took PEGGY DENNIS for a drive in the automobile, leaving DENNIS and CG 5824-S* alone to further discuss matters pertaining to the SOLO operation. NY 694-S* and PEGGY DENNIS returned about noon, at which time it was indicated that the conversation between DENNIS and CG 5824-S* was completed for the time being. ~~(U)~~

It is noted NY 694-S* advised that while driving PEGGY DENNIS on the a.m. of 8/18/58, she commented that EUGENE DENNIS ~~(U)~~

"never talks to her" regarding the details of CP politics. $(u)

NY 694-S* briefly discussed with EUGENE DENNIS the fact that $2300 had been spent for the expenses of the last National Committee meeting out of the $10,000 that had previously been made available to NY 694-S* by ROBERT THOMPSON to hold as a reserve. $(u)

It was agreed by the informants and EUGENE DENNIS that NY 694-S* would not divulge to anyone that he had seen EUGENE DENNIS during the week end, and that he was not to tell [] office worker at CP National Headquarters, that he had conferred with DENNIS. It was also agreed by DENNIS and NY 694-S* that any future contacts between DENNIS and the informants would be made through [] by mail. DENNIS stated that he intended to return to NYC after Labor Day. $(u)

Before DENNIS and the informants departed company, DENNIS gave to NY 694-S* some personal photographs of his grandchild and daughter-in-law that had been given to DENNIS by CG 5824-S*, the latter having received them in connection with the SOLO operation. DENNIS asked NY 694-S* to make copies of these photographs in the informant's personal dark room and to return them directly to him. $(u)

NY 694-S* and CG 5824-S* had lunch with EUGENE and PEGGY DENNIS and then departed from the Bar Harbor area for Boston, where they took a plane to NYC, arriving in New York on the evening of 8/18/58. $(u)

The above has been set out as a chronological summary of activity that took place during the period 8/15/58 to 8/18/58 when informants conferred with EUGENE DENNIS in Maine. Additional data and details of the conversations of CG 5824-S* and EUGENE DENNIS will be furnished to the Bureau by the Chicago Division. $(u)

CG 5824-S* intends to remain in NYC on 8/19, 20 and possibly 21, where he will be engaged in activities at CP National Headquarters, after which time he will return to Chicago. $(u)

[August 7, 1958]

Since my return from Russia, I learned from either EUGENE DENNIS or JAMES JACKSON in New York City during the week of July 20, 1958, that JOE STAROBIN was also in Moscow for the purpose of preparing a headquarters for the Communist Party - U leadership in exile. While STAROBIN was ostensibly in Europe for the purpose of writing a book, this was only a part of his assignment and his other task was to make preparations for this headquarters in exile. (STW)

I also learned at the same time that MAX WEISS made the decision not to go through with these plans for a headquarters in Moscow. It is possible, however, that GIL GREEN may have had something to do with this decision. (STW) characteristic Hammarskjöld touch.) He also hinted at establishment of U.N. observation machinery to check on observance of these pledges and U.N. guarantee of present frontiers in the Middle East.

¶ To facilitate withdrawal of U.S. and British troops, the U.N. Observation Group in Lebanon and the U.N. Father & Son

In their tireless effort to determine how Soviet policy is made, Western diplomats are often in the position of anthropologists trying to reconstruct a dinosaur from the evidence of one jawbone. But when Nikita Khrushchev performed his clumsy about-face on the summit meeting last week, the reason was plain to see. He had been driven to it by Red China's Mao Tse-tung.

As has happened before, Khrushchev's cocky impetuosity had got him into trouble. In the days after the Iraqi coup, Nikita conducted his Mideast summit ne-

City, the two arbiters of the Communist world negotiated. When they emerged to shake hands for the photographers, the ruling line had become the Moscow line as well.

The Crackdown. This was not the first time Mao Tse-tung had made himself felt in Moscow. For two years Communist specialists in the West have been speculating that Mao had something close to a veto over some aspects of Soviet policy. Such speculation began when the Poles and Yugoslavs—soon after the October revolt that brought Wladyslaw Gomulka to power in Warsaw—reported that Mao was pressuring the Soviets to follow a more liberal policy toward the satellites. Warsaw and Belgrade saw Mao as their best champion in the Kremlin.

At that point, Mao was talking big about "letting one hundred flowers bloom"—until the blooming flowers of self-criticism set off such disorder in his own garden that he had to call the whole thing off. From then on, Peking worked against Gomulka and Tito by attacking Yugoslav "revisionism" even more savagely than did the Russians themselves. But the Mao-is-tops theorists stuck to their theory, while reversing their field: now it was not Mao the liberal they cheered, but Mao the hard they feared.

The available pieces of jawbone are not enough to flesh out the skeleton on which that theory hangs. But there could be little doubt that Mao had vetoed the summit. Nor is there much question of a sharpening distinction between current Russian and Chinese approaches. Khrushchev's claim to "liberalism" is belied by Hungary and his earlier days in the Ukraine; but he has pragmatically responded to some of the pressures to "liberalize" Russian life.

Mao is cracking down ever harder, and systematically sealing up every tiny gap in the Bamboo Curtain. The foreign press colony is now almost nonexistent in Peking. In the past six months, nearly two score Chinese servants employed in foreign embassies in Peking (including even that of "comradely" Czechoslovakia) have been whisked off to jail. Last week Mao's government ruled that the embassies and foreign business concerns could no longer hire their own employees; must accept people sent to them by the State Labor Bureau.

Saber & Specter. Obviously, any breath of outside air is, in China's present stage, like too much oxygen. Adult Russians have known nothing but a Communist society for the past 40 years; among educated Chinese, the memory of the atmosphere and another kind of thought is only nine years old. On such people, Mao has to cinch the Marxist straitjacket tighter. He is less free to adopt the Russians' confident approach that "peaceful competition" will lead to ultimate Communist triumph. In the classic fashion of young dictatorships, Red China must rely on "the threat from abroad" as a prop to internal discipline.

All of this was no sign that Mao was now calling the tune in the Communist by the Arab states and the U.N. in a far-ranging economic development program.

The Trip Wire. In drawing up his plan, Dag Hammarskjöld had characteristically proceeded from the existing power realities in the Middle East. To begin with, he had to take into account Arab nationalism; he sought to encourage its legitimate development. He sought to create conditions of stability so that Britain and the U.S. might withdraw their troops while retaining their commercial access to the area. He recognized that while the West had no intention of securing its economic interests indefinitely by the overt use of force, neither did it intend to be deprived of those interests by force.

In the long run, the chief hope that the Middle East's welter of conflicting national purposes could peaceably be reconciled lay in the establishment of a set of ground rules that would restrict political change in the Middle East to orderly, nonviolent channels. In essence, what Dag Hammarskjöld was proposing was acceptance of such a set of rules and the establishment of a kind of U.N. trip wire to sound the alarm whenever anyone showed a disposition to violate them.

gotiations with the offhand decisiveness of a man who feels no need to consult anyone before he answers his mail. When Eisenhower's note proposing a U.N. summit conference arrived in Moscow, Khrushchev and some of his top aides were in conference with a group of visiting Austrians. "Will you excuse us?" said Nikita. "We have to draft a reply to Eisenhower's letter." In just 20 minutes, his acceptance note outlined, Khrushchev reappeared.

In his self-confidence, Khrushchev ignored the deep-seated hostility inside the Kremlin bureaucracy toward a summit meeting inside U.N.—a hostility clearly indicated by the fact that the first reactions of the kept Soviet press to the proposal were uniformly unfavorable. Worse yet, he obviously failed to keep in touch with Mao, whose journalistic mouthpieces, right up to the moment that Khrushchev accepted the proposal, were denouncing it as "deceptive," "ridiculous," "full of pitfalls."

Then came the flight to Peking—a journey that to gleeful Asians seemed to be Khrushchev's dutiful response to a hurry-up call from Mao. For four days, behind the ancient red walls of Peking's Imperial

With regard to my previous communications, the last of which was dated August 1, 1958, I thought that you would be interested in the following additional information relative to discussions between leading officials of Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA. This information was received from sources which have furnished reliable data in the past.

While discussing the international situation, Mao Tse-tung, chairman of the Red Chinese Government, stated that Red China has the Formosan Army in its pocket

Other leading officials of Red China indicated that they are not worried about Formosa. They boasted that the imperialists are crazy if they trust the Chinese in Formosa. They said that not only the son of Chiang Kai-shek but all the Chinese people on Formosa are antagonistic toward the Americans. They also bragged that they generally know in advance when agents or spies are coming into Red China but they only publicize the capture of one of these agents or spies when it serves them politically.

The Chinese officials continued that American military personnel mistreat the people on Formosa and go crazy in regard to security regulations. They stated that people from Formosa have come to them and told them about incidents which took place on Formosa. As an example of the mistreatment of people on Formosa by the Americans, they stated that there are separate swimming places for the Americans and for the Chinese. Certain highlights of information as obtained from our informant have been previously disseminated to Vice President Nixon, Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President, Secretary of State and the Attorney General by memoranda July 24, 25, 31 and August 1, 1958. Additional dissemination has been withheld pending forthcoming briefing of Cabinet by Director unless information appears to be of such urgency that its dissemination should not be held up.

It is noted that a portion of the information as obtained by our informant pertains to the attitude of Red China toward Formosa and indicated that Red China is not worried about Formosa. In view of the current international situation, it is felt that this information should be promptly disseminated.

ACTION:

There are attached for your approval appropriate communications to Vice President Nixon, Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President, Secretary of State and the Attorney General under a "Top Secret" classification which contains the information reflecting the attitude of Red China toward Formosa.

Thompson

MEMBER OF NY
After the meeting of the Resident National Executive Committee of the Communist Party - USA on Tuesday, August 19, 1958, ROBERT THOMPSON asked whether I would have dinner with him and then spend a few hours with him after dinner and before he goes to meet some people. He said that he had a number of things that he wanted to discuss with me. I agreed and we left the National Office and went to some kind of a joint, a saloon, called, I believe, Donlan's or Donovan's, on 28th Street between Broadway and Fifth Avenue in New York City.

First of all, THOMPSON said that he knows that I was abroad, although EUGENE DENNIS did not say that it was I. He asked me if I would want to talk to him a little about some of the problems. I told him what GENE DENNIS had told me, that in the very near future there would be an official meeting and I would give a report at that meeting. USA LEADER OF C.P.

I gave him a brief resume, emphasizing, of course, his role in the Communist Party - USA. That is, that the chief Parties in the Communist International consider the present leadership of the Communist Party - USA a stable leadership and the leadership of the Party. Also, that the Russians will not support any ultra-Left group or any other faction. Further, that he, as well as WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and EUGENE DENNIS, are considered a basic part of this new American anti-revisionist leadership.

LEADER OF C.P. USA
We did not go into any detailed discussion. I just gave him a sketch of some of the important political thinking and deferred further discussion. He asked me some questions about the Yugoslav situation. He asked how the Russians reconciled their attitude in 1954, 1955, 1956, etc., with the present attitude toward Yugoslavia. He asked, Isn't it sort of an abrupt turnabout? How do they explain it away? I told him that I could not speak for the Russians. The Russians said that they had nothing to lose. They thought that they could test TITO and reach some agreement with him over the years. While it was a good try, it failed.

After this brief discussion about international affairs, I told THOMPSON that I have a few practical matters to take up with him. I asked him what he did with my communication regarding the convention of the Communist Party of Uruguay. He informed me that a telegram was sent to the Communist Party of Uruguay.

I gave him the address of the Preparatory Committee for the World Youth Congress in Vienna. He was told a little about this World Youth Congress. I also told him that they want a list of youth organizations and asked if he would undertake to send this list. He replied that if I would give him the address, he would do this. I was glad to get rid of this task and gave the address to him. I did not give him any report on my discussion with ROMANOVSKY.

I. PLACES VISITED IN AND AROUND PEKING

A. Ming Tombs Reservoir

I went to the opening of a reservoir called Ming Tombs Reservoir. It is outside Peking, and is near the burial place of the Ming dynasty. There were thousands of troops quartered there in tents. Thousands of people, including the Army, helped to build this reservoir. They had been working on it day and night since November, 1957, in order to complete it before the rainy season in July and August. The troops participated in the ceremonies as a part of the builders of the reservoir. One of the Generals in command marched with the civilian dignitaries. I was told that the Army helps to build railroads and factories, since they might as well utilize them, even though they are in uniform. They have such centralized control that they can utilize everything in a military or semi-military fashion, including the labor force. They admit that they still have forced labor camps, although I do not have any information concerning them.

CHINA
CHOU En-lai spent nearly two weeks working and pushing a wheelbarrow at this reservoir. I saw photographs in the paper depicting this. The Chinese comrades told me that when CHOU En-lai arrived at the reservoir, the Chief Engineer and others thanked the leadership for visiting the reservoir. CHOU En-lai replied that they were not there as leaders, but merely as Chinese citizens in order to participate in the construction. He said, We are all equals. They described how he broke in on the job in the same manner as the others, ate the same foods, sang songs they sang, and received no special favors.

9 THAI TING CHANG - PEKING
Practically every leader in the Communist Party of China is going through this type of thing. The wife of TANG Ming-Chao, of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, has been on a farm for six months. She was sent there by the Party. He is taking care of their two children. There are similar examples. The leadership of the Communist Party of China wants everyone in the leadership to live with the people and to act like them. I believe that they are going through this stage, at the inspiration of MAO Tse-tung, in order to maintain the idea that they are a part of the people and are not a bureaucracy. The Russians used to do this. They did manual labor on off-days. "Sabotniks" (ph) means that you give free labor. Everybody had to do it in Russia. I did it. After the revolution, LENIN went through this also. Now, they are doing it in China.

B. Visit to a Co-Operative Farm

I visited a co-operative farm, which was about a two-hour ride from Peking. This visit was made to allow me to talk with the Party Chairman, the Farm Committee, the village authorities, etc. Those who work on co-operative farms live in fenced-in villages. The farm we visited has 1,500 working members. They have opened fifty new wells and all these wells are equipped with electric motors to pump water for irrigation purposes. They have not done this before. They have made rice paddies and raised other grain. They have experimental rice and other grain in special plots. They were building a new pig sty. They want to buy machines and build more schools. They are opening a few schools in China, and there was a high school in this co-operative. So far, the standards of living have not increased. They are very low.

The Party leadership on the farm is very young. The Party sent these young leaders into the farm. The Chairman of the farm was raised in this particular area. The Chairman of the Party on the farm was sent into the farm. The Central Committee is sending people to the rural areas. They are also sending Rightists to the rural areas, with a proviso that they cannot have any leading position. They are bringing peasants in in order to teach them farming.

They are removing private burial grounds, particularly in the rural areas. They give notice to the relatives to remove the bodies. However, if the relatives do not do this, the Government does. Thus, they play up to the sentiments of the people and do it differently than the Russians, who would merely destroy the cemeteries without saying anything to anyone.

In the Peking area, we saw very few tractors on the farms. There is very little motorized transportation in the rural areas or in the city, for that matter. The bulk of the transportation is still with animal power -- a mule and a donkey hitched to the same cart. They carry everything in these carts. They carry what the Russians would put in a two-ton truck, and what Americans would put in a one-ton truck. They also transport articles in trailers and hitch these trailers to bicycles.

Practically everything is done with 99% human labor power. But they have the people organized. They are industrious. While the people are organized and are enthusiastic in Russia, they are not organized as the Chinese are. The Party leadership has the Chinese organized to the nth degree. No one is permitted to be idle in China. Unlike the Russians, the Chinese took us to the bad places, as well as the good places. They were not afraid to take us to places where people live in poverty.

C. Visits to the Industrial Center in East Peking

The Central Committee of the Communist Party of China plans to turn Peking into an industrial city so that they can have a larger proletarian base than they have had up to now.

In East Peking, there are scores of new factories. Around these factories, they establish communities with new apartment buildings with central heating, schools, palaces of culture, etc. Not far from this area, they have laid out new roads, tree-lined streets, and a modern concrete highway leading from the center of the city to the Eastern section. The plan is to establish an industrial area and to have hundreds of thousands of new industrial workers who will make up the backbone of the Party.

We visited a huge factory in the Eastern part of Peking. Radio tubes and electric equipment are manufactured here. The technical expert had just returned from Moscow and thought that I was a Russian. This factory was completely equipped with Russian equipment.

The factory was divided into three gray brick buildings, each of which had a large smoke stack. There were three tanks in front of the factory. To work in the electronic factory, a high school education is required. The average age of people in the electronic factory is 24. There were no other factories immediately adjacent to this one, but there were other electronic factories in the area.

We also visited a textile factory. It is a reddish-brown brick building and equipped with Chinese machinery. Most of the machinery was made in Shanghai, although some of it was made in and around Peking. Most of the machinery was automatic or semi-automatic. The average age of the workers in this factory is 22, and they are chiefly women.

D. Observations on the City of Peking

They are building new Embassies in the diplomatic area, which is not too far from the industrial area of East Peking.

We travelled along the Street of Perpetual Peace, which has recently been widened. No building less than five or six stories can be built on this street. They are erecting a new building for the Trade Ministry. They are also building apartments and offices. They have also built a new canal, which runs through a part of the city and is used partly for irrigation purposes. It is not too far from the International Liaison Department compound in the Western part of the city. They have also built new hospitals along the street of Perpetual Peace.

They have opened up some of the old palaces. They are not trying to restore these palaces as the Russians have done. However, they are saving some of them in order to tie up present history with the ancient history of China. Many Governmental agencies are housed in compounds or old palaces. The Government agencies build apartment buildings for their personnel, just as the industries do.

They have built gymnasiums and auditoriums in order to involve the youth in sports. Only in rare cases do they use machinery. While the Russians probably use more cranes than Americans, it is almost totally hand labor in China and they do a pretty efficient job. We have a tendency to under-estimate them because of the lack of machinery. While they have very little machinery, they are obtaining and building more. They boasted about building a 20,000-ton ship, and 90% of the labor is by hand. They organize and mobilize labor.

While Peking is still not the most productive area, they have increased electrical power and irrigation. While I saw great damage to building material in Russia, I saw none in China. They organized the people to kill flies, rats and sparrows because they were eating the grain. They use every foot of soil. They have really organized the people for production.

II. COMMENTS ON THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CHINA AND CHINA

China is a very serious enemy. I would not have believed it if I had not seen it with my own eyes. They claim that they have twelve million Party members, and twice as many members in the Young Communist League.

The Chinese are receiving all the aid they request from Russia. All they have to do is ask. They said that not only do the Russians send them machinery for the factories, but they even put in lawns around the factories. One of the largest hospitals in Peking is a Soviet hospital. I was also told that the Russians are now building a new Embassy for the Chinese in Moscow. It is in the newer section of the city near the University of Moscow. It is said to cost over a million dollars, and is a gift from Russia to China.

The Russians have paid a big price to get the support of the Chinese and they are getting this support. The Chinese take the lead in all ideological battles. For example, MAO Tse-tung actually introduced the Twelve-Party Declaration at the Conference in Moscow. The Chinese have given leadership in the struggle against revisionism. This is connected with the internal situation in China as it existed about a year ago. While the Chinese have now consolidated their position, they had to use sharp methods and a lot of terror, both ideological and practical terror, in order to once again take hold of the leadership. I do not mean to minimize the hold the Chinese Communists have upon the Chinese people or to minimize the importance and strength of the Communist Party of China.

I got the impression, however, that the Chinese want to work things out on their own instead of always being dependent upon the Russians. I believe this to be true, even though the Chinese kept repeating that the Russians gave them everything. While they endorse the policy of co-ordinating or meshing the economies of the various Socialist countries, they put China in a category of being, by nature, an industrial power. They say that some day they will be as big an industrial power as the Soviet Union and the United States. As long as they can gain something from it, they will take it on the chin, even from the Russians, while they are building and learning. They are united and at the present consider the Soviet Union as the leader.

Whatever has been said by commentators in the past about the Chinese and their influence in Asia, or that the Chinese look upon certain areas as their preserve, is true. They can reach Asiatic people easier than Russia, and they do this. The Russians are white and are looked upon with suspicion in some Far East countries. The Chinese play their role in these countries.

The Chinese talked about Burma and said that an American expert went to Burma, and told them that the native cotton could not be used with American machinery. The Chinese were then asked to go into Burma. The Chinese sent experts to Burma and told them that China could supply the machinery and they could use their own cotton. The Chinese told the Burmese that they were satisfied just to sell the machinery and that they were interested in the independence of the Burmese. The Chinese told the Burmese that they are not like the Americans, who wanted to sell cotton as well as machinery. The Chinese use the argument that the United States wants other countries to become completely dependent on them. China exports some machinery. The automobiles and machinery which are produced and exported by China create a good impression on the backward Asiatic people.

The Chinese knew a lot about Indonesia. They must have a lot of contacts in Indonesia. WANG Chia-hsiang, Head of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, and others told me that they were not surprised over developments in Indonesia. They said that when President SUKARNO was in China, he had talked with them. SUKARNO pointed to political differences and groupings, and stated why he can go so far and no further. The Chinese have promised a lot of aid to SUKARNO. Some of this aid will come from the Russians. The Chinese said that the Indonesian Communist Party is playing a most important role. The Indonesian Communist Party now has over two million members. In recent elections, they have captured some of the largest towns and cities in Indonesia. The Chinese are in contact with the Indonesian Communist Party. While the Communist Party of the Soviet Union probably has contact with the Indonesian Communist Party, I believe that the Chinese have closer contacts with the Communist Parties in the Far Eastern countries than the Russians do.

The Chinese are not worried about Formosa. They were boasting that the imperialists are crazy if they trust the Chinese in Formosa. They said that not only the son of CHIANG Kai-shek, but all the Chinese people on Formosa are antagonistic toward the Americans. They stated that people from Formosa have come to them and told them about incidents which took place on Formosa. They stated that American military personnel mistreat the people on Formosa. They said that the Americans go crazy in regard to security regulations.

The Chinese cited an example of the mistreatment of people on Formosa. They said there are separate swimming places for the Americans and for the Chinese. The Americans killed some Chinese for swimming in a restricted area. They stated that all of these things are creating a feeling in Formosa which, at an opportune moment, will rise like a storm. They also bragged that they generally know in advance when agents or spies are coming into the country. They said that they only publicize the capture of one of these agents or spies when it serves them politically.

In Peking, they showed us schools which have been set up for overseas Chinese. They allow children of overseas Chinese to come to Peking to study. They provide scholarships for them. They are interested in the youth and know that ancestral ties are strong. They try to urge the overseas Chinese to send their youth to China for education. They have special hotels for overseas Chinese who want to visit China. They are getting hundreds of thousands of youth from many parts of the world to come back to China. As an inducement for overseas Chinese Capitalists to make investments in China, they will pay them interest as high as 7%.

There is a special place in the International Liaison Department compound which, in my opinion, is made up of overseas Chinese who are Communist Party members and who may work in the underground or as espionage agents, etc., in places where many Chinese are living. They also had a few Latin Americans in another guest house in the International Liaison Department compound. They arranged things so that we did not meet with these people.

The Chinese are not as formal as the Russians in many respects. This may be due to the fact that they have not been in power long enough. It may also be that events in countries such as Hungary have scared them. The leaders want to act as if they are a part of the people. They send Party functionaries and the highest leadership to work on farms and in factories. The highest leadership participates in hard manual labor, even if only for a show, from time to time. The Chinese discourage high living, but do have shindigs on special occasions. Often, they come dressed for meetings in shorts and sport shirts. One just never does this in Russia. The Chinese dress formally only when there is a very important function or a meeting with a top leader.

The Chinese consider it their duty to aid the Communist Party - USA. They said, We are a Party in power, and a Party which is in power must help Parties which work under Capitalism and are surrounded by imperialism. While the Russians say the same thing and recognize the duty to give international support, the Chinese are more enthusiastic about this than are the Russians. To some extent, they almost seem to be competing with the Communist Party of the Soviet Union to see which will receive allegiance. But for every practical reason, the Chinese will be loyal to the Russians and for every practical reason the Russians will not break with the Chinese.

The Chinese need everything they can get from the Russians. I think the Chinese could have broken from the Russians some years ago, but not now. China is obligated to Russia now. The Chinese have Russian planes and cars. Their buses are Russian-made. Their trucks are either Czech or Russian. Since Russia has supplied these things, the Chinese will stick with the Russians. The Russians are ready to supply them, since there are no ideological differences. There may be nationalistic differences and some antagonisms, but the Chinese have no other place to turn to.

There is a different interpretation now than there was in 1956, at the time MAO Tse-tung made his famous speech about contradictions and the famous statement "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend". The Russians were in trouble at that time and the Chinese thought that they were a little bit too crude in dominating the satellite states. It is also true that at that time the Communist Party of China was shaky. The rectification campaign explained by KANG Sheng proves this.

The Socialist camp, particularly the Chinese and the Russians, is seemingly united. They are more united now than they were two years ago. There is no question but that the Communist Party is in complete control in China. We have to be on the alert. We have to study their differences. We must find opportunities to widen a chasm. A crack should be turned into a big break.

When Poland revolted and wanted to break away from Russia, the sympathies of the Poles were with TITO. The Poles sent a delegation to the United States to engage in negotiations for trade. The United States haggled. The Chinese say the United States missed the boat in regard to Poland.

Russia
Incidentally, the Russians do not trust Wladyslaw GOMULKA, according to NICOLAI MATKOVSKY (ph) and ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. They were glad that I did not go to Poland. The Soviet Union still talks with contempt for the Poles. In the meeting I had with the leading members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union in Moscow, one could see that the Russians hold the Poles responsible for creating this international criticism of the treatment of Jews in Russia. They charged that the Poles were in touch with the revisionists in the Communist Party - USA at the time of the revelations of the 20th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Now they are convinced that JOHN GATES is meeting with persons from the Yugoslav Embassy. They think that the Yugoslavs may give GATES money to start a newspaper. USA

The Chinese are still worried about Poland. They were glad when GOMULKA made the speech endorsing the action Hungary took against NAGY. Until the last moment, it was not known what Poland would do in regard to the execution of NAGY. I lived in the International Liaison Department compound and engaged in daily confidential discussions with people, so I know what their thinking is and how they think. They do not have too much faith in GOMULKA.

III. MANJA REISS

The only former member of the Communist Party - USA I saw in China, outside of TANG Ming-chao and LIN Tang, was MANJA

REISS. The Chinese brought her to me. She is now about sixty years of age. She is working in the Chinese News Agency. She said she was in a lot of trouble in Russia and she was very ill. She said people questioned how she survived the period of the purge, especially the period before STALIN died. She said that she had been ready to commit suicide.

REISS B. APPROX 1898 CP MEMBER Mr. Loc.
MANJA stated that she made the remark to IRVING POTASH about suggesting to the Chinese that they invite her to China. She said that she thought at the time that he had not paid any attention to this remark, but he arranged for the Chinese to request her. She said she was sick when she arrived in China. The Chinese placed her in a hospital and later gave her the use of a house. They order medicine from England for her and only allow her to work a half day. She knows English and Russian, and is studying Chinese. The Chinese value her work and think highly of her. She said that she is comparatively happy in China, since she was unhappy in Russia. She stated, however, that she would do anything to return to the United States. I do not know what caused her to flee from the United States.

She gave me the following name and address for mailing purposes: Peking, China.

IV. OTHER FORMER MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY - USA IN CHINA

150-131617

MANJA REISS talked to me about ABE CHAPMAN. He is working on the "Peking Review", a weekly which has replaced "People's China". Arrangements were made for this publication to be sent to me c/o at the Modern Book Store in Chicago. 1/11/51

ABE EMPLOYED BY PEKING REVIEW FORMERLY WRITER
ABE CHAPMAN has taken out Czechoslovakian citizenship and has changed his name to CHAPAK (ph). He used to write a column for the "Daily Worker" and the "Morning Freiheit" under the name of ARNOLD. He has his family with him in China. I do not know what caused him to leave the United States. The Communist Party - USA got him out of the United States during the underground period. He was originally from New York. He lived in Czechoslovakia for several years and did a lot of writing and studying there. They made him a member of the Academy of Science in Czechoslovakia. He took a two-year leave of absence from Czechoslovakia so that he could work in China.

There is a couple in China who were former members of the Communist Party - USA and are supposed to have lived in Chicago and in Czechoslovakia at one time. He was a physiologist.

and she was supposed to be a very wealthy woman. She is related to the owners of some wealthy Wall Street banking house. Their last name is [redacted]. The Chinese were having trouble with them. According to MANJA REISS and TANG Ming-chao, these people came to China full of enthusiasm, but have lost it. They became confused ideologically, but the Chinese have been very patient with them. The Chinese sent them to peace congresses and conferences of various societies dealing with problems regarding his profession, but they are very confused. The Chinese are not holding them. The wife still has money and a sister of the wife, who lives in New York, also is supposed to have made donations to the Communist Party - USA from money left to the wife out of an estate or something similar to an estate. The last word was that the sister is not giving the money to the Communist Party - USA because of the confusion in the Party.

CHINA
A person by the name of ISRAEL EPSTEIN is also in Peking. He is either a former resident of Great Britain or of the United States. He is an expert in English-Chinese translations. There are a number of Englishmen in Peking. They are used as translation specialists. The Chinese do a far better job of translating Party material from other countries than do the Russians. They have a number of Englishmen and Australians working for them.

V. MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY - USA
IN CHINA AND FUNDS FOR THE COMMUNIST PARTY - USA

[redacted] wife of [redacted] and [redacted] supporters of the ultra-Left viewpoint in the Communist Party - USA, went to the Conference of the Women for Peace in Vienna, Austria, and obtained permission to go to China via Russia. They were in China during the latter part of June or the first part of July, 1958. The leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of China would not meet with them.

USA
As a result of statements made by [redacted] in regard to the financial situation of the Communist Party - USA, a collection was taken up among the former members of the Communist Party - USA who are now in China. A total of $120 was collected as a donation for "The Worker" or for the Communist Party - USA. These former members of the Communist Party - USA still consider themselves to be members of the Communist Party - USA and this money would be similar to membership dues. However, when I explained to the Chinese that [redacted] were supporters of an ultra-Left faction, the Chinese gave the former members of the Communist Party - USA a hint not to collect any more money. They were told that it was difficult to exchange the Chinese money into American dollars. They were also told that TANG Ming-chao would take the money with him to Stockholm, Sweden, and would send it to the Communist Party - USA from there. During the week of July 20, 1958, both EUGENE DENNIS and JAMES JACKSON told me that they did not know that [redacted] had left the United States until after they had departed.

Actually, TANG Ming-chao gave the $120 to me for either the Communist Party - USA or "The Worker". He also gave me $300 for the purpose of mailing back issues of "Political Affairs" and other publications of the Communist Party - USA to China. He also requested that from time to time I send books published in the United States which deal with China or Russia, such as JOHN GUNTHER's "Inside Russia". He also requested that I send from time to time important resolutions adopted by the Communist Party - USA. This material is to be sent to TANG Ming-chao, 9 Tai Chi Chang, Peking, China.

The denominations and serial numbers on this money given to me by TANG Ming-chao are as follows:

| DENOMINATION | YEAR | BANK | SERIAL NUMBER |

The International Liaison Department of the Communist Party of China offered aid in any amount of money to the Communist Party - USA. I was told to name the amount and it would be received. I replied that I had no instructions from the Communist Party - USA in this regard. I was told that any time the Communist Party - USA needs financial help, it should let the Communist Party of China know and this help would be given.

VI. CONCLUSION OF THE TRIP TO CHINA

I had no time to arrange for a tour of China. A trip from Peking to Shanghai would have taken approximately seven to eight hours. Shanghai is supposed to be a city which was occupied by imperialists. The Chinese rebuilt Shanghai after the "liberation". They carried on a campaign to get the people to move out of Shanghai and the population was reduced by one-third. In the last few years, they have turned Shanghai into an industrial city, with the most modern plants. The population has been increased. They claim they have built a new shipyard there. The Chinese also wanted me to go to Manchuria and to Northwest China, but I could not do it.

The day before I left China, I wrote another letter addressed to the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. I thanked them for their great comradely welcome and for the discussions they had with me. I named each leader with whom I talked. I said that our thinking has been confirmed by what we saw and I cited some so-called examples. As a sort of postscript to the letter, I thanked the comrades who are not on the Central Committee but who worked with me, including TANG Ming-chao, LIN Tang, and YU Chi-ying. I thanked them for making us feel comfortable and stated that I hoped that this would only be a beginning of our contacts.

MEMBER OF C.P. CHINA
Incidentally, YU Chi-ying was once a devout Christian. She learned the English language in a YWCA. She is one of the most active members of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China.

I was due back in Moscow on July 5, 1958, but the Chinese insisted that I stay for a few more days. The Chinese Ambassador to Russia was in Peking, so they could not work through him. They finally sent a message to Moscow that unless it was absolutely imperative, I would stay in China until July 7 or 8, 1958. When a reply was not received for a day or two, the Chinese went ahead and prepared transportation for us so that we would be back in Moscow on July 5, 1958. A few days later, the Chinese contacted Moscow again and it was learned that the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union said that there were no objections to my staying in China a little longer. I was then supposed to leave China on July 8, 1958, but weather conditions delayed the jet flight until July 9, 1958.

Upon my return to Moscow from China, both ALEXAI GRECHENCO and NICOLAI MATKOVSKY were anxious to learn the details of my meeting with MAO Tse-tung. They also said that whenever MAO is in Russia, he brings his own translator with him. They said that this translator is very poor and that he does not always give MAO the full significance and meaning of a conversation he is translating from Russian into Chinese.

CG 5824-S*, on August 25, 1958, made available to SA JOHN E. KEATING several Dictaphone memo belts, which were transcribed by Stenographer [redacted]. This transcription is located in Chicago file A/134-46-4589. The information on the following page is contained in this transcription. It pertains to a meeting with MARTIN YOUNG in New York City on Tuesday, August 19, 1958.

CG 5824-S* orally advised SA KEATING on August 28, 1958, that he does not know the name of MARTIN YOUNG's [redacted] who is in Russia. CG 5824-S* also advised that NICOLAI MATKOVSKY (ph) and ALEXAI GRECHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, had asked about the political thinking of MARTIN YOUNG. CG 5824-S* commented that the fact that MARTIN YOUNG's [redacted] was having difficulty in obtaining a pension probably means that she is not a member of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The Communist Party of the Soviet Union would utilize the fact that she has a relative who is a current member of a Communist Party in another country to establish her reliability.

in the national leadership, there will be sufficient votes to guarantee election. He said that he is sure that it can be done and that he does intend to take this up with other comrades in order to guarantee my election to the National Committee.

August 25, 1958

JAMES JACKSON was on his vacation during the week of August 17, 1958. He came into New York City on August 20, 1958 in order to return the car which he had borrowed from my brother. We went into Madison Park and sat around for more than an hour. We talked about various things. I asked him if EUGENE DENNIS had talked to him about my trip. He replied that GENE DENNIS had not talked to him as yet. I answered, I thought he did. JACKSON said, Oh, he may have mentioned something about your travels, but he did not talk to me in any detail. So we talked a little about the world situation, the attitudes of certain Parties to the Communist Party - USA, etc. I could not at this moment withdraw from the discussion, since I had assumed that EUGENE DENNIS had talked with JACKSON, because DENNIS told me that he had.

Then JIM JACKSON said that he believes that I ought to be a part of the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA. He said that he had made this suggestion before the last meeting of the National Committee, but that the comrades told him to wait until the October meeting of the National Committee. He said he is prepared to go in with this suggestion without my urging. I did not urge it, since he is the one who raised the question and he is the one who has suggested that I become a member of the National Committee. He said that since the Right wingers have left the National Committee, and since some of the ultra-Leftists will also undoubtedly leave the National Committee, there is room on the National Committee for additional members. He said even with only the Right wing dropping away, he felt that there is room for additions to the National Committee and that it would be a stabilizing force not only on the National Committee, but in Chicago, where there is a mixed up leadership.

JACKSON told me that he had fought against [redacted] as a member of the National Executive Committee.

b7C

Previously, JACKSON had told my brother that he felt that I was one of the few comrades who was well acquainted with the international situation and he felt that I could make a contribution to the national leadership. I told JACKSON that I am sometimes in an embarrassing position because while I do represent the Communist Party - USA in its relations with other Parties I have no real base. Therefore, I am not sure that we want to go into a battle right now for a position on the National Committee. That it might be necessary to wait until such time as the Party breaks up the war lord conception of each one controlling a province. I said that perhaps it might be better to mobilize first in order to guarantee that if I am suggested as a replacement

I. SEVEN QUESTIONS PRESENTED TO THE CCCPSU IN AN OFFICIAL LETTER FROM THE CPUSA

On or about May 7, 1958, I presented a letter to the CCCPSU in behalf of the CPUSA. It consisted of about 3½ single spaced, typed pages. The letter contained flowery greetings to the CCCPSU. It stated that this is the first time in a long time that the American Communist Party, through a representative, has made contact and is present in the Soviet Union. I said that this visit had aroused deep emotions and I was sure that if Comrade DENNIS and Comrade FOSTER and other comrades of the Secretariat of the CPUSA were present, they would extend their heartfelt greetings and would probably feel similar emotions as they watched the enthusiasm of the Soviet people following the leadership of the glorious Soviet Party and marching on the road of Communism, etc.

I repeated that I was bringing the greetings of FOSTER and DENNIS, the members of the Secretariat and also the comrades in prison who "extend the hand of proletarian internationalism through the bars and send you greetings." I also said that I was bringing special greetings from Comrade PAUL ROBESON. U.S.

The letter explained that the lack of contact was not due to a lack of desire on the part of the leadership of the CPUSA. I stated in the letter that the American bourgeois has been doing everything possible to frustrate the establishment of our relationship and that the revisionists were their helpers. Under the false slogan of independence, the revisionists try to prevent the CPUSA from working with the CPSU.

The letter went on to state that the CPUSA had delivered some blows to the revisionists so that the political atmosphere has been cleared up. This made possible the contact with the CPSU. The letter also stated that the CPUSA would have liked very much to have greeted NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV on his elevation to the post of premier but in view of the various reactionary laws in the United States, the CPUSA cannot always express its feelings. Therefore, I am taking this occasion to congratulate NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV on becoming premier of the U.S.S.R. It should be noted that I added this last statement because one of the questions presented in the letter dealt with the cult of the individual.

ENCLOSURE

In the letter I emphasized the meaning of proletarian internationalism, stated that Marxism-Leninism is a universal thing and that the most experienced party, CPSU, is a symbol of Marxism-Leninism and can be of great help to the American Communist Party. I said that proletarian internationalism is anathema to the bourgeois and their agents, the revisionists such as GATES and others. I told them that the CPUSA was ready to discuss a number of problems and to exchange information.

A. Questions Presented to the CCCPSU on Behalf of the CPUSA

In the letter I stated that the following questions are not in final form but will serve to indicate what the CPUSA would like to discuss with the CCCPSU. (These questions may not be in the order in which they were originally presented to the CCCPSU.)

- 1.) What is the relationship between the parties?
- 2.) In regard to the Declaration of the 12 Communist Parties and the Manifesto signed by the 64 Communist Parties, why were there two separate manifestos?
- 3.) The question of a Party program and roads to Socialism.
- 4.) An explanation of the present economic and agricultural policies of the Soviet Union. For example, are the programs to decentralize industry and to abolish the machine tractor stations in agriculture being carried through successfully.
- 5.) An explanation of the expulsion of MOLOTOV, MALENKOV, KAGANOVICH and others. Since the revisionists questioned the correctness of the expulsion, what were some of their policies? What was their platform? The bourgeois as well as the revisionists say that whenever the CPSU fights an opposition or expels someone it never prints any documents or refers to any speeches of the opposition. Could you please explain what this group stood for.

The revisionists also charged that the cult of the individual is coming back. While I, of course, stated that I had observed the very opposite of this, I said that the revisionists use the demagogic argument that the elevation of Comrade NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV to the premiership, combined with the position of First Secretary of the CPSU, is a return of the cult of the individual.

6.) With regard to the current recession in the United States and the world economic situation, how will this effect the drive for peace and peaceful co-existence? What is the possibility of an agreement with the United States? What is the possibility of the spread of this economic crisis from the United States throughout the Capitalist world and what would be the subsequent influence, either peaceful or aggressive, upon American imperialism.

7.) In regard to the Jewish question, there is a charge that the Soviet Union is violating the Marxist-Leninist concept of the national question, particularly in its relationship to the Jews. While the leadership of the CPUSA does not believe this, nevertheless this is a very pertinent tactical question for us and we would like to discuss this question with you.

B. Conclusions of the Letter to the CCCPSU

In the closing part of the letter, I again repeated the greetings. I told them how nice it was to be in Moscow. I said that I had seen with my own eyes the fact that the cult of the individual is no more, that the people are following the Party, etc.

I told them that the CPUSA is having difficulties. I said that we are facing suppression and oppression and that we would like to get some material aid from the CPSU. I said that the CPUSA is in a dire financial condition. I did not raise any amounts with them. I knew that this had to be discussed in general terms. I said that the Party is once again beginning to become a factor in the class struggle in the United States, particularly in regard to the fight for peace, in the fight to shift the burden of the economic recession upon the shoulders of the bourgeois, rather than upon the workers, farmers, etc. However, we are limited in our activity, in agitational work, because we do not have the financial means. I said the revisionists have sabotaged our income. This is why we have had to cut down on our activity although the possibilities are greater than ever before.

This was the essence of the letter. Each phrase and each word was weighed. It took several days to compose it. I waved the flag of Marxism-Leninism and proletarian internationalism. It was necessary to use slogans in referring to Russia. One must not think, one must only repeat what has been said before, then you are safe.

II. PREPARATION FOR THE FORMAL MEETINGS WITH THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CPSU

While I was waiting for the meetings with the leadership of the CPSU, I was asked by NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH, head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, to give them a picture of the current situation both in the CPUSA and in the United States. With regard to the Party, I started with the 16th National Convention of the CPUSA and prepared about 80 pages of material. I had to explain why there was a delay in kicking the revisionists out of the CPUSA. u.s.s.R.

NICOLAI or ALEXAI GRECHENCO (phonetic) stated that the entire CPSU, beginning with the leadership, was hungry for information from the United States but chiefly about the CPUSA and its activities. They stated that they are always in demand for lectures about the inner situation in the CPUSA as well as the general situation in the United States in regard to economics, politics, etc. They said that they are constantly being asked to lecture in various schools, academies and at Party meetings. They said that they are hard put to lecture because of a lack of complete knowledge of the activities in the CPUSA and in the United States. NICOLAI stated that he had lectured at Gorki on the situation in the CPUSA. They admitted ignorance and a lack of knowledge of the details of the activities in the CPUSA. They said that TIM BUCK was in big demand as a lecturer while he was in Russia because he was somewhat acquainted with the activities in the CPUSA. u.s.s.R.

I was told that before I met with the Party leadership I had to prepare them--acquaint them with facts. Even those who would participate in the discussions should be given some documents and the rest of the Central Committee of the CPSU should be acquainted with the situation in the CPUSA and in the United States.

In this document of some 80 pages, I said, in a formal style, that I was bringing greetings from the CPUSA and pointed out why the CPUSA had not been in personal contact with the CPSU. I said that the CPUSA had delivered the first blows against revisionism and explained why certain things happened as they did and why the leadership of the CPUSA could not get rid of revisionism before. I pointed out the effect of the Jewish question in the Soviet Union and the effect of the revelations of the 20th Congress of the CPSU on the CPUSA. I told them that it was not enough for the CPUSA to merely pass resolutions since the Party could have been split and 90% of the membership lost. I pointed out that the revisionists presented a danger in that they almost took over the CPUSA and the "Daily Worker" and explained how the "Daily Worker" became defunct.

I had saved a few notes from my last conversation with EUGENE DENNIS and used them in the preparation of this report to the CCEPSU. I told them what had happened at the February meeting of the National Committee of the CPUSA and what has happened since. I gave them a description of the so-called peace movement of the CPUSA. They had received a letter on the peace movement in the CPUSA, which had been sent to all districts of the CPUSA and had been signed by ARNOLD JOHNSON. I referred to this document. I had to borrow from them the proceedings of the 16th National Convention and the resolutions of this convention of the CPUSA since most of the material I had mailed in advance did not arrive. Just before I left Russia to return to the United States two copies of PAUL ROBESON's book, "Here I Stand," which he had autographed for me, arrived in Russia and I was told that one copy would be given to NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV.

They wanted me to give them the identities, insofar as I could, of all the members of the National Committee of the CPUSA and the attitude of these people in regard to the struggle in the Party. They wanted to know who are pro-Party people, who are the revisionists, who are the so-called ultra-Leftists and how these people vote at meetings. They asked me to explain the Constitution of the CPUSA. They asked what is meant by the right of dissent. They asked if this is a violation of democratic centralism and said that we are the only Communist Party in the world with this modified concept of democratic centralism. I said that future conventions would change this.

They asked me other organizational questions and questions about the Negro and labor movement, for example the merger of the AFL-CIO, etc. They have a pretty good idea of the labor movement in the USA. They asked about the relationship of the CPUSA to the Latin American Communist Parties. I told them that I had gone to Mexico to meet with the leadership of the CP of Mexico and they thought that this was a very good idea. I gave them a report on Latin America. I told them about ABE MAGIL's trip to Mexico. I told them about the meeting I had attended in New York City in which we dealt with the Cuban situation. I told them that the CPUSA wanted to raise some funds for the CP of Guatemala. They knew very little about the CP of Puerto Rico since they are out of touch with it.

They asked me about the economic situation in the United States. I prepared a 14 page typewritten document describing the economic situation in the United States on the basis of information from American magazines and AFL-CIO employment statistics which I had brought with me. They asked me for more information. They wanted to know about the role of the CPUSA in the economic situation in the United States and sent me an outline which NICOLAI and B. N. PONOMAREV, head of the International Department of the CCCPSU, had prepared. YURI IVANOV translated the outline for me. Later I prepared still another document about the struggles of the CPUSA in regard to the American working class during the current recession. APPROX. 1946-47

This is why they were interested in the economic situation. They told me that they are having a very big debate in their own leading circles, including their scientific institution, as to the depth and the character of the economic recession in the United States. Some were of the opinion that this current recession is only a repetition of the 1953-54 recession in the United States. But most of the outstanding economists in Russia, including VARGA, were of the opinion that this is a real cyclical crisis in the United States. They said that they were not yet ready to measure the depth of this recession or its possible effects or its influences upon the rest of the world, but they felt that it is quite different from the recessions of 1948-49 and 1953-54 and that it is a vital question.

Incidentally, a meeting with the economists in the Academy of Economy and Political Science was arranged for me so that we could engage in a debate and an exchange of opinions. However, this meeting never took place because I was rushed out of Russia upon my return from China probably because the Russians were aware of the pending developments in the Middle East.

They were very impressed with the information I furnished them. While ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG gives the Russians information in regard to meetings of the National Committee, CPUSA, he does not know all the details concerning the meetings of the National Executive Committee and the Foreign Affairs Committee of the CPUSA. While TRACHTENBERG gives them limited information, they are interested in details. I must have given them over 100 pages of such details. All of it was in conformity with known facts in the event that they check or double-check. Some of the ideas were those of DENNIS. I was glad to learn later that all of these ideas were confirmed, for example, the latest Party information on the electoral situation in California, etc.

They told me that they had translated everything I gave to them, not only in the written reports but also in the oral discussions which we had daily in my apartment. They said this material was put in the hands of the members of the CCCPSU. They said that this was invaluable information for the leadership and the members of the Central Committee of the CPSU and that they are now better acquainted with the American situation than they had been up to now.

III. FIRST MEETING WITH LEADING MEMBERS OF THE CCCPSU

My first meeting with leading members of the CCCPSU took place on either May 21 or 23, 1958, and present were OTTO KUUSINEN, B. N. PONOMAREV, P. N. POSPELOV, M. B. MITIN, along with TERESHKIN, NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH and YURI SERGEOVITCH IVANOV.

On the day previous to the meeting, NICOLAI told me when the meeting would be held and what the comrades would be interested in. When he told me who was to be present, I asked, is that all? He replied you have two secretaries of the Party, KUUSINEN and POSPELOV.

NICOLAI also stated that they had received all the information I prepared and had read and studied it, therefore, I might save some energy by not repeating a lot of these things unless I felt that something needed explanation. Then NICOLAI stated that there was one problem that I might put stress on because he was sure that the discussion would center around that problem. The Russians talked to me with deference, as an example, NICOLAI said, what do you think about going into detail concerning the preparation of the program of the CPUSA? I replied that I might deal with it in my introductory remarks. His question meant that I should prepare a document on the program of the CPUSA.

I worked most of the night of the day before the meeting and prepared an 8 1/2 page document dealing with the program of the CPUSA. I then planned to limit my introductory remarks to this document. In this document I mentioned the fight with the revisionists in regard to the program and polemized against the revisionist concept of a peaceful revolution and against the theory of the welfare state as propounded by ALEXANDER BITTELMAN. I added some detailed information concerning the possible date when this program of the CP, USA would be completed.

A. Location of the Meeting

YURI and NICOLAI came by the apartment and we had lunch about 12:30 p.m. instead of the usual time of 2:00 p.m. Everyone was dressed formally. We drank a toast to the success of the meeting. NICOLAI said to my wife, we will see you later. We left early so as not to be late for the appointment at 2:00 p.m. The meeting was to be held in the headquarters of the CCCPSU on Staraya Ploshchad. We traveled in a closed sedan with the curtains drawn.

The headquarters of the CCCPSU consists of three large buildings, numbered 1, 2 and 3. Building number 3 houses various departments and hundreds of people worked there. Our meeting was to be held in Building #2. It is a very fancy building with heavy carpeting on the floor. There were two armed security guards at each side of the door. They were in soldier's uniform with a royal blue band on the cap. They were carrying revolvers. No one can enter this building without a pass or without the credentials of the Central Committee. I was saluted as a dignitary. There were also two security men stationed at the automatic elevator. We went to the 4th floor and there was a security man at the door of the elevator on that floor. We proceeded down a large corridor, made two left turns and went into the outer office of OTTO KUUSINEN. There were two plainclothesmen in the outer office. My real name was used at this time. A door opened and we were called into a spacious office probably about 50 feet long and 30 feet wide. The room was furnished with a large table and soft chairs.

B. Introductory Remarks

When I entered the office KUUSINEN stepped out and formally greeted me and told me in the name of the CCCPSU that he is glad, glad that I had come over to meet with them, to talk with them and thanked me for the greetings of the American CP. I was introduced to POSPELOV. I told him that I had last seen him in 1947. KUUSINEN asked me how I kept so young. 26 years had passed since I had last seen him. I doubt that KUUSINEN really remembered me.

I was introduced to all present by name and titles. First they asked me about WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. They wanted to know about his health. They wanted a detailed description of his physical condition. I replied that FOSTER is in poor physical condition but that mentally he is as sharp as ever.

Then they asked me about DENNIS. I said that he had been ill but that he has gotten over this illness. I said that the revisionists were really responsible for his illness because he had to be rushed to the hospital the day following the February, 1958 meeting of the National Committee of the CPUSA. I said that he is all right now and is participating in daily Party work. They asked other questions about the health of individuals and made a few remarks about the old Comintern, etc.

Next, KUUSINEN said that they had read the material I had prepared and again said that they wanted to thank me. He asked me how I would propose that we go about this discussion. How can we fix an agenda? I replied that I thought that I had raised some of the problems of the CPUSA in the letter I sent to them. He replied that he had read it and had the Russian translation in front of him. He reminded me that all members of the Central Committee had this material.

C. Remarks of the Representative of the CPUSA

I proposed that instead of deciding on the agenda that we should follow the letter I prepared unless they had some problems to raise. When I told KUUSINEN that I would start the discussion if he wanted me to, he indicated that I should proceed.

I started with formal greetings. I had to tell them that the CPUSA is not dead. I said that while the bourgeois and the revisionists have reported the death of our Party, and while it is being harrassed from within and without, it is very much alive despite all the pressures against us on the part of the bourgeois in the United States. I was asked if the CPUSA is a legal party. I said that defacto we are supposed to be legal--from the point of view of the law--but there are many laws which compel us to operate in a semi-legal and illegal fashion.

Then I went to the question of the Party program and said that despite all these harrassments, we are functioning. While we have not yet eradicated all the remnants of revisionism and while we also have some ultra-Left groups which are playing the game of the enemy by using the method of factionalism and are making it more difficult to struggle against revisionism, nevertheless we are finding our bearings under the present leadership, which is united against revisionism.

At this point it might be well to point out that while in Moscow I had restudied the resolutions of the 16th National Convention of the CPUSA. It is noted that from the point of view of international Communism and from the point of view of Marxism-Leninism, the practice of the Soviet Party, the Chinese Party and all of the Communist Parties for that matter, the last convention of the CPUSA was not a real Marxist-Leninist convention. I could not use most of the material from the 16th National Convention, including the resolutions, except for an occasional quotation separated from its context. In short, I would say that from the Marxist-Leninist point of view the resolutions of the 16th National Convention of the CPUSA were in a sense revisionist documents. This applied to the analysis of the economic situation, the world situation and, of course, to the aims of the Party.

I was familiar with the Declaration of the 12 Communist Parties and had read a confidential document containing the report of MIKHAIL SUSLOV to the meeting of the 12 Communist Parties. They had given this confidential document to me to read. Having read these documents, having participated in discussions in my apartment in Moscow and having read the Russian press for three weeks, and having had numerous discussions on Titoism and revisionism, I could not base my remarks on the old program and documents of the CPUSA. An outline of the discussion which took place at the December, 1957 meeting of the National Committee of the CPUSA was of no value to me. Therefore, I used an outline of the remarks of EUGENE DENNIS made at the February, 1958 meeting of the National Committee of the CPUSA as a basis. I quoted DENNIS most of the time. Occasionally I quoted FOSTER but always accompanied this with remarks by DENNIS. In other words, I would say that my introductory remarks dealing with the program of the CPUSA were based chiefly on the remarks of DENNIS with additions since it was almost six months since DENNIS had made these remarks.

In my remarks I emphasized American tradition and at the same time castigated EARL BROWDER and JOHN GATES who had said that American imperialism is exceptional. In this context I also mentioned JAY LOVESTONE who they have not forgotten. KUUSINEN directly participated in the ousting of LOVESTONE.

So I introduced the general problems. There was a running translation by YURI who sat at my side. As I talked he translated after every few sentences.

D. Remarks of OTTO KUUSINEN

Since the Russians participate according to rank, KUUSINEN spoke first. He is about 71 years of age. He is a Finn and speaks Russian with a terrible accent.

KUUSINEN said that he wanted me to deliver a message to Comrades DENNIS and FOSTER and to the Secretariat of the CPUSA and to tell them first of all, that the leadership of the CPSU is happy, very happy and glad that the CPUSA defeated the revisionists. This is the most important thing for them.

Then KUUSINEN said, let us discuss this problem of program and then we will answer the questions which you placed before us. Then we will work out an agenda as we go along. He stated that he hoped that this would not be the last meeting, only the first meeting with me.

Next KUUSINEN went into the program. He talked about LENIN's "State and Revolution" and about the necessity to smash the state machine of the bourgeois. He said that since the Russian revolution we have had other roads to Socialism. The Russian revolution established Soviets. Some of the other countries have found new forms of establishing the dictatorship of the proletariat. Theoretically speaking, it may be possible to achieve a peaceful transition to Socialism. It will depend upon history and the relation of classes in your country. Whether it is peaceful or not, one thing is clear, you will have to have the dictatorship of the proletariat, no matter what you call it. He said, we know that tactically it is not good for you and might not be advisable for you to say the dictatorship of the proletariat.

KUUSINEN pointed out that some form of the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat will be necessary. He again quoted from LENIN. He also asked me if I had studied other Party programs, especially the Italian party program. He also asked me if I had studied the British party program. I said that I had not but I had seen the Canadian Party program. He said, we are glad that the CPUSA is formulating a program because we were always under the impression that the document issued in 1954 had inadequacies although in the main it is not too bad. He was glad to hear me explain that there is a difference between that program and the basic program the CPUSA is now formulating.

KUUSINEN stated that it is necessary to combine Marxism-Leninism principleness with tactical flexibility.

KUUSINEN also stated that it could be that there is a parliamentary way to Socialism and that the dictatorship of the proletariat might even express itself through some parliamentary method. However, you can decide such things only on the basis of concrete conditions. For example, the Italian Communist Party, which is a powerful party, has over one million members. It has control of the trade union movement. It has a wide influence. One could say that it is the party of the proletariat in Italy. It has a large representation in parliament. There are some other parties in Italy that believe in, at least they say they believe in Socialism. It is quite possible that under their circumstances and if there was no foreign intervention, that this party might transform the parliamentary agencies into the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat. No matter what the form is, parliamentary or otherwise, they would have to defend the interests of the working class and the majority of the toiling masses first of all. But the Communist Party of Italy is further along than the CPUSA. The CP of Italy has wide influence.

We went into a long theoretical discussion about the people who argue against the dictatorship of the proletariat and who say that it does not represent the majority. KUUSINEN said that this is incorrect. He said that no Marxist-Leninist party can hope to overthrow the bourgeois and take the road to Socialism without having first of all won to its side the majority of the working class, and together with the working class, allies such as the poor farmer, some dignitaries, professionals, middle class elements, etc. So who would the working class speak for? It would speak for the majority of the people. Communists are not Putschists, that is they do not favor the Latin American type of revolution. The Communists have to base themselves on the people. So whatever they would do they would do it in the interests of the majority. The Communists would have already won a majority of the population either through popular struggle or elections, etc.

Again referring to Italy where a parliamentary road to Socialism may be possible, KUUSINEN said, I cannot tell you how the CPUSA should formulate the dictatorship of the proletariat for your country. He said, perhaps if you will come back to us when your program is formulated, we might be able to say more. However, we have to see how concretely you have placed the problem. We do not care what you call it. We have to take into consideration your problems and traditions. All we are saying is that there would have to be the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat. We cannot say at this time what road you should follow or what the form should be.

E. REMARKS OF PETER POSPELOV

P.N. POSPELOV

PETER POSPELOV, who is about 65 years of age, is one of the secretaries and a member of the Presidium of the Central Committee of the CCCPSU. He is now playing the role that MIKHAIL SUSLOV played. I asked for a meeting with MIKHAIL SUSLOV and was told by NICOLAI that SUSLOV was "very sick". It should be noted that right after May Day 1958 SUSLOV's name completely disappeared in the Russian press.

POSPELOV spoke longer than KUUSINEN. He is the one who made the following remarks concerning the report of NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV to the 20th Congress of the CPSU. He said that when KHRUSHCHEV made his speech at the 20th Congress of the CPSU and talked about paths to Socialism and different roads to Socialism, including the peaceful path to Socialism, he had in mind various Communist Parties in capitalist countries. The CPSU felt that a number of Communist Parties were on the griddle because of the issue of force and violence. KHRUSHCHEV was trying to ease the situation for these Parties in capitalist countries from a tactical point of view; however, when KHRUSHCHEV, in the same speech, said that in some capitalist countries where there is a strong regime with military and police power at its disposal, the working class may have to fight and respond to force and violence, this applied specifically and concretely to the United States. The Communist Party can talk about different roads, but programatically there can be no illusion that the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat will not require force and violence to suppress the bourgeoisie who will resist.

No Communist Party in any capitalist country, particularly the United States, can hope to go through a transition to Socialism without a dictatorship of the proletariat or, in essence, the dictatorship of the proletariat must be contained in the program of the CPUSA. The dictatorship of the proletariat will be required in every country. The form it will take will depend on the relationship of the classes. The amount of force and violence required will depend upon the resistance of the bourgeoisie or ruling class. POSPELOV stated that he understands the difficulties the CPUSA faces in formulating such a program.

POSPELOV went into the question of force and violence and gave a considerable amount of historical details concerning the Russian Revolution. He reminded me that there were only nine casualties when they captured the Winter Palace. He also reminded me that before the Bolsheviks raised the slogan "All Power to Soviets" the Bolsheviks had already won the majority of the working class and they had formed the alliance, at least with the poor and middle peasantry, which made up the majority of the population. He said that all through the first stages of the Revolution, this alliance was guarded. What he brought out was that the Communists were not a minority. He said that they did have the backing of the majority of the population. What the bourgeoisie tried to do was to overthrow the regime of the majority with foreign help. Naturally, the regime of the majority is entitled to defend itself. Therefore, when the ruling class resists and refuses to accept the will of the majority, the dictatorship of the proletariat has to suppress them.

POSPELOV went on to deal with the liberalism of the Communist regime, even in regard to certain Generals, during the first months of the Soviet Revolution. He cited as an example that General KRASHNOV (phonetic) led a revolution against the Soviet regime. They captured him twice and then released him. He also mentioned how KERENSKI sneaked out of the Winter Palace in women's clothing. They did not care, they let him go. Since the Winter Palace was defended by the sons of the rich and the land owners, they had to bombard the Winter Palace. The increased resistance of the bourgeoisie and foreign intervention compelled the use of force and violence in the first stages of the Revolution.

POSPELOV said that he does not know whether or not the CPUSA needs force and violence. He said that he does not suggest that the CPUSA use the phraseology "force and violence". All that he is saying is that in formulating a program, in thinking of the future, the CPUSA has to be theoretically clear that the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat is necessary. The CPUSA may capture a majority of the support on the part of the workers and farmers. He does not know. But the Revolution will have to defend itself. The bourgeoisie will resist and this is very likely. Then, of course, the CPUSA may have to use force and violence. This does not mean the CPUSA has to preach it. For tactical reasons this is inadvisable. Then he quoted LENIN in regard to peaceful revolution. He also quoted from "State and Revolution" by LENIN in regard to the dictatorship of the proletariat and the use of force and violence. He, too, said that the program for the CPUSA should contain Marxism-Leninism principleness with tactical flexibility.

One thing these leaders of the CPSU demanded and one thing that they all stuck by was not the question of force and violence, but that some form of the dictatorship of the proletariat will be necessary. Therefore, we cannot create any illusions in the CPUSA by departing from this very cardinal Marxist-Leninist principle. What tactical forms we used, what language we use to describe this thing in order to keep us within the law, is up to the American Communist Party. When the CPUSA has its Party program written and prepared, they will be able to talk more concretely about our situation. Now they are just talking general theory.

When I talked to EUGENE DENNIS about this in New York City on July 23, 1958, I asked him how the Party program is getting along. He told me not to worry about the CPUSA using the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat in the Party program.

F. REMARKS OF B. N. PONOMAREV

PONOMAREV, who is about 50 to 52 years of age, was the next speaker and repeated many things stated by the two previous speakers. He attacked revisionism, TITO, BITTELMAN and the theory of the welfare state. He stated that you cannot transform capitalism into Socialism without resistance of the bourgeoisie. He again launched into an attack against BITTELMAN's theory of the welfare state. It should be noted, however, that the Russians do not take BITTELMAN's remarks seriously.

G. SUMMARY OF THIS FIRST MEETING OF
LEADING MEMBERS OF THE CPSU AND ADJOURNMENT

All the leaders of the CPSU present at this meeting quoted from the 12 Party Declaration, from the 20th Congress of the CPSU and from current documents against TITO circulating in the CPSU in order to prove that you have to accept in their entirety what they called the universal principles of Marxism-Leninism. You have to say that you believe in the universal truths of Marxism-Leninism and that includes the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat, regardless of the form.

They said that the CPUSA is a revolutionary Party. It has to get rid of anybody who believes anything else. The CPUSA has to be a Party of Marxism-Leninism. It must win a majority of the working class to its side and must form alliances.

It must have as its final aim the overthrow of the bourgeoisie and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat. The essence has to be there, no matter what form it takes. No other party can do this except the Communist Party, which raises the banner of Marxism-Leninism. No other party can be a vanguard party. You have to change property relations. By winning influence over the working class and by forming alliances with others, you establish the essence of the dictatorship of the proletariat, which defends the Revolution and the gains of the working class. The dictatorship of the proletariat defends the new social system. If anyone resists, you hit them back and do it in the name of the majority.

All of the above can be found in LENIN's "State and Revolution". The theory given to me in regard to the dictatorship of the proletariat is the same theory that was in existence 50 years ago.

We went on with this particular subject until about 7:30 PM. This is unusual because the leading people in the Russian Party have regular hours. After everyone had their say and some questions went back and forth, I told them that this is the way we understand this problem in the CPUSA. I stated, however, that it is necessary for them to keep in mind that we still have the Smith Act, the Internal Security ACT and various state laws. They said, "You will find a way of formulating it that will suit the situation in your country. The important thing is the acceptance of principle."

KUUSINEN asked me very politely, "What would you say if we would adjourn and resume in the future?" Would I object? I said that I was here to discuss problems at their convenience.

When we adjourned we all engaged in some personal, sort of off-the-cuff discussions. KUUSINEN asked me, "How come BITTELMAN became a Right-Winger?" He said, "As I recall he was always one of the biggest sectarians." I said, "I do not know." I stated that the revisionists use him as a theoretical shield. KUUSINEN then asked, "Who is WILLIAM WEINSTONE, is he the guy who paraded around like a peacock and was with LOVESTONE when we kicked LOVESTONE out?" I replied in the affirmative.

It should be noted that WEINSTONE expected to be one of the biggest leaders in the Communist Party in the late 1930's. Keep in mind that if a person was with LOVESTONE, even for a short period of time, it was held against him. It should also be noted that WEINSTONE was a Comintern representative for a short period of time.

IV. SECOND MEETING WITH LEADING MEMBERS OF THE CPSU

The second meeting took place the next day starting at about 3:00 PM.

A. RELATIONSHIP OF THE PARTIES

KUUSINEN, who was in charge of these meetings, asked me what should be discussed on this day. I suggested that we take up the questions as they were phrased in my letter to the Central Committee. So I read the various questions from the letter. I said that I would qualify these questions by stating that they do not reflect the thinking of the CPUSA, but are questions which are being raised by a certain body of public opinion in the United States.

It should be noted that since policy is always the basic problem, the matter of program was the first thing discussed at the first meeting.

The first question which came up for discussion was the relationship of parties. Again, they said that they had read the material I had prepared. They asked what I had to say about the relationship of parties. I said that it was necessary, first of all, to establish regular contact. Secondly, it was necessary that each Party be informed on the activities of the other Party. Citing an example, I stated that we very often get the news of your problems and debates etc., out of the capitalist press, particularly "The New York Times".

I stated that we think that a good number of Party leaders and members of the CPUSA believe that if you have some problems that are going to be aired publicly or problems which may not be aired publicly at the moment but will be aired publicly later, then you should give us some indication of this. We should get it before the bourgeoisie press because very often the bourgeoisie press distorts the facts. As a result, we cannot have the right perspective.

I also stated that we in the CPUSA feel that during the 20th Congress of the CPSU we might have gotten the information about this Congress earlier. Another thing is that if we are going to have a Party relationship, the Soviet Party should not create the impression that it is backing this or that individual in the CPUSA. I said that they must take into consideration the collective opinion of the Party.

In regard to the latter, they asked for concrete examples. I said, You printed some articles by WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. You did not ask if this was the opinion of the majority of the leadership, particularly that section which is pro-Party. I said I was not talking about the revisionists. I said that the CPSU should ask if this is a collective opinion or if it is an article of an individual. I said the printing of FOSTER's articles indicates that you are supporting FOSTER. This does not improve the authority of DENNIS or the rest of the leadership.

I raised the problem of the article by PONOMAREV in which he attacked JOHN GATES. I said that the CPUSA got this article from a reading of the "New York Times". Further, the "New York Times" gave this information to GATES immediately. However, you did not send us an immediate translation of this article.

U.S. I also told them that they created problems for the CPUSA when D. ~~SHEVLIAGIN~~ wrote the article regarding WILLIAM SCHNEIDERMAN and ABE MAGIL. I said that this was not right. I told them about the arguments of MAGIL and said that as a result of this type of situation we had to pass a motion in the NEC that only the National Committee speaks for the Party, not each individual.

PONOMAREV admitted that SHEVLIAGIN made a mistake. He said that SHEVLIAGIN had no business in writing the article in the manner in which he did. He said that in the future such things will be rushed to the American Communist Party, and if such articles are written names will not be mentioned.

Then they asked me for more specific cases. I told them that DENNIS complained that when they reprinted articles sent in by FOSTER and other individuals it just gets us in dutch with the law because some phraseology in these articles is dangerous. They said that they would look into this, that perhaps this is not the way to do it.

They reminded me that when FOSTER sent in his latest article, he had some criticism of DENNIS. They stated that they had censored the article by cutting out personal attacks and other parts of the article. They stated that they will see to it that things similar to those I mentioned will not happen in the future now that we have established a relationship.

1. ON THE RELATIONSHIP BETWEEN FOSTER AND DENNIS

KUUSINEN asked me to speak frankly and objectively concerning the fight between DENNIS and FOSTER. He asked if they have serious differences. He said, We won't hold it against you, tell us frankly. I did what DENNIS asked me to do. I said that I have the greatest regard and respect for FOSTER, as does the majority of the Party. I said that I was practically raised in FOSTER's house in Chicago so I have no personal reason to be subjective. I said that comrades are of the opinion that since FOSTER is divorced from daily activity he does not always know what is happening in the ranks. While he sometimes does raise general problems correctly, he has no solutions to problems because he is out of touch.

Continuing, I said that even prior to his heart attack, FOSTER attended meetings of the National Committee only occasionally and would leave early. I said that there is an opinion among the majority of the group which is pursuing the present line against revisionists that FOSTER should not have separated himself from the 16th National Convention of the CPUSA. I said that the majority of the CPUSA repudiated the political action association prior to the 16th National Convention. The body of opinion in the Secretariat and in the National Committee of the CPUSA is that FOSTER should have backed DENNIS. They complain that FOSTER is too rigid and too doctrinaire.

I also stated that there is a body of opinion that FOSTER, considering his age and illness, does not bring younger persons into the leadership. Further, it is felt that sometimes could compromise on a tactical problem as long as there are not differences of principle. I said that this is the opinion of many. I reminded them that even BEN DAVIS and WILLIAM WEINSTONE, who are followers of FOSTER, criticized FOSTER, even though mildly, for his lack of tact at two meetings of the National Committee.

I stated further that even though FOSTER is now under attack by the ultra-Left, there is a body of opinion that FOSTER gave encouragement to the ultra-Left and, thus, encouraged factionalism. I said that in the main this was the opinion of the people who make up the core of the leadership.

In conclusion I said that at the present moment I can say that there are no principle differences between FOSTER and DENNIS and that the FOSTER followers joined with DENNIS at the February plenum and voted for the DENNIS resolution at that National Committee meeting. I stated that there may be some differences on tactics or emphasis on interpretation, but these cannot be considered differences in principle.

In the discussion, the Russians talked of the need for unity between the DENNIS and FOSTER forces. They said that they thought that FOSTER conducted a heroic struggle against revisionism. They take into consideration that FOSTER is incapacitated. They think highly of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, who is the best known CPUSA leader in Russia. They realize, however, that for all intents and purposes DENNIS is the practical, day-to-day leader of the CPUSA.

The leaders of the CPSU listened respectfully to my remarks in this regard. They asked me whether FOSTER is still the Chairman Emeritus of the CPUSA. While I really did not know, I took a chance and said that he was.

It should be noted that on July 23, 1958, I asked DENNIS if FOSTER is still the Chairman Emeritus of the CPUSA. DENNIS replied that FOSTER is. I asked him if FOSTER knew this and he said no. DENNIS stated that the motion which was passed at the February meeting of the National Committee only changed the secretaries. No other titles were involved. I told DENNIS that if this were made known it might satisfy some people who still believe in FOSTER, might satisfy FOSTER and might satisfy the Russians. DENNIS said he would remind FOSTER the next time he sees him that he still has the title of Chairman Emeritus.

I told the Russians that DENNIS' title is just plain secretary. I then named the various secretaries again and said that DENNIS is accepted as the first secretary but does not have the title. I said that it would be very bad to announce titles at the moment since the revisionists might utilize this to start another fight.

KUUSINEN and POSPELOV did most of the talking on this subject. I got the idea that they are backing DENNIS. They asked me if FOSTER could come to Russia. They said that they want to take care of him medically and otherwise. I said that such a trip would be very difficult for FOSTER. I said that he is too sick to move around unless he has improved considerably. Secondly, that there is another test case in regard to a passport for ROCKWELL KENT and DENNIS told me they would wait for this decision. Thirdly, there is the legal problem in regard to the Smith Act. I said that if all of the above obstacles could be taken care of FOSTER would undoubtedly come to Russia.

It is noted that this meeting took place before the United States Supreme Court decision in regard to passports.

2. EXCHANGE OF INFORMATION BY THE CPUSA AND THE CPSU

It was agreed that later we would work out details whereby certain news from some of their inner documents and journals which do not circulate in the United States, such as "Party Organizer" and "Party Life", would be sent to the CPUSA. They were going to introduce me to the head of the Information Bureau and he in turn was going to appoint someone to pay attention to all news which would interest the CPUSA. He was going to be on call for "The Worker". He would be the correspondent of the CPUSA in Moscow. However, the head of the Information Bureau was removed so arrangements could not be made. If I had stayed in Russia longer a meeting probably would have been arranged with the new head of the Information Bureau. They may still go ahead with this arrangement without a meeting in regard to it. In other words, they were going to improve the news relationship, the exchange of information, etc. I think that such an improvement will be made.

In regard to the complaint that the CPUSA receives news of the CPSU too late, they asked me why the CPUSA does not have correspondents in Moscow. I told them legal difficulties prevent this. We agreed that special items would be sent to me for the CPUSA through Canada.

B. THE QUESTION OF DECENTRALIZATION OF INDUSTRY AND THE ABOLISHING OF THE MACHINE TRACTOR STATIONS

I had asked whether there is an improvement in agriculture as a result of the change in regard to the machine tractor stations. They all spoke on this problem and indicated that they are making tremendous progress in agriculture. They said they are developing agriculture rapidly. They cited facts, statistics and so forth to show how this change has developed the initiative of the mass of technicians, as well as the farm workers. They suggested that in order to get more facts I should go into the collective farms, talk to anybody I wanted to and let them tell me what is going on. I did this on my tour of Russia.

They cited some agricultural areas where there has been an increase in income and well-being of the farm population. They stated that some farmers have even given up their private plots of land since it doesn't pay them to spend time on them anymore. Then they mentioned a very important fact. This is that until recently--a year or a year and a half ago, no earlier--there was a trend away from the farm. Young people would graduate from high school and then would go to the larger cities. They claimed that they have reversed this trend in a lot of regions. They cited one area where the majority of the graduates from high school remained on the farm and many chose professions which could be utilized in the area.

Until recently, graduates would go out and obtain jobs in the cities where they studied, such as Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad. Now, they are trying to get commitments before students graduate and encourage high school graduates to go into factories for a couple of years. They make it easier for people who have had industrial training to obtain higher educations by granting them scholarships, privileges and so forth. This is how they have managed to keep some youngsters in local industry and on the farms. Then they give them opportunities and promotions later. They believe that this experience does the youngsters some good. KHRUSHCHEV referred to this at the last convention of the Young Communist League. He reminded those present at this convention that things in Russia were not always so nice. He reminded them that their fathers had to work and to fight for a living and that they have a revolutionary heritage. He also stated that not all graduates of schools and not all people can be white collar workers or professionals. Workers are necessary too. They are putting pressure on young people to go into industry and to combine their education with practical training. In this regard they were not talking of night schools or trade schools, but were talking of higher educational institutions.

I asked a similar question in regard to the decentralization of industry. They used to have a very complicated apparatus. The ministries of various industries were stationed in Moscow. If a machine shop in the Urals needed a certain part, a certain die or a certain tool, the director would have to get in touch with the ministry in Moscow, would locate the item in some factory through another ministry. They cited examples of this and said that they have cut down nine tenths of the red tape. They stated that at the present time, in many cities where a machine shop needs something, the director of the shop may know that a factory in the same city is producing this item. So he goes directly to that factory, puts in the order and obtains the item. The other factory does not have to take this up with the ministry. Thus, they have given more responsibility to the ministry both locally and regionally. All of this is based on a master plan.

They stated that the basic plan of industry which is worked out by the central government in advance has not changed. They went to great lengths to explain new achievements in industry, the elimination of bureaucracy and red tape, etc.

They also went into the question of reducing the work week and hours of employment, and the development of automation. They said that they operate differently than the capitalist countries in regard to the introduction of automation since they do not do it at the expense of the workers. They try to introduce new machinery and technique instead of a speed-up. The cutting of the work week is based upon such new methods of production so that the workers have more leisure time. They told me to study this when I visited the factories. Then they cited some examples of increases in the standard of living.

Also with regard to the farm question they cited examples of the cutting down of red tape. One example was the elimination of the tax-in-kind on the small garden plots allowed members of the collective farm.

They stated that since they have abolished the machine tractor stations, the farms buy their own machinery. The tractor stations merely service them. They explained that in the old days when the time came to plow all the collective farms put in requests for tractors at the same time and dates had to be set by the machine tractor stations. But now that the collective farms are buying their own machinery they can set their own time, not only for plowing and sowing, but also for harvesting, so that efficiency increased many folds as a result of the new policies.

When I took the trip through Russia and went to the farms and factories I had to ask these questions again and the answers I received at this meeting were verified. I did this to show that I was really interested in these matters.

C. THE CULT OF THE INDIVIDUAL AND THE OUSTING OF MOLOTOV, MALENKOV, ZHUKOV, ETC.

The question of the cult of the individual came up in the discussions. They did not say anything new. They repeated what was said at the 20th Congress of the CPSU. In discussing NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, they said that it is just a slander to say that the cult of the individual is returning. They pointed out that they work collectively. They said that never in the history of the CPSU from the days of LENIN have they had so many meetings of the Central Committee where the members of the Central Committee participated in making decisions and discussions are held. Matters are discussed and debated. There is never a one man decision.

They asked, Who led the fight on the cult of the individual? Who started the expose? NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV did and the CPSU knows it. They further explained how decisions are made collectively. They said that they do not play up an individual. They stated that if you will study the history of STALIN's role, you will find that he had just as much power before the war but by that time he had built up the cult of the personality. There is no such thing at the present time. They told me that when I went into the districts I should ask the district leadership if they participated in making decisions. They again said that decisions are collective decisions. I told them that I knew this but I was just raising this and wanted their viewpoint.

This led to a discussion of the opposition. They charge that MOLOTOV was a cantankerous doctrinaire. They said that from the day STALIN died MOLOTOV refused to budge. They said that MOLOTOV had given encouragement to BERIA, who had ambitions of recreating a cult of the personality. They blamed everything on BERIA, including the trumped up charges, the trials, etc.

U.S.S.R.

They stated that the opposition had a faction going all the time and this faction had no program. It was just an organized factional opposition. Every time the collective leadership, led by KHRUSHCHEV, would introduce a new proposal, such as the decentralization of industry and collective farming, the opposition would just argue in a negative way without a program. The opposition said that we should merely increase the area under cultivation when we first suggested reforms in the collective farms.

They said when KHRUSHCHEV introduced the question of raising the standards of living so that it would be as high as that of the United States in giving the people meat, butter, milk, eggs, etc., MOLOTOV charged, as did his helpers, KAGANOVICH and SHEPILOV, that we were pursuing a partisan policy. The opposition said that we were scuttling our heavy industry and were putting emphasis on light industry and consumer goods. This was a falsehood and a lie.

They said that they had solved their bread, grain and corn problems. The United States can sneer at us and say that we cannot grow corn in certain areas, but we have certain strains of corn and grain which can be grown in the coldest areas. Where we want to grow corn for silage we grow one type of corn. Where we want tall stalks we raise one type of corn. We have developed seed just as good as that in the United States for our different purposes. But there is another problem. We had to guarantee once and for all that our agricultural products could not be affected by some kind of a drought taking place in this or that area. Last year we had a severe drought affecting the entire Volga area. However, the new, virgin soil area was not affected and production from it made up for the loss of production in the drought area. The opposition did not want to understand this.

Then these Russian leaders stated that the opposition was offered opportunities to bring a written program of their own to the Party and to the people. I asked them about the debate in the Central Committee. I said that there is a charge that you have not printed any document showing the stand of the opposition or anything saying that they had a chance to present their views. They replied that MOLOTOV took the floor six times during the debate. The same applied to others. Furthermore, meetings of factory workers were organized and the opposition was told to go to those meetings with their program. Figures were given of how many workers were organized in such meetings in Moscow. They said the opposition used to urge Party people to cast negative votes. ^{U.S.S.R.} They asked, what could we do? The workers just rejected the carping, negative criticism of MOLOTOV, MALENKOV and KAGANOVICH and charged them with factionalism. We had no course but to demote them, to oust them, so that we could go ahead with our work. Further, to say that they had no possibilities of talking to the Party is wrong. We gave them possibilities. They were rejected by an overwhelming majority of the Party. There are fewer negative votes now than at the time of the cult of the individual. Then they told me to ask the people in the outlying districts what their reaction was to MOLOTOV, MALENKOV and KAGANOVICH.

They said, why shouldn't the people support us? Then they reviewed their policies again. They asked, have we increased the standard of living in Russia in the last number of years? Have we increased productivity? Have we made it easier for the farmer? Of course we have.

They asked, haven't we carried through a foreign policy that the people accept? They charge MOLOTOV for increasing tensions at the time of his expulsion. They blame MOLOTOV for preventing a better relationship between Yugoslavia and Russia. They said MOLOTOV carried things too far. He said you cannot deal with their hirelings of fascism in Yugoslavia. Later on when proposals were made for discussions with TITO they asked MOLOTOV and his group, what do we have to lose? Let's test them. Let's start negotiations. If he is a real fascist, he will prove it. Why are you afraid of discussion? They said that we felt that discussions were worth a try in order to bring about some understanding with

TITO. If this had not been done the friction would have continued and the people would have blamed the leadership. These discussions were held with TITO only as an attempt to reach an agreement with TITO. 4.6.60

In regard to the policy of peaceful co-existence, they said that if they would have followed MOLOTOV they would have had no elbow room. MOLOTOV did not understand the role of these semi-colonial and colonial countries and the role they can play in the present struggle against imperialism. They charged MOLOTOV with all of these crimes. 11.5.57

In regard to ZHUKOV, they said that he did not understand the role of the Party. He was purely a military man. More than that, he would place obstacles in the way of the Party in regard to the carrying on of political leadership so that the army would know who the real enemy is and would understand the value and worth of Party leadership. Now, however, the armed services are once again under the complete leadership of the Party, are ideologically sound and are participating in the political life of the country and are understanding the policies of the Party and the government.

V. THE ECONOMIC CRISIS IN THE UNITED STATES

On the question of the economic crisis in the United States, they said that some of them are of the opinion that there is a cyclical crisis in the United States and that the economic situation in the United States is worse now than it was in 1953-54. They suggested that I talk to economists and go into detail. They are convinced that this recession in the United States will spread. They cited various theories of economists by name. They said that they have had debates among Russian economists in regard to the present economy in the United States.

In regard to the question of what the United States is going to do, they said that they had decided to take me into their confidence. They said that they wished they knew. They are going to try to do everything possible to try to keep the United States moving in a peaceful direction so that it will not solve the economic problems it faces by engaging in military adventures. They said, however, that they cannot control this. Therefore, this is why they fight for peace or peaceful co-existence and at the same time are prepared for any eventualities. They said that they are going to make propositions that the people of the world will understand and the people of the United States will understand. Thus, they will place the onus of war on the heads of the American bourgeoisie.

They said, we are now discussing in our leadership the sending of a letter to the United States proposing trade. We are going to outline what we could use and what we could buy. Of course, we are going to show that we are not just going to buy. That is, we will raise the question of credit--not that we need it but we will raise it. We will put over the idea to the American people that we want to trade and want to live in peace. Also, that the people of the United States could solve their unemployment problems by dealing with Russia. Further, that the people in the United States have an interest in peace. They asked me to keep in mind that this is just a decision that they are discussing in the leading Party committees in the government and that I should not mention this to anyone. They said that this is the way they are going to carry on their struggle to win the minds of the people for peace.

They issued orders to make arrangements for me to meet with various professors, economists and academicians to raise economic questions with them. However, we never got to this meeting.

I thought that they would ask me more questions about the economic situation in the United States. They asked questions about unemployment and whether the workers can make ends meet on unemployment insurance. POSPELOV and PONOMAREV were interested in some of the details. They did not know how the unemployment compensation acts work. They did not know how many weeks it lasted and that it was also connected with state laws and that it varied according to states, etc.

They did not go into any deep discussions concerning the economic situation except to emphasize that the American economy is shaky and that the rate of their growth is phenomenal and that the rate of growth in the United States has slowed down. They are convinced that they have beaten the United States in some fields and that their rate of growth and the inevitable capitalist crisis guarantee the economic victory of Socialism.

The second meeting adjourned at this point.

VI. THE THIRD MEETING WITH THE LEADING MEMBERS OF THE CCCPSU

The third meeting with the leading members of the CCCPSU was held on May 27, 1958. We met until about 6:00 PM. All of the previous participants were present except TERESHKIN.

A. THE JEWISH QUESTION IN THE U.S.S.R.

The third meeting began with the Jewish question. KUUSINEN introduced MITIN and gave his titles, his capabilities, his responsibilities, etc. MITIN is Jewish.

MITIN went all the way back and blamed BERIA for the plots against the Jews and other nationalities. In regard to the "doctors plot" he said that the majority of the doctors were not Jewish. He mentioned by name current poets, playwrights and actors who are Jewish and said that he was friendly with them. He said that MICHOELS (phonetic) had confessed to him that he was wasting his time appearing before Jewish audiences in Jewish plays since he was getting no response. He said that MICHOELS told him that when he performs Shakespeare he gets a response even if he performs it in Jewish. U.S.S.R.

MITIN wanted to prove that there is no need for a separate Jewish culture in Russia. He went into the question of Jewish authors and writers. He stated, however, that even now they have Jewish theatrical groups which tour the country and perform before all audiences in Jewish only. He mentioned Jewish authors and said that they have translated their books into the Russian language and that they are read by millions of people. He said that some Jewish language Russian dramas get large audiences. He stated, however, that if they were to propose the establishment of a Jewish newspaper most of the Jews would object. They would not read it. He said the new generation has no conception of the language. He said that the Jews would be the first ones to protest a Jewish language newspaper. He stated that Russian has become the language of the Jews in Russia. While the Jews are not compelled to accept the Russian language, the newer generation does accept it. He said, we do not ask the nationality of people. Then he listed the Jews who are in leadership and asked me if I wanted to meet these Jewish leaders. He said that he could give me a list of hundreds of Generals, Party leaders, leaders of industry, etc., who are Jewish. POSPELOV also said that MITIN could give me these names. I said I believed them.

I told the Russians that the CPUSA has a sub-committee consisting of V. J. JEROME, JIM JACKSON, JACK STACHEL, HY LUMER and CARL WINTER which is trying to find answers to the Jewish question in Russia. I said I thought that I could get some tactical help from the CPSU. For example, the CPUSA asked me to stop in France and ask about the Jewish committee which met with KHRUSHCHEV. They replied that I could go to France. Nothing new took place. I said I was told to ask about the statement in regard to the Jewish question in the Soviet Union which was attributed to KHRUSHCHEV and which appeared in "Figaro". They said that the statement attributed to KHRUSHCHEV was a fake and that it was just an imaginary story concocted by some French journalist.

With regard to the pro-Arab policy of the Soviet Union, I said that there are stories circulating in New York City, where we have a large Jewish population, to the effect that the Soviet Union is pursuing an oil policy in the mid-East. POSPELOV said, we don't need the oil. He asked, who needs oil? He said we have discovered oil fields. Why should we pursue an oil policy? He said, all we are doing is supporting people in their fight against imperialism. We can drown them in oil. He said that these letters are concocted by Zionists to put us in a bad light. He said, you know Baku means nothing. We have thousands of such oil fields in the Soviet Union. Everyone present participated in this discussion.

Then they discussed Birobidjan. They said that there are possibilities there. They asked if I wanted to go there. I did not want to since it is on the Manchurian border and is a wild country. One of the remotest parts of Siberia. They said that the "Star", a paper which is published twice a week in Birobidjan, will be made available in the United States.

They said that the Jews are absorbed in the population and live as Soviet citizens. They said, we have offered them opportunities and it was the Jewish population that rejected them. They said that the Jewish people in Russia would not want to return to a modified ghetto.

I said that they should raise the problem differently so that we could understand it. I told them that the revisionists are responsible for some of the letters in regard to the Jewish question and that they stir up the Jewish question in the CPUSA. I said, of course it would be the revisionists who would give assistance to the imperialists.

I raised the Jewish question for a propaganda point of view. It is a very sensitive spot with the Russians. It has caused them grave concern and problems. In spite of all the discussions I received no satisfactory answer on this. Upon my return to the United States I mentioned to DENNIS that the Russians answered the questions in regard to the Jews in part but that they did not give us the tactical answers we were looking for.

I also told the Russians that "Jewish Life" is no longer the voice of the CPUSA and that it is controlled by revisionist forces. DENNIS told me that the CPUSA has no control over "Jewish Life". I said that the editors of "Jewish Life" are raising their own money and that the CPUSA expects these editors to announce that they will have nothing to do with the CPUSA.

The Russians should have admitted persecution of the Jews but they would not. In my opinion we found no Jewish life in Russia. Kiev is the city where you would expect to find most of the Jewish life but we did not find a trace of it.

There is a charged atmosphere concerning the Jewish question in the provincial areas. While it is true that I ran into some Jewish Party leaders in some of the districts, they are very few in number. I could tell that in some of the places where there were some Jewish people that they wanted very much to talk to us but they avoided it. I could tell by looking at these people that they wanted to talk with us.

We visited a place on the Volga. This is a new socialist city called Volsk. It is named after the Volga River. The city is only about six or seven years old. It was built from the ground up. We visited institutions there. The Jews would ask us, where are you from? When I said we were from Canada they felt let down. They wanted to talk about the Jewish question in the United States.

The point is that in regard to the Jewish question the Russians would not even satisfy the most ardent Leftist in the CPUSA. I will tell the leadership of the CPUSA what the Russians told me. I am convinced that this is a point of pressure with the Russians and that they almost get mad in discussing it. They are very sensitive about this issue.

B. GENERAL DISCUSSIONS CONCERNING FUNDS FOR THE CPUSA

I gave the Russians a description of the financial difficulties in the CPUSA. I told them that the day I left New York "The Worker" almost failed to make the press and that I had loaned them some of the money I had been provided for my fare. They told me that the Central Committee would be acquainted with this situation. They instructed me to meet with PONOMAREV and NICOLAI to work out the financial details.

At this time it was stated that any money provided would not be from the government of the U.S.S.R., but would be taken from an international fund which is supplied by Party members in the CPSU and other Communist Parties. They emphasized that this money would not be from government funds. They told me that I should devise ways and means of distributing this money so that the source would not be disclosed.

It is noted that for the record the Russians stated that this money does not come out of the treasury of the U.S.S.R. but that it comes from certain funds to which Party members contribute. This was re-emphasized in meetings with PONOMAREV where the details were worked out in regard to the sum that would be sent to the CPUSA.

During the discussion at this meeting I told them that the decision to liquidate the "Daily Worker" was unanimous but that it was not a question of wanting the paper to fold. I said that the CPUSA could not keep it going with the deficits.

We did not go into any specific amounts at this meeting. They said that they were favorably disposed to give financial help but that they would have to present the proposition to the Central Committee. I thanked them for the help they had given in the past and said that we in the CPUSA are certain that once again they will help our Party. I cited some examples of programs which require funds, such as the struggle for peace.

C. GENERAL DISCUSSIONS

During a general discussion they asked what could have happened to a guy like [redacted] This brought on a discussion on the world situation. I told them that [redacted]'s opinion was that American imperialism is not aggressive. I said that [] agrees with JOK STAROBIN. They knew that STAROBIN is supposed to be the ideological mentor of []

They asked about HOWARD FAST. They said that these revisionists are dirty skunks, the chief enemies. They said there is only one aggressive power and that is United States imperialism. They said that American imperialism wants to conquer the world, therefore, the CPUSA was correct in the rejection of the point of view of []. They called FAST a Zionist agent. They said that he sent a lawyer to Russia for an accounting of his royalties. They said that they had given FAST thousands of dollars but FAST thought that it was not enough. They asked if FAST has ever contributed to the CPUSA. I said that I was sure that he did not contribute to the Party in recent years and that he claimed that the CPSU owes him thousands of dollars.

I noticed that premiere performances of a ballet called "Spartacus" were given in the Bolshoi Theater and in the Leningrad Opera. I am convinced that this ballet is based on the book with the same title by FAST, but they denied it. The music was written by AARON KATCHATURION (phonetic).

The meeting ended in small talk about various people and personalities and some questions. One of the questions was as follows: Some of your Generals make insane statements. Do you believe that they would be mad enough to start a war with us? Don't they understand that we would crush them? That this would be their last fight? Don't they know what we will do with them? We think we can lick them peacefully but if they start a fight we have the most destructive weapons. They did not go into what they would do or what weapons they have, but they tried to get me to feel that they have the most destructive weapons and that there is no question but that they would win and destroy Europe and hurt the United States. I said that the American people do not believe in war. I also said that I did not know whether the government of the United States knows the military capabilities of the Soviet Union.

Nothing very startling was said in regard to foreign policy. They talked with a passion about the question of their destructive power and just could not understand why the people in the United States or why the leading circles in the United States do not understand that they would get hurt if they started a war.

They also emphasized that there are many contradictions in the bourgeoisie world. They said that the British are reluctant partners of the United States. They said that American imperialism united with the French and British and the American imperialists have become the inheritors of the colonial loot of the French and British. It is, therefore, their conclusion that this coalition will break up.

They also said that the political life in the United States is not without contradictions. They said that there are even contradictions among the ruling classes. I said that the Republicans and Democrats have differences on domestic programs but there are large degrees of agreement on foreign policies, the cold war, etc. They said that they would not put all the people in the same camp. They cited CYRUS EATON, ADLAI STEVENSON, WAYNE MORSE, MIKE MANSFIELD and others. They said that maybe the opposition is small but it exists. Since it exists it was felt that their opinions may be shared with others. Therefore, the CPUSA should learn how to take advantage of these contradictions and to utilize them. This was sort of tactical advice. They said that some sections of the bourgeoisie are more intelligent than others and see how destructive war would be and that the United States would also be hurt. Thus, capitalism might last longer in peacetime.

I conveyed to DENNIS this idea of tactically utilizing the contradictions in the ruling class without relying upon the ruling class. It should be noted that WILLIAM Z. FOSTER does not believe in this theory.

They repeated that as long as you have principleness you can afford to be tactically flexible. As long as you understand the full meaning of the ruling classes then you can take advantage of their contradictions without submitting to any illusions that this or that section of the ruling class will save you or will peacefully or voluntarily accept and consent to Socialism. They were advancing this idea of taking advantage of contradictions in the ruling classes only in regard to the cold war, peaceful co-existence and the easing of world tensions.

They consider the fight for peace as they call it one of the most important tasks of the American Communist Party. The most important task for the CPUSA is the fight for economic demands of the workers. The next most important task is the fight for peace. I noticed that when you talk to people in the factories the first thing that they mention to you is the question of peace.

By way of comment, it can be stated that despite the size of the CPUSA the Russians are counting heavily on it and they would like to build it up if they could. No matter what happens to the CPUSA the Russians are not going to worry about this or that personality, but they are going to worry about how close the CPUSA policies are to those of the Soviet Union. They do not care if there is only a handful of people in the CPUSA. If this handful of people has a policy which is akin to theirs this is the group which will win their support. At this stage the Russians are not too concerned about the size of the CPUSA. The Chinese are completely unworried about the size of the CPUSA. While the Chinese belittle size, the Russians do not. However, the Russians mainly want a Party in the United States which accepts the doctrines of Marxism-Leninism and is 100% loyal to the CPSU. This is what they want and they will do everything possible to give support to such a Party.

The people in Russia are very interested in the United States and are studying English. Both NICOLAI and PONOMAREV stated that "The Worker" is superior to the "London Daily Worker" in approach. They have ordered 3,000 copies of each edition of "The Worker" and will utilize "The Worker" in the teaching and understanding of English.

August 25, 1958

On Tuesday evening, August 19, 1958, MARTIN YOUNG and I went to the dairy where he works in Queens, New York. We occupied one of the offices there and talked way into the night.

During this discussion, I intimated to him that I had taken a trip and that somebody had asked me questions about his [redacted]. I told him that I had given a recommendation that she is deserving of attention and that MARTIN YOUNG is a good Communist, a fighter against revisionism and against all deviation from the Party line.

MARTIN YOUNG thanked me profusely. He said that the inquiry was about his only [redacted]. He stated that she has children and that she lost her husband in the last world war. She was tubercular and had a hard time getting a pension. YOUNG stated that about one year ago, or even prior to that, he had talked to ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and to JIM ALLEN and offered to send his own money to his sister. YOUNG said that he knows that ALLEN had contact with the Russians. YOUNG said that he offered $500, if they would transmit it to his [redacted]. He said that he got no answer or encouragement from JIM ALLEN. ALLEN did not so much as acknowledge that he had heard the request.

So, YOUNG said that he has been worried all this time about his [redacted]. He stated that he was glad that I was able to be of some help, and also to relieve him of this worry. He said that he will never be able to thank me enough, that he will never forget it, etc.

A. Information from the Russian Embassy in Ottawa Concerning Funds for the Communist Party, USA from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union

It will be recalled that a message was given to me by EUGENE DENNIS and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG that some money for the CP, USA from the CPSU was in Canada and that it was necessary to make arrangements to get this money to the United States. In addition, I was supposed to ask TIM BUCK if he would agree to handle most, if not all, of the money coming from the Soviet Union for the CP, USA. Also, I was to coordinate the transmittal of the funds so that all the people concerned, both in Canada and in the United States, would be available for handling, transmitting, and exchanging any money which was available in Canada.

Despite a weekend meeting of the National Executive Committee of the Labor Progressive Party for the purpose of hearing reports by LESLIE MORRIS and BILL KASHTAN, who had attended congresses of the Communist Party of Bulgaria, the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia, and the Communist Party of Eastern Germany, TIM BUCK went from Toronto to the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa and returned to Toronto at 3 AM on August 4, 1958. The spokesman for the Soviet Embassy acknowledged that they were to receive $50,000 in one shipment which is to go to the CP, USA. However, BUCK was told that the money probably would not arrive as soon as was expected. All the spokesman did was to acknowledge that $50,000 is on the way but they said they could not give BUCK a precise date as to when it will arrive or when it can be picked up.

BUCK explained that one should not always take the Russians for granted as regards dates. He said that in the old days they were more exact for the following reasons. In the past, contacts in the Russian Embassies were always contacts with the Party Secretary. Every Russian Embassy had a Party Secretary who was in charge of the group or nucleus which is made up of Communists working in the Embassy. However, the Embassies are so organized now that the real boss of the Embassy is no one other than the Ambassador. If the Ambassador is not present, or if he does not issue the order or if he is not consulted regarding a proposition or an order, then matters are delayed. BUCK said that most of the time he has contact with the Party Secretary at the Embassy at Ottawa but sometimes has contact with the Ambassador.

BUCK stated that it is quite possible that this money will be available any day but he is doubtful that the CP, USA will receive it before the end of August or the first part of September unless there is an extraordinary order or decision of the CCCPSU in Moscow. BUCK gave the following explanation for the delay:

The Ambassador is the person who has to be either present or who has to give an order permitting such a transaction to take place. Yet the Russian Ambassador to Canada is away to Moscow for a vacation of one month. BUCK said that the staff at the Embassy may have the money now or may receive it soon, but they will not give it to anyone without the specific order of the Ambassador or the CCCPSU.

BUCK said that there is no cause to worry since he was told the amount that is on its way to Canada. He commented that it is possible that this sum is presently in the Embassy at Ottawa but they will not release it without the specific authority mentioned above. BUCK said that there is always red tape involved in these matters. He said that sometimes he sends documents, books, etc. to the Embassy for people other than the Ambassador. If they reach the hands of the Ambassador the people for whom they were intended do not get them unless the Ambassador so chooses. At other times the procedure is reversed and the Ambassador does not receive documents and books intended for him. BUCK stated that from now on he is going to send multiple copies to be sure that the Party Secretary as well as the Ambassador receives whatever material he sends to the Embassy in Ottawa.

B. Other Matters Taken Up By the Russian Embassy with TIM BUCK

BUCK said that the spokesman for the Russian Embassy took up with him the question of some more work in order to organize the Slavs internationally and also took up the question of some exchange of Ukrainian delegations from Canada which would go to the Soviet Ukraine.

One thing angered BUCK. He said that the Russians have been supporting a magazine dealing with cultural relations. The magazine is published in Canada under the editorship of DYSON (phonetic) CARTER. BUCK did not know until this meeting with the representatives of the Soviet Government that this arrangement was in existence. He mistrusts CARTER and would like to place someone else in charge of this magazine. In fact, someone else has already been chosen but he does not know at this moment that he has been selected. This person is NORMAN FREED. In any case, BUCK was dissatisfied and told them that in the future they must not choose people from the Labor Progressive Party or Communists to do anything without the knowledge of the leadership of the Labor Progressive Party.

C. Arrangements for Contacts Between the CPSU, the LPP, the CP, USA, and the CP of China

1. Transmittal of Funds

We arranged for contacts, first of all, in regard to the transmission of money. BUCK will send a get well card or a birthday card. This card will have on it a question such as, Am I correct that your birthday is on such-and-such a date?, or, Is it correct that you will leave the hospital on such-and-such a date? The date mentioned will be the date that BESS MASCOLO will arrive in the United States. The purpose of the card will be to facilitate arrangements for personal contact. Most of the time the notice will be sent to my brother in New York. Both TIM BUCK and MASCOLO prefer this arrangement. If my brother is not going to be available in New York he will send advance notice to them and she will come to Chicago. It was also agreed that one of us will go to Canada from time to time so that she will not have to travel all the time.

2. Communications from the LPP and
CP, USA to the CPSU

TIM BUCK agreed to the proposition made to me in Moscow that all very important communications from the CPSU to the CP, USA should be sent through him.

BUCK stated that he never knows when the Russians or Chinese actually receive material or communications he sends to them since, as a rule, they do not acknowledge receipt of communications or documents. He said that only when someone actually goes to the Soviet Union is there an opportunity to check up on what material has actually been received. Except for the fact that he uses personal couriers and that several people from Canada travel to Russia would he know whether or not the Russians received material he had sent to them.

I told him that on the day I left Moscow I had checked and they had received only a fraction of the material concerning the CP, USA which I had sent through Progressive Books in Canada and that I had only seen about one tenth of this material. He said that every bit of the material that I sent to Progressive Books was sent to Russia. He said that in this case too, he is convinced that there was some red tape involved or some mix-up in the Embassy where most of this material was sent in one form or another. He said that in desperation he sent some of it with [redacted] (phonetic), ^{CAN} U.S.S.R a Canadian, who was in Moscow in May. Even the delivery of the material she was carrying was delayed for about three weeks since ALEXAI ANDREOVITCH GRECHENCO (phonetic) was not in Moscow at that time. It was only after she got in touch with some other very important person, who contacted the CCCPSU, that they picked up from her some of the material which he had sent and which she was carrying. BUCK, therefore, suggested that I should communicate with Moscow, ask them to investigate the delay of the delivery of this material, ask them whether they received all of the material, and if not, to check into it.

It so happened that [redacted] a member of the National Executive Committee of the LPP, was to leave for Moscow on Tuesday, August 5, 1958. BUCK suggested that I write a communication to Moscow which would be carried by [redacted] BUCK also suggested that I should not protest too much, if at all, about the failure of the funds for the CP, USA to arrive in Canada. BUCK said that the Russians never, never deal with such matters in any kind of a communication except through the official channels of the Embassies or through leading personnel when this leading personnel is traveling to and from Moscow.

We arranged that I would return to his residence about 7 PM to continue the discussion as to the advisability of my sending a communication to Moscow with [redacted]

a.) Communication to the CPSU
Being Carried by [redacted]

We returned to BUCK's residence at 7 PM. My wife did not participate in the discussion but did type a communication which TIM BUCK and I formulated and which was sent to Moscow with [redacted]

The communication was addressed to NICOLAI ALEXAI, a combination of the names of NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH MATKOVSKY (phonetic) and ALEXAI ANDREOVITCH GRECHENCO (phonetic) of the International Department of the CCCPSU. This form of address was used to illustrate to the Russians that security precautions were being taken in the event that the communication fell into the hands of the "enemy".

The communication reflected my safe arrival from my trip. I said that the people here were happy and satisfied with my mission to Moscow. Then I told them that I checked here (they would know that "here" referred to Canada since [] was the courier and since TIM BUCK also was sending some oral messages with [] and that all my material was supposed to have arrived in Moscow so they should conduct a search for it. Then I told them I had sent more material, specifically the article by EUGENE DENNIS entitled, "Recent World Events and the Peace Movement in the USA". I suggested that this article be printed. Then I mentioned what they had agreed was a matter of urgent material. The words urgent material signified funds. BUCK agreed that if it was phrased in that way and followed the paragraph indicating that my original material should be in Moscow, it would not violate security and the Russians would know what was meant. It was BUCK's opinion that it was enough to say and that this point should not be pressed. So they may take this up with the Ambassador to Canada or the CCCPSU may issue the order to distribute these funds.

Incidentally, BUCK said that as a rule the people who carry this money for the CPSU are usually connected with their trade organizations and they might speed up the process in the event that the money is not already in Ottawa.

The letter concluded with a number of non-essential personal remarks reflecting that it is hard to get used to this ordinary capitalist life after spending time in their glorious country, etc.

Now, this letter had to be written in a certain way, not only as to language, but spacing, etc., and it had to be written on bond paper. TIM BUCK helped me to dictate it because we had to be careful about the language we used. This was the first time that I had sent a communication by messenger to the CPSU.

The letter was to be sealed and taken by BUCK and he said he was going to see someone who would see [] off early the next morning. BUCK agreed to send some oral messages with []. For example, he was going to tell [] to tell the comrades in Moscow that the letter BILLY FOSTER had sent out is not an official letter and that it was sent out for perusal by the members of the National Committee of the CP, USA and that it is not for publication, etc. Further, that more CP, USA material would be sent to the CPSU.

BUCK told me that he has implicit faith in [redacted]. He said that [redacted] was doing a lot of work that a fellow named [redacted] used to do in regard to handling such confidential matters as communications of this type and funds. As BUCK stated, [redacted] is virtually a courier.

3. Additional Information Concerning Contacts Between Communist Parties

Then BUCK told me that he is willing to do a lot of things for me that are personal in a certain sense, although he is doing it for the CP and considers it his duty. But he said that it should be kept in mind that the Russians do not take into consideration the expenditures of money or time. Therefore, it would be well to keep in mind that it takes money to travel to Ottawa and for BESS MASCOLO to travel to New York. I told him that I had taken this up with EUGENE DENNIS and that DENNIS said that a certain amount of money should be set aside to cover the cost of transmitting the money or carrying on communication between the CP, USA and the LPP. So BUCK was very satisfied with this information although I did not give him any money at this time. I told him that as soon as possible he will receive money from the CP, USA. It will be some hundreds of dollars in order to cover the cost of sending messengers and postage.

ENG*
BUCK has no better communication system with Moscow and Peking than we have except that he has the advantage of being able to personally see somebody in the Soviet Embassy at Ottawa. In addition, he can always send a communication to JOHN WILLIAMSON in London. Insofar as material for China is concerned, in addition to Post Office Box 509 in Peking, which we have, he sends communications to WILLIAMSON. WILLIAMSON turns them over to someone connected with the Chinese diplomatic corps whom WILLIAMSON sees from time to time.

In addition, the LPP is able to send people to Moscow from time to time. During this summer at least a dozen of their leading members have traveled to Russia. In addition, BUCK told me that he uses [redacted] who goes to Moscow at least three or four times a year.

D. Possibility of JOHN WILLIAMSON
Attempting to Return to the United States

BUCK told me that LESLIE MORRIS did not know that I was in Moscow and Peking. The Russians did not tell him. BUCK said that he had asked LESLIE if he had seen me in Moscow and LESLIE replied that he did not know that I was there. Then LESLIE remarked to BUCK, Obviously, the Russians kept him on ice for good reasons so we could not see him.

Then BUCK said that LESLIE saw JOHNNY WILLIAMSON in London. We figured out that they had met the day after I had left London. It will be recalled that WILLIAMSON told me that he expected to see LESLIE MORRIS and BILL KASHTAN. I had told WILLIAMSON not to tell LESLIE that I had been in London.

CPN
Now LESLIE MORRIS brought back a message from JOHNNY WILLIAMSON which is somewhat surprising but of great importance. I will have to transmit it to GENE DENNIS immediately. It seems that JOHNNY WILLIAMSON has given serious thought to coming back to the United States. He raised with LESLIE MORRIS the question of returning to Canada. He told LESLIE MORRIS to take up with TIM BUCK the question of whether or not it would be possible for the people in Canada to fix him up like they did IRVING POTASH so that he might be able to sneak across to the United States. Now JOHNNY WILLIAMSON did not take up this question with me. It seems to me that after I left London he gave consideration to this thought in order to get closer to the CP, USA leadership for personal conversations. Further, with the lifting of the ban on travel, he may feel that if he does not get into the United States, somebody from the CP, USA can see him in Canada. Also he might feel that he can sneak into the United States temporarily to talk to the leading people in the CP, USA and in this way get a mandate to officially represent the CP, USA either in Prague, Moscow, or London.

I know that when GENE DENNIS hears this he is going to hit the ceiling. DENNIS is going to issue instructions that WILLIAMSON should not do this. I do not know if WILLIAMSON wants the CP, USA to know about this. The reason he did not tell me might be because he expects a negative answer from the CP, USA, especially DENNIS. He knew that if he discussed this matter with me I would tell DENNIS and the order would be, Don't do it. He may feel that once he gets to Canada, as POTASH did, and if the Canadians could give him some protection, he perhaps could get to the United States without detection. It would be a fait accompli. Whatever happens afterwards, of course, is another story.

I can tell you that TIM BUCK was not very happy about this. He felt that it was his duty to tell me so that I, in turn, would tell the American CP. He would not assume responsibility for any such thing. He said JOHNNY can travel and he can come into Canada any time he wants to do so. He said he doubts that WILLIAMSON would be stopped from coming to Canada. A British subject can travel to Canada without much difficulty. However, if he engaged in some activity in Canada the Royal Canadian Mounted Police might consider deporting him to Great Britain.

E. Possibility of the Printing of the New International Communist Magazine in Canada

BUCK said that LESLIE MORRIS came back with a proposition in regard to the new international Communist magazine which will be published in Prague. This magazine would be called ~~X~~ "For Peace and Democracy", ~~X~~ "For Democracy and Socialism", or some other title.

The proposition is that the English version of this magazine be printed in Canada. The Russians think that it would be most advisable to publish the English version in some English speaking country, preferably Canada. He said that he is not so sure that they should print the English version of the magazine in Canada unless the CP, USA leadership agrees. So BUCK asked me to deliver this message to GENE DENNIS or to whomever GENE appoints and that an answer be given right away.

They would not edit this magazine in Canada. The editor of the English version will ostensibly be [redacted] Editor of the "Marxist Review" of the CPGB. Actually, however, he will only do the editing from a technical standpoint. The paper will be edited in detail in Prague. Even the headlines will be written in Prague and the galley proofs will be sent back to Prague for approval. All the Canadians would do would be to get a printer.

BUCK said that a price of .50 per copy had been set for the magazine. The Communist Party of France and other Communist Parties agreed to this price. BUCK objected to the price. He said he told them that the people in Canada and the United States would never pay this price. After that they agreed that the price would be reduced to .35 a copy, or $3.50 a year. It would be 6" x 9" in size and will have approximately one hundred pages in each issue.

F. Convention of the Communist Party of Uruguay, August 17, 1958

BUCK said that the convention of the CP of Uruguay is to take place on August 17, 1958. The address of the CP of Uruguay was on the letter BUCK received and which announced the date of the convention. The address is Communist Party of Uruguay, Sierra 1716-20 Montevideo, Uruguay. One phone number is 49084 and the other phone number is 48569. BUCK said that the CP, USA should know that this meeting or congress or convention is taking place on August 17, 1958. He said that he thought it would be a very good idea if somebody was present in Montevideo so that the Western Hemisphere Conference can be discussed by both the LPP and the CP, USA.

G. Convention or Congress of the Communist Party of Mexico

BUCK did not know that the CP of Mexico is scheduled to hold its convention or congress starting September 29, 1958. He said that mail service from Mexico usually takes about a week longer to get to Canada than to the United States, so he may receive the notice later.

H. The LPP and the Jewish Question

BUCK discussed his relationship with LESLIE MORRIS and BILL KASHTAN. He said that he is not altogether happy since they are not relieving him of enough details.

BUCK also said that they are having additional troubles in the Jewish field. This seems to be their big problem. He believes that as of now the Russians did not give a satisfactory answer on the Jewish question.

Parenthetically I would state that I heard a radio broadcast from Moscow which indicates that the Russians have become a bit more sensitive to the Jewish question and that there is going to be some news which is going to satisfy other parties in other countries in regard to this situation.

BUCK also indicated that the LPP is having trouble with the ultra-left.

I. General Discussion of the CPSU

BUCK asked me what happened to MIKHAIL ~~SUSLOV~~. I said that I do not know. I told BUCK that I asked to see him and they told me he was very ill. I said that SUSLOV did not participate in any meetings I attended in Moscow. Also, I did not see his name in print during the three months I was abroad. BUCK said, Well, this means he is out. The very fact that he was not present at the congress in Germany, in Bulgaria, and in Czechoslovakia, indicates that SUSLOV is out of things internationally. The fact that he was not present at the meeting between NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV and MAO Tse-tung in Peking is further proof that he is not in the top leadership.

Further on the question of SUSLOV, BUCK asked me who I thought took SUSLOV's place if he is out of the leadership. I said that I did not know but that in my discussions with leading members of the CCCPSU I noted that PETER POSPELOV, a Secretary of the CPSU, seems to be playing SUSLOV's role but that some of this work is also distributed among other members of the CCCPSU and the Presidium of the CPSU. For example, a handful of members of the Presiding Committee went with KHRUSHCHEV to the congress of the CP of Bulgaria. KHRUSHCHEV could not attend the convention or congress of the CP of Czechoslovakia so A. B. YARISTOV, one of the leading members of the CCCPSU, and the leading Ukrainian, KIRICHENKO, and others went to this congress. When NOVOTNY, the President of Czechoslovakia came to Russia in May, POSPELOV traveled through the Soviet Union until KHRUSHCHEV could meet with NOVOTNY.

Then TIM BUCK went on to say that he has developed a sort of second sense in trying to feel out the attitude the Russian leadership takes when people are on the political decline. He said that you cannot always tell, but you have to learn, that you cannot press them about certain people. Citing examples, TIM said that when he was in Russia in 1950 they asked him whom he wanted to see. BUCK said that one of the first persons he asked to see was an old friend whom he had worked closely with for years, SOLOMON LOZOVSKY (phonetic). BUCK said they replied, We will see. Then BUCK commented that LOZOVSKY was in prison, was released only after STALIN died, and he died immediately after because of the tortures he had undergone because he never confessed to any crime and never agreed with STALIN. So BUCK stated that once he inquires about someone he does not press the question if the Russians do not give him an answer.

Then BUCK cited a recent experience. He said that when he was in Russia for the 40th anniversary of the October revolution he spent about one week in Kiev. He stayed in a big mansion or palace. NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH ~~MIATKOVSKY~~, USSR presently the head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, was with him. They only occupied a room of this palace. BUCK told NICOLAI that he would like to see his old friend ~~MANUELSKY~~ (phonetic), ostensibly the Foreign Minister of the Soviet Republic of U.S.S.R. Ukraine. NICOLAI said, Well now, we shall see. BUCK said nothing more. Then BUCK stated that the evening before the day they were to leave Kiev, he was discussing some matters with NICOLAI and the latter said, Well now, TIM, you didn't ask me about MANUELSKY again. TIM said he told NICOLAI that he felt that if he raised it once and no arrangement was made for him to see MANUELSKY that there might be a reason and that it might be difficult to see him so he did not press for such a meeting. Then NICOLAI said, Well TIM, MANUELSKY is very sick. We doubt that he will recover. Then to BUCK's surprise, NICOLAI said, Do you know whose palace we are occupying? This is MANUELSKY's palace. NICOLAI let it go at that.

This discussion led to the discussion of the old professor or academician, I. ~~MINTZ~~. I told BUCK that I had USSR asked to see MINTZ and was told that he is dead. BUCK said Now, I think here too there is some mystery but I don't think it is a big political mystery. BUCK said that LESLIE MORRIS was also a student of MINTZ. MORRIS asked to see MINTZ and was told that MINTZ was on creative leave. This was only about a month ago or so. Therefore, the Russians gave MORRIS a different answer than they gave me.

BUCK said that he doubts very much that MINTZ is sick. He said that MINTZ had raised some important political problems. MORRIS told BUCK that he talked to various people and they confirmed that MINTZ is on what they call creative leave and that MINTZ raised the following question. MINTZ said that STALIN had indicated in his writings after World War II that World War II was a people's war from the very beginning. MINTZ challenges this conception. It is his belief that it became a people's war in certain stages and at different times. It may have become a people's war before it was over but the concept of STALIN that it was a people's war from the very beginning is not correct. This question is now being debated within the leadership of the CPSU.

Possibly NICOLAI did not know the MINTZ whom I had referred to. There are a number of persons by that name in Russia. BUCK stated that once he was misdirected to the wrong person because MINTZ is a common name in Russia. BUCK said that possibly NICOLAI made a mistake because he is fairly new in the international apparatus and has only been in Moscow about ten years. On the other hand NICOLAI may have wanted to save himself the trouble of getting permission from higher authority for me to see MINTZ. I had also been told in Moscow that MINTZ was working with PONOMAREV on the history of the CPSU. This will be the third history of the CPSU that MINTZ has worked on. Each is a different version. In any case our conclusion was that when the Russians have reasons, valid or invalid, about not letting you see certain people or people who are out of political favor, they always use the excuse of illness or death and the best thing is not to press them on such matters.

J. Funds for LPP Members
Traveling to Europe

I asked BUCK where LESLIE MORRIS and BILL KASHTAN get funds to travel to Europe. He said that they received communications from the separate parties through Moscow stating that they would defray the expenses. For example, the Bulgarians promised that they would pay the fare and expenses if the LPP would send a delegation to its congress. The CP of East Germany and the CP of Czechoslovakia did the same thing. BUCK stated, however, that the LPP is conducting a campaign and he is personally conducting a campaign to try to raise money to cover the expenses of Canadian delegations to these various congresses. In this way no one will get the idea that they are receiving help from abroad or that they are being subsidized to go to these various congresses.

II. COMMENTS CONCERNING THE MEETING BETWEEN MAO TSE-TUNG AND NIKITA
KHRUSHCHEV IN PEKING, CHINA

We should make note of the composition of the Russian delegation which went to Peking. In addition to KHRUSHCHEV, R. Y. MALINOVSKY, the Minister of Defense, VASSILY KUZNETSOV, the Acting Foreign Minister, and BORIS N. PONOMAREV, a member of the CCCPSU and head of the International Department were present. On the Chinese side it should be pointed out that WANG Chia-hsiang, head of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the CP of China and a member of the Secretariat of the CP of China, was also present. This means that they discussed some Party problems as well as matters of foreign policy.

In regard to KUZNETSOV, I met him in Moscow in 1947. We talked about him while I was in Moscow this year. He is the Latin American specialist. He led the delegation from the Soviet Union to the inauguration of the president of Argentina. He gave a report on Latin America and the tour of Vice President RICHARD NIXON when he returned to Moscow. He was in South America about the same time NIXON was. I think that it was no accident that KUZNETSOV went with KHRUSHCHEV to Peking. In the Communist plan against the United States, Latin America is going to play an important role. They will use the Communist Parties in Latin America in this regard. This is probably why PONOMAREV attended the meeting in Peking. Some attention might be paid to that part of the official communique on the meeting between KHRUSHCHEV and MAO Tse-tung which mentions Latin America as a part of the struggle for independence of oppressed people.

Regarding China, one of the young people whose career is just now beginning but who is on the ascendancy, is Foreign Minister CHEN YI. He was present at this meeting between KHRUSHCHEV and MAO along with CHOU En-lai and Marshal PENG Teh-huai, the Minister of National Defense. CHEN YI is also a military man but they do not emphasize his military career. Next to CHOU En-lai, CHEN YI is being groomed for bigger positions. While this is not emphasized, his photograph appears everywhere. He was present at the meeting I had with TENG Hsiao-ping, the General Secretary of the CP of China, but he did not participate in the discussions.

The meeting between NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV and MAO Tse-tung took place in Chung Nan Hai. This is a part of the old red walled imperial city in the center of Peking. This is where some of the Communist leaders live and where some of the government offices are located. This is where you meet Communists who also hold government positions. There is a distinction between this headquarters and that of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the CP of China which is located in another part of the city.

Now a few general comments. There has been a lot of speculation in the United States press regarding the trip of NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV to Peking and what effect it will have on future international events. Some writers are speculating that they have now found the X factor which exists in the Soviet-Chinese relationship. They point to the fact that China appears before the Soviet Union in the communiques from Peking. Thus they are trying to say that primacy is given to China. I would point out that since the 40th anniversary of the USSR, China has always been linked with the Soviet Union. When the Russians speak about the socialist camp in these general communiques they never fail to mention China even though they do not mention the other socialist countries. It is a fact that China has become a sort of equal partner, with some reservations, with the Soviet Union.

I believe that this meeting will have the following effect on the Soviet Union. The Soviet Union will pursue a more militant, aggressive, and truculent attitude towards the Western world. The headlines about the United States and particularly about JOHN FOSTER DULLES and President EISENHOWER out maneuvering the Russians in regard to the summit meeting are just so much poppy-cock and hot air.

As in his conversations with me, MAO will insist on a more adamant and tougher policy in relation to the Western powers. You will recall that not only MAO but all of the other Chinese leaders I talked with point out that they are going to put the screws on Japan and Great Britain. China feels that the Western world is in a tough spot. Difficulties for the Western powers in other parts of the world would make things easier for the Chinese and the Communists in the Far East, Asia, and the Pacific in general.

The Chinese feel that they are not a part of all these discussions concerning the Middle East since they are not in the United Nations. The Chinese are of the opinion that instead of bowing to Western opinion, demands, or maneuvers on the diplomatic field, that it is necessary to take advantage of the difficulties and to show a tougher policy. If the tougher policy leads to a military clash, well, they have very little to lose. They feel they can fight as well as anyone, that the West is not anxious for war just as they may not be anxious for war. But world opinion may not permit an atomic war. If they fight any other kind of a war the advantages certainly are on the side of the so-called socialist states.

So, without going into a deep analysis of the results flowing from this KHRUSHCHEV-MAO meeting, I would say that we should look forward to a tougher policy on the part of the Communist states and that KHRUSHCHEV may not be so anxious for a summit meeting at this time. So that if the United States thinks that it has out maneuvered them so that there will not be a summit meeting at this time, the United States may be doing exactly what they are looking for so that they can carry on their propaganda in broader forms including the General Assembly of the United Nations. Thus there may not be a summit meeting, which the Russians still desire on their terms, then things may happen in all parts of the world. They can point to these tensions and say, Well, you have been avoiding this summit meeting. Here is the result--an increase of tensions and the danger of war. They will blame all of this on the United States.

MEETING WITH THE INTERNATIONAL LIAISON DEPARTMENT OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF
CHINA

On June 28, 1958, I had the first formal meeting with WANG Chia-hsiang and other members of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. TANG Ming-chao, with some help from YU Chi-ying, acted as the translator. LI Chi-hsin wrote every word spoken.

WANG Chia-hsiang greeted me officially and said that he was happy that I was in China. He told me that they are happy that the Communist Party - USA defeated the revisionists and that this is a very important thing. He asked me to say a few words, and I gave an introductory report similar to the one I gave to the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. When I finished, WANG Chia-hsiang spoke about the situation in the Communist Party - USA. He made comparisons between the Yugoslavs and the GATES forces in the Communist Party - USA. He said that revisionism is international and that there are no differences between the thinking of TITO and GATES. Then he made the following comments on Yugoslavia:

Comments of WANG Chia-hsiang on Yugoslavia

First of all, WANG wanted to acquaint me with the conditions in Yugoslavia before World War II. WANG stated that the Yugoslavs were an underground Party. This Party had two characteristics: (1) Narrow nationalism. This had as its basis the following: Yugoslavia as a nation went through a period of oppression. They were under the rule of Hungary and the Yugoslav people developed strong national sentiments. This sentiment found its way into the Communist Party; and (2) From the founding of the Communist Party of Yugoslavia in 1922, it was legal only for a short period of time, but was mainly illegal. During these illegal days, there were strong factional fights and a division of the Party into groups and factions.

At the time of the occupation by the Nazis, the people fought fascism. The Communists participated in this fight, giving leadership to the partisans. During this period, the Party developed rapidly. Within a few years, HITLER was defeated. But TITO should not be credited for defeating the Nazis. The Soviet armies were responsible for this defeat.

The Communist Party of Yugoslavia developed quickly, but became conceited and arrogant, like the newly rich, and looked down on other people or, as WANG put it, on other People's Democracies. Yugoslavia even claimed that it defeated the Nazis and obtained their liberation without outside military assistance, while the other People's Democracies had to be liberated with the aid of the Red Armies. But, according to WANG, TITO cannot say this to the Chinese Communist Party, who fought for its own freedom and liberation.

Yugo
WANG then went on to discuss the problem of help given TITO by the Soviet Union. First of all, the Soviet Union military defeated HITLER and helped Yugoslavia to liberate Belgrade. Without the Soviet Army liberating Belgrade, TITO could not have done it. Yugoslavia also received diplomatic assistance from the Soviet Union, which was just as important as military help in order to obtain political power.

At that time, there were two governments in existence in Yugoslavia. The Soviet Union helped TITO politically and diplomatically. The Soviet Union gave material and economic help. Thus, TITO was put into power in 1944 with the help of the Soviet Union. After their liberation, Yugoslavia began to dispute with the Soviet Union. In fact, there had been disputes even before the liberation. He reminded us that there was some inference that WINSTON CHURCHILL sent his son to work in TITO's headquarters. According to WANG, the bourgeoisie had foresight and they used TITO for their ends. After liberation, TITO had invited experts from the Soviet Union. These were military, economic and industrial experts. This was necessary because the factories, railroads and other industries were destroyed during the war. Already during that period, TITO showed trends of revisionism. ENS

In the United Nations, Yugoslavia's approach to foreign policy was such that it placed the United States and the Soviet Union on the same level. Aside from this political and diplomatic approach and the various disputes occurring at the beginning of the TITO regime, TITO developed theories such as: When the Communist Party takes State power, the Communist Party should not dominate the State or put forward its own program. A people's front may be enough in order to take power. According to TITO, class struggle should not be intensified within Yugoslavia. This, according to WANG and according to all Communists, is revisionism. This concerned one of the most important problems -- the need for a vanguard Party to establish the dictatorship of the proletariat, which TITO, already in the early days, ostensibly denied, at least in theory.

In addition, the relationship between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of Yugoslavia became tense. There were many disputes regarding work of Soviet experts in Yugoslavia. The Communist Party of the Soviet Union proposed thrashing out these things at the Cominform, but the Communist Party of Yugoslavia refused.

WANG asked me if I remembered that in 1947, after the formation of the Cominform, TITO was critical of the French and Italian Communist Parties. But when TITO was up for criticism, he refused to attend the Cominform meetings. These revisionist erroneous theories further developed, as pointed out in the 1948 Resolution adopted by the Cominform. Perhaps the method of criticism, as contained in that resolution, was not correct or exact, because this resolution of the Cominform asked for the overthrow of the TITO regime. It asked all healthy elements of the Communist movement to unite for that purpose. At that time, the erroneous theories of the Communist Party of Yugoslavia were not too well known to the world. But these theories, nevertheless, were criticized in the resolution adopted by the Cominform, and this criticism was basically correct in 1948, although WANG repeated that the method of criticism employed was not so good. TITO refused to attend the Cominform after the adoption of this resolution.

WANG then stated that in 1949, TITO launched an anti-Soviet campaign. In 1949, the Cominform adopted a resolution calling TITO an agent provocateur. According to WANG, this was not so good. The situation of tension and strain between the Communist Parties, and particularly between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of Yugoslavia, prevailed until 1954. In 1954, upon the initiative of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, steps were taken to improve the relations with Yugoslavia. The Communist Party of the Soviet Union consulted with the Communist Party of China. WANG said that the Chinese Communist Party supported this initiative. We foresaw two possibilities: (1) After efforts on the part of the Communist camp, Yugoslavia would correct itself. At least we thought this was a possibility; and (2) That Yugoslavia would not correct its mistakes and continue on its path as it did in the 1940s.

From early 1954 to 1956, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the other Communist Parties did their utmost to improve their relations with the League of Yugoslav Communists. We thought these steps necessary. As a result of the good intentions and the work of the other Communist Parties, TITO became even more arrogant.

Parenthetically speaking, WANG meant that TITO thought these Communist Parties were bowing to him; that they were admitting mistakes without pointing to any mistakes Yugoslavia may have made.

In 1957, TITO wanted all Communist Parties in Eastern Europe to bow to him and follow the same pattern that the League of Yugoslav Communists had been following. TITO began to pose as an anti-STALIN hero. He encouraged the counter-revolutionary movement or the anti-Party movement in Hungary. In 1956, TITO made a speech at Pola, Yugoslavia. TITO said that in the international Communist movement, there are two lines: A pro-STALIN line and a Yugoslav line. TITO stated that the other Communist Parties should follow him.

WANG said that the Chinese Communist Party criticized this speech of TITO, as did other Communist Parties. WANG stated that the Chinese Communist Party, at that time, showed the need for the dictatorship of the proletariat.

Parenthetically speaking, I might add that the TITO line denies the need for the dictatorship of the proletariat.

According to WANG, in the spring of 1957, the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union held meetings in Rumania with TITO, and they asked TITO to bring the disputes into the open. There was a meeting in Bucharest at that time. TITO then promised there would be no more disputes and that he would attend an international meeting to draw up a document of agreement with the other Communist Parties. In November, 1957, the brother Communist Parties gathered in Moscow on the occasion of the 40th Anniversary of the Soviet Revolution. In the meantime, TITO had backed down and claimed illness as an excuse for not attending the meeting in Moscow. TITO's delegates, who were present in Moscow, refused to participate in the meeting with the Parties of the other Socialist countries, and they did not sign the declaration of the twelve Communist Parties. Yet, there still was no criticism of TITO by the other Parties.

WANG then stated that in the beginning of 1958, the League of Yugoslav Communists held a plenum. They issued a declaration giving the reasons why they did not sign the Twelve-Party Declaration. They just said that they did not agree with the viewpoint of the Declaration. But even at this late date, there still was no criticism of the League of Yugoslav Communists.

The Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists convened at the end of April, 1958. In March, 1958, they published a draft program and sent duplications to all Communist Parties. WANG stated that the Chinese Communist Party received a copy. When the Communist Party of China received a copy of the draft program, WANG said that we thought the question over and came to the conclusion that we could not send fraternal delegates to this Congress. We came to the same conclusion as the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. Before the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists, the Communist Party of the Soviet Union published an article in the "Kommunist". WANG said, We, the Chinese Communists, did not write anything. We read this article in the "Kommunist" and we thought the criticism was quite gentle. But during this Congress, TITO and his followers in the leadership launched an attack on the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of China.

Parenthetically speaking, I was given a copy of this draft program to read.

WANG said this program does not look like a program from one country. It takes on the form of an international Party. This program is divided as follows:

It gives an estimation of the Capitalist world and it says that the Capitalist world has two-thirds of the world population, while the Socialist world has one-third. This program also contained an estimation of Capitalism and how it develops into monopoly Capitalism. When it develops into monopoly Capitalism, it changes its nature. As regards the State apparatus of monopoly Capitalism, according to the Titoites, this State does not represent any class. The State rather is a regulator of the class relations. The State limits monopoly Capitalism. Gradually, State Capitalism comes into being, and they prove this by saying that many enterprises in Capitalist countries have been nationalized, and these nationalized enterprises are elements of Socialism. The program of the League of Yugoslav Communists also says that in the countries of monopoly Capitalism, it is not necessary for the proletariat to overthrow the State apparatus. Also, that the pressure of the working class upon the State apparatus will gradually bring Socialism into being. The Yugoslavs emphasize that the whole world is undergoing a process of gradually moving to Socialism. (This is a very important point).

With regard to the estimation of the Capitalist world, according to the program of the Yugoslavs, monopoly capitalism will gradually move to State Capitalism, and State Capitalism already has within it elements of Socialism. The proletariat of these countries do not need to carry on a revolutionary struggle -- that is, in the more developed Capitalist countries. In the more backward Capitalist countries, such as India, they are travelling to Socialism via a special path. According to the Yugoslavs, there is some Socialism in India already. The State-owned enterprises in these countries are Socialist. The League of Yugoslav Communists close their eyes to the fact that these countries are in the hands of the bourgeoisie and that the State apparatus is in the hands of the bourgeoisie. Development of Capitalism in these countries still contain elements of progress. This is the significance of the State enterprises. But it is a development of Capitalism, not Socialism.

WANG stated that the Yugoslavs, in their program, portray a very poor picture of the Communist Parties in the entire Capitalist world. The Yugoslavs say that these Communist Parties are no good. They say these Parties are dogmatic, sectarian and divorced from the masses, and they take orders from abroad. The idea of Socialism cannot be found only in the Communist Parties. In certain advanced Capitalist countries, meaning chiefly the United States and England, where the Communist Parties are small and play a minor role, the Yugoslavs say the leadership of the trade unions will lead the working class to Socialism.

Parenthetically speaking, in this part of the program, the United States is mentioned and the American Communist Party is mentioned in the most negative terms. The Yugoslavs do not see a need for the American Communist Party. This is what aroused EUGENE DENNIS to write an article concerning Yugoslavia, which appeared in "The Worker".

To summarize in brief, according to WANG, in the Capitalist world monopoly Capitalism is good, because it is on the road to State Capitalism, is the thesis of the Yugoslav program. (Other Communist Parties agree with this analysis of the Yugoslav program by WANG.) But the Communist Parties in the Capitalist world are no good.

In regard to the question of the two systems which exist -- that is, Capitalism and Socialism -- WANG stated: In our opinion the world is divided into the Socialist world and the Capitalist world. The Yugoslav Communists say that the world is divided into two blocks -- military and political. In this program, the Yugoslavs analyze reasons for the existence of these two blocks. They start their analysis by dealing with the period after World War II, and they point out that there is a struggle going on between these two blocks, which can be characterized as a struggle for hegemony of the big powers and a struggle for spheres of influence. The Yugoslavs say that this is proved by the Yalta and Potsdam Conferences. These conferences show that the United States and the Soviet Union strive for the same goals -- hegemony.

In their program, the Yugoslavs go on to say that the foreign policy of STALIN was too rigid and harsh. It was this that compelled the Capitalist countries to form military blocks.

Parenthetically speaking, when the Communists read this portion of the Yugoslav program, they become enraged. According to them, imperialism is responsible for world tensions.

Not long ago, according to WANG, TITO gave an interview to correspondents of United States newspapers. A reporter asked him, Who is the greatest man in the world? TITO named WINSTON CHURCHILL. And after TITO named CHURCHILL, he named EISENHOWER. He did not name KHRUSHCHEV. TITO only said that KHRUSHCHEV's foreign policy was more flexible. From this, according to WANG, we can see the Yugoslav estimation of the world situation -- that is, that there are two blocks, but the danger of war does not come from United States imperialism, but is due to the strong and harsh policy of the Soviet Union. Therefore, the danger of war must come from the USSR.

WANG stated that in this program of the League of Yugoslav Communists, there is not a single word mentioning the United States as imperialistic, although this is a very large document. This document also mentions the economic aid given to Yugoslavia and says that the United States gave this aid without political conditions. The aid given by the United States, according to the Yugoslavs, has nothing to do with "interference in internal affairs"; but as regards the aid given to Yugoslavia by the Soviet Union, the Yugoslavs were not treated as equals and the Soviet Union tried to interfere in Yugoslav affairs, and that the Soviet Union acts like a big nation.

With regard to foreign policy, the program of the League of Yugoslav Communists says that they are for peaceful co-existence, etc. But in actuality, Yugoslavia helps United States imperialism and directs its main attack against the USSR. In the program, there are several chapters dealing with the USSR. Why should they deal with the USSR? This is supposed to be a Yugoslav program. But with regard to the USSR, this program states that it is a bureaucratic state, and that this bureaucratic State developed during the STALIN regime and remained that way. In the Soviet Union, they say the means of production now are concentrated in the hands of the State, and the State becomes a monopolist and the State stands over the people. Therefore, the State is a "totalitarian, bureaucratic apparatus". Thus, there is an antagonistic and irreconcilable gulf between the State and the people.

In this program, the Yugoslavs state that the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries want to lead their respective countries. Thus, the Yugoslavs say that the Party and the State are identical and have become bureaucratic and totalitarian. This is why there is no democracy in the Soviet Union and in other Socialist countries, according to the Yugoslavs.

WANG stated that in Yugoslavia, they say they have a real democracy. The Yugoslavs say that they have self-government of the people and a workers' democracy. In Yugoslavia, the means of production are in the hands of workers in respective factories, and not in the hands of the State. The League of Yugoslav Communists also say that they do not play the role of the leader of the State. They say they are an organization which carries on political and educational activity, and not an institution which monopolizes the leadership of the State.

The League of Yugoslav Communists once carried the name "Communist Party". It was later that they changed their name into a "League" instead of a "Party".

The Yugoslavs further claimed that the State in Yugoslavia is withering away, but this is not so in the Soviet Union. Therefore, the Yugoslavs are the real Marxists. WANG referred to MARX, ENGELS and LENIN, and their conception of the state and pointed out that they stated that after the suppression of the counter-revolution, the State will wither away. The Yugoslavs said the State would wither away when the antagonisms of the classes disappear. The Yugoslavs charge that the Soviet Union is violating this Marxian concept; and since they believe in the withering away of the State, they, the Yugoslavs, are the real Marxists. But in Yugoslavia, this conception of MARX, ENGELS and LENIN is reversed, according to WANG. The Yugoslavs say that the State should not even play a leading role in social and economic matters. WANG stated that these are deceptive statements, and that TITO is trying to deceive the people with such an interpretation of Marxism.

WANG stated that the Yugoslavs say that they fought the cult of the individual in Yugoslavia. In actuality, according to WANG, the cult of the individual is most serious in Yugoslavia. WANG stated that the Chinese Ambassador to Yugoslavia observed and saw with his own eyes the following slogan: "TITO is us and we are TITO". The League of Yugoslav Communists have been saying the State has been withering away. WANG stated that the fact is that Yugoslavia has the highest percentage of security forces than any other Socialist country.

The Yugoslavs say they are very democratic. WANG stated, however, that TITO and his group have rigid control of the country. Here WANG emphasized that during the four days of sessions of the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists, only nine people took the floor. He mentioned that seven or eight of these nine members of the League of Yugoslav Communists are on the Central Committee.

The Yugoslavs say that the factories in Yugoslavia are owned by the workers. WANG stated that in actuality, they are controlled by a clique. WANG said that when the factory makes money, the workers get a bonus. When it does not make money, the workers do not even get their wages.

WANG went on to say that the League of Yugoslav Communists and TITO have already degenerated. He stated that revisionism in Yugoslavia already had roots in 1948, but now it has fully developed and is systemized, as shown in their program. WANG stated that all these years Yugoslavia received aid from the United States, amounting to almost three billion dollars, which bought economic and military aid. This is equivalent to 4% of the national income, or equivalent to 20% of the national budget of Yugoslavia. WANG pointed out that it is clear that the United States Government gave large sums of money to Yugoslavia for services rendered, obviously for help to United States imperialism. WANG stated that the United States Government had certain intentions. It wanted Yugoslavia to camouflage itself under the banner of Socialism, Communism, etc. WANG stated that TITO's role is to glorify Capitalism, imperialism, and the American Government. The imperialists wanted TITO to attack the Socialist countries. That is exactly what TITO is doing.

WANG stated that if we say that in the past, before World War I, imperialism developed, exploited colonies, derived super profits and gave crumbs to feed the labor aristocracy to disarm the militancy of the working class, now we can say that the United States has expended large sums of money to TITO to make Yugoslavia play the role of a disrupter and saboteur in the international working class movement, to disarm the militant and revolutionary ideas of the working class. This the United States got from TITO. These are the relations between TITO and the United States. The United States imperialists wanted to disrupt the unity of the Socialist camp and the Communist movement. WANG stated that TITO is doing exactly that.

To sum up, WANG stated that TITO and his clique have become degenerated. They have betrayed Marxism-Leninism. They have betrayed the working class. They are traitors to the working class. Therefore, it is necessary for us, the Communists, to remove this camouflage from TITO, to take away the name "Communist", Socialism, Marxism-Leninism, or that he is a supporter of peace. WANG stated that the League of Yugoslav Communists should be exposed so the whole world would know who they are.

The Yugoslavs said, Why not have friendly discussions and criticize us? WANG stated that the fact is that the League of Yugoslav Communists closed the door to criticism on ideology, theory and tactics. All this criticism was refused or rejected.

In the Lapu (ph) speech, TITO called China war mongers. WANG stated, We can see that TITO and his leading group do not dare to discuss the essence of this problem.

Concerning the emergence of the revisionist views contained in the program of the League of Yugoslav Communists, WANG stated that these views existed even before 1948-1949, but not in one organized program as it is now. WANG said these views came out occasionally in speeches. WANG stated that because of the methods used by the Soviet Party, the Soviet Union and the Cominform, in 1948, it is necessary for us to take active steps to win over the followers of TITO. WANG said this needs to be done, even if it takes a few years.

In regard to the co-operation of TITO with the Social Democracies, in 1948 and 1949 the Yugoslav Party severed relations with all the Communist Parties, but developed close relations with the Social Democratic Parties of Norway, Sweden, etc., the French Socialists and the British Labor Party. TITO made visits to these places. But these Social Democratic Parties were not too satisfied with TITO and his clique. They were not interested in this camouflage of Communism.

WANG further stated that not long ago TITO arrested some members of the Social Democratic Party. TITO and his leading group are only interested in material aid. Their main concern is how to get more money.

WANG went on to talk about TITO's Ambassador to China, in that he was interfering in the internal affairs of China. He said that the bourgeoisie Rightists wrote letters to the Yugoslav Embassy and all letters were answered and material enclosed. WANG said, We got these answers and replies which they received. The Yugoslavs did not want interference from us, but they are experts at interfering. Now we are writing articles and editorials to expose Yugoslav revisionism. WANG stated that perhaps later the United States will see if it pays to subsidize TITO. Then the time may come when there will be no more aid. There will be no more services to be performed by Yugoslavia to United States imperialism. In the meantime, the Yugoslavs are trying to disrupt the Communist Parties of the Capitalist world. They want to turn all Parties into their own image.

WANG stated, We make a clear distinction between TITO and the Yugoslav people. Care should be taken not to hurt the national sentiment of the Yugoslav people. TITO is making use of this national sentiment in order to retain control. Efforts are being made by the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and other Parties in this direction to influence the people of Yugoslavia. The people will draw their lessons. They will think and ask: Why is the State now in the hands of TITO and his group? The honest elements in the League of Yugoslav Communists, the Marxists, are in a difficult position. It is not so easy to overthrow TITO. WANG stated that the day will come when a traitor like TITO will disappear.

WANG stated that after the Chinese criticized and repudiated Yugoslav revisionism, many Communists in Yugoslavia tried to flee. TITO had them arrested. This was proof that there are still some healthy elements in Yugoslavia, according to WANG.

WANG concluded his remarks by again informing me that the DENNIS article concerning Yugoslavia and its revisionism had been published in their press. He said that the attitude of the Chinese Communists regarding revisionism is identical to that of the Communist Party - USA, but that it is more difficult for the American Communists to deal with revisionism.

WANG stated that TITO said the Chinese Communist Party is afraid of public opinion. But in 1956, the Chinese Party printed TITO's Pola speech. He stated, We also published the program of the League of Yugoslav Communists. WANG said that the Chinese people became angry when reading this program. He said that the Yugoslav press did not print a word concerning the attitude of the Chinese.

WANG said that the Chinese people are being educated. They read everything that we print and they make their own judgement. WANG stated that the masses will see for themselves that Marxism-Leninism is superior to TITO's revisionism.

Conclusion of this Meeting

WANG Chia-hsiang then asked me questions almost similar to those asked by the leading members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. He asked me about the health of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, EUGENE DENNIS, etc. I answered this question and told them about the other members of the Secretariat of the Communist Party - USA. WANG Chia-hsiang asked me about the relationship between FOSTER and DENNIS. He asked if there are really any serious problems in regard to political thinking between them. I replied that as of now, I know of no serious political differences between them which are of a principle nature. I said that they may have some differences of opinion on estimations of some things, but there are no real serious differences. I said that the overwhelming majority of the Communist Party - USA voted to retain the vanguard Party.

There were some other questions about the economy in the United States, about the legality of the Communist Party - USA, about the comrades in prison, and I answered all of these questions.

This meeting lasted a couple of hours. They served us tea every few minutes during the meeting.

COMMENTS

During my discussions with various representatives of the Communist Party of China, I learned that the Chinese are launching attacks on the representatives of the Yugoslav Government in China. They were very critical of the representatives of Yugoslavia. In this regard, they pointed out that the representatives of Yugoslavia are the only members of the diplomatic corps in Peking who use cars manufactured in the United States. In this same vein, they pointed out that the Yugoslav representatives are insensitive to the feelings of the Chinese. For example, at diplomatic receptions, instead of smoking Yugoslav, Chinese or Russian cigarettes, they smoke American cigarettes.

The members of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China told me that they have caught representatives of the Yugoslav Government in meetings with Right-wingers of the Chinese Party. With regard to the official manner in which the Government of China is treating the Yugoslav Government, they stated that in late June, 1958, POPOVICH (ph), the Yugoslav Ambassador to China, left China for Yugoslavia. At the farewell dinner for him, the Chinese were represented merely by a protocol officer. No other Government official or Party official of China went to these farewell ceremonies. 4400

As a result of my conversations with leading members of the Communist Party of China, I am of the belief that there is some truth in the charge made by Yugoslavia that the Chinese are war mongers.

We returned to Moscow from Sochi and were supposed to leave for China on June 25, 1958. I met with NICOLAI DIMITRIVITCH MATKOVSKY (ph) and ALEXAI SERGKOVITCH GRECHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee, Communist Party of the Soviet Union. They told me that too many foreigners were on the plane leaving for Peking, China, on June 25, 1958. They thought that it would be more advisable if we left on June 26, 1958, and transferred at Irkutsk. The understanding was that I should be back in Russia by July 5, 1958. They stated, however, that they doubted that the Chinese comrades would let us leave in a hurry. Since NICOLAI comes from Siberia, he was able to give us some advice in regard to what to expect in China.

ALEXAI made all the arrangements, which included taking me to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow. I reminded him that the Communist Party - USA could pay for this trip to Peking. ALEXAI became very angry at my remark. He said, You remind me of a person in Chicago who asked, "Who among you is the GPU agent?" He said, Now that is a silly question. He stated, You know that we are living in the first stages of Communism and that means that money means nothing to us. Do you think we want you to give a thought to spending one penny here? I told him that we had not had contact with them for some time and did not know how these things worked here (by way of covering up). ALEXAI then apologized and said that we should not worry about a thing. He said that the Chinese would send me back in the same style. He also told us that he had arranged for somebody to meet us in Irkutsk. Irkutsk is a custom point between Russia and China. We were given Soviet money for the first time in order to buy food, etc., at the Irkutsk Airport. He said that we should turn in any Soviet money that we had at Irkutsk, since Russian money could not be taken out of the country. He also said that the baggage would be checked and that we would have to declare everything.

We packed everything which we were not taking to China with us and left these things at the apartment. We had gone through this same procedure when we left Moscow for the tour of Russia. We left for China on June 26, 1958, and arrived there on June 27, 1958.

We turned in our passports to the security police at Irkutsk. As we had been told, we were met by somebody, who took us to a separate portion of the airport. Our passports were returned to us. We could not spend any of the Soviet money, but the person who met us would not take it. We did not fill out any customs or money declarations.

We transferred to a small plane of the Chinese Airline. There were some foreigners on the plane, but they were chiefly Communists from Poland, Czechoslovakia and Rumania, who were on their way to China as parts of trade union delegations. None of these passengers spoke English. This was a Russian-built IL-14. There was a Chinese hostess and I did not know until the flight was almost completed that she spoke English. The Chinese, Russian and English languages are all used on these planes in regard to signs.

We had one other stop-over at Ulan Bator, the capital of Outer Mongolia. This is the place to which MOLOTOV was exiled. We had another passport inspection here. This was something the Russians did not know, primarily because they did not know that we would be on this type of flight. They thought that we would have a non-stop flight from Irkutsk to Peking.

When the plane was ready to take off, someone remembered that none of the passports were returned. Finally, an official came running with the passports. I reported this incident in Peking and in Moscow. I was asked about this incident again just before I left Russia. Both the Russians and the Chinese were very much concerned about it.

The Chinese keep their planes spic-and-span. In fact, the planes are cleaner than those of the Russian Airline. The Chinese serve only sandwiches and hot tea on the planes.

Everyone in the plane became ill while we were flying over the Gobi Desert. The Chinese have a very mechanical method of flying. The altimeter is visible to the passengers. We went through clouds and thunder storms; yet, the altimeter stayed at two and one-half kilometers at all times. We were unable to obtain aspirin, but were given Russian anti-headache pills.

II. RECEPTION IN CHINA

When we arrived in Peking, one-half dozen or more people were lined up right on the airfield in order to greet us. A woman, named YU CHI-YING, walked up to me and said, "Are you Comrade CAMP?" After I acknowledged that I was, the following people walked up to greet me:

WANG Chia-hsiang, Member of the Secretariat and Head of the International Liaison Department of the CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE C. P. - CHINA

Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. WANG was the first Ambassador to Moscow after the Communist Party of China took over the government of China. He was one of the famous generals during the war of "liberation" of China. He was one of the military leaders of the Fifth Division of the Fourth Route Army. He wears a hearing aid as a result of an explosion, in which he also received other injuries. He has shrapnel in his stomach and is on a diet all the time.

* LIU Ning-yi, Member of the Central Committee and one of the heads of the Trade Union Department. He recently attended the Peace Conference at Stockholm, Sweden.

* LI Chu-li, Member of the Central Control Commission of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China.

HSIUNG FU.

* LI Chi-hsin, Secretary of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. He speaks English, and takes notes during meetings.

* TANG Ming-chao (American name CHU TONG), Member of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. He is a translator.

* LIN TANG (American name LEM TONG), Member of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China.

The above are not all members of the Central Committee, but are members of this International Liaison Department, which is headed by WANG Chia-hsiang.

We met them in proper order and greeted them. Waiting for us was the large curtained car. They all welcomed me to China. The greetings were very brief.

After the preliminary ceremonies, they told us that we should rest. We were told that Comrades TANG Ming-chao and LIN TANG would take us to our residence. A security man took our baggage checks and before we knew it, the baggage was loaded into a car and we were on our way. Peking has a new airport and this is where we landed. It is a long drive from the city. The old airport was not too good for jet planes, so they had to build a new one. While they were building the new one, the jets had to land at the military airport, which is not too far away from this new airport. The new airport has modern structures and large runways. It has everything for the landing of jets. It is a nicer looking airport than the Moscow Airport, as far as the terminal is concerned. At this time we did not go into the terminal, but saw it from the outside. This airport is in the Eastern part of Peking. The old airport was in the Western part of Peking.

III. LIVING QUARTERS IN PEKING

From the airport, we drove along a new concrete highway which has newly planted shade trees off the shoulders. I do not know the address of the first place we stayed at for a couple of days. The street was more like an alley than a street. On the corner of this Peking-style street was a building occupied by the Ministry of Communications. We stayed in a house which is surrounded by a cement wall, as were the other houses in this neighborhood. There is barbed wire on the wall and over the roof of the house.

This house formerly belonged to a former war lord. The only distinctive mark about it was that it had Chinese red gates. The car was too wide to go through the gates. The house looks like a ranch-style house on three sides. The servants live on the outside portion of one wall and the gatehouse. You cannot leave or enter without being seen. The house is oblong in shape, with a courtyard in the center.

Each housing compound has its own security officer, who takes care of travel arrangements, passport arrangements, etc. He is also in charge of the cooks, the house boys, the gate keepers, the gardner, and so on. He is in charge of the other employees in the house. He is not a political person and never participates in any discussions with the guests. We only saw him when we went out the gate or when he came to take care of some of our needs. The prime purpose of this individual is to serve and to give protection to the guests.

We occupied only one section of this house and had all the room we needed. We had a library, with all kinds of literature. When members of the International Liaison Department of the Communist Party of China came to visit us and to have informal discussions with us, they used other quarters in the house, except during the actual discussions.

IV. COMPOUND OF THE INTERNATIONAL LIAISON DEPARTMENT OF THE COM- MUNIST PARTY OF CHINA

After a couple of days, they moved our residence because they thought it was too warm where we were living. While we did not want to move, they suggested that perhaps we should move to the country or someplace where it is cooler.

They moved us to the compound of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. The members and staff of this department live here and have their houses here. TANG Ming-chao and YI Chi-ying and others live here.

It is a large new place and is still under construction. It is surrounded by a brick wall, with an electrified fence on the top of the wall. This fence is lighted with green lights at night in order to warn people that it is electrified. There are two entrances, with armed, uniformed sentries at the gates.

In this compound, there are a large number of apartment buildings, four or five stories high. There are also a number of guest houses, which look like two-story ranch-style houses with porches. They moved us into one of these guest houses and turned the entire house over to us. This house had many bedrooms, a study and a library. I never even opened the doors to some of the rooms.

This compound is located at the end of one of the side streets of Peking in a new development. It is located in the Western part of the city. Toward the end of a street, which I believe is called "Perpetual Peace", there is a parkway in the center of the street. Approximately one block or so to the left of this parkway is the location of this compound.

We saw a number of antennas in the compound, and on this same street they are building a new radio city. It is believed that they probably monitor international news at this location. Workers were still engaged in building this compound and live in barracks adjacent to the compound. The construction appeared to be superior to Russian construction. Frequently, radios blasted music and propaganda to the workers.

At this compound, two cooks were assigned to us, and we had our choice of Western-style or Chinese foods. The Chinese produce a very good tea and a thermos bottle filled with tea was at our disposal at all times. Despite the fact that the windows were screened, the mosquitoes at this location were very bad. On the other hand, we never saw a fly all the time we were in China. We were told that the people had been organized in order to eliminate all flies. Persons were given quotas of flies each day to kill.

V. INFORMAL DISCUSSIONS WITH MEMBERS OF THE INTERNATIONAL LIAISON DEPARTMENT OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CHINA

Both TANG Ming-chao and LIN TANG stayed with us the first evening, and were frequent visitors thereafter. They asked what kind of food we preferred -- Western or Chinese. Of course, I had to tell them that I preferred Chinese food.

These people spent hours with us, telling us about China and asking questions about the United States, and so on. I learned that TANG Ming-chao left the United States in 1951, and that LIN TANG left the United States in 1949. The wife of TANG Ming-chao left the United States even later than 1951, and came to China by way of Europe. TANG Ming-chao at one time worked in California. He knows a number of persons in the Communist Party - USA, including Party members in New York, in addition to California. He asked me about DICK CRILEY, of Chicago, and told me that he met CRILEY at a youth conference at about the time CRILEY joined the Communist Party in the 1930's. TANG Ming-chao is a very educated person. He has many college degrees. He graduated from a university in the United States and was a teacher in China. He was scheduled to go to the Peace Conference in Stockholm, Sweden.

LIN TANG worked in New York chiefly, and at one time ran a restaurant with other Chinese on 10th Street, near the headquarters of the Communist Party - USA in New York City. He said that they tried to make money for a Chinese newspaper they were publishing; however, they went broke. He has been assigned to go to a Party school for one year. He was one of those selected from the International Liaison Department to go to this school. This will be the first time that he will be in attendance at a school where he will obtain a higher Party education. He told me that YI Chi-ying went to a Party school for two years.

They immediately decided that we were dressed too warmly. Under some pretext, they called in a tailor and told him to measure us for new clothing. A tailor came the next evening. He had worked in Shanghai making clothes for the British. Within forty-eight hours, they brought the new clothing to us. While my suit was made of the best cloth, the style was not too good. I wore this suit at very important functions while I was in China.

They took security precautions similar to those taken by the Russians. We went out shopping only once or twice. They bought sport shirts for me and selected the kind that the Russians would buy. They also bought us coolie hats and sun glasses. They did not take us to any stores where we might run into any foreigners. We did not visit any department stores. In return for their gifts, I gave TANG Ming-chao's little girl a ball point pen, and my wife gave her raincoat to YI Chi-ying. When I returned to Moscow, I gave these articles of clothing to YURI IVANOV, ALEXAI GRECHENCO, and NICOLAI MATKOVSKY. U.S.S.R.

There were a lot of things to talk about. They wanted to know about the Communist Party situation in the United States. They could tell us in very fluent English about the situation in China as a preliminary to the formal discussions with the other Party leaders.

TANG Ming-chao and LIN TANG were wonderful sources of information. Incidentally, the Chinese are much freer in conversations than the Russians. I attribute this to the fact that they are still new at the game. They have been in power only nine years. Since TANG Ming-chao and LIN TANG had spent a lot of time in the United States and had worked in the Communist Party - USA, they jokingly said that they have dual membership in the Communist Party of China and the Communist Party - USA. They are not as clannish as are the Russians. Particularly in regard to Communists from other countries, they are profiting from the mistakes which STALIN committed in relation to foreigners. So, by the time we got through with the informal discussions, I had a pretty good idea of what is happening in China. They supplied me with all kinds of literature. Through them, I was able to keep in constant contact with the Liaison Department, and my schedule was worked out very efficiently.

VI. LETTER TO MAO TSE-TUNG AND THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CHINA FROM THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE COM-MUNIST PARTY - USA

I wrote a letter to the Communist Party of China not long after my arrival in Peking. I addressed the letter to MAO Tse-tung and signed it as a representative of the Communist Party - USA. I selected June 30, 1958, to present the letter, because July 1, 1958, was the 37th Anniversary of the Communist Party of China. In the letter, I stated how happy I was to be in this liberated People's Republic of China. I said that we, the victims and sufferers of American imperialism, have been unable to keep in touch with brother Parties up until now. I repeated what I had said in the letter to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, that the Communist Party - USA has laid the basis for this contact by dealing some blows against the revisionists.

In this letter, I also said that imperialism is going through a terrible crisis. I said that I had watched the enthusiasm of the masses and had seen how they are building Socialism in China. I said that I had been to their factories and had been out on their farms and had visited various institutions and watched how the people follow the leadership of the Party. I congratulated them on the defeat of the Rightists. I told them how the American Communists are fighting for peace -- for the common objective. I said that we march under the same banner -- the universal principles of Marxism-Leninism. I said that we raise the banner of proletarian internationalism high.

Also in the letter, I said that we can learn many things from the Chinese Party during its period of oppression. Also, we can learn many things from the Chinese Party in regard to the achieving of the dictatorship of the proletariat, even though it is necessary to keep in mind the concrete, material conditions in each country, including class relationships, etc.

In this letter, I also told them that I was sent on a mission to talk to two Parties, the great Party of the Soviet Union and the great Party of China. I said that we could learn a lot from the Communist Party of China, just as we had learned from the experiences of the leading Party -- the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. I ended the letter with a number of slogans, such as: "Long Live the Communist Party of China on its 37th Anniversary", "Hail the Leadership of the Communist Party of China", and "Long Life to its Leader -- MAO".

It should be noted that MAO does recognize that the Communist Party of the Soviet Union is the leading Party of Communism. The Chinese take it for granted that you must pay your respects to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union as the most experienced and leading Communist Party up to now. I believe that this is the price MAO had to pay to get support from the Soviet Union. Also, I figured that they probably felt that my sympathies are with the Russians. Further, they refer to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union as the leading Party of Communism in their public documents. Therefore, it was necessary for me to do likewise.

One prepares a letter of arrival and a letter of departure, both in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of China. The Communist Party of China did not ask for any biographies. They probably figured that we had prepared biographies for the Soviet Party. I am sure that they wanted biographies, but I went under the assumption that these were not necessary, since they knew I had come to China from the Soviet Union, that I was a representative of the Communist Party - USA, and that I had talked with the leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, which would not have been possible unless the Russians knew who I was.

MEETING WITH TENG HSIAO-PING, GENERAL SECRETARY OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CHINA

B. APPROX. 1962

On July 2, 1958, I met with TENG Hsiao-ping, General Secretary of the Communist Party of China. This was not just a meeting with him as an individual. I was driven to the Party headquarters, which is a former Ming palace and is known as Chung Nan Hai. There are guards at the gates. These may be security police. This is really a compound consisting of several buildings.

There was a group waiting for us at the door. They came out to greet me in a very formal fashion. The group included TENG Hsiao-ping, WANG Chia-hsiang, and the members of the International Liaison Department, previously mentioned. There were also other persons who I did not know. I could not remember the names of the others to whom I was introduced. Some are members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China.

We went into a large room. It was like a hall. We sat at both sides of a large table. Part of the hall was screened off because they were preparing a luncheon to be served after the conclusion of the meeting. My wife attended the luncheon, but was not in attendance at the meeting. A more or less unofficial discussion continued at the luncheon.

TENG Hsiao-ping was seated opposite me. He is about 5'1" tall, is about 55 years of age, and has a rosy complexion. He was dressed rather formally, by Chinese standards. The only time the Chinese ever dress up is for a formal occasion or for a meeting with leaders of the Communist Party. LI Chi-hsin took notes and wrote down every word. TANG Ming-chao and YU Chi-ying did the translating. Except for an occasional question addressed to me by WANG Chia-hsiang, such as "Do you agree?", everyone else remained quiet as TENG Hsiao-ping spoke.

China

Remarks of the Representative of the Communist Party - USA

TENG Hsiao-ping welcomed me to China. He said he was glad to meet with a leader of the American Communist Party. He then asked if I would mind introducing the discussion by giving them some idea about what is happening in the Communist Party - USA and in the United States in general.

I gave them a section of the report which I had prepared for the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. By that time I had learned that the Russians do not, as a matter of routine or even as a matter of procedure, give anything to other Parties which they have received from another Communist Party. From the members of the International Liaison Department, I learned that the Russians had not furnished the Communist Party of China any of the information which I had given to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union concerning the Communist Party - USA. Otherwise, I would have hesitated to repeat what I had said to the Russians. I changed it a little, but not too much.

Remarks of TENG Hsiao-ping

TENG stated that there is such a thing as United States imperialism and that the fight against United States imperialism is the main struggle on the international field. He stated, When we can defeat United States imperialism, this will be the proof -- the test -- that Socialism is superior to Capitalism. He said that United States imperialism is the sharpest opponent in the Nationalist and Socialist struggle. He also stated that the Communist Party of China has the same aim as the Communist Party - USA.

TENG said that the Chinese comrades feel that the American Communists face many difficulties. He said, We also believe that you are working all right and that numbers are not important. The first International founded by KARL MARX and FREDERICH ENGELS had only four hundred people. There were only several thousand Bolsheviks at the time of the October Revolution. He stated that the Chinese Party started with only a handful. In fact, there were twenty-eight people present when the Chinese Communist Party was founded. Then he reminded me that TUNG Pi-wu, who I had known in Moscow in 1931, was one of the twenty-eight founders of the Chinese Communist Party. He said that not only was the Chinese Communist Party small in the beginning, but it made mistakes and became smaller. After that, there was growth. U.S.S.R.

Then TENG said that the important thing is to hold high the banner of Marxism-Leninism. We believe that the Communist Party - USA held up this banner bravely. We knew that you faced a difficult situation during your 16th Congress. We did not know the details, but we knew that GATES was spreading revisionism. However, we had confidence in the American Communist Party. We felt that DENNIS and FOSTER would solve these difficulties. He said that if there is a Communist Party in the United States, it is not influenced by the revisionist ideas of JOHN GATES. There is no need for a Communist Party if revisionism prevails. He said, however, that the "Daily Worker" was useful no matter how much GATES tried to distort the policies of the paper and of the Party. He said that Gatesism and all revisionism is anti-Communist and anti-Soviet. U.S.

Next, TENG said that it has been proven that once there is a clear banner of Marxism-Leninism, then revisionism can be eliminated and the Party can move forward when revisionism is cleared up. He said that the situation in the United States proves that what the masses wanted was Marxism-Leninism, and not revisionism, which is the voice of the bourgeoisie. He said that he is happy with the results of the February plenum of the Communist Party - USA. These results were achieved because of the struggle against revisionism. He stated that it is true that a few members of the Communist Party - USA have dropped away, but the Party will become stronger. Perhaps you saved some of the membership, but who knows, maybe the results will be better if some more drop out.

Continuing, TENG stated, Your last meeting of the National Executive Committee showed that the revisionists were an obstacle when they participated in the leadership of the Communist Party - USA. It is better to have a smaller Party, but a fighting one. The Party is not a debating society. After the February sessions of your plenum and your endorsement of the Declaration of the twelve Communist Parties, your decisions brought joy to the comrades here. We never had any doubt but that the United States Communist Party would achieve this result. We realize that you face many difficulties. We know that the enemy is powerful. We also know that some of the ideas in the Communist Party - USA reflect the social foundations of imperialism.

TENG Hsiao-ping said, Comrade MAO raised a question with us. Who is stronger in the United States? The Communist Party or DULLES? MAO said, DULLES and the United States monopoly capital will be done away with. They have no future. Even if the membership of the Communist Party - USA continues to decrease, the future belongs to the Communist Party in the United States. In the end, the people will realize that the Communist Party represents their interests. Of course, the United States is the strongest imperialist State. However, Comrade MAO thinks that United States imperialism is a paper tiger and the most nervous man in the world is JOHN FOSTER DULLES. DULLES is confronted with trouble which develops here, there, and everywhere.

Expanding this thought, TENG stated that a proletarian Party may be small, but the future belongs to it. More people in a Party may not necessarily always mean more strength. Take Yugoslavia, for example. The population of Yugoslavia is seventeen million. The Party membership in Yugoslavia is seven hundred thousand. This means that there are two and one-half Communists for every one hundred persons. To be a big Party does not necessarily mean to be a good Party. The Yugoslav Communists have State power, but there is no future for such a Party because it has discarded Marxism-Leninism. It cannot claim to be a Marxist-Leninist Party. It is a revisionist Party. A Party such as this cannot help but to degenerate. The ideological banner is wrong. The United States Communist Party may be small, but it raises high the banner of Marxism-Leninism. It is ideologically correct and it is moving in a correct direction.

Then TENG said to me, We like you. You are full of confidence, as the American Party should be. He went on to say that the Chinese are happy over the general situation in the Communist Party - USA. He said we firmly believe that work will develop the Communist Party - USA.

Another most important thing that we would like the Communist Party - USA to keep in mind is something that Comrade MAO said, and that is that the golden period or the golden age of United States imperialism is over. The East wind prevails over the West wind. 21.01

TENG stated that the economic conditions in the United States make it difficult for the workers to accept revolutionary ideas. However, there is an economic crisis developing now. Yet, even after a certain period of recovery, the general direction will be downward and the markets for United States imperialism will narrow. A revolutionary situation will eventually develop.

Then TENG said, We are doing one thing that is proof to the whole world that the Socialist countries are better off than the Capitalist countries. The slogan in the Soviet Union today is to surpass the United States in every field. In some aspects, the United States has already been surpassed, but has not been bettered in every field as yet. We want to surpass England. We said we would do it in fifteen years or less. We said fifteen years. Now we say seven and one-half years or less. For instance, in steel production we have them beaten now. To say that we can surpass England in three or four years may be a conservative estimate. It may be that we will do it in one and one-half years. Last year, we announced as a base for 1959-1960 a little over five and one-half million tons of steel. Yet, by 1959-1960, we will surpass Britain and will be producing more than twenty-two million tons. The rate of speed of Capitalism differs from ours. This is what guarantees our victory. Next year, we will surpass England in coal. We will surpass England in other fields in two or three years. Of course, these figures do not take into consideration the difference in the total population of the two countries. These figures are not per capita production.

TENG stated that this is not the result of fifteen years of propaganda. There must be accomplishment before we talk. Some things we do publicize. Next year, we will publicize the slogan of "22 million tons of steel -- catch up with England". But we will have no difficulties in doing this. We have prepared the ground for it. We are even thinking that it is possible to catch up with the United States. Exactly how long it will take is hard to say now. We do not think that it will take long. Our aim is to catch up with England and the United States.

Continuing, TENG stated that all of this has a great deal to do with the strengthening of the Socialist camp. It is also related to the improvement of the material and cultural life of our people. This will also be proof to the world as to who is on the right side of history. TITO said it is Capitalism. We say something different. All the Communist Parties in the Capitalist countries are carrying on propaganda showing the superiority of the Socialist system over the Capitalist system. We will prove this with concrete facts and production. We owe you a debt. What we are doing is using our action to prove what you are saying as propaganda. The United States worker will learn that you are correct. Then the United States worker will be able to tell whether the words of EISENHOWER or STEVENSON are better than the words of FOSTER or DENNIS. We believe that they will say the words of FOSTER and DENNIS are better.

With the strength and effort of the Socialist camp, with the unanimity that prevails in the Socialist camp, we think we will succeed. The United States looks down upon us now, but we dealt with them in Korea. We also dealt with them at Geneva. Of course, there were no results at Geneva. But this indicates one thing. The United States did not want to break the truce. Why does the United States want to negotiate in Geneva? They are shaky. United States imperialism pretends and bluffs. But, as MAO said, it is a paper tiger. This was correct before. This is correct now. We have no fear of United States imperialism and neither should you.

Then TENG said that there were no talks at Geneva for three months at an Ambassadorial level. We gave notice. Continue talks in fifteen days at an Ambassadorial level or discontinue them. The United States State Department was in difficulty. TENG stated that LINCOLN WHITE said, Of course, we will send an Ambassador, but we will not be limited by the fifteen days. However, we insist that we will not be worried whether or not the talks continue.

TENG stated, the United States thinks that we want to go into the United Nations and thinks that we are anxious for acclaim.

or are worried about the embargo. All these measures will not hurt us. We think that going into the United Nations is all right; but if we are not allowed in the United Nations with our six hundred million people, this is no credit to the United Nations. But it is no harm to us. They figure we are anxious to go into the United Nations and they are wrong. In fact, we think it is better to be without recognition. England recognized us, but we are not satisfied. At the beginning, they only had a negotiator. After Geneva, they appointed a Charge d' Affairs. But we are not bothered at all by this lack of recognition. When we produce 120 million tons of steel, let them worry. There will be a day when they will have to recognize us. There will also be a day when the United States worker will recognize us. We will wait until the day the Communist Party - USA wins.

We might even say that we are grateful to the United States for the embargo. In fact, the imperialist embargo was a factor which helped us and the other Socialist States to develop our economies. We are now more dependent upon ourselves. When we are forced to think things out and to solve our own problems, things develop rapidly.

Turning his attention to Japan, TENG stated that Japan is acting kind of tricky and naughty in Taiwan and is trying to pursue a two-faced or a double policy. Japan is pretending that they are going to deal with us, but actually they are pawns of United States imperialism. We are going to slap Japan down. Japan is caught in a vice. Either Japan will pursue a friendly policy or we will not deal with the Japanese. Japan thinks that we have to depend on her and that we have to buy from her for the leap forward. Japan insulted our flag recently. Now there will be no buying and no selling. This policy will help us, for now we will produce our own things and solve our own problems. Whether it is the United States or Japan, and whatever they do -- whatever course they follow -- really helps us. Except for the armed forces, we have no policy for giving medals. But if we are to pass out medals, we will give the first one to DULLES and the second one to the Premier of Japan.

Yugoslavia has charged that we are against revisionism because of internal difficulties. We printed the text of TITO's program and we let the Chinese people read it and judge for themselves. In general, what the imperialists are doing is helping us. The United States imperialist support of CHIANG Kai-shek helped us. United States support of is of help to us. Help to Taiwan is help to us. CHINA

Next, TENG said, What we are doing supplements the work of the Communist Party - USA. Things are developing well in the USSR and things are good in the other Socialist countries, too. Especially if we keep in mind the events of the previous October, things are much better in Hungary now. The imperialists have been saying things about Poland, but GOMULKA cleared this up recently in a speech.

The Communist movement, after the Moscow Conference, is in good shape. We are all united now for the same purpose. We are very hopeful about the entire situation. Perhaps DE GAULLE's coming to power in France is a good thing. The French Communist Party is confident, too. We conclude that the world belongs to the Socialist countries -- to the Communist Parties.

TENG said, It seems to us that the downward trend in the economy is creating more and more difficulties for the United States. Previously, the United States publicized its superiority in technology. But the first Sputnik destroyed that. Even we have surpassed the United States in wheat production. In the past, we used to get small crops. Now things are changed. This year, wheat production in China is second only to that of the USSR. The United States is third. We have the highest record for wheat production, forty-two tons per hectare. We want to compete with the United States and the other Capitalist countries.

Next, TENG Hsiao-ping said that in world relations, there is either peace or war. The Moscow Declaration stated that all Communist Parties want peace. We want peace because this will give us an opportunity to finish Capitalism off peacefully. We can surpass the Capitalists in every line. Then the people will decide who to go with. But if the Capitalists want war, we have no control over them. As MAO said, We are not the Chief of Staff of EISENHOWER, but we are not afraid if they want war. The Declaration of the twelve Communist Parties clarified this. If the war mongers will start a war, they will be burned. There will be loss of life. There will be destruction, but many countries will have their revolution faster. If they want war, we are not afraid. To want peace does not mean that one is afraid of war. We do not want war because we can build more rapidly under peace. But IKE and DULLES will have to decide whether or not they want war. If they decide on war, let's have it. One thing is certain, and that is that in war they will be the losers. They will be the losers in peace or war, but they will be bigger losers in war.

Continuing, TENG said that MARX stated a long time ago that the time for Capitalism to lose itself in the stage of history has come. We should fight for peace and not be afraid of war. We fight for peace because this is the aspiration of all peoples. The more we are afraid of war, the greater the chances for war. The Capitalist world will have to be careful. The USSR is not afraid of war. They have missiles and Sputniks; so, for this reason, TITO accused us, particularly China, of being war mongers.

The United States Government knows we are not afraid. You, in the Communist Party - USA, should educate your people to the fact that we are fighting for peace but that we are not afraid of war. We educate our people and then we can take care of any situation. This principle is also true for the Parties in the Capitalist countries in any situation. We work under one principle.

TENG Hsiao-ping concluded by saying that we are happy about the situation in the Communist Party - USA. We think you are doing good work. Clouds cannot cover the sun. Sometimes we may have clouds, but they cannot cover the sun. Hungary, Yugoslavia and JOHN GATES cannot cover the sun. NAGY cannot cover the sun. With regard to experience on tactical problems, you learn mainly from failures. Of course, you also learn from successes. How to work in the underground is a big problem. Sometimes the Communist method is not used in this work. It is necessary to have legal and illegal methods. Two sets of leadership may be necessary sometimes so that the enemy does not catch you by surprise. In conclusion, he told me that I should study the legal and illegal methods used by the Communist Party of China.

Conclusion of this Meeting

When TENG Hsiao-ping finished speaking, my wife was brought into the hall. We adjourned to the luncheon table. On this table, there was all kinds of food, including two dozen main dishes and a variety of desserts. There was also Chinese vodka, wines and other liquors. TENG is a heavy drinker. We made all kinds of toasts to the health of the leadership of both the Communist Party - USA and the Communist Party of China. Everyone joined in the informal discussion which took place around the luncheon table.

I. POSSIBILITY THAT MAO TSE-TUNG MAY RELINQUISH HIS POSITION AS CHAIRMAN OF THE GOVERNMENT OF CHINA

Prior to the time I left Russia for China, both ALEXAI ANDREOVITCH GRECHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, as well as [redacted] who was known as [redacted] in school in Russia, had discussed MAO Tse-tung with me. ALEXAI said that MAO has been placing a lot of emphasis on theory and has said that every Communist Party leader should be allowed time to think and to write. [redacted] who said that he has been working out of a department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, said that he had heard that about one year ago, MAO asked for his release and that at that time, too, MAO said that Communist leaders at one time or another need to revert back to the stage of philosophers so they can study the world and interpret it. Since life is short, some of the Communist leaders ought to leave their imprint by writing about theoretical problems of Communism. So, MAO asked for a leave of absence to be able to engage in such study, philosophical contemplation, and writing for at least a few years. This was the Soviet version.

I learned from WANG Chia-hsiang, member of the Secretariat, Central Committee, and Head of the International Liaison Department of the Communist Party of China, that he has already raised with the leadership of the Communist Party of China and some other Communist governments, the possibility of MAO Tse-tung relinquishing his position as Chairman of the Government of China. MAO, in addition to being Chairman of the Government of China, is also Chairman of the Communist Party of China. He is 65 years of age. He believes that any years beyond 65 are surplus for a revolutionary.

I was told by both WANG Chia-hsiang and TANG Ming-chao that MAO wants to do some writing and philosophical thinking. Therefore, he wants to be relieved of his Government position. He will agree to remain Chairman of the Communist Party for a few years after he has been relieved of his post in the Government. The Party tried to talk him out of this. Influential non-Party people also tried to talk him out of this, but he is adamant. He said that unless there is some kind of a national emergency within the next year or two and in any case not later than 1960, he will insist upon being relieved as the head of the Government. I was told that this information should be limited to only one or two leaders in the Communist Party - USA so that when it happens, if the bourgeoisie press wants to distort the facts, the Communist Party - USA will be aware of the situation.

It was emphasized that this is entirely a voluntary decision on the part of MAO. It was also pointed out that this decision has nothing to do with the health of MAO or with politics. It was said that he is the most popular figure and that he could at any time he desires demote every other leader in the Communist Party of China.

I observed that wherever you go in China, you see emphasis on MAO in the form of photographs, statues, etc. It is almost like a cult of the individual. His policies are the policies which prevail. He is the most popular international leader of Communism at the present time.

It was also emphasized that MAO has no health problem. He takes physical exercises whenever he has an opportunity. He swims for a couple of hours a day. His retirement would not be due to poor health.

In my opinion, the possible successors to MAO are CHOU En-lai, CHU Teh, and LIU Shao-chi.

II. MEETING WITH MAO TSE-TUNG

I did not know until a few hours beforehand that I was going to meet with MAO. On Sunday evening, July 8, 1958, TANG Ming-chao and YU Chi-ying told me that they had just talked to Comrade WANG Chia-hsiang, Head of the International Liaison Department of the Communist Party of China, and WANG said that MAO was going to meet with me on that date. They said that the time has not yet been set, but it will be sometime this evening. Perhaps we should have an early dinner, so that you will be free to go whenever the telephone call comes through setting the time. Then they said that Comrade WANG will come to pick you up and take you to Comrade MAO. They were all excited because they did not know until the last minute either.

So I started to get ready. I was very worried. I did not know what MAO would ask or demand from me or what he would say. I did not know if I could answer his questions. At about 7:00 P.M., WANG called and said that we should be ready. He said that he would probably pick me up within an hour.

I put on the suit that the Chinese had made for me. YU Chi-ying came dressed in complete Chinese dress. TANG, who usually wears shorts, was dressed in a MAO-like jacket.

It was about 8:30 or 8:45 P.M. when WANG arrived for me in a special car. It had been raining hard for hours and it was still raining hard. WANG suggested that we should follow his car and TANG and YU Chi-ying would ride with me.

We followed WANG's car and on the way a building was pointed out to me. It had a reddish fence around it. It was the same building where I had met with KANG SHENG, LI Hsien-nin, and others. This is in the center of the city and is in a compound containing the offices of the Government. We entered this Government compound, but through another gate than the gates I had gone through before. There were at least a half dozen or more armed sentries at the gate. We drove along a lake for about five or seven minutes. We came to some kind of a Ming-like palace. There were a few guards there, and they stepped aside. Then, some houseboys came out of the palace with big umbrellas to open the car doors.

This palace, like other palaces in China, was surrounded by verandas. MAO and one or two people in civilian dress were on one of these verandas. The young persons who were with MAO were probably security people, who act as houseboys also. (U) S

WANG introduced me to MAO Tse-tung. MAO greeted me. We retired to a large room, which had Chinese rugs, elaborate draperies, soft chairs, tea tables, etc. We sat down, and MAO and I were facing each other. We were about six or seven feet apart. WANG sat a few feet away to MAO's left. I was seated between YU Chi-ying and TANG Ming-chao. YU Chi-ying did most of the translating. MAO speaks a particular dialect, but TANG helped in the translating. TANG also took notes during the meeting. I did not take any notes because this was not a very formal meeting. The next day, I asked TANG if I could see the notes he had taken. These notes were in Chinese. He translated them for me. I made some very brief notes from his translation.

MAO has a rosy complexion and is well groomed. He always wears a grayish blue jacket, buttoned at the collar. It is very military-like. He is a chain smoker and is very soft-spoken.

MAO started the discussion in a very casual manner. He asked about my trip and we exchanged some pleasantries. He did not rush me. He asked about the health of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and EUGENE DENNIS. I told him that DENNIS is all right. Then he made the remark that FOSTER is getting rather old. He asked me FOSTER's age. I replied that FOSTER was 77 years old last February. MAO asked me whether FOSTER is able to walk around. In answer to his question, I said that FOSTER is not able to walk around. Then MAO concluded that the actual leadership of the Communist Party - USA, from day to day, is in the hands of DENNIS. So I said this may be a fact, although FOSTER's brain is still clear.

(My reason for saying this was that they have a lot of respect for FOSTER. He is always being praised to the sky. So, it certainly would have been improper to say that FOSTER is now senile and his brain is not working properly.)

MAO made some philosophical remarks about people getting old. He said that even though he is 65 years old, he feels that the daily tasks are too much for anyone over this age.

(Thus, MAO laid the basis for his theory that any years above 65 are surplus years and that these surplus years of a leader should be utilized in making theoretical contributions, engaging in philosophical thinking, and to hand down experiences, because there is no telling what may happen after that age. He has a desire to study more philosophy, to do philosophic contemplation, and he wishes the Party would release him of some of his daily chores.)

MAO then asked me how long I was going to stay in China and when I intended to leave. He thanked me for the letter he had received on the anniversary of the Communist Party of China. He said that perhaps I could come back in October, 1959, when they celebrate their 10th Anniversary of liberation, and that maybe I could bring others with me. He also made the remark that he had read the documents that I had prepared and some of the minutes of the remarks I had made at various meetings.

MAO then said that there is more freedom for the Communist Party in Great Britain than there is for the Communist Party - USA. He said that this is a sign that the United States Government is afraid of you. He asked whether the British Communist Party was ever illegal. I said that as far as I know, it had never been illegal, and WANG agreed with me. MAO said, Your Party was born illegally. I agreed and said we were born in an illegal period. He asked me about the present legal status of the Communist Party - USA. I told him that according to the law, we are not supposed to be illegal, but de facto we are illegal because the State laws vary. Also, some of the trade unions exclude Communists from certain jobs. This makes de facto illegality more emphatic, particularly in industry.

MAO asked whether the class struggle in the United States is sharpening. Are there many strikes? I said that there are not many strikes and that the automobile union has postponed its strike.

Then MAO asked if the Communist Party - USA and the working class have fighting spirit. I replied in the affirmative. I said that in 1929, there was less organization in the trade unions than we have today. Sometimes this organization develops by leaps and bounds. MAO said, Yes, that is true.

MAO said that he has read about violent strikes in the United States. He said that he knows that the American working class has gained more reforms since 1930 than some of the Social Democratic Parties in Europe have in a generation.

MAO said there is a future for the American Party. He said that the economy in the United States is in bad shape. Some of the key industries are working only at a low level of production. He said there is obvious discontent with the unemployment situation in the United States. He said this proves that the workers have a need for a strong Communist Party in the United States.

MAO said that the Czars used to oppress the Russian workers and the Communists. In fact, they were cruel to the Bolsheviks. The Chinese Communist Party was oppressed and the feudal lords and the Kuomintang were cruel to the Communists. But we grew. The Russian Party, as you know, not only grew, but took power, and we did too. We grew and we took power despite the oppression. There will be a strong Communist Party in the United States. (U) (S)

MAO asked whether the United States has some weaknesses or if I believe that seventeen million oppressed Negroes, particularly those living in the South, is not a sign of one of the weaknesses of United States imperialism. Then MAO asked me about PAUL ROBESON. He said, ROBESON is a good comrade and we would welcome him. I told MAO that ROBESON had won his fight for a passport. MAO asked me to give his regards to ROBESON. He asked whether it is true that ROBESON sings Chinese songs in his concerts. I told MAO that he did.

Then MAO went into some broader problems. He asked, Do you think DULLES wants to start a war soon? What about the differences among the bourgeoisie in the United States in regard to keeping up the international tensions? I told him there may be differences on keeping the tensions going. I said that there may be some differences in the bourgeoisie, but not in regard to foreign policy. I said that ACHESON, DULLES and TRUMAN all have one opinion, because they represent the interests of big business. MAO agreed. He said, Of course, there may be agreement among them, but there are some sections of the Capitalist countries which do not agree with the policies of DULLES which would lead to war. He asked, Would you say it is true that the United States would fight a big war? I said that I did not know. He said, Well, some say the United States would fight a big war, but would they even fight a little war? Why didn't the United States continue the war in Korea? MAO said, Isn't it a fact that there was a lot of sentiment that the war in Korea should be called off, and wasn't EISENHOWER elected on the basis of ending the war in Korea? MAO continued, Didn't the Korean War teach American imperialism that military victories are not so easily achieved nowadays? MAO made a few remarks that the Chinese fought pretty well in Korea and they are not afraid of the best that American imperialism can throw at them.

MAO talked about the excuses of MAC ARTHUR, who had stated that if he was permitted to invade the so-called sanctuary, he would have won a victory in Korea. Then MAO said, This is just so much talk. MAO said that the battles which were fought in Korea were the kind of battles we wanted to fight. We led the Americans on.

At this point, WANG commented that the United States did not know that the Soviet Air Force and many Soviet divisions would have backed them up if MAC ARTHUR would have taken another step. The United States military power might have been wiped out if MAC ARTHUR took this action. (u) (S)

MAO then asked, Why didn't the United States go into Viet Nam during the battle of Dien Bien Phu? MAO said that they had heard that NIXON had even announced plans to defend Dien Bien Phu, which were later denied. Actually, the United States wanted to defend Dien Bien Phu, but there was violent opposition to this.

Then MAO asked, Why didn't the United States attack Syria? What did United States imperialism discover during the Suez invasion by the British and the French? Then MAO said that after two Sputniks, United States imperialism seems to be lagging behind the Soviet Union and is not so sure that it can fight a big war. On the other hand, imperialism had chances to fight small wars, but lost these opportunities also. MAO said the United States was mobilized and threatened to invade Lebanon, but changed their minds. (That was the period when the United States turned the case over to the United Nations). Obviously, the United States was not sure of what it could accomplish by such an invasion, if it should lead to war. MAO then talked about the small wars again and mentioned Korea, Indochina, Indonesia, and so on. He repeated that the United States had lost its opportunities. MAO again mentioned the war in Korea and said that the United States was stopped there.

MAO said that United States imperialism saw French imperialism losing, but gave it no real aid. The United States made lots of noise in regard to Syria, but the Soviet Union and China said something and the saber rattling of the United States imperialists stopped. United States imperialism made lots of noise in Lebanon, but was stopped there, too. MAO said that the imperialist countries are not sure of themselves. Maybe the Socialist countries are stronger. Imperialism no longer has the support of the people in the Latin American countries, where its puppet leaders were defeated.

At this point, I talked about the peace movement in the United States. I said that the trade union movement is not involved in this. I said that the imperialists face many difficulties. I also stated that even though we are a small Party, the imperialists are probably worried about us. I mentioned the DENNIS letter concerning the program of TITO.

MAO asked me about the current membership in the Communist Party - USA. I said that it is very small and that we might register nine thousand. He replied that maybe a small Party is a good thing. Your development is in the future. The future will be very good for you, if you stand firm and raise high the banner of Marxism-Leninism. He said that revisionism must be fought to the bitter end. The revisionists want to harm and destroy the Communist Party - USA. They raise the white flag. MAO said that the Communist Party - USA should take down the white flag and put on the red. (u) (S)

Then MAO asked me how many members the Communist Party - USA had during its best years. I took a guess and said that it was approximately sixty thousand. I said that during that time, the Party developed rapidly. He replied that during this time of expansion, perhaps unreliable elements got into the Party. He said, Maybe GATES was one of them and also other intellectual unreliable elements got in at that time. He said that those who come into a Communist Party during an upswing are not reliable.

Next, MAO stated that a Communist Party which does not undergo storm and stress does not have much fighting strength. It is like flowers that grow in a hothouse. They cannot face stormy weather. I told him that our Party has gone through stormy weather. He replied, Yes, and therefore we have great hopes for the Communist Party - USA. We have great confidence in your Party and take your Party seriously. You had a good National Committee meeting in February and you elected a good National Executive Committee. You got rid of the revisionists. Then MAO asked me if the revisionists had a majority at one time. I replied that they did; however, I said that we have gotten rid of the revisionists and at the February National Committee meeting we elected a new National Executive Committee. While only nine National Executive Committee members were selected at that time, more will be elected. This new leadership will follow our February resolutions.

MAO then commented that the revisionists once made a lot of noise in New York. He asked if they still have New York under their control. I replied that up until the 16th National Convention of the Communist Party - USA, the Right was in control of the New York District. Subsequently, it was defeated and BEN DAVIS is currently the Chairman of the New York District. Then MAO asked me, "Is it all right to have a Negro as head of the Communist Party in New York?" I replied that I thought it was all right, considering the make-up of the population in New York; yet, MAO still thought that it was not correct for a Negro to head such a large section of the Communist Party - USA, because it might keep the masses away from the Communist Party - USA.

Parenthetically speaking, it should be noted that a leader such as MAO would be only interested in strengthening the Communist Party and that any question of race or national minorities would be placed in the background. (w) (5)

Next, MAO stated that he understands that the farm population in the United States is small. He asked, Is it true that it is getting smaller? I replied that this is true. It is getting smaller. He said that this was a big problem and will be a bigger problem when the Communist Party - USA takes over, because you will have to send representatives into the farm areas. He then asked me if the Communist Party - USA has any organization among the farmers. I indicated that we had very little membership among the farmers, but in the 1930's there were big farm strikes against the trusts. I said that the farmers were discontented at that time. MAO said, When you take power, you cannot ignore the farmers, even though they may be small in numbers.

It is to be noted that the Communist Party of China recently sent in tens of thousands of cadre to live among the farmers.

MAO said that if you are going to develop an anti-monopoly coalition, you will need the farmers as allies. He also stated that even after the revolution, you will need the farmers as allies.

Then MAO asked me if the Communist Party - USA is discouraged. I said, We have difficulties, but we are not discouraged. He said he was glad to hear that the Communist Party - USA is not discouraged, despite the constant enemy attacks and the terror which exists. He said that he knows that the Communist Party membership is being persecuted in the United States and that it is not easy to be a Communist Party member in the United States. But it is good to know that they did not beat you down and that you are fighting, and also that there were very few open betrayals during the trials -- that is good.

MAO then asked me how long I had been a member of the Communist Party. I said that I had been a member of the Communist Party since 1920. He replied, You are more of a veteran than I am by one year. Then he said, "Old timers are good." He also asked me if I would go to the other Socialist countries. I replied that I would not and that my task was to simply go to the Soviet Union and to China. He said that he thought that it was just as well that I only came to these two countries, considering the circumstances under which I was making this trip.

Parenthetically speaking, I believe that MAO also meant that he felt that I would not learn anything in the other Socialist countries which I had not already learned in either Russia or China.

MAO said that the conversations I had with the other comrades are very encouraging about the survival of the Communist Party - USA, and its rebuilding. He said that the Communist Party of China is willing to help the Communist Party - USA raise the banner of Marxism-Leninism. I told MAO that originally the revisionists rejected the Statement of the twelve Communist Parties, but that we reversed this. The Communist Party - USA has already accepted the Twelve-Party Statement. This means that you have raised the banner of Marxism-Leninism. The bourgeoisie will always condemn you and call you names. They will accuse you of following Moscow. We have been accused of this all our lives. The revisionists are afraid of this accusation. They want to surrender to the bourgeoisie so they will not be accused of being agents of Moscow. The revisionists are the agents of the bourgeoisie inside the Party. The working class must carry on class struggles to wipe out the bourgeoisie and set up the dictatorship of the proletariat. We are all the same as far as this is concerned. That is, we will use the class struggle to do away with classes. This is our common foundation. This is the basic theory of Marxism-Leninism. To follow Moscow means to stick to the fundamental principles of Marxism-Leninism. Let them call you all kinds of names. We do not care. Only TITO is not following Moscow. For this reason, he has become an agent of imperialism. You must be mentally prepared to be called more names.

Then MAO made the remark that the Communist Party - USA is still small. I agreed and said that we need to get out of our isolation. He replied that in order to get out of this isolation you must do hard and difficult work among the masses. You must do particularly hard and difficult work among the workers and the farmers. When you have done well in mass work, you will get out of your isolation.

~~SECRET~~

Then MAO asked me, Is it true that the present-day revisionists follow BROWDER's ideas? I said that they are the same. Then MAO said that the last time the French comrades wrote you a letter, they helped you to fight BROWDER's revisionism. But this time you are fighting revisionism by yourself and you are solving the problems of revisionism by yourself. He commented that help from comrades in another country may not necessarily be good sometimes. He stated that even though the foreign comrades have the best intentions and even though their opinions may be correct, the result is not necessarily good. While it is true that the French comrades helped you to fight the revisionism of BROWDER, now you have neo-Browderism. It is a good thing that you, yourselves, took the initiative to fight this revisionism, and this initiative deserves congratulations from us.

During these remarks, MAO stated that he had discussed the latter remarks with JACQUES DUCLOS in Moscow during the 40th Anniversary of the USSR, and had convinced DUCLOS that he should not try to force his opinions on the Communist Party - USA and that it is better for the Communist Party - USA to work out its own problems. ^{U.S.S.R.}

Incidentally, NICOLAI MATKOVSKY (ph) had expressed a similar feeling. He stated that the Communist Party - USA should not worry about DUCLOS, since DUCLOS now understands what has happened in the American Communist Party. MAO made a point of the fact that the Communist Party - USA turned back revisionism. Also, that the Communist Party - USA should not get the idea that there is a new International to tell you what to do or that the Chinese Party will tell you what to do. In general, I agreed with his remarks. ^{U.S.S.R.}

I made the statement that I cannot deny that recent international events and the Twelve-Party Statement not only helped the Communist Party - USA, but also were a turning point for us. MAO replied that the Twelve-Party Statement was important. In addition, there are the two Sputniks which the Soviet Union launched. MAO then asked, Isn't it true that the imperialists said that the Soviet Union cannot do much and that the imperialists have been ridiculing the Soviet Union since the 20th Congress? I replied that the Sputniks and the crisis in the United States may have helped, but what helped to clarify the membership was the Twelve-Party Declaration. MAO went on to explain that the Twelve-Party Declaration is the declaration of the twelve Socialist countries.

He said that whether and how the Twelve-Party Declaration is accepted is up to each Party to decide. He repeated what TIM BUCK had said that the Russians even tried to hold back the other Parties from voting for it until they had discussed it at home. He warned against mechanical endorsements.

Then MAO said, Our conversation is only for your reference. My conversations and those of the other comrades are only for your reference. This also applies to the LIU Shao-chi articles which you have been reading. (This is a reference to material on the illegal work of the Communist Party of China which had been given to me for study).

MAO said, You must use your own brains to figure out your own problems. The basic principles of Marxism-Leninism are universal, but the concrete conditions in each country are different. A real Marxist-Leninist must excel in independent thinking.

I then commented that the revisionists deny the universal truths of Marxism-Leninism. They do not want Marxism-Leninism.

MAO asked about ALEXANDER BITTELMAN putting forward his theory of the welfare state. He asked, Now there is not much welfare in the United States, is there, considering the unemployment? I replied that we rejected BITTELMAN's theory. MAO asked me how BITTELMAN is. He said he heard BITTELMAN is not now participating in Party activity. They got a report that he did not attend the February National Committee meeting and that he has a subjective attitude toward WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. I said the Soviet comrades were surprised that BITTELMAN is a Rightist. They always thought that he was a sectarian. (u) (S)

MAO came back to the question of imperialism. He said that our views on imperialism are the same from a strategic outlook. We must look down on imperialism, but we do not want to over-estimate them. Yet, tactically speaking, in the concrete struggle against imperialism, we must pay a lot of attention to the imperialists. The revisionists over-estimate imperialism and think that it is very powerful. As a matter of fact, imperialism has many contradictions. All the Communist Parties will, by their own efforts, find out the roads or methods of ridding themselves of imperialism. MAO said, We all agree on this point and work together. I said, This is true and this is why the Communist Party - USA is anxious to develop international liaison.

MAO went on to say, We have the same view on the question of imperialism. Our enemy looks strong, powerful and tough on the surface, but actually it is not that powerful. The Communist Party, which represents the oppressed class and peoples, will eventually find the way to overthrow imperialism. We are all working under the war threat of United States imperialism. The difference is that the American Communist Party has yet to gain political power. We gained our political power not so long ago and we still have to work very hard to industrialize the country.

MAO also stated that right now he thinks that American imperialism has been stymied. He said there may be many Koreans. China intends to fight if the United States starts something. China will fight if it has to, and it has the Formosan Army in its pocket. MAO said, "We stopped the Americans militarily in Korea."

MAO also said that he does not care whether or not China gets into the United Nations. He said that the United Nations will come begging for China to join. Further, if Great Britain does not give China full diplomatic recognition, China will break diplomatic relations with Britain.

MAO said that Japan is in dire competition for markets. Japan is caught in a vice. If Japan does not knuckle under to China and Russia, it will lose what it has.

Then MAO stated that in the second session of the 8th Congress of the Communist Party of China, we adopted a resolution on the Moscow Conference. In this resolution, we have named only one fraternal Party, and that is your Party. He developed this point. He said that they wanted to encourage us. He said he thought that the Communist Party - USA was correct in its attitude. Then he said, You are in the forefront of the struggle. You will get our support. (u) (S)

I made the remark that I do not know if we are in the forefront, but we are happy even though we are heavily encircled by imperialism.

MAO replied, We will work together. He then asked, How is the comrade who attended our 8th Congress? Realizing that he was referring to IRVING POTASH, I said that he is in jail, but that he will be out in August.

MAO asked me if there were any others in jail in addition to POTASH. I told him that GIL GREEN and HENRY WINSTON were in jail.

As the discussion terminated, MAO asked me to give his personal regards to WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, EUGENE DENNIS, and all the members of the National Executive Committee of the Communist Party - USA.

MAO also asked to be remembered to POTASH, GIL GREEN, and HENRY WINSTON.

~~SECRET~~

When I left the palace, MAO walked with me out on the veranda. He made some remarks that maybe I had brought luck to Peking because of the rain. I told him that I had visited some of the factories, the reservoir, etc. Photographers took pictures of MAO and myself. WANG told me not to worry. WANG stated that these pictures were just for historical records, which they will maintain in their archives. 101

Evidently, MAO considered this meeting important, because a couple of days before the meeting MAO was out of town. I learned that the leaders of the Communist Party of China leave Peking often.

MEETING WITH KANG SHENG IN REGARD TO THE RECTIFICATION CAMPAIGN OF THE COM-MUNIST PARTY OF CHINA

I met with KANG Sheng, Member of the Political Bureau, Member of the Secretariat, and the person in charge of ideological work for the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. We spoke in pigeon Russian. We recognized each other. He was in Moscow in 1930 in the Comintern. He is about 60 to 62 years of age, about 5'7" in height, and very thin. He is partly bald and has gray hair. He is a very important man and is one of the leaders of the Chinese Communists. His task was to give me a review of their rectification campaign, which was reviewed at the second session of the 8th Congress of the Communist Party of China.

He pointed out that since 1942, they have had a rectification campaign. During these sixteen years, they have had continuous victories and rectification campaigns. He asked, Why do we need rectification campaigns? Then KANG stated that societies move forward and there are contradictions between societies, classes or groups. There are continuous struggles between the old and new. There is a changing of quality and quantity (dialectical expression), and there is an endless struggle going on in society.

KANG said that, according to MAO Tse-tung, in any society there is a continuous revolution in one form or another. KANG stated that the theory of permanent revolution developed by KARL MARX was abandoned by STALIN in his fight against the Trotskyists. This theory of permanent revolution has now been revived by the Chinese. Marxism is a science. As all other sciences, it constantly develops. In any Party or person, there is always conflict and contradictions -- objective versus subjective. (Dialectical philosophical jargon of Communists). During the successes and victories, there are strong points and weaknesses. There is success or failure. In order that our Party continues to progress, we have to have continuous rectification campaigns, now and in the future.

KANG went on to say, Our Party looks upon the rectification campaign as one of motive forces developing our Party and pushing us forward. The rectification campaign's primary purpose is to correct and perfect the style of work of our Party. In this way, we will enable the Party to overcome its weaknesses and overcome subjectiveness in order to cope with objective reality.

From the experiences of our several campaigns, the Party tries to overcome mistakes in style of work. It does this through criticism and self-criticism. The enemy will make use of this criticism and self-criticism and attack us. This attack by the enemy is unavoidable. But this rectification campaign not only serves the purpose of correcting and improving the style of work, but helps us to launch a struggle against the class enemy.

KANG asked, In general, what is the rectification campaign? The rectification campaign within the Communist Party is a struggle between proletarian ideology and non-proletarian ideology. Outside the Communist Party, it is a struggle between revolution and counter-revolution.

During the last sixteen years, we had continuous rectification campaigns. The biggest one was launched in 1942 in Yunnan. There was one last year, which is still continuing. These are the two most important rectification campaigns.

The rectification campaign in Yunnan was important because it laid down the ideological basis for the victory of the democratic revolution. This campaign solved the problem of who conquers whom on the ideological front -- Capitalism or Socialism.

Next, KANG stated, Some foreign friends and comrades view our rectification campaign as a purge or suppression of counter-revolutionaries. This is not a full-rounded view. It is a one-sided view. The contents of the rectification campaign do carry a struggle against counter-revolution, but the struggle is much deeper. In the course of a rectification campaign, we will also clean out bad elements from the Communist Party. But the rectification campaign goes beyond that.

KANG asked, What is the rectification campaign as MAO puts it? The rectification campaign in this case is the Socialist revolution on the political and ideological fronts. Some comrades of the People's Democracies thought the Communist Party of China launched this rectification campaign to counter the original thesis of MAO of "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend", and that the rectification campaign was to control the effects of this original idea, but they are mistaken. For instance, some in the Polish Party thought that when we launched our rectification campaign against the Rightists, we gave up the policy of the idea of "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend". We think they misunderstood our policy as regards the rectification campaign and also misunderstood the essence of "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend". KANG said the rectification campaign proves the following point. The "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend" idea was correct. It also proves that the Communist Party should continue the policy of "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend" in art, in literature, in science, etc.

KANG asked, Why and for what purpose did we launch the rectification campaign? Let us look at it historically. In 1949, the Chinese people won a victory on a national scale. We took over the State apparatus. As pointed out in the Twelve-Party Declaration, the capture of State power by the proletariat is only the beginning of the revolution. In this connection, some foreign comrades, in their articles, say that China is a model for a peaceful transition from Capitalism to Socialism. But they seem to forget that the Communist Party of China and the people fought for twenty years to achieve State power.

We also thought that we would like a peaceful transition, that we would negotiate with ^{China}CHIANG Kai-shek. But the ruling circles thought otherwise and used violence against us. We should always make two-sided preparations. If we can get a peaceful transition, that is good. But if the bourgeoisie uses violence, we do not hesitate to use armed power to take the State into our own hands. The experiences of the Chinese revolution did not prove that the Chinese revolution was a moral or peaceful transition from Capitalism into Socialism. The Chinese people launched revolutionary wars to capture State power.

Then KANG said, When we got State power into our hands, as is pointed out in the Twelve-Party Declaration, this State power was only the beginning. After winning the revolution in 1949, the task before the Communist Party and the working class was to continue Socialist transformation. Also, to continue the economic Socialist revolution in order to change ownership of the means of production.

KANG said that the Socialist revolution on the economic front was victorious and was basically completed in 1956 in China. This Socialist transformation of the economy was completed peacefully. In 1956, the bourgeoisie joined this transformation and began to beat the drums. This may be due to the fact that the Capitalists of China who marched in the procession welcoming the Socialist transformation forgot that we fought for twenty years to capture State power. KANG said, In this connection, here is a secret. Even with State power, if we did not have several million armed men, we could not do it. They, the Capitalists, would not have marched to welcome the revolution unless we had military support. When we completed the Socialist revolution, when we won a victory on the economic front, when ownership changed, who will conquer whom was not finally decided.

Parenthetically, KANG was saying that who will conquer whom cannot be decided by capturing State power, but is a long process and is also decided by the building of big industry, ideological changes, etc.

KANG said, If we do not continue to carry on an ideological revolution on the political and ideological front, the Socialist revolution which is won on the economic front could not be consolidated. The events in Hungary prove this point exactly. The lesson provided by Hungary is a lesson for all brother Parties. In Hungary, the Socialist revolution on the economic front was basically completed. In Hungary, they thought they had won on the economic front. They did not carry out the Socialist revolution on the political and ideological front, and the enemies inside and outside could, therefore, stage or attempt to stage a comeback. This point is made clear in the Twelve-Party Declaration. It is said in this Declaration that the bourgeoisie, though defeated, would like to stage a comeback. Even after State power is won, the influence of the bourgeoisie and the petty bourgeoisie and the intellectuals is still strong.

According to KANG, the Twelve-Party Declaration asks, "Who will win, Capitalism or Socialism?" The Twelve-Party Declaration states that this question will be settled and won after a prolonged period of struggle, which follows the capture of power. Therefore, this formulation is included in the common laws governing transition. It points out that we must carry out the Socialist revolution on the ideological front in order to build up a mighty army of intellectuals, faithful to the working class and the revolution. The Communist Party of China views this universal truth as being very important.

Then KANG stated, Our Party sees it in this sense. If we do not conduct Socialist revolution on an ideological and cultural front, who conquers whom is not solved. The rectification campaign launched by our Party was exactly in conformity with this universal truth. You have to carry on a Socialist revolution on the ideological and cultural front.

Therefore, we should not look upon the rectification campaign as simply a campaign against the counter-revolutionists, nor is it simply a Party purge. There is a contention that perhaps the Party made some mistakes when it supported the thesis of MAO of "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend". It was this misunderstanding which is really the main reason we have launched the rectification campaign at this time.

Now, let us discuss who the targets are. Who are the individuals? What were the methods used and the aims in this campaign? The rectification campaign, in reality, is a movement of the entire nation and all of the people are concerned. To put it into simple language, we should ask, Who is involved? Involved is the Party, the army, the people, the students, the professionals, etc. Everybody is involved. Since the objectives of all those we have cited are different, the targets come from different classes. The methods used and the nature of the attack against them are also different.

KANG asked, What are the ramifications of the rectification campaign? (1) It is the contradiction between ourselves (the Party) and the enemy (Capitalists or the remnants of those who carry Capitalist thoughts and ideology inside and outside the country). (2) It is the contradictions among the people. (This total idea that KANG uses as the summary is based on MAO's famous thesis of 1956, which was spelled out in the form of an article used by world Communism. It is called "On Contradictions").

Then KANG explained that contradictions existing between the people and the bourgeoisie Rightists, landlords, rich peasants, and all the bad elements, we call contradictions between ourselves and the enemy. There has been a big upsurge among these bad elements since 1956, when they watched United States imperialism launch an attack on the USSR regarding Hungary. They took this as a signal for them to attack the Party and the Government. All of the attacks of these elements took place under concrete circumstances as they prevailed in China. They did not carry on this campaign openly. They cloaked themselves as would-be supporters of Socialism. But they had certain reservations about Socialism and always pointed to the bad things in Socialism. These bad elements, like DULLES, formulated a fight against what they called sectarianism or dogmatism. (They talk as if DULLES is the person who formulated this policy). These elements, under the false flag of fighting dogmatism, actually camouflaged their struggle against Marxism-Leninism. They said that they were supporters of Socialism, but they do not want the leadership of the Communist Party. They even talked about the duty to kill Communist Party members; and even if all the Communist Party members were killed off, they could still have Socialism anyway.

Continuing, KANG said that these elements say that Marxism-Leninism is outdated and outmoded. Also, that since the death of FREDERICH ENGELS, who died after KARL MARX, Marxism is dead. These elements also oppose the dictatorship of the proletariat. They substituted for the theory of the dictatorship of the proletariat and invented a many-sided form of Socialism. They said that the dictatorship of the proletariat is a low stage of Socialism. The bad elements said that in China there are no classes. Therefore, the workers, peasants and intellectuals should take turns ruling the country. This was their conception of many-sided Socialism and was for them a high stage of Socialism.

KANG said, These bad elements also said that in the Soviet Union there is nothing but dogmatism and no culture. They said that science in the United States is superior to that of the Soviet Union. We never treated as scented flowers the words and deeds of these bad elements. We look upon them as poisonous weeds. We are not afraid of these poisonous weeds. We allowed these weeds to grow. Since these weeds are objective reality, we cannot prevent them from growing, and we cannot, with oversimplified methods, eliminate them. Once the poisonous weeds grew, we chopped them out. We found that once we chopped the weeds down, we turned them into fertilizer.

The counter-revolutionists and the poisonous weeds can also be utilized to educate the people. In this sense, these bad elements are "teachers", but in a negative sense -- like DULLES, EISENHOWER, and CHIANG Kai-shek, who are also such "teachers".

He went on to say that the Communist Party of China also published TITO's articles in full. KANG said that in 1956, TITO made a vicious speech in Pula. Recently, when TITO acted up, we published a book of all his speeches, including his recent speech. We allow the poisonous weeds to reach a certain growth. Then we chop them down to use as fertilizer.

Then he asked, What do we do with these elements, such as the landlords, the rich peasants, the petty bourgeoisie, the Right-wing writers? We destroy some of them. We remodel most of them. KANG emphasized that the struggle against these people is an irreconcilable life-and-death struggle.

Next KANG talked about the second category of this question of the ramifications of the rectification campaign -- contradiction among the people. Regarding this contradiction, KANG said this includes different strata. He went on to say that within the realm of the contradiction among the people, we launched a rectification campaign among the petty bourgeoisie Parties and their followers. The nature of the rectification campaign towards these people is to get these people to accept Socialism and to remodel themselves ideologically.

Towards the petty bourgeoisie, the rich middle peasants, the independent laborers in the city and country, the nature of the rectification campaign is to get them to transform themselves -- that is, to become Socialist-minded. Then he emphasized, But the nature of the rectification campaign among the Party and working class is different. The aim in this rectification campaign for the workers and the Party members is to improve their style of work. For instance, we want to get rid of bureaucratism, sectarianism and subjectivism. That is, to change this bad style of work.

KANG said, In a general way, the rectification campaign among the people is a nation-wide campaign of Socialist education raising the level of Marxism-Leninism. It is an ideological campaign. It is also a campaign to use the method of criticism and self-criticism -- criticism for our own education.

(Here I might point out that in order to reach the illiterate and uneducated masses, they encouraged what they call a "big letter poster campaign". They urged everybody who had something to say to take a big sheet of paper, write as large as they can in one-inch, two-inch or three-inch letters, and put it up at their place of employment or on a wall of some building. Wherever I went in Peking or in the country-side around Peking, I noticed these big handwritten posters, which you can read from maybe thirty or forty feet away. Usually, the complaint is a sentence or two dealing with the problems the people face or something they have to say about the factory, farm, village or any institution. The walls are covered with such posters).

The rectification campaign against the class enemy is of a mass, political, class struggle nature, in order to beat the enemy and its anti-Socialism, anti-Communism. Under the leadership of the Communist Party, the rectification campaign expresses the antagonistic and irreconcilable nature of the people against the anti-Socialist enemies. Briefly, among the people, the rectification campaign is a struggle of the proletarian ideology against the non-proletarian ideology. Toward the enemy, the rectification campaign is a struggle of the revolutionaries against the counter-revolutionaries. Because these two methods are different in nature, the methods used are also different.

With regard to methods used against the bourgeoisie Rightists, KANG stated, We adopted very firm measures to expose them, to break them, to split them, to isolate them, to remodel them, and even to punish them. The methods used among the people is mainly one of education. Here again, KANG used one of the famous slogans of MAO: "Unity - Criticism - Unity".

KANG explained that this formula in full starts with a desire for unity, proceeds through criticism and struggle to solve the contradictions in order to reach a new unity on a higher level. (Actually, this is MAO's thesis, which is decades old). Whether towards the enemy or towards the people, this is a form of a great airing of views, involving great debates, discussions and wall papers (posters), expressing the mass views of our Party.

KANG asked the following questions: What is the aim in the rectification campaign? What is its end? As pointed out in the articles by MAO, the aim of the rectification campaign is to get a correct political orientation for everybody: (1) For all the people. Everybody should be concretely aware that they want to travel on the road of Socialism; (2) The second aim is to raise the political and ideological level of all the people. To raise the level of understanding of Marxism-Leninism and Socialism; (3) The aim of the rectification campaign is also to correct shortcomings and weaknesses in our Party work. All the Party members should get rid of their bureaucratism, sectarianism and subjectivism. In this regard, KANG talked of the five "airs": (A) Extravagant air; (B) Pathetic air; (C) Finicky air; (D) Bureaucratic air; and (E) Arrogant air. KANG spoke about certain removals. He said that they had to remove certain people. They had to censure certain people and organizations. (4) The fourth objective to be reached in the rectification campaign is to unite the masses in the widest extent. That is, to mobilize all the positive factors. To build Socialism by exerting the utmost efforts and pressing consistently. Then he cited the slogan of the second session of the 8th Congress of the Communist Party of China: "More -- Better, Faster and More Economically" (pertains to the building of Socialism). (5) The fifth aim of the rectification campaign is to remodel all the elements who are against Socialism -- the bourgeois writers and intellectuals -- to split them up, isolate them, remodel them.

KANG said, To summarize, as MAO put it in brief: We want to create a political atmosphere in which there is both centralism and democracy, both discipline and freedom, both unity of will and personal ease of mind. Such a political atmosphere would be advantageous for the Socialist revolution and Socialist construction. We would more easily overcome difficulties so that we could build Socialism more rapidly in our country, modernize industry and agriculture. In this atmosphere, our Party and our State would be more consolidated and can face and endure storm and stress.

(By way of comment, this second session of the 8th Congress was the only time in history where a Communist Party adjourned a convention and then re-convened it two years later as the same convention, second session. The Russians disagreed with this. Time means nothing to the Chinese in the sense that it does to us.)

(They speak of bitter years of struggle. They feel that if they can bring about unity through the rectification campaigns, then they can face storm and stress because ideologically they would be consolidated).

KANG went on to give a brief outline of the stages and steps as they developed the rectification campaign. The current rectification campaign was first launched on May 1, 1957, fourteen months ago. He said, According to plan, we drew some conclusions at the end of July or the middle of August. This first stage of the rectification campaign was from May 1, 1957, to June 8, 1957. (This was the first stage, which lasted a little over a month. Actually, they talked of a six-week campaign).

KANG said, this first stage of the rectification campaign was called "The great airing of views". The characteristic of the first stage was this: Our Party allowed all kinds of views to be expressed against the Government, against the Communist Party, against Marxism-Leninism, against Socialism, etc. This included allowing the bourgeois writers outside the Party to participate out loud.

(Privately, they told me they had a hard job restraining the Communist Party members so that these outside the Party would be allowed to talk).

According to KANG, the main line of thought which came out in the first stage of the rectification campaign was opposition to agricultural co-operatives for China. This opposition was expressed not only by the bourgeois writers outside the Party, but by those inside the Party who are of rich peasant origin. They, too, opposed agricultural co-operatives for China. They opposed the wholesale buying and supplying of agricultural products by the State. These people, who were opposed to agricultural co-operatives, opposed the main movements of the Party. For example, they opposed the land reform. They opposed the 1952 campaign against Capitalists, who were punished because they committed crimes against the State. They opposed the punishment of those who took bribery or who gave out economic secrets. These petty bourgeois writers opposed the measures which were used against the Capitalists. They opposed the movement for suppression of counter-revolution. They also opposed the Party's effort at ideological re-armament. They labeled all these movements as dogmatism. The bourgeois writers also attacked Party rule. They said the Party acts as if it is the world, and they denounced one-Party rule. They opposed the leadership of the Communist Party and Socialism.

KANG said, We allowed all these words to come out. We even published some of these views in the Party press. These elements put forward these poisonous weeds under the guise of helping to launch the rectification campaign, which was started by the Communist Party. We allowed these people to express themselves -- to talk out loud. At the same time, the Central Committee of the Communist Party issued directives to the lower organizations not to refute these bourgeois writers. Some members did not agree with us. Some members charged the Central Committee made opportunist mistakes for allowing this discussion to go on. Some youths wept at night because the Party allowed the people to express themselves. Some said even MAO committed a mistake of Right deviation in character.

KANG Sheng went on to say that this free-hand we gave to these elements exposed those who hid in our ranks, even though the vacillators objected to this campaign. For instance, we had a bourgeois writer in the Party who was the head of a province. He is now expelled. He was arrested during the Kuomintang regime. While he was in jail, he capitulated. He exposed himself in this campaign. We found people in our ranks who opposed centralism. These, of course, were the "provincialists".

KANG said, In the Province of Sinkiang (autonomous region), some of the people there exposed themselves as narrow nationalists. Those in the Party were not firm in their class stand and wavered. Some even went to the enemy, ideologically, and remained there. Some tried to pose as 100% Marxists. In this sense, it was harder for us than for the Communist Party - USA, where you have the class enemy as it is, and the revisionists, who spoke openly for such a line. Our enemies stayed inside. If they had left, they would have been isolated from the people.

KANG went on to say that the first stage of the rectification campaign lasted a little over a month, and all of the newspapers were full of the remarks uttered by these bad elements. In the course of this one month, all the reactionary viewpoints came out. In the meantime, the Central Committee gathered its forces and launched the counter-attack. He emphasized this. He said, We used this method to create illusions that the Communist Party was weak and would not hold on to its power. The bad elements dreamed that there would be a Hungarian incident in China. The Rightists estimated that the masses of China would leave the Communist Party and would demonstrate. They also thought that the Communist Party lost its control over the people. Of course, they knew that the Communist Party could mobilize the Army. But if the Communist Party mobilized the Army, they would lose the masses. This was a completely wrong estimation of the influence of the Communist Party. These Rightists believed that all the Communist Parties in the world would go down-hill; that they would break up.

KANG said, On June 8, 1957, we published an editorial in the Communist Party paper, launching an attack on the Rightists. In one week's time, these forces were broken up. Now we entered the second stage -- the stage of struggle against the bourgeoisie Rightists. They said that they were "duped" by the Communist Party. They cried, "You asked for an airing of views. Now you attack us." They called it "baiting the fish". They cried, "You put forward the thesis of 'Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend'. Now you violate your own policy." But the Communist Party said from the very beginning, "We call all the ideas against the Communist Party weeds which should be chopped down." We answered them and said that we will continue the policy of "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Hundred Thoughts Contend", but the poisonous weeds will be chopped down.

According to KANG, this second stage of struggle lasted over five months. In this second stage, we won a unanimous victory. These Rightists were exposed by the entire people -- 300,000 Rightists were exposed. (According to the resolution adopted at the second session of the 8th Congress, 400,000 Rightists were exposed and about 20,000 Party members were expelled).

KANG said, When these people were exposed, the eyes of all the people were opened. These enemies could no longer camouflage as supporters of Socialism. He went on to say that this struggle is a very concrete form of Socialist education among the people. It helped the people to understand the victory of the economic revolution, and also that this economic revolution could not be consolidated without an ideological victory. When we talk about 300,000 Rightists exposed, this includes big and small (he means important and non-important people), because only 2% were really die-hards. The vast majority of those exposed could be re-molded. But a section, even of these re-molded, will be vacillating for a long time.

KANG went on to say that if the United States dropped an atom bomb on Peking, these 2% would show their face again, since they will carry their ideas to the grave. Since October of last year, the rectification campaign entered its third stage. This stage is called improving of work and correcting weaknesses. KANG said, After beating the enemy, we (the Communists) should correct our own shortcomings. This third stage was a mass movement involving all the schools, factories, communities, etc. Everybody was involved to improve our work. The third stage included a "great airing of views" and developed into a big upsurge. We allowed freedom of the masses. We asked them to criticize the work of the Party. In this stage, everybody was involved. A million papers bloomed! (That is, wall papers, posters, etc.)

The ideas and suggestions put forward on wall papers are good ideas, in the majority of cases. Some criticism is due to misunderstanding. Some mistakes were made in this criticism, according to KANG.

Then KANG stated, The third period of the rectification campaign was a very difficult one. In the second stage, our cadre was brave. But during the third stage, we tried to get the masses to criticize the Communist Party "to burn out the mistakes from our bodies". MAO said that there are two torches in the rectification campaign. One was to burn out the enemy. The second torch was to burn out the mistakes of the Communist Party. In this situation, the vast majority of the Party members were brave enough to ask the masses to light a fire under the Communists. Some cadre forces were waiting for the torch. Some were afraid that they would get burned. This third stage lasted until the end of the second session of the 8th Congress, which was at the end of May. It lasted for seven months. After this third period, the Party relations with the masses improved immensely. Throughout the third stage of the rectification campaign, we were able to burn out, in the main, the five "airs" and the three "isms". Now we are in the fourth stage of the campaign; and that is, to ask all Party members to study certain Marxist-Leninist documents and to study their own thoughts, to improve themselves. Of course, the aim of this stage is to raise the Marxist-Leninist level of the entire Party. KANG also talked about the propaganda campaign which is being carried out in this stage. For this purpose, the Central Committee has compiled two volumes of documents, using MAO's articles on contradictions and including other Marxist-Leninist documents.

KANG said that the rectification campaign is not completely over. But we see results already. The first result is in the big leap forward. Production is developing by leaps and bounds. We realize that when people have gone through a Socialist revolution ideologically, they will achieve better results in production -- results beyond imagination. For instance, the production of wheat on a caddie or 1/15 of an acre -- 2½ tons or 2,500 kilograms. He said so far this year they have increased steel production by five million tons. It will be increased by ten million tons by the end of the year. The grain increase alone for this year is fifty million tons. He said that the result of the leap forward is so remarkable, that the press hid it. Even the Socialist press is afraid to publish figures on agriculture. If there was no proper connection between the rectification campaign and the building of Socialism, some of these things would be inconceivable.

KANG stated that the second achievement of the rectification campaign is a political and ideological leap forward. Now there is a big upsurge in the learning of Marxism-Leninism and the works of MAO. The workers are organizing study groups to study the philosophy of MAO. In the villages, astonishing things are happening. In Shao, which is smaller than a county, a Party Secretary was brave enough to use his concrete experiences to explain the law of unity of opposites.

(He wanted to show that a Party Secretary of an organization smaller than a county is discussing philosophy, and wanted to point out this is becoming wide-spread).

KANG also stated that another low cadre in Honan Province was spending two months to study the philosophy of MAO. As a result of a study of the Party and the mass movement, you learn how to rely on the masses. With the victory of the ideological revolution among the masses, the basis has been laid for the unfolding of a cultural and technological revolution.

KANG said that in the past, there was a great deal of illiteracy in China. Now, plans have been mapped out to within even a year so there will be no illiteracy. China is establishing a compulsory system of education.

In Kiring, in the Northeast, there is not a single illiterate. But we still have many difficulties, but not the kind of difficulties TITO accuses us of. Our difficulties are of growth and advance. We do not have enough population.

Continuing, KANG stated that in the United States, there has been a reduction in steel production. We face a shortage of steel. TITO, in a recent speech, said China has a lot of difficulties. That is why we fight TITO and go to the USSR for aid. Then KANG said that Revisionism has one characteristic the world over. These revisionists never understood how to defend purity of Marxism-Leninism. TITO has always interchanged Marxism-Leninism with bourgeois money. For example, TITO's relations with the United States. When TITO accuses us of wanting to money, and that is why we attacked him, actually he is using his own attitude towards the United States or towards the Socialist states. The Kuomintang used to say the same thing.

KANG went on to say, We have difficulties while in the process of progress. Society is always in the stage of incessant revolution. The rectification campaign will also develop and continue, as MAO says, once every two years. A new rectification campaign will be started every two years.

Concerning the differences in leadership, as rumored by the imperialists and revisionists, KANG said, We answer in the affirmative. In the history of our Party, we fought opportunists. We fought CHEN Tu-su. In the early days, we fought against the Left sectarianism of LI Li-san. We have learned from Left and Right mistakes. In 1935, our Party established a leadership headed by MAO Tse-tung. The first rectification campaign in Yunnan helped to establish a solid leadership, united under MAO, which fought against dogmatism and revisionism, and this leadership has always been united. Since the first rectification campaign, in the course of sixteen years, one victory followed after another. This is because our leadership has been united. From the democratic revolution to the Socialist revolution, we always exposed anti-Party cliques. In 1953-1954, we exposed KAO Kong and RAO Shue-sze, members of the Central Committee. After their exposures and after smashing them, KAO committed suicide. (Parenthetically speaking, they killed him).

KANG said that the history of the Chinese Communist Party shows that all these victories would be inconceivable without unity. The leap forward is impossible without unity of the Party. The prestige of MAO Tse-tung among the people is indisputable. His prestige is the material force for mobilizing the people. But this is no cult of the individual. We recently expelled some people who hid under the banner of support of the Central Committee. (This is to show that the Communist Party of China is united, and these people are listed in the resolution of the Communist Party of China adopted at the second session of the 8th Congress.)

KANG went on to say that the bourgeoisie press has always dreamed of a split in the Communist Party of China. He emphasized this is only a dream. He said the Party is now healthier, with the revisionists and anti-Communist elements out.

Then he went on to ask, Which is dearer -- the Party unity or keeping a few counter-revolutionists in the Party? Of course, Party unity.

In conclusion, KANG said that the Communist Party of China has great concern for the Communist Party - USA. We are interested in your problems. But we are happy that GATES deserted. We are glad to hear that you have endorsed the Declaration of the twelve Communist Parties, and were glad to read the DENNIS article on Yugoslavia and TITO, which we published.

MEETING WITH LI HSIEN-NIEN, VICE PREMIER, FINANCE MINISTER, AND A MEMBER OF THE POLITICAL BUREAU OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CHINA

On June 30, 1958, I had a meeting with ~~LI~~ Hsien-nien, who is one of the Vice Premiers, Finance Minister, and a member of the Political Bureau of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. LI is a very important man in the Governmental apparatus. LI was a very famous General during the war. He commanded the Fifth Division of the 8th Route Army. LI is about 5'10" tall; weighs about 175 lbs., which is considered, by Chinese standards, to be heavy; has a light complexion, and an oval face.

Also present at this meeting were ~~TANG~~ Ming-chao, member of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, who acted as an interpreter; and ~~LI~~ Chi-hsin, also a member of the International Liaison Department, who took minutes of the meeting. Ching

I was taken to a fenced-in Government headquarters building. This was not a building of the Communist Party headquarters. We met in a very large room, and all sat around a table.

When the meeting started, LI asked me to list the things I was interested in knowing about. I advised him that I was interested in the economic situation in China. Also, that I was interested in knowing about this new policy of the "big leap", which had been discussed at the second session of the 8th Congress of the Communist Party of China. LI agreed and proceeded to give me the following report:

Concerning the question of the second five-year plan, LI stated that China is now in its first year of this second five-year plan. LI stated it is now clear that the plans we mapped out at the first session of the 8th Congress were too low. Why was this 1956 economic plan too low? And why is the present plan higher? LI said that our country (meaning Red China) was established a little over eight years ago. LI stated that during the first five-year plan, there was no change in ownership of industry or other enterprises. They only expropriated what they call the CHIANG Kai-shek properties. It was only at the time of the 8th Congress, which took place in 1956, that they began to drastically change the property relationships. It was only at that time that they began the reforms among the peasantry from private cultivation of the land, private ownership, to co-operatives.

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. PART 4 OF 22

Parenthetically speaking, the Chinese do not call the farms collective farms. They call them co-operative farms or co-operatives.

LI said that the objective conditions in China, both in industry and agriculture, make it possible to carry through this leap forward. He went on to say that in 1956, we succeeded in completing the economic reforms. He explained this by saying that they turned private industry into semi-State industry, and the farms into co-operatives.

LI stated that 1956 was the year of completion of the liberation of the economic forces. This struggle for the liberation of the economic forces changed, as they say, the economic foundation of the country, especially after the economic successes in 1956.

LI then went on to talk about MAO and the Central Committee, and what they had decided. They decided to start the rectification campaign. They decided to put forth MAO's slogan, "Let a Hundred Flowers Bloom -- Let a Thousand Ideas Contend." This meant that they decided that Socialist laws of property were possible.

Parenthetically speaking, you will notice that in the main this was supposed to be a discussion of the economic situation, but the Chinese all revert back to give a political explanation of their economic policy.

LI then went into an explanation of how the Rightists, as they call them, attacked Socialism, the dictatorship of the proletariat, the Communist Party, and everything that is associated with Communism. He stated that the Party and the Government then launched a counter-attack. In 1956, they gained an economic victory. In 1957, by defeating the Rightists, they gained a political victory. Then they could see that both material and political conditions for changed economic plans were laid.

LI then stated that the struggle against the Rightists and the rectification campaign was also a struggle against, what they call, the three evils: (1) Subjectivism; (2) Bureaucracy; and (3) Sectarianism.

Parenthetically speaking, points #2 and #3 would signify or measure the relation of the Party to the masses of people.

LI went on to say that during the rectification campaign, they mobilized the people. We exposed our shortcomings. We mobilized the people and showed them that the Communist Party is their Party.

that we are working in their interests. As a result of these self-admitted errors, the people's energy increased and they could mobilize them for more labor. As a further result, it was possible to raise the productive power of the workers.

LI went on to explain that up until liberation, China was under the heel of imperialism for a long time. According to LI, China was exploited and poverty stricken. LI quoted MAO and said that China was turned into a temporary blank or a vacuum. (This is used in an economic sense).

LI stated that at the time of liberation, the total steel production in China was 900,000 tons, and most of this was produced in Manchuria. At the end of the first five-year plan, China produced 5½ million tons of steel. During the first five-year plan, LI stated that they laid the basis for heavy industry and light machine industry. Also, the basis was laid for machine production.

LI stated that the situation in agriculture was poor at the time of liberation. China produced 270 billion caddies of grain. In 1957, they produced 370 billion caddies of grain, but this was still not enough. LI stated that 370 billion caddies is equivalent to 135 million tons. LI stated that grain production had to be increased so that the peasants could be supplied with grain throughout the year.

LI went on to say that they have laid three basis: (1) The change of the ownership system; (2) Due to the struggle against the Rightists, eliminated political thought of the people who, for centuries, were under the ideological influence of the bourgeoisie. Communist ideology was established among the people because there was a "liberation of Communist thought"; and (3) Material basis was laid during the first five-year plan. Originally, their plans provided for twelve million tons of steel to be produced by 1962. Later, their plans were changed to thirty million tons by 1962. (LI was very cautious and did not give me figures others gave me on steel. He referred me to Party leaders in the Political Department). LI stated that developments are hard to predict. He said we would be talking in conservative figures if we talked about an increase of nine or ten million tons by the end of this year.

Concerning the production of coal, LI stated that in 1957 they produced 110 million tons. In 1958, we are producing 220 million tons. After I asked a question, LI explained that they have almost reached the figure of 220 million tons already.

In 1957, LI stated that the grain production was 370 billion caddies. This year, the harvest has already increased by 35 billion caddies. He stated that there has been an increase of 17½ million tons of grain so far this year, and they were just beginning to harvest at that time. (Rice is included in this category). It is estimated that this year's crops will show an increase of 50 million tons in all grains. He said that this increase is not due to good weather. In fact, it is just the opposite. He said that there is a drought in the Southern part of China. But despite this, there have been increases in grain production.

LI said, We lack machinery and chemical fertilizers. We depend on five hundred million peasants. LI said, MAO has taught us that we can increase the production of steel, coal, grain, etc., despite the lack of fertilizers, machinery, etc. To effect such increases in agriculture: (1) We will have to carry on more irrigation; (2) We will have to obtain human or animal fertilizers; (3) We will have to improve the soil cultivation by plowing deeper than we have up to now; (4) There has to be an improvement in technique, even in hand tools; and (5) There has to be better management of the fields, and we have to get rid of weeds, wastegrasses, etc.

(I want to point out that during my stay in China, I could not find a single weed. There is not one foot of soil in the cities or in the country which is wasted. Even in the place where I lived, wherever there was a few feet of ground, they would plant some kind of a vegetable. Every foot of ground was cultivated in the cities and in the country).

LI went on to say that last year the average production of grain was 600 caddies, or 800 lbs., per person. He stated that this was not enough. Using quotations of MAO at the second session of the 8th Congress, LI stated, Through a great effort, if we fight bitterly, we may be able to produce 1,500 caddies of grain per person. Then he said that this goal has not yet been announced by the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, but that this is their aim.

LI stated, This is our condition in agriculture. The main concern is irrigation. He said most of the water goes into the ocean. Their main task is to preserve the water. They need to build a large number of reservoirs in order to store the water coming off the hills.

LI went on to say that during the second five-year plan, they must increase chemical fertilizers greatly. At the time of the first session of the 8th Congress, the plan was to produce 480 billion caddies of grain. Now, the figure has changed to 800 billion caddies or even 1,000 billion caddies. This is an indication of the big leap forward in the agricultural field. If we can step up production, then the 1,500 caddie goal per person is possible.

LI then repeated that the announcement concerning the production of 1,500 caddies of grain per person has not yet been made. He stated that it is better to be humble and talk of low achievements, and then when you have reached your goal, it should be announced.

Parenthetically speaking, this is the way the Chinese work. They minimize figures, reach their goals, and then make the announcements.

Concerning steel production, LI stated that originally they talked of 7,600,000 tons of steel this year. But now they already have produced nine or ten million tons. LI stated that at this moment, they cannot decide how large the increase in steel will be. In any case, LI is sure they will produce thirty million tons of steel by 1961. But this figure may be changed by the people in the provinces to forty million, fifty million, or maybe even seventy million tons of steel by 1961. I asked how they will obtain such a high production. I learned that they open up small mills in the provinces. They may produce only about 2,000, 3,000, or 4,000 tons of steel per year. This would probably be enough to accomodate local needs. The production of these small mills adds greatly to the over-all production.

LI said that China is passing Great Britain in the machine, tool, and electrical industries. LI quoted MAO by saying, We will surpass Great Britain in everything in fifteen years. LI emphasized, as did others, that it will not take fifteen years to surpass Great Britain. He said that in 1959, steel production may be twenty million or twenty-five million tons. That is more than Great Britain produces now.

LI cited the production figure for coal as 300 million tons per year. LI said that China pays greatest attention to steel, coal, manufacturing, electrical power and railroad construction. He stated that in this kind of development, there are shortages of raw material, power, machines and transportation. He said that this is quite a contrast to the Capitalist world, where they have problems of over-supply.

LI then went on to talk about the economic crisis in the United States. He said that the over-supply in the United States is an indication of problems and decay in the Capitalist system. He stated that some comrades from industries and provinces came to Peking, asking for material. In a sense, this made the leadership happy because it indicated an increase in production. It was a good sign. Comrades who are economists are working hard at the solution to these problems. It is a pleasant feeling when people show that they have increased their goals.

Why the big leap forward? LI said that besides what we publicly stated in our resolution, we think the main factor is the leadership of the Party and the full mobilization of the people. When the people understand, their energy is boundless, and it results in a big voluntary effort. Then LI said that the general line of the Party can be expressed in the following slogan: "Engage in the Greatest Endeavor; Always Fight for the Best to Construct Socialism, Under the Principle of 'More -- Quicker, Better and Economically'." This slogan is seen everywhere.

Parenthetically speaking, I might add that parades are seen in the streets, night and day, with Party slogans. Street meetings are carried on and vaudeville acts are presented. The Communist Party constantly agitates and pushes the people.

LI stated that industry and agriculture should be developed simultaneously. He said that industry is under central and local control at the same time. He said many industries will be turned over to the local organization, and that the central government intends to keep the backbone of large industries.

Parenthetically speaking, I might point out that the Chinese are going to imitate the decentralization plan of the Soviet Union, although the Chinese claim they have their own plan.

LI stated that large and small industries should be developed at the same time, and this will result in the speeding of production. He said, We have mills producing four million tons; yet, we have other mills which produce only one thousand tons, and we have mills which produce only three hundred tons. While the large mills are the most important, we must build large, medium and small mills at the same time. The small mills can supply the local needs and there is a quick return of the investment.

In regard to technology, LI said, We have both up-to-date technology and backward technology, but we are organizing these to march hand in hand.

LI said that they have the most up-to-date mills in Hankow. He said they were established with the help of the USSR. They also have small and backward mills and they, too, are marching forward hand in hand with the big mills.

LI stated that there are advantages in large plants, but the investments are high and it takes years to build them. He said small plants can be built in six months, with little investment.

LI then advised me to keep certain things in mind. He said there are some special conditions in China. We are developing industry at a late date. Previously, the imperialists said that we had no raw material, no iron, etc. But since liberation, we discovered iron all over the country. Some deposits were found to be very small, and so we built smaller plants to make use of the small iron deposits.

LI then went into the livelihood of the workers and how it has improved. He said China was the most poverty stricken country at one time, and the standard of living is still low. But since 1952, wages have increased by 34%. The peasants have improved their standard of living. It was most miserable at one time. The workers and peasants are now satisfied, but their standards are very low by comparison with United States standards.

LI stated that this improvement in the standard of living cannot be judged by wages alone. Prices have been stabilized. He said there has even been a decrease in price of some manufactured goods. This year, there has been a 2% decrease in prices in this category.

On the question of the improvement of the livelihood, LI quoted MAO, who said: "Work bitterly for the next three years." LI said, We should work for the next three years to accumulate and put back into industry and agriculture. (They develop this thesis further. Work bitterly for the next three years so they will live a glorious life and in luxury for the next one thousand years). This policy has been explained to the people, and it is understood by the people that it will lead to a better life.

LI said, Although there have been no wage increases in China this year, more people have been employed; therefore, the family economic situation has improved. China has many people, but we still need more labor.

LI then went into a discussion of how they are going to free women from family drudgery and are discussing how to put women into production in the cities and in the country. This is a very complicated problem, but they will organize it and this, too, will improve the standards of all the people. I noticed they were carrying on a big campaign to set up services so that women can have certain things done for them in order that they may be employed in industry. Included among these services were ready-made foods, communal kitchens, laundries, and many other types of institutions which free women from labor so they can work in industry. LI emphasized that they have a shortage of labor in China. Thus, they are creating these institutions which will throw women into industry. He contrasted this with the current economic situation in the United States, with its unemployment.

LI said that there are 24 million industrial workers in China. This includes those who work in Government offices. By the end of the second five-year plan, they will have twenty million additional industrial workers. By the end of the second five-year plan, as the young grow up, there should be an increase of 36 million of working labor forces. He stated that sixteen million of the 36 million will work on the farms, and twenty million will enter industry. LI stated that these are not sufficient, especially for agriculture. He said the old are not included in these figures.

LI went on to say that there was a time when some of us thought the population was too large and we were talking of population control. But now we feel we need seven hundred million more people than we have now.

Parenthetically speaking, the Chinese did change their policy concerning this, but at the same time they are beginning to practice this policy of controlling the population. They will practice birth control to some extent. The population of China increases each year equivalent to the population of Czechoslovakia.

Because there is a shortage of labor, LI stated there is a need to mechanize. He said the population is concentrated in 40% of the area of China. In the other 60% of the total area, there are fewer people, and these people consist of racial minorities. The Chinese claim that there about 36 million people who belong to these racial minorities, such as Moslems, Tibetians, etc. Their economic situation is worse than that of the Chinese.

Some provinces have a surplus of the population, but when the co-operatives develop, this surplus will solve the shortage of labor. There is a need to send a lot of people to the sparsely populated areas in order to develop these areas, which contain a lot of natural resources. The total area is 960 million square metres, 60% of which has a total population of 36 million, which is only 6% of the population, and the other 94% of the population live in crowded provinces. We need to send a lot of people to populate the sparse area, where the minorities are now living.

According to the present situation, if we organize, we can solve the shortage of the working force in the country during the second five-year plan. LI emphasized that the unemployment problem, which existed immediately after liberation, has been solved.

LI stated that several million people make up the national bourgeoisie, such as merchants, landlords, etc. He said, Our policy toward these people is different than that of the Soviet Union. The USSR had no such problem, because they did not have as many in Russia. LI went on to explain that the policy toward these people is to restrict them, reform them, and to turn them into the laboring force. The small merchants and peddlars are willing to become laborers.

There were quite a number of Capitalists who became Rightists, but the majority agreed with the dictatorship of the proletariat and the Party. But as long as there are Capitalists, we must be vigilant. LI said the Capitalists have turned over shops and businesses, but these constitute small capital. The total capital of all of these amounted to 2,200,000,000 yuan, or 300 million United States dollars. This includes the Capitalists, the small merchants and the peddlars.

Parenthetically speaking, the Chinese have a law where they take over what they call Capitalist industry, shops or enterprises, and they pay interest for the so-called capital. This will be paid for about seven years. They tax these Capitalists, as they call them. They talk about taxing them to death. Some of these so-called Capitalists would like to be rid of their property. The Chinese will not let them get out of their class position. They figure that after seven years of taxation, the property will be in the hands of the State.

When LI dealt with the small amount of Capitalists they found on hand, he said this explains why the Chinese bourgeoisie was opposed to imperialism and is still opposed to imperialism.

Parenthetically speaking, LI means that all the big industries were owned by foreign capital. So, it was easy to win the national bourgeoisie because they, too, felt that they were being kept from making big profits.

LI stated, But when the Party proposes Socialism, these people still resist the Communists. He said this problem is now being solved under the pressure of the people. Very few will resist.

LI went on to say that the landlord class is different, because the lands were expropriated and the peasants were liberated. The confiscation of the lands was the first task in the liberation of the peasants. The co-operatives were the second task in the liberation of the peasantry. He said that 98% of the peasantry have joined the co-operatives. He said the nature of our co-operative farms is similar to the collectives in the Soviet Union.

Parenthetically speaking, LI means that when a farmer joins a co-operative, he does not get paid on the basis of sharing a certain portion of the land but on the basis of the amount of work that he contributes to the co-operative.

LI went on to explain the difference between China and the USSR in regard to farming. He said Russian farms are mechanized. We are just improving the hand tools for our farmers.

I asked LI how they run industry and agriculture. In regard to the system in the factories, LI said the Party Committee is the highest authority. The responsibility for the direction of the plant is under the leadership of the Party Committee.

(I found this to be true when I visited their factories. It was the Party person who explained the operations of the factory, and not the Director).

LI stated that the Director is responsible to the Party Committee. The supervision of the masses is under the leadership of the Party. Party authority is supreme. The Party Committees discuss how much they can process and the norms of production are also discussed by the Party Committee.

I asked on what basis they formulate these plans. LI said that the over-all plan is given by the Central Committee, and then the Party Committees in the various plants discuss the general plan and how they can formulate their own plan. He said that there are no plans for each factory. The plans go to the provinces, then down to the city, and then down to the factories.

LI stated that there are two kinds of accounts. The central authority has the first set of books. Then the Party Committee in the factory discusses and works out its own plan. When the central authority's plan comes back with suggestions from the factory, it is usually on an increased basis.

LI stated that in Yugoslavia, they have no plan because they work without the Party. It is impossible to plan. They work on the basis of Workers' Councils in each factory. He made a point that this is the reason why they lag behind and why they cannot increase their production in Yugoslavia.

Returning to China, LI said that they have two kinds of planning for industry. For example, in the railroads, all plans are handed down by the central authority. Everything in regard to railroads is centrally controlled. Furthermore, some large plants are directly controlled by Central Government Ministries and not by local authorities. LI said that some industry is directly under the control of local authorities. Many of these are small plants.

In regard to the relation between the Party, trade unions, and management, LI said there must be unity of interests on principled questions involved in carrying out a plan. There must be agreement on the general line. The trade union handles all the specific problems along the cultural line by themselves. But there is unity of interest of the State and the individuals. These must not be contradictory. They are based on the interests of the collective.

LI pointed out that the Director of a factory is generally appointed. There is no election. The Chairman of a trade union is elected, but the Party nominates the Chairman. The membership of the trade union can reject the nomination, but in practice this does not happen. The Party picks only those to run for these offices who are closest to the workers, who are most popular and who are sure of election. LI stated that in all of this work, we follow Chairman MAO's organizational line, "Of the Masses, From the Masses, to the Masses."

The draft plans in industry go through stages of reaching the people and the results are reported back to the central authorities and only then are they finalized. In this way, they get the reactions of the people. Thus, if there is too much resistance to the quotas, they will retreat before the plans are finalized.

The election of the trade union people is carried through in the same way. The Party nominates, the workers discuss, discussion or an analysis of the discussion comes back to the Party. Then the Party sends back a nominee and he is elected.

I asked LI where the finances come from. He said that if there is a factory within the plan of basic construction, then all the finances come from the State. He said 10% of the profit is left to the factory, and 90% goes to the State. Of the 10% that is left to the factory, 60% of the 10% is used for benefits and the welfare of the workers. In addition, the Government would add 12% of the total wages to go for the same purpose. The remaining 40% of the 10% goes back for production improvements in the factories.

In some cases, they give total free rent or free kindergartens to the workers, and they take it out of this 60% of the 10% that is left in the factory.

LI then went into a discussion of the farm co-operatives. He said 50% of the production goes to the members for their use. 20% goes for production purposes, seeds and fertilizers, etc. 25% goes for accumulation, the State and the co-operative. He said the State takes very little of this 25%. This is in the form of taxes. Taxes average 10%. LI said these taxes will be cut down during the second five-year plan to 6%. The remainder will be left to the co-operatives for purposes of seeds, machinery, tools, etc. He said 1% is used for public benefits.

LI stated that the young are responsible for the old. Those who have no laboring power are taken care of. This is done willingly by the rest of the co-op members. It is something like Social Security. LI stated that this is what we call income distribution by the co-ops.

LI said that the individual co-operative members have other incomes. Many are handicraftsmen. These people are allowed to raise chickens, pigs, vegetables, etc., on their private pieces of land either for themselves or they can sell them. He stated that the Party must see to it that this private income is not too great. If it is, they will begin to neglect the co-operative and will make their own money. In 1956, we began to notice this tendency for private accumulation. The rectification campaign discussed this and corrected this situation. Rectification simply means to replace bourgeois ideology with proletarian ideology. MAO said that such a rectification campaign is needed every year. This must be a constant campaign.

Communist ideology now prevails. It prevails in the peasant co-ops. But this thinking first had to be organized by the Party.

LI went on to say that they have a few forests in China, but on the whole they have very few trees. People have re-forested entire mountains in China "voluntarily".

With regard to prices, I asked, How are they set and how are they controlled? LI said that there is no free market. He said that for the main products, prices are decided by the State, and these prices are uniform. The main products, such as food and clothing, are decided only by the central Government. No one else can decide these prices. Steel, coal and power prices are also fixed by central authorities. When the products are plentiful, the Government sets a low price for them. LI said that when we say "State", it can also be the provincial Government in some instances. The price structure is examined twice a year to see if it is in keeping with production. Only the main products interest the central authorities. The prices in the provinces differ for some items. LI said that they solved some of these problems by getting several provinces together and deciding on a fair or average price for some of these items.

LI said that it is impossible to set prices for items such as feathers and wild straw. The local villages set these prices. These things are not important. They will not influence the economy and price structure of the country. Products raised individually by a farmer can be sold, but for prices fixed by the State. These are generally not important products, because food, linen, minerals, etc., must be sold to the State and not to anyone else. Individuals in the co-operatives may exchange things, or co-operatives may exchange with each other, but all prices are set by the State. He said these are not important items, such as chairs, tables, etc.

LI stated that the main principle in setting prices is whether it will increase production. It must conform with the principles of Socialism. If it will harm Socialism, we will use laws to carry on a drive against the speculators.

LI further stated that the small shops and peddlars are actually agents for Government stores. Their prices are set by the State. There is also a limit to their profits. They cannot earn more than a skilled worker in a city or more than a farm laborer in the villages. In general, there are uniform fixed prices. Some are fixed by central authorities, and some are fixed by provincial authorities.

LI went on to explain that production decides whether prices will go up or down. Since liberation, the over-all tendency has been that farm prices went up a little, but manufacturing prices went down. He said that this scissors, or ratio, of agricultural prices to industrial prices has narrowed during the first five-year plan by 20%. So even if there is a tendency to raise farm prices, manufacturing prices are down.

He said the improvement of the livelihood of the peasants depends chiefly on increasing farm production. Before liberation they produced fifty kilograms per mow. Now, one hundred kilograms per mow is produced on an average. The highest figure is two hundred kilograms per mow.

LI went on to say that the surest way to improve the standard of living in China is not through prices, but increased production. As to the livelihood of the workers, the main task is to stabilize prices on food, clothing, oil, etc. For these reasons, the workers and the peasants are very much satisfied with the party and the Government, because they have stabilized prices and increased production. Before liberation, the average worker and peasant n tasted oil in his cooking. But remember, the standard of living still below the standard of living in the United States, although now the Chinese put oil into their cooking. Consumption of fats China averages four and one-half kilograms per person each year.

This is much more than the average under the Kuomintang regime.

LI then talked about the slogan: "Fight bitterly and will achieve even higher standards".

I asked LI what he thought about attitude of the United States toward China, or vice versa. He told me to take it up with the Central Committee; however, these are his personal views and are not official. He said that if the embargo is lifted against China, it has to be complete. Not like England, which has lifted the embargo partially. He said it is a two-sided question. Ever the embargo has been helpful because we need to develop our own industry. But the slogan, "Lift the Embargo", is a good slogan politically. LI stated that the volume of trade with the United States under the Kuomintang regime was very small. China traded chiefly with England and Japan.

LI asked me how long I intended to stay in China. He urged me to stay in China a little longer and see some more thing He wanted to arrange for me to go to Manchuria and Shanghai and other industrial areas.

LI made a few remarks about the United States being the head of the imperialist camp and said that Communists have to tak an all-out attitude toward United States imperialism. He again said the Communist Party - USA should not worry about the imperia lists.

In connection with the Solo operation, the Russians indicated they would ship $200,000 to the Communist Party, USA, during 1958.

Supervisor [redacted] of New York Office advised this morning (9/8/58) that NY-694 had just contacted the NYO to inform he had just had a contact from Elizabeth Mascolo. She turned over $12,000 to 694 which she had, she said, brought down from Canada and was the first part of the $200,000 shipment from the Russians. She also said there was a bigger package in Canada, waiting transmission to the United States, and that she wanted 694 or his brother, or both, to come to Canada to get it. She asked 694 to contact his brother and see which one of them, or if both of them, would come to Canada for the other package.

New York Office has talked to Chicago, and both agree that 694 should call 5824 under the circumstances. It is the thought, however, that one of the two (probably 694) could get the package and bring it to the United States. NY-694 has traveled back and forth between the United States and Canada on many occasions and he has no concern whatsoever as to bringing the package through Customs.

As to the $12,000 which Mascolo gave 694, he contemplates "laundering" and placing it in his safe-deposit box, awaiting further instructions from his brother, who will undoubtedly arrange some contact with Dennis as to the disposition of this money.

New York will keep us closely advised of further developments.

I. MOSCOW

While in Moscow and not engaged in political discussions, reading or preparing material, we were taken for rides, a walk in a remote area, to the theater or to a movie. We saw such films as "Quiet Flows the Don", "The Idiot", "1918" and "Cinerama", which is called "Panorama" in Russia and has been well developed. The Russians are flooding the market with films, which are not only superior to anything they ever made before, but are of a very high quality. While all of them contain propaganda, some are like Hollywood musicals.

We went to the ballet twice in Moscow. Someone would whisper translations to us. We went either with YURI IVANOV, ALEXAI ANDREOVITCH GRECHENCO and his wife, or SEMA KUZNETSOV. We would sit in the rear rows of boxes and sneak in at the time the bell rang for the performance.

We saw the Lenin Museum and the Gorki Museum in Moscow with SEMA. We visited the Kremlin on one of the off days. The Commandant met us at one of the gates and issued the order that it should be opened. YURI IVANOV, my wife and I had a special guide for the tour of the Kremlin. We also visited churches, palaces and art galleries in Moscow. We saw things which the usual tourist does not see such as the graduates of a ballet training school.

We saw the Moscow University. They arranged to let us into certain halls and labs. We moved through silently to avoid questions. YURI knows the University well and took us around in such a manner that we would not be observed.

My wife spent 10 or 11 days in the Kremlin hospital which is across from the Lenin Library. Most of the doctors are women, except for the "professors".

I also visited the agricultural exposition twice in Moscow. I watched a cattle show and a horse show. This agricultural exposition is more than just a fair. The buildings are permanent. Every so called republic has its own architecture and its own buildings. There are special buildings for machinery. They have experimental farms in this exposition where they grow certain types of grain, vegetables, etc. Every phase of agriculture, including hog sheds, etc., is shown here the year round. They offer many prizes. In each building they have someone explaining to the peasants how they were able to get so much wool from one sheep, etc. There is constant lecturing.

This agricultural exposition is duplicated on a local scale. Outside of Kiev, they have built an agricultural exposition which, by comparison, is a miniature of the one in Moscow. They are teaching scientific farming. Each collective farm I visited has an agronomist, who is a graduate from a farm school and teaches scientific farming. The land around the cities, including Moscow, is set aside in plots for gardens for vegetables.

At the apartment building where I lived in Moscow and which has been previously described, I would occasionally see a half dozen or so curtained cars drive into the courtyard. There is no front entrance to the apartment. I believe that some security agency may be located in the front part of the building. Once a week I would see a number of large cars come into the courtyard. Military officers would get out and walk into the building.

One day there was a sort of anniversary celebration of the founding of the border guards. They were wearing khaki uniforms with green bands on their hats and a green stripe on their trousers. There was a lengthy article in "Pravda" glorifying the security border guards. Many of them gathered in front of the apartment building on this day. I came to the conclusion that some important person was there, or there may be an office in the front of the building which has something to do with security.

II. LENINGRAD

We spent a month travelling outside Moscow, although we returned to Moscow once during this period for one day.

On June 4, 1958, we left Moscow for Leningrad by train on the Russian's so called luxury train, the "Red Arrow", which is similar to the 20th Century Limited on the New York Central. YURI SERGEVITCH IVANOV accompanied us. Previous arrangements were made with the leadership of the Leningrad Party so we were met at the station by a chauffeur and a representative of the Regional Committee.

The Leningrad Party headquarters was caught unprepared. This was apparently the first time they have had a visitor such as myself who had to be kept under security conditions. They tried, however, to accomodate us in such a way that no fault would be found with their living standards. We were driven to a former palace and were given the best accomodations in the palace. The baths and "other facilities" were outside of the palace. No food was available, only tea.

The palace is located at 39 Tvrichiska (phonetic) Street next door to the police station. Another large palace, which is the headquarters for the Communist Party School, is located across the street. When the delegates were in Russia for the 40th Anniversary of the U.S.S.R. they stayed in this latter palace. They could not house me there because they were not sure that it was safe from a security standpoint. The palace we stayed in had security precautions similar to those in effect in the apartment at which we were staying in Moscow. Women take care of these places for the Party. One cannot enter or leave the place without being seen by these women guards. They stay in a room with glass doors. This room is at one side of the entrance. There were two women guards on the second floor.

This palace is located a few blocks from the headquarters of the Leningrad Party, which is called Smolny (phonetic). Smolny is the best known historical place in Russia next to the Kremlin as far as the revolution is concerned. This was the original headquarters of the revolution. JOHN REED's "Ten Days that Shook the World" deals with it. This is where LENIN worked. This is where they held the first Soviet meetings. The living quarters of LENIN were there. We saw personal articles which belonged to LENIN. We saw pillars which JOHN REED had stood behind. It is noted that a reprinting of REED's book has been ordered. The book was suppressed during the late 1930's when the purges started. It has been considered all right since STALIN's death.

The Party headquarters used to be a girls school for the nobility during the time of the tsars. Since 1917 it has been the headquarters of both the government and the city. To enter you have to pass security guards at the door. We went through with the people previously mentioned accompanying us. As in the headquarters of the CCCPSU in Moscow even the leading people have to show their passes. We used the private entrance of the Leningrad Party and also used the private dining room which is used only by the Party leadership in Leningrad.

U.S.S.R

I met with ~~PETROV~~, the First Secretary of the Leningrad region of the CPSU. We also had sessions with a member of the Regional Committee who is also the Educational Director for the Regional Committee in Leningrad. He usually saw us at least once a day and we would have lunch with him. We were taken on a tour of the city and saw some museums. The tour was made under extreme security precautions, privately and quietly, and with a constant outlook for any foreigners.

A. VISIT TO A SHIPYARD

We went to some factories and they asked what else we wanted to see. I asked to see the atomic ice breaker. They said that they would try to arrange it. After a little discussion it was decided that it would be all right to show it to us.

They arranged a visit and YURI IVANOV accompanied us to the gate of a big shipyard where we were met by the Director and the Party Secretary of the shipyard. The chief engineer of the shipyard, along with the Party Secretary, accompanied us on the tour of the shipyard. We saw the atomic ice breaker. Hundreds of men were working on it. They are putting in the fittings and expect to launch it before the end of the summer. They showed us the power plant in this ship, which is called "The Lenin". They are also building destroyers, submarines and so forth at this shipyard.

We were then driven to the Director's elaborate office. A huge meal was prepared and there were all kinds of bottles of liquor on the table. We drank toasts. The Director did a lot of talking. He asked, why is the American working class so slow? He said, we work for the future. We are making sacrifices and are building. He stated that the American worker pays more attention to his own needs than he does to the working class, historically speaking. He also stated that he has a lot of respect for American ship building. He does not underestimate it.

The representative of the Leningrad region of the CPSU tried to cut this meeting with the Director of the shipyard short but was unable to do so. The Director said that he is a brother of ~~NOVIKOV~~ (phonetic), who lived in the United States at the time of the Russian Revolution. He stated that ~~NOVIKOV~~ carried to Russia a message from the American Communist Party about the time the Communist Party of the US was first organized in about 1918. The Director stated that LENIN immediately responded to this message and wrote the famous pamphlet, "A Letter to the American Working Class". He said that his brother is still active, retired and lives in Russia.

After this party, the Director presented my wife with a box of elaborate pastries and presented us with a huge book on Leningrad and autographed it. Of course, we had to leave all gifts and souvenirs we had received in Moscow before returning to the United States. We left Moscow with nothing which would reflect that we had been in the Soviet Union.

B. VISIT TO A TURBINE FACTORY

We visited a huge plant which produces electrical turbines. It is a very famous plant formerly known as the Putilov (phonetic) plant. It is in the Kerov (phonetic) district. They were building turbines which will produce up to 250,000 kilowatts. Some of these turbines were being built for use on the Volga River. Others were being produced for China.

We spent hours with the Director of the plant. I was supposed to ask him questions about the average wage, working conditions, etc. The Party Organizer explained how the Party functions in the plant, how they put over the Party line, the role of the trade union, etc. They gave me copies of local shop papers.

As we went through the plant they said, you are one of us, are you not? Of course you are. All right, let us show you a new plant we are building, one that KHRUSHCHEV saw only recently. This new plant is in the back of the old plant. It has the latest type of automatic machinery. They explained the technical reasons why this plant is superior in construction and in the use of certain types of machinery.

They took us through the workers' dining rooms, clubs, etc., to show how they are getting along. They showed us a private radio station they have for the plant. The radio is used not only to play music but to shout slogans.

They talked about the functions of the Communist Party, the political problems and details concerning the relationship between the government and the plant. Nothing new was learned. They just verified what the leading members of the CCCPSU had said, that is that they are now much better off because of the policy of decentralization and that because of this policy there is greater productivity.

C. VISIT TO LENINGRAD SUBWAY

We visited the subway in Leningrad. A Russian subway is built very deep, at least 15 to 20 stories deep. These deep subways actually saved Moscow. Not only was the Moscow subway used for transportation during the war but Soviet general staff was located in the subway when the Germans were only a few miles out of Moscow. The subway is still being extended in Leningrad and it is deeper than the subway in Moscow. Every station is like a museum. Trains are clean and roomy. The main point is that they are very utilitarian. Not only are they a means of transportation but they are also a shelter.

Subways similar in construction are scheduled for Kiev and Peking.

D. MILITARY MANEUVERS

On the evening of June 6 or June 7, 1958, I was awakened during the night by a loud noise. I looked out the window and saw lines of military equipment such as tanks, missiles, rocket guns mounted on half-tracks, cannons, anti-aircraft weapons and what not. This lasted for at least three to four hours. I almost went crazy because of the amount of noise. I do not know the significance of this. I asked YURI the next morning if he had heard anything during the night and his only reply was, yes. He made no further comment. All of this was very frightening.

E. SIGHT-SEEING IN LENINGRAD

They took us to some of the old places where LENIN used to hide out. They took us to the spot where LENIN wrote "State and Revolution" on the stump of a tree. This has been preserved and a fence placed around it. They showed us where LENIN lived. They have replicas of original documents and decrees signed by him. The originals are in Moscow. They took us to a historical palace called Petarhof (phonetic). It is about 30 miles from Leningrad. It used to be the palace of the tsars. The Germans destroyed it but they have rebuilt most of it. It has all kinds of fountains and statues.

We also saw the Winter Palace which was partly destroyed by the Germans. We also saw the Hermitage, a world famous art museum. It has many outstanding buildings and is a large institution. They have one part of this museum limited to Russian art. It is noted that we were expected to visit the workers institutions and the Party institutions.

F. MEETING WITH PETROV, FIRST SECRETARY OF THE LENINGRAD ORGANIZATION OF THE CPSU

The day before we left Leningrad we met with PETROV, the First Secretary of the Leningrad Organization of the CPSU. (I am not sure if this includes only the city or the region). I was greeted in a large office where refreshments were available on a table. PETROV speaks a little English. He is about 38 years of age, 5' 8", medium build, dark complexion. He is obviously a university graduate. The new leadership in the CPSU is different from the old leadership. They are all trained as scientists or technicians or in liberal arts, politics, and economy. The new corps of the CPSU is a different type of leadership. They cannot be too proud about coming up through the ranks. While they come up from the ranks, it is in a new way.

PETROV gave us a picture of the situation in Leningrad area and told what had happened since the war. He summarized the political and economic situation. He did not tell me anything new. I had notes on this meeting but was not allowed to take them out of Russia.

I asked him, in its relation to the people, what is the difference in the functioning of the Party now as compared with the time of STALIN? PETROV gave an example. He said that much more initiative and freedom are allowed the people now. For example, last year someone wrote a play. It was the kind of play that would teach disobedience of parents. Somebody from the Cultural Department of the Party saw a rehearsal of the play and went to the director and the author and said that it was no good. He said, how can small children have more sense than experienced parents, etc.? Don't you think it is extreme? They replied we are not going to change a thing in this play.

PETROV said that in the old days the Party would have issued a decree. We would attack the play or shut down the theater and that would be it.

PETROV said, we decided to do something else. We said, all right we disagree with you but how about putting on a preview and invite some parents. Let the parents offer suggestions. They agreed and said they would get the reaction of the parents but would not promise to make any changes.

Of course, the Party went to work. According to PETROV, the Party mobilized parents and had a talk with them. They went to see the play. When it was concluded they expressed criticism. Of course, this criticism was expressed in a friendly manner, so to speak. By this criticism they compelled changes to be made in some parts of this play. PETROV emphasized that the Party played a little role in the mobilization of opinion, but that the Party does not use the high-handed methods that they would have used in the past.

We also discussed the question of peace. PETROV asked whether the American people are conscious of this question.

It should be noted that in the discussions with the leaders of the CPSU there is also a bit of propaganda. They want to emphasize that Communists in other countries have as large a responsibility as the Russian Communists have in the so called fight for peace. While they say they can take care of themselves, they would not be the only sufferers in the case of war. The nature of capitalism promotes wars. Thus, peace does not depend solely on them.

G. MOVIE ENTITLED "MEMORY OF THE HEARTH"

When in Leningrad I saw a movie with the title "Memory of the Hearth". It was a propaganda film with political meaning. Some English speaking persons participated in this film, including BELFRAGE, former editor of the "National Guardian", and PARKER, who participated in the writing of the script. As a rule PARKER is in Moscow as a correspondent. His name appears in the Communist press from time to time.

In this movie an English airman is shot down during World War II in White Russia or the Ukraine. The part of the airman is spoken in English. He is hidden out by a woman from a collective farm. She had been a school teacher but the Germans were occupying the school house. The woman was killed as a result of trying to protect the English airman. The point of the movie is, if the English and Russians were such allies during the war, why would the English want to have war with us now? It shows that the Russians and English shared in sacrifices and is an appeal to the sensitivity and feelings of the people. Since there is some English spoken in the film, it will probably be sent to English speaking countries. It was a crude story.

H. GENERAL OBSERVATIONS CONCERNING LENINGRAD

One third of Leningrad was destroyed during World War II. They pointed out how far the Germans advanced. The point is just outside the city limits. They said that a million people died during the siege. Some were killed, others either starved or froze to death. They have restored almost everything in Leningrad but in view of the fact that they had so much work to do it seemed to us that they still have a lot of work to do. Leningrad is a replica of Paris. They have restored plants, utilities and have rebuilt housing and added some new housing. They have built social institutions such as auditoriums, stadiums, meeting halls, etc.

Leningrad did not look too prosperous on the surface. The people were not as well dressed as they were in Moscow, Kiev or Stalingrad. The Party people explained that it took a long time for them to get back on their feet after the siege. Not only that, but most of the plants were moved to the Urals. However, they have a big ship building industry and a big machine producing industry. It is obvious that they are not putting a lot of capital in building new plants.

The Leningrad area is a very poor agricultural area. They can only raise certain specialized crops such as flax. Lumber is a big item there. They said that they are now better off than they were before the new decentralization policy came into effect.

III. KIEV

We left Leningrad for Kiev by train about midnight on June 8, 1958. We travelled for two nights and one full day before arriving at Kiev. We took the train because there were foreigners from the West on all airlines from Leningrad to Kiev. Thus, it was deemed advisable that I go by train. In fact, there was a communication between the Leningrad Party office and the Central Committee in Moscow in regard to changing ~~four~~ mode of transportation. They checked and double checked. The final order from Moscow was to go by train because it was too dangerous from a security standpoint to go by plane.

Within the Soviet Union the Communist Party has its own telephone line. The Party does not use the telephone lines used by the rest of the people. The Central Committee can pick up the phone and call any Party office in the Soviet Union. The same holds true for China. Between Peking and Moscow there is a phone line which is used only by the Communist Party of China and the CPSU and the two governments. The CCCPSU also has its own radio for contacting Party offices.

A. RECEPTION IN KIEV AND DESCRIPTION OF LODGINGS

We spent four or five days in Kiev. We were met in Kiev by two members of the Ukrainian Central Committee and the usual cars and chauffeur. The Ukrainian Party has its own Central Committee although it is affiliated with the CPSU. Instead of having a Regional Committee they have the Ukrainian Central Committee. They do not have educational directors or organizational directors, they are called secretaries.

B. APPROX. 1972

One of those who met us is YURI IGOROV (phonetic), a member of the Ukrainian Central Committee. He was with us practically every day in Kiev. He knows a lot of Canadians and mentioned them by name. He is 36 years of age and speaks some English. He assumed that I was a Canadian until I told him otherwise. He wanted to discuss the Canadian situation with me, however, since we had mutual acquaintances we had a good relationship. The Ukraine is visited by a lot of Canadians. The Labor Progressive Party of Canada publishes two Ukrainian language newspapers.

In Kiev they housed us in a sanitarium about 25 miles outside the city. We had the main suite with a private dining room connected to it. This is a sort of vacation and health resort combined and is used by the leadership of the Ukrainian Party. It is called Putza Vodista (phonetic--means "Forest Waters"). It is a gigantic and elaborate institution with the finest furnishings and surroundings. They have a medical staff of 150 to accomodate a few hundred people the year round. The director and assistant director took care of our needs. We were not alone. Right next to our apartment of course YURI IVANOV had his quarters. We never had to arrange anything. Everything was done for us. Two people were assigned to us in Kiev, as well as in Leningrad, in addition to YURI IVANOV.

In Kiev they also have some apartments similar to the one we stayed at in Moscow. When we went into Kiev for an afternoon or an evening to go to the theater or to a museum. We would use this modern, elaborate apartment which was even larger than the one in Moscow. The procedure with regard to the housekeeper and the cook was the same as that in Moscow. We stayed at this apartment on the evening before we left Kiev since they felt that it would be too long a journey from the sanitarium to Kiev and then from the airport to Moscow. This apartment is located almost around the corner from the opera house.

B. VISIT TO A COLLECTIVE FARM

We visited a collective farm which is about one and a half hours ride from Kiev. They said that it was not one of the best farms. This farm is in competition with a farm near Moscow called "Thelman" (phonetic). The "Thelman" farm was named after ERNEST THELMAN. I believe the farm we visited is called the "Communist".

The farmers do not live on the farm. They live in a one-street village. This was a very small village consisting of only six or seven homes. On the farm as in the city we were met by the chairman of the collective farm. Every farm also has a Party Secretary. We also met with the agronomist, who is the scientific advisor, and the chairman's wife, who is the hostess. YURI IGOROV and YURI IVANOV were with us.

We spent practically an entire day on that farm. They introduced us to various heads of departments on the farm. Someone is in charge of the dairy, someone is in charge of the pigs, the grain, the orchards, and so forth. This farm was wiped out during the invasion. The chairman was one of the few people who was an original member of this collective farm and who survived the war.

After we had visited this farm a Plenum of the CCCPSU was held and several changes were made with regard to agriculture. All payments in kind were abolished and the monetary standard was set up.

All farms have their own fish pond. One has to eat the national dishes when visiting a farm. At the end of the meal everyone sang. The chauffeur was allowed to participate in this type of gathering. In Russia the class lines are very sharp. Unless they are in an isolated spot where no public eating places are available the chauffeurs ate by them selves. We drank "Goralka" (phonetic), which is Vodka with red pepper.

Roughly speaking, this farm consisted of about 4,000 hectares and they were adding acreage. They already had some of their own machinery and were building a large garage. Until recently the farms had no problem in regard to shelter for machinery because of the machine tractor stations.

I was told that their chief products are milk, cream and cheese because they are not too far away from the market for these products in Kiev.

Depending upon the type of work, the day rate is 10 to 15 rubles. If one goes beyond the normal production extra pay is received. This is an incentive for harder work. Also, at the end of the season products such as grain are distributed to the workers in equal shares; if the production quota has been surpassed. In addition, each individual or each family has its own private plot of land. This plot would be an acre or so. In most areas, however, the farmers are paying less attention to these private plots because it is now more profitable to put in more time in the work of the collective farm. Also, it is possible for a collective farmer to have his own cow, chickens and so forth. They have to take care of their own animals and receive no help from the collective. This is also being done away with because it does not pay the individual farmer as much as the work on the collective farm.

Another phenomenon is the merging of collective farms. One farm I saw was only one fourth its present size just a couple of years ago. This is being done in order to farm more economically in the utilization of machinery. Collective farms are growing in size.

When this particular farm started after the war nothing was left. They bought four cows. They plowed and developed the land and planted trees. Competition between collective farms is based on how much milk they get per cow, how much grain per hectare, the weight of pigs, how much of their commitment to the state they fulfill, how well they have paid off loans for the purchase of machinery and so forth. There are minimum prices, but price level for products is set as a result of competition in the market. Everything is sold to state institutions. They do not sell anything privately.

The quota is set by the planning organization. The state has a master plan and expects so much from a particular area. Then the sub-divisions of the area get together and decide how much of a certain product they will produce for that year. The farms talk it over then and set their plans. As a rule, because of Party participation in this whole arrangement, the farms will gear their plans so that the overall plan of the particular area or region will be fulfilled. The Party will not let the farms underestimate. The incentive is that if they produce more than the quota or over-fulfill their plan, the share of each one participating in the collective is larger at the end of the year.

The collective farms retain some profits just as do the factories. The government lets them keep a certain percentage. When I say keep I mean that everything is sent to the government but the government will send back a certain percentage in the form of cash or bank deposits. This percentage is used for the shares for each farmer in the collective and also for certain social uses. For example, it may be used to build new buildings or homes or cultural institutions. Collective farms now assume responsibility for building individual homes as well as multiple dwellings. However, on a farm you have very little choice as to the kind of housing. There is no inheritance of land and no titles to property.

The last Plenum of the CCCPSU discussed only agriculture. They have abolished the tax on the private plots of land. Other taxes were also abolished to give the farmers incentive so that the U.S.S.R. can catch up to the United States in agricultural production.

In addition to incentives, they have other pressures. The farm has to take care of the aged, infirmed and the young. Many women work at hard jobs on the farm. Until recently, most farms had no dispensaries, no clinics or nurseries and so forth. They are now beginning to establish these institutions. The more profit the collective farm makes the more institutions it can establish. Thus, they use this social pressure to make people work. But there is also an incentive to obtain luxuries. In the old days there was very little to buy. Everything was rationed because of short supplies, but now things are different.

C. VISIT TO AN ELECTRONIC INSTRUMENT FACTORY

We visited an electronic instrument factory in Kiev and all the institutions connected with it, including the trade union palace of culture. At this factory they were making sensitive measuring instruments. The average wage there was about 1,000 rubles a month. The skilled people make more than this. Electric razors were being manufactured at this plant. There were kindergartens where the mothers could deposit their pre-school age children. Factories such as this also have summer camps for children.

D. FUNCTIONS OF THE TRADE UNIONS

It is the task of the Communist Party to take care of everything in connection with each factory. The Party is responsible for production, political education, and the welfare of the workers. The Party is woven into every institution, into everything that exists. The task of the trade union is limited. The trade union is actually a social organization. First of all, it sees that production is maintained. Membership in the trade union is compulsory. The trade union is also supposed to protect standards, prevent speed-up and prevent abuse. Ostensibly, the trade unions exist to protect the welfare of the workers as against management. The trade unions are supposed to see that management does not engage in abuses and that the rates are proper. While most trade union leaders are Party people, the trade unions have been criticized, since STALIN's abuses have been exposed, for not protecting the interests of the workers. Trade unions are expected to make suggestions as to how to better production.

In addition, the trade unions are responsible for social activities and institutions like rest homes, sanitariums, kindergartens, palaces of culture, etc. They also provide funds so that certain members can go to institutions like the rest homes and sanitariums. They also run hobby centers, theaters and so forth. While the Party has more power than the trade union, it does not engage in this type of activity. It merely sees that it is carried on. The Party is responsible for political understanding in general. Without political understanding they would not have any of these social institutions, according to the Party.

In conclusion, trade unions are supposed to alleviate grievances, ask about safety measures, etc. They also negotiate with management to set certain rates which are supposed to be fair, always keeping in mind the state--rates which are fair to the state. We would call trade unions social institutions more than anything else. Each factory has its own trade union. They have national trade union organizations which, among other things, send delegations to other countries.

E. GENERAL OBSERVATIONS IN REGARD TO KIEV

Kiev is one of the most beautiful of all cities. It is on the high bank of the Dnieper River. They showed us new bridges over this river. The style of architecture in Kiev is very classical. Kiev is almost completely new. It has very modern apartments which are superior to those in Moscow. We saw no statues of LENIN in Kiev.

We visited the Ukrainian Art Gallery while in Kiev. In Kiev we were supplied with copies of the "British Daily Worker" which can be bought at all public newsstands as can the "Moscow News", which is published in English twice weekly. Other than that we depended upon the Russian press. "Pravda" goes everywhere in Russia. The Ukrainians use their own language to place emphasis on so called national independence, but there is really no national independence.

IV. TEMPORARY RETURN TO MOSCOW FROM KIEV

We were going to Stalingrad from Kiev but we agreed to fly back to Moscow because there is better transportation from Moscow to Stalingrad than from Kiev to Stalingrad.

On the night before we left Kiev we attended a banquet with members of the Ukrainian Central Committee present. YURI IGOROV was present. We left for the airport after the banquet. A leading dignitary took us to the airport and hid us in a special room at the airport terminal. Our baggage was taken from us six hours in advance.

U.S.S.R.
We arrived in Moscow on June 14 or June 15, 1958. NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH MATKOVSKY and ALEXAI ANDREOVITCH GRENCHENCO were at the Moscow airport waiting for us. ALEXAI had returned U.S. to Russia from a trip to the United States. We spent the night in Moscow and left the next morning for Stalingrad by plane.

We always had the same seats on every plane, the first seats behind the cockpit. The take off was delayed. We found out afterward that a couple of military attaches from the American and British Embassies flew in a plane ahead of us and were to visit the Stalingrad battlefield. Since the Russians wanted to be sure that we did not meet them accidentally at Stalingrad our flight was delayed.

V. STALINGRAD

In Stalingrad we were met by two Party leaders. One was ~~NICOLAI~~ (last name unknown), who is in charge of agitation and propaganda. He is about 57 or 58 years of age and has flowing, white hair. He is a veteran of Stalingrad since he had been in Stalingrad when I was there in 1931. A Ziel (phonetic) automobile, which is bulletproof and looked like a big Packard, and a chauffeur were waiting for us.

B. APPSON 1900-1901

We ate in a private dining room on the second floor of the Stalingrad Hotel with NICOLAI (LNU), who is one of the Party Secretaries. We were assigned special waitresses.

In Stalingrad we stayed at a small palace which was luxuriously furnished. GAMAL NASSER of Egypt and the King of Nepal had stayed in this palace. It is surrounded by a high, brick wall. It has elaborate flower gardens, housekeepers and so forth. YURI IVANOV stayed in the palace with us. This palace is located on the outskirts of the city across the street from the outdoor stadium. I believe that it is in the western part of the city and is off the main street which leads from the Stalingrad Hotel.

A. SIGHT-SEEING IN STALINGRAD

In planning sight-seeing trips either in Stalingrad or any other city they would always find out if any foreigners were in the city and would map out the route accordingly. Incidentally, from time to time YURI IVANOV would talk to the headquarters of the CCCPSU and give them our itinerary. Also, as we were moving from city to city the Central Committee would call from Moscow in order to arrange for our transportation. It should be noted also that foreigners usually do not use railroads in the Soviet Union. While there were many curtain drawn cars in Moscow there were no more than two such cars in Stalingrad. We used such a car in Stalingrad.

NICOLAI (LNU) took us for a tour of Stalingrad. I did not recognize Stalingrad because it is completely new. However, I did recognize a few landmarks. Stalingrad runs along the bank of the Volga River. It stretches about 20 miles but it is probably no more than one mile in width. I recall the streetcar tracks which were there in 1931.

We visited the House of Architects which contains the plans for the rebuilding of the city.

We observed a row of tanks and asked NICOLAI (LNU) about them. He said that they mark the farthest point of penetration by the Germans. This is significant because the Russians held on at some points within 100 yards of the Volga.

The idea was to keep a beachhead for the reserve army so that the reserve army could cross the Volga and start an offensive.

They drove us to a famous hill. This hill was a most strategic spot because you can see the entire city from that hill. Below the hill is the Volga, steel mills and other metal factories.

We were shown a house which is being preserved as a memorial because a squad of Soviet soldiers, under Sergeant PAYLOV (phonetic), held on to this building, which was in a strategic spot, during the entire siege and prevented the Germans from getting through to the Volga.

While they have utilities they are still putting in gas mains, water mains, etc.

NICOLAI (LNU) described the battle for Stalingrad. He said that the heaviest fighting of the war was here where tens of thousands died within yards of each other and are buried in a common grave. Yet the Russians would not retreat. By holding on to this hill they were able to retain the commanding heights and also the beachhead. He described the difficulties involved in ferrying troops and supplies across the Volga. He said that the Red October factory held out but almost all the other factories caved in. The tractor factory was demolished. Nothing was left of this factory.

The next day we were taken to the headquarters of the Regional Committee. They gave us a private showing of the military film of the battle for Stalingrad. They had pictures of concentration camps the Germans had established not far from Stalingrad. We were told that they found thousands of Russians who had starved or who were tortured by the Germans. Finally, the film showed the surrender of the German General VON PAULIST (phonetic). It is noted that a photograph of NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV is in this film. The Party office is a new structure to the rear of the Hotel Stalingrad. It practically occupies an entire block.

A. THE DON-VOLGA CANAL

The next day NICOLAI (LNU) asked us if we wanted to see the Don-Volga Canal so we drove at least 20 miles and he took us to one of the locks where the Don and Volga Rivers meet. There is a large recreation area there. There is also a 15 story statue of STALIN on a base or pedestal which is another 5 stores high. The statue faces the triangle where the two rivers meet. YURI said, don't forget STALIN was a great man. NICOLAI (LNU) did not say anything.

There was a military guard at the locks. Ships were going through the canal. We went up into the tower. A young girl about 22 years of age was in charge. She had two male assistants from the technical school in Stalingrad. She was the chief engineer and gave orders to her assistants. She explained the operations of these locks, which are the closest to Stalingrad. Each lock has a name and number.

On the way back to Stalingrad the traffic was terrible, the pedestrians unruly and we saw accidents on this very warm evening. We finally returned to the city and to our elaborate dining room in the Stalingrad Hotel.

B. VISIT TO A HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER STATION AND THE CITY OF VOLZKS (PHONETIC)

The CCCPSU wanted us to visit Volzks, a city across the Volga River from Stalingrad. We also visited the hydro-electric power station which they are building on the Volga. We took a large ferry boat in order to visit this power station.

This electric power station is almost completed. It occupies miles of territory. They have an overhead trolley for the transportation of the material for the dam. They have cement and concrete factories right at the plant, which will produce over 2,000,000 kilowatts of electricity. We were told that 30,000 persons, mostly young people, are working on this plant. They told us that during their last election some Americans who were in Stalingrad to study election methods in the Soviet Union visited this plant. We were taken to a dugout where the turbines will be located in the dam. There is a meeting hall in this dugout with maps, slogans and so forth. We looked at the locks they are building in order to dam the Volga. The dam is just north of the city. When the dam is completed they will build a road across it. It is supposed to be bigger than Boulder Dam. Hundreds of bulldozers and all kinds of monstrous machinery, so much of it as to overwhelm one, were in operation.

Volzks is a city which was built across the river from Stalingrad and it has a population of about 40,000. It is east of the dam. It was built for the people working on the dam and the hydro-electric station. Of course, they intend to open up other plants and factories when the dam and the electric power station are completed.

Volzks is supposed to be a model city in regard to layout and everything else, however, at present it looks like a place on a desert. It was very hot when we were there and they did not let us drink water from the tap. We had to drink boiled water or mineral water.

Volzks is called a socialist city. Why I don't know except because of its newness. They began to build it in 1949. It is still in the process of construction. There are no individual homes, just large apartment buildings. The city contains a swimming pool, theaters, saloons, auditoriums and so forth. Volzks was supposed to be a show place for us. They pay a lot of attention to the collective. There is a theater in Volzks equivalent to Orchestra Hall in Chicago.

We saw a very significant incident on the way back from Stalingrad. We were waiting in line for the ferry to take us across the Volga and back to Stalingrad. There is a lot of traffic for the electric power station. We drove onto the ferry. They really crowd the cars and trucks onto this ferry. As we got on the ferry there were two more trucks in line. One truck was a military truck. A few dozen soldiers who probably perform guard duty at this site were on this military truck. The woman who runs the ferry refused to let the army truck onto the ferry. She said that the other truck, which was working on the construction job, had priority.

An argument ensued. A Lieutenant argued with the woman. Sergeants came over and argued. We watched and listened. People joined in and yelled at the Lieutenant, "You are beginning to use harsh language and we advise you to stop". The Lieutenant apologized although he was not using harsh language. The Captain did not engage in discussion with the woman operator of the ferry. The woman made the truck back off and the civilian truck, also driven by a woman, came onto the ferry. The soldiers stayed on the ferry but asked where they would meet the truck. They probably had to walk the 20 miles to Stalingrad. I had the impression that the military would get priority. The significant thing is that they are in a hurry as far as construction jobs are concerned.

C. VISIT TO A TRACTOR FACTORY

The next day we went to the tractor factory and were met by the Director, who vaguely remembered me. I do not remember him. We talked about mutual acquaintances I knew when I was in this factory in 1931 and edited a daily newspaper in English for Americans. Since the old factory was destroyed this is a completely new factory. The original factory was built by the International Harvester Corporation and is based on International Harvester patents. Hundreds of Americans were employed there for about three years after it was first built.

The plant has 15,000 employees. We were there on the 29th anniversary of the original plant. While they wanted me to participate in the ceremonies I could not for security reasons. I was given a medal to indicate that I was one of the veterans of the plant, but of course I could not bring this medal out of Russia.

Steel for the plant is supplied by a steel mill which is located a few miles away. Some casting is done in this plant but most of it is done in the big steel plant.

The Director took us through the plant. When I asked him how many tractors they produced a day he said they produced 150 heavy farm tractors per day. He said they cannot keep up with the orders but work on a round-the-clock basis. There is a loading platform and a sort of loading dock and the tractors are placed on flat cars at a railroad siding. The Director asked me to drive a tractor off the assembly line.

We saw the new housing for the workers. Everything was destroyed and rebuilt except for the apartment building where I had lived in 1931. We also went through the new palace of culture.

D. GENERAL OBSERVATIONS IN REGARD TO STALINGRAD

We visited other institutions in Stalingrad such as a trade union center where there was an exposition of Canadian art sent over by the Labor Progressive Party of Canada.

We also visited an industrial exhibit which illustrated the products of Stalingrad such as aluminum, aluminum parts of all sorts, machine parts, oil, oil drilling equipment and chemicals. There was also a special showing of the planetarium just for us and we were shown some exhibits concerning the Sputniks.

Since the death of STALIN they have changed the architectural form and are going to build most buildings in keeping with the pattern of the entire city. Some of the new buildings are already shoddy. The cement is cracking. Even the Stalingrad Hotel was deteriorating. Yet they are building like mad.

There is a lot of travel on the Volga in the summertime. They have built an embankment along this river. There is a port and docks for passenger ships. They have restaurants and other buildings along the river. The embankment will extend north and south. Then they will build steps one kilometer wide from the river to the strategic hill previously mentioned. These steps will replace the tanks which mark the deepest penetration of the German army. These steps will be part of a memorial to the battle for Stalingrad.

We met with more Party people and another Party Secretary. This was not the First Secretary since we were in Stalingrad when a Plenum was taking place and some of the leading Party members went to Moscow. We discussed policy and the future of Stalingrad. We always received the same old answers to the same questions. They are always unanimous. We always got the same answers to questions about the effect of decentralization, what has happened politically and how the Party functions. I asked how many Party members there are in Stalingrad and was told that there are 35,000 in the Party in the city.

There was nothing much to learn about the Party in Stalingrad except that they have a lot of young people involved in Party leadership. They have very few old-timers left. Except for NICOLAI (LNU), not one person could date back more than a half dozen years. Some may have retired from leadership because of old connections with the STALIN regime. People in strategic positions were removed. Most of the rank and file will go along with the leadership. When they sense fire coming, it does not take them long to jump on the bandwagon.

We saw very few statues of STALIN. Statues of others, such as MOLOTOV, who were at one time featured as working with LENIN, have disappeared. You will never find a photograph of TROTSKY. It is possible that they added the photograph of KHRUSHCHEV to the film on the battle for Stalingrad after the film was made.

Black bread made of rye is eaten in Russia. Since they do not raise rye around Stalingrad, we ate white or whole-wheat bread there. We left Stalingrad with the usual fanfare. They do not drink hard liquor in Stalingrad. Toasts were usually made with wine. NICOLAI (LNU) kissed me three times as is the Russian custom. He welcomed us back to Stalingrad.

VI. SOCHI

We went by non-stop flight from Stalingrad to Sochi. The usual front seats were reserved for us in the plane. Sochi is a resort on the Black Sea. It is almost a sub-tropical city. It looks more like Los Angeles than Miami. From Sochi you can see snow-capped mountains. Our purpose in going to Sochi was to rest for five or six days. They wanted us to stay there for a month.

We were assigned to a huge palace called Leninka. It is located about ten miles from the airport. It is a two-story affair with numerous bathrooms, studies, libraries, balconies and so forth. It is supposed to be attached to a sanitarium for members of the CCCPSU. The head of the personnel at the palace was a nurse. While it was on the grounds of the sanitarium for the CCCPSU it was separated from other buildings by hundreds of yards of fences. All gates in this fence were locked. No stranger could walk into the grounds. We could not leave the grounds by ourselves. I do not know its exact location but it is not too far from the sanitarium for scientists. There is a rocky beach and a private pier with a sundeck. This pier was guarded. Since it is on the Black Sea, there are anchorages and the number of the anchorage for the sanitarium for scientists is 80. The palace we stayed at is next door to this anchorage. There is a railroad track running along the coast and trains go by from all parts of the Soviet Union to Georgia, Azerbaijan, etc. We were the only persons in addition to YURI IVANOV and the nurses who used the private pier for the palace in which we were staying.

The sanitarium for members of the Central Committee is called Frunze. I do not know its exact location except that it is also on the Black Sea, in Sochi, and in a westerly direction from where we were. It had anchorage number 76. We never visited this sanitarium although they would have had to take us there if we became ill.

One of these palaces has a tunnel so that one does not have to walk across the railroad tracks on the way to and from the beach and the pier. There are iron gates at the entrance to the stairway which leads up from the tracks. There is a sign "Trespassing Forbidden Under Penalty". Across from us was a sanitarium for the black metal industry. "Pravda" also has a sanitarium there. It was to the left of the palace where we were staying.

We were scheduled to go to the Odessa Opera, but Canadians and Americans were around. Since there was no place for us to hide in the theater we did not go.

While in Sochi we received "Pravda" by Air Mail. There was a powerful short-wave radio at Leninka. By means of this radio I learned of the execution of IMRE NAGY. I could not get any American stations on the radio. I got stations from all over the world except the United States. I got two stations of the BBC. The Russians, unlike the Chinese, never went out of their way to supply us with additional information. They keep people shut off from news of the outside world.

VII. SOME GENERAL OBSERVATIONS ON THE U.S.S.R. AND THE CPSU

A. THE COLLECTIVE

Party membership in the Soviet Union is still a little under 7,000,000. The Party pays a lot of attention to collective things. The way an individual lives does not matter. Their theaters are elaborate affairs. Instructors teach people to knit, to sew, to play chess, to fish, to hunt, etc. They have established many indoor swimming pools.

All stadiums look like the old amphitheaters in Rome. They can seat 110,000 people in the stadium in Moscow. There are three separate stadia inside the stadium. The celebration of the 40th Anniversary of the U.S.S.R. was held in one of these stadia. Every town usually constructs some elaborate structure like this where people can go to forget their individual miseries and feel that they can visit a palace once in a while.

B. ACHIEVEMENTS, PRODUCTION, STANDARD OF LIVING

The remarkable thing in Russia is the rebuilding. They have rebuilt hundreds of cities and towns. They work like ants.

At every factory we visited in every city they would show us some new machinery. They would show us a machine and say, this came from Cincinnati originally, or this came from Cleveland or Detroit. They would then say, all right the United States put on a boycott. Yet here is this machinery. It is much better, an improvement over the original so if the United States thinks it is harming us it is crazy. The Russians said, as did the Chinese, that sometimes it is a blessing if they are compelled to produce their own products.

They would always make comparisons with machines which were first produced in the United States, Germany or England. I would listen to this and in my own mind I always discounted some of it. I am inclined to believe that they would be happy if they could buy some machines while producing their own. While they have machines, they want more in order to speed up production. They have made remarkable progress. However, there are extremes. They must produce some of the finest electronic equipment in order to launch the Sputniks. They have fine jet planes. They compare very favorably with ours. The Russians should never be underestimated.

We went to an industrial exhibit in Moscow the day before we left for the United States. In this exhibit they have all kinds of automatic machinery, the latest model cars and so forth. One of their latest model automobiles looks like a Cadillac. It is called "Chika" (phonetic--means Sea Gull). All kinds of machinery, mining equipment, tractors and other industrial equipment were on exhibit here. A lot of things I saw compared favorably with things I saw in any part of Europe.

In regard to the extremes, they will build a palace. They will put into the palace many things that we would never dream of. Every factory had a workers palace and theaters with fireproof curtains. They have many hobby rooms with instructors. They devote a lot of energy and money to little things that we don't think about.

Yet, as you walk into a bathroom you will find no improvement there. It is probably a half a century behind ours. An old Russian idea is that the bathroom does not need light. In the apartment we stayed at in Moscow each bedroom was wonderful but the bathrooms had no windows, no light and very poor plumbing. They have not yet overcome their traditions in this regard.

Another example is the palace where we stayed in Leningrad. It was a beautiful palace with silk drapes, inlaid floors and French windows. It is actually a palace. The finest woods are used in furnishings and so forth, but they lacked the finishing touches. Another example was the private pier at Sochi which was made out of welded steel and aluminum but somebody had just slopped the paint on it.

They put up apartment houses in a hurry. They use more machinery than we do. Wherever you go you can see cranes putting up buildings. Some cities are a forest of cranes. They used most modern equipment. But almost before a building is finished it will look old because they do not take care of the finishing touches. Sometimes they do not have the skilled labor.

One can see these contrasts in many lines. Yet when it comes to something necessary for industry or for military purposes, this is where they watch quality. Their automobiles are of a fine quality. They will also put on an opera or a ballet which cannot be beaten in regard to the energy, money, effort, scenery and effects which they put into this artistry.

The Russians should not be underestimated in regard to production in both old and new factories. We watched assembly lines. They work. I was surprised because I was used to seeing older people in factories in Russia. Now they are mostly young people trained in new methods and new techniques. They have lost the old Russian habit of taking it easy and stalling. They reward the workers for their efforts, really reward those who produce the most with vacations, automobiles and so forth.

Each factory has in the courtyard big boards containing photographs of the heroes of production. Any young person with ambition who is not lazy and if he is endowed with some ability can go as high as he wants to provided he does not mix in politics. This is the big drawback because the Party controls everything. If he is a Party member and can choose the correct side, then he can really go places.

I watched some of the youngsters spend money for luxuries. The average worker in the United States is better dressed and lives better. They consider it paradise when they get a two and one half room apartment. They are doing away with communal kitchens and are featuring so called modern kitchens. Refrigerators, televisions, radios and so forth are no longer rarities. They are conducting a campaign about the quality of furniture.

You can get most anything as far as staples are concerned. If there are shortages we did not notice any. The fact that they have no rationing is proof of this. The big problem for Russians used to be bread. Russians eat a lot of bread. They consume a lot of cereal. The Russians eat a lot, by our standards. They pay little attention to diets. They eat a lot of meat, butter, milk, etc. Russia was the only country in Europe where I saw them place so much bread on the table that it was wasted. In Switzerland, France and England they measured every little roll, even in the fanciest restaurants. You cannot get cream in England. You can get all the cream you want in Russia.

The point is that compared to their old standards they have food and they consume more than most Europeans. It is recognized that the low paid unskilled worker cannot always get these things. Yet rent is no problem. Rent is only a fraction of their salary or a maximum of 5%, including utilities. They have no medical bills. Each institution has its own clinic, hospital or dispensary. There are no doctor bills. Drugs are sold for practically the cost of the container.

ALEXAI GRECHENCO said that the people in Russia could have more clothes, more autos and so forth but Russia is putting the money into machinery and supplies other countries with machinery. He said the people will get more automobiles eventually. Presently, they are building trucks for use in industry.

The standard of living in Russia is now higher than it ever was. It is really high for the section of the population including technicians, architects, skilled workers, writers and the industrious collective farmer.

During STALIN's period the Russians were always suspicious of foreigners. Now they say very openly that if they can learn something from a foreigner they are going to learn. They feel that STALIN's isolation of Russia held them back. KHRUSHCHEV, at the Eastern Germany Communist Party Congress, made an appeal for technicians from the West, particularly Germany. He told the East Germans that Russia would pay them the highest wages if they would come to Russia. He promised not to ask them their political attitudes. He also told the East German Communist Party not to bother scientists and engineers about their political views since they are still making up their minds.

So the Russians are ready to hire foreigners, employ them, learn from them or copy their methods. They are in a hurry to develop. The Russians imitate everything the United States produces, including automobiles. Their standards are better than some Western European countries when it comes to food, clothing, footwear, and so forth. Many little things they try to produce and imitate are not so good. An example is ballpoint pens.

Another thing I noticed, they have a labor shortage but they use their army. Wherever I travelled I saw sections of the army building railroads. They use the army personnel as real laborers. I also saw army personnel fixing telephone lines. The Russians utilize the millions they have in uniform to perform some form of labor. I don't know about their forced labor camps. The Chinese admitted that they still have them. The Russians do not talk about such things.

C. ATTITUDE AND MANNERS OF THE PEOPLE

I got the feeling that the people in Russia are worried about international tensions. They would like peace more than anything else. You hardly run into a family that did not suffer some casualties in World War II. We listened to many stories about the war. On the other hand, the Russians spoiled as yet. When I say that they are not spoiled I mean that if they had to go through some ordeal they might be able to withstand it better than our youth could. They have not been pampered yet. They have not been spoiled by luxuries as yet even though they are started in this direction. They have not yet achieved the goal of providing a standard of living which would be similar to that of the average American family. It is still much more primitive than that.

^{USSR}
ALEXAI GRENCHENCO is probably being groomed for leadership. He is very outspoken. He brought his wife to the the with us on three occasions. We did not see the wives of most of the Party people with whom we had contact. There is usually no social contacts with the families. The various official ceremonies and banquets which were announced in the Soviet press while I was in Russia would list the dignitaries and the visitors. Never was the wife of a leader of the CPSU announced as being in attendance. The wives do not attend formal ceremonies. My wife was not invited to political discussions. Except for political discussions in a factory, the only time she was present during a political discussion was at the meeting with the Party Secretary in Leningrad.

The Russians practice manners to a point where one is embarrassed. Etiquette is very important to them. For example, the way they set the table, the way they serve you, the way they walk, the way they talk, etc. When they say good-bye to a woman they kiss her hand. This was not done in Russia until recently. As far as politics are concerned, it should be noted that there is only one woman in the CCCPSU.

D. SECURITY MEASURES TAKEN IN OUR BEHALF

In addition to the routine at the apartment in Moscow, the Russians always provided security measures for us. We always sat in some private room at air terminals. They would not let us on a plane if there were any Westerners on it. They would reserve seats for us on every plane. Practically everything we did we went through a security routine except for a few movies which we attended in the outlying districts of Moscow where only Russians go.

The various Party organizations have housing set aside for Communists who require security precautions or for dignitaries who want privacy. Except in Leningrad, there are special apartments and we would stay in these apartments. If it was not possible to arrange eating within the premises they would arrange for us to eat under secure conditions in some dining room, private or public, that is used only by the leadership of the Party.

In Leningrad we stayed in a place which is used only by members of the leadership of the Party in that district. We ate in Smolny, the headquarters of the entire Leningrad Party organization. Within Smolny they had a private dining room for the leadership. This entire room was kept open for us even during office hours and on Saturday and Sunday. They would just cook for us and those accompanying us. Other housing where we stayed under security conditions has been previously described.

E. OBSERVATIONS IN REGARD TO AIRCRAFT

The Russians have many commercial jet airplanes. For example, there were never less than a dozen jets around the Moscow airport when we were there. On the trip from Moscow to Peking our jet airliner stopped at Omsk in Siberia. Fourteen jet airliners and 67 migs were observed at Omsk. At Irkutsk I saw 11 jet airliners. There were 4 Russian jet airliners in Peking. Jet airliners were also observed at Kiev. At Kiev and at other airports military aircraft surrounded the field.

The point is that they have scores of jet airlines standing around when you make a cross country trip and they use them. I saw as many as three or four taking off in all directions while we were refueling. They have a crew of six on these jet airliners, not counting the hostess who actually prepares the food on the planes. Most signs on all planes are in both Russian and English. The Czechs are also using jet airliners between Moscow and Prague.

When we went through the mining and industrial areas in the Ukraine we visited the recently established city of Stalino. It was surrounded by migs and missile installations. Near the large factories in the outlying areas there are plenty of migs lined up in adjacent fields. I do not know whether or not these are late models but many of them took off from dirt or clay runways.

MEETINGS WITH B. N. PONOMAREV IN REGARD TO FUNDS FOR THE CPUSA

As indicated previously, a general discussion of the need for funds for the CPUSA was a part of the formal meeting with leading members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

Before I left Moscow for a tour of Russia, I met with B. N. PONOMAREV, head of the International Department of the CCCPSU, twice and we discussed finances in great detail. It was at the first meeting that I requested $217,000.00 for the CPUSA. At the second meeting with only NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH, head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, present, PONOMAREV said that he would make the total a sum of $200,000.00 for the CPUSA for the period from the present until the end of 1958 at which time it could be discussed again.

PONOMAREV asked me how the CPUSA would handle this money on the books of the Party. He also asked for suggestions about getting the money to the United States. He said that he would not send it through the Soviet Embassy or diplomatic personnel. Parenthetically speaking, this was for the record. He asked me if I knew how the money from Russia had come into the United States. He asked me if I knew who used to receive it. I told him that I knew of only one person--ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG. He replied, you are right, TRACHTENBERG is the only one. He said that thus far they have only sent money through TRACHTENBERG.

I told PONOMAREV that TRACHTENBERG is becoming an old man. PONOMAREV said that he realized this and he mentioned WILLIAM WEINER and said that he did not know what WEINER did with some of the money he received in Russia. PONOMAREV stated that he knows that some things went wrong when WEINER died.

I was hard put to make any suggestions in regard to the transmittal of funds which would at the same time guarantee that we would have control of the flow of these funds. At this time, however, I told him that while we were talking our people in the CPUSA were starving. I asked him for an emergency sum. This is when he told me that they had sent $10,000.00 to TRACHTENBERG after I had been in Moscow only one week. This was the result of preliminary discussions in my apartment about the dire financial situation in the CPUSA.

The reception of this $10,000.00 by the CPUSA was verified during the week of July 20, 1958, by both ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and EUGENE DENNIS.

I told PONOMAREV that TIM BUCK, head of the Labor Progressive Party, the Communist Party of Canada, told me that he would handle part of this money. I did this because I felt that we would know what money comes through TIM BUCK while we might not know about money coming through TRACHTENBERG. PONOMAREV said, all right we will send at least part of it through TIM BUCK, since Canada is the best means of sending confidential communications from the CPSU to the CPUSA.

The Russians also wanted some new names of persons who can be trusted, people who could receive money legitimately in some way or another. I told them that I would talk this over with the leadership of the CPUSA but that I am sure that I would be wasting my time. It should be noted that I am also certain that DENNIS has no answer for this problem.

I also told PONOMAREV a little about the reserve fund of the CPUSA and said that this money from Russia would be kept in the reserve fund or would be attributed to the fund drive of the CPUSA.

I learned that one must be careful that business matters are not mixed with politics. The Russians have more respect for you if you are a political person. They are afraid that someone may get a position in the Party and utilize this position to reach business agreements or to make money. They have no respect for such people. They would rather discuss general politics and problems of leadership. You cannot go into details in regard to finances. They did not want to go into an accounting in regard to my fare for the trip to and from Russia. They told me to straighten it out with the CPUSA. DENNIS has told ISADORE WOPSY to write off or to replace the $1500.00 which had been given to me as a loan from the reserve fund of the CPUSA.

DISCUSSIONS WITH EUGENE DENNIS AND ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG
IN NEW YORK CITY DURING THE WEEK OF 7/20/58 CONCERNING FUNDS FROM THE CPSU

EUGENE DENNIS told me on July 23, 1958, that $1500.00 of the $10,000.00 which came from Russia through TRACHTENBERG was given to JOHN ABT as legal fees. ABT wouldn't take it apparently because he had some idea that it was "tainted." For this reason the scheduled trip of ABT and his wife, JESSICA SMITH, to Moscow was postponed for financial reasons. DENNIS also stated that $5000.00 of this sum went to "The Worker" and $2000.00 of this sum went for back pay. In other words, they got rid of the first $10,000.00 in no time. U.S.

~~SECRET~~

It will be recalled that we know that $10,000.00 was given to TIM BUCK and that $4000.00 of this sum was delivered in New York City by ELIZABETH MASCOLO. She is afraid to carry more than that amount at any one time since $10,000.00 in cash requires a lot of explaining in the event that she is questioned by the police or some federal agency.

According to both EUGENE DENNIS and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, a large amount of money, including one sum of $6000.00, has already gone into Canada from Russia, and by August 1, 1958, there was supposed to be tens of thousands of dollars in Canada from Russia for the CPUSA.

The original agreement with TIM BUCK was that one-fourth of any money from the CPSU to the CPUSA could come through him. DENNIS and TRACHTENBERG want me to try to arrange for most of the money to come through Canada. Not only TRACHTENBERG and DENNIS but perhaps even the Russians would like to see more of the money come to the United States through Canada. (S)
(U)

I have to organize the transmittal of the funds from Canada to New York. TIM BUCK may object to such large sums coming through him and DENNIS and TRACHTENBERG do not want ELIZABETH MASCOLO to come directly to New York City with the money. It will be necessary for the CPUSA to pay for the transportation of TIM BUCK from Toronto to Ottawa and for the transportation of the person handling the money from Canada to the United States.

When I told DENNIS that he should have control of these funds, he appointed me as his deputy and has given TRACHTENBERG instructions that he is to inform me every time any money comes into this country from Russia and I am supposed to keep the record. Also, I have to assume the responsibility for getting this money exchanged. Thus, DENNIS has issued the order that the money, all of it, is to pass through me.

I am to inform TRACHTENBERG when any money is to arrive in New York City from Canada so that someone will be available to start exchanging it. According to my brother in

~~SECRET~~

New York, TRACHTENBERG wears gloves when handling and counting the money. He wipes every bill to remove any fingerprints. The order is that the money is to be exchanged. While they have been doing that, they are having a hard time. They exchange it in banks and by money orders but it is a long process.

CPUSA RESERVE FUND

ISADORE WOFSY asked me during the week of July 20, 1958, when I was going to go over his books so that he could be relieved. He said that he has diabetes and ulcers. He also stated that he wants money to go into business. Thus, I planned to go to Detroit on my way back from Canada in order to see HELEN WINTER so that we can go over WOFSY's books in order to relieve him of his responsibilities in regard to the reserve fund. D.H.

No one is presently slated to take WOFSY's place. My brother and I talked about the reserve fund. We believe that LEM HARRIS would be the best person to handle the reserve fund for our purposes. He tells us everything. It is best that it be some person with whom we have contact. This is an off-hand recommendation but I think that DENNIS will agree. My brother couldn't take this job because they are holding him for other tasks. (u) (S)

I do not know whether the CPUSA will have any answers for PONOMAREV in regard to the transmittal of funds through persons other than TRACHTENBERG. If DENNIS doesn't tell BOB THOMPSON about the money being received from Russia it will be pretty rough trying to make suggestions in this regard. If DENNIS tells THOMPSON we might be able to solve this problem more easily. V.S.

During the week of July 20, 1958, TRACHTENBERG told me that a few hundred dollars has come in from Russia for GIL GREEN's book, "The Enemy Forgotten." He said that he had heard that LIL GREEN is not sympathetic to the Party. I told him that I did not know but that I would check on it. I told him that I knew that LIL GREEN was planning to send [redacted] to New York City in order that she might go to school there and that LIL was expecting some support from the Party. (S)

When I check this story about LIL GREEN, she will probably be given either Party funds or the money received as royalties for GIL GREEN's book provided that the story about her is not as bad as they say it is.

Reference is made to previous communications concerning vacation of captioned individual in Maine and his request that he be joined there by CG 5824-S* for further discussions relating to the Solo operation. $ (U)

By letter dated 8-29-58 captioned "Solo, IS-C," the Chicago Office has furnished information pertaining to discussions between Dennis and CG 5824-S* in Maine during the period 8-16 through 18-58. CG 5824-S* advised that he and his brother, NY 694-S*, met Dennis in Stonington, Maine, on the morning of 8-15-58. Dennis stated that he was going to Bar Harbor and suggested that the informants follow him to a picnic grove where plans could be mapped out for the next few days. Informants followed him to a small state park where they talked mostly about inconsequential matters. $ (U)

Upon completion of this talk, Dennis and his wife got into their automobile and at this point an incident occurred which aroused Dennis' suspicions. The following two paragraphs as taken from the informant's report set forth the details of this incident: $ (U)

"Dennis was driving a rented Chevrolet, with a New York license. They got into this car and as Dennis left the picnic area, going North I believe, another car dashed into the picnic grounds. The driver was a young man, about 27 or 28 years of age. He glanced at me and my brother and then dashed out and went in the same direction as Dennis. Later, we learned that Dennis noticed this. Since Dennis is a very careful person, it worried him and he refused to engage in discussions on Saturday night. I am not saying that this incident had anything to do with us or with Dennis or with anything else. Perhaps it was pure coincidence that this car dashed in, turned around and followed Dennis. $ (U)

"We drove to Ellsworth and obtained reservations by telephone at Hinckley's Motel (phonetic), which is just North of Bar Harbor. After checking in at the motel, we drove to the Ocean Drive Motel, where Dennis said he would be staying. It is at the other side of Bar Harbor and about seven miles from where we were staying. Because of the incident at Stonington, Dennis suggested that perhaps we should just have a social evening, going out to dinner, etc., and not engage in any discussions that night. By our gestures and discussion, we minimized the incident at Stonington, but agreed to Dennis' suggestion." $101

I. OBTAINING FLOATING VISAS
IN BRUSSELS AND PRAGUE

We left New York City on April 24, 1958, and went to Paris, France. From Paris we proceeded to Brussels and went to the Czechoslovakian Embassy, which is next door to the American Embassy. We talked with a translator and told him that two floating visas were supposed to be ready for us. After a search he stated that there were no visas for us. When we insisted that there had to be, he telephoned Prague and was told that no visas had been made for the names we were using. After much insistence that these visas had to be there and after an hour and a half of anxiety, the visas were located with the last name spelled KAMP instead of CAMP. Once the visas had been located the entire atmosphere changed.

We obtained tickets for Prague, Czechoslovakia, on the Sabina Airlines and proceeded to that city. We located the ground hostess and told her that we were guests of the CCCPSU and asked if she would arrange transportation to Moscow for us. The telegram from Brussels to Prague reflecting that we were on our way arrived in Prague after we did so the representative of the Soviet Government was not there to meet us. In a few moments he arrived. He was meeting a British Trade Union delegation which was going to Russia for May Day.

The representative of the U.S.S.R. took us to a room for privacy and contacted Moscow by telephone. After about one and a half hours two men came running into the room and made out the floating visas for Russia. The one who made out the visas arrived in such a hurry that he forgot his credentials of credit and money but was able to get plane tickets for us. A little difficulty was encountered with a Czechoslovakian official since the Czechoslovakian visa provided for a two week stay. However, it was explained to him that this was merely a transit visa. We were in Prague only about two hours and proceeded by jet airliner from Prague to Moscow.

II. RECEPTION IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA

We arrived in Moscow, Russia, on the evening of April 29, 1958. A security officer boarded the plane and took our passports. We were the last persons to leave the plane. Since we did not see anyone who appeared to be looking for us we proceeded to the airport terminal and sat down to decide what to do next. In a moment a man about 40 to 42 years of age, about 5' 10" in height and wearing glasses came over and said hello to us. This man is NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH (spelling phonetic and DIMITROVITCH may be either the middle or the last name). DIMITROVITCH has just become the head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU. He succeeded one KORIANOV (phonetic) who is now in charge of a ten man delegation from Russia to the new international Communist magazine "For Peace and Democracy" being published in Prague. The first issue is due on or about September 1, 1958. DIMITROVITCH works under B. N. PONOMAREV, who is the head of the International Department of the CCCPSU and a member of the CCCPSU.

100-428091-73

DIMITROVITCH stated that a cablegram announcing our arrival had just been received. He asked for the baggage checks and gave them to the chauffeur who was with him. The baggage was placed into the auto without inspection. This auto had curtains on the back windows and is an auto of the CCCPSU. It had a dark license plate and the number is MU 22-98. We were subsequently to use this same automobile 90% of the time we were in Moscow. A cardboard duplicate of this number was sometimes placed in the windshield to further identify it as an automobile of the CCCPSU. This was a Russian made, seven passenger automobile.

III. LOCATION AND DESCRIPTION OF APARTMENT

We were driven to a nine story apartment building where we were to live all the time we were in Moscow. It is believed that this apartment building is utilized for persons whose identity must be protected or who must live in Moscow under security conditions. While the address of this apartment building is Number 8 Gorki Street, it faces Sovietskaya (phonetic) Square. It is near the Moscow Soviet which is a red building. It is also near the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute. It is also near a large statue of YURI "The Long Handed", the founder of Moscow.

The apartment building is divided by an archway. It has only a rear entrance. There are two elevators, a passenger elevator and a freight elevator. These elevators are guarded by women who sit in an enclosed glass structure.

It is impossible to use either elevator without a key. The guards, who are always on duty, maintain the keys for the elevators.

We were taken to apartment number 16 on the sixth floor. It is a seven room apartment with three bedrooms, a study, a dining room, a kitchen and bath. The apartment is most elegantly furnished and contains everything a guest might need, including shaving equipment, tooth brush, pajamas, etc. The doors are padded and the walls are soundproof. The housekeeper for the apartment lives in the apartment all the time. She does the cleaning, takes care of the laundry, makes the beds, etc. A cook arrives each morning to prepare the meals.

The apartment is well stocked with staple foods, wine, vodka, brandy, mineral water, oranges and other fruit. There is a television set in the apartment. The study has a short and long wave radio and a record player.

NICOLAI came into the apartment with us and said that this is an apartment of the Central Committee and that this is where we would live. He had supper with us. The meal was practically a banquet, but was only the beginning of several such meals. The cook, who is about 30 years of age, had attended school to learn how to prepare various foreign dishes.

NICOLAI did not give us any Russian money. He said that we should ask for anything we wanted and it would be provided. He said that there was no need for money since we should not be seen on the streets, and the fact that we would have no money would help us to maintain our security. After eating with us, NICOLAI left the apartment.

The study was well stocked with books and current publications in the English, French, German, Spanish and Italian languages. At my request, the "New York Times" or the European edition of either the "New York Times" or the "New York Herald Tribune" were brought to me from time to time. We also received "Pravda" several days a week and the "Moscow News", which is in English and is published on Wednesdays and Saturdays. We were also furnished with "News Week" from time to time. It was impossible, however, to obtain any American or British broadcasts on the short wave radio, even though the radio appeared powerful enough to bring in such broadcasts. It is possible that the antenna was so adjusted so as to prevent the picking up of these broadcasts.

Upon our return from China in July, the housekeeper told us that four persons from Western Germany had occupied the apartment while we were on the trip to China. On the last day before we left Russia to return to the United States we accidentally observed that the housekeeper had a photograph of JOSEPH STALIN in her room.

IV. FIRST DAY IN MOSCOW, APRIL 30, 1958

The usual routine was breakfast at 9:00 AM, dinner at 2:00 PM and supper at 9:00 PM or later. B. APPROX. 1918-1923

On April 30, 1958, ALEXAI ANDREOVICH GRECHENCO (all spellings phonetic and the last name is the Russian word for buckwheat) appeared at the apartment after breakfast. He is about 35 to 40 years of age and is very similar in appearance to JOHN WILLIAMSON. He works in the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU under NICOLAI. Subsequently he met with us for the next three or four days. At the end of this time he left Moscow for the United States as part of the Russian "Student Editors Delegation". He returned to Moscow in June and was with us from time to time after that. U.S.

ALEXAI asked us what we would enjoy in the way of entertainment and we asked if it would be possible to get tickets for the May Day celebration.

On the same morning NICOLAI also appeared at the apartment. Both stated that they were happy to see us and that the leadership of the CCCPSU thanks the CP, USA, for finally finding ways of making direct contact.

I asked if they had received any of the material pertaining to the CP, USA, which I had sent through Progress Books in Toronto, Canada. They stated that a few items had been received, such as the resolutions on JOHN GATES, the main resolution from the February meeting of the National Committee, and a letter on the peace movement signed by ARNOLD JOHNSON. I told them that I had not carried anything published by the CP, USA, with me but did carry some clippings and material from the United States dealing with the political, economic and international situations.

They stated that sometimes material such as I had sent is transmitted through the diplomatic pouch. At other times it is sent by boat and in any event it might be two months in transit. I asked if it might have been directed to the wrong office and they assured me that anything for the Central Committee is never misdirected.

On the evening of April 30, 1958, we were officially welcomed to the Soviet Union at a semi-formal dinner in our apartment. In addition to NICOLAI and ALEXAI, V. P. TERESHKIN was present. He is the chief deputy to B. N. PONOMAREV. He is about 50 years of age, 5' 8" in height and has a heavy build. His main hobby is fishing. He was well dressed. He is very jolly. While he does not understand English, both NICOLAI and ALEXAI understand English and speak it fairly well. 11.5.1

All three stressed the importance of the Communist Party of the United States. They stated that the Soviet Party is glad that the American CP was able to defeat the revisionists. In fact, this is the best news they have had in a long time. In a general discussion they stated that they do not underestimate the American industrial capacity. All present drank toasts to proletarian internationalism, the health of the leadership of the CPSU and the leadership of the CP, USA. TERESHKIN made a toast to the day when the United States will arrive at Communism at the same time that Russia does. In explaining this last toast, TERESHKIN stated that because of the industrial development in the United States, once the Communists get rid of the bourgeoisie, then United States Communism can catch up with Russia, which is now in the first stages of Communism. It is noted that this was a paraphrasing of statements by NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV that the grandchildren of adults in the United States will see Communism in the United States.

It was observed during this first semi-formal gathering that the Russians are very rigid on protocol, operating like a military echelon. During the discussions the persons with lower ranks will remain silent unless asked to speak.

V. MAY DAY IN MOSCOW

On the morning of May 1, 1958, ALEXAI appeared at the apartment with SEMA KUZNETSOV (means SMITH). She is single, about 38 years of age, speaks English and works with NICOLAI and ALEXAI in the International Department of the CCCPSU. She was subsequently a frequent visitor in our apartment.

11.5.1

ALEXAI stated that the Central Committee had honored our request for tickets to the May Day parade. He handed us tickets number 306 and 307. We asked for directions to the Red Square and were told that we would have to pass through three or four guards before getting to our seats and that there was a chance that persons from the various diplomatic corps might see us. There was no way possible to get us into the Red Square secretly. After learning this we said that it was our decision not to attend the parade because of the need for security. They stated that they were happy with this most correct decision and that actually we could see the parade better on television. It is believed that this convinced them that we were in Moscow for serious business and not for a pleasure trip.

In addition to watching the parade on television, we could see part of it from our windows. In the late afternoon SEMA and ALEXAI went with us to mingle in the crowd and to show us the shops and markets. The main slogans carried on banners in the parade and banners decorating the city dealt with peace and peace for the world. One slogan urged the carrying out of decisions of the CCCPSU to surpass the United States in production. Another slogan was "Long Live the Glorious Party of the Soviet Union". Another slogan was "Long Live the Party Which is Leading Us to Communism, the Dawn of Humanity". All slogans dealt with the supporting of the leadership and the issue of peace. There were none of the usual "Down with Imperialism" slogans.

I was convinced from the first days in Moscow, and particularly after viewing the May Day parade, that the Russians have destroyed the cult of the individual. There were no photographs of STALIN in the parade but there were photographs of LENIN or LENIN and MARX together. There was no single photograph of NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV. When his photograph appeared it was with other members of the Presidium and such photographs were few in number. The members of the Presidium are listed alphabetically. I did not observe a photograph or a statue of STALIN in Moscow. I did see one mural of STALIN in a subway. Thus, up to a point, the Russians have destroyed the significance of STALIN. They have almost eradicated his name.

The military was not emphasized in the parade, although there were some missiles and motorized equipment. There were no aircraft in the parade. The emphasis was on peaceful pursuits and peaceful coexistence. In a speech MALINOVSKY stated that Russia is preparing for peace but is also prepared to meet any aggressors. The guest of the day was NASSER of Egypt.

On the evening of May 1, 1958, we were taken for a drive through the city. There were fireworks and dancing in the street. Many lights decorated the city similar to the lighting in the United States during the Christmas season.

VI. MAY 2, 1958

Since May 2 is also a holiday in Moscow, NICOLAI, ALEXAI and SEMA appeared at the apartment and said that we should take it easy on that day. They remained for supper.

ALEXAI suggested that I probably had a number of questions to raise with the Central Committee of the CPSU. He said that these questions should be framed as one CP dealing with another CP. Thus, I should formulate in writing those questions the American CP wants to raise with the Secretariat or Presidium or Central Committee of the CPSU. They also asked, "Would each of you please give us a biography?"

That evening they arrived to take us to the ballet.

VII. ACTIVITY PRIOR TO THE FORMAL MEETINGS WITH THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CCCPSU

YURI SERGEVICH IVANOV
Several days were spent in preparing biographies, voluminous material on the CP, USA, and current economic conditions in the United States and the questions to be presented to the CPSU on behalf of the CP, USA. During these days discussions continued in the apartment with NICOLAI, SEMA and YURI SERGEVICH IVANOV (phonetic), who replaced ALEXAI when the latter went to the United States. During this time I was also supplied with translations from the Government Information Service and translations of interesting articles in the Russian newspapers and magazines. The "London Daily Worker", which can be purchased in Moscow and throughout Russia, was also furnished to me. Occasionally,

I was furnished a copy of "The Worker". I was told that only one copy of "The Worker" is sent Air Mail and it arrives about four or five days after it is mailed.

A. YURI SERGEOVITCH IVANOV

YURI SERGEOVITCH IVANOV is a translator in the International Department of the CCCPSU and it is believed that he also serves as a security officer. He speaks English with a British accent and at first was very formal. He carries the credentials of the CCCPSU, which open all doors at all times. He said that his mother is not a member of the CPSU. His father was a high ranking military officer who was killed during World War II. He is married and has a daughter four years of age. He accompanied us on our tour of Russia.

YURI's mother developed methods for the teaching of deaf and dumb children and later became an inspector of schools for the Russian diplomatic personnel. He lived with her in New Zealand where he learned English. Later, they were in China and passed through the United States from San Francisco to New York City after World War II. He has also been in England. He and his wife are both graduates of the Academy of Languages, the leading language school in Russia.

YURI is trained to perfection in speech, dress, manners, etc. He was a "boy genius" and is well educated. He can recite poetry at length and knows most of the songs from "My Fair Lady". Except for the fields of art and music he does not tolerate any criticism of Russian achievements. He is not as developed politically as are NICOLAI and ALEXAI. Both the wife of ALEXAI and the wife of NICOLAI are studying English, which is the number one language in Russia, next to Russian.

B. BIOGRAPHIES AND VERIFICATION OF IDENTITIES THROUGH ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG

Both my wife and I prepared biographies. Hers was much briefer than mine. She used as a maiden name "SCHLEIS" and did not list her brother [] who is with U. S. Army Intelligence in Germany. With regard to her other brothers, she did not say that any of them are in the CP. She listed her employment as a comptometer operator to indicate that she is a member of the working class. She indicated that she has been a member of the CP, USA, since 1931.

With regard to my biography, in the retyping any reference to my son was inadvertently omitted by my wife. They assumed that I was a member of the National Committee of the CP, USA. I indicated in my biography that I am the International Secretary, that I am on the Foreign Affairs Committee, that I am on the National Appeals Commission, and that I am on the Auditing Committee of the CP, USA. While they accepted my biography and carried on discussions with me, to make sure that they did not make a mistake in identity or to be certain that someone had not killed me and assumed my identity, they contacted ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG through one of their chief agents in New York in order to verify that I was who I said I was. Therefore, TRACHTENBERG knew that I was in Russia only a couple of weeks after my arrival there.

TRACHTENBERG asked my brother in New York where I was and he was correctly told that I was in Canada. Upon receiving this inquiry concerning me, TRACHTENBERG also went to see EUGENE DENNIS and DENNIS confirmed the fact that I was in Moscow.

TRACHTENBERG told me and my brother in New York City on Friday, July 25, 1958, that "One of the big, important guys checked to verify that it was you who was in Russia." I learned in Moscow that the Russians deal through TRACHTENBERG in regard to finances for the CP, USA.

It is my opinion that the person representing the CPSU who is in contact with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG is most likely someone in the Russian delegation to the United Nations. TRACHTENBERG said that he is a most important person with an important position. He has a very responsible position, whatever he is doing. TRACHTENBERG said that he has been in touch with the Russians in one form or another for about 38 years. He stated that he sees Russians from time to time and that one of the guys he is in touch with knows all about the CP, USA, including the identities of every Section Organizer.

I told TRACHTENBERG that the Russians may have a pretty good knowledge of the American CP, but that they do not know every Section Organizer. TRACHTENBERG gives the Russians information almost immediately after every important meeting of the CP, USA. The Russians want this information from many sources. I am sure that they will probably continue to use TRACHTENBERG but they are worried because he is getting old and he may become ill. He may have cancer of the throat at the present time.

C. DISCUSSIONS CONCERNING MARSHAL TITO AND YUGOSLAVIA

Every day I was in Russia someone from the International Department of the CCCPSU was in touch with me. Sometimes it would be one person, often it would be two or three persons. They would not only see that I received all the newspapers printed in Russian and whatever was published in English, but they would hold discussions with me. They would talk chiefly about political problems. If some important political article would appear in a magazine only in Russian they would send YURI SERGEOVITCH IVANOV to sit with me for hours at a time just translating this material for me.

The most important political problem was the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists. They were very much concerned over whether or not I understood what was happening in Yugoslavia. They wanted to know how or what they could send to the United States, without violating any security, in the way of material that would help the American CP to understand the struggle with TITO and the Yugoslavs. NICOLAI, ALEXAI and SEMA KUZNETSOV engaged in sessions with me in my apartment concerning this.

Much emphasis was placed on Yugoslavia at the beginning of these discussions. They showed me the most confidential documents which are circulating within the CPSU on this particular question. They would read them to me but they would take these documents with them. The Russians are really convinced that TITO is an enemy and that he has some understanding with Secretary of State JOHN FOSTER DULLES and that he also has some understanding with the Social Democratic Parties in England, Norway, Denmark, Italy and France. Especially with France since he has been fighting with the French Communist Party also. They made allusions that TITO may have been a traitor all the time.

The Russians gave considerable time to the "war" with TITO. Next to their fight against imperialism and the so called struggle for peace, this is the most important question for them. This is why there has been a renewal of the fight against revisionism. If TITO would have gone along with them, they probably would have dropped the fight against revisionism. They want to hold on to the other Communist Parties by showing that TITO has violated everything that is holy and significant in Marxism-Leninism. They say that TITO's betrayal goes back a long way. They blame it first of all on the history of Yugoslavia and its factionalism. They say that when there is factionalism the enemy is able to infiltrate. Then they go into the war situation and say that TITO had representatives from the British Government and contact with WINSTON CHURCHILL through liaison personnel.

Not only did the Russians disown the program which was adopted by the Yugoslav Communists, but they are even more angry regarding the speeches made at and subsequent to the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists. They blame KARDEJL (phonetic), Vice Chairman and theoretical leader of the Yugoslav Communists. They refer to the speeches in which TITO praised the aid which Yugoslavia received from the United States on a level above that of the aid Yugoslavia received from the Soviet Union. In other words, TITO praised the United States for the disinterested aid given to Yugoslavia with no strings attached and alluded, as did most of the Yugoslav leaders in their speeches at this Seventh Congress, to the pressures from the Soviet side when they gave aid or to the strings attached by the Soviet Government when they gave aid to Yugoslavia.

One other important thing that the Russians become enraged about is the idea of big power hegemony advanced by Yugoslavia with TITO as the moving force. According to Yugoslavia, the following is the meaning of big power hegemony: When Yugoslavia considers big powers it limits them to the United States and Russia. Yugoslavia says that these big powers are just looking out for their own interests and the little nations get caught in the squeeze as these powers contend for better positions in diplomacy or other relationships in the international arena.

Why should this Yugoslav concept of big power hegemony enrage the Russians? They interpret this to mean that first of all TITO puts the United States in the same category with the Soviet Union or the Socialist camp. Since the Soviet Union is supposed to be the apostle of peace and American imperialism is supposed to be the apostle of war, how and why does TITO equate them? This idea of big power hegemony means that Russia and the United States would both be equally guilty in case there is war. This is a violation of one of the fundamental tenets of Marxism-Leninism, namely that capitalism and imperialism generate war.

Another thing which enrages them and makes them very angry is that TITO places stress on the idea of many roads to Socialism. TITO emphasizes, as does the program of the League of Yugoslav Communists and the other Communist leaders in Yugoslavia, that while the Soviet Union was the pioneer subsequently many other countries have established Socialism or at least the beginning of Socialism. Besides, Russia was a backward country at the time the dictatorship of the proletariat was established. Consequently, some of this backwardness was inherited, not only in the economy but also in the political structure.

Furthermore, TITO states that in the capitalist countries the state is playing more and more of a role in the economy because of the world tensions since World War II. Thus, elements of Socialism represented in forms of state capitalism are coming into being and this state capitalism has within it the groundwork or elements of Socialism.

The biggest sin of all which the Russians charge to TITO is that he says that the Communists should not claim a monopoly on leading the country or the people to Socialism. According to the Russians, this means that TITO denies the most important principle of Marxism-Leninism and that is the need for a vanguard CP. Only this vanguard CP can lead the working class through the dictatorship of the proletariat to Socialism.

They spent days with me on this question of TITO. Whoever I talked with would always come back to TITO and Yugoslavia. The Russians were supposed to give TITO a loan and were supposed to ship to Yugoslavia certain supplies and parts for factories which had been built in Yugoslavia by the Russians. However, the Russians have been holding up these shipments. NICOLAI stated that Russia gave aluminum to Yugoslavia and all that the Russians received in exchange was pottery and prunes. Therefore, let TITO sell pottery and prunes to the United States and get his aluminum from the United States.

Incidentally, the CP of China is also placing emphasis on the need to destroy revisionism and Titoism. The CP of China has been very rough on TITO as a part of its own campaign of rectification. The Chinese have virtually no diplomatic relations with TITO. The CP of Bulgaria had a congress which NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV attended and at which he made some very sharp remarks about TITO. Many Communist Parties were invited to this congress. Representatives of the CP of Great Britain and the Labor Progressive Party of Canada were present. The point is that ordinarily hardly any other CP would normally attend the Congress of the CP of Bulgaria, but at this congress many CPs were represented. Bulgaria plays a strategic role in regard to Yugoslavia. The Russians felt that there might be a lot of pressure from Yugoslavia or Bulgaria and wanted the CP of Bulgaria to know that other CPs were behind them by getting other CPs to pass resolutions against TITO.

Every day for about two months, in one or another Russian newspaper, but chiefly in "Pravda", an article would appear which had been written by a leading figure in another CP. These articles dealt with the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists. Only the CP, USA, did not have such an article and thus they eagerly picked up a statement by EUGENE DENNIS on Yugoslavia and noted it in the Russian press. Some newspapers reprinted DENNIS' statement which appeared in "The Worker". The Chinese printed the full text of a statement by DENNIS.

In addition to using the Congress of the CP of Bulgaria as a platform against TITO, the Russians also had NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV at the Congress of the CP of Eastern Germany and also used it as a platform for mobilization against TITO. Just as important was the Warsaw Pact Convention. Although only the industrial and later the international decisions were announced they also discussed TITO and condemned him.

The reason I placed stress on this is because it is almost an obsession with the Russians. They asked me if I knew how the people in the CP, USA, will react to this. They asked if I knew whether JOHN GATES has contact with the Yugoslavians. They wanted to know what STEVE NELSON will do in view of this situation since he is a Yugoslavian.

After they read the confidential material of the Central Committee in regard to TITO, they told me that they had sent a copy of a letter dealing with TITO to the United States, specifically to DENNIS. I asked DENNIS about this on my return and he said he had not received it. This was a letter just for members of the CCCPSU. It was marked strictly confidential and each copy was numbered. I had to fight with them to make a few notes. It went into the confidential meetings between KHRUSHCHEV and TITO. It gave the reasons for the resumption of the discussions with the Yugoslavians in 1954 and the basis of KHRUSHCHEV's visit to Yugoslavia and the meeting in the Crimea between KHRUSHCHEV and TITO. It went into the argument between Yugoslavia and Russia. It stated that the Russians were willing to give publicity to some of the differences but TITO asked that this be suppressed since they had some understanding and there was no purpose in making these differences public. TITO said, "Let us not emphasize these differences." According to the letter, the Russians were willing to make these differences public at that time but TITO wanted them hidden.

The Russians also charge TITO with double betrayal because while Yugoslavia did not sign the Declaration of the 12 Communist Parties, the Yugoslavian representative at the meeting of all of the CPs in Moscow in December, 1957, did agree to the formulations of the Peace Manifesto which, for tactical reasons, was separate from the Declaration of the 12 Communist Parties. The Yugoslavian representative signed the statement of the 64 CPs which blames imperialism for all the ills in this world, especially for being responsible for continued tensions in the world.

To sum up, the leaders of the CPSU feel that TITO has to be destroyed as an agent of imperialism. The fight against revisionism is a fight to keep the Socialist camp united. Acceptance of the Soviet Party as the leading party is part of this. Loyalty of the Socialist camp to proletarian internationalism is needed so that a united front can be presented against imperialism. TITO has sold out to American imperialism. TITO states that the Socialist state has become a bureaucratic state. Thus, TITO has opened up the "under belly" of the Socialist states and it is believed that he has reached some agreement with the United States.

Only on a theoretical basis can the CPSU rally the other CPs by showing that TITO violated Marxism-Leninism and then sold out to United States imperialism. Thus, all CPs will have to condemn him. Practical measures are needed to isolate and to defeat him. The Russians want to isolate TITO so that he cannot open up a gate through which imperialism might break into the Socialist camp.

VIII. SECURITY PRECAUTIONS TAKEN BY THE RUSSIANS

The Russians obviously accepted the biographies we submitted otherwise I would not have been permitted to meet with leading members of the CCCPSU.

It will be recalled that when word was first received that the Russians wanted a representative from the CP, USA, to come to Russia, they stated that this representative would be guarded like someone representing the CP of Iraq. They kept their end of the bargain. This has to be understood for the following reason: My visit in Russia, my movements, my contacts with the top leadership were, to a large extent, limited by the fact that I had to live under the most extreme security conditions. I was not like a leader or representative from another CP who could move around freely and make demands. The only questions they raised were in regard to security. Security not insofar as they were concerned, but security insofar as we were personally concerned and security insofar as the CP, USA, was involved. The Russians told me that they were not afraid that something would go wrong and that the United States Government would start to yell. They said that they could take care of themselves, that they are strong. However, if something went wrong in regard to their security for us then we might be punished as individuals by the United States Government.

I repeat that at no time during our entire stay in Russia were we by ourselves, not for one day. Even when we were alone in our bedroom a housekeeper was present in the apartment. We sometimes ate alone since the employees do not sit around the table with persons in our position. There is no equality in Russia. We could never have a real personal conversation about anything since we had to assume that our conversation might be monitored. Occasionally, we would whisper outside the window. Even when we went for walks in the outlying districts we were never alone.

On some days the Russians would appear at our apartment and make suggestions for short trips. We would be taken to the car with the curtains drawn. We would be driven into areas with cobblestone pavements, into forests and into villages or other places where the average foreigner never goes. YURI IVANOV or one of the others would always accompany us. More often than not we would not get to take a walk even though we were at places where only the Russians are permitted to go. We never spoke English in public places.

They took us to places which I suppose had some value. They took us into areas where factories were numbered and not named. I do not know the significance of those places. On the way to this place we passed by the famous prison camp Lubianic (phonetic). At another time we were about 35 miles outside of Moscow. We saw emplacements connected with missiles but no questions could be asked. My wife asked a question and was told these were trenches from World War II. I noticed guns, factories, barracks, etc. They drove us through this area at a very rapid pace.

Except for a river port which we visited twice, we were never taken to the same place more than once. Except for May Day when we walked through a crowd in Moscow, we did not take a walk in the main streets in Moscow.

We saw a lot of ballet and theater. These trips were organized under the strictest security regulations. We never sat in the body of the theater. They would take us to a box, usually the director's box which is closest to the stage. We only sat in the rear row since those in the front row could be seen from the other boxes. In the Bolshoi Theater we occupied a suite of rooms containing telephones, desks, etc. This suite was guarded by an usher. We would arrive 45 minutes before curtain time and would be led through the side entrance. The manager or assistant manager or director of the theater would hurriedly lead us to the suite of rooms. When the theater lights went out we would move into the boxes. We would either leave early or very late. Always two or three persons, such as ALEXAI, SEMA or YURI, would accompany us to the theater.

A barber was always brought to the apartment for me. We did not go to public places for anything. When I went to the clinic of the Central Committee, which is used only by ministers and members and the families of members of the CCCPSU, I registered as Mr. SMITH and my wife registered as Mrs. SMITH from Canada in case any questions would be asked. However, advanced notice of our arrival and the manner of of our entry into the hospital accompanied by a person with the credentials of the Central Committee, precluded any such questions. We usually did not have to wait even though the clinic was crowded, but if there was a delay we were taken to a private room.

The same procedures in regard to security were followed in all cities and in all places we visited in the Soviet Union, such as visits to museums, in addition to the theaters. They would arrange private visits to galleries and museums either after hours or on what they called free days when the museums or art galleries were closed. They did this so there would be no possibility of an accident or a chance meeting with a foreigner.

During all the time we were in the Soviet Union we were not allowed a penny in Soviet currency. Not until our trip to China were we given one Kopeck of Soviet money. I do not want to imply that we lacked anything. We could ask for anything and it would be delivered. Even when we were at one of the out-of-the-way places and expressed a desire for anything--anything at all--the person with us would buy it.

The Russians watched our attire very carefully. Once or twice my wife wanted to wear something a little different than usual when going to the theater or to the ballet. They would suggest that she continue with the usual attire. She would wear a kerchief on her head at all times, dark shoes and usually dark dresses or a wash dress of some sort so that she would look like one of the population. I always wore a dark suit and usually a white shirt. I wore a sports shirt with the collar outside the coat when it was warm since this is the way the Russians wear them.

When I was travelling or was to go to a meeting I wore a white shirt, necktie and a hat. The Soviet leadership dresses in the most formal manner. They wanted everybody to believe that perhaps I am an important person. They did not want me to dress much differently than they do. I have never been dressed so formally when travelling or moving around than I was while in the Soviet Union. This was the requirement.

They also told me how to walk. I would never put my hands in my pockets if I was wearing a coat. This is considered to be bad manners and besides it is also the mark of a foreigner. I could never wear a tie clasp and a fountain pen or handkerchief could not be in view.

Review of Bufiles as well as inquiry at Department of State has reflected that complete copy of the program recently adopted by the Yugoslav League of Communists is not available in the English language.

For your assistance in this matter, however, there is attached a copy of "Daily Report, Supplement, USSR & East Europe" dated April 2, 1958, which contains a summary of the draft program of the Yugoslav League of Communists. According to a representative of the Department of State, this summary covers the entire program, although it is not the final version adopted and it is boiled down to about 20 per cent of its original length.

For your additional assistance, there is also attached a copy of the June 1, 1958, issue of "Review of International Affairs" which was also obtained from Department of State. This publication contains a verbatim account of the final text of the introduction and first three chapters of the program. According to the State Department representative, this constitutes 40 per cent of the entire program.

It will not be necessary for the Chicago Office to return this material.

CG 5824-S* has advised that it would be most beneficial to him and probably would also be beneficial to the Bureau to obtain copies of the recent program adopted by the Yugoslav League of Communists. CG 5824-S* pointed out that both the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of China are vehemently criticizing TITO and the Yugoslav Communists for revisionism. The Chicago informant could utilize the program of the League of Yugoslav Communists in briefing the leadership of the Communist Party, USA, on his discussions with the CPSU and the CP of China.

It would be greatly appreciated if the Bureau could obtain a copy of this program and make it available to the Chicago Division.

MEETINGS WITH LIU NING-YI

I had two meetings, lasting over eight hours, with LIU Ning-yi, member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China. The leadership of the Communist Party of China thought that he was the most capable person still alive who could talk about the experiences of the Communist Party of China in carrying on underground activity, infiltrating mass organizations, and emphasizing the long-range perspective.

Both in Moscow and in Peking, they were surprised to learn that at this time the Communist Party - USA has no real, secret, illegal apparatus which is organized. Of course, I told them that the Communist Party - USA does have what might be called semi-illegal organizations. I said that the Communist Party members in industry are virtually, if not totally, illegal. I also said that in many plants, known Communists will not be hired and that some unions expel Communists. I said that meetings of Communist Party - USA industrial committees are always held secretly. Of course, they considered my "illegal" trip as a victory over the bourgeoisie, and that at least some of these things I mentioned were a step forward. However, they could not understand why there is not an unknown underground apparatus with parallel leaders in the Communist Party - USA.

The leading members of the Communist Party of China said that they expected the Communist Party - USA to keep fighting and not to liquidate the Party. They said that it is quite possible that the Communist Party - USA will have to go underground again. They pointed out that there should always be some kind of an underground apparatus and that perhaps the Communist Party - USA could learn from their experiences. They warned that the Communist Party - USA should not try to duplicate their methods too mechanically, but should use whatever it can from the experiences of the Chinese underground. They said that some of these experiences can be considered universal. However, many experiences may be unique to the circumstances which existed in China.

The Communist Party of China knows a lot about the fight which developed in the Communist Party - USA after the underground period. This is why they wanted to relate their experiences in the underground to the Communist Party - USA. While this underground material may seem old, it should be of great interest to us. The Communist Party of China favors a long-term outlook and the infiltration of everything. They have a long-range outlook. A few years means nothing to them, while in most Western countries such long-range plans are non-existent.

The meetings with LIU Ning-yi took place in one of the large, downstairs rooms in the guest house where I lived in the International Liaison Department compound in Peking.

Present at these meetings were ~~Bi~~ Chi-hsin, Secretary of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China, who took the minutes; Madam ~~YU~~ Chi-ying; ~~TANG~~ Ming-chao; ~~LIN~~ Tang; LIU Ning-yi, and myself.

LIU Ning-yi is a member of the Central Committee. He is one of the important officials in the Chinese trade union movement. He is also an important official in the International Federation of Trade Unions. He was the Chief Organizer and Head of the underground in Shanghai, which is one of their industrial cities. While he was in the underground in Shanghai, he operated a store, possibly a drug store. He travelled between Shanghai and Yunnan Province. Once when he returned to Shanghai, the Japanese had changed the registration system. He lived with the police in Shanghai until they were able to obtain for him the necessary documents so he could pass inspection by the Japanese. They used this as an example of how they can infiltrate anything.

LIU Ning-yi is about 5'10½" in height, weighs about 175 lbs., and has straight features. He is very light in complexion, almost white. He has a full head of hair, none of which is gray. He is about 45 years of age. He is silent most of the time and is not given to emotional expression in his conversations.

LIU Ning-yi was supposed to leave Peking on July 11, 1958, for the Peace Conference in Stockholm, Sweden. He met us at the Peking Airport and said goodbye to us.

Remarks of LIU Ning-yi

LIU started by saying that both their legal and illegal experiences, or their total experiences, under the Kuomintang regime have not yet been summarized. He said, We can give you some documents by MAO Tse-tung regarding "policy" and some collective documents of LIU Shao-chi, particularly his article on work in the White Area (area controlled by the Kuomintang or Capitalist class).

He said he is not familiar with the details of Communist Party - USA underground activities; therefore, he is going to limit himself to Chinese underground activities.

LIU pointed out that their history was nine years of mistakes in illegal work. There was a time when we committed mistakes because of LI Li-san's line and we committed mistakes for some time afterwards.

del. 5.18
*(LI Li-san is still alive. He participated in the rectification campaign. He criticized himself during the rectification campaign. He went all the way back to the late 1920's and early 1930's. At the time, he was in Moscow, where he had been sent. He talked of his mistakes in a meeting of the Comintern. In essence, his mistakes consisted of what they called Leftism. He thought that they could organize uprisings in the larger cities, and once they started the uprisings in these cities, then uprisings in other cities would follow. He was one of the leaders of the Communist Party of China in the late 1920's and early 1930's. Naturally, his policy failed. The Party was crushed. He was removed and he has never been in the top leadership since, although he occupies a leading post now in the Chinese Communist Party).

LIU said, But from 1935, we corrected these mistakes in our illegal work in the White Area, and this work was good until the "liberation" in 1949.

He went on to explain why they made these mistakes in the early period. He asked, Was it because of a lack of bravery? No. Was the technique bad? We cannot say that. The basic reason for failures in the illegal work in that early period can be attributed to a mistake in political line. But since 1935, according to MAO Tse-tung, the correct political line was formulated and established. The political line is a very important question. We may study technique. We may even master it. But if we miss the political line or make mistakes in the political line, our work will end in failure.

China
He said that they gave attention to technique during that period, but not to politics or policy. That is, they "worked with legs but not with brains". He quoted MAO again, who said, Politics is the soul and should take command. Work without a soul must fail.

(Here again he meant to emphasize that politics or the general line is more important than the mere tactics).

LIU said, The line has been correct since 1935, and since then one idea was certain -- that is, that the nature of our revolt against imperialism and feudalism would be a long and torturous path. He said they had to understand this. This was very important. Because LI Li-san's line was one of impatience and of coup. You mobilize and try to overthrow a regime or you fail. This is why the question of a long and torturous struggle, as formulated in the policy, was so important.

He said the struggle in China was an anti-imperialist and anti-feudal struggle, and many classes were involved -- not only the workers. But precisely because of the nature of the composition of the people fighting imperialism and feudalism, it was necessary and imperative to build a Communist Party armed with Marxism-Leninism. Since the Communist Party, armed with Marxism-Leninism, was to lead the struggle against imperialism, this Party should have broader unity with the workers, peasants, intellectuals and all patriots. It was especially important to build the workers and peasants alliance.

(MAO, in his remarks to me, told me not to neglect the farmer, even though they may be small in numbers in the United States. Naturally, in China, the peasantry assumes greater importance because of the number).

Continuing, LIU said, Only in this way could we be victorious. He pointed out that this was an important task -- to establish this alliance between the workers and the peasants -- and could not be done in a short period of time. It required a long time. They had to have the long-term outlook.

He went on to emphasize that the greatest tasks are always the most difficult tasks. He said even this question -- that the struggle in China was a long-term struggle -- was not understood by all. Some people thought it would be easy and thought in short terms. Because they did not view this as a long-term task, they made short-term plans and exposed themselves.

(He is now referring to the illegal workers).

Because they were impatient, they did not complete their tasks and disillusionment always followed.

(There is always emphasis on the long-term outlook).

Then he repeated things which others said before. In the strategic respect, we should look down on the enemy because it is a decaying class. It will die and the workers will be victorious. The imperialists will be finished off and we must equip ourselves with this outlook -- that is, imperialism from a Marxist-Leninist point of view is decaying and is finished. Tactically, however, we must correctly estimate the enemy and view it seriously and adopt careful and cautious tactics. For instance, if we have a man of 80, he will soon die. But in the child of 5, there is plenty of vitality, and this child will win eventually. A man of 80 can still give the child of 5 a beating, but strategically the man of 80 will fail.

The question is, How to cultivate the child of 5 to 20 after he can give the old man a beating. (Of course, the "old man" is imperialism).

When in the song "The International" we sing of a victorious tomorrow, this can be twenty, thirty, or one hundred years from now. From the point of view of human history, a century is nothing. But five years in day-to-day work is really a long five years. We say that the over-all revolutionary situation was good when a one-million-man revolutionary army surrounded Shanghai. But even at the time we crossed the Yangtze, the reactionaries were still about to murder our workers and comrades in the city. We could not substitute the over-all political situation in Shanghai for the practical needs. That is, to say "tomorrow" the city will be liberated, but today the workers in Shanghai will be killed.

LIU stated, We must see the distinction between tactical plans and the over-all strategic picture. The strategic outlook must not replace the plans of work in a factory. Our mistakes of Leftist sectarianism lies in this. These mistakes estimated that imperialism is in a crisis and that the ruling classes were involved in a political crisis. Therefore, this particular plant or factory must also be in a crisis. Therefore, we must fight in this factory. (LI Li-san's line).

(LIU was warning against the fact that you cannot substitute the strategic outlook for daily tactical needs and that the sectarians would substitute for this strategic idea the tactical estimation in a given area).

From this factory, we have to develop the struggle to the city; from the city to the province; and from the province to the country. (All this is linked to the strategic idea -- that is, that Capitalism or imperialism is dying).

LIU then asked, Is such a thing possible? Sometimes it is, but it is not that simple. We must understand that the over-all strategic outlook is correct or good. This should strengthen confidence in our work. But in a particular factory, the estimate of this particular factory should be real and tactics should be adopted for this plant. We will have a struggle in this factory, but whether it will develop into a nation-wide victory, we cannot say. It is not always possible to develop a factory struggle into a national struggle. Therefore, we should accumulate strength and we should not engage in adventurism. We Communists are not gamblers. All our methods of work should be around one principle. Everything should have the long-term perspective.

Despite the fact that we had guerrilla warfare and guerrilla areas in the cities, the ruling classes -- the imperialists and Capitalists and bureaucratic Capitalism -- were still strong. Therefore, in the cities, the situation was that the enemy was stronger and we were weaker. It was, therefore, necessary to accumulate strength and forces over a long period.

Then LIU asked, How can we accumulate our strength and our forces? With regard to this, the first question is that of the Communist Party. The Communist Party should unceasingly develop, consolidate, grow some more, and swell its strength. One should see to it that the Communist Party organization should not be disrupted. At the same time, we mobilize to the fullest extent the broadest masses to swell our ranks. In this sense, there is the integration of legal and illegal work. The Party organization should be absolutely secret. But the mass work should be absolutely open and legal. This is a unity of opposites. In the past, we had a wrong understanding of this question. We wanted to build a mass Party. We thought we must integrate legal and illegal secret work with our open work. The words themselves are all right, but the essence of the question is against Marxism-Leninism.

LIU said, It is correct to build a mass Party because this means a Communist Party with a mass following. But if we interpret this to mean that the building of a mass Party means to recruit the masses and lower the standards of Party membership and to open up the Party ranks to all sorts of membership, then we are exposing our members to the enemy. If we carry on mass recruiting, lower the standards, though we pay lip service to illegal work, it is ostrich-like, where the head is in the sand and the body is exposed. Mass recruitment means exposing the Party. Therefore, such a Party could not stand storm and stress. Spies will get into such a Party.

Take this case: All the leaders are holding a secret meeting. The next day we lead a demonstration. We exposed ourselves. This was called "integration" of legal and illegal work in those days. When a particular comrade led a strike, the police followed him and in this way they traced others. This so-called integration integrates the secret police into our Party and into our secret work. As a result, the strike was broken up. The police followed, discovered the secret meetings, and all those who participated were arrested. Then gradually it developed that the masses were afraid. They were afraid because they thought that if they are led by Communists and they are discovered, their strikes will only lead to failure.

LIU stated, On every occasion or on May Day, we held some demonstration. Of course, the police would follow. There were raids and arrests, etc. Leading Party comrades did not refrain from attending. They went to these demonstrations because some Party people "accused" them of cowardice if they did not go. They were not afraid of the arrests. They were more afraid of the accusation of cowardice. Although these things invariably failed (this combination of illegal work and demonstrations), sectarians would always say, "We extended our political influence." But even on the eve of the downfall of our enemies, the membership got smaller and smaller. The workers would say to a Party member, "Do not come to me. I am afraid of my job." Then they would make charges, such as, "You guys get money from abroad." Other workers would say that Communists did not get money from abroad, but they are crazy. The Party was getting smaller. The masses did not follow the Party when it made such mistakes and the Party became isolated. For nine years, we pursued this wrong line. Many of our comrades were isolated, tortured, imprisoned and killed. Yet, the prestige of the Party remained. The masses finally found that we were not Moscow agents, but that we were not practical people either.

After nine years, we came to the realization that we were wrong. We concluded that these methods (integration of legal and illegal work) were wrong. We concluded that the political line and the tactics were wrong. We analyzed and concluded that the Party organization must be absolutely secret and the mass work must be open. Can we say that we want the Party to be secret? We should raise high the Marxist-Leninist banner wherever there is a legal possibility. We should utilize every legal possibility. But the conditions do not always permit this. Therefore, illegal work is necessary. In spite of the fact that the Party wants to be legal, if there is a possibility we should always look ahead. Only in this way will we avoid extermination. It is a life-and-death struggle. We could do open and legal work, but the enemy would use this to finish us off. We will give the enemy a blow by using legality. The enemy wants to drive us underground, but we organize the masses and give them blows. We give the enemy blows from the underground. Legal or illegal work is not an aim in itself. It is a method of struggle.

It is wrong to say that our Party likes to be open or illegal or to place the problem in this fashion. It is wrong to say the Chinese liked illegal work or that the Communist Party - USA likes to do legal work. It boils down to the use of what method under what conditions. Therefore, the question of legality or illegality continues to shift on the basis of events or a given situation.

LIU said, During the days of the Kuomintang and the Japanese occupation, we had little chance of coming into the open. For quite a few years our Party had Party representatives stationed in the Kuomintang areas (during World War II). But we were always on guard, realizing that the enemy would like to finish us off. The real Communist Party organization must be absolutely secret to preserve our strength. Despite the fact that the Party had legal headquarters in the Kuomintang area, comrades worked in secret and had no contact with the headquarters.

We had two systems of organization. I worked in Shanghai during two periods. During the Japanese occupation, I worked for five to six years in illegal work. Then I went secretly to Yunnan, then came out again to Chungking. Then I went to Shanghai as a representative legal figure. The second time I was in Shanghai, I had no contact with the underground. Therefore, the first period was absolutely secret. The second period absolutely legal. The second time I represented the trade union and contacted United States labor attaches. I could not combine two jobs in one person at one time.

Then LIU said, The underground Party organization should be absolutely secret and the enemy should have no knowledge of its personnel or its organization. He said, Here is a difficult question. It is easy to go from illegal to legal work. But to go from legal to illegal work is very difficult. At the beginning of the anti-Japanese war, many Communist Party members were known as legal members of the Communist Party. When the upsurge developed, some members resented the recruitment of others. Then LIU asked, What is the criteria for membership in a revolutionary period or the high tide when people want to become Party members? When there is a low tide, people see Communist Party members and run away from them. Developments in the Party are not even. At the same time, we can have high tides in one area and low tides in another area. The Party leadership should determine if a national tide will continue or if a low tide is coming. The Party leadership should examine to see where there is a high or low tide. The leader's heart should be warm, but he should be cool in the head. (He should not be taken in by certain local circumstances).

Continuing, LIU said, Party leaders should not tail behind the masses. In 1937, there was a high tide in Shanghai. Many people wanted to join the Communist Party, but the Central Committee said that Shanghai was not reliable. We may lose Shanghai. China will be occupied. There will be low tide and even fascism. The exposed Communist Party members changed their methods of work or left Shanghai. Even before evacuation, we reduced activity and changed the methods of work to save our Party members. Future recruits were all underground. We made advance preparations. If we would not have done so, it may have been too late, when the Japanese came in. When the Japanese came into Shanghai, the Communist Party members had already left, changed their jobs, and others took their place, etc. He said that you have to measure the tides and prepare in advance.

(In their opinion, the underground of the Communist Party - USA was just one big mistake).

LIU stated, The new members were organized into new cells so there would be no contact with old Party members. If we relied only on the old members, there would be continual exposure. The former Party members were later recruited and set up in separate organizations, with a new leadership. If the old members continued to lead the new organization, they would expose not only themselves, but the new Party organization, also. If the old members drop away or become passive, the enemy sometimes believes they are no longer active. The old Party members who are present should be completely divorced from the new. The new Party organization should develop on a new basis so it will be reliable. If we did not make drastic decisions of complete severance of the old and the new, exposure would be inevitable. If one comrade was exposed, we would not allow him to attend any meetings any more. If one place was exposed and destroyed, we did not try to re-organize it. If a comrade was arrested in that place, and if we sent a new leader to work, he, too, would be exposed. Therefore, amputation is needed in such a situation. Carry on as individuals and do not form a new organization.

We prepared our Party membership for this. We told them ahead of time of such a possibility, so there would be no spreading of the infection of exposure.

With regard to the form of Party organization, LIU said, We should be organized on an industrial basis. A secret Party should not be big. Exposure is easier if the organization is big. In an underground Party, the main thing is quality, not quantity. Recruiting according to necessity is not possible in an illegal situation. For instance, in one place the Party recruited three members. Now there were four. In another place, there may be twenty prospective members, but we do not recruit them. Some can look for the Party. Some can carry on work, but not as members. They can do mass work better. For instance, in a big factory, if we had only five to eight really good Communist Party members but many friends, they can lead this factory. On the contrary, if we had fifty low-quality members, the result would lead to exposure.

LIU asked, What do we mean by "good Party members?" First of all, personal history must be known. We should know the political face, work, historical connection with this particular factory, etc., of this individual. The workers in the factory may not know that a given individual is a Communist Party member. But the workers might say that he is a "good guy", a friend of the workers. If a worker is fired, they look to this "good guy" for advice. Where is the strategic position in a factory for this comrade? The strategic position is where the most important work is being done. He must try to get into that strategic workshop. In general, it is difficult to get into such places. Where Communists can get in easily, there is no need for skill. These are the less important shops. It is easy to get in among the casual workers or the unemployed. However, if we organize Party cells in non-strategic factories, we are spending time with unimportant workers who are not effective.

Once in a bus company there were no Party members among the drivers, machinists, janitors, etc. This is not very effective. If we are not in the mainstream, we cannot be effective and even though a city is "liberated", our people do not know in which sections of the workers. Migratory workers are not known. We do not know their history.

Next, LIU stated, The highly skilled worker will not listen to the unskilled or to the casual workers. Even progressive workers would be suspicious of casual workers. When we carry on activity, we find that work among these casual workers is easier. We work among these, too, but the aim is to get them into strategic departments. We work among the unemployed, too. We should try to link the employed and the unemployed. At the same time, we should try to place the unemployed into factories and into the most strategic parts of the factory. When you set up Party cells of the unemployed, the objective should be to get them into factories. We should not expect that this line will always work. Never expect an ideal situation, where our people will always be placed in a strategic spot. Once the Communist Party decides that this is an important factory, we must try to get into it, using many methods and means. For instance, in a motor works, a Communist Party member is not in a strategic spot. Efforts should be made to gradually try to move him into a strategic spot and then build an organization. There may be just a small machine shop, but the workers have a lot of connections with auto workers. Through these, we try to make broader connections. Even through a tailor shop, which is a part of a motor works, we can try to make connections. Thus, we can try in three different ways. We should use every method to get into this big motor works.

Then LIU said, The Party leadership is unified. But the multiple sided workers and comrades do not know each other. People in many departments do not know each other. Do not unify Party organization with all members. It is better if they do not know each other. If one is exposed, it would not affect the others. Then LIU asked, Can we have one line in a big shop? Not necessarily. There may be two lines of approach and there may be no connection. The unified leadership can give different tasks and different approaches. You have to have a long-term objective; perhaps no strikes, but just make friends. You may have a ten-year perspective.

Then you have other Communists who do mass trade union work. Sometimes they discover each other, but the Party, as a rule, advises no contact. Even if you are friends, do not divulge your Party membership to each other. If one is exposed, the other is safe. In this way, we can maintain cells in important factories for a long period of time.

In regard to Party leadership on a city scale, LIU said, No one individual should know too much. There should be no meeting of activists. Once they meet, it is too late. Generally, one should have contact with two. Then there should be layer after layer separated so there would be no horizontal exposure.

Again about Party work in the city, you should limit full time cadre. Most of the people should be in the factories. Most Party members should have a profession or trade. Then he can get recruits and protection. A Communist Party member should learn his profession and live according to his status. A businessman should make money, a doctor should be a good doctor, a teacher should be a good teacher, etc., in order to obtain status. Assuming that the police would question such a person about his Communist connections, he would then have good backing.

LIU said, When we made mistakes in the old period, businessmen who were supposed to be businessmen would lose money. In this sense, these comrades would never get prestige among the masses. On the contrary, we would shut ourselves up and isolate ourselves. The comrades who do secret work should be entirely separated from the comrades working in the open. Comrades working in trade unions should be separate. They should not be allowed in Party cells, not allowed to recruit, etc. The comrades who do open and legal work are in danger. If they are in contact with the secret cells, they endanger and may expose the underground. When we were working in the Kuomintang area, there were no connections with the secret organization.

Then LIU asked, How to make contact? How to meet? He said, we used to use public functions. For instance, some worked as businessmen. They would meet in the stock exchange. They would make use of the places where the enemy pays the least attention. Stock exchange members, as a rule, are not watched by the police.

Secret work should be protected not only by Party techniques, but by legal means existing in society. It should be protected by the masses. When we say this or that comrade is doing secret work, it means only as regards Party organization. As an individual, he does work in society. Only the Party organization is secret. The Party members should have on their fingertips the desires of the broadest masses and should unite with the masses. To educate and unite the masses is to make use of legal possibilities and the faults of the ruling class.

Whatever the contradictions are, we should not allow the members to say that they are members of the Communist Party. Yet, they propagate the Communist Party line. How can this contradiction be solved, when one propagates the line and yet does not admit membership in the Communist Party? What do we mean when we say the Party represents the interests of the masses? We mean that our Party slogans should be expressed and transformed to meet the longings of the people, to say the things that are in the hearts of the masses. If we have a Party program and the masses do not heed it, what good is it? The demands and the needs of the masses are systemized into a program. This represents the interests of the masses. For instance, in our Party program we say, "We want to improve the livelihood of the masses." Can the masses change a word? No. In the old days, this meant lowering the integrity of the party. The masses do not say "improve the livelihood of the masses." They say they want a 20% wage increase. They speak more concretely. Can we say the original words were wrong? No. The program needs to be concretized.

LIU cited an example. We say, "we oppose rationalization or speed-up", but in a factory this cannot be put that way. In a particular factory, this must be concretized. For example, "Thirty workers should not be fired", or to be even more concrete, "Mr. SMITH should not be fired unless he receives so much severance pay." To lead and carry out a Party program in the factory, we will say we oppose the firing of our good friend, Mr. SMITH. We concretize the program without the use of the word "rationalization". Now, this word can be used, but it needs to be concretized. Otherwise, the enemy would say, "This is a Communist phrase."

He said that a clever Communist cell is not defending itself merely against rationalization, but is defending Mr. SMITH. A Communist, Mr. JONES, can get up on the floor and make a proposal. He is for severance pay or something connected with firing. If it is a good proposal, without saying that he is a member of the Communist Party, the workers will say among themselves, "He is a good guy". No one will say he supports the Communist Party. LIU said, Despite the fact that we do not use the language contained in the Party program, we, nevertheless, carry through the Party program. The boss wants to fire Mr. JONES because he is a member of the Communist Party. The workers will say, "If he is a Communist, then we are all Communists."

In the past, during our sectarian days, our Party members did not see this. Sectarians called it a revision of our program. They charged us with not raising the banner of the Party, with raising personal prestige, with opportunism, etc. He went on to say that some of these people were expelled from the Communist Party, but the masses and workers did not like this dogmatism, no matter how correct the Party member would be in using the words of the program. In order to carry out work in such a manner -- to concretize it -- a Communist Party member must know the desires of the masses and he must familiarize himself with the language of the people. In this way, he can break down our isolation. Although he is known neither as a Republican, a Democrat, or a Communist, and his lips do not use the word "Communism", he does represent the interests of the masses. We should see to it that this comrade should not lead all the struggles. The next time, another comrade should lead a struggle. Keep on changing people in order to give leadership in mass organizations, so one Communist will not have to stand in the forefront all the time. This would lead to exposure.

Next, LIU stated, During the period when we made Leftist mistakes, we were charged with giving up leadership of the masses. He said, Which is better -- to train one or many mass leaders? If a Party member should be surrounded by a group of non-Party members, this will be effective. The Communist Party should be well acquainted with the real desires of the masses. The Party should know how to surround itself with non-Party people. This is what we call united front mass work. We start with concrete issues and lead to the general Party program. We start not with the distribution of illegal leaflets and not with empty propaganda, but with concrete deeds. Communists have to root themselves and make friends. Just a leaflet will do the Party more harm than good. In the source of the struggle, we would raise the level of understanding. We would talk about the failures or successes of this struggle and educate the workers. To educate the workers through many practical struggles is to distinguish between right and wrong, is to understand and to realize the forces and critical nature of the enemy. By that time, if the enemy will say that our people are agents of Moscow, the masses will not care because the Communists will have gained the confidence of the workers. If we started out by saying the Soviet Union is this or that, the workers will say these are foreign agents and the police will get you. That is no way to support the Party program. You might as well sign a document saying that you are a Communist and then the masses will run away from you.

LIU went on to the question of how to utilize legality. He said that while our Party was an illegal Party, it made use of legality. We make no secret of mass work. When a Party member has twenty workers around him, should this Party member organize them into a study group? Once they are organized, without discipline or experience, the enemy can spot each one and expose them. These twenty non-Party members should make use of legal opportunities and not organize separately. They should use existing organizations. In old China, the Kuomintang organized trade unions. So did the Japanese. In ammunition factories, trade unions were not allowed. The Kuomintang trade union leaders were very bad. But we can utilize trade unions. As LENIN said, "If there are masses, go there." The top leaders were bad, but the masses would like to use these trade unions. In such trade unions, there were certain clauses and bylaws in the constitution which could be used. We must bear in mind that these top leaders were corrupt, but were separated from the masses. We made use of bureaucracy to carry on our work. It was possible to become a trade union leader in a factory. We did not admit Communist Party membership. We acted like Kuomintang trade union leaders and utilized the laws of the union for the workers benefit.

Then LIU said, Even when workers oppose bureaucrats, we should not oppose these trade union leaders. Do not charge the union with bureaucracy or make statements against the union, saying that it is no good. Make use of such unions to come into contact with the workers and to derive benefits for the workers. When a comrade becomes a leader in a local or a shop of such a union and the workers launch a struggle against the boss or the trade union leadership, he should not come forward as a leader of the struggle. He should assume a "third person" attitude. When the class enemy wants to suppress us, then this comrade should come out as a reformist and say that this would make the situation worse. Act like a reformist. In this way, you take the position which will help the workers and this will help raise the prestige of this so-called reformist for the future. He differentiates himself from the more corrupt trade union leadership. While this local orshop is led by a Communist Party member, he is not known by the enemy and can hold on to his position for a long time.

The top bureaucracy may issue orders to this local leader. If the order is to deceive the workers, he takes the order and carries it out with some empty phrases. If the top leadership issues secret orders to suppress the workers, he carries it out in such a way as to warn the workers. You may have to carry out orders of the leadership, but carry them out in such a way that they will not be effective. In some cases, if the order is no good, use the bureaucracy for their failures. You can carry out the orders from the top in the Rightist or the Leftist way. This will result in the sabotage of the actual order. In this way, we are making use of the enemy, and its traditional way of doing things, for the interest of the workers. Bureaucracy is bad. But we make use of this bureaucracy to exist permanently. If one of our comrades becomes a leader in a union local, he can protect Communist Party members in that factory. If we have no such attitude, the comrades can be exposed.

Then LIU asked, Can we carry our influence where there are no unions? That is possible. Use local social setups. For instance, in a particular shop, friends and relatives can be used. Utilize cultural and religious organizations. When we utilize these organizations, we should not take a Leftist attitude or we may be exposed. To lead a struggle in a factory, there are legal and illegal methods. These struggles should take different and various forms. A struggle might begin with the circulation of a petition or sabotage or a strike. We can begin by presenting petition demands and develop it into a strike and conclude the strike in a legal way, arbitration, etc. This is the "legal way". Unless the situation is ripe for an armed uprising, if we try to develop a strike into an uprising, nationally would be wrong. In struggles like these, the struggle must be profitably reasonable with moderation. Do not go too far. By "reasonable", we mean it seems reasonable to the workers and society. We want to win sympathy and mobilize masses easier, so they can be more determined in the struggle.

The second principle is that it has to be profitable. If we can gain something out of this, we conduct a struggle. Otherwise, we do not. If the workers insist that we go further and if we think there will be no gain, we must go along and convince them to change their course in order to minimize losses.

Then LIU said, When we gain a victory, we do not continue to expect to gain one victory after another. To push hard will lead to failure. We need time to consolidate our ranks. We are not struggling for the sake of struggle. Struggle is for gaining certain interests of the workers. We cannot solve all the workers' problems. The LA SALLE theory (opponent of KARL MARX in Germany) was wrong. He once said that "struggle is everything". MARX said that struggle is not everything. Achievement is more important. Some of these benefits are only temporary. The reason the Communist Party leads a struggle is to organize, consolidate and accumulate strength to capture political power. These struggles are to gain temporary benefits and advance consciousness for the ultimate goal. When we led strikes and won them, but broke up our organization, we considered these failures. Struggles take place in many forms. There is no principle that wherever a Communist Party organization exists, there must be a strike. Sometimes when we have to convince workers not to strike, this is also a victory. This is where we have differences with LA SALLE. Sometimes a strike is not victorious, but the struggle educates the workers and lays the ground for their future struggle and their victory. The day-to-day struggles are all for training the workers and people's army. They are not aims in themselves.

Then LIU said, We look upon demonstrations in the same way. If the masses demand demonstrations, we will hold them to educate the people, broaden the ranks and strengthen the organization. If we will accomplish this or if it will help us, we will hold such a demonstration. If there is no urgent demand from the masses but only a few Communist Party members want such a demonstration, would not this demonstration be a failure? Not to hold a demonstration or strike depends not upon sentiment, but rather where the strength lies. It must be decided by objective conditions. When the boss is ready to close down a shop and you conduct a strike, you play into his hands. Everything depends on whether we can enlarge our strength. In this way, the Communist Party can organize great mass struggles, and can mobilize them in an open way. But the Communist Party organization is small, under these circumstances, in proportion to the masses. If there are more masses organized, the proportion of Communists can be even smaller. On the other hand, if you have only a few activists among the masses and the masses are not in motion, a proportionately bigger Communist Party may lead to failure. When the Communist Party educates the masses, keep in mind the level of understanding.

Discussions

During the discussions which followed the remarks of LIU Ning-yi, those present would relate some of their own experiences. The Chinese are bolder in talking about their own activities than the Russians are.

They stated that they had infiltrated and penetrated the Kuomintang Government, as well as every organization over which the Kuomintang had control, including the military. They said that before the "liberation", practically every General in the National Army had a Communist as his executive officer. They said they knew every move of the Kuomintang and they were in a strategic position to determine the outcome of any struggle which would take place.

They made claims that they practically controlled the entire Kuomintang trade union apparatus, both in the top and in the lower echelons. The Communists were not always the leaders in the trade unions. They would win over some of the trade union leaders. Other trade union leaders did not know until the time of the "liberation" that people working directly under them were Communists. The Communists would get into the trade union leadership in one way or another and then behave like non-Communists.

All present cited examples of their experiences in the underground. YU Chi-ying worked with religious organizations. While the Americans were in China during World War II, the Chinese Communists worked as part of the liaison group and as loyal Kuomintang representatives in the various institutions which were established by the United States.

COMMENTS

The Chinese have developed the art of infiltration to the highest degree. They really bragged about infiltration. We should study their underground experiences and benefit from them not only in regard to the Communist Party - USA, but also as an illustration of how Communist Parties work everywhere. The Chinese experiences are a master plan.

Since they have developed the art of infiltration, they were always boasting about the influence they had in Formosa. They said that they are not worried about the Formosan Army.

I am convinced that since they have developed this art of secrecy and infiltration, that they have hundreds of thousands of secret Chinese Communists throughout Asia. There are many millions of overseas Chinese. I am sure that they do not permit the Chinese Communists overseas to expose themselves. On the contrary, they are probably working hard so that these Communists will obtain the most influential positions and the most strategic posts in governments, in labor organizations, and in other organizations which may be of some use to them.

In regard to the Communist Party - USA, the Chinese have read the Resolution of the 16th National Convention, which states that sectarianism is the main danger and that the Communist Party - USA is separated from the masses. They said that if the Communist Party - USA has a long-term view, it might once again develop its connections with the masses while, at the same time, protecting the Party organization. The emphasis was on: (1) A correct political line; (2) A distinction between the strategic aim and the tactical aim; and (3) The carrying on of mass work.

In regard to the illegal Party, it must be secret. If there is an illegal and a legal organization, one has to be totally separated from the other. In mass work, the purpose is to gain strength and to lead only those struggles which will win support for the Party among whatever strategic section of the population the Party is trying to win over. The Party should use every possible method in order to get this strength. It should keep in mind that it is saving strength and forces for the realization of the strategic aim. The Party should not expose its members or the organization as long as it can possibly avoid it. Party leaders should not listen to radical phrases, such as raising high the banner of struggle. Struggle is not an end in itself. A more important end is to gain the confidence of the workers. Educate them so they will have confidence in the Party. Then, when the objective situation is ripe, the Party may have the kind of struggle which would lead to the taking over of the Government apparatus.

EXCERPTS FROM A DOCUMENT BY LIU SHAO-CHI

In preparation for the meetings with LIU Ning-yi, I was furnished with a document by LIU Shao-chi. This document was in the form of a brochure. The material was mimeographed and marked "Confidential". The brochure contained two reports by LIU Shao-chi dealing with mistakes in the open and underground work of the Communist Party of China. The leadership of the Communist Party of China considers this to be their most official and authentic summary of the period of their underground work. I asked for and received permission to copy a few paragraphs. The following paragraphs I considered to be the most pertinent and important in regard to this particular subject:

"Distinction between, and Mutual Changes of, Open and Secret Work

"During a given historical period, the strategic task of the Party and revolutionary class remains unchanged, while tactics may change frequently, that is to say, the concrete form and paths which the Party takes for the fulfillment of the strategic task change frequently in correspondence with different internal and external circumstances and conditions in which the Party and revolutionary class find themselves in different periods and places.

"This explains the complexity and changeability of the forms of struggle, work and organization, which the Party and revolutionary class adopt in different period and places for the achievement of a given strategic aim. The Party and revolutionary class are required to adopt such forms of activities as are 'suitable to occasion and place,' to have the greatest possible flexibility, and to oppose rigidity and formula-ism.

"Open and secret work are two forms of Party work -- two forms of the same thing. In deciding our form of work, whether open or secret, it is necessary that we should make a concrete analysis of the internal and external circumstances and conditions at a given time and place. Only thus can we distinguish what should, and can, be conducted openly from what should, and must, be done secretly.

"Generally (only generally) speaking, whether the activities of the Party and revolutionary class are conducted in a legal or illegal way is the standard and yardstick determining their form of work, whether open or secret. That is to say, legal activities generally can be conducted openly, while illegal activities cannot be conducted openly and must be carried out secretly. (It should be noted that both written and unwritten laws are implied here.)

"When we have truly understood the internal and external circumstances of the Party and revolutionary class at a given time and place and familiarized ourselves with the laws of the rulers, we will then be able to decide which provisions in the laws can be utilized for the activities of the Party and revolutionary class, what forms of work, organization, and struggle can be conducted openly, and what cannot be conducted openly but must be done secretly -- in other words, what activities are allowed by laws of the rulers and can be conducted legally and what are not allowed and must be conducted illegally.

"The legal and illegal scope of the activities of the oppressed revolutionary class and its Party is not unchangeable either.

"This is because:

"1. The laws of the rulers being made for the purpose of oppressing and fettering the ruled and not the rulers themselves, the rulers can, in accordance with their needs and will, promulgate, abrogate, or change certain laws at any time.

"2. The scope of legal activities of the Party and the masses may expand or contract in accordance with the change of the fighting strength of the oppressed class, the relative strength between the contending sides, and the inter-relation of various classes in society.

"Generally speaking, the legal scope contracts when the revolutionary masses are weak in fighting strength and suffering setbacks; it expands when the revolutionary forces are strong and advancing. The Party and revolutionary class, therefore, must always pay attention to winning legal status and expanding the possibilities for carrying on certain activities legally whenever possible.

"With the rulers, however, the stronger and more threatening to their interests and existence the revolutionary forces become, the more they restrict and oppress the revolution (e.g., the present trend of fascism is by no means a sign of the strength of the bourgeoisie.)

"Owing to the changes of the enemies situation and our own and the advance or retreat of the Party and revolutionary class, the scope of legal activities of the Party and masses often undergo sudden changes, giving rise to mutual replacement of open and secret work. Certain or all spheres of the Party's activities often abruptly emerge from the underground into the open or go from the open into the underground.

"Mutual changes also often take place in individual legal and illegal struggles of the masses. The masses, who in the beginning adopt the legal form of struggle, often shift to the illegal form in the course of struggle. On the other hand, illegal struggle of the masses can also force the rulers to recognize the legality of such form of struggle.

"Generally speaking, the activities of the Party and revolutionary class emerge from the underground into the open when the situation is favourable, and go from the open into the underground when the situation is difficult. To emerge from the underground into the open is easy; to go from the open into the underground is difficult.

"The Party should appraise the general trend of the class struggle, the new tasks which it may put forward, and the changes which may take place in the situation in the immediate future. It should go a step further to appraise which part of the activities of the Party and revolutionary class will be made open and which part will go underground and to make preparation and arrangement beforehand, so that such mutual changes of open and secret work will be effected with preparedness and in an organized way. This is of great importance to the work of the Party. By so doing, missing of opportunity, panic, and losses either in work, or of organization, or even of lives can be avoided or minimized.

"How An Illegal Party Should Utilize Legal Possibilities:

"The utilization of the objectively existing legal possibilities by an illegal party in conducting the various aspects of its work is precisely the open work referred to here. In the period of reaction, the Party does not have legal status, nor do the Party members. But individual members, so long as they have not exposed themselves, can still participate in all sorts of legal activities. If we can fully and properly utilize all legal possibilities for individual Party members to participate in all sorts of open and semi-open social activities, then there are objectively many such legal possibilities that can be utilized by us even though the Party is completely underground.

"In times like this, the Party and its organizations are strictly secret, but most of the Party members can still participate in all sorts of open social and political activities according to their respective possibilities. In this way the Party can, through these Party members engaging in open work, penetrate deep into all aspects of social activities, maintain connections with comparatively broad masses, and capture different open and legal social organizations, institutions, and publications.

"This is extremely important to a secret party, because:

"1. Every such organization, institution, and publication can become an important stronghold and fortress of the Party among the masses;

"2. Only in this way can the Party maintain connections with comparatively broad masses and educate them; and

"3. Only by such means can it better preserve and consolidate its secret organizations and continuously build up auxiliary organizations among the masses.

"Thus it will be impossible for the reactionary forces to put the illegal political party of the revolutionary workers out of existence. Only those secret parties that shut themselves up completely in attics are the easiest for the enemy to destroy.

"To utilize legal possibilities is principally to assign Party members to join all legal social organizations and institutions, no matter how these organizations and institutions are controlled by the reactionaries. At the same time it is also necessary to utilize legal possibilities to set up all sorts of legal 'grey' social organizations and institutions, adopt legal form of work to conduct our activities to unite the masses, to educate them, and within legal bounds to support their interest and direct their actions.

"Comrades working in legal organizations and institutions must patiently and persistently preserve their legal exterior; they must by no means reveal any relation they have with the Party. They must, moreover, try every possible means to capture these organizations and institutions and to preserve as long as necessary the legal status of these organizations and institutions. Therefore, comrades engaging in open work must observe the following:

"1. They must join these legal organizations and institutions through proper procedures.

"2. They must assume proper social standing and exterior, to which their manner of work, attitude, language, style, attire, private life, etc. must conform. To the extent of not hampering the practical interests of the Party and the revolution, it is best for them to appear as ordinary and common as possible.

"3. They must adopt open and legal forms that best suit the environment to conduct their work, to direct the struggles of the masses, and to carry out the directives given them by the Party organization. They should not go beyond the bounds of legality to raise, for example, illegal demands and slogans, to distribute illegal propaganda literature, etc. They must not copy the procedure of work adopted inside the Party.

"4. They must be able to utilize the contradictions between the different cliques of reactionary forces for attaining their ends, to oppose, by proper and legal means, the reactionary leaders of these organizations and institutions, and at the same time to keep up a show of friendship with them.

"5. They must adhere honestly to the original tasks of these organizations and institutions (provided such tasks do not fundamentally hamper the practical interest of the revolutions) and try their best to preserve the legal status of these organizations.

"6. They must maintain necessary connections with the secret Party organizations and submit to the guidance and supervision of the Party, only that this must be realized by particularly skillful secret means. Generally they must not simultaneously take charge of any work in the secret organizations; their relation with the Party must be known to the smallest possible number of persons; and their connections with the Party must be minimized to what is necessary.

"Utilization of legality in this way enables our Party members and Party organizations to hide themselves as much as possible among the masses and all sorts of organizations and institutions, to carry out, through legal means, the various aspects of Party work, and within the limits permitted by the situation to cover up at the same time the secret organizations that are carrying on their work. Such work as can be conducted through utilization of legal possibilities should be expanded as much as possible in scope; it should be carried out in as complete a legal and open way as possible (of course semi-legal possibilities should also be utilized.) If the Party has more legal possibilities to utilize in carrying on its various branches of work, its secret branches of work can be reduced and contracted to the minimum necessary extent; the organs, personnel, and expenses for the secret work can be reduced and contracted; and the organs of secret work can be more easily set up.

"Only by expanding the scope of open work can we reduce the scope of secret work; conversely, if the former is reduced, the latter will inevitably expand; and this, as far as a secret party is concerned, will be greatly convenient for the enemies and spies.

"The open and legal organizations and institutions which our Party members have joined and in which they work, have their original system of organization and different offices. In accordance with the different offices held by our Party members, there should be a coordination between comrades in the upper and lower strata, a coordination between the legal struggle of the upper stratum, and the illegal struggle of the lower stratum. Generally speaking, comrades in the upper stratum who take charge of open work should screen and assist comrades in the lower stratum who conduct secret work, while comrades conducting secret work in the lower stratum should unite and mobilize the masses to support and aid the responsible comrades in the upper stratum (in countries where there are parliaments, there is coordination between struggles within and without parliament.)

"Such a coordination is attained through the secret connections and organizations of the Party. At the same time, such connections should not go beyond the bounds permitted by the circumstances prevailing at the given time and place and should be effected by a very skillful method. Should they go beyond such bounds, the offices held by certain comrades, and even the very existence of these organizations and institutions, will be affected.

"The Laws Governing Secret Work

"When the Party is illegal, all its members stay underground and secretly connect themselves with the leading organs of the Party. But among the Party members, apart from those who have joined open and legal organizations and institutions and those working among the masses, there must be a section to take charge exclusively of the secret work of the Party, to organize secret bodies, and to set up secret organizations (such as publication of secret papers, communication and leading organs of the Party.)

"Such secret work of the Party must be carried on by specialists (chiefly professional revolutionaries) and should not in general be simultaneously undertaken by those engaging in open work. Secret form of work inside the Party is entirely different from the open form of work mentioned above. The secret form of work inside the Party must never be adopted in open masswork. Underground workers should, as a rule, not reveal their identities before the masses nor should they directly direct the struggle of the masses. They should hide themselves persistently in hard work.

"It is extremely important that both in personnel and form of work, secret work and open work be clearly distinguished from each other and combined with each other in a given form. It is very dangerous for an underground party to have the one overlap the other or confused with the other either in personnel or in procedure "of work, for this will undermine not only the secret work and the Party organs but also the open work and open organs.

"The rules governing the secret work of the Party, as well as the relations between secret organs and functionaries and the relation of these with the open organs and personnel should follow strictly certain regulations, and there should be strict discipline to ensure the execution of these regulations. Because of the grave existence of the enemies as well as the existence of spies inside the Party organizations, any negligence in the secret work may bring serious losses to the Party. Only by strict discipline can we ensure the full observance of all regulations and give proper certainty to secret work.

"In regard to the regulations of secret work, the following items should generally be included:

"1. Every Party member and cadre should know only what he must know and not what is possible for him to know. It is impermissible to carelessly reveal the secrets of the Party to comrades unconcerned or to casually pry into the secrets of the Party.

"2. There must be detailed regulations governing the relations of each and every Party organization (or member) with its higher or lower organ (or with other members.) Apart from what has been stipulated, no transversal relations are allowed.

"3. There must be technical stipulations of secret codes, designations, signs, times, et al.

"4. Excepting that which should according to the regulations, be transmitted, all matters discussed at meeting of the Party organizations at all levels must not be disclosed to anyone by those who attend the meetings.

"5. No names of persons or places and no figures should appear in written reports and transmissions. No membership record and cadre record should be kept. When it is necessary to jot down some notes, certain signs should be used.

"6. Generally there should not be any secret Party documents. In case any are necessary, they should be of such nature as will not reveal the concrete secret work of the Party and should be burned immediately after reading. In Party publications and propaganda literature, no secrets should be disclosed.

"7. Secret organizations must be small, compact, and efficient. Utmost caution should be taken against having large sized and motely organizations. Unnecessary acquaintance between comrades must be avoided.

"8. Every Party member should try his best to preserve his legal status, to keep his Party membership from being known by as few people as possible, and to keep his family and personal history from being unnecessarily known by other comrades.

"9. No general transmission should be made within the Party on concrete secret form of work.

"If open work is clearly distinguished from, and linked up according to strict regulations with, secret work; if the regulations of secret work are strictly carried out, and our vigilance is sharpened to the highest possible degree, then it will be difficult for the enemy spies to carry out their activities within the Party, and even if disruption should unfortunately occur in the Party, it would be only of a local nature and would not affect the whole Party.

"The aim of secret work is to preserve and consolidate the Party in the period of reaction, to elude the enemy's observation of, and attention to, the various spheres of our specific work, and to prepare for successful revolutionary offensives. Therefore, in secret work, utmost caution should be taken against 'revolutionary' phrase-mongering (oral or written) which is of no practical significance at all, for such phrase-mongering, devoid of real practical revolutionary significance, will only arouse the vigilance of the reactionary forces, sharpen their attention, and undermine the secret work. We must never identify such phrase-mongering devoid of content and practical significance with propaganda work of the Party which is necessary at all times for the dissemination of the political stand of the Party. The former must be combatted, while the latter is entirely necessary within the bounds of not undermining the specific secret work of the Party.

"Any secret Party organization, in giving guidance to the comrades engaging in open work, should clearly appraise their position and difficulties; it should give them such tasks as they can shoulder and accomplish and ask them to adopt such forms as are feasible; it should not give them such tasks, or ask them to adopt such forms, as are not permitted by the circumstances, for these comrades are confronted with a great difficulty, which consists in the contradiction between the illegal content and legal form and in the indispensable connection between their open status and the secret Party organizations. Therefore, there must be a limit to the scope of legal form within which they can fulfill the tasks assigned them by the illegal Party. It is not possible for them to perform and accomplish such tasks as are beyond the bounds of legal form.

"The Party that is completely underground should shift the center of gravity of its work to the secret Party branches in factories, workshops, offices, and rural areas. It is necessary to try every possible means to place in these Party branches comrades with the ability to guide, and to reduce as much as possible their dependence on the guidance of the secret higher leading bodies. In this way it will be easier to fulfill the task of preserving and consolidating the Party and to develop properly the Party work."

I. MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF GREAT BRITAIN (CPGB) IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA

A number of leading members of the CPGB were in Moscow for a vacation during the time I was there. The Russians housed them in summer homes in the woods and suburbs outside of Moscow. These places are surrounded by wooden fences. Guards are at the door. You have to have identification of some kind or a pass to enter. Militia men patrol the area on foot. You would probably find a policeman each one half block in that area. The only persons who can get in are those who show an identification from the Central Committee of the CPSU or who are in an auto belonging to the Central Committee.

[redacted] wife of [redacted] was there. [redacted] (phonetic), a member of the Political Bureau of the CPGB, was also there. I talked to him at a dachi (summer cottage) outside of Moscow. ALEXAT ANDREOVICH GRENCHENCO (phonetic) of the International Department of the CCCPSU told me it was inadvisable that anyone else see me. [redacted] carried a message from me to JOHNNY WILLIAMSON that [redacted] would meet him in the Hotel Picadilly in London, England between July 14 and July 17, 1958. Of course, this message was delivered with the approval of the Central Committee of the CPSU. The message also stated that two autographed copies of PAUL ROBESON's book, "Here I Stand" had arrived in Moscow and that one copy was given to NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV. WILLIAMSON did not know who [redacted] was when this message was delivered to him.

II. REASON FOR THE MEETING WITH JOHN WILLIAMSON

B. APPROX. 1903

A new Communist international magazine will be published in Prague, Czechoslovakia starting on or about September 1, 1958. It is to be called "For Peace and Democracy". Actually, it is more than a magazine. It is going to be a sort of Cominform in disguise. Most of the Communist Parties are sending leading people to Prague so that they can hold international conferences. They will place on the agenda of these conferences a particular country depending upon the situation at different times. For example, if there is a certain situation existing in the United States they will have on the agenda a report from somebody representing the United States on the magazine. This spokesman would speak officially for the CP of the United States. Actually, it is an international Communist organization whose representatives on the magazine will have sort of potentiary powers for their respective Communist Parties.

This is not a secret. It was mentioned many times by almost everyone I talked with both in Russia and in China. KORIANOV (phonetic) is in the International Department of the CCCPSU and is now in charge of the Russian delegation in Prague for the magazine called "For Peace and Democracy".

[redacted] son of [redacted] is also a member of the Russian delegation to the magazine. Through [redacted] KORIANOV requested [redacted] to write articles for the magazine but I refused. I discussed this with NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH (phonetic), head of the North South American Section of the International Department of the CP, USA and repeated my refusal to him. I told him that the CP, USA did not issued any instructions in this regard. I stated that I thought that any articles should first appear in the press of the CP, USA.

I saw JOHN WILLIAMSON on July 17 and 18, 1958, and MAE WILLIAMSON, on July 19, 1958. WILLIAMSON was surprised to [redacted] but as soon as he found out who I was he prepared no [redacted] things he wanted to discuss with me.

I had only one purpose in seeing WILLIAMSON. My task was to ask [redacted] on behalf of EUGENE DENNIS, whether he would accept appointment to serve as the CP, USA representative in Czechoslovakia on the new magazine, "For Peace and Democracy".

III. REACTION OF WILLIAMSON TO THE PROPOSAL THAT HE BE THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE CP, USA ON THE MAGAZINE, "FOR PEACE AND DEMOCRACY"

JOHN WILLIAMSON is a paid employee of the CPGB. He is the assistant National Organization Secretary. The National Organization Secretary is a man named LAUGHLIN (phonetic). LAUGHLIN is very jealous of his position so WILLIAMSON has to be careful about what he does. He travels to various areas in England to check up on organization and to make reports.

WILLIAMSON is not a member of the National Executive Committee of the CPGB which is comparable to the National Committee of the CP, USA. Although WILLIAMSON is allowed to take the floor at meetings of the National Executive Committee of the CPGB, he rarely speaks and when he does speak, it is never on a controversial subject. WILLIAMSON is 55 years of age. He is afraid that he may not have time enough to strike roots so that he will be elected to national leadership in Great Britain. He blames EUGENE DENNIS and WILLIAM Z. FOSTER for not putting some pressure on HARRY POLLITT (Chairman) and JOHN GOLAN (General Secretary) of the CPGB. He thinks that POLLITT and GOLAN would have listened to DENNIS and FOSTER and might have elected him to the National Executive Committee of the CPGB.

The CPGB has had two conventions since WILLIAMSON has been in England. One of these was an emergency convention. At the last convention WILLIAMSON's name was put forth on the basis of nominations which came in from lower organizations. When WILLIAMSON learned this he asked that his name be withdrawn because he calculated that he would never be elected. He felt that it was better to withdraw than to suffer defeat. He said that CLAUDIA JONES ran for the NEC and was defeated badly--so badly that it was beyond description. He said that they do not care about Negroes in the CPGB. In fact he had difficulties with them. He said they were practically white chauvinists in their dealings with Negroes until he convinced them that Negroes are sensitive.

On the second day that I saw WILLIAMSON he said that he had thought of DENNIS' suggestion that he represent the CP, USA on the new Communist international magazine and he had decided not to accept DENNIS' proposition. He said that he would be willing to go to Prague or Moscow for a month or six weeks, if necessary, and if he receives an official mandate from DENNIS. He would also want DENNIS to take it up with the CPGB. He said that if he left Great Britain at the present time for a year or so, and that is what this job would require, then he would be in a worse position when he returned than he is now because there would be no possibility for him to ever hope to get into the leadership of the CPGB. He said that if the CP, USA would make him a member of the NC then he might go. He asked me in all seriousness to take up this matter with the leadership of the CP, USA. However, if the CP, USA starts a campaign for the return of the exiles, and if he gets a mandate from the CP, USA, then he would go to Prague for a short period of time. He would still want to be asked officially by the CP, USA and released by the CPGB.

IV. PERSONAL DATA CONCERNING
JOHN WILLIAMSON AND HIS FAMILY

JOHN WILLIAMSON is a very unhappy man and his wife is [redacted]. He told me that MAE is [redacted].

[redacted]

JOHN WILLIAMSON had many complaints. He had a real housing problem. He lived with the [redacted]. The [redacted]s were in the United States and were deported. The WILLIAMSONS lived with them for the first eight months they were in England. The two families lived in a three and one half room house. By the time the eight months had elapsed they were quarreling and were enemies. WILLIAMSON stated that the housing problem is very difficult in Britain. Finally the CPGB helped him to get a place. He said that they did not tell him but he knows that at least one thousand pounds came from Moscow for that purpose. The CPGB put up another five hundred pounds. I believe that these are the figures. In any case, the bulk of the help came from Moscow and the British Party added to it.

They have a ninety-nine year lease since you cannot buy a house in England. Payment is by week since employment is too unsteady to pay a mortgage or rent on a monthly basis. Another British Communist lives in part of the house so that WILLIAMSON would not become a landlord. They share the rent. This British comrade works for the "London Daily Worker". I do not know his identity. WILLIAMSON told me that he does not have a telephone but the comrade who works for the "London Daily Worker" has a telephone. The number is For 6449. WILLIAMSON said that they have worked out a signal whereby they will call him if he has a phone call.

WILLIAMSON said that the heating system is no good and his wife [redacted]. A big expense in Britain is food and fuel. Most of the fuel is wasted because houses are heated by open fire places.

WILLIAMSON's big complaint was that it is difficult to strike roots in the British Communist Party. He said there is no social life among the Party people. To this day he has not been invited to the home of any member of the NEC of the

B. SUMMARY OF PERSONAL DATA

All of the above is related to the question of whether WILLIAMSON goes to Prague as a representative of the CP, USA on the magazine "For Peace and Democracy". WILLIAMSON feels that he cannot leave his family for a year or two. He also feels that he cannot move them around again with the change of schools, etc. This is a factor in his decision not to accept the proposal of DENNIS. He insists that the CP, USA carry on a campaign for his return to the United States. He said he had considered going to Canada and had talked this over with TIM BUCK. However, they arrived at the conclusion that he would get no further in the leadership of the Labor Progressive Party, the CP of Canada, than in the CPGB. Therefore, he is not willing to go to Canada.

V. INTERNATIONAL ACTIVITY OF JOHN WILLIAMSON

In addition to the work he carries on for the CPGB, and WILLIAMSON is very important in the CPGB even though he is not a member of the NEC, WILLIAMSON is actually an international figure in himself. I learned while in Moscow that WILLIAMSON is pretty much in touch with the American situation and when I saw him I verified the fact that he is pretty much up on things. He has a pipeline for the supply of certain information and documents from the CP, USA to Moscow, Russia and even to Peking, China. He told me that someone from the Chinese Embassy in London calls him at least a couple of times a year and they spend many hours discussing things. He relays CP, USA information and documents directly to Peking, China.

WILLIAMSON writes an article at least once a week. Some of these articles have appeared in "The Worker". He stated, however, that "The Worker" publishes only about one article out of every six he writes. He showed me copies of his articles which have appeared in the Chinese Press and Communist papers in Europe more frequently than in the press of the CP, USA.

WILLIAMSON said that he visited the Soviet Union at the time of the 20th Congress of the CPSU and the Russians pumped him dry. He said that he has received invitations to return to Moscow but has not been there since the 20th Congress.

He said that unless DENNIS gives him an official mandate he is not going to return to Moscow. He could go there as an individual but would have absolutely no power and might not engage in any official discussions.

WILLIAMSON stated that when he was in Moscow during the 20th Congress he defended EUGENE DENNIS and placed him in the leadership of the CP, USA. He said he raised some problems in regard to the rigidity of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. ^{U.S.} He raised the same problems that I did in Russia. He played a role in Russia similar to the one that I played and he too was worried that FOSTER might go to Russia.

It should be pointed out that for our purposes it would be well to keep FOSTER in the United States.

WILLIAMSON said that he did not see any of the leaders of the CPSU during the 20th Congress except for a brief conversation with MIKHAIL SUSLOV, ALEXAI GRENCHENCO ^{U.S.} was with him. He said that he does not like NICOLAI DIMITROVITCH. He said that they proposed that he move to Moscow and work from there but he had declined this offer. They gave him a vacation on the Black Sea while he was in Russia.

^{U.S.} WILLIAMSON said that at the time he was in Moscow, IRVING POTASH was with him. Further, POTASH used to keep in touch with him no matter what part of Europe he was in, such as Moscow, Prague, and Warsaw. WILLIAMSON stated that he knew nothing about the details of the arrest of POTASH in the United States except the fact that POTASH was arrested. He asked me why POTASH was picked up in such a remote area. I told him that I heard of the arrest on the radio and in the newspapers. WILLIAMSON said that an agent of the FBI, who knew POTASH from his Smith Act trial, had arrested POTASH.

A. ACTIVITIES OF WILLIAMSON IN REGARD TO THE CP, USA

^{U.S.} JOHN WILLIAMSON is a sort of clearing house for everything connected with American problems and individuals who originated in the United States. He is in touch with dozens of people in the United States who write him personal letters. In fact, he knew more about some people in the CP, USA than I did. He receives letters from all over the United States. People take up various problems with him. In addition to this EUGENE DENNIS has been in touch with him. He showed me two letters he had received from DENNIS, including one letter which gave him a summary of the last meeting of the NC, CP, USA. In another letter, DENNIS indicated that there was friction between BEN DAVIS and WILLIAM WEINSTONE and that there is a new letter to the Party by FOSTER. WILLIAMSON said that he was one of the closest people to GENE DENNIS. He said that somehow there has to be some united leadership in the CP, USA or it would go down the drain. He mentioned the weaknesses of DENNIS but said that despite these weaknesses DENNIS is the only person who can lead the CP, USA at this time.

WILLIAMSON asked me whether there was still friction between GUS HALL and EUGENE DENNIS. I told him that DENNIS said they reserved a place on the NEC of the CP, USA for GUS HALL but that his conditional parole is not concluded yet because of the decision in the GIL GREEN - HENRY WINSTON case. I said that I did not know that there had been any friction between GUS HALL and EUGENE DENNIS. It is possible that any such friction started when GUS HALL was the acting secretary in the CP, USA.

In addition to the letters, WILLIAMSON also receives documents and resolutions of the CP, USA. On the basis of these communications he sends his own interpretations to other places and other Parties. All of this is overtime since he is really supposed to be busy with problems of the CPGB.

We concluded, after talking with JOHN WILLIAMSON a number of times, that he is really the center in Europe for the CP, USA. While DENNIS did not write too much to him, he wrote enough so that WILLIAMSON is able to speak with authority in regard to the activities of the CP, USA. Despite all dissatisfaction he will stick to American affairs because it gives him prestige on a world-wide scale and he hopes that it will help him to achieve leadership in the CPGB.

All Communist Parties which cannot communicate directly with the CP, USA write to WILLIAMSON and ask him to interpret certain events, write articles, order literature, etc., depending upon their demands. He is a glutton for work and he undertakes many things. He is quite ambitious and this is why he has become the American expert in the CPGB. Every Communist Party on the Continent writes to WILLIAMSON asking him to interpret American events.

B. CONTACTS OF WILLIAMSON WITH FORMER RESIDENTS OF THE UNITED STATES

In addition to his other contacts, WILLIAMSON has communicated with all of the other exiles in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Germany, etc.

1. [redacted] McWilliams

WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] who married [redacted] (phonetic) and who was deported from New Jersey to Denmark, is no longer living in Denmark. He is presently living in Mexico. [redacted]

2. [redacted] U.S. ENG pol U.S.S.R.

In discussing [redacted] WILLIAMSON said that the Russians were surprised when the CP, USA leadership in exile did not come to Moscow. WILLIAMSON did not know that [redacted] had deserted the CP until [redacted] gave him this information. He said that he only knew that [redacted] had lined up with the Right Wing. He commented that he bets that the Russians are tearing out their hair because [redacted] quit the CP.

WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] was the dealer in money for the CP, USA in London. He said that [redacted] worked underground "here and there" until he returned to the United States. WILLIAMSON said that he thinks that GUS HALL had something to do with the original arrangement for [redacted] to travel but he is not sure since he was in jail at the time. WILLIAMSON then remarked that GUS HALL used to place large demands on the Russians for funds.

U.S. 1955 WILLIAMSON asked me if I had seen [redacted] wife of [redacted] or had heard about her. I said that I had heard about her and had read a letter she had sent to someone and that she is stuck in Warsaw, Poland. WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] has not seen [redacted] in all these years. According to WILLIAMSON, [redacted] wanted to see his wife while he was in Moscow. The Russians would not let him see her. Then to convince [redacted] that his wife and children were alive, the Russians flew [redacted] and the children to Moscow from Warsaw on one occasion. The Russians made her walk in a certain square on a street and they let [redacted] look out the window to see his family. However, [redacted] never actually met. While [redacted] used to make trips to Warsaw, Poland, he was never permitted to make contact with her.

U.S. 1955 I saw a letter that [redacted] had sent to MANJA REISS in Peking, China. It was full of despair. She is half starving. She has lost her job. In order to support her two children she sometimes receives a few dollars from the United States. She is also giving lessons in English so that she can pick up some extra money. She has no steady job. She went to the American Embassy in Warsaw and was told that if she talks they would let her return to the United States. She said that since she cannot do that she might as well die in Warsaw.

By way of comment it might be well for the United States Government to consider giving a passport to [redacted] but not as a condition precedent to talking since she certainly would not talk in Warsaw. Obviously [redacted] has deserted her because he has never made any effort to get her out of Europe. JOHN WILLIAMSON believes that it is quite possible that [redacted] does not care whether she returns to the United States. Her entire family is out of the CP, USA, including [redacted]. She must have volumes of information. JOHN WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] was with [redacted] in regard to the preparations for a CP, USA leadership exile in Moscow. She will not talk while in Warsaw.

3. [redacted] (phonetic)

JOHN WILLIAMSON spoke about [redacted] [redacted] recently had an article in the "Daily Worker". He was once in the [redacted] "Peoples World". He went to Germany. [redacted] do not know whether he was deported or exiled or left Germany. [redacted] had some trouble with the CP of Eastern Germany. [redacted] asked JOHN WILLIAMSON about him and WILLIAMSON got in touch with the United States. While [redacted] was never a very [redacted] element. WILLIAMSON said he finally convinced the East [redacted] is alright and that his articles are alright. [redacted] asked me to check on him to see if there is any [redacted] who know anything about him.

4. ABE CHAPMAN

WILLIAMSON told me about ABE CHAPMAN, who was living with his children in Czechoslovakia. He took out Czechoslovak citizenship and is now calling himself ABE CHAKOS. He got along alright in Czechoslovakia but even he asked for a leave of absence to work on the "Peking Review" in China.

5. DORA LIPSCHITZ

WILLIAMSON said that DORA LIPSCHITZ has one of the most important jobs. She is in charge of the entire radio propaganda department dealing with all foreign languages in Warsaw, Poland. She has no family in the United States but is also unhappy and dissatisfied. She became tense and other comrades couldn't get along with her. WILLIAMSON thought that she was the best example of a person being able to accommodate to conditions but she did not.

6. GEORGE SISKIND U.S.

GEORGE SISKIND is in Warsaw, Poland. WILLIAMSON said that he is in bad shape and that he is unhappy. He asked to go to China.

7. [redacted] U.S.

WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] has a very important job. He is with the [redacted] in Warsaw, Poland. He is also unhappy and dissatisfied. He has gained a lot of weight and now weighs about 250 pounds.

8. HARRY YARRIS FOREIGN

HARRY YARRIS is very unhappy, but his wife recently visited the United States.

It is most likely that the wife of YARRIS would contact [redacted] the sister of [redacted]

9. [redacted] U.S.

WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] who was on a very important mission in India, has returned to Hungary.

10. J. PETERS

J. PETERS, who used to work underground collecting naturalization papers, birth certificates, passports, etc., in the United States for the CP, USA, is presently in Hungary. WILLIAMSON said that PETERS got through the purge and the counter-revolution alright and is in good graces. PETERS' wife recently visited WILLIAMSON in London.

11. [redacted] Correct name is [redacted] Ref 100-363317

WILLIAMSON said that he wants me to look into the question of [redacted] (phonetic). She was an American Communist. About two years ago the ultra-Left group in the CP, USA decided that she had better get out of the United States. Perhaps she was involved in some investigation in the United States possibly connected with the Greek Civil War. Somebody tried to get information and she got scared. She went to JIM FORD and AL HANNON and they advised her to flee. She fled to London. ENG U.S.

CLAUDIA JONES prepared Party charges against her and said she is possibly an enemy agent. CLAUDIA JONES said that she did not believe [redacted]'s story about being involved in the Greek CP situation. JONES stated that the CPGB ought to look into this.

Through CLAUDIA JONES and the CPGB they contacted the Greek CP and the Greek CP cleared her and said that the story was true and that she was involved in some kind of business with Greek Communists.

JOHN WILLIAMSON talked to her and advised her to go back to the United States and told her that she was just creating problems. She is in the United States now. WILLIAMSON wants me to look into this and find out why permission was given for her to leave the United States and who gave her permission after FORD and LANNON told her to flee. WILLIAMSON said that he thinks the CP, USA should have more details and he would like to know about her also.

12. IRVING POTASH

WILLIAMSON talked about IRVING POTASH and said that I should tell IRVING POTASH, when he gets out of jail, that the business POTASH set up in which he sent out various articles (small articles such as antiques) to sell on the European market is no good. WILLIAMSON said that he is sick and tired of bothering with it. It doesn't pay and it is not worthwhile.

13. The [] s []

WILLIAMSON said that []'s wife is presently in the United States for a visit.

14. CLAUDIA JONES

WILLIAMSON said that when CLAUDIA JONES came to England the CPGB recommended that she go to one of the People's Democracies and they specifically recommended Prague. She would not go. She said that she would wait around in England because somebody was supposed to come to England to marry her. Some guy did show up, stayed a few days and then left her.

CLAUDIA JONES then became ill and they had to go out and raise money to keep her in a hospital. She still would not leave England. Then she used the excuse that she could not get a passport that the British refused to give her a passport. Finally she became ill again. Usually her illness would be accompanied by a mental breakdown.

Finally they got her to France on a permit visa and the French CP took her down to the Riviera or to Nice in the South of France for a couple of months. The French CP paid the bill. Then she returned to England.

WILLIAMSON said that once in a while CLAUDIA JONES cracks up. Her moral behavior is bad. She again made contact with some guy from the United States and lived with him for a while. Then the CPGB got a telephone call from a woman in the United States informing the Party to tell CLAUDIA to lay off her husband.

WILLIAMSON said that CLAUDIA lives extravagantly, eats steaks, etc., and the average wage of a Party functionary in Britain is that of a British worker. This added to the resentment among the people in the CPGB toward CLAUDIA. WILLIAMSON stated that CLAUDIA JONES is getting money from the United States. The last time she received money it was $50 from LYDIA MINOR, wife of ROBERT MINOR. She writes to others in the United States and receives money from them.

The CPGB got CLAUDIA JONES a job. For about eight or nine months she worked for a Chinese news agency in London. She was fired because she started to tell her boss, who is Chinese, what to do and started to fight with him. The Chinese complained that she did not do her share of the work, that she was always late, etc. CPGB conducted an investigation but had to concede that the Chinese were correct and that she was wrong.

WILLIAMSON said that she breaks down every time something like this happens. Then they have to put her in a hospital. He said that she belongs in a mental institution. He stated that he tries to keep away from her but he did invite her to participate in a meeting with PAUL ROBESON.

She now has a job but earns small wages. She is the Editor of a West Indian Federation magazine, a British monthly. She could not get along with the West Indians but legally she is in a very good position. They tried to remove her but they could not and she is still the editor of the magazine. She thinks that she may get a West Indian passport some day.

WILLIAMSON said that CLAUDIA JONES is a pain in the neck. She is always fighting. She is participating in the factional fight in the CP, USA. She is fighting [redacted] because she is resentful of the fact that [redacted] was elected to the NC and not because [redacted] is an ultra-leftist. WILLIAMSON asked me to tell the CP, USA that CLAUDIA JONES is half crazy if not totally insane and that he is having his hands full with her. He said that he does not know who could influence her.

C. CONTACTS WITH AMERICANS
PASSING THROUGH GREAT BRITAIN

Hardly anything happens in England which is related to some American event or person that does not involve WILLIAMSON. In fact, they still have in existence as part of the CPGB what is called the American Commission. It was established when a number of Americans such as [redacted] the [redacted]s, CLAUDIA JONES, and WILLIAMSON went to England. The main purpose of the commission was to interpret for the CPGB and perhaps to supplement all campaigns undertaken by the CP, USA. WILLIAMSON said that as far as he is personally concerned he wishes that this commission would be abolished but that this commission is functioning.

WILLIAMSON said that many individuals who travel from the United States to Europe stop by in London. Usually there are some problems connected with travel. So every problem connected with the United States is thrown in his direction for some solution.

1. PAUL ROBESON u.s. ENG

An example is PAUL ROBESON. WILLIAMSON said that it was he who drew up the plans dealing with how PAUL ROBESON would behave and act in Britain. There are two committees in Britain for ROBESON. One is a national committee which fought for ROBESON's right to travel. The other is a local committee.

WILLIAMSON said that he had a fight with [redacted] the [redacted] of the "National Guardian". When ROBESON received his permit to travel [redacted] and others tried to exclude Communists from activities in relation to ROBESON's activities in Great Britain. WILLIAMSON said that he reported this to HARRY POLLITT and JOHN GOLAN.

WILLIAMSON stated that he, POLLITT and GOLAN met with PAUL ROBESON when he arrived in Britain. The Soviet Embassy contacted ROBESON and extended him an invitation to come to Russia. He said he spent a lot of time with ROBESON working out plans for tours in Britain. He tried to convince ROBESON not to rush to the Soviet Union but ROBESON would not listen. He said that ROBESON was going directly to Russia. He is also going to visit Ghana and India and perhaps other countries. He is then returning to England to perform in some theaters. He has already appeared on television in England.

WILLIAMSON complained about [redacted] He said he thought [redacted] was making some concessions to some of the people in Great Britain who fought for ROBESON's permit to travel. WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] does a lot of writing for the Russian press, the press of other socialist countries, including the Chinese press. [redacted] gets paid for his articles while WILLIAMSON does not.

2. W. E. B. DU BOIS U.S.S.R. U.S.

WILLIAMSON said that he is planning to meet with W. E. B. DU BOIS who is coming to England and is on his way to Moscow as a result of arrangements made for DU BOIS by WILLIAM L. PATTERSON.

In regard to DU BOIS, the Russians, through NICOLAI and ALEXAI asked me for recommendations for the Lenin Prize for Americans. They said they would like to offer it to some scientist or some well known person but they do not want the offer rejected. At this moment they would like to give the prize to EUGENE DENNIS or WILLIAM Z. FOSTER but they cannot. They might give it to PAUL ROBESON if it will not hurt anything. They now think they will give it to DU BOIS. It carries a large sum of money with it. I was asked to take this up with the CP, USA to see if the Party has any recommendations. They would prefer a non-Party person. The Russians said they wrote to a minister in the National Council of American Soviet Friendship in regard to the Lenin Prize but did not receive a reply. They assumed that he did not want to answer.

3. [redacted] (phonetic)

WILLIAMSON said that [redacted] a [redacted] who is a relative of [redacted] went to Hungary. He had talked with WILLIAM L. PATTERSON and they are trying to arrive at some export business arrangement in Hungary. WILLIAMSON commented that PATTERSON has no business making such arrangements. U.S.

It is possible that PATTERSON wants to get in on a business in order to obtain revenue for "The Worker".

D. OTHER CONTACTS OF WILLIAMSON

WILLIAMSON was expecting to see LESLIE MORRIS and BILLY KASHTAN of the Labor Progressive Party of Canada. They went to the Congress of the CP of Bulgaria, the Congress of check U.S.S.R.

The CP of Eastern Germany, and the Congress of the CP of Czechoslovakia and they had a vacation in the Soviet Union. They were in Moscow while I was there. MORRIS RUSH of British Columbia, a member of the NC of the LPP, was also in Moscow while I was there. I did not see any of these people in Moscow. U.S.S.R. CAN

VI. MISCELLANEOUS

I gave WILLIAMSON a birds-eye view of my political discussions in Moscow.

A. WILLIAMSON'S COMPLAINTS CONCERNING THE CP, USA

WILLIAMSON complained that while CLAUDIA JONES receives air mail copies of "The Worker" he does not. He also wanted to know why he does not receive the books the CP, USA promised him. He said there is no money for such things in Britain. He also wanted to know why "The Worker" doesn't print more of his articles. He also stated that DENNIS + [redacted] communicate with [redacted] but [redacted] did not. He also complained that my brother does not write. It is noted that my brother was told not to keep in touch with WILLIAMSON after the arrest of IRVING POTASH. WILLIAMSON requested a pair of shoes which can only be obtained in certain place in the United States. U.S.

I relayed WILLIAMSON's complaints to EUGENE DENNIS. I told DENNIS that WILLIAMSON rejected the proposition that [redacted] as a representative of the CP, USA to the new Communist International magazine in Prague. DENNIS made no comment. WILLIAMSON complained that sometimes WILLIAMSON writes to DENNIS about something that he should not write about. WILLIAMSON said that he has taken care of that and that he is no longer writing in the same way. b6 b7C

B. ARRANGEMENTS FOR COMMUNICATION WITH WILLIAMSON

WILLIAMSON gave me the following confidential address:

[redacted]
[redacted] Drive
[redacted] London. ENG.

I should use this address in case I want to write to him about something which should not go to his address and which should not show a direct connection with him. I told him I had a good address and gave it to him to use in the event he has some important information he wants to send to me. (This is a blind post office box in Chicago).

VII. COMMENTS CONCERNING JOHN WILLIAMSON

JOHN WILLIAMSON is in a very important strategic position. He is a dynamo of activity. He knows about everything and everybody. The only thing he lacks at the present time is an official credential so that he could act as a representative between the CP, USA and the CPSU. The Soviet Union is in contact with him. The Russians made the arrangements for me to see WILLIAMSON. They told me to tell WILLIAMSON to come to Moscow. ALEXAI talked with him when he was in Moscow during the 20th Congress of the CPSU. Both NICOLAI and ALEXAI said they would like to see WILLIAMSON come to Moscow with his family.

*TANG Ming-chao, a member of the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the CP of China, told me to give regards to WILLIAMSON and to tell WILLIAMSON to continue to send information, documents, books, etc., to China as he has been doing. ZHINA

So WILLIAMSON practically has a Center in Great Britain. As a result of all the contacts he has made in the United States, he is in a pretty good position. I gave him $50. We agreed to communicate with each other.

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. On September 8, 1958, a letter was received in a blind post office box which had been furnished to CG 5824-S*. This letter is dated September 3, 1958, is addressed "Dear David", and is signed "Dick". The letter is postmarked September 4, 1958, at London, England.

One photostat copy of the above letter is enclosed herewith to the Bureau. The Chicago copy is located in Chicago file 134-46 (Sub B)-1A28.

CG 5824-S* orally advised SA [redacted] on September 8, 1958, that this letter is from JOHN WILLIAMSON and was sent through a confidential mailing channel agreed to between WILLIAMSON and CG 5824-S*. [redacted] mentioned in the letter is [redacted] and the job he wanted was a technical position on the new international Communist magazine scheduled for publication in Prague, Czechoslovakia. CG 5824-S* further advised that EUGENE DENNIS did not agree to recommend [redacted] for this position.

Previous information has been furnished in regard to [redacted] under the above caption. It is possible that this first letter was merely a test to see if this channel of communication is open.

ReBulet 9/3/58, instructing that I personally deliver a letter from the Director to NY 694-S* and afford him an opportunity to read this letter. Further, that $1,000.00 was to be furnished him for the reason specified.

On the afternoon of 9/10/58, I personally met with NY 694-S* and gave him an opportunity to read the letter. After he read it, I then presented him with the $1,000.00. The informant was extremely pleased at first, receiving a letter from the Director and secondly, with the comments contained therein. He was elated and emotionally touched to know that the Director would personally acknowledge the work that he has performed. In addition to expressing his appreciation for the Director's personal interest in his work, he also stated that he felt that at last it was being recognized that he was making some amends for the mistakes he had made in the past in that he had worked for the Communist Party for over thirty years. He stated that he would always highly prize the letter. He was particularly pleased that at some remote future date his children may have some means whereby to establish that their father actually was a good American citizen and not a Communist such as he might have been charged with being. The letter was retained by me and has been placed in the office safe.

With reference to the $1,000.00, the informant was not at all anxious to accept this sum of money. He pointed out that for thirty years he had been a member of the Communist Party and had been working against the interests of this country. The work that he has been doing for the Bureau and the U. S. Government as a whole is merely a small token in an effort to repay the U. S. Government for this damage. He stated that he is most appreciative of the Director even thinking about giving him $1,000.00 for his efforts as this is merely further proof of the Director's personal interest in his work. He stated that he would prefer not to accept the $1,000.00 for the reasons stated. I pointed out to the informant that we were most appreciative of his thinking in this matter but that the Director felt that he had performed a very meritorious duty and that as a result thereof the Director also felt that he would like to compensate him, in addition to the regular remuneration he regularly receives, for this outstanding accomplishment. He assured me of his continued cooperation with the Bureau and accepted the money and requested that his most sincere appreciation be expressed to the Director. He also stated that although this particular assignment was important, he is going to make every effort in the future to furnish the Bureau with even more important information, if possible.

I would like to point out that I was very well impressed with the attitude of this informant. I felt that he was most appreciative of the letter from the Director, as well as the thought behind the giving him of the $1,000.00.

Dear David,

Just a brief note to inquire how you both are. Have you had a nice holiday and are now home.

I had a letter from [redacted] saying her [redacted] would like much to do that job you wrote me about. Personally I would be very, very doubtful of such a move. In fact, her description of his discontent where he is now, would only reinforce an already existing big question-mark I would have about him for any job. However, I pass it along to you since I thought you would be interested.

PERSONAL ATTENTION

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR
A. H. BELMONT

Rebulet September 3, 1958.

On September 10, 1958, in compliance with instructions in relet, I personally exhibited the Director's letter to CG 5824-S* and his wife and at the same time delivered the cash award.

Both of these people were deeply moved by the personal letter from the Director and particularly by the specific comments regarding their demonstration of patriotism at the risk of their lives. CG 5824-S* was so affected emotionally that he was on the verge of tears because of this expression of confidence and appreciation. Both expressed their highest regard for the Director and the Federal Bureau of Investigation and indicated their desire to be of even greater service in the future. They specifically requested that this desire be conveyed to the Director.

CG 5824-S* on this occasion again mentioned that he had thoroughly studied "Masters of Deceit" and feels that it fulfills a great need on the American scene.

I personally feel that through this personal letter and cash award the already splendid relationship between the Bureau and CG 5824-S* and has been further cemented and that this gesture will spur them on to even greater accomplishments in the security field in the future.

The Director's letter has been placed in the office safe in compliance with the instructions in rebulet.

I. ARRANGEMENTS FOR DISCUSSIONS WITH EUGENE DENNIS IN MAINE

When I saw EUGENE DENNIS on July 23, 1958, it was agreed that we would finish our conversations about the trip to Moscow and Peking in Maine. When I learned through [] and my brother that DENNIS was in Stonington, Maine, I wrote a letter to him, stating that I would meet him in front of the post office in Stonington at noon on August 15, 1958.

On the morning of August 14, 1958, I took Flight #614 out of Chicago at 8:00 A.M. My brother met me in Boston. He had rented a car there and we drove to Bangor, Maine, and spent the night in the Twin City Motel in Brewer, Maine, which is a few miles from Bangor.

We left Brewer for Stonington on the morning of August 15, 1958. This part of Maine is hilly and consists of many small islands, so the travelling is slow. We arrived in Stonington over one hour before noon. We went into a restaurant on the main street. As we were sitting there, we noticed EUGENE and [] drive by. They also saw us and motioned for us to follow them. We met them not far from the post office.

DENNIS said that he had to give up the cottage where he was staying and that he was going to Bar Harbor. He suggested that we follow him to a picnic grove, where we could map out plans for the next few days. We followed him to a small State Park. He said he had reservations at a motel in Bar Harbor, gave us a printed folder containing information pertaining to motels, and suggested that we call ahead for reservations and then call him when we arrived at Bar Harbor.

We talked mostly about inconsequential matters. DENNIS called me aside and said that I could talk about some matters in front of [] but that it was entirely up to me. He said that he had not yet told her that I had been to Moscow and Peking, but if I did not object, he would tell her. However, he stated that whatever else I might talk about in front of her, I was not to mention the matter of finances. I said that if he has faith and trust in [] and discusses very confidential matters with her, then, of course, I have no objection and would talk to her as I talk to him. I also said I would respect his request that financial matters not be discussed in her presence.

DENNIS asked why my wife did not come with me. He said he was under the impression that she would accompany me.

I told him that she was not feeling too well, but in view of the wonderful scenery, etc., I wished that she were with me. I also pointed out that I flew to Boston and the expenses would have been too great if she had accompanied me. He said that he and [] were preparing to spend some days with both of us as a sort of vacation. He said he planned to stay in Maine through the week after Labor Day.

DENNIS was driving a rented Chevrolet, with a New York license. They got into this car and as DENNIS left the picnic area, going North I believe, another car dashed into the picnic grounds. The driver was a young man, about 27 or 28 years of age. He glanced at me and my brother and then dashed out and went in the same direction as DENNIS. Later, we learned that DENNIS noticed this. Since DENNIS is a very careful person, it worried him and he refused to engage in discussions on Saturday night. I am not saying that this incident had anything to do with us or with DENNIS or with anything else. Perhaps it was pure coincidence that this car dashed in, turned around and followed DENNIS.

We drove to Ellsworth and obtained reservations by telephone at Hinckley's Motel (ph), which is just North of Bar Harbor. After checking in at the motel, we drove to the Ocean Drive Motel, where DENNIS said he would be staying. It is at the other side of Bar Harbor and about seven miles from where we were staying. Because of the incident at Stonington, DENNIS suggested that perhaps we should just have a social evening, going out to dinner, etc., and not engage in any discussions that night. By our gestures and discussion, we minimized the incident at Stonington, but agreed to DENNIS' suggestion.

We took them to dinner at a restaurant specializing in sea food. At the dinner table, [] said that GENE is not feeling too well. She said he does not sleep nights. Despite the fresh air and exercise he has been getting up at 2:00 o'clock in the morning and does not go back to sleep after that.

While we agreed that DENNIS should try to get to bed early, we went to DENNIS' motel for drinks. I had brought a couple of bottles of liquor with me. Since I know DENNIS, I knew that no amount of danger warnings from the doctor would keep him from drinking. The fact that he welcomed the bottles indicated that he still drinks an awful lot. When he mixes a drink, you have to be prepared to take an amount of liquor which is generally in three or four ordinary drinks. After some drinks, we parted with the understanding that he would pick me up the next morning at 9:30. On the way to Bar Harbor, my brother

I agreed that he should tell DENNIS that he was going on a fishing trip, since DENNIS might not want to talk in the presence of anyone besides [] and I had also mentioned to my brother that DENNIS had said that I should not discuss finances in front of her. So on Saturday evening, my brother asked DENNIS if he would pick me up on Sunday morning, since he would need the car to get to a fishing boat on Sunday.

Soon after my brother left on Sunday morning, GENE and [] arrived. He said he could not sleep and had been up since 2:30 A.M. Even though we had obtained sandwiches, they said they had prepared a lunch and if I was ready, we might start our conversations earlier than we had originally planned.

Talking to DENNIS is a hard physical and mental task. We travelled from about 8:30 A.M. until early evening. We covered the entire Bar Harbor area in a circle, with inner circles, detours, etc., and never spent more than about a half hour in any particular spot. He selected picnic groves or rocks on the beach. We would sit facing each other so each could see in the opposite direction. He would also determine which way the wind was blowing. He would send [] a hundred feet or a few hundred feet away to see if the conversation could be overheard at any level or to see if someone was hidden behind some shrubbery or a rock. We spent a little time in a spot on the ocean which is outside of Bar Harbor and is called Thunder Hole. These were the type of places he preferred so that there would be no possibility of any outsider overhearing our conversations. Since it was Sunday, tourists and others would come along, and as soon as he would see somebody within a hundred feet or so, he would say, Let's go.

Our conversations were punctuated by about a dozen stops. We even drove up to the summit of Cadillac Mountain, which is the highest point around Bar Harbor. Perhaps all of these details seem unimportant or innocuous, but DENNIS is one of the most careful of the Communist conspirators. He will not utter a word unless he feels safe and sure. Engaging in conversations with him about matters he considers secret and confidential becomes a terrible chore. Under the best of circumstances, conversations with DENNIS are a terrible task.

II. DISCUSSIONS WITH EUGENE DENNIS ON AUGUST 17, 1958

A. Reaction to Photographs of the Wife and Child of []

When we made our first stop, I showed [] and GENE the photographs of []'s [] and child. She was very eager to see these photographs and was very eager to talk about []. She said that something has been bothering her for years. Then she asked if [] was still angry with them or with her because he feels that he had been deserted. She asked if [] still thinks that he ought to join them in the United States. She then said that she is happy that he is married. She said she was worried about his getting married at this late age. She had felt that if he had married and had family responsibility, he might forget that since he was a little child he had been separated from the family most of the time, and particularly during the last fifteen years or so.

I assured her that [] is quite a different person than the one he was in 1947.

This matter was of significance and of psychological importance. I believe that they were aware of this feeling on the part of []. They are correct. Every time he would see someone connected with his parents, he would indicate a loneliness and a desire to be with his family. They were worried that this feeling might even turn into an antagonism. While it is true that [] is now involved as a grown man in his own problems of life, he is still desirous of meeting his parents, especially since he reads about them from time to time. He reads about DENNIS' activities and also reads DENNIS' articles.

So, we spent some time on this problem. I convinced them that [] is a man in his own right and that they have a son to be proud of, from the point of view of their ideology, etc. I also said that there is no danger that he will come to the United States soon. I said that I did not carry a photograph of him because the Russian leadership thought that there was some family resemblance and deemed it inadvisable. I said that if I had met [] in Prague as I had planned, I might have brought a photograph of him which they could see and then keep or destroy. I described his appearance and [] in any case, felt happy and contented.

Before leaving Bar Harbor, both [] and GENE DENNIS asked my [] whether he could have these photographs duplicated. [] said that she wants the photographs to send to her mother, because she would be very happy to know that she is a great grandmother.

This is the first time that they showed some real interest in their []. Since [] is standing on his own feet and is involved in the activities of the Russian Communist Party, particularly the international work of the Central Committee, GENE's reaction may have been more than that of a parent. It may also be a political reaction for fear that parental neglect might influence the thinking of [] in regard to political matters. I do not believe that this is true about [] may have feelings about neglect by his parents, but on the other hand he worships and admires GENE DENNIS.

Further, all the rumors about parenthood may be just so many rumors. The way both GENE and [] reacted at this time, asking about []'s feelings, how he looks, etc., indicate that perhaps they are mellowing a bit with age and are getting back some of the ordinary human feelings and reactions which [] people have. The hard-boiled, stone-like exterior warped by terrible ideology, may be wearing off.

B. Discussion Concerning Funds from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union

When we got away from the subject of [] GENE called me aside and we took a little walk in a shaded area, part of a mountain forest, outside of Bar Harbor. He told me that only he, TRACHTENBERG and myself will know about the money coming from Russia. He said that he has not even told [] He said he believes that HELEN WINTER should be told that the Party has this money, but should not be told where it came from.

He told me that I should think up some ideas for the purpose of explaining this money. For example, somebody may die and leave a will or an estate. He said, Maybe you know of a few people who formerly used to make donations and who have died. Perhaps we can come up with the idea that they left a certain amount of money which may not be coming into the Party all at once, but may be coming into the Party in installments. I told DENNIS that I would work on this. I also said that perhaps we can think of some people who made large donations in the past and say that some of these have once again given sums to the Party.

Then DENNIS told me how he intends to use some of this money. He told me that about 25% of this money will be under his direct control. He said he is going to use it in order to strengthen a few Districts, so that full-time functionaries can continue to operate. Then he will also try to put on a couple of additional full-timers as Organizers so they can travel or work in areas where it is impossible to raise enough money to keep them going at this moment. He asked if I objected. I said that I cannot object to anything and that as far as I am concerned, he is the boss. He can dispose of this money in any way he sees fit and that no one beyond us will know how this money is being used.

He mentioned that [redacted] is one person he would like to put into some position. He said that perhaps [redacted] could be as a functionary in the Middle West. Since [redacted] cannot make a living in Montana, this may be one way of getting him into Party activity and at the same time giving him some monetary aid.

He was satisfied that he will have no problems in regard to the disposal of the funds. I also took this occasion to tell him that my trip to Toronto did not result in the obtaining of any money which had been promised. I told him that I had taken [redacted] to remind the Russians that they had been neglecting [redacted] which [redacted] had believed to be urgent.

I also told DENNIS that when I stopped off in New York, I would tell TRACHTENBERG to get in touch with his contact. This [redacted] be for the purpose of having TRACHTENBERG also notify [redacted] that, although many weeks have elapsed, they have [redacted] moving in order to put this money at the Party's disposal in the United States. I did tell DENNIS that TIM BUCK was informed that there is a substantial sum of at least $50,000 in Canada and that only the arrival of a certain Soviet personage [redacted] Embassy is needed in order for this money to be given to [redacted] DENNIS agreed that I should talk to TRACHTENBERG and tell [redacted] and the Russians.

[redacted] point out that I did talk to TRACHTENBERG in New York [redacted] the week of August 17, 1958. He told me that [redacted] of [redacted] important personages in New York City at the present moment [redacted] connection with the special assembly meeting of the United Nations, it is impossible for him to contact the Russians. He [redacted] they have an understanding of long standing that during such important periods, they are not to be contacted and they avoid contacting the American Communists, particularly TRACHTENBERG.

C. DENNIS' Comments and Briefing of WILLIAM [redacted]

We did not talk in the automobile as we travelled from place to place when we did. DENNIS had the radio turned on.

DENNIS told me that he did speak with WILLIAM Z. FOSTER the Friday before he went on his vacation. He said he told FOSTER that it was I who had been to both Moscow and Peking.

DENNIS said that he told FOSTER that sometime in September, he, FOSTER, will get more of the details and personal regards. DENNIS said that he had visited with FOSTER in the country, where FOSTER is staying. DENNIS stated, however, that he knows that the residences of FOSTER, both in the city and in the country, are "wired". Therefore, he wrote out whatever he told FOSTER about my trip. DENNIS did not elaborate on this state-but it should be noted that DENNIS goes on the assumption every place is "wired".

DENNIS said that FOSTER's reaction was very good. He said FOSTER was flattered when he told him that the comrades both in Moscow and Peking were interested in personal problems and some material aid to FOSTER and to DENNIS. DENNIS said that even though this did not come, in the future. DENNIS said that he also gave personal regards from these very people in Russia. DENNIS said that this made FOSTER feel happy.

When I was in New York City, I thought of going to DENNIS told him that there will be a meeting. I thought it advisable to hold off until I am in New York.

D. Planned Meeting of the National Executive Committee, with the Selection of a Secretariat

Then DENNIS told me that he had spoken to [redacted] and told him that somebody was in Moscow and Peking. He said he had also spoken to JIM JACKSON and JACK STACHEL about this. He said that he did not tell these people that it was I who had travelled. However, he assumes that they know that it was I and that it could not have been anyone else. I asked when he is going to place this question on the order of business so that there can be an official discussion or a semi-official discussion, but one which would involve more than the two of us.

DENNIS said that at the next meeting of the National Executive Committee, which will take place in the middle of September, the 14th and 15th are the tentative dates (subsequently changed to September 21, 1958), they will officially designate a Secretariat. He said that the Secretariat functions now, but it is still unofficial. He said that when this Secretariat is formally elected, then the problem of whom to invite may be, to a large extent, eliminated. Then he said, You will make a report about that time, to this group designated as the Secretariat. Of course, if someone is elected to the Secretariat whom they not trust, then that person may be excluded from a discussion of my report. He said, however, that all those people who he talked about as composing the Secretariat now functioning in an unofficial capacity will be the Secretariat. Then the problem of someone feeling slighted because they have not been invited, although they suspect that there is some information both from Moscow and Peking, will be eliminated. I told DENNIS that this is all right as far as I am concerned.

E. Discussion Concerning the Communist Party Headquarters in Exile in Moscow

I enlarged upon some of the things that I gave him previously in outline form. I also read to DENNIS from the notes concerning China. He took notes, particularly on those things that he thought concerned policy or political line.

I asked DENNIS why the center in exile was not established in Moscow. DENNIS said that he does not know, since he was in jail at that time. He said he is of the opinion that the group which would have made up this center in exile, plus a few who were working underground in the United States, made the decision and perhaps they did not bother to inform the people abroad. He said that GUS HALL's arrest undoubtedly interfered with it -- that is, interfered with the decision to go ahead and also with the idea of notifying the Russians when the decision was made not to go ahead. The people he mentioned by name as being involved in this matter were GUS HALL, GIL GREEN, HENRY WINSTON, MAX WEISS and FRED FINE. These are about the only names that he can recall at the present time. He said they made the decision to cancel the idea of a leadership in exile or had something to do with the decision. Whether they did this in a formal manner, with all of them getting together, I do not know. I did not question him about this. But these were the people who had the responsibility to set up such an American leadership in exile and some of these people mentioned were to have made up this leadership.

F. A Possible Underground Apparatus for the Communist Party - USA

I told DENNIS that the people in Moscow and Peking were somewhat surprised that at this moment we in the Communist Party - USA do not have a real underground apparatus, not even in a skeleton form. He made a note of this and said, Well, we are going to try to solve this problem soon without going to some extreme. He said it might be a good idea if I thought about this problem.

G. Discussion of the New International Communist magazine

I then took up a number of problems with DENNIS, because answers were needed from him.

The first question which needed DENNIS' immediate attention was that of the magazine which will be published in Prague and the suggestion that the English edition be printed in Canada. I gave him the details, including the price, the size, etc. He said that he agrees with TIM BUCK that the original suggested price of 50¢ a copy would have been too much.

DENNIS stated that he is fearful about the publication of the English edition of this magazine in Canada right now. He said that if it is not too late, he would suggest that the English edition of the magazine be published in Prague as originally planned. Then it could be, if necessary, transferred to Canada afterwards. I asked why he has objections to the publication of this magazine in Canada. He replied that up to now, we have been able to use Canada as a point of communication, internationally. He said that with the publication of the magazine in Canada, it will become more difficult for the Communist Party - USA to utilize the Canadian Party. He said, Specifically, it may even become more difficult for you, your brother or anyone else to go into Canada and engage in the kind of work and contact that we have been engaged in up until now.

I told him that I would try to convey his point of view as soon as I was able. In the meantime, my brother had a couple of messages for him. One written message from TIM BUCK asked that somebody be appointed to work full-time to promote and circulate in the United States this magazine which will be published internationally. Another message concerned [redacted] [redacted] is brother. When [redacted] was in East Germany, [redacted] had talked to him about [redacted] and asked if DENNIS would agree to [redacted] working as a technical writer on this new international magazine.

DENNIS did not give a reply to either message. He said that these things can wait and we will decide later. I am sure that he will probably leave the message concerning [redacted] unanswered. As to the other question of a full-time person for the promotion of this international magazine, he may hold off to see if it cannot be worked out in another way. He may decide that the present apparatus, without appointing someone full time, would suffice. I also believe that he will ask more questions about the financial part of the promotion. I do not think that the Communist Party - USA will lay out $10,000 -- it would require a minimum of that amount -- to hire a person to promote the magazine. So that is being held in abeyance at this time.

H. JOHNNY WILLIAMSON

I also raised with DENNIS the question of JOHNNY WILLIAMSON. I told him that [] had talked to JOHNNY WILLIAMSON only a few days after I had talked to him, and had brought back a message. I told him that WILLIAMSON was planning to do an "IRVING POTASH" and would try to sneak back into the United States. DENNIS said that JOHNNY is crazy and that under no circumstances should he try it. He said there is a difference between JOHNNY and IRVING POTASH. Although it was wrong for POTASH to do it in the manner in which he did, still there is very little the Government can do about it after POTASH finishes his sentence in Atlanta.

DENNIS said he thinks that the most the Government can do is hold POTASH for another six months, but that they cannot deport him, since no country will take him, at least no country designated as a Socialist country. However, since there is an extradition treaty between the United States and Great Britain, he said he is of the opinion that JOHNNY WILLIAMSON would not last once he was discovered. He would only create additional problems for the Party.

I told DENNIS that I would convey this message to the Canadian Party and that TIM BUCK is not anxious to have WILLIAMSON undertake any such trip. I said BUCK would only do so if the Communist Party - USA agrees. I said all BUCK did was to convey the message which [] had brought to him.

Since I talked with DENNIS, I have communicated with TIM BUCK. In a vague way, I gave the Canadian Party the message about DENNIS' attitude toward the magazine and toward a promoter for the magazine. I did not deal with the WILLIAMSON problem in that letter. I was afraid to put it into writing. I will have to find some way of transmitting DENNIS' opinion to JOHNNY WILLIAMSON. I am seriously considering conveying this opinion to WILLIAMSON by letting him know, through the confidential mailing address he gave to me, that the Canadians did inform the Communist Party - USA about his intentions and that DENNIS said that this plan is no good.

I. Conclusion of the Discussions on Sunday, August 17, 1958

I am not going into all the discussions I had with DENNIS regarding the trip abroad. He did not receive any information that I have not reported. I spent hours repeating some of the same things. We talked until about 7:00 P.M. We returned to his motel, since he was very tired. He mixed some of those big drinks. Then we went outdoors and talked a little bit. He would not talk indoors. We took them out to dinner again. After dinner, we returned to his motel, had a few drinks, and decided to call it a day at 10:00 P.M., in the hope that DE some [redacted] that he not only wakes up early, but he dresses and does not go back to bed. He keeps her awake, too. He usually takes a sleeping pill before going to bed, but after that he takes several other pills. He claims his mind is not clear. I learned that the pills do not work on him any longer, since he has been taking these pills for years and he has taken large doses.

III. DISCUSSIONS WITH EUGENE DENNIS ON MONDAY, AUGUST 18, 1958

On Monday morning, in a big down-pouring storm, we went to meet DENNIS. It had been agreed that my brother would take [redacted] out, so DENNIS and I could sit and talk by ourselves. The rain created problems for us. My brother did take [redacted] out to do some shopping. DENNIS had to be content talking to me in the kitchen of the motel. To converse with him indoors is even more difficult. He had a small battery radio, which he brought into the kitchen and this was supposed to serve as a background to make it more difficult for anyone to unscramble the conversation in case the house is "wired".

I talked chiefly about the Chinese situation. He made notes when he thought that there was a point of some importance or political interest. In any case, he got the idea that the Chinese Communist Party, as well as the Russian Party, favors the present leadership and that he is, as an individual, an important part of this leadership. Perhaps, in view of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER's illness, the first among this leadership. I did not tell him everything. He only got a smattering of the discussions with the Chinese on the need for infiltration and underground activity. However, he got the idea that the Party in the United States lacks something and that is some kind of an emergency apparatus, at least in skeleton form. He made a note of that.

A. DENNIS' Comments on Individuals in the Communist Party - USA

DENNIS asked me if I was going into New York City. I again told him that I was going to do this in order to pay attention to some of my personal business and also to take up some problems with [redacted] and others in the National Office. He told me to check to see that the bonds of those who have been released in the JIM JACKSON case are taken care of and that the money gets into the hands of the Party. He said that except for TRACHTENBERG and JACKSON, the other people involved in this trial are not to be trusted. Both [redacted] and BILL NORMAN are out of the Party and they had some financial difficulties with NORMAN previously. He said, It is quite possible that things may even become worse. On the other hand, maybe they could convince BILL NORMAN now to give up this $25,000 that is posed to be keeping in the event that he is sent to jail now, he might surrender he might make a deal with the Party.

DENNIS said that FIVE also not to be trusted. Further, S. D. STEIN is not to be trusted. He said some of the bonds in the names of the wives of those people. He said someone is posing into this situation and see to it that this money is paid whenever possible. Then he said that I should also go to WILLIAM L. PATTERSON about the bonds that were to have been released on the Puerto Rican cases.

I raised this question with TRACHTENBERG and with JACKSON. JACKSON said that it is too early and that it will be another thirty days before they can consider the question of bonds. In the meantime, they are looking into other aspects of the bond question.

Then DENNIS talked to me about STANLEY LEVISON. He said that there is a group around LEVISON and this group, with LEVISON at the head, is under the influence of BEN DAVIS. He said that since I know STANLEY LEVISON, it would be well if some arrangement were made for me to meet with him and his group to keep them lined up politically. He said that they would arrange regular meetings for me with this group. It is a group which works with the American Jewish Congress, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and some other mass organizations. I do not know who else is in this group. He mentioned a lawyer, without naming him. DENNIS said that by keeping LEVISON politically informed, it is quite possible the Party may get even more money from him. He asked me if I knew that STANLEY LEVISON's contributions have been cut. He said he is of the opinion that since BEN DAVIS influences STANLEY LEVISON now, that LEVISON may be giving some of the money he earns from Party businesses to the New York District, through BEN DAVIS. We agreed that we would discuss this matter further in New York City, when EUGENE DENNIS returns from his vacation.

DENNIS stated that when he talked to WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, he asked him about the letter FOSTER had written in May to the National Committee members, and which pertained to the building of the Party. He said he asked FOSTER whether he wants this letter put to a vote at the next National Committee meeting or at the next National Executive Committee meeting. FOSTER said he does not want to put this letter to a vote. FOSTER said that perhaps for the time being, the letter should be considered information for leading and active comrades in the Party. FOSTER also told DENNIS that if it is put to a vote, he knows that it might be voted down. DENNIS said he told FOSTER that if it is put to a vote, there will naturally be a political struggle and that this is not going to help to consolidate the Party. So, as of now, the FOSTER letter is just a communication and is not an official document to be voted on.

Then DENNIS told me that they received a letter from BILL SCHNEIDERMAN. He said SCHNEIDERMAN had failed to attend the National Committee meeting, but in this letter SCHNEIDERMAN cast his vote against the DENNIS report, against the THOMPSON report, and cast a vote for the AL RICHMOND - SI GERSON resolution concerning Hungary. DENNIS called SCHNEIDERMAN an unreconstructed Right-winger.

Then DENNIS talked about [redacted] of Denver. He said she represents no one. He stated that she has only two members in her District right now. Therefore, one of these days they will have to consider the removal of such people from the National Committee.

He asked me some questions about various other individuals. He again asked what I think of [redacted]. I told him that I have not much to add to what I told him before. He asked me whether [redacted] is a maneuverer. I told him that CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT had used stronger words.

DENNIS asked about JIM WEST. I told him I do not know WEST well. I said that I have only known him since he has been in Chicago, but WEST thinks politically the way we do. I said I know nothing about his current thinking, so I would rather not discuss WEST.

Then DENNIS asked me if I thought it would be a good idea to bring [redacted] into the Middle West to work, since this would be one way of providing for him. I told him that I saw no objections and that it might be a good idea, if he thinks that it is.

At this point, I got into a discussion with DENNIS. It was quite an emphatic discussion. I told him that one of these days I am going to unload some tasks and that I am going to build a base for myself. I said that I think that the time has come to put an end to provincialism and the war lord conception of each person who runs a little District receiving a title. Meanwhile, I run around this country and the world representing the Party leadership, and yet, cannot speak with the full authority of the National Committee. He listened and said that maybe we ought to be more patient. He said that there is no question about my being a part of the leadership, and that there are some tasks that need to be taken care of which cannot be spoken about too loudly. However, before the next Convention is over, they will certainly give consideration to integrating me into the top leadership of the Party.

At this point, I deemed it advisable to cut off the discussion on the leadership, and we talked about other matters.

B. Conventions of the Communist Party of Mexico and Communist Party of Uruguay

I asked DENNIS what he proposed to do about the Mexican Party Convention. He asked me whether I had taken up the question of the Mexican Party with the Russians. I said that I had. I also told him that I had talked to a Cuban Party representative in Moscow, and he had the same opinion about the Mexican Party as we do. I said that it is quite possible that by this time the Russians have intervened and this may account for the fact that they are calling a Convention. However, I stated that we ought to give consideration to their request for either a greeting or a fraternal delegate.

DENNIS said that JIM JACKSON might be the logical delegate, in that he has been interested in these problems. He said I could take this up with JACKSON when I was in New York City. I replied that I would turn over the communication from the Mexican Party to JACKSON. I also told him that I would give some newspapers concerning the Mexican Party discussion to JIM JACKSON. I did turn this material over not only to JACKSON, but to [] as well.

I told DENNIS about the Convention of the Uruguayan Party and why it was important. I told him why I had communicated with [] and told [] to see to it that a communication was sent to that Party, since this Convention will set a possible date for a Western hemispheric conference. When I was in New York City, I learned from [] that he, with the help of JACKSON, drew up a brief telegram of greetings which was dispatched to Montevideo, Uruguay, on the eve of their Convention.

IV. SUMMARY AND COMMENT

Despite all the time spent with DENNIS, he has not received all of the information in detail about the meetings in Moscow and Peking. Some things are still to be discussed. But there is no question that he was glad that I came to see him again and he was somewhat surprised at the old man's (that is, WILLIAM Z. FOSTER's) response to my trip. In general, he was satisfied that we had accomplished something on this trip; that is, that we had presented the case of the Communist Party - USA before the two leading Communist Parties in the world. This means before the world Communist movement. Further, that they, in turn, showed confidence in the leadership of the Communist Party - USA and a great deal of confidence in DENNIS. Also, he felt that he had learned something about the international situation and policy as a result of these discussions. Also, that he had learned the attitude of the Soviet and Chinese leadership on a number of world problems, particularly their attitude toward United States imperialism. Of course, he was satisfied that he got some material aid and that more would be forthcoming in the future.

Also, DENNIS was satisfied that we have established our own contact and communication with the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. In the discussion, we also agreed that DENNIS would write more frequently, or even if he makes a speech, that he would use parts of his speech or speeches as articles which can be transmitted to the various Parties, and thus enhance his own name and reputation as the leader of the Communist Party - USA.

I think that all in all, DENNIS received the results of this last mission as an accomplishment and that this visit with him was very satisfactory. Despite the fact that I had raised the question of my role in leadership, he has to depend upon me. This does not mean that I am indispensable, but he is obligated to me in more ways than one. Also, he knows that I am aware of many secrets which are not known to the rest of the leadership. Since I am on the Auditing and Inspection Committee, as he called it, and gave him the go-ahead signal to utilize the money from Russia as he sees fit, this makes him even more dependent upon me.

I am not now raising the question of indispensability. I am just reasoning out why DENNIS would co-operate with us and would not accept the raising of the question of leadership as a challenge to his own person. Besides, he does not feel too secure in this leadership. He has to depend upon certain people and certain groups. He knows that the Right wing challenge will be met and has already been met. With the GATES walk-out and the other resignations from the Right, there is little challenge to him from the Right. He also knows that the ultra-Left will be taken care of. But he does feel a re-alignment inside the leadership of the Party that would be similar to that of 1946. This is a re-alignment which is based upon FOSTER, DAVIS, [REDACTED] WEINSTONE, and some remnants of the Left which would remain in the Party apart from the split-off or ultra-Left group. Therefore, he wants to consolidate a group around him which might be considered a Middle group, but not a Centrist group in the Communist sense of the word. It would be a Middle group only insofar as it does not go to extremes, but would definitely base itself on Marxism-Leninism and the struggle on two fronts.

I did emphasize to DENNIS that the Russians consider revisionism as the main danger, and that he must find some way of carrying on this fight on two fronts, with emphasis upon revisionism, and that he must find the concrete forms to place the problem in that manner.

I think that while DENNIS may have been a little bit worried at first about my brother accompanying me, we agreed that I could not have travelled by myself. However, before the discussions were over, he was very much satisfied that my brother had come with me. In fact, DENNIS asked him to do a few favors. DENNIS was short of ready cash and he asked my brother to give him a loan and to cash some checks for him. This was taken care of so that he would have enough cash to last until the end of his vacation. He would not even talk to other persons about his financial problems. No one else would respond in a positive way to his requests.

DENNIS tried to act as a congenial host whenever he had the opportunity. Before our departure from Bar Harbor at about 2:30 P.M. on Monday, August 18, 1958, we all went to lunch. He was very talkative, but was very ill. He has some arthritis or bursitis. He uses anti-coagulants and anti-shock pills. He also discussed with my brother the possibility of getting some credit cards. All of this indicated a large degree of confidence. The question of confidence is not a point of issue, since every possible secret was taken up with DENNIS.

I think this trip was necessary and important, and that the purpose was accomplished.

Meeting with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG on ^{NY}
August 20, 1958, in Regard to Communist Party - USA Funds ^{MEMBER}

When I saw ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, I told him that I had gone to Canada and that there was a mix-up and a lack of co-ordination. I told him that while it was acknowledged that there was money in the Russian Embassy in Ottawa for the Communist Party - USA, that both TIM BUCK and myself wasted our time, since the people in Moscow did not give consideration to the vacation period and only the person in charge of the Embassy could give the go-ahead signal for the turnover of this money. I further told TRACHTENBERG that I had seen EUGENE DENNIS, and that he is aware of what happened in Canada. I also stated that there is another financial crisis in the National Office of the Communist Party - USA. I cited the example of WILLIAM L. PATTERSON who, by a decision of the National Executive Committee, was supposed to go to Washington to contact very important individuals in the Negro community about a petition to the United Nations; however, PATTERSON had no money for fare and had to borrow money. Further, that I had to cash a money order in the amount of only $5.00 for ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN, since there was no cash in the office of "The Worker".

Because of this, I told TRACHTENBERG that it might be advisable for him to get in touch with his contact in New York and tell him what had happened. Further, that while Canada has agreed to handle the greater share of the money from the USSR, if not all of it, as requested by DENNIS and TRACHTENBERG, that if TIM BUCK has to travel from Toronto to Ottawa and wastes his time, he may decide not to participate in the transmission of this money.

TRACHTENBERG then said that at this time it is virtually impossible for him to see his contact. He again repeated that this is a very important contact and that the man is doing very important work. He again said that this man knows most of the details about the American Communist Party. I asked, Why can't you see him? He replied that he cannot make contact whenever there is a large international gathering in New York City. If important Russians are involved or if something is being negotiated behind the scenes, and at this moment there are behind-the-scenes negotiations between the Russians, the United States and the British on another summit conference, then he cannot make contact. There are also negotiations in regard to a settlement of the Middle East conflict. He said that under such circumstances, he is not to make contact with anybody from the Soviet Union.

TRACHTENBERG said that some weeks ago -- he meant months ago -- a very important document came in from Russia. It was a document dealing with the Yugoslav situation.

Parenthetically speaking, this is the document which I had mentioned to DENNIS.

TRACHTENBERG said that he was about to receive this document, which was a letter of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union in regard to Yugoslavia. However, because a summit meeting was in the making, contact could not be made with the Soviet agent who was going to transmit this document. Then, the Soviet agent had to leave the United States and the document went with him back to Moscow.

TRACHTENBERG emphasized that whenever there are questions in negotiation, whenever important Russians are talking to Americans or other pro-Western nations of the United Nations, they are very careful about their contacts. So, he said perhaps weeks will go by before we can, through my channels, notify the Russians concerning what happened in Canada and the failure of the Communist Party - USA to receive the money from Russia.

TRACHTENBERG then suggested that (and I agreed with him) perhaps we could change some money that he has on hand. I do not know the source of the money that he had on hand. He did not tell me. I did not ask him. I assume that it could be money which was sent from Russia to pay royalties or to give to WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. TRACHTENBERG said that he would try to get this money converted and would keep it on hand for emergencies in the event that the financial crisis in the National Office grows deeper and it becomes necessary to make some advances.

He said that it can be replaced with the money which will come in from Russia. I agreed that this was a good idea and said that it would be very bad if we did not have any money on hand when DENNIS comes back from his vacation.

He then asked to have my brother see him the next morning. This was done.

Meeting with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG on Thursday, August 21, 1958

I was with TRACHTENBERG for about fifteen minutes on the following morning -- that is, Thursday morning. I told him that my brother had agreed to convert some money for him. He kept on badgering me about details regarding my stay in Moscow and Peking. Since DENNIS had mentioned it to him, I told him that I would give him the details some day, but that I did not think this was the ideal moment. He agreed that since most of his staff, including JIM ALLEN, was on vacation, that it might be well to postpone such a wide discussion.

Then we talked about the "old man". He told me that the "old man" is quite ill again and then he went into a tirade against JACK SHULMAN. He said that BILL FOSTER does not trust JACK SHULMAN. He said he does not trust JACK SHULMAN. He said that JACK SHULMAN is filling WILLIAM Z. FOSTER with a lot of ultra-Leftist tripe and that something has to be done in order to eliminate JACK SHULMAN as FOSTER's assistant or secretary.

I tried to reason out this tirade and I came to the conclusion, as a result of a later discussion with JACK SHULMAN, that SHULMAN is creating a very difficult situation between FOSTER and the others in the leadership of the Communist Party. They do not trust him and they feel that FOSTER is misinformed. They feel that if someone else was working with FOSTER, their relationship with FOSTER would be better.

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG is a good weather vane. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG learned that the leadership of the Soviet Union and the leadership of China are not 100% with WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. While they admire FOSTER, they actually depend upon EUGENE DENNIS to be the future leader of the Party and regard him as the day-to-day leader of the Party at the present time. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG usually makes a switch and he has done so. In fact, he indicated to me in a number of ways that perhaps the "old man" was too rigid in the past and for practical purposes, except for his moral authority, cannot lead the Party. Further, that EUGENE DENNIS is the person to be depended upon. Also, that the ultra-Left has to be fought and that perhaps the "old man" did encourage the ultra-Left in the past. Further, that JACK SHULMAN may have some contact with the ultra-Left even to this day.

TRACHTENBERG was asked if he was going on a vacation. He said, No, that he did not plan to take a vacation this year despite his hay fever, although it is not so bad. He said that his throat bothers him and that he has to receive some attention from the doctors. Since his bail bond has not been released, he is not planning to ask the authorities for permission to go on a vacation. He said that he will wait until the bond is released and his case is completely thrown out of court. He said he does not like the authorities to go to the landlady when he rents a room or a cottage in the White Mountains in order to escape the pollen.

TRACHTENBERG was asked if he intends to travel abroad. He said that at this moment, he has not given consideration to it, but at the proper moment he will. It will depend upon the final outcome of the Smith Act case and the release of the bond. If the Government does not appeal, he will give this a second thought. Most likely, he will make a trip to Moscow.

When I left TRACHTENBERG, I told him I would see him in a few weeks. My brother then took over with TRACHTENBERG; and since I was not present, I do not know the details of what happened in regard to the conversion of the money.

When I left TRACHTENBERG's office and was on the way to the elevator, someone came out of the door of an unmarked office which is adjacent to that of TRACHTENBERG. This man was in his early 30's and looked at me to see who I was and where I was going. This thing was so obvious that I turned around and looked at him because it seemed as though someone was chasing me in order to ascertain my identity.

TRACHTENBERG is a very careful person. Afterward, my brother told me that even while counting the money which he had on hand, he was careful so that there would be no sound as the money was being counted. He thinks that it might be possible to ascertain the amount of money merely by listening to the rustling of the paper, even though the count is not made out loud. Since we had agreed the day before that he would have this money on hand, I am of the opinion that he does not normally keep it in the office, although there is some possibility that he may. This money, of course, is to be kept on hand and is not to be used. Only in an extreme emergency will TRACHTENBERG turn the money over to the National Office and in that event, it would later be replaced by the money that is due to come in from the USSR.

TRACHTENBERG is getting quite old and sometimes becomes forgetful. He is showing some signs of senility. He repeated the story about his contact over and over again. I have heard it now three or four times. He has added nothing new. He also frequently tells the story of how he attended the 18th Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and that this was the last time that a foreigner was permitted to attend any Russian Congress. Now, that is a long time ago. It is at least 20 or 21 years ago.

Reference is made to attached communication from Chicago dated 9/3/58, and particularly to 3rd paragraph on page 4.

I talked to Supervisor [redacted] of New York today (9/8/58) and, after checking, he advised me that New York did not have space on 13th floor of building located at 381 Fourth Avenue, on which floor Trachtenberg has his office space. [redacted] said that NY had already checked and had satisfied themselves there was no Agent on that floor for any reason at that time. NY speculates that the young man seen by the informant might have been a clerk in Trachtenberg's office.

RECOMMENDATION:

That Chicago be telephonically advised that a check has been made and it has been determined that the young man seen by 5824 near Trachtenberg's office was not a Bureau employee.

Pursuant to our conversation as to the results of, and further action to be taken in connection with the above-captioned project, the following is being set out for your consideration, and I recommend that we take the action indicated below:

1. It is recommended that the Bureau direct two strong letters, in their correct names, to the Chicago informant and his wife (in one instance), and to the NY informant (in the other instance), over the Director's signature, on formal stationery, highly commending them.

It is proposed that I personally deliver these two letters to them, but only for their perusal, and then I will take them back and keep them in the SAC's safe, with the idea that, the security situation being as it is, it is not safe for them to keep the letters, and we will keep them for them.

I feel that this will provide a distinct morale booster for them, and should be of considerable assistance in their future handling. It is suggested that we, in Chicago, deliver both letters (the NY informant will be coming to Chicago in connection with conferences, et cetera, and his letter can be delivered at that time).

2. I also recommend that we give the two informants an incentive award for their work.

16 SEP 21 1958

My basic reasons for the above recommendations are as follows:

It seems to me that there is an excellent potential for the future (and a probability that it will come about, because of the international situation) whereby we would want the informant and his wife to take a second trip, i.e., go back again for additional developments. The results of the first trip were worthwhile, it did not hurt the health of the informant or his wife, he feels he has accomplished something startling (and I believe he has), and certainly the opposition apparently was delighted with the renewal of ties after a 10-year lapse, and would lose no opportunity to strengthen them further by additional trips.

As a practical matter, in the handling of the Chicago informant, whose health is tenuous (due to his heart condition), SAC Auerbach called me on the afternoon of September 3 pointing out that the Bureau had previously advised the New York Office to handle information from the SOLO operation very carefully. Auerbach felt that New York may be handling the information too loosely. He referred to New York letter to the Bureau dated August 20, 1958 (100-3-63), CPUSA Funds, pages 6 and 7, copies of which were sent to many offices.

Auerbach also advised that he was fearful that a physical surveillance of Alexander Trachtenberg might well endanger the SOLO operation. He noted that New York letter of August 8, 1958, entitled CPUSA Funds contained many references of physical surveillances of Trachtenberg.

I told Auerbach we would look over both of these letters and if it appears that New York needs to observe more caution we will caution the New York Office. Please see that these are carefully examined in view of the importance of the SOLO operation.

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and others who are planning to go to

This office concurs with NY's view that the successful continued operation of SOLO may be dependent upon shutting off of other Communist leaders from visiting Moscow at will. While it is recognized that these people appear to have every legal right to travel under the present interpretation of the passport laws, this office is making the following suggestions for consideration of the the Bureau could legitimately furnish as to the identity of case of TRACHTENBERG, International Publishers), which might discourage such travel. These stories could be worded along the lines that there are no travel restrictions regarding passports and we can look forward to frequent contacts between representatives of the CP, USA and the CP SU. By innuendo, it could be indicated that the doors to increased espionage by the CP, USA have been opened by failures to legislate to protect internal security.

The desired effect of such publicity would be to have the Russians feel that they were endangering the security of the CP, USA leadership by encouraging such travel to the Soviet Union by leading Communists. By such an approach the doors to the continued SOLO operation might not be shut.

On a longer range basis, it is suggested that the Bureau may also consider the use of the press for continuous stories publicizing information concerning applications with the State Department for passports and identifying the individuals in press news stories of leading papers throughout the country.

Another possible suggestion would be for the Bureau's liaison representatives with legislators charged with responsibility for inquiries on the need for passport legislation to discuss the possibility of subpoenas of individuals who are applying as well as individuals who have been granted passports in the recent past. The legitimate purpose of such subpoenas would be for the legislators to learn of the scope of foreign travel of these individuals as well as their purpose and the identity of the Communist officials abroad with whom they have been in contact.

As examples of the type of people who might be subpoenaed, it is noted that [redacted] and the wife of [redacted] both of whom have recently been in China, would be logical persons for such exploratory testimony.

As an additional suggestion, it might be desirable for the Bureau to prepare memoranda and/or charts showing the identity of individuals in and around the Communist movement who have traveled with the permission of the State Department since the recent Supreme Court decision regarding same. A resume of their travels, of their press interviews, here and abroad during and after these trips, etc., would clearly show the damage being done by the permitted travel from a propaganda standpoint internationally.

It is noted that a news item in the "Chicago Tribune" of 9/23/58 indicates that ANNA LOUISE STRONG had just arrived in Red China. STRONG, upon her return to this country, can be logically expected to lecture extensively propagandizing for the Soviet Union and for China.

The Bureau and this office are vitally concerned with the desire to effectively continue the SOLO operation. The suggestions offered above are certainly not all inclusive and the Bureau may at this time have other ideas of a much more effective nature. The purpose of this airtel is to offer whatever assistance in the way of suggestions this office can make in an effort to expedite the closing of any channels that might interfere with the continued operation of SOLO.

[redacted] was met at Eaton's Department Store in Toronto, Canada, on Tuesday, September 23, 1958, at which time she turned over to me a shopping bag containing $12,000. This sum was part of the first shipment of $50,000 being sent to the Communist Party - USA by the Communist Party of the Soviet Union as part of the arrangement by which the CPSU agreed to send the CP-USA $200,000 by the end of 1958. Since there was supposed to be $23,000 remaining from the first installment of $50,000, I said that I wanted to take all of the remainder of the first sum from Russia on this trip back to the United States. [redacted] said that she thought it was not wise to take more than $12,000 on one trip in case of an accident, but finally agreed to discuss my request with TIM BUCK.

I met with TIM BUCK briefly on Wednesday morning, September 24, 1958. He made the same complaint that [redacted] did, but after I stated that once one is carrying $12,000, any additional amount does not create any greater security problem. He finally agreed to give me an additional $5,000 from this first installment. BUCK said that [redacted] had made a trip and that some money will be taken by the Canadians for the expenses of [redacted]. It is, therefore, believed that [redacted] went to Ottawa to obtain the balance of the first sum. 24th

BUCK advised me that a courier comes from Russia to Canada approximately every two weeks. BUCK stated that he was of the opinion that since the first $50,000 has been obtained from the Embassy in Ottawa, that the second sum will arrive soon. We agreed that I would meet him again in Toronto on October 16, 1958, at which time additional money for the CP-USA will probably be available. I signed the receipt for $17,000 at the request of BUCK and it was agreed that [redacted] would meet me and give me an additional $5,000.

I met [redacted] again on Wednesday evening at Childs' Restaurant on King Street West, at which time she gave me the additional $5,000.

COMMUNIST PARTY, USA
FUNDS
IS-C

By letter 8-20-58 in captioned matter, New York set forth summary of significant information developed during June and July, 1958. A review of New York letter reflects that on page 6 under a caption, "Funds From Abroad," information was set forth to the effect that [redacted] gave Jack Childs two packages of money containing $4,000 in USA currency. It is not felt that Childs' name should be set out in this communication and that this sentence could be worded to the effect that Tim Buck through his courier, [redacted] made available to the Communist Party (CP), USA, two packages of money containing $4,000 in USA currency. The second paragraph on this same page also mentions the name of Jack Childs. This paragraph should be reworded to eliminate this name.

On page 7 of relet, the second paragraph states that on July 23, 1958, Eugene Dennis indicated that he desires Morris Childs to take charge of the funds from Russia. It is felt that in order to afford this matter the utmost security, the name of Eugene Dennis should be eliminated from this paragraph and that the paragraph merely state that Morris Childs has been designated to take charge of this money.

The last paragraph on page 13 of this letter is a precautionary phrase as to the manner in which this information should be handled. This phrase concludes with a statement "as information furnished by these two highly placed informants tends to identify them as the source thereof. It is felt that this latter portion should be eliminated."

In addition to the above, it is noted that New York letter of 8-8-58 in captioned matter contained many references of physical surveillances on Alexander Trachtenberg who is directly involved in the transmittal of Soviet funds to this country. In connection with this matter, it is noted that memorandum from Mr. Sizoo to you dated 8-13-58 captioned "Alexander Trachtenberg, IS-C, SA-40," reflected that Mr. Sizoo talked to ASAC McCabe regarding surveillances on Trachtenberg. At this time, Mr. McCabe advised that New York does not maintain a moving surveillance on Trachtenberg at any time because of the danger to the security of our informants. Mr. McCabe continued that a spot surveillance is utilized on Trachtenberg and that when information is received that Trachtenberg is going to a certain place, an Agent proceeds to that location where he observes Trachtenberg from a fixed spot. No surveillance is maintained on Trachtenberg while he is en route to any location. Mr. McCabe is very conscious of the danger to our two highly placed informants CG 5824-S and NY 694-S and that spot surveillances are conducted on Trachtenberg on a most discreet basis. Mr. McCabe was reminded of the necessity to be most discreet and to immediately drop any surveillance if there was any security danger.

OBSERVATIONS:

In view of the extremely sensitive nature of the information regarding the transmittal of Soviet funds to the CPUSA, it is recommended that we continue to give this matter the most careful handling and to limit any detailed knowledge thereof to Bureau personnel on a strict need-to-know basis.

ACTION:

In accord with the above, I telephonically instructed ASAC Norman McCabe of the New York Office today (9-15-58) to take the necessary corrective action in the New York letter of 8-20-58. I also instructed him that this matter must be afforded the most careful attention and information concerning it must be limited to a need-to-know basis.

For the information of Chicago and New York (100-428091) the data set out as item 11 on page 11 obviously refers to the above-captioned subject who is being investigated by the New York Office as office of origin. [redacted] is alleged member of an illegal apparatus of the Greek communist movement. She departed the U.S. in early 1957 and left London for Paris on 2/5/58. Her whereabouts have been unknown since 2/23/58 when she was in Paris.
Information has been received that from Paris she expected to return to London and thereafter travel to the U.S. via Canada.

For the information of offices other than Chicago and New York, relet reports information received from CG 5824-S (T symbol who has furnished reliable information in the past) during July, 1958, that the subject was currently in the U.S. Utmost care is to be utilized in handling information received from this source.

The New York Office should promptly conduct intensive investigation to verify that the subject was in the U.S. as of July, 1958, and, in view of this information, expeditious attention should be afforded the leads presently outstanding in the Los Angeles, New Haven and Newark offices.

Chicago should request GG 5824-S to endeavor to obtain further details, if possible, concerning the subject's activities and movements while abroad and the means by which she returned to the U.S.

ReNYairtel, 9/18/58, entitled, "CP, USA, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS; IS-C."

On 9/17/58, CG 5824-S* made the following observations to SA [redacted] concerning the contemplated trip to Moscow of the individuals mentioned in referenced airtel:

At the present time the individual identified with the captioned case is liaison agent between the CP, USA, and the Soviets. Should TRACHTENBERG and the others planning to go to Moscow be allowed to do so, there is every chance that the Soviets would utilize these individuals as liaison agents, and set up channels of communication with the CP, USA, over which the Bureau would have no control. The individual identified with the "SOLO; IS-C" case possibly could lose his contact with the Soviets, and even if he should not, would not obtain the information that he could as exclusive liaison agent with the Soviets.

The informant further considers it possible that the Soviets might utilize the services of TRACHTENBERG and the others as liaison agents with other Communist Parties, or in espionage apparatuses operated in various places throughout the world.

Re Chicago letter 9/30/58.

The list of serial numbers of the $17,000 received in Canada by CG 5824-S* on 9/23/58 has been checked against the list of known serial numbers of currency issued to Soviet establishments in Washington, D. C., and New York City, with negative results.

In the future, in order to facilitate the checking of serial numbers of currency, it is requested that the Series (1928, 1934 or 1950) be included in future lists of currency, as well as the complete serial number. The NYO has only known serial numbers of currency issued to Soviet establishments of the Federal Reserve Note 1950 Series.

The NYO believes information set out in Chicago letter of 9/30/58 is pertinent for dissemination to the NYO files of CP, USA - FUNDS, IS - C, and SASH, ESP - R, as well as on files on the individual security subjects involved. The Chicago Office is requested to advise what further dissemination of this information they intend to make.

We are exploring this situation to see whether any action can be taken to prevent these individuals from traveling to Russia. We are considering publicity, pointing out that such wholesale travel to Russia for conferences by Party functionaries as soon as passport restrictions were lifted tends to prove the Government's case against the Communist Party before the Subversive Activities Control Board that the Communist Party, USA, takes its guidance and directions from the Soviet Union.

We are also considering the feasibility of whether these individuals could be called before a congressional committee and are exploring the situation to see whether any other action might be taken.

Prior to the last trip of CG 5824-S* to New York City during September, 1958, it was suggested to him that at that time he should, for security reasons, request EUGENE DENNIS for an additional amount of money for expenses for this trip.

CG 5824-S* pointed out that since he had received $2,900.00, less the $100.00 which was given to MASCOLO, from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party - USA, a sufficient amount was obtained to prevent any questions concerning how he could make this trip from a financial standpoint. CG 5824-S* further pointed out that some of the expenses were for luggage, clothing, travel in the United States, hotel rooms, and meals in New York City, and extra days spent in Switzerland and England for security purposes. On October 6, 1958, an Airmail letter was received by SA JOHN E. KEATING through a blind post office box, which has been furnished to CG 5824-S* by the Chicago Division. This letter is from London, England, is dated October 2, 1958, is addressed "Dear David", and is signed "Dick". CG 5824-S* advised that this letter was received through the channel of communication agreed to by the informant and JOHN WILLIAMSON.

One photostat copy of this item is enclosed herewith to the Bureau and New York Division. The Chicago copy is local in Chicago file A/134-46-Sub B 1A35.

The original was furnished to CG 5824-S* so that it could be exhibited to EUGENE DENNIS.

On October 8, 1958, CG 5824-S* furnished the following interpretation of this letter:

In Paragraph 2, the "Management Comm. and stock-holders' meetings" refers to the last meeting of the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA. "My regular correspondent" is EUGENE DENNIS. By way of comment, CG 5824-S* stated that since DENNIS has learned from IRVING POTASH that WILLIAMSON was responsible for the DUCLOS letter to the 16th Congress of the Communist Party - USA, DENNIS may not have the same confidence in WILLIAMSON that he previously had and thus may have deliberately ceased corresponding with him. "Mr. Taller's immediate associate" probably refers to [redacted] the closest associate of DENNIS in the national leadership. CG 5824-S* did not see the letter referred to by WILLIAMSON in Paragraph 2.

In regard to Paragraph 3, [redacted] is [redacted] and the Communist Party - USA would not recommend him for a technical assignment on the "World Marxist Review" in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

In regard to Paragraph 4, [] is [] of the Labor Progressive Party. With regard to the two things WILLIAMSON "raised", CG 5824-S* believes that the first was the consideration by WILLIAMSON of a move to Canada. The second was consideration by WILLIAMSON of not only moving to Canada, but of also trying to slip into the United States for a couple of months. "Their journal" refers either to the publication of the Labor Progressive Party or the English language edition of the "World Marxist Review" being printed in Canada. "Their firm" is the Labor Progressive Party. The last sentence refers to the desire and wish of WILLIAMSON to be elected to the National Executive Committee of the Communist Party of Great Britain, which corresponds to the National Committee of the Communist Party - USA.

In Paragraph 5, "Our friend who had the long stay in the sanitarium" is IRVING POTASH.

Octo.2,1958.

Dear David,

It was good to receive yours of the 9th so quickly. Im afraid I am not such a responsive letter writer. Furthermore my work keeps me busy in and out of the city.

I have not heard anything since the Management Comm and stockholder meetings. In fact mail has been very scarce, even from my regular correspondent. I hope he has not stopped writing. At the end of Aug. I did receive a letter from Mr. [redacted] s immediate associate asking me about my thoughts and perspectives, as well as how me and the family were getting along. After considerable and serious thought I gave him a very specific answer which I think was realistic, however much I may ~~have~~ not have liked it. You may have seen that part of my letter. I formulated it with great care, and only after long thought.

I am glad the firm has the view you mention on [redacted] which I certainly agree with.

Its clear that [redacted] must have got things mixed up. First of all, one thing I raised was over 2 years ago and in view of my thoughts that I have written you, can now be forgotten. The second thing was raised over a year ago---probably at a 'low' moment in my morale. It was just an off-the-cuff idea about me taking a couple of months seeing all their beautiful scenery combined with work for their journal, after which I would return to what Im doing. Even if their firm agree there mightwell be a lot of abstacles and in any case it should all await to see if there are any new developments affecting me here. (N that Im too hopeful). So just put it on ice.

I hope to hear further from you after your further conversations. have not heard from our friend who had the long stay in the sanitori. Is he OK in every way, now? I need not reemphasise how wonderful it was to hear from you a few months ago after such a long period. I hope you and the wife are all settled and in good health.

We are all well and we send you our warmest regards.

Dick.

During the first part of the week of October 12, 1958, EUGENE DENNIS instructed ISADORE WOFSY to attempt to locate an apartment in New York City where a small meeting could be held under secure conditions. WOFSY was unable to, or in any event did not, obtain an apartment. The purpose of the meeting would be a briefing on the trip to Russia and China. This meeting would be limited to a few members of the National Executive Committee of the Communist Party - USA. DENNIS has stated that such a meeting will be held in the future, although for security reasons it might be well not to insist on this meeting.

Thus far, DENNIS has received information concerning this trip in some detail. He has authorized the giving of some of the information to the following persons: WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, JAMES JACKSON, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, [REDACTED] and JACK STACHEL.

Some information has been furnished to them individually. He has also authorized the giving of some information to CARL WINTER and CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT, and this will also be done individually. He has not authorized the giving of information concerning the trip to any other individuals. Further, he has instructed that no one should be told about the following:

- (1) Arrangements for funds for the Communist Party - USA from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.
- (2) Details concerning the "World Marxist Review".
- (3) Identities of persons in the leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party of China who met with the representative of the Communist Party - USA.
- (4) That the Communist Party of the Soviet Union would like the Communist Party - USA to send persons to Russia for schooling and instruction.
- (5) That anything was said to indicate that Negroes might not be the best persons for leadership of the Communist Party - USA or any major District of the Communist Party - USA.

It should be noted that EUGENE DENNIS, as far as can be ascertained, has not told anyone about the financial arrangements between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the

C.P. 104
Communist Party - USA. In fact, he stated that if HELEN WINTER, a member of the National Auditing Committee, makes any inquiry about unexplained funds in the Reserve Fund of the Communist Party - USA, she should be told that the Communist Party - USA made investments in Canada which are now beginning to pay off.

With regard to funds received from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union thus far, DENNIS has stated that he used $2,000 for salaries, gave $10,000 to "The Worker", and $500 to IRVING POTASH when he was released from prison. CLAUDE LIGHTFOOT has been given $2,000 for concentration work in Illinois, and DENNIS has authorized up to $5,000 for LIGHTFOOT for this purpose.

It is contemplated that DENNIS will also authorize a sum for CARL WINTER for concentration work in Michigan.

Further, this transaction was merely an implementation of an over-all agreement between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the Communist Party - USA, and the Bureau is in possession of all facts surrounding this agreement and this information has been disseminated at a high level. It is felt that any further dissemination at this time merely increases the chances of exposing two highly placed informants.

SUBJECT: SOLO
INTERNAL SECURITY - C

Solo is code name for operation involving travel of CG 5824-S, one of our most highly placed informants, to Soviet Union and Red China from 4-24-58 to 7-21-58 as official representative of Communist Party (CP), USA.

Immediately upon informant's return to New York City on 7-21-58 he furnished certain highlights of information he had obtained. This information was promptly disseminated under "Top Secret" classification to Vice President Nixon; Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President; Secretary of State Dulles, and the Attorney General by memoranda 7/24, 25, 31, and 8/1/58.

Upon completing his report to Eugene Dennis, CP leader, informant returned to Chicago, Illinois, where he prepared 17 detailed reports setting forth results of his trip. These reports contain extremely detailed information, including almost verbatim accounts of his discussions with Soviet and Red Chinese officials; their comments regarding this country and international situation in general; some of their future plans; results of their various industrial and agricultural programs; informant's own observations as to what he saw and heard, et cetera.

Additional dissemination of this data was held in abeyance in view of the pending briefing of the Cabinet by the Director unless the information was of such urgency as to require dissemination. Review of these detailed reports reflected that they contained certain data relative to the attitude of Red China toward Formosa. In view of the tense international situation, this information was disseminated on 9-2-58 under "Top Secret" classification to afore-mentioned officials as well as intelligence agencies of armed services. It is noted that all of this dissemination was paraphrased to conceal the fact that the CP representative was a Bureau informant.

In considering further dissemination of the detailed data furnished by our informant, his reports have been carefully and thoroughly reviewed and reduced to a document consisting of 188 pages. This document was prepared in such a manner that to the reader it would appear to be a bona fide report of a CPUSA functionary relative to his contacts with high government officials in Russia and Red China. These reports were carefully edited to delete any indication that this is an over-all report of an FBI informant. We also deleted or revised any references to the fact that the informant was accompanied by his wife. To further protect the identity of our informant, this data was left in the informant's own terminology, grammar, sentence structure, punctuation, et cetera.

OBSERVATIONS:

In final analysis after taking into consideration all of the factors involved, it has been concluded that dissemination of this detailed 188-page document would undoubtedly go to the lower levels of the various agencies with a resultant increase in the number of people who would be aware that the FBI had in its possession the report of the official representative of the CPUSA to the Soviet Union and Red China. A shorter summary, however, would be read by the top officials of these agencies thus reducing the risk of jeopardizing the security of this most valuable informant.

We have furnished the pertinent highlights of this material to the afore-mentioned Government officials and have also furnished the intelligence agencies of the armed services with that data concerning Formosa. While the detailed information furnished by the informant would undoubtedly be of interest to the personnel on the working level in certain Government agencies such as State Department, it is felt that we owe a greater responsibility to the country by taking every precaution to completely safeguard the security of this informant.

Review of reairtel reflects that we are once again presented with the opportunity of having CG 5824-S* travel to the Soviet Union as an official representative of the Communist Party (CP), USA. Such activity on the part of our informant is, of course, highly desirable provided it can be accomplished without endangering his informant status in any manner.

Inasmuch as the informant will be going to the Soviet Union as part of a delegation of three CPUSA representatives consisting of himself, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and James Jackson to attend the 21st Congress of the CP of the Soviet Union which is scheduled to commence on January 27, 1959, certain factors must necessarily be given consideration.

Prompt attention must be given to the matter of a passport for the informant. In this regard, it must be determined whether he should continue to use the one he obtained in connection with the Solo operation or whether he should now apply for one under his true name. It is felt that the informant's views in this matter should be obtained and carefully considered since he is obviously in the best position to know which would be the more secure course of action to take from the standpoint of suspicion on the part of officials. If it is decided that he should apply for a passport, the time element must be borne in mind.

Another matter which should be settled as soon as possible is whether the informant feels that his wife should accompany him as she did on the Solo operation. It appears that from the Bureau's standpoint, the informant would operate more effectively if he was not accompanied by his wife. The informant's viewpoints along with your recommendations and recommendations in this regard should be promptly submitted.

In addition to the above, immediate attention should be given to the financial aspects of this trip. Obviously it is the Bureau's desire that the informant obtain as much financial assistance as possible from the Party. Ascertain from the informant just what arrangements have been or will be made with Eugene Dennis along these lines.

This over-all matter must receive the most careful attention and closest of supervision. The above factors as well as any other possible problems not now readily apparent to the Bureau must be resolved at the earliest possible moment in order to avoid the inherent danger of having to make last-minute decisions and/or changes.

In considering this contemplated trip, bear in mind that the security of our informant is of paramount importance. Careful consideration must be given to the fact that on the occasion of this trip, the informant will undoubtedly be accompanied by Flynn and Jackson and will necessarily spend a considerable portion of his time in the Soviet Union in their company. This, of course, will increase the security hazards involved in this operation and it is vital that the informant be carefully reminded of this factor.

It is desired that CG 5824-S* be promptly contacted in accord with the above and that the requested data be submitted to the Bureau as soon as possible. Any additional developments in connection with this over-all matter should be promptly brought to the attention of the Bureau.

In view of the highly sensitive nature of this over-all operation, it is desired that the details thereof be handled on a selective basis and restricted to the personnel in your office on a need-to-know basis.

NOTE ON YELLOW:

CG 5824-S* has been requested by Eugene Dennis to go to Russia as part of an official three-man delegation from the CPUSA to attend the 21st Congress of the CP of the Soviet Union. Provided the security of our informant is not endangered, it is highly desirable that he proceed to the Soviet Union. By this action, he will undoubtedly solidify his present status of being a direct link between the CPUSA and the CP of the Soviet Union. The above factors are being called to the attention of the Chicago Office at this time in order that all necessary arrangements for this trip can be made at the earliest possible moment.

It is noted that Elizabeth Gurley Flynn and James Jackson have been selected by Dennis as the other two CPUSA delegates. We have received prior information that both of these individuals have planned to go to the Soviet Union to attend this 21st Congress. We have also received prior information that they have submitted their applications for passports and also that Jackson has received his passport. Although we have not received definite information that Flynn has received her passport, there appears to be no grounds for State Department to withhold issuance thereof.

CG 5824-S* had received this amount earlier on the same day from TIM BUCK, Head of the Labor Progressive Party (the Communist Party of Canada). BUCK stated that this amount is the balance of $50,000 which was sent to the Communist Party - USA from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union through the Russian Embassy in Ottawa. BUCK stated that normally he receives advance notice when any of this money is available in Ottawa. He has not received any notice that any additional sum is presently available in Ottawa. BUCK commented that the Russian Ambassador to Canada and the Party Secretary in the Russian Embassy in Ottawa returned to Russia on leave and have not returned to Canada. Because of this, there is presently no one in the Russian Embassy in Ottawa with whom BUCK feels that he could discuss Communist Party affairs.

According to these articles, there is unrest in Red China due to the failure of the campaign against Quemoy and also resistance from the people of Red China to the commune system under which families are uprooted and drafted into labor battalions. These articles further indicate that Mao will remain as head of the Communist Party in China although he will have less power than he now has.

With regard to the above, you may desire to take into consideration certain information contained in my communication of November 13, 1958, concerning discussions between leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA. This communication reflected in part that Mao had told the representative of the Communist Party, USA, that he had requested to be relieved of his position as chairman of the government while retaining his position as chairman of the Chinese Communist Party. He further stated that he hoped to be relieved as chairman of the government no later than 1960 in order to spend his time in writing about communist theory and philosophy. Mao continued that this information was to be conveyed to one or two leading members the Soviets to know that NOVICK had "strong nationalist tendencies" regarding the Jewish Question. BUCK said he would give the characterization document immediately to Canadian CP functionary [] who would cable the information contained therein to the Soviets as soon as possible on that same evening. BUCK did not indicate how, or through whom, [] would send the cable. ~~S~~ (u)

BUCK was pleased to receive the characterization of NOVICK, stating it vindicated the Canadian CP's position regarding him. NOVICK, BUCK said, had informed [] who is head of the Canadian CP Jewish Bureau, that he was going to the Soviet Union as a representative of the CP, USA, and that before going, he desired to go to Canada for a conference with [] and other Jewish leaders. NOVICK had indicated that he would like to act as representative of the Canadian CP in discussing the Jewish Question with the Soviets. ~~S~~ (u)

BUCK said that the Canadian CP did not permit NOVICK to confer with [], feeling that it did not want him, as an American, to act as a representative of the Canadian Party in a discussion of the Jewish Question with the Soviets. BUCK indicated, moreover, that the Canadian CP was not desirous of raising the Jewish Question again with the Soviets. ~~S~~ (u)

NY 694-S then inquired of BUCK concerning the meaning of a cryptic telephonic message he had received on 12/1/58, from ELIZABETH MASCOLO, who had called him from Toronto. The message, to be delivered "to whom it concerned", according to MASCOLO, was as follows: "It's been agreed that [] can go to the same place that [] went to, or was at, on one condition - that he leave in next few days because the opening is on the sixth or the seventh." (Upon receipt of this message, NY 694-S received the impression that he was supposed to understand its significance, and to know to whom it should be delivered, and therefore did not question MASCOLO regarding the message. Having been unable to ascertain to whom in the CP, USA, it was to be delivered, he raised this question with BUCK on 12/3/58, two days after receiving the message.) ~~S~~ (u)

~~SECRET~~

NY [65-16441] (u) (u)

BUCK, on whose instructions MASCOLO had delivered the message to NY 694-S, explained the message as follows:

[redacted] in the message is [redacted], Canadian CP representative to what BUCK called the "World Socialist Youth" in Budapest. (NY 694-S believes that BUCK may not have correctly designated the organization he referred to.) [redacted] was a reference to [redacted] whom BUCK, in the past, had known to be associated with the CP, USA, Youth Movement, and whose name was inserted in the message only to indicate that the message had reference to the Youth Movement. (u) $14

The purpose of the message, according to BUCK, was to inform the CP, USA, that the Soviets had agreed to pay the expenses of a CP, USA, youth representative to Budapest and to Columbo, Ceylon. (u)

BUCK apparently was unfamiliar with the details regarding the nature of activities in Budapest and Ceylon, and stated he knew only the following about the matter: (u)

[redacted] was in the USA recently and spoke to "some young people" there. BUCK did not know to whom [redacted] had spoken. [redacted] told "the young people" to send "somebody" to Budapest for six months. This person was to go to Budapest first, then was to go to Columbo, Ceylon, where he was to arrive on or before December 7th, and then was to return to Budapest. (u) $14

In discussing this matter, "the young people" in the USA raised the question of payment of expenses for the trip. [redacted] had told them that they would be reimbursed for expenses when the American representative arrived "on the other side." (u) $14

Upon returning to Toronto, [redacted] reported to BUCK the "money problem" involved in this matter. BUCK immediately sent a cable to "the other side", and in three days (u) $14 received a reply, "guaranteeing and OK'ing the fare." The reply contained the provision that the American representative arrive in Columbo "on opening day, December 7th." $U

NY 694-S inquired how the American representative would obtain a visa for travel to Budapest. $U

BUCK replied, "That's simple. Go to London. Either contact JOHN WILLIAMSON, who will arrange for 'a floating visa', or go directly to the Hungarian Embassy or Consulate, and there ask for [] a former Canadian now one of the attaches. It's never a problem for him to get a visa." $U

NY 694-S then inquired whether, in view of the time element involved with regard to Columbo, Ceylon, BUCK thought the CP, USA, should send a representative abroad. BUCK replied "Tell him to go anyway." (Upon his return to New York, NY 694-S, through CG 5824-S, who was then in New York, referred this matter to EUGENE DENNIS. The latter professed to know nothing about the matter. The informant currently is attempting to ascertain to whom in the CP, USA, this matter is of interest.) $U

On a subsequent meeting with BUCK, the latter made the following supplemental remarks regarding a financial matter referred to in referenced airtel as pertinent to the case entitled, "SOLO; IS-C": $U

According to BUCK, in talking to a representative of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, he pointed out that the CP, USA, now is in a very precarious financial situation owing to commitments made by reason of anticipating receipt of a large sum of money. BUCK stated that as a result of the Soviet's experience in the [] case, transactions such as he was discussing with NY 694-S are handled by the Soviets "with strict security." In this regard, BUCK mentioned that he had never been inside the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. BUCK said that only one person in the Embassy - the ambassador - knew all the facts of such transactions, such as how much money was involved, and to whom it ultimately was to be paid. He also noted that he is personally acquainted with the newly appointed Soviet ambassador to Canada. $U

NY [65-16441] $ (U)

NY 694-S briefed BUCK concerning a recent NEC meeting in New York, and concerning CP, USA, functionaries who had obtained passports for travel abroad. BUCK stated that three Canadian CP delegates would attend the January Congress in Moscow, of whom he would be one. He said that as yet he did not know who the other two delegates would be. He also indicated that he would leave Canada for the said Congress on 1/20/59. $ (U)

[redacted] $ (U)
NY 694-S contacted [redacted] of the Canadian CP Jewish Bureau and editor of the Canadian CP Jewish paper, "Wochenblatt." [redacted] was anxious to ascertain from NY 694-S why PAUL NOVICK had not been permitted to go to Canada to confer with him regarding his proposed trip to the Soviet Union. The informant realized that [redacted] was "fishing", and decided it would be wise to pretend not to know anything about this matter. He told [redacted] his call was purely social in nature, and that he had come to Toronto primarily for personal business reasons. $ (U)

[redacted] said he was very angry about the NOVICK matter. He reported the following: $ (U)

A week before, NOVICK sent him a letter, in Yiddish, stating he was going to Moscow, where he would discuss the Jewish Question. NOVICK felt he should represent, and speak for, the Canadian CP as well as for the CP, USA. [redacted] told [redacted] (member of Canadian CP secretariat in charge of trade union work) about this letter, and suggested that NOVICK come to Canada, to discuss his proposed trip with [redacted] and other CP functionaries. [redacted] agreed, and consequently [redacted] invited NOVICK to Toronto to confer with Jewish Bureau functionaries. A special meeting of the Jewish Bureau was arranged. Subsequently, [redacted] member of the National Committee of the Jewish Bureau, informed [redacted] that the leadership had changed its mind, deciding that NOVICK should not come to Toronto. $ (U)

~~SECRET~~

NY [65-16441] $ (U)

[] as a result had to advise NOVICH not to come to Toronto, and cancelled the meeting of the Jewish Bureau. This episode has convinced [] that the Canadian CP leadership refuses to deal honestly with the Jewish Question; that the Russians "are calling the shots"; and that the Canadian CP leadership "has no guts." $ (U)

[] felt that the CP, USA, "had a hell of a nerve" to be "in cahoots" with TIM BUCK and others in preventing NOVICK from coming to Canada, and in determining who should, or should not, represent the Jews. $ (U)

[] said he would like to know the identity of "the guy in New York who perpetrated this conspiracy." He would never accept the idea that NOVICK should not be permitted to represent the American and Canadian Parties in a discussion of the Jewish Question in Moscow. NOVICK, he said, was a charter member of the CP, and a most trusted and capable comrade. $

[] said he was "disgusted and heartbroken by this terrible situation." He said the Soviets had further insulted Jews by publishing in all languages but Yiddish the books of the great Jewish author Sholem Alechem (PH). $ (U)

Because of the stupidity of the Canadian CP leadership, it is strengthening the position of [] and [] who now have more influence in the United Jewish Peoples' Order than when they quit the Party. There is now in the UJPO a struggle which, in effect, is a revolt against the Party. The unpopularity of the Party in the UJPO is difficult to describe. There is extensive hatred of the Soviet Union in the UJPO. $ (U)

[] said [] had approached a leading official in the garment workers' union in Canada, offering assistance in combating the CP and the Soviet Union. This was brought to the attention of DAVID DUBINSKY, head of the ILGWU, who said, "Tell [] that I fought Communism and the Soviet Union long before he did, and that we need no one like him." $ (U)

NY [65-16441] $(u)

[] stated he had received a letter from [] (PH), editor of the Warsaw newspaper, "Folkstimme". [] advised [] that henceforth it would be wise to discuss in advance with Party leaders Jewish problems intended for publication. [] said he disagreed with SMOLIN, and would not accept the latter's advice. $(u)

TIM BUCK / $(u)

Following his interview with [] NY 694-S contacted TIM BUCK, and informed the latter concerning the informant's discussion with []. BUCK was glad to receive this information about []. He said [] had been in New York two weeks before, had contacted NOVICK, but had not reported to BUCK the nature of his discussion with NOVICK. $(u)

BUCK said the Party was very unhappy about [] and that "all this will lead to no good." He indicated that [] was involved also in "some fast real estate operations with non-Party people", and that the Party was concerned because "the city has threatened him." BUCK mentioned that the operation of "slums" was involved in the aforesaid real estate transactions. $(u)

[] / $(u)
NY 694-S contacted [] member of the Canadian CP National Committee, and also member of the Jewish Bureau. [] according to TIM BUCK, is to replace [] as editor of "Northern Neighbors", official organ of the Canadian Soviet Friendship Council. [] BUCK had stated, has asked for leave of absence to write a book. $(u)

[] stated the Canadian CP's greatest problem is the Jewish Question. Toronto and Montreal are the areas most affected by this problem. It is not of much concern in the West, where there are few Jews. $(u)

[] was of the opinion that an exact registration of Party members in Montreal would reflect that there are no $(u) more than 200 CP members there. A recent survey of Party membership in Toronto, based upon the sale of assessment stamps, reflected there were 720 CP members there. At one time there were 2500 CP members in Toronto, and 800 in Montreal.

Despite these set-backs, the CP in these cities is doing a good job. In Sudbury, the CP is active in the International Nickel Co. strike, doing relief work among strikers, and assisting on the picket lines. (u)

The Party is making considerable progress among Italian immigrants, particularly among those who are construction workers. Plans are being made to publish an Italian newspaper, but as yet an editor is not available. The possibility is that an editor may be brought from Italy. (u)

[redacted] / (u)
NY 694-S contacted [redacted] who indicated that his only current activity is in the United Jewish Peoples' Order. According to [redacted] he is [redacted]'s adviser with respect to combating anti-Party groups in the UJPO who are stirring up anti-Party and anti-Soviet feeling. A leader of the anti-Party and anti-Soviet group is [redacted] president of the UJPO and former CP member. Other anti-Party leaders in the UJPO are [redacted] and [redacted]. (u)

According to [redacted] before the 20th Congress of the CPSU, a minimum of 400 Jewish CP members would attend Jewish-group meetings. At a recent meeting only 50 attended. [redacted] attributed current antipathy to the Party to "the dogmatic and bureaucratic manner" in which the Canadian CP is handling the Jewish Question. (u)

[redacted] / (u)
NY 694-S contacted [redacted] who currently is a sort of unofficial member of the CP Finance Committee. [redacted] had nothing particularly pertinent to say except that TIM BUCK (u) is disliked by the Jewish CP members by reason of his attitude toward the Jewish Question. [] emphasized that the talk of dissension regarding the Jewish Question should not be construed to mean that there is friction between top CP leaders on this issue. The friction exists between the said leadership and the CP Jewish membership. CP leaders, he said, do not regard the Jewish Question as a fight but rather as an unfortunate incident. JFW

NY 694-S advised SA [REDACTED] telephonically on 12/8/58, that he had returned from Toronto late on the previous evening and that by reason of appointments on 12/8/58, he would be unable to furnish details regarding his trip until 12/9/58. He furnished the following as matters of possible immediate interest to the Bureau:

According to TIM BUCK, since the last transfer to the CP, USA, of certain funds mentioned in the case entitled, "SOLO; IS - C", BUCK has consulted twice with representatives of the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. Delay in completing further transfer of funds is attributable to the illness of the newly appointed Soviet Ambassador, who has not arrived as yet in Ottawa, and who must handle this transaction personally. BUCK mentioned that the entire staff of the former Soviet Ambassador, including the Party Secretary, had been recalled to the Soviet Union. BUCK said that he had received assurance that as soon as the new Soviet Ambassador arrived, this matter would be handled promptly.

Dear Dick:

I have noted that several articles have recently appeared in the press reflecting that Mao Tse-tu is stepping down under pressure as head of the Government of Red China. According to these articles, there is unrest in Red China due to the failure of the campaign against Quemoy and also resistance from the people of Red China to the commune system under which families are uprooted and drafted into labor battalions. These articles further indicate that Mao will remain as head of the Communist Party in China although he will have less power than he now has.

With regard to the above, you may desire to take into consideration certain information contained in my communication of July 31, 1958, concerning discussions between leaders of the Soviet Union and Red China and an official representative of the Communist Party, USA. This communication reflected in part that Mao had told the representative of the Communist Party, USA, that he had requested to be relieved of his position as chairman of the government while retaining his position as chairman of the Chinese Communist Party. He further stated that he hoped to be relieved as chairman of the government no later than 1960 in order to spend his time in writing about communist theory and philosophy. Mao continued that this information was to be conveyed to one or two leading members of the Communist Party, USA, so that when any announcement was made by the Communist Party, USA, would recognize as lies any distortions by the capitalist press as to the actual reasons for Mao's relinquishing of the chairmanship of the Red Chinese Government.

SUBJECT: (SOLO)

Chicago Informant 5824-S

At 1:45 p.m. today, ASAC [] Chicago, called to advise that 5824-S is scheduled to go to NY Sunday night, 1/4, or Monday, to confer with Eugene Dennis, James Jackson, and Stachel, for the purpose of receiving instructions as delegate of the Party on his forthcoming trip to Russia.

[] wanted authority to advance the informant $2000 for expenses of the trip to NY and his trip to Russia and return. He stated that the CP plans to give the informant $1000 to cover the trip to Russia, and his expenses in Russia and return probably will be covered by the Russians. Therefore, the informant will be able to return at least part of the advance made by the Bureau. The informant now plans to leave on January 13th, and will meet Jackson in Paris on the 14th and go to Moscow on the 15th.

I authorized [] to pay the informant's expenses for the trip, up to $200, but told him to wait until we see what the Party is going to do in the way of furnishing him funds before we advance him additional funds. [] will check with us further when the informant returns from NY.

[] said that the doctor's estimate of the condition of the informant's wife is that she will live from six to eight weeks. When the informant is gone it will be necessary to have someone stay with his wife. They have a colored woman who has stayed with her in the past and they hope to get her at a cost of $5 or $6 per day. [] wants authority to pay for this woman. I authorized him to do this while the informant is gone, which will be a matter of over a month. I also told [] if it was all right with the informant, that the biweekly payments to the informant could be made to his wife while he was gone.

[] will keep us advised of developments in this matter. The informant has received his passport and the project appears to be going forward satisfactorily.

In connection with the current plans of the Communist Party (CP), USA, to send an official delegation to the 21st Congress of the CP of the Soviet Union, it is noted that correspondence concerning this matter has been submitted to the Bureau under numerous captions. In order that this situation may be more closely followed and to facilitate its administrative handling at the Bureau, you are instructed that henceforth all correspondence having a direct bearing on this matter should bear the above caption.

You should give this matter your close attention and exercise good judgment in utilizing this caption in order to insure that we will have readily available in one file all pertinent information regarding this matter. Where appropriate, you should, of course, designate copies of your communications for related files.

In view of the highly sensitive nature of this over-all matter, it is imperative that the security of CG 5824-S be borne in mind at all times. It is desired, therefore, that details concerning this matter be limited to those employees on a "need-to-know basis."

CG 5824-S advised SA [redacted] on 12/22/58, that on 12/21/58, he had separate conferences with EUGENE DENNIS and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG that continued until midnight. DENNIS desires that CG 5824-S go to Moscow "legally" (with American passport) to attend the 21st Congress of CPSU. To go otherwise would create numerous problems for both the CP, USA, and the Soviets. Only as a last resort would DENNIS consider the informant's going to Moscow clandestinely, and going thus would be predicated on Soviet approval. Such a situation would arise if at the last moment before informant's departure, some governmental agency should attempt to prevent his departing legally.

TRACHTENBERG will depart in next two or three days since he must be in Moscow by 1/1/59. He will go to Moscow via London and Paris. JACKSON must leave USA by 1/9/59, at latest. CG 5824-S must be in Moscow not later than 1/15/59.

Present indications are that ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN will not go. By reason of KRCHMAREK's involvement in Smith Act case appeal, it is doubtful whether he can go. CP attorneys are currently checking his status to determine in next day or so whether he can leave USA. In event only JACKSON and CG 5824-S constitute CP, USA, delegation to 21st Congress, CG 5824-S has been authorized by DENNIS to invite TRACHTENBERG to attend, unofficially and as a guest, meetings of said Congress.

According to TRACHTENBERG, he met, at the UN Headquarters last week, a member of the CPSU (not further identified) who mentioned CG 5824-S' last trip to Moscow, and the CPSU's anticipation that CG 5824-S will attend 21st Congress. TRACHTENBERG immediately notified DENNIS of his contact with the Soviet. CG 5824-S believes this prompted DENNIS to invite the informant to come to NY immediately for conferences.

CP, USA, documents to be used by the delegates to Congress are to be sent to Moscow via Canadian channels. In this connection CG 5824-S or NY 694-S, or possibly both of them, will have to go to Toronto soon for purpose of arranging this matter with TIM BUCK.

CG 5824-S expects to confer with JACKSON on 12/22/58, and depart for Chicago on evening of 12/22/58. He will furnish further details to Chicago Office.

SAC Auerbach called from Chicago at 11:35 a.m., 1/5, to advise that 5824-S did not go to NY over the weekend, inasmuch as he had not received any information from Eugene Dennis. However, 694-S went up to Canada and saw Tim Buck, who told him that 5824-S should get his floating visas in Brussels, Belgium (which is where he got his visas on his last trip). Informant 5824-S will be going to NY this week to see Dennis and to receive money from the CP for the trip--an expected $1,000 for the trip to Russia. The Party expects the Russians to pay the return expense.

Auerbach said the informant has to buy clothes and make other appropriate arrangements for the trip and will need an advance of funds. Auerbach said that Chicago has $900 in the bank, which is money refunded to the informant by Elizabeth Mascolo, which she secured from the Russians. The informant turned the money over to the Chicago Office.

I told Auerbach that any advances necessary to the informant should be made from this $900. I told Auerbach to be sure that appropriate records were kept of the receipt of the funds, including the serial numbers, et cetera, in the event it was necessary for agents to testify in the future. In addition, complete records should be kept of any expenditures of these funds.

I told Auerbach if it is necessary to advance any further funds beyond this $900 he should get clearance from the Bureau.

In connection with captioned matter, it is noted that CG 5824-S, one of our most highly placed informants, and James Jackson have been designated as the only official delegates of the Communist Party (CP), USA, to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union scheduled to commence on 1-27-59 in Moscow. In addition, Alexander Trachtenberg may possibly be added as a delegate although the Party has reached no final decision on this matter to date.

CG 5824-S is planning to leave on 1-13-59 and will meet Jackson in Paris, France, on 1-14-59. They will then proceed to Moscow on 1-15-59. Trachtenberg has already left the country.

Under normal circumstances, we would advise State Department and Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) concerning the dates of departure of these individuals. We would also alert our appropriate Legal Attaches. In view of the highly sensitive nature of this operation, however, we are not going to furnish this information to State Department, CIA, or our Legal Attaches concerning our informant. In order not to pinpoint our informant, we will also refrain from disseminating this information regarding Jackson and Trachtenberg. In this regard, it is noted that we have previously furnished information to State Department and CIA concerning the fact that Jackson and Trachtenberg were contemplating travel to the Soviet Union. Since State Department issued passports to these individuals, it should be well alerted to their proposed travel. It is felt that in order to fully safeguard our informant's operation, no further dissemination should now be made.

ACTION:

If you agree, we will not disseminate any information to State Department and CIA regarding the departure and other pertinent data regarding the above-mentioned individuals. We will likewise not alert our Legal Attaches.

NY 694-S advised SA ALEXANDER C. BURLINSON on 1/6/59, that he returned late on evening of 1/5/59, from Toronto, where he had gone on 1/2/59, to furnish to TIM BUCK, CG 5824-S' passport number for transmittal to the Soviets.

According to the informant, he explained to BUCK that CG 5824-S would make next trip "openly", and that he anticipated arriving in Brussels between January 13th and 15th. BUCK went to Ottawa immediately, contacting a Soviet Embassy representative there, to whom he furnished CG 5824-S' passport number, and from whom he received the following instructions for transmittal to CG 5824-S:

The Soviets will expect CG 5824-S to arrive in Brussels between January 13th and 15th. Upon arrival there, he should go to the Czech Embassy where he will be given a floating visa to Prague. At the Czech Embassy in Brussels he should inform embassy representative exactly when he expects to arrive in Prague so that, upon his arrival in Prague, he may be met at the airport by a Soviet who will deliver to him a Soviet visa. From Prague CG 5824-S should go directly to Moscow.

In the event CG 5824-S is unable to tell the representative of the Czech Embassy in Brussels exactly when he will arrive in Prague, upon arrival in Prague he is to contact "the ground hostess" at the Prague airport, inform her of his identity, explaining that he is en route to Moscow to attend, as a delegate, the 21st Congress. She will "handle matters from there on."

NY 694-S* has furnished this information to CG 5824-S, who is currently in NYC.

NY 694-S further advised that, according to BUCK, there is currently "no more money from abroad intended for the CP, USA" at the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa. BUCK stated that he planned to leave Canada on January 20th to attend, as a delegate, the 21st Congress, other Canadian CP delegates to the said Congress being [redacted] of Vancouver, B.C. and [redacted] of Winnipeg. In BUCK's absence, [redacted] will be acting head of the Canadian CP. BUCK enjoined NY 694-S not to discuss with [redacted] or anybody else in the Canadian CP the matter of "money from abroad" during BUCK's absence. BUCK stated he would prefer to stay abroad not more than 6 weeks. He said he must be in Toronto at the latest by the first week in March, 1959, for which a Canadian CP plenum is scheduled.

SAC Auerbach, Chicago, advised 1-7-59 that CG 5824-S had returned to Chicago from New York on the early morning of January 7 and that while in New York the informant had been given $1000 by Isadore Wofsy to handle the informant's trip to Russia and the Party hopes the Russians will finance the return trip. While in New York, the informant was made an ex officio member of the National Committee of the CP, USA, but that the informant hopes on his return to New York 1-10-59 that he will be able to become a secret member of the National Committee as he feels that this would give him more standing in the Soviet Union. Auerbach said the informant now plans on going to New York again on January 10 and to leave New York on January 12. He is scheduled to meet James Jackson in Brussels, Belgium, and then go on to the Soviet Union.

Auerbach said that the informant is to meet with Eugene Dennis, Ben Davis, and William Z. Foster during the period January 10 to January 12 and Auerbach said that in connection with the informant's meetings with these CP leaders he thought it was desirable for SA John E. Keating, who handles the informant, to go to New York to receive the results of the informant's discussion with these men. I told Auerbach that it would be all right for Keating to go to New York for this period. Auerbach mentioned that the informant's wife is extremely ill but that everything appeared to be working out satisfactorily as far as the informant's trip to the Soviet Union is concerned. Auerbach said Chicago would keep the Bureau advised of developments.

EXTREME CAUTION MUST BE UTILIZED IN HANDLING THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION. SINCE THIS INFORMATION BY ITS VERY NATURE TENDS TO DISCLOSE CG 5824-S* AS THE SOURCE THEREOF AND ITS DISSEMINATION MIGHT JEOPARDIZE THE SECURITY OF HIS OPERATIONS, THE CHICAGO DIVISION, UACB, WILL MAKE NO FURTHER DISSEMINATION OF THIS INFORMATION EXCEPT FOR THAT PERTAINING TO [REDACTED] AND [REDACTED] WHICH WILL BE SET FORTH IN SEPARATE COMMUNICATIONS. IT IS NOTED THAT THE INFORMATION PERTAINING TO JOE NORTH HAS BEEN PREVIOUSLY DISSEMINATED.

CG 5824-S*, on 1/12/59, orally furnished the following information to SA JOHN E. KEATING. This information pertains to conversations between MORRIS CHILDS and various leaders of the Communist Party - USA, all of which were held during the period from 11:00 A.M. to 12:00 Midnight on Sunday, 1/11/59. Each CP leader was briefing CHILDS prior to his departure for Europe as a delegate from the CP-USA to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The information from each individual leader of the CP-USA is set forth under that individual's name.

I. WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER stated that currently the CP-USA has four policies. These policies pertain to the Negro question, trade union matters, political activities, and youth matters. He stated, however, that these four policies are only one-half right and that the Party should be working on them in order to make them 100% correct.

FOSTER said that it is necessary to repair the CP-USA and, in his opinion, the Right danger is still the main danger to the Party. FOSTER said that DENNIS is not a vigorous leader and that unless DENNIS gives greater leadership, then the Party will never undo the damage which the Right wing did to the Party.

Next FOSTER blamed DENNIS and the supporters of the Right wing for the theory that the CP-USA has to work within a United Socialist Party in its political activities. FOSTER said that if the CP-USA concentrates on independent candidates or work within a United Socialist Ticket rather than in the Democratic Party, then the CP-USA would never be able to build a labor party. According to FOSTER, a labor party will have to be built with the use of trade unionists, and that these trade unionists are in the Democratic Party.

U.S. With regard to [redacted], who is currently in Russia, FOSTER came to the defense of [redacted]. He praised [redacted] as an old Bolshevik. FOSTER stated that [redacted] stood alone against the Right wing and fought for the line of the CP-USA. Further, [redacted] led the fight to kick JOHN GATES out of the Party. FOSTER also stated that he thinks that the Russians will give [redacted] a hearing.

U.S. In defense of [redacted] FOSTER said that [redacted] tried to see GENE DENNIS before he left for Russia but that DENNIS would not see him. On the other hand, FOSTER said that [redacted] was stupid for having violated Party discipline.

FOSTER also stated that he had a talk with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG before the latter left for Russia. He said that he asked TRACHTENBERG to convey his regards to his granddaughter, [redacted], and also asked MORRIS CHILDS to try to see his granddaughter.

With regard to greetings and regards from FOSTER to various Russian leaders, FOSTER commented that of the present leadership of the CPSU, the only person he knows is OTTO KUUSINEN. He said that it was possible that he would know some of the delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU from other Communist Parties. FOSTER was told by CHILDS that everyone knows him and that his regards would be conveyed to the leadership of the CPSU and to the other delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

A. COMMENTS OF CG 5824-S* ON THE DISCUSSION WITH WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

The discussion with FOSTER became rather heated toward the end of the conversation. As a result of this, ESTHER FOSTER entered the room and stated that FOSTER was not giving CHILDS an opportunity to state his views. CHILDS admitted to FOSTER that they have disagreements, and cautioned FOSTER that he should be careful on how an approach can be made toward unity in the CP-USA.

It is possible that [redacted] was thoroughly briefed by FOSTER on the latter's viewpoints, and that FOSTER may even have given [redacted] notes to deliver to the leadership of the CPSU. While FOSTER came to the defense of [redacted] he also appeared to be worried for fear that he, FOSTER, might be charged with factional activities and violation of Party discipline in the [redacted] matter. Yet, the main points made by FOSTER were the following: (1) An uncompromising attack against DENNIS; and (2) A defense of [redacted].

It is believed that FOSTER was making an effort to propagandize CHILDS so that CHILDS would convey to the CPSU that FOSTER is not a sectarian. In this regard, FOSTER said that proof that he is not a sectarian is his proposal for the CP-USA to work within the two older parties, i.e., the Democratic and Republican Parties, instead of a United Socialist Party. He charged DENNIS with the responsibility for the policy of splinters, since DENNIS came out in favor of a United Party of Socialism in 1956. FOSTER concentrated on the subject of working in the Democratic and Republican Parties so that the Russians will think that he has come up with something new and different.

II. EUGENE DENNISA. INSTRUCTIONS TO MORRIS CHILDS

It appeared that EUGENE DENNIS was fully prepared for a discussion with MORRIS CHILDS, because DENNIS had several statements and instructions for CHILDS written out when CHILDS arrived at the residence of DENNIS. Because of this, the first hour of the meeting between DENNIS and CHILDS was conducted in silence as these notes were being read. These notes reflected that:

(1) JIM JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS are the only official delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU from the CP-USA. Written credentials were not prepared for JACKSON and CHILDS since it was felt that they will not need them.

(2) While ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and [] are not delegates, if necessary they can be involved in the 21st Congress as observers. CHILDS should explain to TRACHTENBERG that he is not a delegate to the 21st Congress of the CPSU, since the National Executive Committee of the CP-USA felt that two delegates were sufficient.

(3) JIM JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS should explain to the Russians that legal restrictions made it impossible for either

EUGENE DENNIS, WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN, or ANTON ~~KRCH~~MAREK to attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

(4) MORRIS CHILDS is to tell the Russians that he is an ex-officio member of the National Committee. CHILDS is considered as a member of the National Committee, speaks as a member of the National Committee, and can attend all meetings of the National Committee of the CP-USA by virtue of the fact that he is the Secretary of the International Commission and the Secretary of the National Appeals Committee of the CP-USA.

(5) In discussions on all technical matters dealing with funds and communications between the CPSU and the CP-USA, MORRIS CHILDS should be the sole representative of the CP-USA. JACKSON should not interfere with and should not participate in any of these discussions. However, CHILDS should not object if the Russians insist that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG sit in on these discussions.

(6) A meeting of the National Committee of the CP-USA is being planned for the first part of March, 1959. CHILDS ought to try to return to the United States before this National Committee meeting. Therefore, CHILDS should ask the Russians to let him leave Russia as close to the first of March as possible. If TRACHTENBERG, JACKSON, and [] want to make side trips, including trips to China, this is all right. Therefore, CHILDS will be the first to return to the United States.

X COE. (7) A communication was received by DENNIS from FRANK COE. COE asked that [] of New York City, be sent to China. DENNIS indicated that [] is a good comrade and that she is in contact with Far Eastern and Latin American countries. CPSU, the CP-USA will announce that the CP-USA has sent JIM JACKSON to the 21st Congress as a guest. The CP-USA will not make any announcement in regard to CHILDS. The announcement in regard to JACKSON will be made in order to prevent a prior leak of this information in the Capitalist press.

B. [redacted]

In the discussion, EUGENE DENNIS stated that CHILDS should arrange a meeting between JIM JACKSON and [redacted] so that they can have a full discussion on the Negro question.

Russia
[redacted] joined in the discussion concerning [redacted]. She said that she realizes that their [redacted] may have a psychological block in regard to his parents and may feel that they abandoned him in Russia. [redacted] blamed EARL BROWDER and one [redacted] (ph), of the Comintern, for the fact that [redacted] remained in Russia. She said that she had been promised that [redacted] would be sent out of Russia soon after she and GENE got out of Russia. 84

b6

[redacted] also stated that [redacted] should be told that his grandmother, [redacted]'s mother, is still more interested in [redacted] than in their other [redacted] who is in New York City. [redacted] stated that her mother, who is now 77 years of age, was considered to be an old Bolshevik and at one time was invited to visit Russia. She said that her mother's maiden name was XCHEVENORAFSKY (ph), and that her home town was Ektarinoslav (ph), which is in the Ukraine. [redacted] stated that if her mother's background as an old Bolshevik was verified by the Russians, it might make it easier for [redacted] and the Russians should be requested to look into this background.

B. Apple...
CHILDS told EUGENE DENNIS that for security reasons the Russians are reluctant to let [redacted] travel to the United States, although he has travelled in Europe as far as England. DENNIS was asked for his views on this. DENNIS said that he has no objection to a visit to the United States by his son, if an opportunity is presented, and that this viewpoint should be conveyed to the Russians.

C. GREETINGS FROM THE CP-USA TO THE CPSU
ON THE OCCASION OF THE 21ST CONGRESS
OF THE CPSU

DENNIS stated that before CHILDS returns to the United States from Moscow, he should have a discussion with JIM JACKSON and tell JACKSON that certain types of information received by JACKSON and CHILDS should only be conveyed to DENNIS and not to the National Executive Committee upon their return to the United States.

DENNIS said that JACKSON did not prepare official greetings for the CP-USA to the CPSU on the occasion of the 21st Congress of the CPSU. Thus, CHILDS and JACKSON should prepare two letters of greetings from the CP-USA to the CPSU. One of these letters should then be delivered to the CPSU. The other letter should be similar in content, but should be in such form that it can be published. Thus, it should not contain anything which would get the CP-USA into legal difficulties.

In addition, the CP-USA will send from New York City a very brief cable of greetings to the CPSU on the occasion of the opening of the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

DENNIS also stated that JACKSON has other instructions which he will convey to CHILDS when they meet in Europe.

D. FUNDS FOR THE CP-USA FROM THE CPSU

DENNIS stated that funds from the CPSU for the CP-USA are coming to the United States too slowly. He said that CHILDS should discuss this matter with the same representatives of the CPSU with whom he had made previous arrangements. CHILDS should try to get the balance of the funds due on the basis of the arrangements for 1958, and should also negotiate for funds for 1959.

DENNIS instructed that CHILDS should tell the Russians that supporters of both the Right wing and the Left wing viewpoints in the CP-USA "walked off" with Party funds. The Russians should be told that as of right now the CP-USA has a deficit of a quarter of a million dollars a year. Thus, the CP-USA cannot resume the publication of a daily newspaper. However, if the Russians fulfill their promise for 1958 and make arrangements for funds for 1959, then the CP-USA may be in a position to resume a daily paper in about one year.

In addition, DENNIS stated that IRVING POTASH has made a proposal that the CP-USA publish a monthly trade union magazine similar to the old "March of Labor". DENNIS instructed CHILDS to negotiate with the Russians for some financial support for such a magazine.

In a subsequent conversation, IRVING POTASH stated that it would take about $50,000 a year to publish a trade union magazine on a monthly basis. He said that as a minimum, the following staff would be needed: (1) an Editor; (2) an Assistant Editor; and (3) a Business Manager - Secretary.

E. POSSIBLE TRIPS OF CP-USA MEMBERS TO RUSSIA FOR MEDICAL CARE AND/OR TO LIVE PERMANENTLY IN RUSSIA

DENNIS stated that CHILDS should ask the Russians if it would be possible to send some CP members to Russia for medical care. Also, would it be possible to send some old people to live in Russia permanently. In connection with the latter, DENNIS mentioned [redacted]. In regard to medical care, DENNIS mentioned the following: [redacted] of Boston, who has multiple sclerosis; ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN, who wants to go to Russia for treatment of arthritis; WILLIAM WEINSTONE, who wants treatment for "fatigue and colitis".

DENNIS said that this matter should be raised in a general way with the Russians. He said that he thinks that WEINSTONE wants to go to Russia in order to present the viewpoints of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. Therefore, the CPSU should be told that if any persons can go to Russia for medical care, these persons are not to take up any political problems while in Russia.

F. "WORLD MARXIST REVIEW"

DENNIS said that the leaders of the "World Marxist Review" should be told to publish the CP-USA statement on Party unity and should accompany this with a favorable comment.

Further, CHILDS should take up with the leaders of the "World Marxist Review" the necessity for a major article on Trotskyism. Also, that the Editors of the "World Marxist Review" should be asked to publish a review of the book by the English author LEVY, which deals with anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union.

G. LEGAL STATUS OF THE CP-USA

DENNIS instructed CHILDS to explain to the Russians and the representatives of all other Communist Parties the current legal status of the CP-USA. It should be pointed out that Smith Act and Taft-Hartley cases are still being prosecuted. Further, that the McCarran Act is still on the books; that there is a black list which prohibits employment of CP members in certain industries; that all of these things prevent a large scale growth of the CP in the United States.

H. YOUTH MATTERS

DENNIS stated that the Russians should be told that within a couple of months they will be notified as to whom will

1 speak for the National Committee of the CP-USA at the World
2 Youth Congress in Vienna, Austria, during the summer of 1959.

DENNIS stated that [REDACTED] AL LANNON, JR., and a couple of others who are active in youth matters, are all members of the CP but are Leftists. Yet, this group of Leftists is splitting up and some of them may be won over to a correct policy.

In April, 1959, the CP-USA will hold a National Youth Conference in order to exchange opinions on the type of youth organization to establish.

I. CP-USA POLITICAL ACTIVITIES

DENNIS stated that FOSTER's thesis on the need for CP work in the Democratic Party is too one-sided. He said that even though it is necessary for the CP-USA to work within the two old parties, it may be necessary to have an independent party, such as a peace party. Thus, the CP should not limit itself to concentration only in the two old parties, with emphasis on the Democratic Party. In this connection, he mentioned that some people favor a split even in the Democratic Party in order to get away from the Dixiecrats.

J. ESTIMATE OF THE GENERAL SITUATION IN THE UNITED STATES

DENNIS commented that there is an upsurge of struggle in the United States and that it is possible that the United States will see more strikes developing. He said that there may be more struggles when the anti-filibuster rules are defeated in Congress. Further, there will be struggles developing around elections in 1960.

With regard to the economic situation, DENNIS stated that the auto situation is worse now than it was in 1957 and 1958 and that it will get even worse. Also, steel production will not go beyond 75% of capacity and may even decrease. There may also

K. MOVEMENT FOR PEACE IN THE UNITED STATES(1) Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy

DENNIS stated that the Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy has organizations in 75 cities in the United States. It has borough and neighborhood organizations in New York City. It is getting ready to do something to influence negotiations in Geneva in regard to the control of nuclear tests. He also stated that some peace groups will mobilize and organize to put pressure in Congress regarding control of nuclear tests. DENNIS stated that the Communist Party has a few individuals in leading capacities in these peace movements.

(2) Women's International League for Peace and Freedom

DENNIS stated that the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom will hold a national convention in Boston in June, 1959, and that it will be a big event. The CP will try to have a hand in the convention. DENNIS said that CHILDS should tell all Communist Parties to send greetings to this convention. Also, an effort should be made to have prominent individuals, such as scientists, send greetings to this convention from throughout the world.

(3) A Third "Pugwash Conference"

DENNIS said that efforts should be made to promote a third "Pugwash Conference". He explained that CYRUS EATON called the first conference of scientists from all over the world to discuss nuclear wars. This first conference was held in Pugwash, Nova Scotia. The second conference of this type was held in Vienna, Austria. He said that pressures should be brought through prominent people for a third "Pugwash Conference" to which not only scientists, but also educators and labor leaders would be invited.

L. PAMPHLETS AND PUBLICATIONS

DENNIS stated that the CPSU should be told that the Communist foreign language press in the United States has a good circulation. Also, that the CP-USA issued 300,000 leaflets on the Lebanon and Far Eastern crises; that the CP-USA has issued a lot of material advocating a ban on nuclear tests and nuclear war, and that there is a leaflet on the presses now, ostensibly published by "The Worker", which deals with the current situation in the steel industry.

DENNIS also stated that word had come through from the Russians stating that they have an urgent need for a book dealing with taxes in the United States. DENNIS said that [redacted] is supposed to get this book.

M. JOHN WILLIAMSON

DENNIS stated that JOHN WILLIAMSON is now a District Organizer and is located thirty miles outside of London. DENNIS said that WILLIAMSON believes that this position will lead to his becoming a member of the National Committee of the Communist Party of Great Britain.

DENNIS instructed CHILDS to talk with [redacted] General Secretary of the CPGB, or, if necessary, HARRY POLLITT, and tell them that they are making a mistake in not fully utilizing the talents of WILLIAMSON, and that WILLIAMSON should be a member of the National Committee of the CPGB.

DENNIS also stated that he feels that if JOHN WILLIAMSON wants to leave England and cannot go to Canada, that he should go to Prague, Czechoslovakia, as the CP-USA representative on the "World Marxist Review".

DENNIS stated that JOE NORTH left the United States for Cuba on Sunday, 1/11/59, and planned to spend at least two weeks in Cuba. DENNIS stated that NORTH had made contact with the Cuban publication, "Hoy".

O. CP MEMBERS VISITING IN RUSSIA

DENNIS said that the CPSU should be told that no matter who goes to Russia as a member of the CP-USA, that the CPSU must check with the CP-USA in regard to these individuals. The CP-USA will not assume responsibility for anyone unless it is first given notice that the person plans to go to Russia or is in Russia.

P. MOLLIE PEARLMAN

DENNIS said that a woman by the name of [REDACTED] who was a stenographer in the Comintern, is still in Russia. He asked CHILDS to try to find out how she is getting along.

Q. PROGRAM FOR THE CP-USA

DENNIS said that the CPSU should be told that the CP-USA will not have an elaborate program for itself at the 17th National Convention. Instead, it will have a declaration of principles. DENNIS said that while JIM ALLEN is opposed to this idea, the National Committee will discuss a declaration of principles at its next meeting.

III. EUGENE DENNIS AND IRVING POTASH

At this point, IRVING POTASH joined CHILDS and DENNIS at the latter's residence.

A. WORLD-WIDE MOVEMENT FOR AMNESTY FOR GIL GREEN AND HENRY WINSTON

IRVING POTASH stated that at the 21st Congress of the CPSU, an effort should be made to start a world-wide movement for amnesty for GIL GREEN and HENRY WINSTON. In regard to WINSTON, emphasis should be placed on this campaign in Africa, Asia, and non-Socialist countries. This should be a world-wide campaign along the lines of the campaign conducted for the right of PAUL ROBESON to travel outside the United States. Emphasis should be placed on the fact that the United States not only has political prisoners, but has a colored political prisoner.

B. L. APPR 1973

foreign POTASH raised the question of trying to get back to the United States. EUGENE DENNIS indicated that he was opposed to this. He said that she is 65 years of age and is ill. In an aside, DENNIS indicated that he did not want CHILDS to bother about this item.

POTASH then discussed [REDACTED]. He said that an effort should be made to try to get [REDACTED] back to the United States. DENNIS said that he was also opposed to this, since her return might create problems for the CP-USA. Further, [REDACTED] went to Europe with [REDACTED] who was part of the advance guard to set up an underground leadership of the CP-USA in Moscow. U.S.S.R.

POTASH protested that [REDACTED] went to Europe because she was afraid that the United States Government, during the underground period, would arrest her [REDACTED] whose father was [REDACTED]

It was finally agreed that CHILDS is to try to determine [REDACTED]'s present status in regard to the possibility of returning to the United States.

IV. BENJAMIN DAVIS, JR.

A. COMMENTS OF DAVIS ON EUGENE DENNIS

In a lengthy meeting between MORRIS CHILDS and BEN DAVIS, the latter outlined his position in regard to EUGENE DENNIS. He said that DENNIS is not fit to be a General Secretary. He stated, We need a dynamic leader. We need somebody to whom the Negro people will listen. Parenthetically speaking, it is believed that DAVIS had himself in mind as the person who could perform the duties of General Secretary of the CP-USA. DAVIS said that DENNIS is not fighting hard enough against the Right. DAVIS also commented that NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV is a symbol of leadership. He said, We do not have one comrade like that in the CP-USA.

B. [REDACTED]

Referring to [REDACTED] DAVIS said he disagreed with WILLIAM Z. FOSTER's position regarding [REDACTED] DAVIS said that he hopes that [REDACTED] will be punished. He also thinks that it was correct for the National Executive Committee to issue the statement that it did about [REDACTED] DAVIS stated that he will re-organize the Brooklyn Party organization from top to bottom and in this connection launched into an attack on ANDY ONDA. Parenthetically speaking, it is possible that DAVIS sees in [REDACTED], a Negro and head of the Brooklyn Party organization, a possible threat to DAVIS' leadership in the New York District.

b7CC. NEGRO QUESTION

Next, DAVIS said that the main problem in the United States is the Negro question. He said, If you can grasp that link, everything else will move. The DENNIS leadership does not grasp that.

D. PAUL ROBESON

It is noted that PAUL ROBESON is currently in Moscow. CHILDS asked DAVIS if he thought it would be advisable to see PAUL ROBESON. DAVIS replied that by all means CHILDS should see ROBESON. Parenthetically speaking, DENNIS also stated that CHILDS should see ROBESON.

DAVIS stated that he had been writing to ROBESON in a guarded way. DAVIS told CHILDS to tell ROBESON that DAVIS thinks that ROBESON made a mistake in publicly stating that he would make England his home. DAVIS said that he feels that ROBESON's stay in Europe should be a temporary matter.

DAVIS said that he understands that ROBESON has an invitation to go to China. DAVIS stated that he feels that ROBESON should not go to China because the United States Government could then say that ROBESON had violated his passport privileges. DAVIS said he would advise ROBESON not to make a trip to China.

E. PROPOSAL FOR AN INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE AGAINST RACISM AND COLONIALISM

DAVIS asked CHILDS to talk to PAUL ROBESON about the possibility of holding an International Conference Against Racism and Colonialism. DAVIS said that forty or fifty world personalities, including Madam SUN Yat-sen (ph) and headed by ROBESON, could join such a world-wide conference or committee. DAVIS said that if ROBESON is receptive to this proposal, then CHILDS should take it up with the Russians, Chinese, and other Communist Parties.

V. [REDACTED]

CHILDS met with [REDACTED] at the apartment of BILL ALBERTSON, and they proceeded to a saloon on Broadway, where the discussion lasted from approximately 9:00 P.M. to Midnight.

A. THOMPSON'S ESTIMATE OF THE SITUATION
IN THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CP-USA

The estimate of [REDACTED] in regard to the current leadership of the CP-USA was similar to that of FOSTER and DAVIS.

CHILDS said that he wanted to place a $64,000 question to [REDACTED] so that he would have an answer in the event that the Russians again asked him the same question. This question is as follows: Are there any basic political differences between

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and EUGENE DENNIS? [] replied that he would state that while there are differences between FOSTER and DENNIS, there are no basic political differences between them. [] said that DENNIS is a hard guy to work with. He stated that DENNIS should be in the collective leadership, but that DENNIS should not be the sole leader of the CP-USA.

B. FACTIONALISM

[] stated that factionalism will continue in the CP-USA; yet, the Right wing has been broken and the Left wing is not going anywhere. The National Executive Committee will not split. The factional fight will not have the support of any segment of the leadership, so there is no danger of a split in the National Executive Committee.

(1) MORRIS SCHAPPES and "Jewish Currents"

[] stated that in a few days, MORRIS SCHAPPES will be kicked out of the Communist Party, but that "Jewish Currents" will remain under the control of the CP. He said that SCHAPPES, without consulting anyone in the Party leadership, called a conference on Jewish work. While the CP could not call off this conference, the Party is finished with SCHAPPES. [] commented that this will lead to more factional fights involving the Right wing.

(2) SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

[] stated that it is not known officially as yet, but that he plans to make a trip to California in about six weeks.

He said that the National Office of the CP-USA is preparing to send [] to Southern California in two weeks. [] will stay in Southern California permanently and will work into the leadership of the Southern California District.

SYNOPSIS:

On 1-11-59, CG 5824-S* conferred with William Z. Foster, Eugene Dennis, Irving Potash, Benjamin Davis, Jr., and [redacted] and received instructions as to his attendance at 21st Congress, Communist Party, Soviet Union (CPSU), 1-27-59. Informant and James Jackson will be only official delegates to 21st Congress from Communist Party, USA (CPUSA) with informant charged with sole responsibility for discussions relating to funds and communications. Foster in general desired the informant to advise Soviets that right wing was still main danger in CPUSA. Foster appeared concerned that impression not be given to Soviets that he was engaged in factional activities. His main points were an uncompromising attack against Dennis and defense of [redacted] recently suspended left-wing CP leader presently in Russia without authority of CP leadership. Eugene Dennis advised informant that he is ex officio member of national committee, CPUSA, and charged with major responsibility in dealings with Russia. Informant instructed by Dennis to attempt to obtain the remainder of funds promised by Russia for 1958 and negotiate for funds for 1959. Informant to discuss with Russians possible trips of American CP members to Russia for medical care and/or permanent residence, the legal status of the CPUSA, proposed CPUSA youth activities, Dennis' position on political activities and Dennis' estimate of the economic situation in the United States. Informant also to discuss at Dennis' instruction the movement for peace in the United States and the various pamphlets issued by the CPUSA on Lebanon and the Far Eastern crisis. Potash proposed that informant make effort to start world-wide amnesty movement for Gilbert Green and Henry Winston; to raise question regarding contacts between CPUSA and Latin American countries. Benjamin Davis, Jr., advised informant that Eugene Dennis not fit to be general secretary of CPUSA and that Dennis fails to grasp fact Negro question main United States problem. Davis indicates he has himself in mind as general secretary for CPUSA. Davis asked informant to discuss with Paul Robeson a proposed international conference against racism and colonialism. [redacted] advised informant that he does not consider Dennis suitable as sole leader of CPUSA but that Dennis should be in the collective leadership. [redacted] pointed out factionalism will continue in CPUSA but there is no danger of a split in national executive committee. Thompson estimates current CPUSA membership as under 7,000 but believes Party can register 10,000 members.

Memorandum to Mr. Belmont
100-428091

Thompson instructed informant to advise Russians to utilize American attorneys in United States business transactions of Eastern European communist countries who will kick back part of the fees to the CPUSA. Thompson proposes a conference of CPs in North and South America similar to All-Africa Peoples Conference held in Accra. (Africa)

OBSERVATIONS:

Our informant is in fact the leader of the CPUSA delegation to the 21st Congress, CPSU, and solely charged with the most important responsibilities such as funds and communications. He will discuss all important aspects of CPUSA activities with the Russians and will undoubtedly receive instructions and suggestions concerning these activities from the Russians for the CPUSA.

In view of the extremely dangerous position presently occupied by the informant and since all of this information was obtained in personal conversation between the informant and various Party functionaries, any unauthorized disclosure of this information would jeopardize the informant's life. Therefore, it is felt that we cannot afford to give any dissemination at the present time.

ACTION:

This matter will continue to be followed very closely. Upon the informant's return to this country, the information obtained from him will be carefully analyzed and consideration will be given at that time to dissemination of pertinent points on a high level.

DETAILS:

Chicago by airtel 1-15-59, attached, furnished results of briefing of CG 5824-S* by top leaders, CPUSA, on 1-11-59 prior to departure of informant to Russia as official delegate from CPUSA to 21st Congress, CPSU.

REMARKS OF WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, CHAIRMAN EMERITUS, CPUSA: N.Y.

Foster characterized current CPUSA policy regarding the Negro question, trade-union matters, political activities and youth matters as only half correct. Claims main danger to Party is the "right" and that Eugene Dennis, national secretary, CPUSA, is not a vigorous leader. He blamed Dennis and right wing for theory CPUSA must work within United Socialist Party in political activities whereas Foster believes Party should work within Republican and Democratic Parties. Foster defended [redacted] Brooklyn CP functionary, who is currently in Russia without permission of national CP leaders and currently suspended from office in the New York District CP as the only leader to stand against the right wing. (Noted that New York advised by airtel 1-15-59 that Foster received letter from [redacted] on 1-14-59 mailed from Moscow, Russia. This letter indicated that Loman was supporting Foster's views in Russia.) Foster's main points in conversation with our informant were his uncompromising attack against Dennis and his defense of [redacted]

S.P. James Jackson and informant are the only official delegates to 21st Congress, CPSU. Alexander Trachtenberg and [redacted] are to be considered merely observers if they become involved in 21st Congress.

Informant was instructed to advise Russia that he is ex officio member of national committee, CPUSA, by virtue of his position as secretary of international commission and secretary of national appeals committee, CPUSA.

Informant instructed that he will be sole representative of CPUSA with CPSU in discussions dealing with funds and communications.

Informant instructed to attempt to return to United States in time to attend national committee meeting early March, 1959.

Prior to opening of 21st Congress, the CPUSA will announce that Jackson is attending Congress as guest but will not refer to informant's presence at Congress.

RE: SOLO
100-428091

455K

Informant instructed to arrange for meeting between [] of Eugene Dennis, and James Jackson for discussion of Negro question.

Funds for CPUSA from CPSU:

Dennis instructed informant to advise Soviets that funds from Soviet Union are coming too slowly. Informant to attempt to get balance of funds due for 1958 ($125,000) and to negotiate for funds for 1959.

CPUSA's Precarious Financial Position:

Dennis instructed informant to advise Russia that supporters of both left and right wing have "walked off" with Party funds and that the CPUSA has annual deficit of one quarter of a million dollars.

CPUSA Hopes to Publish Daily Publication in About One Year:

Dennis advised informant to tell Russians that if they fulfill their financial promise for 1958 and make arrangements for funds for 1959, the CPUSA may be in position to resume daily publication of a newspaper in about one year.

Proposed Trade-Union Magazine of CPUSA:

Dennis said Irving Potash, labor secretary, CPUSA, has proposed publication of monthly trade-union magazine and informant instructed to attempt to get financial support for such a magazine from Russia. Potash has estimated that it would take about $50,000 a year to publish a trade-union magazine monthly.

Possible Trips to Russia for Medical Care and/or Permanent Residence for CPUSA Members:

Dennis instructed informant to inquire of Russia regarding possibility of sending old CP members to live in Russia permanently and certain others for medical care. In connection with medical care, he mentioned Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, William Weinstone and [] of New England District CP.

"World Marxist Review:"

Dennis instructed informant to tell leaders of this publication to publish CPUSA's statement on Party unity with favorable comment and in addition informant should take up necessity for magazine preparing major article on Trotskyism. Editors of this magazine should be asked by informant to publish review of book by English author, Levy, on anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union.

RE: SOLO
100-428091

CPUSA Political Activities:

Dennis in contrast to William Z. Foster stated that CPUSA should not limit itself to concentration on the two major political parties with emphasis on the Democratic Party as it may be necessary to have an independent Party such as a peace party.

Legal Status of CPUSA:

Dennis instructed informant to advise Russia that large scale growth of CPUSA prevented by such factors as Smith Act, Taft-Hartley cases, McCarran Act and black lists prohibiting employment of CP members in certain industries.

CPUSA Youth Matters:

In April, 1959, CPUSA will hold national youth conference to exchange opinions on the type of youth organization to be established. Russia will be notified within two months of the identity of the person authorized to speak for the national committee, CPUSA, at the world youth conference at Vienna, Austria, in the Summer of 1959.

Dennis' Estimate of General Situation United States:

Dennis believes it is possible that United States will see more strikes developing in the future. Concerning economic situation, Dennis predicts a worsening of the automobile industry, a possible decrease in steel production and a probable increase in unemployment.

Movement for Peace in United States:

Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy:

Dennis claims the above organization is established in 75 United States cities. It will attempt to influence negotiations in Geneva concerning continuation of nuclear tests. Dennis said some peace groups will attempt to pressure Congress regarding nuclear tests and that the CPUSA has a few individuals in leading capacities in these peace movements.

Memorandum to Mr. Belmont

RE: SOLO

100-428091

Women's International League for Peace and Freedom:

Dennis said this organization will hold national convention, Boston, June, 1959, and it will be a big event. CPUSA will attempt to exert some influence at this convention and informant instructed to tell all CPs to send greetings.

A Third "Pugwash Conference":

Dennis said efforts should be made to promote a third "Pugwash Conference." The first was called by Cyrus Eaton and held Pugwash, Nova Scotia, regarding nuclear wars. The second was held in Vienna, Austria. Dennis advised informant that pressures should be brought through prominent people for a third conference to which educators and labor leaders as well as scientists will be invited.

100-428091-115

Pamphlets and Publications:

Dennis instructed informant to tell CPSU that communist foreign language press in United States has good circulation. He said 300,000 leaflets were issued on Lebanon and the Far Eastern crisis and that CPUSA issued a lot of material in regard to the ban on nuclear tests. He said leaflets are now on the presses regarding the current steel situation.

John Williamson:

Dennis told informant that Williamson, former CPUSA functionary who accepted voluntary deportation to England to avoid prosecution under membership clause of Smith Act of 1940, is now a district organizer of the CP of Great Britain (CPGB). Informant instructed to advise CPGB that Williamson should be made a member of national committee, CPGB. Informant instructed to advise Williamson that if Williamson desires to leave England and cannot go to Canada that he should go to Prague, Czechoslovakia, as CPUSA representative on "World Marxist Review."

Cuban Situation:

Dennis related that Joe North, foreign affairs reporter for "The Worker," left United States for Cuba 1-11-59 for two weeks and has made contact with "Hoy" Cuban Party publication. (Noted that 1-18-59 issue "The Worker" contains article prepared by Joseph North date lined Havana, Cuba, which sets forth contact by North with the newspaper "Hoy" the organ of the Partido Socialista Popular, the Cuban Communist Party.)

Memorandum to Mr. Belmont

Program for CPUSA National Convention:

Informant instructed by Dennis to advise CPSU that the CPUSA will not have an elaborate program for its 17th National Convention and instead the convention will be a declaration of principles.

REMARKS OF IRVING POTASH, LABOR SECRETARY, CPUSA

Proposed World Movement for Amnesty for Gilbert Green and Henry Winston:

Potash advised informant that at the 21st Congress of the CPSU efforts should be made to start a world-wide movement for amnesty for Gilbert Green and Henry Winston with emphasis in Africa, Asia and non-socialist countries on "fact" that United States not only has political prisoners but a colored political prisoner.

Contacts Between CPUSA and Latin American Countries:

Potash advised informant that question of preparing contacts between CPUSA and Latin American countries should be discussed by informant with the Russians. (U) (S)

REMARKS OF BENJAMIN J. DAVIS, JR., HEAD NEW YORK DISTRICT CP AND MEMBER OF NATIONAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, CPUSA

Davis advised informant that Eugene Dennis is not fit to be general secretary of CPUSA. He said a dynamic leader is needed, one to whom Negro people will listen. Davis said that Dennis is not fighting hard enough against the CP right faction and fails to realize that the Negro question is the most important problem in the United States. 74

Informant believes that Benjamin Davis has himself in mind as the person who could perform the duties of general secretary of the CPUSA.

Proposal for an International Conference Against Racism and Colonialism:

Davis asked informant to discuss with Paul Robeson in Russia possibility of holding an international conference against racism and colonialism. Davis said that if Robeson is receptive, the informant should take this matter up with the Russians, Chinese and other CPs.

100-428091

71.4

REMARKS OF ROBERT THOMPSON, ORGANIZATIONAL SECRETARY, CPUSA:

[]'s Estimate of Leadership Situation CPUSA:

[] in his remarks generally agreed with William Z. Foster and Benjamin Davis as to the leadership ability of Eugene Dennis. He said that Dennis should be in the collective leadership but that Dennis should not be the sole leader of the CPUSA.

Factionalism:

[] stated that factionalism will continue in the CPUSA. However, the factionalist fight will not have the support of any segment of the leadership and there is no danger of a split in the national executive committee.

Morris Schapper and "Jewish Currents":

45

[] said that Morris Schapper will be expelled from the CP in a few days but that "Jewish Currents" will remain under the control of the CP. He said that Schapper called a conference on Jewish work without consulting the CP leadership and apparently this is one of the reasons for his proposed expulsion. [] indicated that this will lead to more factional fights involving the right wing.

Southern California:

The national office of the CPUSA is preparing to send [] CP organizer of the Montana District, to Southern California in about two weeks. [] will stay in Southern California permanently and will work into the leadership of the Southern California District.

CPUSA Membership:

[] said the current membership of the CPUSA is under 7,000 but he believes that the Party will be able to register as many as 10,000 members.

Business Arrangements Between Eastern European Communist Countries and the United States:

[] said that Eastern European Communist countries conducting business transactions in the United States utilize attorneys in the United States in connection with these transactions. However, the CPUSA

Memorandum to Mr. Belmont
RE: SOLO

SAC Auerbach, Chicago, called today (1/27/59) and advised that a Chicago Agent had been in touch this morning with [redacted] of Chicago 5824-S, who is now in Moscow. [redacted] is now ill at home.) She advised that she had received a call from NY 694-S last night; that NY 694-S advised, in turn, that he had talked with the wife of James Jackson; that Jackson had called his wife a few days ago and advised that he and Chicago 5824-S had arrived safely and that everything was OK; that they were getting the red carpet treatment in Moscow and that [redacted] had been kicked out of Moscow. [redacted] told the Agent she was very much worried because of the publicity concerning her husband; that she was worried whether or not she would lose her job. Chicago suggested it might be desirable to have NY 694-S go to Chicago to talk to [redacted] and attempt to calm her down.

The matter was discussed with ASAC McCabe, of the New York Office (NYO), who advised that NY 694-S said he had talked to [redacted] last night and that she seemed to be concerned over the publicity relative to Chicago 5824-S, but that after their conversation she seemed to be considerably calmed down. It was New York's recommendation that it was not necessary for New York 694-S to go to Chicago, but that Chicago Agents should be able to handle the matter with [redacted] and allay any concern which she might have regarding her welfare.

OBSERVATIONS:

It is believed that this matter can be adequately handled by the Chicago Office; that it is not necessary for New York 694-S to go to Chicago. [redacted] has not lost her job as a result of the publicity concerning her husband. If she does, we can face it at that time.

The publicity regarding Chicago 5824-S might also result in some action with reference to his [] who is in the Air Force. However, no issue has been raised as to this at this time and, if the matter does come up, we will face it then.

ACTION:

Reference is made to my memorandum of January 27, 1959, concerning the possibility of NY-694-S's going to Chicago to talk to [redacted] the [redacted] of CG 5824-S, who is now in Moscow.

New York advised that they talked to NY 694-S yesterday (1/28) and again this morning (1/29) regarding this matter. NY 694-S talked with [redacted] right before last and she seemed to be very low physically and mentally. He talked to her again last night and he told New York that she seems to be very despondent and is most insistent that he come to Chicago to discuss some family problems with her. He said that while he did not personally want to make the trip, and his [redacted] preferred that he not, he felt it was to the interest of our operation that he go to Chicago to talk to his brother's wife.

I called Special Agent in Charge Auerbach in Chicago and he advised that the Agents had talked to [redacted] Tuesday evening and again last night; that she was considerably upset last night when she found that NY 694-S was not coming immediately to Chicago. She said that when she first talked to him, he told her he undoubtedly would come out to see her on Thursday or Friday of this week. She said that she needed him; that she was sick and had a lot of problems that she wanted to talk to him about and could not understand why "things were so difficult." SAC Auerbach stated that after discussing it with the Agents, it was his considered judgment that it would be desirable to have NY 694-S go to Chicago to see [redacted] [redacted] has just learned that her [redacted]

I called Supervisor [redacted] of New York and told him to get in touch with NY 694-S and authorize him to go to Chicago as soon as convenient in connection with this matter; that New York could advance him $200.00 against expenses; that New York should advise Chicago and the Bureau

Reference is made to my memorandum to you of yesterday's date, copy attached, concerning the conversation between [redacted] and New York 694-S and in which the question was raised as to whether or not NY 694 should go to Chicago to talk to [redacted].

ASAC McCabe of New York called late this afternoon and advised that NY 694 had talked with [redacted] last night and that she was both [redacted] and that she was considerably worried about her [redacted] CG 5824-S. NY 694 mentioned to the contacting agent that it might be well for him to go to Chicago over the weekend and talk to [redacted]. He said he did not particularly want to but [redacted] if he did so as she was worrying about the safety of her [redacted] in Moscow and also feared that she might lose her job because of the publicity which has resulted concerning him.

I told McCabe that this matter was discussed with Chicago yesterday and Chicago felt that they could allay any fears of [redacted] as to her [redacted]'s safety and that [redacted] has not, in fact, lost her job and that if this occurs Chicago will face it with her then. Chicago was instructed to recontact [redacted] last night and discuss the matter with her. New York did not know whether or not last night's conversation between NY 694 and [redacted] occurred before or after Chicago contact with [redacted]. Accordingly, I told New York to recontact NY 694 and to tell him that we were recontacting [redacted] and that our Chicago Agents felt the matter was being adequately handled by our Chicago Office, that under the circumstances we did not feel at this time that it was necessary for NY 694 to go to Chicago but that he should advise us immediately if he received any further calls from [redacted].

MEMORANDUM FOR MR. TOLSON

In conversation with the Attorney General last Monday, I discussed some very top secret coverage which the Bureau has in the Communist movement and particularly in the international level at the current 21st Congress of the Communist Parties at Moscow. The Attorney General suggested that when we receive a report upon this, we set up a conference with the President for the Attorney General and myself to personally see the President and brief him upon this information. He suggested also that a concise, written report be prepared upon this matter which might be left with the President for his sole information in addition to the oral briefing which it is planned I shall give the President.

I would like to have this kept in mind and for the necessary steps to be taken so that prompt action can be initiated here when the report from the informant is received.

Very truly yours,

15/2.E.H.

NY 1694-S* advised on 1/27/59, that IRVING POTASH and JACK SHULMAN were discussing a story that appeared in "The New York Times" on the previous day. POTASH asked if SHULMAN knew the origin of [redacted] (PH). SHULMAN said he could guess who it is. POTASH asked if SHULMAN knew why it is [redacted] (PH). SHULMAN asked why and POTASH laughingly attributed it to translation. SHULMAN said "took it out of Russian and it comes out like that". POTASH agreed.

SHULMAN said he thought this guy was supposed to be on the "quiet". POTASH agreed and SHULMAN asked how they "put him in print". He then stated that "somebody goofed". POTASH stated that sometimes there is a slip on such things. He said it happened to him once in Rumania, that his name was not mentioned, but that he did not want them to say anything about the United States. SHULMAN said the newspapermen did not know who they were referring to (in inquiring about [redacted]) which meant he had "a certain effectiveness (PH) in keeping himself quiet". SHULMAN indicated the quiet should have been maintained. POTASH said "but as far as the State Department and the FBI - they will go for that". SHULMAN said he would not be surprised

Chicago Man Reported as Red Delegate

The Soviet press has listed two Americans as being among the delegates to the 21st special congress of the Soviet Communist party in Moscow.

One is believed to be a Chicagoan, Morris Childs, according to United Press International.

THE SOVIET press listed the two U.S. delegates as James Jackson and Moses Shield. However, Communist sources in New York said they believe the latter's name had been incorrectly translated and actually is Morris Childs.

Childs, 57, was secretary of the Communist party of Illinois in the late 1930s and is a former member of the party's national executive committee.

He was Communist candidate for governor of Wisconsin in 1934, for congressman at large from Illinois in 1935 and for Illinois senator in 1938, but that year was barred from the ballot.

Jackson is one of the Communists whose conviction under the Smith Act was reversed by a U.S. Appellate Court.

On 1/26/59, NY 694-S* advised SA [] that he had received, on that date, a letter from CG 5824-S* in Moscow, addressed to NY 694-S* under the code name, []. Said letter included two notes which CG 5824-S* directed be delivered to EUGENE DENNIS immediately.

A note dated January 19th was as follows:

"Dear pop,

"How are you? I hope you are well and working. The Christmas rush is over and things are slow in my line.

"I have very little news except on family matters. Imagine my surprise when I found that [] was here in Minneapolis instead of being down in Atlanta. With the usual display of crust, he was sponging on the family.

"Until this last Sunday's dinner, the folks did not know of []'s separation from Phyllis and his desertion of the children. They heard of rumors but thought things were not as bad as some make them out.

"Naturally, when they learned of the real facts,

"they were disturbed. Uncle David who loves Phyllis and adores the children told [] he should quit gallivanting around. Go home and face the family responsibilities. The fact that grandpa tolerates []'s behaviour does not mean that Uncle David will do the same.

"I talked to cousin Jack, his wife and others of the family. They believe that Phyllis better look ahead and think of the children and their welfare. Perhaps her original desire to complete the divorce was good instinct. I suppose her vague hopes about the return of the errant husband kept her from going to Reno. It is difficult to speak for others concerning personal matters. I know what I would do.

"I'm going into the Dakotas for a few weeks and then to the Northwest. I will try to write once in a while. My love to mother. I did not want to disturb her with such news.

"With my best,

"P.S. Perhaps brother []'s prophetic remarks that [] was no good will prove correct."

A note dated January 20th was as follows:

"Dear pop,

"One of our salesmen who insisted on letters of credit before going into the Iowa-Nebraska area, has been misusing his references. Some firms decided to cancel their orders and indignantly closed their account.

Reference is made to my attached memorandum dated 1-27-59 in captioned matter which reflects that when CG 5824-S told the Soviets the true facts concerning [redacted]s departure from the United States without obtaining the approval of the Communist Party (CP), USA, the Soviets told [redacted] to return home and face his Party responsibilities.

Information has now been received that [redacted] returned to his home in New York City on 1-22-59. It is interesting to note that CG 5824-S apparently gave the Soviets the true facts concerning [redacted] on 1-18-59. Since [redacted] was back in New York City four days after CG 5824-S gave the Soviets the true story, it is quite obvious that the Soviets did not waste any time in getting [redacted] out of Moscow. This, of course, not only indicates the high regard in which the Soviets hold our informant but is a strikingly clear illustration of the firm control which the Soviet Union exercises over the CPUSA and its members.

On 1-26-59 NY 694-S received a letter from his brother, CG 5824-S, who is presently in Moscow attending the 21st Congress of the Communist Party (CP) of the Soviet Union as official delegate from CP, USA. Included with this letter were two notes, both of which were written in usual communist double talk and which were to be delivered immediately to Eugene Dennis.

The first of these notes concerned [redacted] Brooklyn CP functionary and national committee member, who aroused considerable consternation in Party circles when he left New York City on 12-14-58 on a trip to Ghana and subsequently to Soviet Union. [redacted] left without consent of either national or New York State CP committees, as result of which he was considered for expulsion from the Party. It was ultimately decided that he would be relieved of his position on New York State CP committee. It is noted that [redacted] conferred with William Z. Foster prior to his departure and was given instructions by Foster to contact several Soviet functionaries and tell them what was going on in the CP, USA.

In this note to Dennis, CG 5824-S indicated that he was surprised to find that [redacted] is already in Moscow instead of Ghana. [redacted] was apparently well received by the Soviets on his initial contact. CG 5824-S, however, indicated that he told the Soviets the real facts about [redacted] and his trip. The Soviets were disturbed and told [redacted] to go home and face his Party responsibilities. The Soviets also indicated that they would not tolerate [redacted]'s behavior even though William Z. Foster did. CG 5824-S also indicated he had discussed the [redacted] matter with James Jackson, the other official CP delegate to the 21st Congress, and they agreed that maybe the Party should have expelled [redacted] at least from the national committee as they had originally considered.

ENCLOSURE

The second note for delivery to Dennis concerned Paul Novick, editor of the communist Yiddish newspaper "Morning Freiheit," who is also in Moscow. It is noted that prior to his departure from the United States, Novick had attempted to obtain CP, USA, credentials. In view of his "unhealthy" attitude toward the Jewish question in the Soviet Union, however, the CP, USA, did not give him such credentials. CG 5824-S indicated that Novick had apparently attempted to discuss the Jewish question with the Soviets and had been rebuffed. CG 5824-S also indicated that Novick has apparently been making disparaging remarks to the Soviets about the CP, USA. CG 5824-S further indicated that Dennis had used good sense in not providing Novick with official credentials of the CP, USA.

The remaining portion of the letter from CG 5824-S to NY 694-S reflected that CG 5824-S could be contacted through the hotel in Moscow where James Jackson is presently staying.

OBSERVATIONS:

1. The above-mentioned note concerning would appear to be another clear indication that the Soviets regard Eugene Dennis as the leader of the CP, USA, rather than William Z. Foster. N.Y.

2. The above information also indicates that the Soviets place implicit confidence and trust in CG 5824-S since they accepted without question his version of 's departure from the United States. b6

Re Chicago airtel 1-15-59 in captioned matter which reflects that CG 5824-S will return to this country around 3-1-59, in order to attend a meeting of the national committee, Communist Party, USA, (CPUSA) which is being planned for the first part of March, 1959.

We, of course, are desirous of obtaining the details of informant's trip to the Soviet Union at the earliest possible moment. It is noted, however, at this time we do not know just what the informant's schedule will be immediately upon his arrival back in this country. It can be expected, however, that he will undoubtedly have to make a complete report on his trip to Eugene Dennis without delay, which may complicate our attempts to contact him. Extreme caution must be exercised in contacting the informant in order to insure that his security is in no way jeopardized.

Since the informant may have to remain in New York City for several days to make this report to Dennis and other Party functionaries before returning to Chicago, it is desired that SA J. E. Keating, who handles this informant in the Chicago Office, be prepared to proceed to New York City immediately upon the informant's arrival in the United States in order to facilitate the obtaining of information.

With regard to the transmission to the Bureau of the data obtained, it is desired that the pertinent high lights be submitted by teletype immediately as they are received from the informant. In this regard, particular attention should be paid to any information which the informant may have obtained regarding Soviet foreign policy, especially as it may pertain to this country. Specific comments and statements by high-ranking Soviet officials in this regard should be set forth. In addition, emphasis should also be placed upon any information which he may have concerning instructions and directives from the Soviet Union to the CPUSA.

Extreme care must be utilized to clearly differentiate between statements made by the Soviets and those which are our informant's own opinions or interpretations. Where possible, the identity of Soviet officials as well as the exact position held in the Soviet Union should be set forth.

Subsequent to the obtaining of the high lights of his trip, the informant should be exhaustively interviewed at the earliest possible moment and the complete details of his trip should be reported by subject matter with separate communications utilized for each general topic. It is noted that this procedure was utilized following the informant's trip to the Soviet Union in the Spring of 1958 and proved to be very satisfactory.

The Bureau should be kept advised on a continuing basis as to any information received regarding the date upon which the informant will return to this country.

from CG 5824-S* for delivery to EUGENE DENNIS:

"Dear Pop,

"Just a few words to let you know that the 'wiseguy salesman' asked for his job, promising that he will work harder, sell more, etc. Since we have not as yet found a replacement, it will not hurt to give him another try. I will visit a few accounts with him in Sioux City, Des Moines, etc., and see how he works out. Nothing new otherwise. That was a nice ad in the Sunday papers - really very good.

"Sorry about brevity, but as usual am driving and besides why bother you with details."

In view of an article by PAUL NOVICK on page 16 of "The Worker" of February 1, 1959, reflecting that NOVICK has reversed his position on the Jewish Question, NY 694-S* believes CG 5824-S* letter refers to NOVICK. The NY informant believes the reference to "an ad in the Sunday papers" concerns the greetings to the 21st Congress from the CPUSA appearing in a recent issue of "The Worker."

Rebulet February 4, 1959.

Per Bureau instructions, SA JOHN E. KEATING will depart for New York immediately upon receipt of notice of CG 5824-S*' arrival in this country in order to facilitate the obtaining of information.

Because of the expected large volume and detailed information resulting from the Solo Operation, it is hoped that the informant will be able to give the Bureau an initial synopsis of high-lights of the Solo Operation immediately on arrival in New York. Further, a suggestion will be made to the informant to minimize the time spent in New York in consultation with DENNIS in order that he can return to Chicago where a fuller and more detailed report can be obtained through greater access by this office to the informant. The contacting agent will discuss this matter with the informant at the earliest possible time after informant's arrival in New York and suggest to the informant the advisability of having as brief a contact as possible with DENNIS, utilizing as an excuse the informant's desire to return to Chicago [redacted] as soon as possible. An additional excuse might be offered that the informant feels that it might embarrass the Communist Party (CP) if investigation reflects that the first contact of the informant upon his arrival in the United States was with the General Secretary of the CP. It is felt that the informant may have additional reasons as to why he should not meet with DENNIS at length immediately upon his return to this country.

It can further be explained to DENNIS that the informant will, at the earliest possible time, revisit New York to brief DENNIS, et al, on the total results of the 21st Congress.

For the information of the Bureau, [redacted] has been in receipt of two letters from the informant since [redacted]

Auerbach also referred to Bureau letter to NY, cc Chicago, dated 12/31, wherein the Bureau cautioned that the security of 5824-S be borne in mind at all times, and the details concerning the Solo operation should be limited to employees on a need-to-know basis. Auerbach said that NY had sent out an airtel on 1/12 to the Bureau, cc Chicago, under the title JAMES JACKSON, INTERNAL SECURITY-C, which showed dissemination to numerous files in the NY office, and which set forth details of the Solo operation that should not be going around to various files in the office.

I told Auerbach I would get this airtel and if it reflected unnecessary dissemination I would caution the NY office. The airtel in question was located and consists of a 2-page document, setting forth information obtained from James Jackson, through 694-S. There is mention of the other information, but not in such a manner as to reflect the operations of Solo, and frankly I do not see anything wrong with it.

On 2/11/59, NY 694-S advised SA [redacted] that on said date he was contacted by JAMES ALLEN, assistant to ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, at International Publishers, Inc. ALLEN stated that EUGENE DENNIS had requested that through Soviet contacts JAMES JACKSON and CG 5824-S be informed that one of them should return to New York during the first week of March, 1959, and the other no later than March 28th. DENNIS indicated that their return was essential to making proper preparations for the full National Committee meeting in April.

ALLEN stated that he personally had no Soviet contacts, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, now in Moscow, being the individual who ordinarily would handle such an assignment. Knowing NY 694-S has means of contacting the Soviets (not specifically, according to NY 694-S), ALLEN requested that NY 694-S transmit DENNIS' message to JACKSON and CG 5824-S.

NY 694-S will leave for Toronto by train on evening of 2/12/59, to arrange for transmittal of DENNIS' instructions through the Canadian CP.

On February 10, 1959, two airmail packages were received by SA JOHN E. KEATING from a Chicago post office box, the number of which had been previously furnished to CG 5824-S*. These packages contained three items concerning the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The envelopes and Chicago copies of these three items are being maintained in Chicago file 134-46 Sub B (1B3).

There are enclosed herewith to the Bureau and to the New York Division one photostat copy of each of the following three items, which were published by the Soviet Information Bureau:

- (1) A 94-page translation of the report of NIKITA KHRUSHCHOV delivered on January 27, 1959, at the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.
- (2) A translated summary of the sessions of the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union held on January 28, 1959. It is noted that this item contains a list of the 39-man presidium elected at the 21st Congress. It also contains a summary of the remarks of CHOU En-lai, WLADYSLAW GOMULKA, PALMIRO TOGLIATTI, JACQUES DUCLOS, and several Russian speakers.
- (3) A translated summary of the sessions of the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union held on January 29, 1959. In addition to listing the speakers for this date, this item contains a summary of the speech by YEKATERINA A. FURTSEVA. Her speech deals mostly with Communist education, cultural activities, and exchange cultural delegations between nations. This item also contains a Rebuairtel 2/18/59.

Review of Chicago files reflects first communication indicating that DENNIS would like CG 5824-S* to go to Russia was sent to Bureau under caption, "CG 5824-S*", Bufile 61-7665, dated 9/30/58.

First recorded discussion noted in Chicago files re composition of delegation to 21st Congress is contained in New York airtel to Director dated 9/18/58, Bufile 100-3-81, in communication entitled, "COMMUNIST PARTY, USA - INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS". Examination of New York communication reflecting interview by New York with CG 5824-S* reflects that DENNIS stated that ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN and JAMES JACKSON are preparing to go to Moscow and that they may be the officially announced delegates to the 21st Congress. Communication does not indicate that DENNIS at that time indicated to CG 5824-S* his interest in seeing informant go to USSR as delegate.

CG 5824-S* was in New York from 9/12 to 9/22/58, and during this period was in contact with DENNIS. The contact of 9/17/58 as set forth in re New York airtel indicates discussion on composition of delegation. While re airtel does not indicate CG 5824-S* was mentioned as a possibility to go to USSR, it is believed that this is the period when DENNIS expressed interest in CG 5824-S* going to USSR. This is believed true because upon informant's return to Chicago, contacting agent was told matter had been discussed and this, in turn, resulted in Chicago setting forth information in its 9/30/58 communication.

The first positive indication of interest expressed by DENNIS in informant's participation in 21st Congress is contained in Chicago airtel to Director of 11/26/58 entitled, "COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS", Bufile 100-3-81, reflecting a contact between informant and DENNIS on 11/21/58. DENNIS at that time went to the blackboard and wrote a statement reflecting that it was necessary to select delegates from the CP, USA to the 21st Congress of the CPSU. Included in the names listed on the blackboard was the informant's name with the further statement that he, informant, "of course has to go to Russia as part of this delegation."

Information re final decision on actual composition of CP, USA delegation to the Congress was furnished to the Bureau by teletype on 12/23/58 under caption, "COMMUNIST PARTY, USA, INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS", Bufile 100-3-81.

CG 5824-S* advised on 12/23/58 that at a secret meeting of the CP, USA Resident Board held over the past weekend, the official delegation was selected and JAMES JACKSON and the informant were the individuals officially named as delegates.

On 2-17-59 NY 694-S advised our New York Office concerning the contents of a letter dated 2-12-59 which he had received from CG 5824-S who is presently in Moscow along with James Jackson as official representatives from Communist Party (CP), USA, to 21st Congress of CP of the Soviet Union. This letter which was intended for transmittal to Eugene Dennis, CPUSA leader, was written in the usual communist double talk. Analysis of this letter along with the interpretations of NY 694-S reflect the contents to be as follows: The Soviet Union has heartily endorsed the current line of the CPUSA. Two other CPUSA functionaries who are presently in Moscow (probably Alexander Trachtenberg and [redacted]) created minor problems for CG 5824-S and Jackson by their actions and statements. However, CG 5824-S and Jackson straightened everything out when they appeared at the headquarters of the CP of the Soviet Union. CG 5824-S indicated optimism as to what the CPUSA will receive from the CP of the Soviet Union. (This could very well refer to financial assistance which the Soviets will render to CPUSA this year.) U.S. b6 b7C

CG 5824-S also suggested in this letter that forthcoming meeting of CPUSA national committee currently scheduled for first week in April, 1959, be postponed for a few weeks since CG 5824-S and Jackson may obtain additional information which would be of interest to the Party's national committee. CG 5824-S also indicated that Dennis and other CPUSA leaders should submit more articles for publication in Soviet political periodicals. According to CG 5824-S, it is due to the submission of such articles to the Soviets that William Z. Foster is regarded highly in Russia.

OBSERVATIONS:

W
Based upon the contents of informant's letter to Dennis, it appears that his trip to Moscow on behalf of the CPUSA was an outstanding success. The Soviets by endorsing the current line of the CPUSA and by apparently promising additional financial aid can undoubtedly be expected to exercise even stricter control over the CPUSA than it has in the past.

#906318 DATE 6-29-00 BY SP4BJA-MCD

ASAC N. H. McCabe called this morning and advised that NY 694 received a telephone call last night from [redacted] of Chicago 5824). She said she had received a call last night from Chicago 5824 who was then in Paris and that he was leaving shortly and would arrive in Chicago on Wednesday, 3-4-59; that he was coming directly to Chicago and not stopping in New York.

ADDENDUM (Belmont):

At 11:00 AM today, SAC Auerbach called and advised that according to the informant's [redacted] 5824-S will take Air France, if possible, directly from Paris to Chicago, arriving in Chicago on 3-4-59. The informant appeared high-strung and nervous and said he was loaded with data. He said he had sent considerable material to post office boxes, but had a great deal with him. He expressed concern about possible publicity and asked his wife whether arrangements could be made with Customs, presumably to permit him to bring in the material he has without publicity.

Auerbach wanted authority to contact Customs at a high level to arrange this. He would merely tell Customs that we have an important investigative interest in this individual which is part of a widespread investigation and will make arrangements to see that the informant gets thru Customs without publicity or detention of material which he may have. I told Auerbach to go ahead provided this was handled with great care and no indication was given that the informant was cooperating with us or that he was an informant. Auerbach said this would be handled.

Auerbach is making arrangements for the informant to be interviewed as soon as possible upon arrival so that the important information in his possession can be secured in brief form and sent to the Bureau promptly for the Bureau's information. More detailed reports will have to be secured later.

On 2/24/59, NY 694-S advised SA [redacted] that he received a personal letter dated February 15, 1959, from CG 5824-S in Moscow, the contents of which are as follows:

"Imagine I'll move on in a week or two. No point in writing after you get this, if I change my mind, you'll hear from me. Don't even know where I'll go next. Haven't made up my mind as to what country. May be Czechoslovakia, then France, or Denmark, or Britain. I'll let you know. Meantime, the best to my family and friends.

"Weather is so so. Nothing too warm or cold. Most of business I tried to do on the side with my touring looks good. So long."

On February 26, 1959, an Air Mail package was received by SA JOHN E. KEATING from CG 5824-S* through a blind Post Office box, the number of which had been previously furnished to CG 5824-S*. This package contained two items. The envelope and the Chicago photostat copy of these two items are being maintained in Chicago file 134-46-Sub B-1B 5(1).

There are enclosed herewith to the Bureau and to the New York Division one photostat copy of each of the following two items:

1. A 29 page document captioned, "Theses on the National Bourgeoisie in the Semi-Colonial and Colonial Countries."
2. A 31 page document captioned, "Documentos Del Octavo Congreso de Partido Comunista de Colombia."

If the Bureau deems it advisable to translate the pamphlet pertaining to the Eighth Congress of the Communist Party of Colombia, it is suggested that translations be furnished to the New York and Chicago Divisions, as well as appropriate legal attaches.

SAC Auerbach called this morning to advise that 5824-S returned from the Moscow convention last night. He had a bad trip from Paris, as two engines on the plane went out and the plane had to return twice to Paris from Shannon, Ireland. The result was that the informant has been without sleep for 48 hours and is presently sleeping.

Auerbach said that the informant was tense and excited, as a result of the trip and his concern regarding going through customs, but through arrangements made by our office he cleared customs shortly before 6 p.m., with no difficulty.

The informant has been instructed by the Party not to let anyone know he is back and in Chicago.

All of the delegates to the Moscow convention were given presents for propaganda purposes, such as a gold watch for his wife, mink fur hats, transistor radios, liquor, candies, et cetera.

The informant said the Russians are completely dissatisfied with the arrangement for funnelling funds to the CPUSA through Canada and that he has been given the responsibility to set up a system and couriership to meet Russian agents, so that the transmission of such funds will be in his control in the future. The Russians agreed that the $100,000 promised last year and not yet paid will now be paid, plus an additional $150,000 for this year.

The informant said there is no question in his mind but that the Russians mean business, and will not back down at all on the Berlin situation.

The informant said that he mailed a large amount of documents en route home, from Switzerland, Prague and Paris, and these have not as yet arrived. This is material he got at the conference.

According to the informant, Trachtenberg, Weiss, and Jackson (all CPUSA functionaries who were in Moscow) are now in China, and [redacted] is going to China.

Auerbach said the informant is exhausted and consequently he could not be interviewed as yet. However, Auerbach is arranging for a motel room or appropriate place away from the informant's home to interview him, and will get the results to the Bureau as promptly as possible. I authorized Auerbach to pay necessary expenditures, such as payment for the room.

ACTION:

Auerbach understands the importance of getting the essential information from the informant as promptly as possible and furnishing it to the Bureau at once, in order that it may be disseminated. Auerbach understands that high officials in the government will have a definite interest in this.

I told Auerbach that of particular significance is the informant's statement that the Russians will not back down on Berlin, and that the informant should be interviewed closely on this point for facts on which he basés this conclusion, so that it will not represent merely an opinion of the informant.

The results of the interview with the informant will be furnished to the Director promptly, bearing in mind the AG's suggestion that it may be desirable to brief the President on this.

NY 694-S* advised SA [redacted] on 3/4/59, that on said date he informed EUGENE DENNIS of CG 5824-S' anticipated arrival in Chicago. DENNIS desires to confer with Chicago informant "in the middle of next week" in NY, and wishes to do so "on the outside - in the country." DENNIS hopes there will be a minimum of publicity regarding CG 5824-S' return to USA. Referring to CG 5824-S DENNIS said, "I'd like to see him as soon as possible - if not sooner." NY 694-S was instructed to make arrangements for meeting between DENNIS and CG 5824-S "on the outside."

SAC Auerbach of Chicago telephonically advised at 6 p.m., March 6, that Agents had been talking with CG 5824-S for three hours and will continue to interview him tonight, tomorrow, and part of Sunday after which it is hoped that the essential information pertaining to the informant's trip to Russia will have been obtained for transmittal to the Bureau. Auerbach advised that informant has voluminous notes and documents, some of which have not as yet arrived from abroad; however, Chicago feels that a good job can be done on this and the results transmitted by air mail to the Bureau by next Monday. Auerbach plans to have the memorandum to the Bureau given to a pilot and we will have Washington Field pick it up at the airport on Monday. I stressed to Mr. Auerbach that the Bureau would disseminate on a high level; therefore, it must be accurate and carefully prepared.

I also told Mr. Auerbach that as soon as feasible and at least before the informant goes to New York next week to see Dennis, Chicago should explore with the informant the question of whether we should see to it that his name is included on the list of persons to be subpoenaed before the HCUA, bearing in mind that the informant previously stated that if his name was made public in connection with his trip to Russia it would be necessary that he receive a subpoena or he would be immediately suspected by the Communist Party.

Reference is made to your memorandum to the Director of today's date which identified the memoranda which we have received from Chicago containing information furnished by the informant. I talked to Auerbach about the information appearing in one of these memoranda concerning the Russian attitude toward the Berlin situation. I called his attention to the fact that in his call of 3-5-59 he stated the informant indicated there was no question but that the Russians meant business and will not back down on the Berlin situation. I pointed out that the material we have received from Chicago does not completely support this statement. Auerbach said that the statement which he furnished telephonically on 3-5 was obtained from the informant when he first returned, that the material which the Bureau now has received from Chicago contains the detailed statements of the informant and Auerbach agrees that these statements are not as strong as the statement originally made by the informant. He stated, however, that the current material is all the material which the informant has which bears on it and contains the final evaluation of the Russian attitude toward Berlin from the informant.

I also told Auerbach we were anxious to obtain the information from the informant concerning funds matters at the earliest possible date, that he should send it by teletype or radiogram tomorrow unless it could be put in shape to be sent in by airtel tonight. Auerbach said the informant is still being interviewed and as he sees it, it will be in such detail to be too costly to send by teletype or radiogram. He recommended that we use the same means of transportation as was used today, that unless advised otherwise the additional material will be on Flight 10 of Capital Airlines which will arrive at 3:25 p.m. tomorrow.

Reurairtel 3-9-59 enclosed with which were four memoranda dealing with 21st Congress of the Communist Party, Soviet Union (CP, SU).

Review of enclosure number four of reairtel discloses mention of one Nicolai Ladimovitch (phonetic) Matsoutev (phonetic). This individual was identified as head of North and South American Sections, International Department, Central Committee of CP, SU. He was also described as having been in U. S. for approximately one month during latter part of 1958 as member of an education delegation from Russia.

Review of Bufiles indicate this individual may be identical with one Nikolai Vladimirovich Mostovets. Photograph of this individual was furnished your office by Washington Field letter to Bureau dated 1-9-59 captioned "Visit of Soviet Education Delegation to United States 1958, IS-R," urfile 105-5580.

As soon as possible exhibit photograph of Mostovets to CG 5824-S in attempt to determine if identical with Matsoutev (phonetic). Furnish results to Bureau.

On 3/9 SAC Auerbach advised that 5824-S plans to go to NY on Wednesday, 3/11, to see Eugene Dennis, in accordance with Party instructions. SA Keating will not accompany the informant unless there is additional material which we have to have right away from him.

Auerbach said that Chicago had sent in two letters to the Bureau dated 3/8, under the caption SOLO. The first carries as an enclosure official photographs taken in Moscow; and the second shows articles that were distributed to the delegates at the Congress in Moscow. Auerbach stressed that inasmuch as other US communists have not yet returned from Moscow, any dissemination of this material at this time will inevitably pinpoint the informant; therefore, the Bureau should consider awaiting the return of some of the other Americans before disseminating this information.

Auerbach stated that Chicago has been giving some thought as to how to embarrass the other American communists who went from Moscow to China, such as James Jackson, [redacted] and Trachtenberg, et cetera. He noted that these people will receive numerous presents in China and inasmuch as their passports were not marked to permit travel to China it may be desirable to have customs check them thoroughly when they return to the US. If these Chinese articles are found in their effects it may be possible to embarrass them.

Auerbach said that Chicago is securing additional details regarding the handling of funds between Russia and the CPUSA and will forward this information promptly. He said he had an appointment with the informant on March 9th to discuss the question of how the informant stands regarding a subpoena from a congressional committee, bearing in mind that the HCUA contemplates subpoenaing a considerable number of communists, including some of those who went to Russia.

On the morning of 3/10 Auerbach advised that the informant is still weary and sick and reluctant to go to NY, particularly in view of [redacted] however, the informant may take his [redacted] to NY with him.

Relative to the question of the congressional subpoena, the informant will discuss this matter with Dennis and will point out that Reurairtel 3-10-59 relative to meeting between CG 5824-S and unknown member of secret service of the Central Committee of the Communist Party (CP) of the Soviet Union.

It is noted name of above-mentioned secret service member was not furnished our informant. Based upon description of this individual as set forth in reairtel, review has been made of Soviet Intelligence Album in attempt to identify this individual. According to information available, most likely suspect appears to be Nikolai Viktorovich Statzkeyich. In addition, following individuals also appear to be possible suspects: Veniamin Ivanovich Melnichenko, Aleksandr Buev, Yuri Yakovlevich Gulyaev, Aleksei Fedorovich Konkin, Vladimir Konstantinovich Eobachev, and Anatoli Georgievich Myshkov.

It is desired that at earliest possible moment, photographs of above individuals as well as any other persons you feel may be identical with unknown Soviet be exhibited to CG 5824-S.

Advise Bureau promptly of results of your action in this regard.

In connection with captioned matter, it is noted that various functionaries of the Communist Party (CP), US have received passports in recent months for travel abroad. As could be expected, most of these Party leaders have headed directly for the Soviet Union.

Information has now been received from CG 5824-S in addition to their travel to Russia, James Jackson, [redacted] and Alexander Trachtenberg have also visited Red China although their passports were not marked to permit such travel. According to this informant, these Party leaders will undoubtedly receive numerous presents in China which they will be bringing back with them. It would appear, therefore, that a careful check by Customs officials will disclose the Chinese articles in their effects. While these articles are not be conclusive proof of their travel to Red China, it is certainly indicative of such travel and it is possible they may even admit to the Customs officials that they did go to China. If such travel to Red China can be substantiated it could possibly cause a certain amount of difficulty and embarrassment to these Party functionaries.

In view of the above, therefore, it is desired that you promptly make the necessary contact with an appropriate official of the Bureau of Customs in New York in order that the necessary measures can be taken to insure a thorough search of their effects upon their return to the country. In order to adequately protect our informant, you should point out to your contact in the Bureau of Customs we have received indications that these individuals travel to Red China rather than telling him that we have received specific information to that effect.

Following the above contact, you should remain alert to any information indicating the approximate date when these individuals will return to this country in order that the Bureau of Customs may be appropriately advised. It should also be noted that there is a possibility that some of these individuals may return to this country through a port other than New York City. Should such information be received, you should immediately instruct the appropriate office in accord with the above.

The Bureau should be kept fully advised of all developments in this matter.

In connection with the brief prepared for use by the Director in the proposed briefing of the President, there are attached amended page 19 and new page 20. These pages bring up to date additional facts developed in the illegal espionage case involving Kaarlo Rudolph Tuomi. This necessitates a revision in the Table of Contents to reflect the new page number. An appropriate amended Table of Contents is also attached.

RECOMMENDATION:

That the attached pages be inserted in the Director's brief and the replaced pages be destroyed.

MEETING OF LATIN AMERICAN DELEGATES TO
THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION (CPSU)

While the delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU were in Moscow, various meetings of an international character were held in addition to the Congress, itself. For example, there were three separate meetings in regard to the "World Marxist Review". There was a meeting of the delegates from the British Commonwealth countries. The Labor Progressive Party of Canada is still considered to be under the British Commonwealth Section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCPSU).

The delegates from eighteen Latin American countries, plus Spanish and Portuguese delegates, had five days of sessions. For the first four days, these delegates met with representatives of the CPSU. During the first four days of sessions, a resolution was passed asking that the Labor Progressive Party and the Communist Party - USA be invited to attend these sessions. By way of comment, the delegates from the Communist Party - USA had a prior arrangement with the Latin American delegates to present this resolution.

It is obvious that the Chinese and Russians are vying for the allegiance of the various Communist Parties. It appears that the Russians do not like to see too many Communist Parties from different areas get together. They would prefer that the Communist Parties deal only with the CPSU. The Russians gave all kinds of excuses as to why Communist Party - USA delegates should not meet with the Latin American delegates. For example, NIKOLAI MATSKOUTEV (ph) asked the Communist Party - USA delegates, What do you care about what happens in Costa Rica? Then NIKOLAI MATSKOUTEV said that there would be a translation problem, since the only translation was from Spanish to Russian. There was no translation from Russian to English.

TIM BUCK, Head of the Labor Progressive Party of Canada, was also pressing the Russians to allow him to attend this meeting of representatives of Latin American countries. Finally, when no representatives from the Communist Party - USA or from the Labor Progressive Party were in attendance, the Latin American delegates became angry and blamed the Communist Party - USA representatives for this. They said that the representatives of the Communist Party - USA did not want to attend the meeting. Finally, on February 12, 1959, which was the morning of the fifth day of sessions,

Russia
NIKOLAI MATSKOUTEV and ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph) said to the Communist Party - USA representatives, How about attending the meeting of the Latin American delegates? JAMES JACKSON was ill, as were many delegates to the Congress. MORRIS CHILDS agreed to go. He was taken to the Institute of Marxism-Leninism by SEMA KUZNETSOV. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG appeared at the meeting after the break for lunch. TIM BUCK was also sick and did not attend. The other members of the Labor Progressive Party delegation, [redacted] and [redacted], were travelling in Russia at this time. It is believed that almost every Latin American delegate was in attendance at this meeting. Russia U.S.A.

Since there was no translation from Russian to English, CHILDS sat with the Russian group and did his own translation. Copies of documents were not passed out for security reasons. The delegates were told to make notes, but that it would be inadvisable to circulate the documents, since these documents might get into the hands of the "enemy" or even into the hands of some friends who might "misconstrue" these documents.

This meeting was held on the second floor of the Institute of Marxism-Leninism, which is not located in the center of Moscow. The delegates were picked up in cars and driven from their apartments or hotels right to the door of the Institute.

Latin American Delegates
The Presidium for this meeting consisted of delegates from the Latin American countries. Among the members of the Presidium were LUIS CORVALAN LEPPE, of Chile; GERONIMO ARNEDE ALVAREZ, of Argentina; RODNEY ARISMENDI, of Uruguay; SIVERO AGUIRRE, of Cuba; and POMPEYO MARQUEZ, of Venezuela. Russia

ALVAREZ
Through the Russians, CHILDS asked that an announcement be made that the Communist Party - USA wants to establish contact with Communist Parties in Latin America. If they agreed to this, CHILDS would circulate the legal address of the Communist Party - USA. In turn, CHILDS would like to obtain the legal addresses of other Parties. Further, that if any Communist Parties would want confidential addresses for communications to the Communist Party - USA, they should see CHILDS personally and he would also accept any confidential addresses which they might want to give to him.

Report on Cuba by SIVERO AGUIRRE

SIVERO AGUIRRE was the chairman of this session. He is a Negro, 37 to 38 years of age, 5'7" in height, has a slight build, and weighs about 145 lbs. He made a report on Cuba. AGUIRRE pointed out that a section of the united front around the July 26th movement, particularly the middle classes, said they favored a peaceful solution to the Cuban problem. The Communists also said that they favored this road also, if it was possible. He said that the Communists said this in order to retain the unity of the united front and to save the strength of this united front movement for the eventual overthrow of BATISTA.

Concerning individual acts of terror, the Communists pointed out, whenever they had an opportunity, that such acts played into the hands of BATISTA. We talked of a peaceful settlement because the masses were worried as a result of terrorist acts. He commented that RAOUL ST. MARTIN (ph) originally favored both bullets and ballots. Later, however, in 1956, RAOUL ST. MARTIN said he favored only ballots. Then AGUIRRE said that at one time the Communist Party made a terrible mistake. It announced that it favored only one path of struggle, and that was armed revolt similar to the revolt of 1930. This sectarian mistake was repeated up until August 29th (the significance of this date is not known).

Next, AGUIRRE said that the aim of the Communist Party of Cuba was to unite all anti-BATISTA forces and also to establish a new democratic form of government of the widest sort. The program of this movement to be based on the demands for which the masses were fighting. He then listed these demands:

(1) Establish all democratic rights for workers and peasants. This demand did not speak of general democracy, but emphasized this particular point; (2) All the repressive organs, such as the police and the army, to be cleaned out and democratized; (3) Agrarian reforms. The land from the large estates must be confiscated and nationalized and distributed to the peasants. This demand wins the support of the peasant masses; (4) The nationalization of all foreign holdings, such as utilities, railroads, and large landed estates; (5) For a peaceful foreign policy. This meant not to join in the war preparations of the American imperialists; and (6) Against racial discrimination.

Fulgencio cuba
He said that these basic demands put forth by the Party exposed BATISTA as a stooge of imperialism.

Then AGUIRRE returned to the question, What about the Communist Party and the peaceful road? The Communist Party answered this question in the following manner. In the process of a struggle, the masses of people can use any method, such as a general strike, uprising, ballot, and so on. The Communist Party urged a united front and that this united front listen to the masses and use the methods which the masses wanted.

AGUIRRE said that there was a time in which BATISTA maneuvered. He gave concessions to the sugar workers and he used the trade union apparatus which was in the hands of his government. BATISTA was supported by the United States Legation in these maneuvers. However, the Communist Party exposed and countered these maneuvers.

Then he said that there was the problem of how the Communist Party could reach those masses influenced by PRIO (ph) (formerly a leading politician in Cuba). He said that PRIO had wide influence among a large section of the people.

AGUIRRE went on to explain why the Communist Party conducted a campaign against individual acts of terror. He said that the terror was used indiscriminately. Railroads, buses, theaters, and so on, were bombed indiscriminately. People were hurt and became resentful. For example, when big headlines would appear stating that fifty people were killed in a bomb explosion, the people would blame the Communist Party members. They would think that the Communists were responsible. He went on to say that many of these bombings were pure provocations which were set off by BATISTA in order to get the people to become antagonistic toward the Communists. However, most of the terror was genuine. He explained to what extent some of this individual terror was used and why it was bad. He cited the following example:

An engineer works someplace. He wants a raise in pay. He is refused. He sees no other way out but to make a bomb and throw it. Therefore, the Communist Party had to conduct an ideological struggle. This was most important in order to expose this method of individual terror or anarchism.

AGUIRRE then went into a discussion of the role of the United States diplomats in Cuba. He said that during the uprising of the sailors, thousands of sailors were involved. The United States interfered. Even though the Cuban fleet was sympathetic to the people, and was, in the main, anti-BATISTA. It was the United States Ambassador who asked the Navy to call off this revolt. This proved -- and we saw to it that the people understood this -- that the United States was not neutral.

He said that the Communist Party was against military Putshism. The Communist Party influenced the rank-and-file of the Navy and then criticized the method used by the Naval officers. That is, the starting of a Putsh and then calling it off. However, when some of these Naval officers were later arrested, the Party gave them support and gave publicity to and exposed the terror of BATISTA and the military. While it was not easy for the Communist Party, the Party exposed the interference of the United States Ambassador. United States imperialism maneuvered and, through the Legation, looked for personalities to replace BATISTA. However, they were looking for people who were loyal to United States imperialism.

Then AGUIRRE discussed the April, 1958, general strike. He said this strike was doomed to failure from the very beginning, since there can be no real unity without the Communist Party. Some of the people who made up the united front were looking more to Washington for assistance than to the people. Some of them were maneuvered into accepting the election proposals of BATISTA. But the Communist Party exposed this. They showed that BATISTA talked one way and acted another.

During the middle of 1958, the Communist Party reached the masses and exposed BATISTA's faked elections. They showed how he locked out the opposition, and pointed out that some of the most prominent exiles were not in Cuba and could not participate. Therefore, the elections, if held, and they were held, would only help BATISTA and United States imperialism.

Next, AGUIRRE said that the Communist Party began to work to arm the people and to educate them. Then the struggle assumed a different character. The Party supported those people close to the masses, even though their ideology and viewpoints on tactics were not in agreement with those of the Communist Party. The Party helped to set up a militia, organized the partisans, etc. When the hit-and-run tactic was used, it was too much for BATISTA. He tried to force a battle in which his forces would be superior. He never succeeded in this. The Party had concluded that this July movement was a mass movement. They worked in this movement. They fought its shortcomings and supported the Left wing in this united July 26th movement.

He said that the army is now based on the partisans. It could arm more of the partisan workers and peasants, but it is short of arms. The Party is working in the trade unions and among the masses generally, explaining the Party position and spreading the Party influence. The peasants are one-half of the population of Cuba. Therefore, work among these peasants is most important. After the overthrow of the dictatorship of MACHADO, the Communist Party began to work among the peasants. There is not enough land in Cuba unless the estates are divided up and the land is taken away from the Americans. During this long struggle, the Party had lost many people as a result of imprisonment, torture, death, etc. They worked under difficult conditions, especially during the partisan war. The peasants had learned to appreciate the Communists because the Communist Party organized them. There are some things which cannot be publicized. But the partisans helped us. They understood us. They used to protect us. In La Vegas (ph) the Party was very active because we had prepared the peasants and this was one of the most important bases. This made it possible to work among other sections of the peasantry in other areas.

Continuing, AGUIRRE said that the present situation in the Communist Party has certainly improved and is good. The Communist Party is now legal. It has opened up a national headquarters, and has opened up headquarters in the provinces also. Some United States journalists, through the press in the United States, are carrying on a campaign against us and are influencing some Cubans. But these journalists are not getting away with it because the masses answer them and say that the Communists have spilled their blood and they also have rights.

In regard to the question of new attitudes and relationships toward the Soviet Union, this problem, which is being distorted by the Americans, is not so clear to the people as yet. The Communist Party re-occupied the premises which contained the headquarters of the Communist newspaper. Wide possibilities for continuing Party work exist. The Party has now grown to 100,000 members. Both peasants and soldiers are constantly joining the Communist Party.

1-1-1- In conclusion, AGUIRRE said that the situation is not all well. The imperialists are preparing counter-measures. It would be foolish to believe that the imperialists accept the present situation as it exists in Cuba. The CASTRO government has asked the United States military missions to get out of Cuba. CASTRO was helped by other Latin American Communist Parties, and he, CASTRO, thanked them for their help. Now he wants help for more arms.

AGUIRRE ended his speech with a few slogans such as "Long Live the Proletarian Revolution", and so on.

Remarks of POMPEYO MARQUEZ, National Secretary of the Communist Party of Venezuela

RU-512

The next speaker was POMPEYO MARQUEZ, National Secretary of the Communist Party of Venezuela. He said that the struggles of the last years were struggles against the military dictatorship. At first, these were of a Putschist character. Only as late as 1958 were there general strikes of a political character which were quite broad. He said that four Parties participate in the united front. The program is clear. It depends upon broad support of the Social Christian Party and the Communist Party. In general, the program consists of the following two points: (1) The overthrow of the dictatorship; and (2) The establishment of Constitutional liberties.

He went on to say that this dictatorship was in the hands of an unpatriotic bourgeoisie, consisting of some feudal barons and industrialists who are agents of United States imperialism. They were supported by United States imperialism and they, in turn, supported the United States war preparations, as well as war against the people of Venezuela and war against Socialism.

He said that the military dictatorship was corrupt. It bought lands for a song. It took over the lands. All national contracts were based on personal signatures. The dictatorship turned over all of these riches to eighty United States imperialist firms in all. These firms plundered Venezuela.

Next, MARQUEZ said that all of the classes, outside of the corrupt group, were dissatisfied with the dictatorship. Even the landlords were dissatisfied. Of course, the workers were dissatisfied. They demanded trade union rights and higher wages. The peasants were dissatisfied and they wanted land. Even within the army there were feuds and contradictions. The bulk of the army was against the repressive organs of the dictatorship. The police were organized along Gestapo lines. They even arrested army people and tortured them. The United States military mission controlled everything and was very much involved in this repression.

Then MARQUEZ asked, What were the politics of the Communist Party at that time? The Party fought for democratic freedom and the unity of all who want to fight the dictatorship. The Party urged the formation of an anti-imperialist front. But, at the same time, the Party told the workers that they should form trade unions in order to strengthen themselves. The Communist Party even worked to neutralize sections of the bourgeoisie, such as manufacturers, bankers, and so on, who were suffering from the oppression and the plundering of the dictatorship of United States imperialism.

The Communist Party said that all should unite against the dictatorship and keep in reserve or hold back ideological differences. The most important thing is the formation of the broadest united front. After we set up the new democratic government, we should work out a new program. But first of all, we have to overthrow the dictatorship and give freedom to all. The Communist Party did carry on an ideological campaign to show that the dictatorship depended on the feudal classes. Within the Party there were tendencies against a broad united front. Some Communists wanted to fight the democratic elements, even if these were against the military dictatorship. In the main, however, the Party remained firm, and had organization and influence in those organizations which were allowed to exist legally.

The Communist Party carried on a lot of political work, particularly in the democratic unions. Our cadre was trained in the struggle. When the Junta was first established, the masses supported it and gave it strength. The Communist Party saw a need for participation in the elections and a need to use the elections to smash the dictatorship and give the people a chance to mobilize and gain experience. United States imperialism was against the overthrow of the dictatorship. We saw the necessity for one candidate. The United States imperialists had experiences in Columbia, when the Columbians overthrew their dictatorship. The imperialists knew how the opposition overthrew that dictatorship and they were afraid of a repetition in Venezuela. The United States imperialists, through their agents, wanted to participate in guiding the development of the situation in Venezuela. They even contacted the opposition to the dictatorship.

Then MARQUEZ talked about the November 21st strike. He said that this strike was decisive. During that period, the Communist Party reached the masses, participated in meetings, etc. He stated that the Communist Party is now growing in some of the workers' neighborhoods. It is growing among the students, women, and even sections of the bourgeoisie. It has great influence and, to a degree, some control. During street demonstrations, the Communist Party played an important role and the mass enthusiasm was great. The police changed their attitude. Most of the chiefs had fled.

Then he stated that in the strike of May, 1957, it was the printers who gave the signal for more strikes and later for the general strike. The stress was placed on the economic demands. But the Communist Party said that this should really be a people's strike against the dictatorship, too. On January 21st and 22nd, the big strike paralyzed Caracas. Armed citizens committees, which included Communists, were set up. On January 23rd, the dictatorship was ended. The Air Force joined the armed uprising and MARCOS PEREZ JIMENEZ fled.

VENEZUELA

After that, the Communist Party told the people that they were now living in a new situation. By that time, the Communist Party was already legal. But the Communist Party was not prepared for all the major tasks. The Communist Party called for a free press and for all freedoms. The fliers who participated in the revolt were praised. But the Communist Party only gave some conditional support to the Junta. The Communist Party began to work to rebuild the labor movement. Four months later, the Communist Party was proved correct.

He continued by speaking about the role of the Communist Party. He said the Communist Party was the organizer of the revolt. The Communists were the leaders on the street. We gave the political line. We emphasized and spoke of unity. But we made some mistakes which resulted in the opposite of unity. We counter-posed the USSR versus United States imperialism too early. Some of the mistakes which were committed were childish. For example, we used to criticize the masses for not being clearer in their understanding of the imperialists. The agents of imperialism used this criticism against the Communists.

Referring again briefly to the military dictatorship, MARQUEZ said that the dictatorship of JIMENEZ was a tool of United States imperialism. JIMENEZ was decorated by the United States State Department and by the American military. He was not decorated for his heroism. He gave Venezuela's most valuable lands to United States imperialists. The Communist Party did not have a concrete program of daily demands. We just wanted more anti-war and anti-imperialist programs. We wanted a Junta led by the working class. We even asked for the dictatorship of the workers and peasants, and this was the most serious sectarian error. These errors originated in the underground -- that is, while the Communist Party of Venezuela was underground. By way of comment, since the MACHADO brothers were not in Moscow to attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU, it may be that they were a part of the underground leadership which is being blamed for the errors of the Communist Party of Venezuela.

Continuing, MARQUEZ said, At that time we had only 350 Communist Party members. If we had had more members, we would not have made these sectarian errors. The Communist Party could not have the hegemony of the people, except by winning and leading the people in practice. All other progressives should be influenced before the Party obtains hegemony. The Party has to fight for hegemony. It has to influence a lot of people before it can claim leadership. However, the Communist Party did give the lead to the anti-imperialist slogans, even if it went too far on some occasions. At that time, there were 4,000 political prisoners in the country. After it recognized its mistakes, the Communist Party's influence spread. Of course, we had a big ideological battle inside the Party. We learned from the 20th Congress of the CPSU and from the Chinese Communist Party how to use self-criticism and how to fight the cult of the personality. The Party strengthened itself ideologically and organizationally. Now we do not just work in the four-Party Junta. We work in all mass organizations, in the trade unions, among the women, the youth, etc. Therefore, the Communist Party is represented through other organizations.

The Communist Party is very active in mass work. In fact, the Party took over a trade union headquarters by becoming a part of the leadership. The Party also began to give leadership to the peasants and began to form a peasants league. This mass work allowed us to get out of the crisis and to begin our activity among the factory workers. The Communist Party is first among the trade unions. It is also first among the students. We recommended that the students get into the factories for at least a year. They are doing this. Our work in the factories is our chief reason for growth and influence.

Then he described the propaganda work in the factories by means of leaflets, shop papers, etc. He said that unlike previously, they are now doing work in the provinces. He said, We are not neglecting the provincial areas. We are sending Party people there. We are strengthening the Party in the provinces. This strength of the workers and peasants movement, these strikes, this organization of the people, prevented the reactionaries from overthrowing the more democratic regime. There were two such strikes in 1957.

MARQUEZ said the united front had its limitations. But in the elections the Communist Party put forth a program for transition. In order to spread its influence, it raised the following slogans: (1) For a democratic government; (2) For anti-feudalism and anti-imperialism; and (3) Cancellation of the concessions to imperialism. That is, a review of the economic agreements and all other agreements with the imperialists.

These were agitational slogans. While we still utilize these slogans, which were advanced in 1958, we have added new slogans such as the following: "Nationalize Industry", "Guarantees for the Natural Resources", and "An Agrarian Program". We utilized these new slogans in the elections.

There were three candidates for President who had agreed to this program and to these slogans which were just mentioned. In fact, there was no opposition to this program, but this program needs to be put into life. We utilized the elections to show that slogans are not enough. While we were halting and exposing the enemy, the reactionaries were still strong and active. The Communist Party became a sort of visiting forum for all Parties. It became a sort of rallying center and even other Party leaders would visit the Communist Party. However, there is also a big anti-Communist movement which is utilizing the usual issues, such as the issue that Communists are agents of the Soviet Union, etc. They are also grabbing the archives of the police and using them. Then MARQUEZ said that the Communist Party is conducting a campaign against foreign loans. The Communist Party now has demands which can be characterized as daily demands for unemployment, higher wages, better working conditions, etc. There were 27,000 Communist Party members as of last October and at that time there were also 33,000 members in the youth organization. He then said that they have more members now than they had at that time.

According to MARQUEZ, the Communist Party of Venezuela still has many shortcomings which it is trying to correct in the face of all the tasks and the needs. He talked about the last Plenum of the Communist Party of Venezuela. He said that many people were involved. The Plenum lasted for six days. At one time, 62 people were involved, while at a later period 92 people were involved. He mentioned the election results during the Plenum and said that there was only one opposing revisionist, who asked that the people leave the Communist Party because the Communist Party was not meeting its tasks. According to MARQUEZ, this revisionist was rebuffed and that was that.

MARQUEZ said that there are many theoretical problems dealing with the question of national independence. He said, We are now working on a Party program but it was the mass work which united our leadership. There was very little self-criticism in the underground. Now, however, there is collective work in the Polit Buro. We had an opposition in the Party which controlled the underground apparatus and hindered the work of the Party. This group committed many mistakes of a revisionist and sectarian character. Now, the Party has a better perspective. It recognizes the needs of the masses. It is against sectarianism. It is not only against sectarianism, but against the Right danger also. For three months things looked bad in the Communist Party. But now the outlook for unity is good. We are resolving all differences and whatever differences do exist, they are not basic differences. We are not only working on a basic program, but are working on a minimum program for a united front. There are some new elements which cannot be ignored, if we are to strengthen democracy. It should be remembered that 47% of the vote cast was against ROMULO BETANCOURT. As a result of this big vote against him, BETANCOURT has been compelled to compromise. V. 1007

The Communist Party is really the second Party in the country. It has four Senators and seven Congressmen. He stated that he could not foresee the overthrow of the regime. He said that the fleet definitely favors the Constitution, as does the army, in the main, including a part of the officer corps. He said there are still some anti-Communist officers in the army who should be replaced.

He concluded by thanking all the Parties, particularly those of Latin America and the Soviet Party, for their international solidarity, and for being patient and listening to the problems of the Venezuelan Party.

Remarks of a Delegate from the Communist Party of Portugal

A delegate from Portugal, whose name was not given, took the floor and greeted this Latin American meeting. He then said that the Communist Party in Portugal has been underground for 31 years and that they face many difficulties as a result of the repression. He said that there are a thousand people in jail and all of these are political prisoners. Further, two members of the Polit Buro are in prison. Some members of the Communist Party have been in prison for eighteen to twenty years.

He went on to describe a growing opposition against the dictatorship in Portugal, and said that this opposition is taking on mass proportions and even involves sections of the bourgeoisie. It is reaching a point where the repressive measures will not be able to cope with the opposition. He said that there are stories circulating that even the Vatican is counselling the dictatorship to ease up or else there will be an outburst, which may result in a revolution. This delegate then pointed out that despite all the repressive measures against it, the Communist Party is still the most formidable opposition.

Then he urged all those present, as representatives of many Parties, to inaugurate a campaign of pressure to help release some of the people who are in prison.

Report of the Resolutions Committee

Next, there was a report from the Resolutions Committee. The report was made by LUIS CORVALAN LEPPE, of Chile. Included among the authors of this resolution were RODNEY ARISMENDI, of the Communist Party of Uruguay; GERONIMO ARNEDO ALVAREZ, of Argentina, as well as CORVALAN.

CORVALAN read from this main resolution. It is being paraphrased here in essence. It starts with the question of American imperialism. It states that United States imperialism continues its policies of nuclear armaments and preparations for war, and that imperialism rules over Latin America. Further, that it is necessary to struggle against the rule of United States imperialism. More initiative needs to be shown in the struggle in Latin America against atomic war, emphasizing that the struggle for peace is the main task.

Then the resolution indicates that Argentina (it is not known whether by this it is meant the Argentine Communist Party or people inspired by the Argentine Party) will organize a conference for peace during this coming year. Then the resolution goes in to the listing of the provocations of United States imperialism in Guatemala, Argentina, Mexico, and so forth. It then emphasizes that United States imperialism interferes everywhere. It states that it is necessary to carry on a struggle for freedom against imperialism and the stooges of imperialism. That it is necessary to carry on a struggle for the release of political prisoners in all countries where people are being confined, including prisoners in Central and North America.

The resolution then proposes the calling of a congress of the people of Latin America. Further, that such a congress of the people in Latin America be scheduled for the middle of 1959. That the preparations should start in April. That this congress be a congress for all people who are interested in the economic growth and expansion of their countries and who are interested in the independence of all Latin American countries. That no one who believes in this would be excluded from such a congress. That if this congress could not be turned into an anti-imperialist congress as such, that preparations would be made for another congress which would be an anti-imperialist congress. In the preparations, all Latin American Communist Parties are asked to gather factual material on the resources of their countries, concessions given to imperialists in economic agreements, prices being paid under these economic agreements, etc. Further, to put the question of peace into the center of all of these preparations. That this anti-imperialist congress, whether it can be achieved by the holding of one congress or will necessitate two congresses, would also display solidarity with the people who live in Latin American countries under dictatorships.

Then the resolution listed some possibilities of leading persons who could initiate such a congress. The suggestion was thrown out that perhaps a person like FIDEL CASTRO, of Cuba; ex-President LAZARO CARDENAS, of Mexico; or President ARTURO FRONDISI, of Argentina, or other persons of a similar type could initiate such a congress. It was indicated that an effort should be made to try to interest parliamentarians and intellectuals to set up national committees wherever possible in preparation for this congress. All trade union leaders, educators, etc., would be invited. They would also invite people from the United States and Canada, and a few friends from Asia and Africa. A congress like this could be held in Havana or Caracas.

The following Communist Parties are responsible for the preparations of the congress: The Communist Party of Cuba, the CP of Mexico, the CP of Brazil, the CP of Argentina, and the CP of Venezuela.

Then the reporter suggested to the people at this meeting that perhaps they could prepare a preliminary list of important people in their countries who could be invited to such a congress. That they should do this within the next day or two or, in any case, before leaving Moscow. As to where such a congress can be held, this will be decided when the Communist Party of Argentina holds its congress scheduled to start April 18, 1959.

Maybe it will even be held in Argentina, if, for example, FRONDISI should endorse such a congress.

Additional Resolutions

There was a suggestion that a resolution be spread everywhere and this suggestion was adopted as a suggestion of this meeting. This resolution would give support to the Cuban people. It would give support to their uprising and to the rule of government they established.

A brief motion was then introduced and this motion thanked the CPSU for making it possible for the Latin American Parties to get together so that they could meet without hinderance or repression. Naturally, this motion was passed.

Next, a resolution on trade union work was introduced and read very hurriedly. This resolution on trade union work pointed out the need for a trade union center in Latin America in order to develop more solidarity between the trade unions in Latin America. The resolution stated that this trade union center would stress the following: National independence, higher wages, better working conditions, and the right to organize. It would take up the question of the need for some unemployment relief and how to ease unemployment.

The delegates who would come to such a trade union center could establish closer contact between Communist Parties and the Communists in the various countries of Latin America could work out their own demands. On the basis of working out their own particular demands, they could ask for representation in such a trade union center. It also recommended that such a trade union center publish a magazine. This magazine would only be a voice of this trade union center, but it would be good in the fight against United States imperialism. The trade union resolution pointed out that this Latin American trade union center could later affiliate with the World Federation of Trade Unions. In the meantime, it was suggested, in this resolution, that the World Federation of Trade Unions strengthen its Secretariat by placing more people from Latin American trade unions on this body.

A proposal was made in regard to how contacts would be made between one Party and another in Latin America. It was suggested that Latin America be divided into three zones; namely, North, South and Central. That there will be no formal organization.

That while the Communist Parties in Latin America may get together on a zonal basis from time to time, the contact will still be between Party and Party. Further, that Mexico will be responsible for some parts of Central America, other countries would cluster around Columbia or Venezuela, and Argentina would be the center for some Parties which are further South.

Next, it was proposed that they establish a commission to finalize and edit these resolutions and motions. It was suggested that they be turned over to ALVAREZ for editing.

CORVALAN said that each Party will have to decide for itself how to act on the main resolution; how to put it into practice or life. If a particular Party is legal, it can do certain things in one way. If a Party is illegal, it will have to decide what it can do and how much it can do.

A big debate on the floor followed. This fight was in regard to how the main resolution of this meeting would be transmitted to the participating Parties.

First of all, CORVALAN pointed out that the main resolution needs to be edited. Further, that this document will not be given to the delegates present at this meeting because it might fall into the hands of the "enemy" and just think what it would mean if the "enemy" knew in advance that the Communist Parties in Latin America are initiating congresses in Latin America such as those described in this resolution. It was agreed that the delegates to this meeting should be given the essence of this main resolution. Further, that for public circulation it will be re-written completely, leaving out some of the concrete suggestions. As re-written, it will merely point out the general situation in Latin America and why it would be good if people got together. However, the text of the resolution, after it is edited, will be left in the USSR so that people can consult it and copy certain things from it without having the entire text of the resolution in their possession. The Latin American delegates were assured that they will get the essence of this resolution, since some might not be able to make notes before they left the USSR.

(Parenthetically speaking, GERONIMO ALVAREZ stated in a private conversation that he was rushing back to Argentina. The reason for this was that he wanted to see if the Communist Party of Argentina can hold its congress in April on a legal basis. If so, it would be necessary to make preparations for this congress.

He said that he would give more details concerning the congress of the Communist Party of Argentina to JAMES JACKSON.)

Remarks of SERGEI KALISTRATOVICH ROMONOVSKY

Russian

At this time, ROMONOVSKY, of the Central Committee of the Russian Young Communist League, was introduced. He spoke about the World Youth Festival, which is scheduled to be held in Vienna, Austria, during the summer of 1959. He said that some governments are trying to interfere and, if possible, to sabotage the youth festival. The main opposition or interference is from the United States, Western Germany, and Austria. He said the festival will open with a big mass meeting. The festival will last for ten days. As a part of the festival, there will be professional sessions. In other words, people will be gathered on the basis of their professions, their hobbies, etc. They are organizing an art competition, exhibitions, sport programs, etc. While the expense for each delegate to the festival will be $5.00 a day, they are going to reduce this expense to $1.00 and $2.00 a day for the Latin American delegates because of their economic difficulties.

Then he said that the Socialist countries will invite large groups to visit the Socialist countries. Of course, those who are invited will have their fare paid to these countries and their expenses paid while in these countries. He said that he does not know how many will be invited. Sixty might be invited to Rumania. Other countries may invite a corresponding number. After the festival, there is going to be a meeting in Prague, Czechoslovakia, of the Federation of Democratic Youth.

Remarks of ALCIRA DE LA PENA

Argentine Russia

The next speaker was ALCIRA DE LA PENA. She was the only woman present at this meeting and insisted on speaking a few minutes about the activities of women. She gave a report on the Women's Congress held in Buenos Aires in July (either 1957 or 1958). She pointed out that twelve Communist Parties from Latin America were present and discussed the importance of fighting for peace.

Remarks of OBICHKIN (ph), President of the Institute of Marxism-Leninism

France

OBICHKIN, who is the President of the Institute of Marxism-Leninism, stated that this institute is doing a lot of scientific historical work. They are compiling all kinds of documents and original manuscripts on the history of the International Communist movement. Many manuscripts are available. They have as many as 10,000 copies of such documents. The institute has a large library on the labor movement and on the socialist movement. He would suggest that the Parties avail themselves of this library and utilize these scientific studies of Communism. He said they are going to publish a volume in which, in summary, they will tell what they have and what they are doing.

By way of comment, these people were filling in because OTTO KUUSINEN was not present. KUUSINEN was in attendance at this meeting for a short time during the morning session, and then left and did not return until approximately 6:00 P.M. or 7:00 P.M.

Remarks of M. B. MITIN

Russia Control Committee of the CP of the Soviet Union
M. B. MITIN, member of the CCCPSU, was the next speaker. He said that the CCCPSU is glad to listen to the discussion of the problems of the Latin American countries. Obviously, he said, you can judge from the discussion that you have Parties which are working and creatively carrying through Marxism-Leninism. He said he can see that these Parties breathe proletarian internationalism and that they are carrying on a struggle against revisionism, dogmatism and sectarianism. It is also clear that big movements for independence and freedom are developing in most Latin American countries and that many dictators occupying positions of power are already in history. It is also clear that the Communist Party is acting as the vanguard of the working class in these Latin American countries. He said this should make all Communist Parties happy, and it makes the Communist Party of the Soviet Union particularly happy to note this progress.

Remarks of OTTO KUUSINEN

Russia
MITIN was followed by OTTO KUUSINEN, member of the Presidium of the CCCPSU. To avoid a disturbance during the meeting, the rostrum for KUUSINEN was set up in the back of the hall. Prior to this, the chair was located in the front of the hall.

Speaking from notes, OTTO KUUSINEN opened his remarks by saying that he is glad to greet a gathering of so many Communists from Latin America in the capital of the USSR. He said, We are getting acquainted and we, too, of the CPSU, are learning. He said this meeting was different than any meeting he had ever seen before. Such activity was unknown in the days of the Comintern. It is a great pleasure to meet with all of you and listen to your activities. Such growth and such work is important. He said, What can we tell you? Perhaps very little because you know the situation in your country better than we do. Then he said, Imagine the Yugoslav revisionists. They try to tell everyone what to do. Imagine talking that way to you. You who follow Marxism-Leninism, who creatively carry through the Party line based on Marxism-Leninism and defend it. But the discussions help and we all learn a little something from these discussions. He said, I want to show you the difference between the old days and the present. In the days when the Comintern tried to tell all the Parties what to do.

We had all sorts of representatives of the Comintern in Germany in 1923, when the uprising took place. But precisely because we tried to tell the German Party what to do from the outside, there was a wrong estimate of the situation and the revolution was defeated. The Parties of Communism in the present day are more self-sufficient. They are living and working in a new situation. Look at Cuba. Not long ago, the Cuban comrades told us of their coming victory. We did not even think it was coming so soon.

Then he compared the Cuban situation to the situation in Russia just prior to the revolution when the Czar still ruled. He said, As long as you have roots among the masses, they will guarantee success. You know, just prior to October, when the Czar was still in power, on the surface the rulers looked strong and powerful. But it did not take long for the masses, under the leadership of the Party, to do away with Czarism.

Then he said the prestige of United States imperialism is declining. It has lost prestige and power in the Far East, in Africa, and now United States imperialism is losing prestige and power in Latin America. In fact, United States imperialism does not boast of its strength any more as it did a while ago. This is because the world now has two systems and also because the world now has a number of countries who have thrown off the yoke of imperialism. How else would you explain the situation in Syria last year? Intervention on the part of imperialism in Syria was stopped. We know there were plans of a military nature up to the last detail. The Turks were supposed to march in and fight. But United States imperialism had to tell the Turks to pull back. He said, United States imperialism sent its fleet into the Mediterranean and troops into Lebanon. It was joined by the British, who invaded Jordan. What was their purpose? It is clear they wanted to crush the new Iraqi Republic. What happened? The imperialists in the end had to beat a retreat and now the prestige of United States imperialism has hit a low. This affects the bourgeoisie of Latin America. If United States imperialism goes ahead with aggression, it might get into a situation like Korea. In many of these countries there are sections of the bourgeoisie which support United States imperialism, but also let us remember that there are big sections of the bourgeoisie which are anti-imperialist.

In this period, United States imperialism is reactionary and so is the bourgeoisie which supports United States imperialism. Such a bourgeoisie cannot be progressive, even if it is a national bourgeoisie.

Then he went on to say that in Cuba and Venezuela there are temporary regimes. But in politics, things cannot stand still. Either people of a country progress and move forward, or reaction sets in. Objective historical circumstances give Latin America great possibilities, but revolutions cannot be handled with gloves. Situations need to be taken hold of and revolutions need to go ahead.

Then he went into the importance of the 40th Anniversary celebration in the USSR and the Declaration of the twelve Communist Parties. He said, You should remember that this will be a document for the world Communist movement for many years to come. The first task of the Latin American Communist Parties is to solve some of the inner problems and to begin to work in the trade unions in Latin America. He said the trade unions could be the expression of the fundamental international solidarity. The second task is the importance of the liberation and independence movement against United States imperialism, and he would add, parenthetically, against British imperialism. The third task would be the economic and political problems as they concern the countries of Latin America. Egypt should be a good lesson. After their independence, they had to struggle against British imperialism. After their revolution for independence from imperialism, the people followed through with economic demands, for liberty, etc. When the people in one country start a struggle, they get support from others and other countries follow the example. It is like the struggle against war. One country alone cannot do it, but many countries can stop it when they get together.

He went on to say that peace is the main issue in Latin America. This is not for the interests of the USSR. We are strong and we can take care of ourselves. Every blow against United States imperialism in Latin America is a blow for international peace. The struggle against United States imperialism is the main struggle for international freedom today.

He went into an emotional philosophical discussion about the character of our epoch and our time. He said the first half of the century was one of struggle and social revolution. The Russian Revolution was the great thing in the first half of this century. Now we have a world Socialist system and the rule of the working class, with Socialism established in more than one country. Marxists do not have to talk idly, but they can point to the future. They can see Socialism develop and witness the tempo of Soviet development. They can witness the Seven-Year Plan and future perspectives will be fulfilled and will be decisive. Then we will surpass Capitalism. We have the most terrific economic perspective and the other Parties can point to this perspective. People have suffered from wars. They will see this peaceful example of the Soviet Union. It is going to be difficult for imperialism to offer a way out through war. If imperialism tries a war, it can be stopped. Of course, there is no guarantee of this. But theoretically speaking, war can be avoided. But if the imperialists do start a war, they are finished.

There are wide perspectives for the national liberation movement unfolding in Asia, Africa and Latin America. But there is no such wide perspective for imperialism in this century.

Imperialism, even without colonies, is still something to reckon with. But it has no perspective. This is our century, a century of revolutionary struggle and suffering, but, nevertheless, our century. There will be a Communist era. That is true, he said, in the near future. But it will not be as heroic a period as ours is.

Then he closed with comradely and brotherly greetings from the CCCPSU. He said, I bring you greetings from Comrade KHRUSHCHOV, who wishes you well; and from all of our leadership of the Presidium. They all send greetings to this Latin American Congress.

When OTTO KUUSINEN finished, he received a lot of applause. He is not a dramatic speaker, but what he talked about aroused these Latin Americans. The chairman got up in behalf of this meeting and thanked the Central Committee, OTTO KUUSINEN, etc., for all they have done for the Latin Americans.

NYO is transmitting as enclosures to Chicago, five photographs of BORIS NIKOLAEVICH IVANOV, Bufile 105-37428, NY file 105-284071, Second Secretary of Russian Delegation to the UN. It is noted that IVANOV is descriptively similiar to the individual mentioned on pages 3-9 in reairtel.

It is noted IVANOV was observed using a Restaurant as cover in meeting with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG on 9/22/58. Further, the code to be used in meet set up for CG 5824-S* includes phrase "Nikolai sends his regards", a possible derivation of IVANOV's middle name. IVANOV was known to have been out of the United States during the period 2/8-21/59. In this regard it is noted CG 5824-S* reported his contact with unknown individual took place on 2/23.

Chicago is requested to exhibit enclosed photographs to informant for possible identification.

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. On 3/17/59, NY 694-S* advised SA [redacted] that he had received a note from EUGENE DENNIS, the contents thereof to be transmitted immediately to CG 5824-S*. The note, concerning which the Bureau and Chicago were telephonically advised on 3/17/59, is as follows:

"Following my conversation with Morris Friday and Saturday, I've had an opportunity to confer with my associates.

"They are greatly concerned about the state of his health. In view of this, and considering that the rigors of winter still abound, we suggest--assuming that he is still at home, recovering from the flu--that he take a rest and a quiet vacation away from the city for several weeks.

"This, of course, cancels the tentative appointment for the week end.

"Morris' partner can handle the public relations program in the near future.

"When you speak with Morris today, please extend my heartiest greetings and best wishes. Many thank."

SAC Auerbach, Chicago, called at 11:35 a.m. today (3/18/59) and advised that he had an appointment to talk to the informant (Chicago 5824) at noon today. He advised that the informant had been to the doctor this morning; that the doctor says he has pneumonia, and the doctor gave him a shot of some kind of serum. The informant also learned this morning that [redacted]

[redacted] Auerbach said that the informant is definitely down in the dumps and is very depressed and not at all well. During his discussion with Eugene Dennis last week, Dennis told the informant that he should get out of Chicago and get some rest for a few weeks to try to regain his health. The Russians also told the informant that he should remain inactive and under cover for a period shortly after his return to this country. The informant is talking in terms of taking a trip [redacted]

This informant's wife is also a Bureau informant [redacted]

Auerbach recommended and asked for Bureau authority to pay the train travel of the informant [redacted] as an indication of Bureau appreciation for his efforts in developing information for the Bureau in connection with his trip to Russia. Auerbach also asked that, if possible, a teletype be addressed to him which he could exhibit to the informant as an expression of the Director's appreciation for the informant's efforts. Auerbach asked that advice as to these two requests reach him before noon Chicago time if possible. this

I called Special Agent in Charge Auerbach, Chicago, today (3/17/59), noting that Chicago 5824 had returned to Chicago Saturday afternoon. Auerbach said the informant did return Saturday afternoon; that the informant had a terrible cold, is running a fever again, and is not in good health at all, and, as a consequence, Chicago has not been able to spend any time with him since his return.

I told Auerbach we had heard from New York that NY 694 had been instructed by Chicago 5824 to select a man as leg man for Chicago 5824, but that New York had diplomatically suggested to NY 694 that he hold up on it a little, as New York might have some suggestion which would be of assistance; that, in any event, NY 694 ought to touch base with New York before any definite steps are taken. I told Auerbach we had given consideration to the feasibility of working another informant into this situation as leg man for Chicago 5824, but that we should not press an informant on him; that, in discussing the development of his apparatus with Chicago 5824, we should inquire if we can be of assistance to him in the selection of a man; if so, we might be able to place someone in the apparatus, with his cooperation, but with the clear understanding that under no circumstances would such person or anyone else know that Chicago 5824 is collaborating with the Bureau; that contact with any person placed in the apparatus would have to come through Chicago 5824 or NY 694. It was pointed out that Chicago should also give thought to the possibility of the selection of such a person if Chicago 5824 so desires, and that Auerbach should advise the Bureau immediately of the results of his discussions with Chicago 5824 in this regard, as well as the results of Chicago 5824's discussion with Dennis.

In this connection, Auerbach mentioned the suggestion which Dennis made to Chicago 5824 that he take a few weeks' rest to try to get his health back. Auerbach said that Chicago 5824 would have to get some rest soon, as he is in really poor health at this time.

SAC Auerbach will keep us advised.

Re: SOLO; IS - C

ADDENDUM - J. A. SIZOO:LL - 3/18/59

SAC Auerbach called back on 3/17 and advised that after giving the matter consideration in Chicago, he questioned whether we should attempt to put an informant in Chicago 5824's apparatus as a leg man. He said he feared that this might adversely affect the security of Chicago 5824 and NY 694 in the event, for any reason, the third informant was exposed. I pointed out that I had previously indicated the third informant would have no knowledge of the fact Chicago 5824 and NY 694 are informants and that he would be approached either by Chicago 5824 or NY 694, without any indication of Bureau interest and, therefore, it would not appear to endanger the security of the two top informants. However, I agreed that there are arguments both pro and con on this situation, and I asked that he submit his views to the Bureau, along with certain other suggestions he is submitting for the operation of this situation.

Auerbach also questioned the desirability of having New York survey the meeting place for the 4/14/59 meeting of Chicago 5824. He was afraid this might in some way expose the Bureau's interest. I told Auerbach that New York had done this most discreetly and without in any way identifying themselves as representatives of the Bureau and that I saw no reason to be concerned because of this.

Auerbach said he was putting a letter to the Bureau in the mail last night (3/17), furnishing his suggestions concerning this operation.

Auerbach also said he had given further consideration to the question of having the informant subpoenaed along with others who had taken trips to Europe and attended the 21st Congress, before the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He said he thought it was desirable to leave this matter as it now stands, for the time being; that he felt it would be better, if it could be done, to avoid the public appearance of the informant. He said he was following it closely with the informant, however, and would advise us more specifically of his conclusion in the matter as soon as the same was crystallized.

MEETING BETWEEN THE COMMUNIST PARTY, USA
DELEGATION TO THE TWENTY-FIRST CONGRESS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION AND SOME LEADING MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION

During February, 1959, the delegates from the Communist Party, USA (CP, USA) to the Twenty-first Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) met with some leading members of the CPSU. The meeting started at 3 PM on February 10, 1959, and while it was to last for approximately one and one half hours, it actually lasted for approximately two and one half hours. The meeting was held in the office of MIKHAIL A. SUSLOV, member of the Presidium. SUSLOV's office is located on either the fourth or fifth floor of Building #1 of the headquarters of the Central Committee of the CPSU. RUSSIA

RUSSIA JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS, who constituted the official delegation from the CP, USA were taken to the headquarters of the Central Committee of the CPSU by ALEXAI ANDREOVITCH GRECHENCO of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU. He left as soon as he had delivered JACKSON and CHILDS to the headquarters of the Central Committee, CPSU. JACKSON and CHILDS were then met by NICOLAI LADIMOVITCH (phonetic) MATSOUTEV (phonetic) (formerly referred to as MATKOFISKY), who is the head of the North and South American Sections of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU, and who was in the United States for approximately one month during the latter part of 1958 as a member of an educators delegation from the USSR. RUSSIA
NICOLAI took JACKSON and CHILDS to the outer office to SUSLOV's office where two male secretaries checked the hats, coats, and over-shoes of JACKSON, CHILDS and MATSOUTEV. They were then joined by YURI IVANOV, who was to act as the translator during the meeting. RUSSIA

This group was then ushered into the office of SUSLOV and were greeted by SUSLOV, OTTO V. KUUSINEN, member of the Presidium, and BORIS PONOMAREV, head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU. RUSSIA

This meeting had been preceded by two letters which had been addressed by the CP, USA delegation to the Central Committee of the CPSU, NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, First Secretary. These letters gave details of current activities of the CP, USA, trade union problems of the CP, USA, various peace movements in the CP, USA, the question of legality of the CP in the United States. A third letter from the CP, USA delegation to the Central Committee of the CPSU asked for certain special favors, such as the allowing of members of the CP, USA who are ill to go to the Soviet Union for treatment, for a permanent correspondent of "The Worker" in Moscow, to permit an author to visit Russia to write a book on Russia from the American viewpoint. The CP, USA also asked for $300,000 from the CPSU in these letters.

Also, in these letters the CP, USA delegation had asked for a discussion on the following items:

- 1) An exchange of opinion concerning an estimate of the present economic situation in the United States.
- 2) A discussion of United States-USSR relations. Have they any idea of the aggressive intention of United States imperialism. In other words, what is the estimate of the Central Committee, CPSU concerning United States imperialism?
- 3) The opinion of the CPSU in regard to new estimates and policies of the Negro freedom movement.
- 4) What should be the forms and approaches of the CP, USA in order to restore influence in trade unions and other mass organizations in relation to legality, the rate of Party building, etc.
- 5) A discussion of the consolidation of the collective leadership, the elimination of factionalism, etc.
- 6) The possibility of re-establishing a daily newspaper by the CP, USA, the possibility of a trade union magazine, and the possibility of a Negro magazine dealing with theoretical questions.

After JACKSON and CHILDS were greeted by SUSLOV, KUUSINEN, and PONOMAREV, they all sat around a big table facing each other. JACKSON was facing SUSLOV and CHILDS was facing KUUSINEN, while MATSOUTEV was facing PONOMAREV.

Opening Remarks by MIKHAIL SUSLOV

SUSLOV started the meeting with a general greeting. He stated that on behalf of the Central Committee, CPSU, he wanted to say how glad they were that the CP, USA could send an official delegation to the Twenty-first Congress. He said it is a gratifying thing. Then he asked about the health of WILLIAM Z. FOSTER and EUGENE DENNIS. He commented that the CP, USA is working under difficult circumstances but that all in all it is not a bad Party.

By way of comment, it might be noted that while SUSLOV dominated the meeting he was very polite and tried to make the delegates from the CP, USA feel free and easy in this meeting.

SUSLOV then stated that he thought that some of the original questions which appeared in the letters addressed to the Central Committee of the CPSU by the CP, USA delegates had been answered during the Twenty-first Congress which occurred after the letters were written. He asked if the CP, USA delegates felt that it was necessary to repeat some of this material. JACKSON, with CHILDS agreeing, stated that the CP, USA delegates would send a postscript to the Central Committee stating that the Twenty-first Congress had answered some of the questions raised in the letters from the CP, USA delegation and that it was not necessary to repeat this material. SUSLOV then stated that he thought that this meeting should, therefore, be limited to those questions which would permit the most profitable exchange. He commented that they had not had a chance to read all of the CP, USA documents dealing with the Negro question, and further, that only that day had they received a translation of HY LUMER's article in the January issue of "Political Affairs" which deals with the economic situation. Then SUSLOV asked, How do you propose that we start this meeting?

Remarks of JAMES JACKSON

JAMES JACKSON proposed that he make some introductory remarks which would be followed by discussion and an exchange of opinion. This was agreed to.

JACKSON, without any prepared notes, talked of the history of the inner struggle within the CP, USA and the effort of the Right Wing to take over the CP, USA. He also dealt with the problems which the Ultra Left have caused. He then mentioned the problem of attempting to achieve legality. He discussed the attitude of the United States Government toward the CP and the efforts of the CP to achieve legality in mass organizations. He stated that the effort of the CP to obtain legality within the trade union movement is a major problem. He said that there are some CP members in trade unions who are even known as CP members, but these members have been old-time trade union fighters so the trade union leadership "winks an eye" and retains them even though it is illegal for a CP member to be a trade union member in most of the trade unions in the United States. He said that the CP in the United States presently has no legality in the mass organizations and in fact, trade union illegality is even a bigger problem than the attitude of the United States Government toward the CP.

JACKSON then discussed the role of the CP, USA in elections, in the fight for peace, and in the Negro problem. He mentioned the internal consolidation of the CP. He talked about the authority of the National Executive Committee. He said that it is the leadership of the CP, USA. He mentioned WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. JACKSON said that FOSTER is considered an honored leader of the CP. He said, We seek his advice. His experience is being utilized but he is 78 years of age, he is ill; he is paralyzed and is separated from the daily activities of the CP. Therefore, some differences arise between FOSTER and the leadership because of FOSTER's separation from the daily activities. Yet there is no factional fight in the offing in the CP, USA and that is decisive. B. APPROX. 187

Next, JACKSON said that there is a sectarian wing in the CP, USA. He said perhaps the CP, USA was a little late in fighting this sectarianism. However, during the fight against the Right Wing and the revisionists, the CP, USA had to use guerrilla bands. After the Right Wing was defeated these guerrilla bands did not dissolve. Therefore, there may still be a group of sectarians in the CP, USA.

At this point KUUSINEN asked JACKSON, How does WILLIAM Z. FOSTER look upon this group? JACKSON said that FOSTER is also being attacked by this sectarian group. However, some sectarians and unprincipled people in the CP, USA utilize FOSTER for his differences on this or that idea for their own factional purposes. However, this group is a very small minority in the CP, USA.

Additional Remarks by MIKHAIL SUSLOV

SUSLOV said that he believes that the line adopted by the CP, USA since the ousting of the revisionists is a correct line. He said that it is good that you see the revisionists as the real enemy. It is also correct that you see sectarianism, which is a real threat for a small Party. We see the objective difficulties you face. Reaction wants to isolate the CP, USA. The CP, USA is trying to break through to the masses. This is why sectarianism is dangerous.

Next, SUSLOV stated that while the Party is carrying through the correct Marxist-Leninist line there can be various differences and approaches. As long as a Communist Party pursues a principled line, differences on approaches are not dangerous. In pursuing a correct line, shadings are a possibility. Patience, therefore, is necessary. But this is the price of collective leadership and is the cause of its success.

Continuing, he stated that shades can be overcome in the process of work, in the pursuing of a correct line. There is no absolute identity in all viewpoints. If such a thing existed you would have one man leadership--a cult of the personality would exist.

The information in your letters and your remarks do not create any anxiety or concern in us about you. Collective leadership will decide and solve whatever problems you have or whatever problems may arise.

General Discussion of the Economic Situation in the United States

OTTO KUUSINEN then briefly mentioned the economic situation in the United States. He said, We believe that the analysis in the January issue of your "Political Affairs" is correct. You know the economic situation in your country better than we do.

KUUSINEN also mentioned the theoretical aspects of the Negro question in the United States. He said, We are not familiar with all the current details of this problem as yet but in this field also you know some things better than we do.

At this point SUSLOV commented that he, too, believes that the economic analysis in the January issue of "Political Affairs" is correct. He said there is a need to underscore the fact that continual unemployment accompanies automation.

SUSLOV said, United States imperialists cannot do what the Socialist camp is doing and will do. There are sharpening contradictions in the imperialist camp. There are constant rivalries for markets. The struggle for markets between West Germany, Great Britain, the United States and other countries is an example of this. That is how we see things and from what we have read and heard, that is also the way you see these things.

Discussion of the Negro
Question in the United States

Next, JACKSON went into a long discussion of the Negro question in the United States. Actually, he repeated what he had previously set forth in his recent report and resolution dealing with the Negro question.

When JACKSON had concluded, SUSLOV replied, Very interesting! You are correct. We had some knowledge of this development from some discussions that we, or at least I, had with TIM BUCK, when he was here during the celebration of the 40th anniversary of the Soviet Union.

SUSLOV repeated, Yes, you are correct. Your CP cannot base its theories and policies on resolutions adopted by the Communist International more than thirty years ago. That would be dogmatism. Great changes are taking place among the Negro people. In the past 70 per cent were on or near the land. Now this is reversed. Seventy per cent of the Negroes are in urban areas of the United States while only 30 per cent are in rural areas. This is certainly a radical change.

If we do not see this change the CP can make terrible, catastrophic or abrupt mistakes. When 70 per cent of the Negroes live in the countryside and contingent territories, and are separated from the white persons--that is one situation. At that time we could talk of self determination. Now however, 70 per cent of the Negroes live in the cities. It is therefore necessary for you to review the situation and the position of the CP on this matter. It is necessary for you to correct your policy.

Continuing, SUSLOV said, How could you place a slogan of self determination when there is no territory? It would be reactionary and utopian to try to bring the Negro people back to the soil. It would also be reactionary to place Negro people in ghettos in the cities. We are against ghettos. So your new policy is correct. Your main task is to fight for equality and integration. When the Negro population was concentrated in the countryside it was different. Now they are in the cities and we must work for integration. The slogan is to be based on integration. A slogan that was progressive in 1928, that is self determination, can become reactionary in 1958. We can understand clearly why the United States CP would change its theoretical and political line on this question.

OTTO KUUSINEN then made a few remarks. He said that the underestimation of the independence struggle and its significance for Negroes would be dangerous. (By way of comment, this statement may have suffered through translation and KUUSINEN was speaking of the struggle for equal rights by the United States Negro instead of a struggle for independence). The Negro population still preserves common interests. They need to be stated concretely politically. There is economic inequality in regard to wages, civil rights, education, political representation, etc. The Negroes in the United States have no representation in some areas in the south and even in some areas in the north. This limitation of rights rallies the Negro people. The CP must utilize the situation. Despite the dispersal of the Negro population in the United States there are still some areas on the map of the United States where Negro people are still a majority. You must take their interests into consideration and fight for representation for them.

Then SUSLOV stated, We will continue to study this problem. We had little time to study all the papers you presented. However, emphasis must be placed on the fact that a resolution of thirty years ago cannot be applied now. You know this problem better than we do. Self determination was quite a question in 1928 and in the 1930s but our analysis provided for those years. However, in discarding the slogan of self determination now you should not go to opposite extremes. Keep in mind that the Negro carries a double yoke. The burden is not quite so heavy for a white worker. Even the Negro petty bourgeoisie is oppressed. Be careful in your approach to Negro reformists. All classes of the oppressed are necessary for the struggle. We still need to take into consideration those Negroes who live in the south. Millions still live there. Capitalism did not allow these people to become farmers. There are millions who did not flee the south. They should be united around the slogans that are good for that area--not slogans that are good for New York or Chicago or other cities.

At this time CHILDS commented that the CP, USA does have a program for the black belt in the south. SUSLOV said, That is good. As I pointed out before we did not yet get a chance to read all your material. However, you should have as a general slogan--equal rights. Also, keep the locality in mind. Further, your program should not try to solve Negroes' problems for centuries ahead. It is a program for struggle against imperialism until its overthrow or until it is abolished. Do you know that the next slogan might come from a congress of builders of socialism? Therefore, why worry about centuries ahead?

Then, for the first time, BORIS PONOMAREV spoke and said that he would suggest that the CP, USA should keep in mind the Leninist theory on the national question. That is, that during a war the emancipation of oppressed people needs to be kept in mind. United States imperialism has been advocating war for years. The task of the CP in the United States is to determine what slogan to use in order to rally the Negro people against war preparation. Lenin pointed out that during a war oppressed people or nationality can win many rights for equality.

Comments on WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

At this point OTTO KUUSINEN said a few words about WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. He stated, Perhaps FOSTER lacks flexibility. However, he may have some new suggestions. Over the decades he fought enemies like JAY LOVESTONE, EARL BROWDER, and all sorts of revisionists. Maybe his isolation does affect him. However, I would have no fear of a factional fight led by FOSTER against the present Marxist-Leninist leadership of the CP, USA. The leadership of the CP, USA must be patient. Respect for WILLIAM Z. FOSTER does not mean less respect for the collective--for the National Executive Committee.

Then SUSLOV stated, Give WILLIAM Z. FOSTER our heartiest greetings. It may be that he makes mistakes. However, the collective is stronger than FOSTER and can correct him. We understand that there is no threat of a factional fight and we hope that the leadership of the CP, USA is a united leadership. If it is, then mistakes of individuals can be corrected.

Concluding Portion of the Meeting

At this point, BORIS PONOMAREV said that if possible he would like to arrange a conference on the question of war propaganda in the United States and how the peace movement in the United States counteracts it. (By way of comment, it may be noted that CHILDS met later on two occasions with PONOMAREV and PONOMAREV was given approximately two pages of written material on the peace movement in the United States. However, it is believed that there was never a discussion on this point between the CP, USA delegates and the Central Committee, CPSU).

SUSLOV then stated that he wanted CHILDS and JACKSON to give the warmest regards from the Central Committee, CPSU to EUGENE DENNIS, WILLIAM Z. FOSTER, BOB THOMPSON, ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN, BEN DAVIS, JACK STACHEL and HY LUMER. SUSLOV said, Tell your comrades that we follow your organization with greatest attention. We know that your conditions of work are difficult. Even today you remind us of difficulties that we did not fully appreciate, such as the fact that the leaders are still under a second indictment and that their travel is restricted and that there is a prospect of further trials of the leaders under the membership clause.

SUSLOV said, You face the strongest enemy, which to a degree, can enjoy a certain exceptionalism as the strongest enemy. However, all of this is temporary. At present the enemy is strong. The CP in the United States is weak. However, in time things will change. A small Party can become strong. The strongest, most powerful enemy now will decline.

CHILDS then made some remarks in which he thanked the leaders of the CPSU for appreciating the difficulties of the CP, USA. He then reminded the CPSU leadership that the CP, USA needed material help for a program of action, for concentration, etc., and he asked that the comrades not forget the request of the CP, USA for material aid.

SUSLOV stated that in regard to your concrete requests, we are discussing it and you will get help. The question is how we can give it to you without the danger of hurting you or us. CHILDS was then told that he would meet separately with PONOMAREV at a later date to receive answers in regard to the request for funds and other specific requests made by the CP, USA of the CPSU. (It is noted that CHILDS did meet separately with PONOMAREV and NICOLAI MATSOUTEV on two occasions and that during this time a promise was made that $250,000 will be sent from Russia to the CP, USA.

SUSLOV also stated in regard to concrete requests that the CPSU would like the CP, USA to send comrades to Russia for a rest. You should determine who you want to send for treatment and rest in a socialist climate where there is no oppression. How you send the comrades to us is up to you.

JACKSON and CHILDS explained the hesitation of the CP, USA to set out how quickly crisis factors will develop in the economy of the United States. JACKSON asked whether or not the CPSU feels that United States imperialism will try to get through the present economic crisis by some special large project such as the developing of Alaska or a large development some place in the southern part of the United States or in Latin America.

MORRIS CHILDS commented that the CP, USA has made some mistakes in the past by constantly predicting cyclical crises. This is why the CP, USA is less categorical in its predictions at the present time.

SUSLOV said, We will suggest to our economists that they study this problem. However, it should be noted that you have some very capable economists among your comrades. They should be able to develop a theory on this. He said that there is no such thing as a non-crisis economic development under capitalism. Everyone knows and understands this, including your United States imperialist rulers.

KUUSINEN then stated that one of the assertions of the revisionists is that there can be a non-crisis development of capitalism. In reality things are quite different. In the United States we have witnessed three economic declines since World War II. But it is necessary to say that these economic slumps were not of a cyclical crisis form. In the past there was an economic cyclical crisis under capitalism about every ten years. Now we see more frequent economic convulsions and slow upturns and no big upturns.

Mockingly, KUUSINEN said, Some economists say that the economic crisis started yesterday but Marxists cannot talk that way. Yet in answer to Comrade JACKSON's question we cannot say that United States imperialism can resort to measures that may stop a crisis. If the imperialists could do this then their society would not be capitalism. We must, therefore, cling to fact and not make unreal forecasts. The comrades in the United States are giving correct appraisals of the economic situation in the United States.

SUSLOV, speaking again, stated that there are still no closed exits for United States imperialism. On the other hand, there will be no real big cycle of prosperity for them either. The general perspective is that there is little room left for United States economic maneuvering.

SUSLOV also stated that the CP, USA could send a comrade to Russia to write a book on Russia from an American viewpoint. SUSLOV said that he had spoken to NIKITA S. RUS: 14
X KHRUSHCHEV in regard to the possibility of having an American come to Russia to write a book on Russia. SUSLOV said that KHRUSHCHEV said he thought it would be a good idea for such a book to be written but that he felt that such a book could play an important role in pro-Communist propaganda if it were written by a non-Communist or from the viewpoint of a non-Communist. NIKITA X KHRUSHCHEV

In regard to the possibility of having a permanent correspondent for "The Worker" in Moscow, SUSLOV stated that the Central Committee of the CPSU was considering it but the big question is how it would be received in the United States. From the viewpoint of public opinion would it help or hurt the CP, USA.

In regard to the possibility of the CP, USA sending students to Russia to study Communism, SUSLOV stated that it is necessary to keep in mind the Litvinov pact which dealt with the study of Communism in Russia by students from other countries. He said that it was necessary to keep in mind that we should avoid giving the imperialists something to scream about.

This meeting was concluded at this time and other specific questions presented to the CPSU by the CP, USA were answered in scheduled meetings between CHILDS and PONOMAREV.

IMPRESSIONS, COMMENTS AND OPINIONS OF CG 5824-S* ON THE AIMS, PURPOSES AND RESULTS OF THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE
COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION

As a result of attendance at the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and discussions with leading members of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and other Communist Parties, it is believed that the Russians are not seeking war. Rather, the Russians would rather concentrate on production and the fulfilling of the Seven Year Plan. It is believed that the Russians would do many things to attempt to avoid war. Of course, one cannot foresee what might happen if some kind of an incident occurs. It is possible that the United States may be able to stand firm and to get some concessions from the Russians. The United States may be able to get them to back down on some issues, such as Berlin and Germany, because it is believed that they are trying to avoid war. However, the Russians will always follow the Leninist principle of retreat and advance, or the military tactic of seige and withdrawal.

The Russians are convinced that CHARLES DE GAULLE cannot solve the war crisis in Algeria, nor the economic crisis in France. They expect some real strike battles in France. They also point to the fact that there have been demonstrations in West Germany, not only in regard to the placing of missile bases in West Germany, but also in regard to working conditions in the mines. Similar demonstrations and strike struggles have occurred in Belgium. Further, they know that Italy has economic problems. They know that there are some serious developments in Spain, and state that there is discontent among the youth and students in Spain.

The 21st Congress further indicated the international character of the Communist conspiracy. There are millions of Communists scattered in all parts of the globe.

The 21st Congress of the CPSU was termed an extraordinary or special congress. The reason for this was that it only dealt with certain specific issues. By terming it an extraordinary congress it was not necessary, under the framework of the Constitution of the U.S.S.R., to elect a new leadership.

The chief problem with which the 21st Congress was concerned was the Seven Year Plan. This plan calls for placing emphasis on production, an increase in production and productivity, and in increase in industrial and agricultural capabilities. At the same time, it calls for the raising of the standard of living.

It was called a Congress of the Builders of Communism with emphasis on production, productivity and the standard of living in Russia. It was called in order to convince the people of the Soviet Union, those who think that the Soviet Union has a superior form of government, and Socialists that the U.S.S.R. is going into a higher stage of society as was predicted by MARX, ENGELS and LENIN--a society that will produce more goods, a society in which production will be based on automation instead of on manual labor, a society in which machines will do the labor of man.

It was held to indicate that the Seven Year Plan will not only make possible a higher standard of living, but also a greater degree of culture. The Seven Year Plan, through statistics and the establishing of goals in industry and agriculture, provides for an increase of radio and television sets and stations, increased housing, the training of more physicians, the building of more sanitariums and health institutions, and so forth.

The Seven Year Plan calls for the performing of a cultural revolution. In addition, the leadership of the CPSU theorizes that in the establishing of a new system of society, the beginning of the first stages of pure Communism, they will give greater freedom to the people. The idea of the State using force to keep people in line is going to disappear in time, according to this theory. It is stated that they cannot abolish the organs of force and control at this time because they are still faced with hostile imperialist activities, and they need to restrain would-be enemies, such as spies and saboteurs, sent into Russia by the imperialists.

However, according to the features of the Seven Year Plan many functions of government will be turned over to so called social organizations, such as the trade unions, parent-teacher associations, and neighborhood communities which have police powers, in order to control the behavior of people who violate local codes. It is stated that they will depend upon moral pressure to keep the people in line.

KHRUSHCHEV held forth a sort of a Utopia in which there would be no taxes because the income of the State is so great.

At the Congress the idea was put forth that when the Soviet Union, together with the rest of the Socialist world, which comprises only a third of the world population, will produce one half of the world's goods this will convince millions of people even in the capitalist world that the system of Communism is superior to that of capitalism.

The idea was also put forth that, unlike the old days, no country which is backward industrially or culturally has to depend upon some imperialist power, which never helped them anyway. In this regard it is stated that countries such as India and Egypt were exploited but never helped by England. It was pointed out that Russia can now give help to all of these backward countries and this will help to strengthen the anti-imperialist camp.

In regard to the working people in Western Europe, Great Britain and the United States, the Russians say that by their example, especially after the fulfillment of the targets of the Seven Year Plan, at which time they expect to catch up with the United States in production, they will show by concrete, living example how the working people could live if they did not have to work for capitalist exploiters. Even if the competition of peaceful co-existence continues let the capitalist lands prove that they can duplicate the Russian effort. This should be of great value to Communists the world over to know that Communism is superior to any other system. The fulfillment of the Seven Year Plan will be better than any propaganda of the printed word or speech.

The Russians also hold out the idea or thesis which was first developed at the 20th Congress of the CPSU. This thesis is the non-inevitability of war. They claim that if this thesis was valid up to the present time when the Socialist countries were relatively weaker, then it is more valid now when the industrial production of Russia and China is multiplied and many countries have set up their own governments. Also, many other countries are in a state of revolt against imperialism. In addition, the capabilities of the Socialist states to retaliate or hit back the aggressors makes this thesis valid and serves as a preventative of war.

On the other hand, the Russians leave themselves an escape clause by saying that there are adventurers in the United States, Great Britain, France and Western Germany who might try to unleash war since they depend on war to keep their economic machinery going. But the Russians say that capitalism as a social system will go under if it resorts to war. It will be defeated militarily. Secondly, the majority of the people will rise up against capitalism.

To put over the Seven Year Plan the CPSU started to make preparations during the summer of 1958, and in December, 1958, held a plenum of the CCCPSU, at which meeting NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV introduced the control figures, which, with few modifications, have become the targets and aims of the Seven Year Plan.

The Russians have coined some new slogans in order to mobilize the people to fulfill the Seven Year Plan. They appealed to the material interests of the people. They told them that they will live better if they fulfill the plan. Further, that they will increase the standard of living and will go into a higher stage of society. The Russians contend that younger people now participating in industrial efforts and even some of the younger people who participated in the 21st Congress may still live to see pure Communism. If they do not, surely their children will live in a new society, namely Communism.

After stating this, the Russians still realize that a tremendous effort is needed on the part of all the people. So they use the Communist Party and the Young Communist League to form competitive brigades in factories and in collective farms. They call these brigades Communist Brigades, or Builders of Communism.

Just as during the Five Year Plans, the Russians have turned some working people, both men and women, into national heroes. They have even built statues to some of them, while to others they have given material rewards and honors. Through this Socialist emulation they are once again resorting to the same pattern by turning of the mine workers and farmers into heroes. Day in and day out they feature such heroes and brigades on a local and national scale.

At the 21st Congress the Russians elected a miner to the Presidium of the 21st Congress, thus turning him into a national hero in order to get the people to emulate him and thus further exert themselves.

It should be noted that there is one big difference between the exertions demanded of the people now and those demanded during the STALIN period. The Russians are giving the people more consumer goods and rewards for their efforts in the form of well being, even though these rewards may not be in proportion to the exertion put forth.

In addition to mobilizing the Party members, the Party leadership goes into every nook and cranny of social life, including that in the remotest part of Siberia. This was discussed at the 21st Congress.

It was necessary for the Russians to convince their people not only that they have allies in the other Socialist countries or peoples democracies (with emphasis placed on China), but also that they have allies and supporters throughout the world. This is why, for the first time in the history of the CPSU, they made a strenuous effort to bring to the 21st Congress fraternal delegates from every country possible. They boasted of this mobilization and pointed out in speeches at the Congress that not even in the days of the Communist International was there such mobilization or international solidarity as displayed at this 21st Congress.

Never before at a Soviet Party Congress did they permit more than a handful of delegates from other Communist Parties to take the floor for a few moments. However, at this 21st Congress dozens of representatives from every continent were given the platform so that the Russian delegates could see them and listen to them. They also printed their remarks in many newspapers and broadcast their speeches over radio and television.

All of this was "proof" that the Soviet people have friends and allies and that these representatives of various Communist Parties and Workers Parties speak not only for their own organization, but for millions of others who are in a state of revolt against capitalism. Above all, these Communist representatives march under the banner of Marxism-Leninism, are the guardians of peace and hamper the capitalist aggressors from launching a war.

In addition, all of these speeches contained comparisons or contrasts. Most of them glorified the tremendous achievements and progress of the Soviet Union and the horrible things, both economic and political, that prevail in the capitalist countries. Even the representative from the CP, USA, JAMES JACKSON, did not hesitate to show a glaring contrast between the great Utopia and well being of the Soviet people compared with the misery that prevails in the United States. Not only did he make such a speech at the 21st Congress in which he proclaimed the miserable state of affairs in the United States, but he also wrote special articles and made radio speeches in which he praised and glorified everything in the Soviet Union.

Emphasis was placed on the international aspects of the 21st Congress.

The invitations to other Communist Parties to send delegations to the 21st Congress were well calculated and planned. Even the gains which would result from the presence of these delegations were planned in every detail.

The following comments do not apply to the delegates representing the so called Socialist camp. These delegates were mostly heads of government or outstanding personalities in government and they have all the material needs which go with the holding of office and power.

On the other hand, one does not have to stretch the imagination to see what happens to Communists who come to Moscow from some of the most backward countries of Asia, Africa, South America, and other parts of the world. Once in Russia they are ensconced in luxurious surroundings, are given servants, attendants, chauffeurs, clothing, banquets organized in Oriental splendor, luxurious living in former palaces, lavish gifts, medical care, nurses and physicians sent to their apartments, special theater performances including a ballet by ULINOVA, the outstanding Russian ballerina, jet plane travel and, in general, all of the luxuries of life.

These delegates from Communist Parties outside of the Socialist camp begin to feel that this luxurious living is only possible because the Communist Party rules the Soviet Union. They begin to make mental comparisons. What would happen if they were in a similar position. Perhaps they too could lead this type of life all the time.

There is another possible effect in this type of treatment. Some of these Communists feel that they are now obligated to the Russians for these favors. If these delegates are from a backward country and their social status is low in that country, or if they are colored and come from a country where there are racial distinctions, they not only feel that they have an obligation to the Russians, but they also feel that if they can overthrow their present social system they can live like they lived in Moscow all the time.

Even delegates from Western countries who are used to a higher standard of living are influenced by this type of treatment. None of the delegates from the fraternal Communist Parties had to spend any money. They could get anything they wanted. Whether they stayed within the Kremlin or in a hotel, in a suite of rooms, or in an apartment everything was free. They were also given thousands of rubles purely for spending money since all food and clothing was free. Each delegate from the CP, USA, was given 1,500 rubles merely for the purchase of such items as souvenirs and could have gotten more than this sum for the asking. In fact, the Russians appeared disappointed if the original sum of 1,500 rubles was not spent for souvenirs.

All transportation was furnished free of charge to the delegates. This included transportation to anyplace in the Soviet Union by means of jet planes or the most luxurious trains. It also included the availability of a car and chauffeur at all times. It also included free transportation to and from the country of origin and Moscow.

In addition, the Russians have a system whereby members of Communist Parties throughout the world can come to Russia to spend a vacation or to obtain medical treatment. For example, in discussions with both members of the CPSU and the CPGB it was learned that in 1958 at least 30 leading members of the CPGB spent free vacations in Russia.

So the Russians not only mobilize other Communist Parties ideologically, but also satisfy material needs of the leading members, and in most instances give aid to other Communist Parties so that they can carry on their work. By doing these things they secure the allegiances of these various Communist Parties.

It should be also noted that some Communist Parties which are illegal go underground and find a haven in Moscow or in some other Communist country. Usually these Parties are given all the money they need to carry on their work. The leading members are housed and taken care of and given all kinds of aid. As an example of this, it was learned in discussions with members of the Czechoslovakian Party that the relationship of the Czechoslovakian government with that of Italy is not too good at the present time even though all the diplomatic formalities are maintained. It was learned that the Italian government seemed to know that a radio station which is beamed to Italy was run by Italian Communists and may be located on Czechoslovakian soil. Also, that some Italian Communists who are sought by the Italian authorities have fled to Czechoslovakia. This is an example of other forms of material aid given to Communist Parties besides direct support in the form of money for propaganda and agitational purposes.

Despite the new thesis about the equality of the Communist Parties, the CPSU is still looked upon as the experienced, leading Communist Party and most Communist Parties, with the possible exception of a few Communist Parties in the Socialist camp (this may include China and Czechoslovakia) confer and meet with the leadership of the CPSU in order to air their problems and to seek advice concerning policy, personalities, and so forth.

Because of the large gathering of Communist Party delegations from all over the world, many many meetings were held between the representatives of these Parties and the leadership of the CPSU before and after the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

If the Communist Parties are legal or if they operate in a section of the world where their activities do not create diplomatic or other problems for the Soviet government, such meetings were announced, although the contents of the discussions were not announced.

We know that prior to the Congress various Communist Parties went to the Soviet Union and aired their difficulties before the leadership of the Communist Party. For example, the leadership of the Communist Party of Paraguay was in Moscow four months prior to the 21st Congress. The delegation from the Communist Party of Brazil to the 21st Congress of the CPSU had some meetings with the leadership of the CPSU. They returned to Brazil but are to return within the next two months and bring additional members of the leadership in order to continue discussions in an effort to resolve some inner problems of the Brazilian Communist Party. I was told by CARLOS MARIGHELLA, who speaks English and was a member of the Brazilian delegation, about these meetings and about the fact that he plans to return to Moscow for further discussions.

Russia*

It is also known that the Communist Party of Mexico has internal problems. DIONISIO ENCINA and JOSE VALDEZ, and possibly one other member of the Mexican Communist Party, are staying in Moscow for possibly several months. NICOLAI MATSOUTEV stated that ENCINA is on the ropes. He stated that ENCINA had opposed strikes in Mexico of the railroad workers and the students. NICOLAI stated that ENCINA did not properly estimate the up-surge of struggle in Mexico.

These examples are cited to show that the Communist Party of the Soviet Union utilized the 21st Congress in order to go into the affairs of the various Communist Parties. It can be said that every delegation had a meeting with one or more persons representing the Presidium or Central Committee of the CPSU. Furthermore, someone from the headquarters of the CCCPSU was in touch with each delegation from day to day. Thus, the Russians have contact with every Communist Party on the globe. They utilized the 21st Congress to mobilize support and to bring the aims and plans of the 21st Congress to the attention of peoples all over the world. Almost every Communist Party will receive support in order to spread propaganda about the aims of the Seven Year Plan of the Soviet Union. The Russians have published booklets and pamphlets and diagrams in numerous languages. These will be sent to various countries, ostensibly to be sold but actually to spread propaganda. Each delegate from a Communist Party which operates openly received dozens of books, some in the English and some in the Russian language. These books ranged from translations of LENIN and MARX to current material on the Seven Year Plan and novels.

The CPSU utilized the presence of delegations from the Communist Parties throughout the world in order to plan actions in various parts of the world. Thus, the 21st Congress was a mobilization of forces to give moral support to the Russians, to get the aims of the Seven Year Plan propagandized throughout the world, and to prepare for concrete struggle on a world-wide scale in order to keep the imperialists and bourgeoisie busy and off guard. It was the most international gathering in the history of the Communist movement.

The chief purpose of the 21st Congress was to mobilize the CPSU and the Russian people to put over the Seven Year Plan. Further, to give legitimacy to the present leadership of the CPSU without electing a new leadership since some of those formerly in leadership who were removed had some influence.

The CPSU wanted the fraternal Communist Parties to know the scope and breadth of the Seven Year Plan in order to convince people in other countries that the Soviet Union is engaged in peaceful construction. Further, to illustrate that the CPSU has the backing of the Russian people, that the present leadership in Russia is in the saddle to stay and to utilize the presence of the delegates among their own people in order to show that they have support even in capitalist countries.

IN REGARD TO THE RUSSIAN ATTITUDE TOWARD THE BERLIN SITUATION

In regard to Germany, no one from the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) officially discussed Germany specifically with the Communist Party, USA (CP, USA) delegation to the 21st Congress of the CPSU. The following are observations based upon attendance at the 21st Congress of the CPSU, discussions with persons in all walks of life in Russia, from members of the Presidium down to factory workers, plus conversations with the leadership of Eastern European countries such as Czechoslovakia and Poland, and a reading of the Russian press and informal discussion with delegates from throughout the world who were in attendance at the 21st Congress:

The Russians are making a tremendous appeal for co-existence. However, at the same time they are mobilizing and preparing for other eventualities. The fact that they invited such a large number of delegates from other Communist Parties to their 21st Congress is an indication of this mobilization. Never before in history of the world Communist movement did the Russians have so many Communist Parties represented at one gathering.

The leaders and members of the CPSU emphasized that they want peace. The fact that they want peace was repeated time and time again. Who ever you might talk to in Russia, from members of the highest committees to the lowest committees, asked about the attitude of the United States in regard to a peaceful understanding with the Soviet Union. After that, Germany might be mentioned in the respect that there is a need for a peace treaty with Germany.

The Russians see that West Germany is being re-armed by the NATO powers. The Russians, as well as satellite countries in Eastern Europe see in the rearming of Germany a threat to peace. They are convinced that Germans, rearmed with rockets, will put in a claim for territory. Further, that once the Germans have nuclear weapons, NATO will not be able to maintain control over Germany.

The Russians emphasized that their seven year plan is a plan for peace. They claim that they will not fire the first shot. They blame the United States for the continuation of the Cold War. They attempt to find examples to illustrate that the United States is spreading the Cold War and is preventing a thaw in the Cold War.

The Russians explain that the United States economic system is geared to production for armaments. In the past they have been afraid that the United States would try to solve its economic problems by expanding the production of armaments. Now they say that these fears are being borne out in actual practice.

Occasionally, the Russians will refer to the Far East as a trouble spot. However, in various conversations it was noted that emphasis is on Europe, particularly on Germany. The Russians went through the formality of having each satellite country give an opinion in regard to a German peace treaty. The leading government bodies in the satellite countries put through formal votes in regard to a German peace treaty. Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, and Hungary are whole heartedly with the Soviet Union on the German question. The Poles and Czechoslovaks fear that the Germans may make aggressive moves for revenge. Therefore, the Czechoslovaks are closer than ever to the Soviet Union on the German question.

While the Russians place emphasis on the need for a peaceful settlement to the German question, they are emphatic in pointing out that they will mobilize in order to smash any threat of German military aggression or a thrust by United States imperialism. They point out that while they want to develop their industry and the standard of living in Russia, they have developed the capability to defend themselves or to hit back at anyone who tries to attack Russia or any so-called socialist state.

It is to be noted that Russia is not making any open threats. However, there is a veiled threat that the United States would not escape devastation if a general war was to break out. They also point out that Western Germany is very vulnerable to rocket attacks from Russia.

It was pointed out at the 21st Congress and in discussions after the Congress not only by the CPSU but by delegates from other Communist Parties that the movement for independence in various colonies throughout the world will spread. Therefore, there will be a freeing or release from the yoke of imperialism. The Communist camp feels that the imperialists will be busy contending with this movement for independence.

The Communist camp also feels that they can mobilize people in Western Europe for a peaceful solution to the German question. They point out that many people in Western Europe have suffered from the last two World Wars which resulted from German militarism. They feel that this mobilization is possible because they can point to growing public opinion against atomic warfare and against the re-arming of Germany. They point to examples of protests and demonstrations against rocket bases in Germany itself. They also point to the fact that in Norway some trade unions went on strike because German troops, even though a part of NATO, were to be stationed in bases in Norway.

The Russians advanced the theory that war is not inevitable under capitalism. Further, that they are willing to get along with capitalism in order to see which system will outlive the other. Yet they say that some imperialist may go berserk and start a war. If this happens the entire world will mobilize against imperialism and socialism will win out. Communist leaders from various countries are repeating this theory.

The Russians did not discuss armaments with the CP, USA delegation. Further, they did not take the delegation to any factories where armaments or nuclear weapons are being produced.

On the other hand, the leadership of Russia and the CPSU constantly talked to their own people about the struggle for peace. One is struck by this propaganda. The Russians are placing emphasis on the fight and struggle for peace and are placing de-emphasis on preparation for war. Only occasionally do they allude to their rocket capability. The Russian people believe that peace is a most important thing and they would like to avoid war. The need for peace is the one thing that troubles all Russian people. They point to the destruction in Russia as a result of World War II and the fact that practically every family in Russia suffered a death in World War II.

From all indications in discussions in the Soviet Union and in discussions in Czechoslovakia, including discussions with the Czechoslovakian Ambassador to Moscow, one gets the impression that the Communist camp does not intend to compromise on the German issue. Further, that they will not allow the liquidation of Eastern Germany. What methods they will use to stand by their position is not known. They may settle for a peace treaty which will recognize Eastern Germany and fix boundaries.

It is believed that the Russians will not go to war over Germany since the emphasis in Russia is on the need for peace. In order to go to war, it would be necessary for the development of a situation in which the Russian leadership could get the Russian people to believe that some aggressive action is threatening their security. No indication was received in various conversations in Russia that they plan to go to war.

It is obvious that there has been a lot of friction between the Russians and the Chinese. It should be noted that while MAO Tse-tung is still the leader of the CP of China he did not attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU nor did he send LUI Shao-chi. It was also noted that the Chinese delegation appeared to be very cool and aloof during most of the 21st Congress. During KHRUSHCHEV's speech CHOU En-lai's applause was very limited and appeared to be without enthusiasm. Further, the delegates had been told that the Congress would close with a huge banquet. Instead of being held on the last day of sessions of the 21st Congress, this banquet was held two or three days after the conclusion of the sessions. During that period an announcement was made that the Soviet Union and China had signed a trade agreement. Thus, it is believed that this banquet was postponed until some agreement could be reached between the Russians and the Chinese. This agreement indicates that the Russians made some serious concessions in regard to giving scientific, industrial and economic assistance to China, including the training of Chinese personnel for nuclear installations and rocketry. It is believed that the Chinese have been applying pressure against the Soviets for a long time with the Chinese demanding a more vigorous stand against imperialism. It is not easy for Russia to escape this pressure. The Chinese are competing with the Russians for allegiance from the various Communist Parties, including the CP, USA. The publication of a letter from WILLIAM Z. FOSTER to MAO Tse-tung in the middle of the 21st Congress of the CPSU was interpreted as part of this vying for allegiance. All of the delegates at the 21st Congress of the CPSU were invited to visit the Chinese delegation and most of the delegations accepted. When the delegation from the CPSU visited the Chinese delegation they were not accompanied by any representative of the CPSU.

While the East German Communist regime recently concluded a trade agreement with China, and this could not have been done without the approval of the Russians, it at the same time indicates that concessions are being squeezed out of the Russians by the Chinese.

In summary, it is believed that these are some of the factors currently at work in the influencing of the policies of the Soviet Union:

- 1) Russia is not anxious to engage in an armed conflict right now since it would destroy the current Russian plans for a higher economy as set forth in their seven year plan at the Congress. They have promised the people that they are attempting to achieve Communism or advance from socialism to Communism and to increase the well being and better life of the people through this seven year plan, and an armed conflict would destroy these plans.

2) Russia is fearful of the growth of German militarism and use this growth of German military power and rearmament to convince the Russian people that Germany is a real threat and some how or other has to be eliminated. The answer to this is the conclusion of the peace treaty with Germany.

3) The Russians are playing on the fears of the European people, particularly those who were previously victims of German aggression, to remind them of the destructiveness of a nuclear war.

4) The Russians are mobilizing the international Communist movement in every part of the globe, and the 21st Congress was such a mobilization, to engage in some forms of activity to hamper, in any method or form, "imperialist aggression". They do this by playing on the nationalist sentiment of the people, particularly in South America and Africa.

5) The Russians are under pressure from the Chinese who try to discourage an easing of tensions between the Soviets and the Western powers. The Chinese use the tensions between Russia and the Western powers in order to wring concessions from the Russians. In the past, the Chinese have not supported a Summit meeting when it appeared they were not to be involved.

6) The top Soviet leadership is very sensitive to United States opinion and attitude. Even in their relations with the CP, USA they try to be circumspect and even try to discourage bold and challenging speeches, by American Communists when they are on Soviet soil, which might cause discord between Russia and the United States.

The Russians want to reach an understanding with the United States, yet in the past few weeks the Russian press has intensified coverage of various activities of the United States Government in an attempt to emphasize that the United States is continuing the Cold War. This may be to get the Russian people ready if the leadership decides to make a move contrary to the current emphasis on peace.

At the present time the files on CG 5824-S, NY 694-S, and Solo are maintained in the Special Mail Room of the Records and Communications Division, Room 7513. This Special Mail Room is isolated from the rest of the Records Division and close supervision is maintained over these files at all times. It is possible, however, for a Bureau official or supervisor to obtain any of these files upon request after clearance from the front office of the Filing Unit. In view of the delicacy of the operations involving these informants and the necessity to maintain the utmost security all requests to review the files on CG 5824-S, NY 694-S, and should be referred to J. D. Donohue, Extension 816. Requests to review the Solo file should be made to W. C. Thornton, Extension 2001. Special Agents Donohue and Thornton will then contact the supervisor or official making inquiry for the particular file and ascertain purpose of the request. If file review or check of any kind is necessary it will then be done by Donohue or Thornton and the interested official or supervisor advised of the results. In this way complete control over these files will be maintained by Donohue and Thornton.

ACTION:

If you approve it is recommended this memorandum be routed to the Records and Communications Division in order that these files may be properly flagged and this procedure placed in effect.

SAC Auerbach called from Chicago on the morning of 3/9 to advise that the results of the interviews with Informant 5824-S on Friday, Saturday and Sunday were being placed aboard Capital Airlines Flight 10, arriving in Washington, D. C. at 3:25 p.m. today.

The Washington Field Office met the plane, and the material is being analyzed in a memorandum for the Director's use, as well as a memorandum for the President's use in the event the Director desires to furnish it to him. The information consisted of three memoranda, i.e.,

(1) regarding the Russian attitude toward the Berlin situation (five pages);

(2) impressions, comments and opinions of CG-5824-S on the aims, purposes and results of the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (10 pages); and

(3) meeting between the CPUSA delegation and some leading members of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (11 pages).

Attached is the memorandum regarding the Russian attitude toward the Berlin situation. This memorandum is summarized at the bottom of page 4 and on page 5, to the effect that Russia does not want a war, as it will disturb their economy drive; Russia is fearful of German militarism and is playing on the fears of European people; Russia is mobilizing the international communist movement throughout the globe; Russia is under pressure from the Chinese to keep tension with the western world; and top Soviet leadership is very sensitive to US opinion.

It is noted that in Auerbach's call of 3/5/59, reflecting the first impressions received from the informant, he said the informant indicated there was no question in his mind but that the Russians mean business and will not back down at all on the Berlin situation. At that time I instructed that the informant be pinned down on this for facts. The attached memorandum does not play up this theme, although in the 4th complete paragraph on page 3, it states:

"From all indications in discussions in the Soviet Union and in discussions in Czechoslovakia, including discussions with the Czechoslovakian Ambassador to Moscow, one gets the impression that the Communist camp does not intend to compromise on the German issue."

We are rechecking with Auerbach concerning this.

Review of Bufiles fails to reveal any photograph of Mostovets not already available to your office. It is noted that in the case entitled "Visit of the Soviet Education Delegation to United States, 1958, IS-R," your file, 105-5580, report of Special Agent [redacted], 12-19-58, at Salt Lake City, indicates photographs of this delegation appeared in local press. In addition, file further indicates WFO may have newspaper photographs of members of this delegation. It is suggested that in event CG 5824-S cannot identify that photograph of Mostovets available to your office, you may desire to request Salt Lake City and WFO to check re availability of additional photographs of Mostovets.

Advise Bureau promptly of results of this action in attempting to identify this individual.

Re Bureau airtel dated 3/11/59, requesting the Chicago Division to exhibit a photograph of NIKOLAI VLADIMIROVICH MOSTOVETS to CG 5824-S*.

Inasmuch as CG 5824-S* is in New York City, SA JOHN E. KEATING exhibited this photograph to [redacted] on 3/13/59, since she participated in discussions with the person called "NIKOLAI", head of the North and South American Sections of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, during the first "SOLO" trip.

[redacted] stated that the person in the photograph bears a strong resemblance to the "NIKOLAI" with whom she and CG 5824-S* met in Moscow. She commented, however, that "NIKOLAI" appears to be about twenty years older than the person in the photograph. "NIKOLAI" wears glasses, his hair line is much more receded, his face is not as full, and his general appearance is not as handsome as the person in the photograph.

The photograph of MOSTOVETS will be exhibited to CG 5824-S* as soon as possible after his return to Chicago. Based on past experience, it is believed that his reaction to the photograph will be similar to that of [redacted]. While the Chicago Division feels that in all probability MOSTOVETS is the head of the North and South American Sections of the International Department of the CCCPSU, if there is available any newspaper photograph of the education delegation from Russia, it might assist in making a more positive identification.

I thought you would be interested in the following information which we have obtained as a result of our over-all coverage of the national organization of the Communist Party, USA.

Through this coverage, we have ascertained that a number of Party functionaries have recently traveled to the Soviet Union as a result of which they have received the following impressions and opinions.

Since armed conflict would seriously impair their Seven-Year Plan, the Soviets are not anxious for war at the present time. They regard the conclusion of a peace treaty with Germany as a key issue in the struggle for peace and may even grant some concessions to achieve this treaty. Despite their willingness to grant concessions of some type, however, the Soviets do not intend to compromise on the German issue nor will they allow the liquidation of East Germany. The Russians are presently mobilizing the international communist movement in every part of the globe to engage in some form of activity in order to hamper imperialist aggression. They are accomplishing this by playing on the nationalist sentiment of the people, particularly in South America and Africa.

NOTE ON YELLOW: Classified "~~Top Secret~~" since unauthorized disclosure of this information would seriously jeopardize the security of our informant. His disclosure could easily result in grave damage to national defense.

The Russians are under pressure from the Chinese who try to discourage an easing of tensions between the Soviets and the Western powers. The Chinese use these tensions in order to wring concessions from the Russians.

The top Soviet leadership is very sensitive to United States opinion and attitude. Even in their relations with the Communist Party, USA, the Soviets try to be circumspect and to discourage bold and challenging speeches by American communists when they are in Russia since such speeches might cause discord between Russia and the United States.

While they maintain that war is not inevitable under capitalism, and that they are willing to get along with capitalism in order to see which system will outlive the other, the Russians say that some imperialists may go berserk and start a war. If this happens, the entire world will mobilize against imperialism and socialism will win out.

Although the ostensible purpose of the 21st Congress was to discuss the Soviet Seven-Year Plan, it was also utilized as a means to mobilize the entire communist movement throughout the world to give moral support to the Russians; to get the aims of the Seven-Year Plan propagandized throughout the world; and to prepare for concrete struggle on a world-wide scale in order to keep the imperialists off guard. It was the most international gathering in the history of the communist movement.

The Soviets placed considerable stress upon the participation of foreign delegates at the Congress. In so doing, they not only showed the Russian people that they have friends and allies in all parts of the world but they also afforded the foreign delegates a personal opportunity to observe and enjoy the luxuries of life under communism. As a result of the lavish and luxurious treatment which these foreign delegates received, many of them, especially those from backward countries whose social status is low, undoubtedly felt that this type of life is possible only because the Communist Party rules the Soviet Union. They also feel that if they can overthrow the present social system in their own countries, they can live at all times like they lived in Moscow.

Through various meetings and periodic contact with these foreign delegates, the Russians have been able to have contact with every communist party on the globe.

In considering the various ways which the Soviet Union can render assistance to the Communist Party, USA, the Soviets gave careful consideration as to the possible repercussions in the United States. They feel that the big question is how any such assistance would be received in the United States and whether it would help or hurt the Communist Party, USA, from the viewpoint of public opinion.

The Soviets feel satisfied in general with the manner in which the Communist Party, USA, is carrying out the correct Marxist-Leninist line with regard to such matters as the recent internal struggle within the Communist Party, USA, the economic situation in the United States and the Negro question in this country.

In view of the extremely sensitive nature of certain of the sources of our information, it is requested that the contents of this communication be afforded the most careful security and its use restricted to a need-to-know basis.

Captioned matter pertains to liaison activities of CG 5824-S between the Soviet Union and the Communist Party (CP), USA. In this regard it is noted he recently traveled to the Soviet Union along with several other Party functionaries including James Jackson, V. J. Jerome, Paul Novick and George Morris. Informant returned to this country on 3-4-59. The other Party functionaries, however, have not returned as yet.

Pertinent highlights of the information reported by the informant were disseminated under date of 3-17-59 with a "~~Top Secret~~" classification to Honorable Richard M. Nixon, the Vice President; Honorable Gordon Gray, Special Assistant to the President; the Attorney General; Honorable Christian A. Herter, Under Secretary of State; and Mr. Allen W. Dulles, Director, Central Intelligence Agency. Additional information is still being obtained from the informant. Since he is the only Party functionary who has returned to this country, dissemination of this information does, of course, tend to pinpoint him as our informant. Therefore, in order not to jeopardize his security, no further dissemination of information received by him will be made at least until other Party functionaries have returned from Russia. At that time, consideration will be given to any further dissemination deemed necessary.

INFORMATION CONCERNING THE TRAVEL AND FUTURE TRAVEL PLANS FOR JAMES JACKSON,
GEORGE MORRIS, AND ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG

JAMES JACKSON

JAMES JACKSON, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, TRACHTENBERG's wife, and fifteen delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) left Moscow, Russia, on or about February 18, 1959, for Peking, China. They were due to return to Moscow on March 2 or 3, 1959.

Inasmuch as the Communist Party of China wants to be in the good graces of the Communist Party - USA, it is possible that JACKSON may accept money from the CP of China for the CP-USA. Undoubtedly, the CP of China will lavish gifts on JACKSON and TRACHTENBERG. They will probably carry notes dealing with their meetings with the leadership of the CP of China.

By way of comment, it is believed that JACKSON will return from China with an invitation for the CP-USA to send a delegation to the 10th Anniversary of the People's Republic of China during October, 1959. Most delegates from Western countries will go to Peking by way of Moscow. The Russians are expecting many Communist Party representatives in Moscow during November, 1959. They expect them to stay in Moscow, after returning from China, for the celebration of the Russian Revolution.

JACKSON did not travel outside of Moscow prior to leaving for China. He was due to be in Warsaw, Poland, on March 9, 1959, to attend at least a part of the Congress of the Communist Party of Poland, scheduled to be held from March 9 through 15, 1959. He will probably make notes in regard to this congress.

JACKSON was scheduled to return to Moscow from Warsaw. He will probably go to Leningrad, Central Asia, Stalingrad, and other places in Russia. The Russians wanted him to go to Sochi, but he said that he will try to eliminate Sochi.

JACKSON also wants to go to Bulgaria and Hungary and spend some time in Czechoslovakia and Paris on his way back to the United States. He knows some American Negroes now living in Paris, such as OLLIE HARRINGTON and HAZEL SCOTT. JACKSON also stated that he might go to England. It is possible that he will return to New York City from Paris via Air France, Trans World Airlines, or Pan American Airlines.

ENCLOSURE

JACKSON has a huge album of official photographs of the 21st Congress of the CPSU. He also has negatives of photographs he took. JACKSON also has a rather large model of a Sputnik which was on the desk of the Director of the largest auto plant in Moscow. It was taken apart and packed in two wooden cases. He will probably return to the United States with some or all of this material and with many notes in his possession. Almost everywhere he spoke in Russia, he received a gift, ostensibly for the CP-USA, but he will probably keep most of them.

GEORGE MORRIS

U.S.S.R. U.S.

GEORGE MORRIS participated in a press interview of ANASTAS MIKOYAN when the latter returned to Russia from a tour of the United States.

MORRIS met with the Party leadership in Leningrad. The Russians have issued a long playing record of songs in Russian by PAUL ROBESON. A copy of this record was given to MORRIS while he was in Leningrad.

MORRIS planned to visit Kiev and other cities. He will undoubtedly receive gifts in every city he visits. MORRIS also plans to visit China. Undoubtedly, MORRIS will return to the United States with many notes concerning his travels and the meetings he attended. He attended the 21st Congress of the CPSU as a member of the press, and sat in the press gallery in the rear of the auditorium where the sessions of the congress were held.

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG

As noted previously, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and his wife went to Peking, China, from Moscow. During the 21st Congress of the CPSU, TRACHTENBERG mentioned to the delegates from Bulgaria that he would like to go to Bulgaria, but wanted to know what would be marked on his passport if he went to Bulgaria. One of the delegates replied that he was the Minister of the Interior. He said, We will get you in and out of Bulgaria without worrying about markings in passports.

Among the gifts TRACHTENBERG received from the Russians was a gold watch. He was worried about how he could get it through United States customs.

ATTENDANCE AT A MEETING WITH REPRESENTATIVES OF THE PROPAGANDA SECTION OF THE USSR MINISTRY OF CULTURE BY COMMUNIST PARTY - USA REPRESENTATIVES TO THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU

One of the meetings attended by the Communist Party - USA representatives to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union was held at the Ministry of Culture. The exact date in February, 1959, when this meeting was held, is not recalled.

JAMES JACKSON, GEORGE MORRIS, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, and MORRIS CHILD3 were accompanied to this meeting by ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCPSU).

There were approximately six or seven Russians present from that section of the Ministry of Culture which is responsible for propaganda. There was a representative from the Soviet Information Bureau and another representative from Radio Moscow. Other Russians present have something to do with propaganda or public relations programs beamed to the United States. Their identities are not known.

(FNU) ZEUKOV is the Head of the section of the Ministry of Culture which is responsible for propaganda. This section is responsible for the publication of the magazine "USSR". It is possible that at this meeting JAMES JACKSON received the invitation to speak on Radio Moscow. JACKSON did record a speech which was broadcast over Radio Moscow.

ZEUKOV and the other Russians present wanted an opinion on the effect of the USSR short wave radio broadcasts to the United States. None of the CP-USA representatives were able to give an opinion. They pointed out that short wave radio sets are expensive and that none of those present owned a short wave radio set.

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG attempted to say that "America" is not a good magazine. He said that the printing is bad and in general criticized the make-up of the magazine. He also criticized the content of the magazine. The Russians present disagreed with TRACHTENBERG. They said that "America" is very attractive and that from a technical point of view it is an excellent magazine. They said that "America" circulates and disappears rapidly from the newsstands in Russia. However, they are not going to push for more circulation of "America" than they get for "USSR" in the United States. The only note of criticism in regard to "America" was that some things in the magazine are painted too rosily and too optimistically. Therefore, some Russian people are not convinced that it accurately portrays conditions in the United States, since they know that there must be some problems in the United States.

Those Russians present at this meeting asked if the "USSR" circulates in the United States. They were told that it is available in newsstands throughout the United States.

The Russians also wanted to know what they could do to improve public relations and propaganda in their broadcasts beamed to the United States and in "USSR". They asked the CP-USA delegation to try to get answers to these questions for them.

It is noted that ZHUKOV doesn't speak English, but most of the others present did speak English.

By way of comment, it should be noted that despite repeated efforts by CHILDS and JACKSON to get the Voice of America broadcasts on short wave radio in Moscow, they were unable to do so.

DISCUSSION ON COMMUNIST PARTY - USA SECURITY MEASURES WITH THE REPRESENTATIVE OF THE SECRET SERVICE OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION AND WITH NIKOLAI MATSKOUTEV

On February 23, 1959, when the representative of the Secret Service of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCCPSU) visited with MORRIS/CHILDS, Communist Party - USA (CP-USA) delegate to the 21st Congress of the CPSU, at the apartment where the latter was staying, he discussed security measures in the CP-USA, in addition to making arrangements to establish a communications system between the CP-USA and the CPSU.

This Soviet representative, who was obviously speaking for the secret apparatus or Secret Police, asked CHILDS the following question: How come you have been unable to expose any F.B.I. agents in all this time?

CHILDS replied, We know that we have F.B.I. agents in the CP-USA. What prevents us from exposing them is the factional fight which has existed in the Party. These F.B.I. agents masquerade under the ultra-Left or revisionist banners and are supported by the leaders of those factions. For example, we expelled two people in Chicago, but BEN/DAVIS defended them. HARRY HAYWOOD, without giving any proof, said that ARMANDO/ROMAN was an enemy agent. Even so, FOSTER nominated ROMAN for the National Committee at the last National Convention of the CP-USA. The National Appeals Commission reviewed a situation in New Jersey, but a factional fight was involved and a majority of those in this fight were Negroes.

This Soviet representative replied, The enemy would hide under Negroes. CHILDS agreed and said that if the factional fight came to an end, the Party leaders would not be supporting various individuals and we might then expose the enemy agents.

During one of the many conversations with NIKOLAI MATSKOUTEV, Head of the North and South American Sections of the CCCPSU, he also asked CHILDS why the CP-USA did not expose enemy agents and provocateurs. He commented that undoubtedly some of them are affiliated with the Right wing or with the ultra-Left, CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE C.P. OF THE SOVIET UNION

By way of comment, the next time that a CP-USA representative goes to Russia, he may be asked what kind of a security apparatus the CP-USA has, if prior to that time some action is not taken against "enemy agents", even if some mistakes have to be made.

If at all available any place, it is requested that the Bureau consider making available to the Chicago Division photographs of Russian diplomatic personnel who have been in the United States within the last year, whether assigned to Washington, D.C., New York, or the United Nations headquarters. It is also requested that photographs of members of various Russian exchange delegations who have been in the United States during the past year be furnished to the Chicago Division.

It is noted that both ALEXAI GRECHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCCPSU), and NIKOLAI MATSKOUTEV (ph), Head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the CCCPSU, were a part of Russian delegations which visited the United States during 1958. GRECHENCO was in the United States during the mid summer of 1958, while MATSKOUTEV was in the United States during the latter part of 1958 as a member of an educators delegation.

It is felt that CG 5824-S* may be able to identify these individuals and others who he met in Russia by reviewing photographs of this type. It is also possible that he might be able to identify the representative of the Secret Service of the CCCPSU who met with him in Moscow on February 23, 1959.

At a conservative estimate, photographs of some 750 Soviets would be needed to comply with your request. The Bureau does not feel it to be feasible or desirable to attempt to have CG 5824-S* review such a large number of photographs. Rather, it is suggested that you make full use of your copy of the Soviet Intelligence Album and select logical photographs of known or suspected Soviet agents for display to the informant.

The Bureau should be kept advised of your efforts to identify Grechukhin and others.

MEETING OF DELEGATES TO THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION FROM COMMUNIST PARTIES IN WESTERN EUROPEAN AND NORTH AMERICAN COUNTRIES IN REGARD TO THE "WORLD MARXIST REVIEW"

On February 6, 1959, there was a meeting in one of the smaller halls of the Kremlin Palace in Moscow, Russia. Delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) from Western European countries such as Great Britain, Ireland, Italy, France, Austria, Belgium, Sweden, Denmark, and Luxembourg were present. The Labor Progressive Party of Canada was represented by TIM DUCK. The Communist Party - USA (CP-USA) was represented by JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS. TIMMY DENNIS, son of EUGENE DENNIS, who is assigned to the "World Marxist Review" in Prague, Czechoslovakia, was present at this meeting. In some countries, the "World Marxist Review" is known by the sub-title, "Problems of Peace and Socialism".

While this was the only meeting held in Moscow in regard to the "World Marxist Review" which was attended by the CP-USA delegation, it is understood that two other meetings were held in Moscow in regard to the "World Marxist Review". One of these meetings was with the delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU from the Communist Parties in Asia and Africa. This meeting was presided over by GULONSOV (ph), Editor-in-Chief of the "World Marxist Review". The other meeting was with delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU from Communist Parties in Latin America. All three of these meetings were held to discuss ways and means of improving the "World Marxist Review".

Report by (FNU) KORIANOFF (ph), Executive Editor of the "World Marxist Review"

The meeting held on February 6, 1959, was presided over by KORIANOFF, Executive Editor of the "World Marxist Review". He made the main report at the meeting. An earphone translation system, similar to that used at the United Nations and at the 21st Congress of the CPSU, was used.

KORIANOFF stated that the "World Marxist Review" is an organ of the joint committees of the Communist and Workers Parties of the world. In 1957, during the celebration of the 40th Anniversary of the Russian Revolution, the wish was expressed that such a magazine be organized. In March, 1958, at a conference in Prague, Czechoslovakia, a decision was made to publish the magazine.

-ENCLOSURE

It was decided that not all Communist Parties could join nor participate in the magazine on an equal basis.

Continuing, KORIANOFF said that this magazine is not an organ which issues directives. It is a forum for all the Communist Parties. It conducts propaganda for Marxism-Leninism. It turns its pages over to various Communist Parties for an exchange of opinions. Representatives from twenty Communist Parties are on the Editorial Staff. Eleven Communist Parties, including the CPSU, the Communist Parties of Germany, Poland, Rumania, France, Italy, China, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, and Bulgaria, are represented on the Editorial Board. Besides the Editorial Staff, a number of correspondents from a number of Communist Parties participate in the magazine. Correspondents from Spain, Austria, Korea, Canada, the Netherlands, and some correspondents from Japan, Syria, Argentina and other countries will participate. There will be participation from Asia and Latin American countries.

KORIANOFF pointed out that since the first issue was published, fifty Communist Party leaders have written important articles for the magazine. He stated that the more representative the Editorial Staff will become, the more successful the magazine will be. On the basis of experience thus far, we can draw some preliminary conclusions. The main principle of the magazine is that collective discussion is important. We do not merely print an article selected by an individual. The Editorial Board discusses and approves each article which appears in the magazine.

Then KORIANOFF stated that life presents new problems that need solution. We need discussion to solve these problems. Agreement gives positive results. There has been no case where we fail to agree in principle, and this is due to the co-operation and participation of all concerned. If an article comes from a certain country, we will involve that country in the joint discussion. We will draw attention to practical questions.

Circulation has now reached 550,000 copies. The magazine is published in twenty languages. It is printed in a number of countries, such as Canada and Argentina. Printing has just started in Beirut. There is also a Mongolian edition. It is circulated in eighty countries of the world.

Next, KORIANOFF stated that the main line of the magazine is guided by the Declaration of the twelve Communist Parties made at Moscow. The following were some of the questions discussed in the first months of publication: (1) The building of Socialism; (2) The conditions of struggle in the Capitalist countries; the conditions of the working class in the Capitalist countries; (3) The experiences of the Communist Parties; (4) An expose of the theories and practice of modern revisionism; (5) On the need for the unity of the labor movement; (6) The world liberation movement; and (7) The struggle for peace.

KORIANOFF stated, We only took the first steps to solve the problems placed before us. We hope that with the assistance of the various Communist Parties, including the writing of articles, that we will solve many problems. We need more analytical articles on the questions facing our movement. More articles on the strategy and tactics of various Communist Parties are needed. We need more articles on our experiences. We want to consult you on which urgent problems can or should be raised in the magazine.

Then KORIANOFF said, We want to know if the following questions should be placed in the magazine:

- (1) New forms of fascist tendencies and methods of workers organizations in the struggle against monopolists.
- (2) How to write about the correlation of struggles for democracy and socialism in capitalist countries.
- (3) New tendencies toward state monopoly capitalism. This is shaping up as an international form. An example is the common European market.
- (4) The attitude of the working class toward modern technical developments in capitalist countries.
- (5) The struggle for unity of the working class in the trade union and political field. How to place this problem from a tactical point of view.

He said other problems can be raised, such as revisionism, dogmatism and sectarianism. We now want opinions on what problems need articles from Asia and Latin America. For example, articles dealing with the importance of economic development of Asian countries, the role of the national bourgeoisie, the role of state capitalism, the attitude of Communists to the nationalism of the Arab and other areas.

Other problems can be raised. How do we discuss internationalism and the equality of Communist Parties. What is the relationship between internationalism and patriotism? How to present life in the Socialist countries. How the Soviet Union enters the stage of Communism. How to present theoretical problems raised at the 21st Congress of the CPSU. What forms of writing are needed to get the maximum out of such questions.

Next, KORIANOFF said that experience shows that an article such as that by the Soviet theoretician, YUDIN, dealing with the political philosophy of JAWAHARLAL NEHRU and the building of India, received a great political response. Practice has shown that in addition to articles, the readers welcome material containing an exchange of opinion. During the 11th Congress of the Czechoslovakian Communist Party, we exchanged opinion on Capitalist crises, and this was published in the first issue. Also, an Italian Forum in the Granchi (ph) Institute discussed methods of exploitation in the Capitalist factories. Some of the discussion was printed in the "World Marxist Review". The readers want more of this type of discussion.

KORIANOFF stated that some Communist Parties have already furnished the magazine with their experiences resulting from various discussions. The Communist Party of France conducted a discussion on Capitalism and Socialist democracy. This is to be published in the magazine. The Italian Communist Party is proposing a discussion on the common European market and Capitalism. The Iranian Communist Party has prepared a thesis on the role of the bourgeoisie in the present stage of history. The Iranian comrades -- in view of certain problems -- want a closed meeting to discuss this subject. This can be done at the Polish Congress in March.

(Parenthetically speaking, it should be noted that it is possible that the Communist Party of Iran is getting ready for some sharp struggles. A copy of the thesis of the Iranian Communist Party was obtained from TIMMY DENNIS. Its title is, "Theses on the National Bourgeoisie in the Semi-Colonial and Colonial Countries".)

Next, KORIANOFF stated, We think that meetings such as this one are useful. They strengthen the ties between the Communist Parties in the magazine. The magazine is being welcomed in the various Parties. In Bulgaria and the German Democratic Republic, they have set up special groups which try to raise the level and quality of material for the magazine. They have also assigned comrades to prepare special material.

KORIANOFF then made a plea for the Communist Parties to stick to the press deadlines. He said that if the material arrives late, it is ineffective. We need the assistance of all the Parties to send material if it is expedient to do so. He said that some Communist Parties would like a section of the magazine devoted to important documents. For example, some of the Latin American countries never see documents issued by the European Communist Parties. If you agree to such a section, then send your documents.

Returning to circulation, KORIANOFF stated that there is a wide circulation in the Socialist camp. In fact, the Socialist camp accounts for 90% of the circulation of 550,000 copies. Fifty thousand copies are circulated in the rest of the world. The British distribute to all English-speaking countries, except Canada and the United States. The Dutch edition is distributed in Holland and Indonesia. The Mexican edition is distributed in Central America, and the Argentine edition is distributed in Latin America. The French edition is distributed in all French-speaking countries. There has been noticed a tendency to increase subscribers in the Italian and English editions. The Japanese have increased the number of their subscribers from 1,500 to 5,000. There are still difficulties in getting the magazine into Africa, Southeast Asia, the Middle East, and the United States. We have to discuss how to overcome these problems of circulation.

KORIANOFF stated that in some places there is an illegal distribution, such as in Spain, Portugal and Syria. Some other countries also have to resort to illegal distribution. But even in those countries there can be an increase in circulation and we can get over the difficulties.

Then KORIANOFF asked a question, which he did not answer. He asked, Is it advisable to continue illegal distribution?

In conclusion, KORIANOFF stated, We need the assistance of the various Parties to overcome the shortcomings in the magazine. The French, Italian, Canadian, and Argentine people have offered lots of good advice. KORIANOFF concluded his report by thanking those present for listening to his report.

General Discussion

Remarks of TIM BUCK, Lead of the Labor Progressive Party of Canada

TIM BUCK was the first speaker in the discussion which followed KORIANOFF's report. He suggested articles on the national question, particularly in Capitalist countries dominated by United States imperialism. He said that this topic is significant especially in Latin America. If Latin America could be transformed from a United States imperialist reserve, the United States could not man all its world-wide bases, but this is a big problem. BUCK also suggested book reviews for the magazine.

Remarks of JAMES JACKSON, of the Communist Party - USA

JAMES JACKSON offered some suggestions. He said that the magazine needs to have articles which expose, country by country, the penetration of United States imperialism. Another article might deal with the economic reserves of United States imperialism. Can it develop economically backward areas, even areas under its own flag such as the Southern part of the United States and Alaska? Also, articles are needed on the Negro question in the United States. Further, more articles are needed on the struggle for civil liberties in various countries, since this struggle is related to peace. JACKSON also suggested a page in the magazine dealing with the fate of the working class prisoners. He said that there are still victims of Capitalist oppression in prison in the United States. The magazine ought to talk about their fate.

Remarks of JEAN BLUME, of the Belgium Communist Party

*Review
Belgium*

JEAN BLUME, of the Belgium Communist Party, was the next speaker. He said that the "World Marxist Review" represents progress as compared with the past. It is better than the magazine of the Comintern. He suggested articles dealing with ways and means of establishing friendly relations in Capitalist countries with non-Party workers, especially workers associated with the Social Democratic Parties. Also, articles on how to place the problem of revisionism and sectarianism. He suggested the use of VLADIMIR LENIN's book, "Leftism - An Infantile Sickness."

Remarks of a Speaker Representing the Communist Party of Spain

The next speaker was a man who was introduced as being from Switzerland. This was corrected and it was announced that he was from Spain.

This speaker said that he wanted an article in the magazine which would analyze the Catholic movement in Western Europe and the role of Catholics in politics. Spain and other countries could be used as examples. Then he commented that the literary style of the Spanish edition needs improvement. He said that the Spanish edition reflects that the translators are exiles who have been out of Spain for twenty years and do not know the modern language of Spain.

Remarks of JOOP WOLF, of the Netherlands

JOOP WOLF, of the Netherlands, said that polemic articles are necessary.

Remarks of SEAN MURRAY, of Northern Ireland

SEAN MURRAY, of Northern Ireland, said that he wants more theoretical articles on economics. He agreed that more articles are needed on the national problem, especially articles dealing with those peoples who are partially free. He said that articles are needed on the Catholic Church to show that the Catholic Church no longer relies solely on priests. It organizes in the trade unions and other mass organizations.

Remarks of ROBERTSON, of Australia

ROBERTSON, of Australia, spoke next and merely offered greetings to the "World Marxist Review". He said that he supported all the proposals made at this meeting.

Remarks of the Representative from the Communist Party of Luxemburg

The delegate from Luxemburg spoke and said that they have meager resources. They circulate French papers. He said that this is not satisfactory, since the workers know the German language better than the French language. They have no national Communist Party paper in Luxemburg as yet. He said that they will deal with this problem and will circulate the "World Marxist Review - Problems of Peace and Socialism".

Concluding Remarks by KORIANOFF

KORIANOFF spoke again and thanked the delegates for their suggestions and participation. He said that the magazine is like an infant learning to walk. We need a little support from the Communist Party leadership. He said that he believes that the Editorial Board will analyze the discussion at this meeting, agree with most of the proposals and will try to do away with the shortcomings. The suggested articles will be put into publication. He stated that any Party can write to the magazine. He suggested that each Communist Party send in at least one book review every three months. In regard to the suggestion of supplements from time to time which could contain important documents issued by the various Communist Parties, this would increase the publication costs, but it will be looked into.

In closing, KORIANOFF said, This is your magazine. It is our success and your success. We need your help.

MEETING OF CP-USA DELEGATES TO THE 21ST
CONGRESS OF THE CPSU WITH V. J. JEROME, AND MEETINGS IN PRAGUE, CZECHOSLOVAKIA, AND MOSCOW, RUSSIA, IN REGARD TO THE "WORLD MARXIST REVIEW - PROBLEMS OF PEACE AND SOCIALISM"

Meeting Between V. J. JEROME, MORRIS
CHILDS, and JAMES JACKSON in Prague,
Czechoslovakia

On January 16, 1959, JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS, official delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) from the Communist Party - USA, were in Prague, Czechoslovakia. When it was learned that V. J. JEROME was also in Prague on that date, arrangements were made to meet with him.

JEROME said that he had been in London, England; and when he was unable to obtain a job there, he went to Warsaw, Poland, and was presently living in the Writers Club in Warsaw. JEROME said that he had been invited to Prague by the "World Marxist Review", which wanted him to write some articles. JACKSON and CHILDS said that they thought that JEROME should write some articles on cultural activities in the United States or something on the Jewish question, but should limit his articles to these topics. JEROME agreed to this, and then asked JACKSON and CHILDS to write to the Polish leadership advising them that he is an active member of the CP-USA and should be treated accordingly. JEROME planned to return to Warsaw within a day or two.

JEROME said that he had seen [REDACTED], BILL GEBERT, HARRY YARRIS, and DORA LIPSCHITZ in Warsaw. JEROME commented that he received the impression that the people in the shops in Poland are not enthusiastic.

Subsequently, JEROME wrote a letter from Warsaw to JACKSON and CHILDS in Moscow. In a reply to JEROME's letter, CHILDS said that they had mentioned him to the Polish delegation to the 21st Congress of the CPSU, but said that he should contact JACKSON in Warsaw, since JACKSON planned to attend the Congress of the Communist Party of Poland on March 9 and 10, 1959. At that time, JACKSON could take up JEROME's problems in regard to housing and the possible obtaining of royalties for the publication in Poland of his book, "A Lamp For Jeremy".

Meeting with LUGARYOV (ph) and KORIANOFF (ph)
in the Headquarters of the "World Marxist Review" in Prague, Czechoslovakia

JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS visited the headquarters of the "World Marxist Review" in Prague, Czechoslovakia, on January 16, 1959. They met with LUGARYOV (ph), who is the Communist Party Secretary for the "World Marxist Review" organization.
It should be noted that all Russian institutions have a Party organization within but separate from the organizational breakdown of the institution itself. Also in attendance at this meeting was KORIANOFF (ph), Executive Editor of the "World Marxist Review".

JACKSON and CHILDS gave them a brief review of the current developments in the Communist Party - USA. The CP-USA delegates pointed out that there is a collective leadership in the CP-USA, and that WILLIAM Z. FOSTER is not the leader of the CP-USA.

At this meeting, KORIANOFF said that there was a good possibility he would be in Moscow during the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

Meeting Between MORRIS CHILDS and KORIANOFF
in Moscow, Russia

During the period that MORRIS CHILDS was ill during the last three days of sessions of the 21st Congress of the CPSU, KORIANOFF came to the apartment in Moscow where MORRIS CHILDS and JAMES JACKSON were staying. He said he wanted to see JACKSON, but discussed the purpose of his visit with CHILDS.

KORIANOFF complained about the lack of material from the CP-USA in the headquarters of the "World Marxist Review". He said his chief problem was the obtaining of material from the United States. He said that the headquarters of the CPSU in Moscow does not send any CP-USA documents to him. He asked CHILDS to see to it that the CP-USA sends Party documents to the "World Marxist Review" headquarters in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

In subsequent conversations with NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS,
ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph), and SEMA KUZNETSOV, of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU, they said that CHILDS should send extra copies of CP-USA documents to the CCCPSU and they will see to it that a copy of this material is sent to the headquarters of the "World Marxist Review". However, if there is a document which is not too confidential, it can be sent directly to the "World Marxist Review" in Prague. They suggested, however, that the CP-USA use good judgment in what it sends directly to the "World Marxist Review", since anything received by the "World Marxist Review" might be published.

At this meeting in Moscow, KORIANOFF stated that JOHN GIBBONS (formerly of London, England, and a brother of JOE GIBBONS, of Chicago) is in Prague and is on the staff of the "World Marxist Review". He has written a review of JOHN GATES' book, and they intend to publish it in the "next issue".

Meeting Between MORRIS CHILDS, KORIANOFF, and TIMMY DENNIS in Prague, Czechoslovakia, on February 27, 1959

MORRIS CHILDS met again with KORIANOFF at the headquarters of the "World Marxist Review" in Prague on February 27, 1959. TIMMY DENNIS, son of EUGENE DENNIS, was in attendance at this meeting.

KORIANOFF asked that the CP-USA send the following to the "World Marxist Review" during 1959:

- (1) An article by a leading member of the CP-USA, preferably EUGENE DENNIS, on the lessons learned in the struggle against revisionism in the CP-USA.
- (2) Articles on theoretical subjects.
- (3) CP-USA documents.
- (4) Analytical letters on various subjects, these letters to be written in a free style and to draw conclusions. Topics for such letters might be election campaigns or current legislation passed in the United States Congress.
- (5) Informational articles on the current experiences of the CP-USA.
- (6) An article on the Negro question in the United States. He said that they had a copy of JAMES JACKSON's document on the Negro question in the United States and were trying to write an article from the document.
- (7) Book reviews.

KORIANOFF said that JAMES ALLEN has promised a review on the book recently written by EARL BROWDER.

Then KORIANOFF said that they had an article on monopoly capital, by VICTOR PERLO. He asked if PERLO was a member of the Communist Party, and explained that this question was prompted by the fact that PERLO did not draw any political conclusions. He said that as a result of a big discussion in the Editorial Board of the "World Marxist Review", they had to revise the article, but wanted PERLO to look over the revisions before they publish it.

The next day, February 23, 1959, the revised article was delivered to CHILDS at the Praha Hotel, where he was staying. CHILDS told VLADISLAV KATZMAN, a Czechoslovakian translator assigned to him, that he, CHILDS, had not told KORIANOFF that he would take this article with him to the United States; but that if they wanted him to, he would mail it to PERLO from Europe. This revised article had an accompanying letter which was signed by the Editorial Board of the "World Marxist Review" and was addressed to VICTOR PERLO, Croton-on-Hudson, New York. Lat.

Subsequently on the same day, CHILDS was instructed by telephone to leave the article with KATZMAN.

In his concluding remarks, KORIANOFF said that it is possible that the "World Marxist Review" can publish six articles from the CP-USA during 1959, if these articles deal with the topics he had previously mentioned. He said that it is up to the CP-USA as to whether they will have six articles in the "World Marxist Review" in 1959.

KORIANOFF also asked CHILDS if he thought there was a possibility of having a representative of the CP-USA assigned to the "World Marxist Review" in Prague. CHILDS replied that the leadership of the CP-USA is still discussing this matter, but that as far as he knew it had not reached a decision as yet.

It should be noted that during the discussion, CHILDS asked KORIANOFF if, by the request for an article on the lessons learned in the struggle against revisionism in the CP-USA, KORIANOFF felt that the CP-USA was still struggling against revisionism. KORIANOFF replied that he did not mean that the CP-USA was still struggling with revisionism. He explained that many Communist Parties know that the CP-USA had a tough struggle against revisionism and he thought that it was an experience which other Communist Parties could profit by.

ADDENDUM

On March 15, 1953, VICTOR PERLO was in Chicago, where he was staying at the residence of [REDACTED] KOLLIE WEST. He advised telephonically that he had received his revised manuscript from the headquarters of the "World Marxist Review" in Prague, Czechoslovakia. He said that he had cabled a reply to the "World Marxist Review" indicating that he agreed with the revisions.

b7C

It is possible that inasmuch as PERLO cabled a reply, his article will appear in the next issue of the "World Marxist Review".

FORMAL RECEPTION AND BANQUET CLOSING THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION

delegates

There was a reception and banquet closing the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. This event was originally scheduled to be held on the date of the last day of sessions of the Congress. Then it was re-scheduled for the following day. It was finally held three days after the Congress concluded and was the formal conclusion of the Congress. Some delegates concluded, after reading in the Russian press that the Russians and Chinese had signed a new trade treaty, that this had something to do with the postponing of the banquet. In the meantime, theatre performances were held each evening in the Kremlin.

USSR
This reception and banquet was held in the St. George Hall in the Kremlin. It is an extremely large hall and has a stage. Leading members of the CPSU, such as members of the Presidium, sat with NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, who was the Master of Ceremonies. PALMIRO TOGLIATTI, CHOU En-lai and all the Chinese delegates sat adjacent to KHRUSHCHEV. Many Russian military men were present.

USSR
The delegations were seated in an order similar to that in which they were introduced by KHRUSHCHEV at the opening of the 21st Congress. JAMES JACKSON, MORRIS CHILDS, and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG were seated at Table "G". Members of the Communist Parties of India, Indonesia, and Iraq, and NURITDIN A. MUKHITDINOV, member of the Presidium of the CPSU, were seated at this table. USSR

The banquet was a jolly get together and all in all it was quite an affair. The quantity of food, the variety of dishes, the amount of caviar, wines, liquor, and champagne would stagger the imagination. The service matched the quality and quantity of the food and beverages. KHRUSHCHEV announced that the rules in regard to drinking alcoholic beverages could be violated on this occasion and that the guests especially were being excused. KHRUSHCHEV was cracking jokes throughout the affair. He made a toast to the victims of the Moscow flu, inasmuch as many delegates had missed sessions of the Congress and also many delegates could not attend this banquet because of illness. GOMULKA, TOGLIATTI, and CHOU En-lai had all been sick. TOGLIATTI missed most of the sessions of the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

Leading artists of Russia performed at the banquet, including opera singers; the well known violinist, OSTRACH (ph), and the Koisoyev Dancers. It was a truly royal banquet and a much more intimate get together than the sessions of the Congress, which it climaxed. The Communist Party - USA representatives drank a toast to NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV and the leadership of the CPSU.

After this banquet, arrangements were made for the delegates from the fraternal Communist Parties to meet with leading representatives of the CPSU. The first meetings were with the Communist Parties from the Socialist countries.

CPSU ANSWERS TO SPECIFIC QUESTIONS ASKED IN THE THIRD OF THREE LETTERS ADDRESSED TO THE CCCPSU BY CP-USA DELEGATES TO THE
21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU

In the third of three letters addressed to the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCCPSU) by the Communist Party - USA (CP-USA) delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU, several questions were raised as a result of requests by EUGENE DENNIS and other members of the CP-USA that those matters be discussed with the leadership of the CPSU by the CP-USA delegates. These questions were answered orally by NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS, Head of the North and South American Sections of the International Department of the CCCPSU, on February 18, 1959.

Policy in Regard to Sending CP-USA
Members who are ill to the USSR for Treatment

1-4-84
Classified by B-3
Declassify on: OADR
CR# 17CIV 999

MOSTOVETS said that any CP-USA member who is ill, particularly those in the leadership, first of all members of the National Committee, can come to the USSR if they are able to travel. MOSTOVETS said that he was not excluding the active District leaders, but the emphasis was being placed on those who are in the national leadership. He repeated this for emphasis. The CP-USA can decide who to send, but we prefer leading people because there are some limitations. Beyond that, all the CP-USA has to do is to inform the Russians ahead of the scheduled departure time. Any names the CP-USA endorses will be agreed to by the CPSU. (u)

Policy in Regard to Sending Friends of the CP-USA to Russia

NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS said that if the CP-USA wants to send anyone, including persons who are ill, who are not Party members, but are friends of the Party, they will be welcome in Russia. Such persons will have to pay their own fare to Russia. The Russians will not assume responsibility for their fare to Russia. Such persons will not be invited to Russia by the CPSU. They will be invited by an appropriate organization. For example, if the person is a trade unionist, he will be invited by a trade union organization. If he is a writer, he may be invited by a literary organization or perhaps by a peace society. Whatever organization of this nature extends the invitation will be responsible for the expenses of the individual while he is in Russia.

In regard to the request of MARY KAUFMAN to travel to the USSR to study Soviet law and attempt to obtain legal business as a legal representative of the Soviet Union on various trade matters in the United States, NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS said that KAUFMAN may come to the USSR. She should go to the Russian Embassy and get a visa. However, she, too, will have to pay for her fare to the Soviet Union. In other words, even Communist Party members' fares to Russia should be arranged for by the CP-USA out of general funds, if the individual cannot personally arrange for the transportation.

JAMES JACKSON had previously stated that MARY KAUFMAN had asked him to visit her aunt, who is 75 or 76 years of age and who lives in Moscow. JACKSON did make an attempt to visit her, but she was visiting relatives in White Russia at the time.

ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN 4.5 4.5

The CPSU was told that if ELIZABETH GURLEY FLYNN can get permission to travel, she will be the next CP-USA leader to visit Russia. NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS said that this is all right with the CPSU. She, too, should go to the Russian Embassy and obtain a visa.

JACOB and REBECCA MINDEL 7.5

In regard to the request of JACOB and REBECCA MINDEL to go to Russia to live, NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS said that this request was not being granted. He said that it was felt that it would not be right for them to come to Russia. He said they are ill and the trip might adversely affect their health. The Russians cannot perform miracles. MINDEL might die soon after arriving in Russia. MOSTOVETS gave CHILDS some medicine for leukemia for REBECCA MINDEL. He said that the CPSU would discuss the possibility of sending some material aid to the United States for the MINDELS.

In a subsequent conversation, NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS said that the CPSU was still considering how to get material aid to the CP-USA for MINDEL so that he will not have to leave the United States.

Treatment for the [] MIKE DAVIDOW 7.5

GEORGE MORRIS had received a request from MIKE DAVIDOW that the Russians be asked if their [] could come to Russia for treatment of [] if the USSR had any new medicine or treatment for this disease. MOSTOVETS said that the USSR had no new treatment for this disease beyond that which is available in the United States.

In regard to the request of EUGENE DENNIS that the Russians be asked if they had any treatment for multiple sclerosis which is not available in the United States and whether [redacted] of Boston, could go to Russia for treatment of this disease, NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS said that the Russians did not have any treatment for this disease which is not available in the United States.

By way of comment, the impression received was that if [redacted] was a member of the National Committee, the Russians might have given more consideration to this request.

WILLIAM WEINSTONE

In regard to the request of WILLIAM WEINSTONE to travel to Moscow, the answer was, Just let the Russians know when he wants to visit Russia.

W.E.B. DU BOIS and Dr. ALPHEUS EUNTUN

JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS had visited W.E.B. DU BOIS and his wife, SHIRLEY GRAHAM, on February 10, 1959. They were staying in a suite of rooms in the National Hotel in Moscow. He had received honorary degrees from the Charles University in Prague and from the University of Moscow. DU BOIS was planning to leave Russia to go to China.

DU BOIS had met with NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV. During this session with KHRUSHCHEV, DU BOIS suggested the establishing of a department for African studies at either the Academy of Sciences or the University of Moscow. DU BOIS said that in a matter of only a few hours after his discussion with NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV, some professors came to him in order to obtain some details concerning his ideas on a department for African studies. They told DU BOIS that they wanted to put his plan into effect and had started to work on it. DU BOIS said that he had ALPHEUS EUNTUN in mind as a person who could be utilized in such a department.

In regard to a suggestion from the CP-USA delegates that ALPHEUS EUNTUN, who was in Europe after having been to the conference in Accra, be invited to the Soviet Union, MOSTOVETS said that EUNTUN will receive an invitation to visit the Soviet Union. This invitation will probably be extended by the Institute on Oriental Studies. The invitation will be sent to London, England, since EUNTUN is staying at the apartment of PAUL ROBESON in London.

HUNTON will be instructed to get a visa from the Russian Embassy in London, England.

OLLIE HARRINGTON

OLLIE HARRINGTON is a former member of the CP-USA. He is a Negro artist and an old friend of JAMES JACKSON. He is living in Paris and draws a weekly cartoon for the "Pittsburgh Courier". He is not now a member of the Communist Party. JACKSON visited with HARRINGTON in Paris on January 13, 1950.

JACKSON wanted the Russians to invite HARRINGTON to Russia. In regard to HARRINGTON, NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS said that if HARRINGTON will apply for a visa in Paris, then some Russian literary or writers organization will invite him to Russia. He, too, will have to pay his fare to Moscow.

LOU BURNHAM

JAMES JACKSON had also told the Russians that LOU BURNHAM wants to go to Russia for approximately three months. For the first two months, he would get material for a book. He would write the book during the last month. During the meeting between the CP-USA delegates and the representatives of the leadership of the CPSU, MIKHAIL SUSLOV said that he had discussed with NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV the possibility of an American writing a book about Russia. SUSLOV said that KHRUSHCHEV agreed that this would be a good idea and also stated that he thought that the book might get better circulation in the United States if it were written by a non-Communist.

NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS said that if the CP-USA agrees, whenever BURNHAM is ready to go to Russia, he should apply for a visa. A Russian literary organization or society will extend an invitation to him and his expenses will be taken care of while he is in Russia.

Sister of [redacted]

GEORGE MORRIS had brought with him a message from [redacted] [redacted] had received another letter from his sister in which she said that she was not receiving any assistance from the Soviet Government.

NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS said that this woman is a "nut". He said she used to write letters to JOSEPH STALIN. While it is true that she has been ill, she is better and she will not work. She does receive a pension, although she is not entitled to one. She insists on moving to Moscow. However, there is a housing shortage in Moscow and the climate where she is presently living is milder and better for her health. She should stay where she is presently located. NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS said that they will investigate to ascertain why she is writing letters of complaint to her brother. He said that it is possible that the local authorities have fallen down on the job.

Attitude of the CPSU Toward CP-USA Students Studying Marxism-Leninism in Moscow

It is noted that in the meeting between delegates of the CP-USA and representatives of the leadership of the CCCPSU, MIKHAIL SUSLOV and EORIS PONOMAREV reminded the CP-USA delegation of the Litvinov agreement which prohibits the sending of students to Moscow except in an open exchange.

NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS said that if the CP-USA wants to send students to Moscow to study Marxism-Leninism in a Party school, these students would have to be young persons not encumbered with a family. Further, if more than one student goes to Moscow, all of the students would have to be of a similar educational level. For example, all high school graduates or all college graduates, or all who have about the same level of Party training. Further, since most of the lectures would be in Russian, the students would have to study Russian and should have some preparation for this before coming to Russia.

COLEMAN YOUNG

JAMES JACKSON had indicated that he wanted COLEMAN YOUNG, of Detroit, and possibly three or four Negroes in addition to YOUNG to go to Russia to study Marxism-Leninism. After this preliminary discussion with NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS, CHILDS and JACKSON agreed that the Russians would not grant the request for YOUNG, since he is too old.

[REDACTED]

It is to be noted that during the first part of January, 1959, ISADORE WOFSY told MORRIS CHILDS that [REDACTED] was living somewhere in California and is in business with his father. ISADORE WOFSY said that [REDACTED] corresponds with his son, LEON WOFSY. He also said that [REDACTED] has some relationship with HERBERT MALIEV (ph), who was at one time a leader of the Labor Youth League in New York and a supporter of the Right wing viewpoint.

~~SECRET~~

During one of the many conversations with NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS and ALEXAI GRECHENCO (ph), [] was mentioned. They said that they were a little surprised that [] was not more active in the CP-USA, but that perhaps he was laying low for security reasons because of the manner in which he returned to the United States after he had studied in Russia. They said that [] was caught in Hungary during the revolt and returned to the United States from Hungary by way of Austria.

CHILDS told NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS and ALEXAI GRECHENCO that at the first opportunity and if the leadership of the CP-USA agrees, or if CHILDS has business reasons for going to California, he will attempt to get [] correct address and visit him in California to find out what did happen.

b7C

By way of opinion, it is believed that the Russians are worried about what happened to []. It is also apparent that they are not desirous of having CP-USA students go to Russia to study Marxism-Leninism. It is believed that they would be happy if the CP-USA did not send any students to Moscow. This opinion is based upon the fact that by placing certain conditions they are, in effect, discouraging the CP-USA in this matter.

World Youth Festival

MORRIS CHILDS attempted to arrange for a meeting with SERGEI KALISTRATOVICH ROMANOVSKI, of the Central Committee of the Young Communist League of Russia. This meeting did not materialize. However, either through MOSTOVETS or GRECHENCO, ROMANOVSKI sent a message to CHILDS instructing him to find out who is who in the Youth Festival Committees in the United States, and which Festival Committee the Russians should maintain contact with. This message also indicated that the Festival Committee still has not obtained a list of youth organizations in the United States which might be extended invitations to the World Youth Festival in Vienna, Austria.

Reurlet 3-17-59 in which you made certain observations, comments and recommendations regarding captioned matter.

The Bureau is in full agreement with your comments regarding the potential existing in the development of an apparatus by CG 5824-S* for contacts between the Soviets and the Communist Party, USA. The Bureau does not agree, however, with your observation that it should be origin in this matter. Since CG 5824-S*, the principal figure in this apparatus, will in most instances be making his initial reports to Agents of your office, you are instructed that the Chicago Office is being designated origin. Should subsequent developments indicate that the major part of the activity resulting from this operation lies elsewhere than Chicago, consideration will then be given to changing the office of origin.

Since this development is an outgrowth of the Solo operation and is actually an extension thereof, there appears to be no basis for handling it as an espionage matter. You are instructed, therefore, to continue to utilize Solo as the control file in reporting on this apparatus.

Needless to say, the Bureau is in full accord with your comment regarding the extremely confidential nature of this operation. Both the Chicago and New York Offices should take the necessary measures to insure that all details of this matter will be maintained on a strictly need-to-know basis. Chicago is office of origin will be responsible for appropriately advising any other offices which might subsequently become involved in this operation.

In relet you requested authority for SA John E. Keating of your office to be available in New York City for contacts with CG 5824-S* on the occasion of each meet which the informant will subsequently make. In view of the fact that CG 5824-S* has been accustomed to dealing solely with Keating over a long period of time, authority is granted herewith for SA Keating to be in New York to assist and guide the informant on the occasion of these meets, at least for the time being. This phase should be followed closely and you should remain alert to the fact that as this operation progresses it may not be necessary for SA Keating to proceed to New York on each occasion.

Relet further requests that CG 5824-S* be given complete authority to arrive at a decision as to whether or not he feels the meet should be made on 4-14-59 or on the alternate date, 4-16-59. In this regard, I want to make it specifically clear that CG 5824-S* is not running this operation. Naturally, any ideas and suggestions which he may have regarding the progress of this apparatus should be solicited and carefully considered. You must bear in mind at all times, however, that as long as he is operating as an informant of this Bureau, the final decision to be made in any matter is not one for him to make. Therefore, in connection with the initial meet scheduled for 4-14-59, it is the Bureau's desire that the informant specifically follow the instructions given him by the unknown Soviet representative and that he make this contact on 4-14-59 in the absence of any development which cannot be foreseen at this time. It is also noted that it was suggested to the informant by the Soviet agent that the next time the informant was in New York he should familiarize himself with the area of the meeting place. If at all possible, the Bureau desires that the informant comply with this suggestion.

In connection with your comment about the reliability of the informant, we certainly have no reason to question his integrity and loyalty to the Bureau at the present time. Despite the fact that he has been a reliable informant for several years, we are still not deviating from our over-all policy of subjecting the information obtained by any informant to verification and subsequent corroboration where possible and feasible. The matter of coverage of the various meets which he will undoubtedly have in the future with Soviet representatives will be appropriately considered on an individual basis. With regard to the initial meet scheduled for 4-14-59 it is noted that the New York Office has previously been orally instructed to survey this area concerning the possibility of coverage. New York was cautioned that extreme discretion must be utilized during this survey in order to avoid any possibility of compromising this situation.

Under no circumstances should any information obtained as a result of this operation be disseminated without specific prior approval from the Bureau.

Regarding your request for certain photographs of Russian personnel in this country, it is noted that this matter has been the subject of separate correspondence in this case.

Office Memorandum • UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT

TO : DIRECTOR, FBI (100-428091)

FROM : SAC, CHICAGO (134-46- Sub B)

SUBJECT: SOLO

DATE: March 17, 1959

Re Chicago airtel dated March 10, 1959 regarding the participation of CG 5824-S* in an apparatus for the exchange of information between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) and the Communist Party, USA (CP, USA).

Since this involves two extremely valuable informants, namely CG 5824-S* and as an alternate in the operation, NY 694-S*, the following observations, comments, and recommendations are being made:

1) CG 5824-S* has advised that it is apparent to him that the leadership of the CPSU, after having had personal contacts with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG during the 21st Congress of the CPSU, realizes that TRACHTENBERG is well advanced in years and that it is necessary to set up a new system to insure that contacts are maintained between the CPSU and the CP, USA. It is, therefore, felt, not only by CG 5824-S*, but by the Chicago Office, that the coming meet will establish a new and exclusive contact in the United States between the CPSU and the CP, USA which has unlimited possibilities to develop into the main apparatus of contact between the Soviet and American Communists. In view of the nature of this operation it is felt that the Bureau should be the Office of Origin and should issue instructions to the Chicago Division and the New York Division in regard to what investigation will or will not be conducted as a result of the contacts with the Russian agents. Further, that because of the extremely confidential nature of this operation that all details concerning it be on a strictly need to know basis at the Bureau, New York, and Chicago Offices, and any other offices which might subsequently become involved in this operation.

2) That CG 5324-S* be given complete authority to arrive at a decision as to whether or not he feels the meet should be made on April 14, 1959 or on the alternate date, April 16, 1959. This matter has not as yet been discussed with CG 5324-S*. The purpose of not making the meet on April 14, 1959 would be to demonstrate to the Russians that CG 5324-S* was interested solely in the security of the operation and wanted to be certain beyond all doubt that the meet was being made under complete security.

3) CG 5324-S* is not someone whom the Bureau is attempting to establish. For seven years he has been a trusted informant and in all instances his information has proven to be reliable. Therefore, it is felt at the present time there should be no surveillance, either moving or fixed, on any meet. This position is taken because it is felt that this courier operation has such tremendous possibilities, not only now but for many years to come, for the obtaining of tremendous intelligence information and that no steps whatsoever should be taken which might in any way jeopardize the establishment or operation of this apparatus.

It is noted that on March 11, 1959, the Chicago Division requested the Bureau to furnish photographs of Russian diplomatic and United Nations personnel assigned in the United States either in Washington, D. C., New York, or at the United Nations Headquarters during the past year. Also, the Bureau was requested to furnish photographs of members of Russian exchange delegations which had visited the United States during the past year. It is felt that through an examination of these photographs, there is a good possibility that CG 5324-S* will be able to identify his contact.

4) It is urged that the Bureau not only be the Office of Origin in regard to this apparatus, but also that a code name be assigned to the apparatus or operation and that it be handled as an espionage matter under the 65 classification.

5) That the Bureau should authorize the Chicago Division to instruct SA JOHN L. KEATING to be available in New York City for contacts with CG 5324-S* on the occasion of each meet.

 This recommendation is being made since over a period of years SA KEATING has accompanied CG 5324-S* to

CG 134-46- Sub B

New York and the Chicago informant is accustomed to dealing solely with him. Inasmuch as CG 5824-S* will be necessarily apprehensive about entering into this new field of activities, it is felt advisable that SA KEATING be in New York to assist and guide him in this operation.

6) That the Bureau decide from this operation what specific information should be disseminated and that the Bureau should disseminate it or instruct the New York and/or Chicago Offices to disseminate it.

I talked with ASAC McCabe, NYO, yesterday (3/19/59) concerning this case and, particularly, the following matters.

As to the covering of the scheduled meet of the informant on 4/14/59, I reminded McCabe of the need for discreetness in any surveys which were made at Niered and White Plains Road. I pointed out that no inquiries of any kind should be made by Agents identifying themselves as being with the FBI. McCabe said that no such inquiries have been made, although yesterday he and [redacted] went up and walked through the area and, in walking by a real estate office about two doors from this intersection, a former FBI Agent, who had previously worked under [redacted] supervision, came out and stopped them and shook hands with them. McCabe said that this former Agent had a good record in the Bureau and is now in the real estate business. McCabe said that this former Agent normally would know the people in the area and have contacts through which a lookout could be located. He said he had not approached this former Agent in any way whatsoever concerning the matter and did not in any manner discuss the reason for his presence in the area. He wondered, however, if it might be desirable to solicit the assistance of this former Agent.

I told McCabe I thought he should not contact the former Agent for assistance, because the fact he was a former Agent and made inquiry concerning the availability of rental property in the area might become the subject of comment and it would be undesirable for him to know of our interest in the area. I told McCabe that I thought any further checks which are made in the area should be made by Agents who would not be known to the former Agent who is in the real estate business, so that he would not be aware we had a special interest in the area. I pointed out to McCabe that this made our problem of covering the area a little more complicated and that I expected New York to use utmost discretion and to handle the situation without in any way jeopardizing the security of Chicago 5824.

I also told McCabe we had given considerable thought to the possibility of adding another informant to the apparatus which is being set up by Chicago 5824; that we have concluded it would be undesirable to press this further and that, as a result, NY 694 should be told to go ahead and carry out the instructions previously given him to locate a leg man for Chicago 5824. He should, of course, keep the NYO advised of the results of his efforts in this connection.

MEETINGS WITH EUGENE DENNIS IN NEW YORK CITY ON THURSDAY, MARCH 12, 1959, AND FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1959

MORRIS CHILDS met in New York City with EUGENE DENNIS from approximately 5:30 P.M. to 11:30 P.M. on Thursday, March 12, 1959; and for approximately three and one-half to four hours on Friday, March 13, 1959. These meetings were held in a Manhattan hotel room, which had been rented for MORRIS CHILDS under an assumed name by JACK CHILDS. EUGENE DENNIS and MORRIS CHILDS did not leave the hotel for meals. All discussion was held in writing and the notes were immediately destroyed. CHILDS did not give DENNIS complete details of his trip to Russia as an official Communist Party - USA delegate to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU). DENNIS wanted CHILDS' original notes, particularly those pertaining to meetings between representatives of the leadership of the CPSU and the CP-USA delegation. CHILDS protested that he would have need for them at least until JAMES JACKSON returned to the United States. DENNIS then permitted CHILDS to keep his notes.

DENNIS said that CHILDS should only see ROBERT THOMPSON while in New York City on this trip. Further, that CHILDS should not give THOMPSON any detailed report and should protest to THOMPSON that his notes had not yet arrived in the United States.

DENNIS told CHILDS that he was worried about the publicity CHILDS and JACKSON received in the United States press. He said that as far as the Government is concerned, the answer is simple. Don't talk. Take the Fifth Amendment. However, the press presents another problem. CHILDS may have to admit that he travelled to Russia. He should not admit that he was a delegate to the 21st Congress of the CPSU. The most CHILDS can admit is that by coincidence he happened to be in Russia at the time of the 21st Congress of the CPSU and attended the congress as a guest.

DENNIS wanted to see CHILDS' passport. CHILDS did not have it with him, but said that the Russians did not stamp it so as to indicate that CHILDS was in Russia. DENNIS was very surprised to learn this. CHILDS said that apparently the Russians were trying to protect his security and that of the CP-USA.

DENNIS said that the National Executive Committee of the CP-USA meets during the weekend of March 21 and 22, 1959. He said that he wanted to think over whether CHILDS should make a report to this meeting. He stated that he wanted to discuss it with a couple of people in the leadership first. In the meantime, CHILDS should prepare to make a report. If CHILDS does make a report to the National Executive Committee, the report should only deal with the 21st Congress of the CPSU and should be presented as though CHILDS got the information from reading the press. He said that he would contact CHILDS by Wednesday, March 18, 1959, and give him a decision one way or another.

Nothing concrete was discussed concerning CPSU funds for the CP-USA. DENNIS was worried about the publicity concerning CHILDS in the American press and was also worried about the security of the hotel room, but admitted that adverse weather conditions did not permit a meeting elsewhere so that details concerning funds could be discussed.

DENNIS was told that the Argentine Communist Party wants the CP-USA to send a delegate to its Congress, scheduled to start on April 18, 1959. DENNIS said that he could not at this time think of a delegate who he could trust to convey his viewpoint. He mentioned WILLIAM WEINSTONE and LOUIS WEINSTOCK as persons who have obtained passports but who might not express his viewpoint. He said that when WEINSTONE learned that CHARLIE LOMAN would not attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU, WEINSTONE wanted to attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU, but by this time it was too late to make the necessary arrangements. DENNIS also mentioned JOE NORTH as a possible CP-USA representative to the Congress of the Communist Party of Argentina, but said that NORTH is on a national tour in regard to Cuba and he is not due back in New York City until April 15, 1959. (u)

DENNIS said that he was satisfied with the activities of the CP-USA delegates thus far; however, he is worried about the publicity in regard to them. He said that he wants to have further discussions with CHILDS. He said that while he is worried about the publicity concerning CHILDS, at the moment he could not make any changes in regard to CHILDS' role as a contact between the CP-USA and the CPSU. CHILDS did not tell DENNIS that he is scheduled to contact a Russian Agent in New York City on April 14, 1959.

DENNIS said that BEN DAVIS has announced that he is going to run openly for the chairmanship of the CP-USA.

According to DENNIS, the CP-USA has not received any documents on the 21st Congress of the CPSU as yet. He wanted any documents that CHILDS has, in order to mimeograph or reproduce them in some manner. He said that all they have thus far is a copy of KHRUSHCHEV's report, and that was received by "The Worker".

DENNIS instructed CHILDS to send a message to JAMES JACKSON telling him to return to the United States as soon as possible, but that if he could be in England on Easter Sunday, he should attend the Congress of the Communist Party of Great Britain. Through JACK CHILDS, a message was sent to the Labor Progressive Party for delivery to the CPSU and JAMES JACKSON, instructing JACKSON to be back in the United States during the first part of April, 1959. The message did not tell JACKSON to go to England, since it was felt that he did not want to go to England and that he probably would not complete his tour of Russia in time to arrive in England for the Congress of the CPGB.

MEETING WITH ROBERT THOMPSON

MORRIS CHILDS saw DOB THOMPSON in the hospital. CHILDS told THOMPSON that the enthusiasm in Russia is great and that satisfactory answers were received for questions raised with the CPSU by the CP-USA. THOMPSON asked if any financial arrangements were made by the CPSU for the CP-USA. CHILDS told THOMPSON that while this matter was discussed, no concrete answer has been received as yet. THOMPSON promised that he would not tell anyone that he had seen CHILDS and it was agreed that CHILDS should wait until the return of JAMES JACKSON so that they could present a joint report to WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. (u) S

CHILDS told THOMPSON that the CPSU was very pleased with the greetings to the 21st Congress of the CPSU which were received from the CP-USA, and which had been signed by EUGENE DENNIS and DOB THOMPSON. THOMPSON stated that WILLIAM Z. FOSTER was not pleased with the contents of these greetings, and wanted to submit separate greetings.

THOMPSON said that the physicians have found an infection on the bone in his brain, which was injured while he was in jail. He said that they have been giving him treatment and he expects to leave the hospital during the middle of the week of March 14, 1959, although the physicians are not in favor of it.

MEETING WITH MARY KAUFMAN

MORRIS CHILDS saw MARY KAUFMAN and told her that the Russians had approved a trip to Russia for her. She thanked CHILDS for taking up this matter with the CPCS. She said that she is busy with cases and also that she could not leave the United States while the Supreme Court is in session. Thus, she could not go to Russia until sometime toward the latter part of July, 1953, and she will discuss details with CHILDS prior to that time.

~~SECRET~~

The only other contact that CHILDS had in New York was a brief conversation with the wife of JAMES JACKSON in order to indicate to her that her husband is all right.

MORRIS CHILDS gave to JACK CHILDS the medicine he had received from the Russians for leukemia for REBECCA LINDEL.

While in Moscow during his recent trip to the Soviet Union CG 5824-S along with James Jackson, the other Communist Party (CP), USA, delegate to the Russian 21st Congress, attended a meeting with delegates to the 21st Congress from CPs in western European and North American countries. This meeting concerned the "World Marxist Review" and was presided over by one Korianoff (phonetic), executive editor of the "World Marxist Review," international communist journal, which is published in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

Korianoff stated that the "World Marxist Review" is an organ of the joint committees of the various CPs throughout the world. According to Korianoff, this magazine is not an organ which issues directives, but it is a forum for all the CPs. It conducts propaganda for Marxism-Leninism and turns its pages over to various CPs for an exchange of opinions. According to Korianoff, the circulation of this magazine has now reached 550,000 copies and it is published in 20 languages. He continued that it is utilized to solve various problems facing the communist movement and that the magazine needs the assistance of the various CPs in order to solve additional problems. He called for more analytical articles on the questions facing the communist movement as well as articles on the strategy and tactics of the various CPs.

Upon the conclusion of Korianoff's report to this meeting the various representatives from the other CPs entered into a general discussion as to how the magazine could be more profitably utilized. Jackson made remarks at this time and said that the magazine needs to have articles which exposed country by country the penetration of United States imperialism. He continued that another article might deal with the economic reserves of United States imperialism. He also suggested that articles are needed on the Negro question in the United States and the struggle for civil liberties in various countries. He further suggested a page in the magazine dealing with the fate of the working class prisoners and stated that there are still victims of capitalist oppression in prison in the United States.

Upon the conclusion of this general discussion Korianoff again spoke and thanked the delegates for their suggestions and participation. He suggested that each CP send in at least one book review every three months and again requested each CP to submit material for this magazine.

MEETING BETWEEN CP-USA DELEGATES TO THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU AND DELEGATES FROM THE GUATEMALAN PARTY OF LABOR, THE CP OF GUATEMALA, ON FEBRUARY 15, 1959,
IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA

On February 15, 1959, JAMES JACKSON, MORRIS CHILDS, SEMA KUZNETSOV, of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCCPSU), and a Spanish-Russian translator travelled to an apartment where the Guatemalan delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) were staying in Moscow, Russia.

They met with the following members of the Communist Party of Guatemala. It is not known whether or not these are their true names. All spellings are phonetic:

PETER ALVAREZ, Secretary of the Central Committee of the Guatemalan Party of Labor, the CP of Guatemala.

RAFAEL CORTEZ, who is in charge of youth and student activities.

GILBERTO ESTRADA, member of the Central Committee of the Guatemalan Party of Labor.

The Guatemalans were the most difficult persons to see of all the delegations. They were isolated by the Russians. Further, the Russians did not permit any other Latins to participate in this particular discussion. The Guatemalan CP members were very happy to meet with the delegates from the CP-USA. They said that they differentiate between the people in the United States and the imperialists. They said that they have respect for progressives, and particularly for the members of the CP-USA. They stated that in view of all the difficulties in the United States, they think the CP-USA is working all right. They said that when there was still democracy in Guatemala, they knew the position of the CP-USA and that of the democratic forces in the United States.

Remarks of PETER ALVAREZ

PETER ALVAREZ gave a brief report. He said that after the intervention in Guatemala of United States imperialism by means of CASTILLO ARNEZ (ph), all democratic achievements of the people in Guatemala were liquidated and all progressives, particularly Communist Party members, have been persecuted. He said that there is a Communist Party document which explains these events in Guatemala. He said that he was sorry that he did not have this document with him, because he wanted the CP-USA to have a copy of it.

JACOB ARBANZ

Continuing, he said that first of all the bourgeoisie of Guatemala betrayed the cause of democracy. This was illustrated by the betrayal of the army and by the hesitancy and vacillations of the petty bourgeoisie around former President ARBANZ (ph), who resigned as President. He said that the Communist Party did not agree with the resignation of ARBANZ. For a long time, ARBANZ was friendly to the Communist Party and its allies. ARBANZ is presently in Uruguay and is still friendly to the Communist Party.

ALVAREZ said that another reason for the defeat of the government of ARBANZ was the weakness of the Communist Party. The Party supported ARBANZ and put forward certain of its own demands and made progress. The position of support to ARBANZ gave the Communist Party possibilities to organize a broad mass movement. However, it is necessary to take into consideration that even the Communist Party was influenced at that time by the bourgeoisie and by the existing situation in the country.

ALVAREZ said, The Communist Party took steps in order to organize demonstrations. These demonstrations were to be in behalf of ARBANZ. However, the army advised not to organize such demonstrations in order to avoid bloodshed. Because of this, the Party backed down, hesitated, and did not organize the people. This is an example of the petty bourgeoisie influence even in the Party. This was a big mistake committed by the Party. The Party had assumed that the army would be loyal. We knew the make-up of the officer corps in the army, but we did not take this make-up into account. Further, the Party did not always take a critical position, in regard to its own mistakes or the mistakes committed by ARBANZ. One of the mistakes of the Communist Party was that it did not prepare for underground work. Another mistake was that the Party carried on poor work in the army, and thus it was weak in the armed forces. These are, in brief, some of the mistakes committed by the CP of Guatemala.

ALVAREZ went on to say that one must take the objective circumstances into account. We need to take into account the economic difficulties. Further, despite the solidarity and unity of all Latin American countries with Guatemala, the fact remains that in many of these countries reaction reigned and in a sense Guatemala stood alone. Therefore, the defeat of the progressive regime in Guatemala was a setback for all democracy in Latin America. The CP of Guatemala suffered bitterly and received heavy blows. Despite this, despite the exile and imprisonment, the Party is still a factor within the country. It continued its work and created a base for the further development of the Party.

Next ALVAREZ said, Only a few months after CASTILLO ARNEZ took power, the Party was able to issue a manifesto calling for unity against imperialism. The main aim of CASTILLO ARNEZ was to liquidate Communism. In the face of such a situation, the Party took a correct position by calling for unity in the struggle to strengthen the resistance to reactionary imperialism. First of all, a leading underground apparatus was established.

Then ALVAREZ said, After the reactionary regime was established, the trade unions were dissolved and a new government-sponsored trade union setup was established. The Party decided to work within these new trade union organizations. The enemy could not destroy the Party nor break its ties with the masses. The Communist Party began to publish a mimeographed underground newspaper called "The Truth". The Communist Party continued its propaganda work among the masses. Due to this work, the influence of the Party increased. Even those elements which earlier opposed the Communist Party began to believe in the Party. The Party even conducted a struggle against a section of the bourgeoisie which opposed CASTILLO ARNEZ -- that is, the strata that favored Putschism. This was because the Communist Party did not see a way out through a coup d'etat. The failure of the plots against CASTILLO ARNEZ proved that the Communist Party's position, its line, was correct.

ALVAREZ asked, Why was CASTILLO ARNEZ discredited so fast? It was due to corruption and ambitions in his own ranks and cliques. It was also due to his failure to solve the economic problems of the people. This hastened to expose his regime. Two years after CASTILLO ARNEZ took power, the contradictions within his own regime came to a head and he was assassinated.

This fact, and the upsurge of the masses, led to general elections. The results of the elections brought General MIGUEL YDIGORAS FUENTES to power. The position of the Party at that time was very complicated. The Communist Party was forced to change its tactics during the elections. The Communist Party supported a democratic candidate who received a large vote. The following are the conclusions of the Communist Party as a result of the elections.

The regime imposed on the people by imperialism was repudiated by 70% of the voters. This was accomplished in the face of police repression. The democratic forces got 30% of the total vote despite repression and exile and the fact that there was no time to prepare for the election. All that they had was one month's time for preparations. The fact that 70% of the voters voted for FUENTES showed that these people were against intervention and against the clique of ARNEZ, but were unclear as to which path to follow. Therefore, they voted for FUENTES. FUENTES was able to use the upsurge of the mass movement. He was the candidate opposed to the ARNEZ forces. Although he was more reactionary than the democratic candidate supported by the Communist Party, he was, nevertheless, anti-ARNEZ clique.

Then ALVAREZ said that from a class point of view, CASTILLO ARNEZ did not change the class alignments in the country. He served the interests of imperialism and intervention. It is necessary to keep in mind that FUENTES took power through the forms of a democratic election. Although there have been no basic changes in the country, persecution has been lessened and the Communist Party is no longer systematically hounded. Although the Communist Party is still underground, it has better opportunities for work. These changes are due to mass pressures.

The CASTILLO ARNEZ clique is still the main enemy. It has a majority in the army and in the Congress. This clique, with the help of the United States Embassy, organizes against FUENTES. The Communist Party is against the overthrow of FUENTES by a coup. The Communist Party needs very flexible tactics and many plans because the imperialists have many plans. Among the students, the Communist Party has a solid base. They are a serious force. Within the trade unions, too, the Party is getting results. The corrupt leaders in the trade unions have been ousted and unity supporters, including some Communists, have been elected into the new leadership. The Party is trying to unite with other democratic forces. It has had some successes, although this unity is not yet solid.

Now about the Communist Party. Despite the difficulties, the Communist Party is controlling itself. The membership has increased recently and the Communist Party has organization in one-half of the states. During the last election, the Communist Party helped the democratic forces to elect six deputies. They could not have been elected without the help of the Communist Party. The Party now continues to print, instead of mimeographing, an underground newspaper called "Verdat", or "The Truth". The Communist Party influences other papers, such as student papers. It influences cultural organizations. In the mayoralty election in Guatemala City a few months ago (it was always in the hands of reactionaries even during the presidency of ARBENZ); a more democratic Mayor was elected and the Communist Party played an important role during this election.

Then ALVAREZ talked about FORTUNA (ph), the person who was the outstanding leader of the Guatemalan CP before the CASTILLO ARNEZ revolt. He said that even before the uprising, FORTUNA gave up his post as Secretary of the CP of Guatemala. He is still a member of the Central Committee. ALVAREZ said that FORTUNA made some very serious mistakes. He said that the bourgeois influence on the Party came through FORTUNA. He was the bearer of this influence. Besides, FORTUNA's personal behavior did not correspond with the post he occupied. He used to drink considerably. Yet, he was always loyal to the Party. At the time of his ouster, the Party had a very stormy and serious discussion about him, his personality and his behavior in the Central Committee. Yet, the decision to remove him as Secretary of the Party was unanimous. FORTUNA still has a big influence. He even merits our thanks because he was the organizer of the Guatemalan Party and he was its most outstanding member, with great influence on the people. ALVAREZ said that FORTUNA now recognizes all of his mistakes. He has changed his habits and his personal behavior is much better now. Although he lives in Brazil, he is a member of the Central Committee of the CP of Guatemala and supports all the decisions of the Central Committee, and this included its decision on Hungary.

In conclusion, ALVAREZ said that the Communist Party of Guatemala now publishes a monthly theoretical magazine. In the December, 1953, issue, they carried WILLIAM Z. FOSTER's article on revisionism. He said that they will publish any material they receive.

Remarks of JAMES JACKSON

JAMES JACKSON had made a terrible mistake at the start of this meeting, by asking, How is your great leader FORTUNA? At the conclusion of ALVAREZ's report, JACKSON engaged in an apologetic discussion about the fact that the CP-USA is not doing enough to aid the CP of Guatemala. JACKSON asked ALVAREZ if he would write an article on the situation in Guatemala for "Political Affairs". JACKSON promised that if ALVAREZ would write such an article, it would be made into a leaflet for distribution throughout the United States. ALVAREZ said that he would try to write such an article.

A review of Bufiles fails to disclose any photographs of Vladimir Konstantinovich Lobachev not already available to your office.

With regard to your request that photographs of individuals similar in appearance to Lobachev be furnished your office for exhibition to CG 5824-S*, it is noted that the Bureau has no facilities in this regard which are not also readily available in your office. It is suggested, therefore, that you review the general appearance index of the Soviet Intelligence Album in your office in order to select photographs of individuals who may be logically suspected of being identical with Lobachev.

The Bureau should be kept fully and promptly advised of the results of your action in this regard.

REC-95

On 3/6/59, CG 5824-S* made available to SA JOHN E. KEATING, for photostating, the first page of the 1/28/59 edition of "Evening Moscow". It will be noted that in the lower left-hand corner of page 1, there is a photograph of ENVER HOXHA, of the Communist Party of Albania, conferring with WLADYSLAW GOMULKA, of the Communist Party of Poland. In the background, two faces are barely visible. The one to the right of HOXHA is JAMES JACKSON, and to the right of JAMES JACKSON is MORRIS CHILDS.

One photostat copy of this item is enclosed herewith to the Bureau and to the New York Division. The Chicago photostat copy is located in Chicago file 134-46-Sub-B-1A42.

On 3/6/59, CG 5824-S* also made available to SA KEATING, for photostating, a small slip of paper with Russian printing on it. This item was contained in the kit for delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. One photostat copy of this item is enclosed herewith to the Bureau and to the New York Division. The Chicago photostat copy is located in Chicago file 134-46-Sub-B-1A38.

BLOWSTATE, a leading manufacturer of portable air compressors, has been awarded a contract by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to supply 100,000 cubic feet of compressed air for the construction of a new bridge over the Mississippi River in St. Louis. The contract was awarded to Blowstate by the Corps' St. Louis District Office. The bridge is part of the Mississippi River Bridge Program, which is a major infrastructure project in the St. Louis area. The bridge is expected to be completed in 2005. Blowstate is a leading manufacturer of portable air compressors, and has been supplying compressed air for the construction of bridges and other infrastructure projects for many years. The compressed air will be used to power the construction equipment used in the bridge's construction.

THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT HAS RECENTLY ANNOUNCED THAT IT HAS ADOPTED A NEW POLICY OF OPENING UP THE COUNTRY TO FOREIGN INVESTMENT AND TRADE. THE GOVERNMENT HAS DECIDED TO ALLOW FOREIGN COMPANIES TO SET UP JOINT VENTURES WITH CHINESE COMPANIES IN A WIDE RANGE OF INDUSTRIES, INCLUDING MANUFACTURING, AGRICULTURE, AND SERVICES. THIS POLICY IS PART OF A BROADER REFORM PROGRAM THAT THE GOVERNMENT IS IMPLEMENTING TO ATTRACTION FOREIGN INVESTMENT AND TO PROMOTE ECONOMIC GROWTH. THE GOVERNMENT HAS ALSO DECIDED TO REDUCE THE BARRIERS TO FOREIGN TRADE AND TO IMPROVE THE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT FOR FOREIGN INVESTORS. THESE MEASURES ARE EXPECTED TO INCREASE THE FLOW OF FOREIGN INVESTMENT INTO CHINA AND TO STIMULATE THE CHINESE ECONOMY.

INFORMATION CONCERNING THE DELEGATION FROM THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF CHINA TO THE 21ST
CONGRESS OF THE CPSU AND CONTACTS WITH THEM
BY THE COMMUNIST PARTY - USA DELEGATION

The delegates from the Communist Party of China to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union were not overly friendly with any other delegations. Yet, it is believed that there is competition between the Chinese and the Russians in order to win the allegiance of the international Communist Parties. It is further believed that the new thesis on the relationship between Communist Parties signifies that the CPSU did not want to assume responsibility for all the activities in China.

Most delegates from the fraternal Communist Parties, for example delegates from the Communist Parties of Poland and Czechoslovakia, indicated in private conversations that they felt that the Chinese were going too fast in regard to collectivization. For example, it was learned that in Poland only a fraction of the farms are collectivized. The Poles said that they cannot force it and did not want to be put in a position of being forced to follow the leadership of China.

The vying between the Chinese and Russians for allegiance of other Communist Parties can be illustrated by the fact that MAO Tse-tung selected a date during the middle of the 21st Congress of the CPSU to publish a letter written by WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. "Pravda" had to reprint this letter from the Chinese press.

After FOSTER's letter was published, the Chinese delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU sent a formal invitation to the Communist Party - USA delegation, asking the American delegates to visit the Chinese Embassy in Moscow.

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and JAMES JACKSON went to the Chinese Embassy in Moscow. MORRIS CHILDS was sick at the time. ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph) and SEMA ALEXIENA KUZNETSOV, of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU, accompanied them to the Chinese Embassy, but the Chinese did not permit the Russians to participate in the meeting. At this meeting, the Chinese formally invited the Communist Party - USA delegation to visit China.

During the 21st Congress of the CPSU, CHILDS had conversations with LIU Ning-yi and KANG SHENG, of the Chinese Communist Party delegation. CHILDS also mailed two letters to China.

in regard to the proposed trip of JACKSON and TRACHTENBERG to China. One of these letters was addressed to MAO Tse-tung, and the other was addressed to the International Liaison Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of China.

A member of the Chinese delegation gave $200 to GEORGE MORRIS, and said that it was collected by former Americans now residing in Peking, China. JACKSON persuaded MORRIS to turn this money over to him. Subsequently, JACKSON gave the $200 to CHILDS and asked him to give it to JACK CHILDS with the instructions that JACKSON will get it from JACK CHILDS when he returns to the United States. This money is supposed to be a donation to "The Worker".

MEETING OF CP-USA REPRESENTATIVES TO THE
21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU WITH REPRESENTATIVES OF THE UNION OF SOVIET SOCIETY FOR FRIENDSHIP AND CULTURAL CONTACT WITH FOREIGN COUNTRIES

At 9:00 A.M. on the morning of February 10, 1959, the following members of the Communist Party - USA, MORRIS CHILDS, JAMES JACKSON, GEORGE MORRIS, and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG, met in Moscow with representatives of the Union of Soviet Society for Friendship and Cultural Contact with Foreign Countries. The American delegation was accompanied to this meeting by ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCPSU). The head of the Union of Soviet Society for Friendship and Cultural Contact with Foreign Countries is Madam POPOVA (ph). She was present at this meeting and was accompanied by a man and woman, whose identities are not known.

Madam POPOVA said that the Union of Soviet Society for Friendship and Cultural Contact with Foreign Countries was organized at a conference last year. It replaced Voks, which had handled tourists. She said that this society has connections with similar societies in seventy countries. It is associated with three organizations in the United States. One of these is the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship (NCASF). The other is the Chicago Council of American-Soviet Friendship (CCASF), which is the most active of the three. The third one is in San Francisco, and this Russian society does not think much of the organization in San Francisco. AMERICAN-RUSSIAN INSTITUTE?

Madam POPOVA stated that a Soviet-American Council of Friendship is being organized in Moscow. She said that she is corresponding with a Mr. [REDACTED] a theatrical director in the United States, in order to get him to organize a similar organization in the United States. This would be a non-Communist organization. She said that [REDACTED] has visited the Soviet Union a number of times and she has been invited to the United States by him.

Then Madam POPOVA said that within the Union of Soviet Society for Friendship and Cultural Contact with Foreign Countries they have a number of departments, such as departments for motion pictures, literature, medicine, science, architecture, theatre, etc. At times, on the basis of cultural exchange, these departments will contact societies of a similar sort in other countries. This is the manner in which various artists get invitations to visit countries for cultural exchange.

U.S.S.R. She stated that they are remodeling a large mansion in Moscow. This mansion was formerly occupied by part of the British Legation. When the remodeling is completed, it will be called the House of Friendship. It will contain an art exhibit. It will be used to celebrate anniversaries and events in connection with the lives of outstanding literary and other figures.

She said that on February 12, 1959, they were going to have a celebration in connection with the anniversary of the birthday of ABRAHAM LINCOLN. At this point, JAMES JACKSON asked if they were not going to celebrate the birthday of FREDERICK DOUGLASS, and said that in the United States they celebrate his birthday along with that of LINCOLN.

Next, Madam POPOVA said that they would like to invite to the Soviet Union prominent individuals to participate in some of these anniversaries. For example, they would like to invite ERNEST HEMINGWAY to Russia for a celebration on the anniversary of the first publication in Russia of a book by HEMINGWAY. In turn, they would like to have celebrations in the United States for outstanding Soviet cultural figures. She commented that the NCASF and the CCASF and similar organizations are too narrow in scope.

Then Madam POPOVA said that when [redacted] CYRUS EATON and Mr. [redacted] (Possibly a Philadelphia Councilman) were in the USSR, they were asked whether there were any possibilities of setting up local organizations in the United States which would be along cultural lines and would promote an exchange of Soviet and American culture.

She then discussed the NCASF and reminded the CP-USA delegates that TED BAYER is very ill. She asked if the CP-USA delegates could not get the CP-USA to discuss replacing him with somebody in the Communist Party or close to the Communist Party. She said that he has not been functioning too well since he has been ill.

Then Madam POPOVA asked if the CP-USA delegates knew what is wrong with [redacted] of Chicago. She said that he is impetuous and sometimes his thinking is twisted. del.

The impression was received that the Russians do not trust [redacted] but that they had to admit that the CCASF is active.

General Discussion

Madam POPOVA asked for suggestions as to how there could be more activity in the United States to stimulate exchanges of tourists, delegations, etc.

ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG commented that it is too expensive for the average American to travel from the United States to the USSR.

GEORGE MORRIS talked about trade union delegations and condemned the trade union bureaucracy in the United States for not sending delegations to Russia. He suggested that some Russian factories might invite certain trade unionists to the USSR as individuals. MORRIS commented that the attitude of the American trade unions is the weakest link in US-USSR relations. He said that in the American trade unions, there is a lack of interest in contacts with the USSR.

Madam POPOVA then asked if the CP-USA delegates thought that the NCASF and the CCASF should be abolished.

CHILDS said that while ^{he} had to admit that they are narrow in scope, he felt that they should be retained until such time as they can be replaced by something more suitable. CHILDS further stated that he thought that any liquidation of these organizations should be handled by the Communist Party.

Then Madam POPOVA stated that they have been receiving a lot of correspondence from the United States, especially from women. Some of this correspondence resulted from a visit to Moscow by some women who are television technicians and professional people.

She said that 6,000 American tourists visited Moscow in 1958. She suggested that perhaps some of these people could be used to broaden friendship and contact between the United States and the USSR. She said that a lot of emphasis should be placed on people who have visited the USSR. When GEORGE MORRIS suggested that a list might be prepared showing the identities of people who travelled to the USSR from the United States, there was no response to this suggestion.

At this point, JACKSON said that they might invite more Negroes from the United States to visit Russia, and that Negro students should be invited to Russia in order to study. Madam POPOVA replied that in accordance with the cultural exchange agreement between the United States and the USSR, the number of students who can be invited to the USSR is limited.

JACKSON then asked if they had 16 mm. films which might be exhibited in the United States, and the reply was in the affirmative.

At this point, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG commented that it is difficult for individuals in the United States to travel to Russia. He said that in this regard, the United States is different than any other country. He said that for some people it is difficult to get a passport. He explained that he was called before a Congressional committee because he had applied for a passport.

Ladam POPOVA stated that they will give consideration to some things raised at this meeting. They will pay particular attention to the rates for tourists, since the working class in the United States cannot afford to pay fare to travel from the United States to the USSR.

She asked that when the CP-USA delegates return to the United States, that they see to it that concrete proposals are made in regard to people who could be invited to the USSR. That is, people such as CARL SANDBURG, who might be used to improve US-USSR relations.

Ladam POPOVA said that stress should be placed on women. While they have many contacts with women throughout the world, they have almost no contact with women in the United States. She asked if something might be done in regard to an exchange of women's societies.

Then Ladam POPOVA said that when TED BAYER was in the USSR, he stressed the need for more publications in the United States which deal with the USSR. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG agreed with this suggestion, but asked where money could be obtained to do this. Ladam POPOVA said that they would consider this. At this point, ALEXAI GRECHENCO interrupted and stated that this could be discussed later.

Ladam POPOVA asked that the need for more publications dealing with US-USSR relations be taken up with the leadership of the CP-USA.

By way of comment, this meeting was an exchange of opinions on how to increase contacts between the United States and the USSR in the artistic, cultural and scientific mediums in order to establish a more friendly relationship between the United States and the USSR. The Russians pointed out that while they are anxious to have the working class of the United States travel to the USSR, it is the least responsive group in the United States to travel to the USSR either officially, as a trade union delegation, or as individuals.

In connection with captioned matter, a review of the material submitted pertaining to the recent trip of CG 5824-S* to the Soviet Union indicates that the Soviets were concerned over the possibility of any publicity concerning the informant's presence in Russia. In this regard; however, it is noted that shortly prior to the 21st Congress, considerable newspaper publicity appeared in which the informant was identified by his true name. This publicity indicated that the release of this information occurred in Moscow.

As a matter of interest and for record purposes, it is requested that the Bureau be advised of the informant's knowledge as to why and how his name was released to the press.

MEETING IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA, BETWEEN MORRIS CHILDS, JAMES JACKSON, AND PAUL ROBESON

When JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS arrived in Moscow, PAUL ROBESON was ill and was in a hospital. The Russians had him isolated. He could not even be contacted by telephone. Indirectly, a message was sent to him through ESLANDA ROBESON. She had been in the Kremlin Hospital for a month and is seriously ill with a cancer condition.

Later, PAUL ROBESON was transferred to a sanitarium or rest home called Barzikha (ph). It consists of three separate sanitariums. Only very high ranking persons go to the Number 1 sanitarium, which was where PAUL ROBESON was. It is a spacious place, where rest is combined with medical treatment. It is located about thirty kilometers from Moscow.

On or about February 16, 1959, JACKSON and CHILDS travelled to the Barzikha Sanitarium to see PAUL ROBESON, after having telephoned him in advance. JACKSON and CHILDS had lunch and spent a few hours with ROBESON.

PAUL ROBESON said that he had been working too hard. He stated that he was getting one cold after another, and could not get rid of them. He stated that after New Year's, he was scheduled to go to India, then to Ghana, and then to return to London, England. Shortly after New Year's, he had a bronchial attack. The Russian physicians recommended complete rest in a hospital and then rest in a sanitarium.

ROBESON said that he had cancelled his scheduled tour and a scheduled appearance in England in Othello. He stated that he had a television show and performed many concerts in England. While he was very successful in England, he worked too hard.

Comments

JAMES JACKSON suggested to CHILDS that he not convey to ROBESON the advice of BEN DAVIS that ROBESON make a public statement that he will some day return to the United States.

The serious illness (cancer) of ESLANDA ROBESON may have contributed to the illness of PAUL ROBESON. JACKSON commented that it is possible that PAUL ROBESON had a nervous breakdown.

ПОСЛАНЦЫ ПЯТИ КОНТИНЕНТОВ

Открылась сессия Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира

В ОКТЯБРЬСКОМ зале Дома союзов сегодня утром можно было увидеть гостей из стран разных континентов. В Москву для участия в сессии Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира съехались видные общественные деятели, неутомимые борцы за мир и дружбу между народами.

Вот входит в зал вице-председатель Всемирного Совета Мира, известный английский физик Джон Бернал. А вот неутомимая деятельница движения за мир, председатель Международной демократической федерации женщин Эженн Коттон. Проходит в зал выдающийся борец за мир Поль Робсон.

Здесь же, в зале, находится президент американо-русского института в Сан-Франциско Холланд Робертс, председатель Китайского Комитета солидарности стран Азии и Африки Лю Чинен-чжи, генеральный секретарь Индонезийского комитета сторонников мира Суросо. Из далекой Австралии приехал священник методической церкви Франк Хартли.

В состав советской делегации входят вице-председатели Всемирного Совета Мира Александр Корнейчук и Илья Эренбург, председатель Советского комитета защиты мира Николай Тихонов, секретарь Всемирного Совета Мира Виктор Чинишвадзе и другие члены Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира от Советского Союза.

В работе сессии Бюро ВСМ принимают участие представители других движений, организаций и групп, выступающих за мир, в числе которых: Всемирная федерация профсоюзов, Международная демократическая федерация женщин, Всемирная федерация демократической молодежи, Совет солидарности стран Азии и Африки, Всеяпонский совет за запрещение атомного и водородного оружия, постоянный секретариат конференции народов Африки и другие.

На сессию приглашен в качестве наблюдателей ряд деятелей, не входящих во Всемирный Совет Мира, но представляющих широкие круги общественности различных стран.

Участникам сессии предстоит обсудить насущные задачи деятельности всемирного движения сторонников мира в современных условиях и наметить меры по объединению усилий всех сил мира, выступающих за ликвидацию «холодной войны» и мирное сотрудничество между государствами.

10 ЧАСОВ УТРА. Сессию Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира открывает Джон Бернал. Он предлагает почтить память председателя Всемирного Совета Мира Фредерика Жолио-Кюри. Все встают.

Слово предоставляется председателю Мосгорисполкома Н. И. Боровникову. От имени Московского Совета депутатов трудящихся, от имени всего населения Москвы он горячо приветствует прибывших в столицу Советского Союза участников сессии Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира. Он желает им плодотворной успешной работы, направленной на укрепление мира и сотрудничества между всеми народами.

С приветственной речью к участникам сессии обращается председатель Советского комитета защиты мира Н. С. Тихонов. Он приветствует всех участников сессии от имени Советского комитета защиты мира, от всех сторонников мира в Советском Союзе, от имени народов, нашей Родины. Советские люди уверены, что сессия Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира сыграет немаловажную роль в сплочении всех миролюбивых сил.

Затем выступает видный английский общественный деятель Джон Бернал. Бюро Всемирного Совета Мира продолжает свое заседание...

CG 5824-S* orally furnished the information on the following pages to SA JOHN E. KEATING on 3/7/59:

In regard to this information, the Chicago Division will make further comments pertaining to the investigation of this courier operation at a later date. These comments and suggestions are being delayed until after the reception of the results of the meeting between CG 5824-S* and EUGENE DENNIS in New York City.

It should be noted that CG 5824-S* commented to SAC AUERBACH on 3/9/59 that this new field of operation, which is akin to espionage, is a source of new worries and concern for him. He further commented that participation in this operation, plus attendance at the 21st Congress of the CPSU as an official delegate, plus participation in meetings with leading members of the Central Committee of the CPSU, means that if the CPSU should determine that he is an agent of the United States Government, they would "hound him to the ends of the world", and would not hesitate to kill him.

It is suggested that the Bureau may desire to assign a new code name to this new courier operation, and that such code name be furnished to the New York and Chicago Divisions.

CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION TO ESTABLISH A SYSTEM OF COMMUNICATIONS BETWEEN THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION AND THE COMMUNIST PARTY - USA

Meetings with BORIS PONOMAREV

MATSKO
UTEV After the meeting between the delegates from the Communist Party - USA (CP-USA) to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) and representatives of the leadership of the CPSU on February 10, 1959, MORRIS CHILDS met separately on two occasions with BORIS PONOMAREV, Head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU, and NIKOLAI MATSOUTEV (ps), Head of the North and South American Sections of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU. These two meetings were of short duration, possibly thirty minutes on each occasion. They were held at PONOMAREV's office, which is located in Building No. 2 of the headquarters of the Central Committee of the CPSU. These meetings were held to discuss some of the specific questions which the CP-USA delegation asked of the Central Committee of the CPSU in the third of three letters addressed to the Central Committee of the CPSU.

PONOMAREV stated that the CP-USA would be supplied with $100,000, which represents the balance of funds promised to the CP-USA in 1958. In addition, a promise was made that the CP-USA will receive $150,000 for 1959 up to the Convention of the CP-USA, which is scheduled for the late fall of 1959. PONOMAREV stated that additional financial arrangements can be made when the CP-USA prepares for its Convention.

It should be noted that in a separate conversation, NIKOLAI MATSOUTEV, undoubtedly carrying out instructions from the Central Committee of the CPSU, invited MORRIS CHILDS to be in Russia for the two-day holiday celebrating the 41st Anniversary of the Russian Revolution in November, 1959. The Russians expect that many Communist Parties will send delegates to China for the celebration of the 10th Anniversary of the People's Republic of China during October, 1959. The Russians also anticipate that many of these delegates will pass through Moscow on their way to and from China.

PONOMAREV wanted to know how the CP-USA records in its books the funds received from Russia and how these funds are dispensed. He was told that the CP-USA maintains two sets of books, one for open funds and one for reserve funds. The money received from Russia is entered into the financial records of the CP-USA as anonymous contributions or donations from individuals, or is given to "The Worker" and is recorded as a loan to "The Worker" from the CP-USA, or from individuals.

PONOMAREV stated that it is not a question of whether or not money is available for the CP-USA. The problem is how to get this money to the CP-USA and how it will be used. This is a problem for the CP-USA. [The CPSU is not worried about any problems that it might have as a result of disclosure of the fact that it is furnishing funds to the CP-USA; however, it is realized that if it became known to United States Government authorities that Russia was supplying funds to the CP-USA, that this could create very serious problems for the CP-USA.] PONOMAREV said that it would be necessary that more thought be given to this problem and that efforts be made to concretely work out how these funds would be transmitted. He did indicate that the $100,000 which had been previously promised for 1958 would be transmitted through Canada in the same manner that funds have already been transmitted.

PONOMAREV said that a better method would have to be devised in order to get this money into the United States. He stated that NIKOLAI MATSOUTEV would discuss this matter with CHILDS prior to CHILDS' departure from Moscow.

CHILDS impressed PONOMAREV with the fact that the CP-USA cannot have a program of work unless it knows that it will actually receive the funds promised to it. CHILDS pointed out that the CP-USA is in need of funds for the purpose of publishing a trade union magazine and a magazine dealing with the theoretical aspects of the Negro question. CHILDS also pointed out that due to a lack of funds, it was necessary for the office of "The Worker" to move into the headquarters of the CP-USA. This creates a difficult problem from a public relations standpoint, inasmuch as anyone visiting the office of "The Worker" has to enter the Party headquarters and it would be assumed that they were going to the Party headquarters instead of to "The Worker" office.

During the second meeting with PONOMAREV, he briefly talked about the struggle for peace in the United States. He asked if there is much propaganda for war in the United States and then commented that the leadership of the CPSU believes that there is such propaganda in the United States. He wanted to know if there was any propaganda to counter-act the propaganda for war. CHILDS had previously prepared a two-page memorandum, in which he detailed some of the activities for peace in the United States. In this memorandum, CHILDS pointed out that there is no effective peace organization in the United States; however, there are several pacifist organizations which are advocating the abolition of atomic weapons and nuclear warfare.

At this second meeting with PONOMAREV, he also stated that NIKHAI SUSLOV had "suggested" that every two months the CP-USA send to the CPSU an objective report of the current thinking of all sections and classes of the population in the United States in regard to the relationship between the United States and the U.S.S.R. PONOMAREV stated that they wanted any information contained in newspaper editorials on this subject, and were particularly interested in editorials appearing in newspapers outside of New York City. He commented that the CPSU was interested in the thinking in regard to USA-USSR relations of the people in the United States who are not in the Communist Party.

Meeting with a Member of the Secret Service of the Central Committee of the CPSU to Establish a System of Communication Between the CPSU and the CP-USA

After the last meeting with BORIS PONOMAREV, NIKOLAI MATSOUTEV usually saw KORIS CHILDS each day. One day he told CHILDS that a comrade would come to the apartment to discuss some matters with CHILDS. MATSOUTEV said, Some of the things he would talk to you about I have no knowledge of.

Subsequently, MATSOUTEV told CHILDS that this individual would meet with him on such-and-such a date. On the appointed day, no one visited CHILDS. Each day MATSOUTEV would say that the individual would be there the next day. This went on for three days. Finally, MATSOUTEV stated that he had learned that the individual had to leave Moscow but would definitely meet with CHILDS at 11:00 A.M. on Monday, February 23, 1959.

At 11:00 A.M. on February 23, 1959, this individual came to the apartment where CHILDS was staying. It is to be noted that by this time JAMES JACKSON had already left Moscow for a two-week trip to China.

This individual did not give his name, and NIKOLAI MATSOUTEV never mentioned his name. He is described as follows:

|------------|----------|
| Race | White |
| Height | 5'11" |
| Age | 37 or 38 |
| Complexion | Fair |

| | |
|-----------------|--------------------------|
| Hair | Light brown |
| Eyes | Blue |
| Weight | 175 to 180 lbs. |
| Characteristics | Has a long Russian nose. |

He was wearing a striped suit. His suit, shirt and tie all appeared to be American made. He was neatly dressed and was carrying a briefcase. He looked around as he entered the apartment and then walked into the study.

MURRIS He said that the leading comrades had told him to talk to CHILDS. He said that they were a little worried about the fact that CHILDS' name had appeared publicly as a delegate to the 21st Congress of the CPSU. CHILDS told him that he is known as a CP-USA member and that he attends all meetings of the leading committees of the CP-USA. Further, that he is a member of the National Committee and the District Committee of Illinois. CHILDS said that his membership in the CP-USA is not hidden in any manner. Thus, CHILDS was trying to minimize the publicity in connection with his appearance at the 21st Congress of the CPSU as a delegate from the CP-USA.

This individual then told CHILDS that he would have to be more careful than he has ever been before. He said that the F.B.I. is going to watch you because they will figure that you have been a "sleeper" in the Party. He said that the F.B.I. certainly knows your history and that you have been active in the past, but that you have not appeared publicly as a Communist Party member in the recent past.

During the discussion, it was agreed that at the present time there could not be a transfer of any authority that DENNIS and CHILDS have at the present time in connection with the handling of CP-USA funds, including funds received from Russia. He said that this matter has to be restricted and that this knowledge and authority should be retained in CHILDS' hands.

Then he stated that for a few weeks after his return to the United States, CHILDS would have to be inactive. He also suggested that CHILDS return to Chicago instead of to New York, and that he not meet with the leadership of the CP-USA immediately upon his return to the United States.

CHILDS argued that he was one of the official delegates from the CP-USA to the 21st Congress, and that this is not a secret in either the CP-USA or in the United States. CHILDS said that it would be very difficult for him to keep away from the Party leadership and to illustrate this, mentioned a message that had just been received from DENNIS instructing that CHILDS return to the United States by the first part of March, 1959. He replied that he thought that for some time CHILDS should stay away from the leading members of the Party, with the exception of EUGENE DENNIS, and that he should consult with DENNIS on this matter.

Then this individual stated that whatever arrangements are worked out, the CP-USA cannot expect them to be executed right away. He said that if we send money to Canada -- which we will -- you can transport from Canada to the United States whatever amount you think is feasible. This is your problem and not the problem of THIL LUCK. However, no contact should be made by the CP-USA with LUCK in regard to funds prior to the end of March, 1959, and this contact should not be made by MORRIS CHILDS, if it becomes necessary for someone from the United States to travel to Canada in order to transport funds from Canada to the United States.

Despite a complaint by CHILDS that the delay of transmittal of funds from Russia to the CP-USA has caused a serious financial situation in the CP-USA, he said that no funds could be transported from Canada to the United States prior to the end of March, 1959.

Next, he asked if CHILDS could build a small apparatus consisting of one or two people who would be answerable to CHILDS. He said perhaps CHILDS could talk this over with DENNIS in order to get one or two trusted people for this apparatus. MORRIS CHILDS asked if JACK CHILDS, his brother, could be used in this apparatus. He replied that while JACK CHILDS is trusted, he does not lead members of the CP-USA, and for this reason it might not be well to use him in this apparatus. He stated that while JACK CHILDS may not be known generally as a member of the CP-USA, he may be known as a CP-USA member to the F.B.I. He said that it might be possible to use JACK CHILDS as a substitute for MORRIS CHILDS in the event that MORRIS CHILDS becomes ill or for some other reason cannot perform in this apparatus.

In order to set up a system whereby the Russians could indicate to MORRIS CHILDS that they wanted to make a contact with him, he asked CHILDS if he had any business cards with him. CHILDS replied that he did and these were business cards of Arisco Associates -- one card containing the address of the New York office and the other card containing the address of the Chicago office. He then asked MORRIS CHILDS to write a note on each of these two cards, these notes to be addressed to JACK CHILDS, and to contain the following messages;

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. Read a related story at <http://www.fbi.gov/news/stories/2011/august/byte-out-of-history-communist-agent-tells-all/>.

PART 7 OF 22

"Dear Jack,

"Would you do something for my friend.
He wants a tripod for his television.

"Morris"

"Dear Jack,

"This will introduce a friend of mine.
He may want to purchase something from you.

"Morris"

The individual stated that these cards would serve to indicate to JACK CHILDS that he was dealing with a Russian representative and that he should receive and carry out any instructions received from him. These cards will be used only if it becomes necessary to contact JACK CHILDS because something happened to the arrangements to meet with MORRIS CHILDS.

He then asked if MORRIS CHILDS knew anyone else living in New York City who might be used as persons through whom messages for contacts might be transmitted. MORRIS CHILDS mentioned LENA and MARCELO SCHERER, and gave him their address and told him that he would tell the SCHERERS that they might receive a message for him in the future.

He then discussed, as had PONOMAREV, the method of entering the funds received from Russia into the financial records of the CP-USA. CHILDS told him about the open funds and the reserve funds and the fact that money received from Russia was listed as contributions from anonymous contributors or as loans from individuals for "The Worker". He knew that ISADORE WOFSY was in charge of the reserve fund operations of the CP-USA.

CHILDS told him that EUGENE DENNIS and ELEANOR WINTER, in addition to CHILDS, knew about all the financial transactions of the CP-USA, but that only DENNIS and CHILDS knew the source of the funds which are received from Russia. CHILDS pointed out that while ELIZABETH MASCOLO, JACK CHILDS, and the wife of MORRIS CHILDS have been involved in the transmittal of funds from Canada to the United States, that none of them know the original source of these funds. The Central Committee of the CPSU representative stated that the present relationship and communication between the CP-USA and the CPSU is not good. CHILDS agreed and said that with ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and MORRIS CHILDS in Russia, there was no one in the United States with which the Party could communicate. The Soviet representative agreed with CHILDS, and said that it is necessary to work out a communication system and a system to transfer money; however, this has to be done slowly.

He reached into his briefcase and pulled out a map of New York City. He asked how well CHILDS knew New York City and if CHILDS had any suggestions on how contact could be made. CHILDS stated that he thought that large buildings in the heart of the city were a possibility. A meeting could be arranged in a bar or in a restaurant or there could be a quick exchange of documents in a corridor of a large building in mid-town Manhattan.

The Soviet representative replied, I do not agree. Not that this is a bad idea, but we have learned that in a large city the chance of running into some acquaintance is greater. He said, I think that it is better to arrange for the first contact and then decide about future contacts later.

Then the Soviet representative issued the following instructions to CHILDS. On April 14, 1959, you should go to the Bronx, and at 4:45 P.M. be at 233rd and Niered (ph) Street. Gary's Restaurant is located on the corner. It has two entrances, one of which is on Niered Street. In going to this address, do not use an automobile, not even a rented automobile. I suggest that you take the White Plains Subway. This will make it more complicated for the F.B.I. They will be watching you. If you have the slightest suspicion that you are being followed, do not go to the address. Be careful. If the contact is not made on Tuesday, April 14, 1959, then you should return on Thursday, April 16, 1959. This arrangement will apply only for the first contact. In any subsequent contacts, if a meeting is not held at the appointed time and date, then you should appear at the same place at the same time one month later.

On April 14, 1959, you should wear a plain bandaid on the left index finger. It would be good for you to practice. I suggest that the next time you are in New York, you or you and your wife go to this restaurant so that you will know the area. The Bronx Parkway is nearby. If you sit on the benches in the park, sit near old people. Do not go into the restaurant on April 14, 1959. Someone will come along the park and speak to you in perfect English, and with no accent. This person will say, "Do you know where the Morris Restaurant is?" You will reply, "Yes, I am going in that direction. Come with me and I will show you where it is." As you walk along with this person, he will say, "Nikolai sends his regards". This will elicit the recognition. You will be taken into a car or possibly into the restaurant.

Then he stated that CHILDS should be thinking of places where meetings could take place, even though these meetings might last for only a moment or two. Then he drew the following map:

He said you should look for a place where two roads run parallel and there is a road intersecting them in the manner indicated in the diagram. Thus, both cars can approach from one road going in one direction and then cross over to the other road and go in the opposite direction. This place should be in the New York area and it could be on Long Island.

The Soviet representative then stated that CHILDS will be in charge of this communication apparatus. CHILDS will be in charge of any material whether messages or money received from the Soviets through this communication system.

Then he stated that CHILDS should talk to Comrade DENNIS to find out whether or not DENNIS knows of a comrade who is not well known and who could act as a go-between between CHILDS and the Russians, instead of having CHILDS do the leg work. He asked if CHILDS thought that DENNIS would be able to select such a person. CHILDS said that he could not give an off-hand answer, but knows that he, CHILDS, would not want someone that he could not trust.

By way of comment, it is possible that DENNIS will suggest that CHILDS handle all details in regard to this communication apparatus, since DENNIS probably will not want to become involved in it over to the extent of having knowledge of its operation.

The Soviet representative also stated that he had learned that the CP-USA is changing the bills it receives from Russia. He said that there is nothing wrong with this money and that it was not necessary to convert it into other bills or bills of other denominations.

He stressed that CHILDS should not use his own car in making any meeting with the Russians, nor should he rent any automobile unless it was rented in someone else's name.

Reference is made to the Chicago letter to the Bureau, dated 3/17/59, which sets forth six suggestions to the Bureau in connection with the activities of CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* in setting up an apparatus for an exchange of information between the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) and the Communist Party, USA (CP, USA).

With reference to the first suggestion of the Chicago Office that the Bureau be the office of origin in this matter and issue instructions to the Chicago Division and the New York Division concerning the investigation to be conducted, the New York Office does not believe that this is necessary. The New York Office will keep the Bureau immediately advised concerning all developments in this operation and clear with the Bureau any investigative plans developing out of the operation as it progresses.

With reference to the Chicago suggestion that CG 5824-S* be given complete authority to decide whether or not he feels the meet should be made on April 14 or April 16, 1959, it is not felt that this is a matter which should be left to CG 5824-S* to decide. At this point, the New York Office sees no reason why CG 5824-S* should not try to make the meet on April 14. As a matter of fact CG 5824-S* may have some difficulty in making the meet on April 14, since a survey of the area reflects that the nearest park benches to the pertinent area are approximately one mile away. The Bureau and the Chicago Office will be furnished with complete information concerning the pertinent area by separate communication.

The Chicago Office recommends that no attempt be made to have any kind of surveillance to cover the meet. The New York Office feels that it has the responsibility to attempt to identify the individual who meets CG 5824-S*, since the latter may not be in a position to furnish the Bureau with the identity of this individual. We are presently endeavoring to make arrangements so that we can with complete security obtain a photograph of the individual meeting with CG 5824-S* in order to assist in the identification of this individual.

The suggestion that the Bureau assign a code name to this operation appears to be a matter which can be decided once the operation gets under way and it can be determined whether the designation of such a code name would be practical. At the present time the use of the SOLO caption would appear to suffice.

The New York Office has no objection to SA JOHN E. KEATING coming to New York for contacts with CG 5824-S. It may be well for SA KEATING to be in New York City on the occasion of the first contact and thereafter it could be determined whether it will be necessary for him to remain in New York City for future contacts. The New York Office has two agents who are acquainted with both CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* and could probably carry on if it appears that the expense of having SA KEATING come to New York from Chicago is not entirely necessary.

With reference to the dissemination of information that is developed from this operation, the New York Office would of course be guided by the Bureau's instructions.

The New York Office is thoroughly aware of the extremely delicate nature of this operation and is proceeding with the proper caution and discretion in planning the handling of this matter.

CG 5824-S*, on 3/9/59, made available to SA JOHN E. KEATING, for photostating, the 2/3/59 edition of "Gudok" (ph), the trade union newspaper of the railroad industry in Russia. Gudok is the Russian word for whistle.

CG 5824-S* had advised that JAMES JACKSON made a speech at an electric railroad engine shop in Moscow during a recess in the sessions of the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The photograph of JACKSON addressing the employees of this railroad shop appears in this newspaper.

One photostat copy of this item is enclosed herewith to the Bureau and to the New York Division. The Chicago copy is located in Chicago file 134-46-Sub-B-1B8.

MEETING IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA, BETWEEN CP-USA DELEGATES AND CP OF ISRAEL DELEGATES TO THE
21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU

On February 15, 1959, at approximately 4:30 P.M., SAMUEL MIKUNIS, General Secretary of the Communist Party of Israel, and ENIL/HABIBI, member of the Secretariat and Polit Bureau of the Communist Party of Israel, met with JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS, Communist Party - USA delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, at the apartment where JACKSON and CHILDS were staying in Moscow. The discussion was conducted during dinner, which was served in the apartment. HABIBI is an Arab. MIKUNIS did most of the talking. There were no Russians present during this discussion.

There was a general discussion concerning PAUL NOVICK and his attitude on the Jewish question. The CP-USA delegates tried to influence the Israeli delegates to "work on NOVICK" when NOVICK visits Israel. MIKUNIS promised to do this.

MIKUNIS and HABIBI are both members of Parliament in Israel. MIKUNIS said that the Communist Party is having a tough time in Israel as far as government oppression is concerned. The Communists in Israel are not only called Moscow agents, but are called agents of the Arabs. MIKUNIS said that the Communist Party of Israel is the only Party in Israel fighting against the official government policies.

MIKUNIS asked questions about the current situation in the Communist Party - USA and about WILLIAM Z. FOSTER. Concerning FOSTER, CHILDS and JACKSON said that he is sick. They stated that while FOSTER is an honored member of the Communist Party - USA, he is a sick man and is not in the daily leadership of the Party.

MIKUNIS and HABIBI were interested in finding out what the Communist Party - USA might be able to do in order to give the Communist Party of Israel a lift. They asked, How, through your Jewish Commission or any other organization with Jewish members, can you give us some support?

JACKSON and CHILDS said that the Communist Party - USA might get some organizations to pass resolutions condemning the Israeli Histadruth (phonetic - trade union federation), which suspends Communists from trade unions. For example, the Communist Party - USA might get resolutions passed in various Jewish organizations in the United States which are composed of workers. This resolution would condemn the suspension of Communists from trade unions. The resolution would then be sent to Histadruth.

NIKUNIS and HABIBI said that the Communist Party - USA should take up the question of the treatment of Arabs in Israel. They stated that in Israel the Arabs are segregated and live under martial law. They are not governed by the civil laws. Arabs can be picked up at any time and placed in a camp or other places where they are under military guard and are tried under military laws. They added that the Communist Party of Israel has a good number of Arabs in its ranks. If the Communist Party - USA could get some resolutions passed which protested the treatment of Arabs, this would help the Communist Party of Israel, since Arabs are more persecuted than Israelis in the Communist Party of Israel. They commented that the government of Israel is very sensitive to such protests.

Then NIKUNIS and HABIBI said that financially the Communist Party of Israel is in a very tough spot. They said that they do not want the Communist Party - USA to conduct any financial drives for the Communist Party of Israel. They pointed out, however, that some South American progressives have, in the past, collected money for children's kindergartens, etc. They said that some other organizations, close to the Communist Party, run institutions, such as kindergartens or co-operative farms called Kibbutson. These organizations are having a difficult time keeping these institutions going because they do not get any money from other organizations. They pointed out that the United Jewish Appeal, which raises millions of dollars in the United States, distributes money among political parties and among the Kibbutson. All parties, except the Communist Party, receive some funds from the United Jewish Appeal. Therefore, any institutions influenced by the Communists do not receive any money from the funds of the United Jewish Appeal. Thus, the Communist Party - USA might start a drive in the United States to acquaint the Jews in the United States as to how money in the funds of the United Jewish Appeal are being used or misused in Israel. At the same time to see if the Communist Party - USA can collect money for the kindergartens and Kibbutson in order to give them a financial lift.

They asserted that they have opened a club for the intelligencia in Tel Aviv. This club is under the sponsorship of Tar Duth Laam (ph), which is a general, progressive, cultural organization. The Jewish cultural organizations in the United States might be asked to keep in contact with Tar Duth Laam in order to give them support of some sort.

Then MIKUNIS and HABIBI said that they would like to receive some material from the Communist Party - USA, such as "Jewish Currents" and any other material which the Communist Party - USA could send and which might be of interest to them. They said that this material should not be sent directly to the Party, but should be sent to the Communist Party daily, "Kol-Haam", Post Office Box 1843, Tel Aviv, Israel.

MIKUNIS and HABIBI said that the Russians recognize that they are surrounded by the Arabs. The Russians know how hard it is for the Communist Party of Israel to work. However, they stated that they are winning well known personalities to their ranks. They mentioned one Dr. SNEE, who was at one time a Zionist and who is now a member of their leading committee.

They mentioned the emigration of Jews from Rumania. They also discussed the rumor that the Soviet Union was going to permit some Jews to emigrate from Russia to Israel, but they said that it was a fabrication. Later, a statement from the Soviet Government confirmed that this was just a rumor.

They said that the Jews who immigrated to Israel from Rumania are having a difficult time. Some of them live in the open. With the unemployment situation in Israel, many of them find it difficult to obtain employment. Thus, while many of them have come to Israel with the hope of improving their economic conditions, they have become disappointed. After they have been in Israel a while, the Communist Party is able to win the sympathy of some of these people. They commented that people who come from the Socialist countries make good Communist Party members in Israel after they have become disillusioned.

In conclusion, MIKUNIS and HABIBI said that their inner Party situation is pretty good. The Party leadership is united. They have almost no inner Party problems. Twenty percent of their membership is Arab. Thus, they have the largest Arab membership of any political party in Israel.

Reurlet 3-19-59 in which you set forth certain comments and observations regarding various problems which have arisen in connection with captioned matter.

You pointed out in relet that CG 5824-S* as well as his wife is in extremely poor physical condition at the present time, as a result of which he is facing difficulty not only from a personal standpoint but also in fulfilling certain Party obligations. You specifically indicated that due to his condition, we should not be inhuman and push him for additional information at this time but rather we should let him develop the situation according to his own best judgment.

The Bureau desires to reiterate at this time as has been done on numerous occasions in the past that the health of CG 5824-S* is of vital concern to us. Obviously, our main interest is in his complete recovery if possible since in his present condition he is of minimum value to us. Nowhere in relet, however, did you make any specific recommendations as to any possible solutions to this situation. As you are aware, the Bureau on 3-16-59 telephonically authorized you to pay the transportation costs of the informant and his wife for a vacation trip to either Texas or Oregon. Anything else that the Bureau can do to alleviate and improve the present status of the informant's health will be given due consideration. Before the Bureau can take any further steps in this regard, however, it is necessary that you offer concrete suggestions. You are instructed, therefore, to immediately analyze this over-all matter and decide upon what you consider to be the proper course of action to be followed and submit specific comments and recommendations to the Bureau. Regarding the possible vacation trip of the informant, you still have not indicated as to whether or not the informant is going to take this trip. In your reply, specifically set forth your recommendations in this regard along with any other measures which you feel can be taken to facilitate the informant's return to good health.

100-428091

In relet you also raised the problem of the issuance of a subpoena to the informant and again referred to the recent Victor Riesel article in which the informant was mentioned. According to relet, the informant feels that the reiteration and the authority of the comments made in this article are of such a character that the Russians would back away from him immediately were he to be subpoenaed under the present circumstances.

With regard to the issuance of a subpoena to the subject, you are reminded that no such subpoena has been issued to date. You are also reminded that the informant is not alone in this respect since there are a number of Party functionaries who have recently traveled to the Soviet Union and who are not being subpoenaed at this time. Your attention is again called to your previous statement in this matter as set forth in your letter of 9-30-58 to the effect that if the informant should travel to Russia under his own name it would be disastrous from a security standpoint to have everyone issued a subpoena except him. The Bureau desires that this over-all matter be fully and thoroughly considered and when you have arrived at a definite conclusion regarding the issuance of a subpoena to the informant, your observations and recommendations should be furnished to the Bureau.

Regarding the Riesel article, the Bureau does not understand your continued concern. As you have already been advised, this article had been prepared quite some time prior to its release and was based upon questions asked by Riesel. In addition, it revealed no new information inasmuch as the Party itself had identified the informant as one of its official delegates to Moscow and a substantial amount of publicity had come out on this matter prior to the Riesel article. As has been our policy down through the years, the Bureau will continue to utilize the utmost care concerning the security of our informants including CG 5824-S*. We have consistently handled the information obtained from him with due regard to his safety. Where possible, we have exploited his information when it was felt we could do so with full security to him. The Bureau intends to continue this policy.

Letter to Chicago
100-428091

In connection with the development of an apparatus by CG 5824-S* and the need for him to locate an additional man for this apparatus, you pointed out in relet that to date neither the informant nor his brother, NY 694-S*, have been able to think of anyone who could qualify for this assignment. You also indicated that you had discussed with CG 5824-S* the possibility that the Bureau could possibly be of assistance in this regard by selecting an appropriate individual for this assignment. According to your letter, however, this discussion met with completely negative results.

After due consideration, the Bureau has concluded that the matter of an additional man for this apparatus is one to be handled by CG 5824-S* and NY 694-S* since we are hesitant to create a situation which could possibly add an additional security hazard to this operation. This particular phase should be closely followed by you and every possible assistance afforded the informant. In the final analysis, however, it is necessarily a matter which must be worked out by him and his brother.

In relet you requested that a personal letter of commendation be furnished for exhibition to the informant for his recent contribution to the Bureau. You pointed out that the Bureau's teletype of commendation which was furnished you on 3-18-59 could not be utilized on that date due to the meeting time arrangements which you had with the informant. In this regard, it is noted that this entire matter reflected a decided lack of foresight on your part. The Bureau does not make a habit of disseminating communications of this type promiscuously to our informants and in each such instance careful and deliberate consideration must be given to the merits of the situation. In this instance, however, you failed to properly anticipate the need for such a communication and only at the last moment did you telephonically request the Bureau to transmit an appropriate teletype to be exhibited to the informant. Obviously, matters of this nature cannot be afforded the attention they deserve when handled on a last-minute basis. Inasmuch as the Bureau's teletype of 3-18-59 is still in your possession, the Bureau fails to understand the necessity of forwarding a personal letter of appreciation.

Letter to Chicago
RE: SOLO
100-428091

Apparently you felt on 2-18-59 that the teletype was suitable for the purpose and nowhere in relet have you furnished any reason as to why it is no longer deemed so. If you have specific reasons as to why a personal letter of appreciation should be utilized in this instance rather than the afore-mentioned teletype, your specific observations in this regard should be submitted.

Along these same lines, you suggested that the Bureau should again furnish the informant an award in the amount of $1,000 in return for his extremely valuable services in the recent past as well as the potential for the future. On many previous occasions, you have advised that money is of no concern to the informant and in relet you failed to set forth any indication that the informant has changed his thinking in this regard. The Bureau fully realizes the magnitude of the recent services of the informant. It was with this thought in mind that authority was extended to pay the transportation costs of the informant and his wife which will undoubtedly run into several hundred dollars on what actually amounts to a vacation with pay. The Bureau feels that through this deviation from our normal procedures, we have clearly demonstrated to the informant not only the value and appreciation which we hold for his most recent activities on our behalf but also our sincere interest in his welfare.

With regard to this over-all matter, the Bureau is fully cognizant that difficulties and problems will develop from time to time especially in view of the complex nature of the informant's instructions to set up a clandestine apparatus coupled with his physical condition. It is a basic principle, however, that in most instances the problem of handling this informant is of necessity one for the Chicago Office. Many years of experience have repeatedly proven that our problems are kept to a minimum by developing and retaining the respect of our informants. Experience has also shown us that such respect cannot be bought with money but rather by good, clear guidance and firm control. As I have indicated in the past, the Bureau certainly desires suggestions and ideas from our informants regarding the various phases of our security work. It is mandatory, however, that our informants are fully aware that while operating in behalf of the Bureau, it is expected that it is the Bureau which will make the final decisions.

For the benefit of the Bureau as to the functioning of the Chicago Office and the status of CG 5824-S* at the present time, the following information is furnished to the Bureau on three major points. I have discussed all three of these situations myself personally with this informant, and the conclusions set forth below are my earnest opinion as to what appears at this time, with the data that we know, the best possible decision. -

1. Health of CG 5824-S*

b7D

In the year and a half that I have been in Chicago, and from talking to the contact agent who has been handling this individual for four years, we have never seen this couple in worse physical condition.

As the Bureau knows, CG 5824-S* is a broken man physically. He is on the fringe edge of pneumonia at the present time, completely worn down from the difference in the climate of his recent trip, and feels that his heart condition has been aggravated. As the Bureau files will reflect, he has a history of tuberculosis and with his present severe complaint of dry pleurisy, obviously is in very poor physical condition. His absence from his usual duties because of the trip has put him in the position of being behind in his regular work for us, and he feels that he has got to catch up as to things that have been going on due to the absence. His desire to furnish us complete information, which he has done in the form of several hundred pages of reports, has been shown, but it is obvious that with the unfinished business that he has in New York, i.e., reports to NEC and DENNIS, plus his desire to set up an apparatus, coupled with his physical condition, have just about got him on the ragged edge. I personally think that the man will not recover his normal situation and momentum for some considerable period, and obviously, we cannot be inhuman and push him on much of anything as we have now gotten just about the entire story of data to report from his trip, with the remaining being entirely up to him, i.e., for him to develop the situation according to his own best judgment.

not satisfy her. The Bureau should note, of course, that CG 5824-S*' actions and decisions, to a degree, are colored by her thinking. She is as desirous in the large sense as he is of being of every possible assistance to the country, but in her present condition it is not even feasible to talk business with her.

In summary, these people are faced physically with some obviously untenable situations--

a. He has been told to go underground for a period of time.

b. He cannot leave to go underground while

[REDACTED]

c. They have the problems of the handling of the home as well as the necessity for him to complete his business with DENNIS; to say nothing of,

d. His desire to immediately institute an apparatus.

All in all, we have just got to nurse this situation along with him, understanding our desire for his personal health and well being, and play it by ear, recognizing that some of his situation is colored by the physical status of his wife and himself at this time.

CG 134-46 Sub B

2. The Problem of the Issuance of A Subpoena

In complete summary as of this time, it is his complete and studied belief that the issuance alone of a subpoena would not only be completely unwise, but in his opinion, would completely destroy the possibility of his setting up an apparatus.

We have discussed this situation with him at length and eventually it is possible that the answer might be that he should get a subpoena (to which obviously, in his opinion, and from DENNIS' comments, he would plead the 5th Amendment), but that is not the problem at this point. He feels that the reiteration and the authority of the comments made in the REISEL article are of such a character that the Russians would back away from him immediately were he to be subpoenaed under the present circumstances.

a. He feels that no subpoena should logically be directed at him as so-called "small fry" in the minds of the public and possibly of the Committee until after action has been taken as to the leaders in public opinion, i.e., JACKSON, MORRIS, TRACHTENBERG, etc. Obviously, their subpoenas should not be issued because there has been no recent publicity about them and probably should await their return to the United States. A good ground in connection with this would be the results from the search and inquiry by Customs at the time of their return as the first step in this.

b. He feels that from his personal point of view of the Party, he could adequately explain the lack of a subpoena issued for him provided that subpoenas are only issued to part of the total group whose names must have been obtained from the State Department for journey to Russia. This would not be so, of course, if he were the only one out of the total group not subpoenaed. It is suggested that the Bureau can make this kind of an arrangement where it is necessary to insure that only part are subpoenaed.

Another phase of the situation is the difference between a subpoena actually being issued and it being served, and with him in a position of being temporarily underground for the next several months possibly, it is conceivable that with disclosures they might get from the rest, as set forth above, he might be lost in the shuffle and not be served, and thus not get any publicity.

c. CG 5824-S* feels that as far as possible, the Bureau should insure that there be no publicity whatsoever concerning him or any activity which conceivably could be traced to him if he is to be able to follow out the Russians' instructions, keep DENNIS satisfied and happy, while he inaugurates the possibilities of a new apparatus.

His current thinking, in view of the developments, i.e., the publicity and his current assignments, plus our own present considered opinion, is that the Bureau should not return his name to the Committee along with the current list requesting addresses for fear that this temporary small point of advantage to the Bureau would endanger his whole future.

I might note that it is of considerable concern to him that the REISEL article came out the day he flew in here from Paris with his pockets stuffed full of notes and materials from the Congress, plus gifts from the Russians. It is his feeling that had it come out one day sooner, Customs would have been watching for the return of such an individual who had been reiterated and lately publicized as being a delegate and would have blown up the situation.

3. The Development of An Additional New Man in a Potential Apparatus

I have discussed this matter with him in considerable detail. He flatly states himself that he has no one that he can think of who could fill the bill. He has requested NY 694-S to similarly endeavor to select an individual which also has had negative results. I have discussed with him the possibility of the Bureau being of assistance in this regard, having in mind the possibility that some arrangements could be made for someone we could introduce into the situation to be utilized, with completely negative results.

CG 5824-S* advises me that it is necessary that somebody be found who is known to both he and his brother; who is also known to DENNIS; who is completely trusted by all three of them; and who has been in the position of being a member of the group over a long period of time, i.e., 20 or 25 years.

I even discussed with him the possibility that someone from another part of the country might feasibly be moved to New York under special arrangement. He states that in theory, this could be possible provided there were such an individual, but as a practical matter, he doubts that the control of the Party is such now as it used to be, and doubts that they would physically move to New York. As an example, he states, "Look at the difficulty in the problem of transferring headquarters from New York to Chicago." This statement by him appears reasonable when the Bureau stops to think of the number of those in the underground who did not follow instructions and who improperly came out of cover.

Over and beyond the possibility of having such a new individual as a contact man for a potential apparatus, I have the feeling that this is a long time problem to be worked out, if it is capable of solution at all, in that the contact will be so intermittent, spasmodic and irregular that I doubt whether it would require the expansion of the apparatus by going to the potential danger spot of adding another man to it. Yet, I think we have got to leave the problem at this time entirely up to CG 5824-S*. We did not help him when he made his contacts in Russia. He sold himself in every respect without our assistance, and it appears the better to me at this time to see how things develop without any intervention by us.

The Bureau's teletype of commendation was unable to be logically delivered due to meeting time arrangements. As a consequence, it will not be utilized.

at this time as the correct opportunity for such a teletype appears to have gone by the board. Instead, it is requested that the Bureau furnish a letter, as was done before, directed to him for commendation, which we would show to him and again maintain in the files of the Chicago Division. A suggested form of such a letter is attached inasmuch as this office feels that the wording therein would appeal to this sensitive type of individual in his present circumstances.

Further, in view of the tremendous information and the possibilities of a new apparatus heretofore not even contemplated, which he himself has developed, plus the commendation he has received from the Party and the tremendous gifts from the Russians, it is felt that the Bureau should again furnish a $1,000 incentive award in nature which should be handled as separate from the letter of commendation and concern for his physical situation.

The comments of the Bureau are invited.

Mr. Morris Childs
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. Childs:

I again want to express my personal appreciation to you on the occasion of another highly successful mission on behalf of your country and the Federal Bureau of Investigation. I have personally reviewed the highly valuable results of your efforts, which are over and above those which we come to expect from the most patriotic American. It is fully realized that such outstanding accomplishments were not achieved without a serious jeopardy to your own physical well being. All of your associates want you to take all necessary precautions to safeguard your health.

You can be assured that the material resulting from this outstanding accomplishment is being carefully analyzed so that it can be fully utilized to the best advantage for the over-all welfare of the United States. I want to take this occasion also to inform you that I will continue to personally follow all of your activities in this field which is so important to all Americans at this time.

Sincerely,

INFORMATION CONCERNING FORMER MEMBERS OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY - USA NOW IN DENMARK

In a discussion with unidentified members of the delegation of the Communist Party of Denmark to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, MORRIS CHILDS was told that ~~NILS KJAR~~ (ph), a former member of the Communist Party - USA who left Illinois in the 1930's, is now an old man but is still active in the Communist Party in Denmark.

It was also learned that ~~ANDY OVERGAARD~~ and his wife, ~~CLARISSE MICHAELSON~~ (ph), were "kicked out of Mexico". While they were in Italy during January and February, 1950, they have purchased a house in Copenhagen, Denmark.

ACTIVITIES OF MORRIS CHILDS AND JAMES
JACKSON IN EUROPE ENROUTE TO MOSCOW, RECEPTION IN MOSCOW, AND PROBLEMS OF
CHARLIE LOMAN AND PAUL KOVICK

Paris, France

After arrival in Paris, France, at 8:30 A.M. on January 13, 1959, MORRIS CHILDS went to the Claridge Hotel. By coincidence, JAMES JACKSON was staying at the same hotel.

On January 13, 1959, JAMES JACKSON went to the Soviet Embassy in Paris. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG was supposed to have arranged for a visa for JACKSON. While TRACHTENBERG did not do this, the Soviet Embassy had JACKSON's name and gave him a visa. JACKSON asked them to notify the Czech Embassy in Brussels that MORRIS CHILDS was in Paris and would go to the Czech Embassy in Brussels to obtain his visa. During the evening of January 13, 1959, JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS toured Paris night clubs with OLLIE HARRINGTON, a Negro and long time friend of JACKSON.

On January 14, 1959, JACKSON and CHILDS left Paris by plane for Brussels, Belgium.

Brussels, Belgium

During the early morning hours of January 15, 1959, JACKSON and CHILDS arrived in Brussels and stayed at the Amigo Hotel.

During January 15, 1959, CHILDS went to the Czech Embassy and obtained a visa. While at the Czech Embassy, CHILDS was asked if he knew LENA KAHNEMAN and if she were all right. After some exchange of conversation, it was determined that this was the name being used by BESS MASCOLO. Later, she was seen in Moscow with TIM BUCK. She did not attend the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU), but did go on some tours of Russia with the Canadian delegation. During the latter part of February, 1959, and the first part of March, 1959, TIM BUCK and BESS MASCOLO were touring Czechoslovakia.

At the Czechoslovakian Travel Bureau, CHILDS and JACKSON purchased airline tickets to Prague, and asked the Travel Bureau to telephone Prague to have someone meet them there. They left Brussels during the afternoon of January 15, 1959.

Prague, Czechoslovakia

During the late afternoon of January 15, 1959, CHILDS and JACKSON arrived in Prague. They were met by VLADISLAV KATZMAN, a translator. He said that he had learned to speak English while working with the United States Army when it was stationed in Czechoslovakia. He had a Tatra (ph) automobile, which has an air cooled engine in the rear and is the type of car which is being exported to Africa by Czechoslovakia. CHILDS and JACKSON were taken to the Praha Hotel. This hotel is not identified by any signs on the exterior of the building. It is located on a side street around the corner from the headquarters of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia. It is near a large, medieval defense tower. JACKSON and CHILDS were both assigned a suite of rooms which contained a short wave radio set and record player. Meals were served in the dining room of the hotel. All services were without charge.

The Central Committee of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia sent ALDRICH KADERKA, Head of the Western European Bureau of the Central Committee of the CP of Czechoslovakia, and another member of the Central Committee to visit with JACKSON and CHILDS. The unidentified Central Committee member did not say anything during the discussion.

During a general discussion concerning HARRY HAYWOOD, KADERKA stated that HAYWOOD had been in Czechoslovakia at one time. KADERKA invited CHILDS and JACKSON to spend at least a week in Czechoslovakia on their return from Moscow. KADERKA attended the meeting of the Executive Committee of the World Council for Peace, which was held in Moscow after the 21st Congress of the CPSU. KADERKA returned from Moscow to Prague in the same plane in which CHILDS was a passenger.

During the evening of January 15, 1959, JACKSON and CHILDS visited a gypsy restaurant and other cafes in Prague. On January 16, 1959, they went to the Soviet Embassy and saw the person who is second in charge of the Embassy. CHILDS recognized him as a person who had been in the Soviet Consulate in New York City in 1947. He arranged for JACKSON and CHILDS to fly to Moscow in a Jet TU 104-B on January 17, 1959.

While in Prague, CHILDS and JACKSON saw V. J. JEROME and visited the headquarters of the "World Marxist Review". These meetings have been previously described.

Flight from Prague to Moscow and Arrival in Moscow

Ex-President LAZARO CARDENAS, of Mexico, was on the flight from Prague to Moscow. He was accompanied by his son and one CARRILLO (ph). CARRILLO talked as though he were a Communist sympathizer. Both CARDENAS and CARRILLO were raving about the Soviet Union. They had been in Moscow, went to Prague, and were returning to Moscow in order to fly to Peking, China. They were not told that JACKSON and CHILDS are leading members of the Communist Party - USA.

JACKSON and CHILDS arrived in Moscow on January 17, 1959. There was a large delegation at the airport to meet CARDENAS and another delegation to meet JACKSON and CHILDS. ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG and GEORGE MORRIS, who had just arrived in Moscow from Czechoslovakia on the morning of January 17, 1959, were at the airport, along with NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS and ALEXAI GRENCHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU. They were also accompanied by YURI VICTOROVICH (ph), a translator.

The American delegation left the airport in two curtained cars. GRENCHENCO, CHILDS, and VICTOROVICH were in one car, and MOSTOVETS, JACKSON, MORRIS, and TRACHTENBERG were in the other car. They were taken to the third entrance at 9 Gorki Street. This entrance is guarded. JACKSON and CHILDS were assigned to Apartment #33 on the fifth floor. TRACHTENBERG and his wife had been in Apartment #32 since New Year's Eve. MORRIS had joined the TRACHTENBERGS on January 17, 1959.

On January 18, 1959, TRACHTENBERG and his wife and MORRIS were moved to the Sovetskaya Hotel. They were given luxurious rooms in the hotel. A woman translator was assigned to TRACHTENBERG and MORRIS, both of whom speak Russian. ALEXAI GRENCHENCO was assigned to JACKSON and CHILDS.

When MOSTOVETS was asked where most of the delegates of the other Communist Parties were staying, he replied that most of the delegates from the fraternal Communist Parties were being housed in the Kremlin. While it would be more convenient if you stayed there, it might create problems if some correspondents found out about it. So, if you agree, we think that it would be inadvisable for you to stay in the Kremlin.

NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS asked who were the official delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU from the Communist Party - USA. He was told JACKSON and CHILDS were the official delegates, but that there should be no publicity for CHILDS.

KOSTOVETS took the passports of JACKSON and CHILDS. The others had already surrendered their passports. The passport of CHILDS was not returned until the day before he was to leave Russia. Without a passport, one cannot move around the Soviet Union. When the passport of CHILDS was returned, it was not stamped so as to indicate that he had been in the Soviet Union. No reason was given for this. By way of comment, it might be that they are playing safe because CHILDS has some knowledge of the secret work of the CPSU. It might also be that they thought that if CHILDS has to travel in countries in South America, it would be better if his passport did not show that he had visited Russia. Therefore, the passport of CHILDS shows that during the time he was actually in Russia, he was in Czechoslovakia.

Problem of CHARLIE LOMAN

On January 18, 1959, NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS came to the apartment of JACKSON and CHILDS in order to discuss CHARLIE LOMAN. He said that LOMAN was in Moscow and had asked to attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU. JACKSON and CHILDS said that they thought that LOMAN had left the United States to go to Accra and to the Cameroons. The Russians did not know that the State Committee of the New York Communist Party District removed LOMAN from all posts and that this action had been endorsed by the National Executive Committee of the Communist Party - USA. KOSTOVETS asked what they should do about LOMAN. CHILDS and JACKSON said they thought he should go home.

Later, ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG saw LOMAN in a theatre and told LOMAN that he thought that LOMAN should go home.

Subsequently, it was agreed that JACKSON would go to see LOMAN. KOSTOVETS went with JACKSON to see LOMAN, but KOSTOVETS did not participate in the discussion. JACKSON told LOMAN that he should go home or otherwise he might be expelled from the Communist Party. LOMAN had prepared a statement attacking the leadership of the Communist Party - USA, and said he wanted to present the viewpoint of the real leadership of the Communist Party in the United States. LOMAN called JACKSON a Negro Simon Legree who was using a whip to send him back to the chain gang.

In still another conversation, NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS asked JACKSON and CHILDS what should be done about LOMAN. He was told that the Russians had to get LOMAN out of Russia, otherwise he would spread factionalism. KOSTOVETS then told LOMAN that he had to leave Russia and that if he were a disciplined Party member, he would leave without trouble.

It was learned that the Russians had treated LOMAN well, but that LOMAN had started to treat the servants in an arrogant fashion. The Russians agreed that in the future they would ask the Communist Party - USA leadership about persons coming to Russia ostensibly as representatives of the leadership of the Party.

Problem of PAUL NOVICK and the Jewish Question

Also on January 18, 1959, NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS came back to the apartment of JACKSON and CHILDS. He was very much excited about the problem of PAUL NOVICK. NOVICK, who was in Russia as a guest of the "Literary Gazette", had said that there is a Jewish question in the Soviet Union. MOSTOVETS said, As far as we are concerned, there is no Jewish question in the Soviet Union. MOSTOVETS said, We rehabilitated those Jews who were wronged. Injustices were righted. NOVICK is acting for Zionist imperialists. Wherever NOVICK goes in the Soviet Union, he tries to find out how many Jews are in a factory, how they are being treated, etc. Then MOSTOVETS said, NOVICK will return to Moscow from Leningrad tomorrow. We want him to go home.

It was agreed that TRACHTENBERG would talk to NOVICK. TRACHTENBERG hinted to NOVICK that if NOVICK did not change his ways, if he did not see that the Seven-Year Plan is a wonderful advance to Communism, if he kept on probing the Jewish question, then he might outlive his welcome in the U.S.S.R.

NOVICK said that he had attended a New Year's Eve reception in the Kremlin, at which PAUL ROBESON was the honored guest. ROBESON sang some songs, including some in Jewish. In the account of this reception in the newspapers, the Russians neglected to state that ROBESON sang songs in the Jewish language. Incidentally, NOVICK talked about this and his comments got back to the Russian leadership.

MORRIS CHILDS suggested that NOVICK be asked to write a statement on his tour of Russia up to this time.

NOVICK wrote a statement, in which he outlined his reasons for coming to Russia. He said that he saw tremendous developments in the Soviet Union and that he wanted to report them. He said that he wanted to answer the Zionists and the East side press of New York City, such as "Jewish Forward" and "Jewish Daily". He said he was only trying to answer those who slander the Soviet Union and he wanted to stay in Russia until the first part of March, 1959, in order to attend the Sholem Aleichem celebrations, to go to Odessa and to Minsk and to spend ten days writing articles. This statement was re-written twice.

CHILDS, JACKSON and TRACHTENBERG all met with NOVICK, who was staying at the Leningrad Hotel in Moscow. NOVICK charged that MANDEL, TERMAN does not know anything about the Jewish question in Russia. He said TERMAN does not speak Yiddish. NOVICK said he saw no Jewish newspapers in Russia. He saw no Jewish magazines in Russia. He saw no Jewish intellectual circles in Russia. He stated that some Jewish writers cannot get their works translated. He complained that the Jewish language is not used in Russia. He said the only Jewish culture he saw in Moscow was in a synagogue. He said that he found books in Moscow which attacked Israel and contained an implied Semitic attack. He said the authors quoted LENIN in defense of their policy.

NOVICK asked if he should go to Birobidzhan. He was advised not to do so. He said that the free press in Paris and the Buenos Aires Jewish newspapers were publishing his articles about Russia, and that they had asked him to find out about Jewish problems in Russia.

CHILDS, JACKSON, and TRACHTENBERG told NOVICK that if he did not change his viewpoint, he would not get permission from the Russians to visit the other cities he wanted to see. He was persuaded to re-write his statement and to acknowledge that he might have been placing too much emphasis on the Jewish question.

Subsequently, ALEXAI GRENCHENCO said that if permission for NOVICK to continue his tour of Russia might help the Communist Party - USA, then they would see what they could do about it. Finally, after one week in Moscow, the Russians renewed NOVICK's visa, and the "Literary Gazette", at the request of the Central Committee of the CPSU, continued as his official host.

Later, LOSTOVETS told CHILDS that when NOVICK arrived in Minsk and White Russia, the CPSU leadership there would not meet with him. LOSTOVETS said that they would have expelled NOVICK from Russia, but figured that it would harm the Communist Party - USA.

In a later conversation with SALUEL MIKUNIS, of the Communist Party of Israel, he told CHILDS that he had talked with NOVICK, and NOVICK had said he planned to visit Israel. CHILDS asked MIKUNIS to try to set NOVICK straight on the Jewish question.

By way of comment, NOVICK was a big problem for the Communist Party - USA delegation. This problem required many meetings and the Russians were angry about it. The Russians really wanted to get rid of KOVICK.

It should be noted that the Russians issued a postage stamp containing the likeness of SHOLEM ALEICHER. They said that they are publishing 300,000 copies of his works in the Jewish language. They were holding celebrations throughout Russia in his honor. It is believed that all of this was being done in an attempt to get around the Jewish question.

CG 5824-S*, on 3/6/59, made available to SA JOHN E. KEATING, for photostating, a letter addressed "To Comrade James Jackson and the American Communist Delegation in Moscow", and signed "Anna Louise Strong". The letter is dated 2/6/59, and has a return address as follows: The Aichun Hotel, Canton, China.

One photostat copy of this letter is enclosed herewith to the Bureau and to the New York Division. The Chicago copy is located in Chicago file 134-46-Sub-B-1A41.

CG 5824-S* advised that ANNA LOUISE STRONG had first sent a cable to the Communist Party - USA delegation in Moscow. In the cable, she stated that this letter was being sent.

CG 5824-S* stated that in his opinion, the following sentence in paragraph 3, page 1, "I think it very important that somebody come here soon who then goes back to the USA to organize contacts", means that STRONG would like to see someone similar to herself come to China. This person would then return to the United States and organize prominent individuals and/or Communist sympathizers for the purpose of getting them to support Red China.

CG 5824-S* does not know the identity of the friend of STRONG referred to in paragraph 3, page 1.

CG 5824-S* commented that STRONG appears to be more partial to the Chinese than to the Russians, as indicated in her comments on page 1, paragraph 4.

CG 5824-S* does not know the Americans referred to in paragraph 1, page 2.

CG 5824-S* advised that while JAMES JACKSON did not plan to visit ANNA LOUISE STRONG in China, it is possible that both JACKSON and TRACHTENBERG did visit with her.

CG 5824-S* advised on 3/18/59 that he had exhibited STRONG's letter to EUGENE DENNIS on 3/13/59, and DENNIS all but ignored it.

On 3/19/59, CG 5824-S* advised that he had observed an article in the 3/14/59, issue of "Pravda". This article indicated that MAO Tse-tung had a reception for an American delegation. The only names mentioned were ANNA LOUISE STRONG, WILLIAM E.B. DU BOIS, and his wife. In the opinion of CG 5824-S*, undoubtedly JAMES JACKSON and ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG or both attended this reception.

Feb 06 1959

To comrade James Jackson and the American Communist delegation in Moscow,

Dear comrades,

I am writing this from a health resort near Canton, to which I came two weeks ago for a month's rest and also to finish the booklet on the Chinese People's Communes, which will be simultaneously published by New Century ((probably under imprint of New World Review or Far Eastern Committee, and also by the press in Peking for distribution in Asia and the Middle East. Reading this morning in the press of Jackson's speech in Moscow, I learned at least the name of one US delegate and therefore write.

First of all, you should know--if you do not, --that Foster's letter to Mao Tse-tung was published here widely---a long one taking more than half a newspaper page in a land where newsprint is in short supply because of the terrific demand (almost every commune now makes local paper for its needs), and I ask that you send Foster my greetings....Second, it was stated around Peking before I left that Dr Dubois and Eslanda will be coming here: I hope this is true..Third, it was also stated that Maud Russell was coming but nobody seems to know whether she plans to come at once or not till October, and whether she plans to stay a long time or merely make contacts.

Once I am writing to tell you: 1) that I think it very important that somebody come here soon who then goes back to the USA to organize contacts. and 2) that this can be done without losing passport, if it is done without publicity. A friend of mine came with me, travelled six weeks with me and went back by plane to Montreal and ordinary train to New York, and had no trouble whatever. However, if and when this friend by ~~xxx~~ publishing of lecturing should reveal previous presence here, trouble might arise.. On this you know better than I: rumor says Nearing is "under house arrest" for having come to China, but since we do not have "house arrest" in the USA, I should be interested to know what did occur. This is only one example of the lack of communication between the countries..

The reason for sending someone here, who then goes back is that some way should be built whereby information flows easily from here to the USA.

I have sent already 35 articles, total of over 200 pages..Of these perhaps 7 did not arrive--checking is hard---while the Guardian used some, and others still look for a publisher....Personal letters usually get through but not always...Printed matter seldom goes through from here. meantime this country produces a lot of good photos and motion pictures which would be terrific in the USA....Their style is more adapted to the American mind than the Russian films ever were...~~Their expression~~ I saw last night a film, full-length, called "County Secretary", about how a commune grew, whose peasant humor is right down the American alley.. technique of movies is professional, a...and very good.

Meantime the Chinese are more than willing to supply all information in all forms. But means and plans need discussion from both ends...My personal present idea, for what it is worth, is this.....I myself plan to stay on in China, ~~xxxx~~ until such time as I can return for lectures to the USA and again return here...This will not be soon but possibly an opportunity may develop after the 1960 elections if the Republicans are soundly beaten. This depends on the nature of their defeat....Meantime I am ready to give all my time here to gathering and sending material of all sorts either to Maud's Far Eastern Committee or to whatever new organization supersedes it...I shall be living in Peking care of the Chinese Peace Committee---this is enough address---where I shall have both living and office space and as much secretarial help as needed. If it seems best, I may ~~openly~~ form connections with ALL Americans living in China--like [redacted] Joan Hinton, [redacted] etc...and also with all Chinese who once lived in the USA...much wider...for the purpose of gathering information and writing letters to the USA... These matters must still be discussed both with you and with Chinese friends..I mention them only to show possibilities.

At the American end my idea--also subject to discussion--is that Maud's organization be built up: that it become official publisher of my Commune book, that it organize a small, but important delegation to the Tenth Anniversary here next October, of some five or so well known people who--Unlike previous visitors, would all go home in a body, land at La Guardia to be met by their lawyer, where they would refuse to give up their passports...That this would lead to a public legal struggle on the question of the American people's right to know about China,This American right.....should become the center of a fight culminating in the 1960 elections, and should try to enlist as much of the Democratic Party as possible, on the sole issue of the interference with American rights... illegal postal interference, illegal removal of passports.....In order to enlist people like Eleanor Roosevelt, Pearl Buck, and others, this fight should be another a much wider organization which should take NO STAND on questions of recognizing Peking, UN membership or China's right to Taiwan, but ONLY the American people's right to know and gather facts.

Whether or not any of the above ideas seem valid, I would be very glad of the chance to talk plans over with you or somebody from the USA... You can reach me care Peace Committee.. You can get even quicker result by writing not to me but to Liao Chung-chih, vice chairman of the Peace Committee, who is aware of all my plans,..and ask him to wire me. Anyway good luck, and let us establish contacts as fast and as stable as we can, Yours,

James Louis Strong

I plan to make Peking my center of work for life, but to go and come from the USA when this is possible.

MEETING IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA, BETWEEN THE
CP-USA DELEGATES TO THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU AND DELEGATES FROM THE CP OF PANAMA

After the meeting with the Guatemalan Communist Party delegation on February 15, 1959, the Communist Party - USA delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) met on the same day and in the same vicinity with the delegation from the Communist Party of Panama. The following were present at this meeting:

JAMES JACKSON; MORRIS CHILDS; SEMA KUZNETSOV, of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CCPSU); a Spanish-Russian translator; HUGO VICTOR (HUGO ALEJANDRO VICTOR ESCALA), Chairman of the Communist Party of Panama; the Organization Secretary of the Communist Party of Panama (Possibly JOSE RAFAEL HILL SANCHEZ). He is white.

HUGO VICTOR is a Negro and he speaks English. While he is supposed to be some kind of an engineer, he said that he now is a salesman of supplies for draftsmen. He mentioned that he has been fired from a number of positions. The Organization Secretary of the Communist Party of Panama said that he comes from a wealthy family, but that his family will have nothing to do with him at the present time.

Remarks of HUGO VICTOR

After commenting that a few years ago he sent some letters to the "Daily Worker" and received no reply, VICTOR stated that during the years 1943-1950 there were some organized trade unions in the Canal Zone which were controlled by the Left. He said that the United States Government and the Panamanian Government smashed these trade unions and deported some of the trade union organizers. In this regard, he mentioned BRODSKY (ph), RICHARDSON, and SASH. VICTOR said that NICHOLAS SALERNO (ph) was the General Secretary of the Communist Party at that time. He was expelled in 1951. VICTOR said that he was a homosexual, an opportunist and a sectarian.

Continuing, VICTOR said that some Americans tried to contact the Communist Party in Panama, but were ignored because it was felt that they must have been agents of the F.B.I. He said that the CP-USA and the CP of Panama have some common problems in the Canal Zone because the American workers in Panama have special privileges, while the other workers are being discriminated against. The pay is divided into two systems -- a gold system and a silver system. Americans are on the gold roll. A Panamanian carpenter will receive 50¢ an hour, while an American carpenter will get $2.50 on the same job.

VICTOR said that there are two labor organizations in the Canal Zone and both of them are affiliated with the AFL-CIO. One is made up of civil employees of the Canal and Panama City. The other consists of employees of the Army, Navy, and Air Force. While they have an international representative in these unions, the Communists do not have any positions in the unions. VICTOR said, our people are systematically expelled and persecuted.

Then VICTOR said that the Communist Party sometimes participates in elections in one form or another, but those who sign our list are discriminated against and are frightened and terrorized by both governments. Therefore, the Communist Party advanced in Panama is limited. The CP in Panama is illegal. VICTOR said that he is the President, and RAFAEL HILL is the Organization Secretary of the CP of Panama. FELIX DIXON is in charge of trade union work. RICARDO FERRERA (ph) is in charge of youth matters. FRANCISCO CHAUARRO (ph) is a member of the Central Committee. He said that in all, there are six members on the Central Committee of the CP of Panama. (He only named five.) He said they receive a little mail from the CP-USA, but it is usually opened.

Then VICTOR said that during the period of McCarthyism, there was a lot of fear in Panama and quite a few desertions from the Party. The Party has no full time functionaries. Their so-called Secretary works in a restaurant.

Concerning Panama, VICTOR said that President ERNESTO DE LA GUARDIA is anti-imperialist. The Panama Canal is the main industry in Panama. Panama supplies labor to this main industry. The West Indians who immigrate to Panama are used as mercenaries. They are used to lower wages. They are the only group which speaks English.

Then he said that the standards of living have risen since World War II. Immediately after the war, there was some decline and very little purchasing power. While Panama used to import a lot of material, it is now compelled to produce some of its own goods. Panama is producing food, oil, spices, and cement. The production of cement has caused a change in the structure of the economy. It created a national bourgeoisie in Panama. He said that the teachers and the students are an important factor in the movement for freedom.

Next, VICTOR said that in 1953 the loyalty laws were enforced after the Eisenhower-Damon Treaty was signed. He said that this is a reactionary treaty and is no good. Some of the native bourgeoisie got a little out of the treaty, but very little. The United States retains its military bases for twenty years. DALON was a traitor because he gave the United States rights to construct strategic highways. He said that no matter how bad the treaty is, even it is being violated by the United States. The wages are not equal, even though they are supposed to be. There are also other violations of the treaty. The trouble is that there are very few trade unions composed of Panamanians who will fight these unequal standards.

VICTOR said that the population of Panama was one million in 1953. Of these, 250,000 are supposed to be gainfully employed, but actually only 100,000 have jobs. Of these, 12,000 work on the banana plantations.

He said that the Communist Party was originally organized in 1932, but was dissolved in September, 1943. While they were supposed to have created a new mass party, in December, 1943, the Party was re-established as a people's party, with a low ideological level.

Then VICTOR said that at the time Egypt seized the Suez Canal, a certain spark of national independence was witnessed in Panama, too. A national feeling developed -- an anti-imperialist feeling. He said that there are two major parties in Panama, but there is no progressive party. Therefore, the people look upon the students as the vanguard and the students are the most militant forces in Panama. The chief force in Panama is the National Guard. Whoever controls the National Guard controls political power. They determine everything because they have arms.

VICTOR said that the Communist Party is working for the creation of a national front against United States imperialism. Then he made an appeal to the Communist Party - USA to begin to develop an outlook regarding Panama and to develop a line on the problems facing the workers of Panama.

He talked about the need for contact and communications with the CP-USA. He said that sometimes people from the United States come down to Panama and claim to be Communist Party members. They pretend to give help. The Communist Party of Panama has rejected all such conversations and contacts. Therefore, he requested that when the CP-USA works out a line on Panama and begins to take a real interest in Panama, if it will send anyone to Panama this person should carry an official credential of the CP-USA on CP-USA stationery and signed by the leadership of the Party. Then the CP of Panama will recognize this person as a representative of the American CP and will engage in discussions.

The CP-USA delegates promised VICTOR that the CP-USA will re-establish contact with the CP of Panama and that the delegates will discuss some of the problems of the CP of Panama in a meeting of the National Committee of the CP-USA. They also promised that the CP-USA will start to take a greater interest in the problems of Panama.

By way of comment, it would appear that the CP of Panama has only a corporal's guard; however, it is in a very strategic spot where there is some bitter anti-United States feeling.

During the course of his recent trip to the Soviet Union, CG 5824-S along with James Jackson had occasion to meet with functionaries of the Communist Party (CP) of Panama, who were also in Moscow as delegates to the Soviet 21st Congress.

Panama USSR Hugo Victor, chairman of the CP of Panama, stated that the CPUSA and the CP of Panama have some common problems in the Canal Zone since the American workers in Panama have special privileges while the other workers are discriminated against. He stated that there are two labor organizations in the Canal Zone, both of which are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor - Congress of Industrial Organizations. One consists of civil employees while the other is made up of employees of Army, Navy and Air Force. He continued that while the Party in Panama has an international representative in these unions, communists do not have any positions in the unions. According to Victor, the Party members in Panama are systematically expelled and persecuted.

Victor said that the CP was originally organized in Panama in 1932 but was dissolved in September, 1943. He said that while they were supposed to have created a new mass party in December, 1943, the CP was re-established as a people's party with a low ideological level. He continued that at the time Egypt seized the Suez Canal, a certain spark of national independence was also witnessed in Panama. At this time a nationalist and anti-imperialist feeling developed. He stated that while there are two major parties in Panama, there is no progressive party; therefore, the people look upon the students as the vanguard and these students are the most militant forces in Panama. He continued that the chief force in Panama is the National Guard and whoever controls it controls political power.

Victor continued that the Party in Panama sometimes participates in elections in one form or another but those people who sign the Party list are discriminated against and are frightened and terrorized by the Government of Panama as well as that of the United States. As a result, the CP advance in Panama is limited.

100-428091

According to Victor, the Party in Panama is working for the creation of a national front against United States imperialism. He appealed to the CPUSA to begin to develop an outlook regarding Panama and to develop a line on the problems facing the workers of Panama. He talked about the need for contact and communications with the CPUSA. He was promised by the American representatives that the CPUSA will re-establish contact with the CP of Panama and that some of the problems of the Party in Panama will be discussed at a meeting of the national committee of the CPUSA. He was also promised that the CPUSA will start to take a greater interest in the problems of Panama.

According to CG 5824-S, it appears that the CP of Panama is very small in size; however, it is in a very strategic spot where there is some bitter anti-United States feeling.

RECOMMENDATION:

While the foregoing information is certainly of interest to Army intelligence, which has the primary responsibility in the Canal Zone, it is felt that any dissemination at this time may possibly endanger our informant's security. Upon the return of Jackson and other Party functionaries from Moscow, we will then consider dissemination of this information to Army intelligence.

MEETING OF THE CP-USA DELEGATES TO THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU WITH DISTRICT
FUNCTIONARIES OF THE BAUMANSKI (ph)
DISTRICT OF MOSCOW, USSR

On February 18, 1959, the District functionaries of the Baumanski (ph) District of Russia were holding a meeting. About 1,200 "propagandists" were in attendance at this meeting. These included functionaries of all sorts -- editors of shop papers, people who discuss the problems of other Party members, etc. They were holding a seminar of several days duration. This seminar was on the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. They had asked the Central Committee of the CPSU to send the American delegation to the 21st Congress of the CPSU to this seminar.

At approximately 11:00 A.M. on February 18, 1959, JAMES JACKSON and MORRIS CHILDS went to the Baumanski District. They were met by (FNU) IGORETCHEV (ph), who is the First Secretary of the Baumanski District, and by (FNU) SVESHNIKOFF, who is the person in charge of agitation and propaganda for this district. The meeting was being held in the Palace of Labor, which is operated by the chauffeurs of the Baumanski District of Moscow.

Before entering the meeting, JACKSON and CHILDS talked with IGORETCHEV in an outer office. IGORETCHEV explained the composition of the Baumanski District. He stated that it is primarily a workers district. In 1905, the workers in this district fought in the revolution. There were also some sharp fights in this district in 1917.

IGORETCHEV said that at the present time there are 250,000 people in this district. Of this total, 30,000 are Communist Party members, and 50,000 are members of the Young Communist League. The Party units are organized chiefly on a territorial basis, but there are also industrial organizations inasmuch as there are many industries in this district. The territorial breakdown includes neighborhood organizations. He stated that this district has changed considerably in recent years. It now contains a good number of the schools and scientific institutions of Moscow. For example, there are fifty scientific planning institutions in the Baumanski District. These institutions are for the purpose of national planning, not just for local planning. The district has twelve higher educational institutions, with 70,000 students, including some evening students. Located in the district is the very famous Baumanski High School. This is a technical school, with 10,000 day students and was one of the schools visited by a delegation of American educators.

Next, IGORETCHEV said that the Moscow Building Engineers Institute is located in the Baumanski District. He pointed out that in addition to the population of the district, 230,000 people from other Moscow areas study and/or work in this district. He said that some of the largest power stations in Russia, such as the Stalingrad Electric Power Station, were planned in the scientific planning institutions in the Baumanski District.

After this discussion, IGORETCHEV ushered JACKSON and CHILDS into the meeting to a musical fanfare. IGORETCHEV was the Chairman of the meeting, and YURI VICTOROVICH (ph) served as the translator. JACKSON and CHILDS sat on the speakers platform and were introduced by IGORETCHEV.

JACKSON delivered a speech, in which he talked about the horrible economic conditions in the United States.

Most of the questions from the floor dealt with living conditions in the United States. JACKSON stated that the average wage in industry in the United States is $30 a week, but that from one-fourth to one-third of this salary is expended on rent. Perhaps another 30% is spent for food. There is no free medical care in the United States. The workers buy on the installment plan and are in debt all the time. Asked what happens if the workers are unemployed, JACKSON replied that they only get unemployment insurance for 26 weeks. After that, the workers in the United States either starve or go on charity.

Other questions dealt with the current developments in the Communist Party - USA. JACKSON explained the CP-USA had fought and defeated the revisionists. He said that the CP-USA is subject to police terror, but despite this and despite the machinations of the revisionists and the sectarians, the CP-USA has survived.

After JACKSON concluded his speech and the question and answer period, MORRIS CHILDS was asked to speak, and he spoke for about five minutes. JACKSON and CHILDS received a large ovation and were presented with gifts, such as a book on Moscow, a piece of tapestry, fancy pins, etc. The meeting, which had lasted for about one and one-half hours, was then concluded. After the meeting, food was brought from a factory kitchen and dinner was served. During dinner, a woman reporter from one of the scientific or economic journals published in the Baumanski District and circulated in the USSR, interviewed JACKSON. JACKSON answered some questions for her and wrote out a couple of paragraphs. She was elated because she felt that she had a scoop, even though CHILDS said he preferred not to be interviewed. During dinner, no hard liquor was served, but Georgian and Muscatel wine was available.

After dinner, JACKSON and CHILDS, surrounded by a large, enthusiastic crowd, were escorted to their car.

ADDITIONAL ACTIVITIES IN CZECHOSLOVAKIA
ON THE RETURN TRIP FROM MOSCOW, RUSSIA

Short Tour of Czechoslovakia

On or about February 23, 1959, MORRIS CHILDS was taken on a short trip from Prague, Czechoslovakia, by a Czechoslovakian translator, whose identity cannot be recalled, and a chauffeur in a Totra (ph) automobile. They went to Pilsen and while there, visited a brewery and the Skoda (ph) Works. The Communist Party Secretary in Pilsen complained that Augsburg, Germany, television and radio stations were beaming programs into Czechoslovakia. He said that they are building a larger television station in Pilsen in order to beam programs into Germany.

From Pilsen, they went through the old Sudeten Land. In this area, there were many run-down and deserted houses. The Czechoslovakian translator stated that two million Germans emigrated from this area and they have not yet succeeded in moving enough Czechoslovakians into this area in order to replace the two million Germans. He stated that there are probably a quarter of a million Germans remaining in the area, but they had to be removed from the border and scattered. As a result, the farmlands are neglected.

CHILDS and the translator also went to the Karlovy Vary and Mariánské Lázně spas and stopped at the Kosqua (ph) Hotel. The impression received was that the Czechoslovakians live fairly well, even though they have to import a lot of food.

CHILDS and the translator also travelled along the Czech-German border. The translator said, Don't be surprised if you see border police. We have to be on the alert all the time since we do not know the intentions of the United States imperialists. Tank battalions were in existence.

The Czechoslovakian translator and CHILDS returned to Prague about 9:30 in the evening.

of Czechoslovakia. The headquarters building, which at one time was one of the largest banks in Prague, has been rebuilt and is guarded by security police.

JAMES JACKSON had told CHILDS that WILLIAM L. PATTERSON and his wife want to visit Czechoslovakia. JACKSON asked CHILDS to discuss this with the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia. KADERKA told CHILDS that he was sure that PATTERSON and his wife will be welcomed in Czechoslovakia. During this discussion, it was agreed that HARRY HAYWOOD, who at one time had visited Czechoslovakia, will no longer be welcomed in Czechoslovakia. KADERKA wanted CHILDS to provide him with a list of former prominent members of the Communist Party - USA who are no longer in the Party. CHILDS gave KADERKA such a list.

In discussing Czechoslovakia, KADERKA said that they still retain the workers militia, which took over in 1948, as an auxiliary to the armed forces. He said that they are moving slowly in Czechoslovakia. They are not forcing certain things, such as collectivization of farms. Farm payment is still based on systems which have been abolished in most Communist countries.

Next, KADERKA discussed the youth. He said that they had heard that the Communist Party - USA was going to form a new Marxist youth organization and he wondered how the Communist Party - USA could do it. He said that they do not have a Young Communist League in Czechoslovakia. They do have a Czechoslovakian Federation of Youth. They are not going to force anything on the youth. They are developing in the youth a patriotic spirit and a loyalty to socialism in Czechoslovakia. They are not emphasizing Marxism-Leninism, as such. Later, some of the youth can go to school and be trained in Marxism-Leninism. He said that there are certain specific features and certain national peculiarities which they have to take into consideration. He did state that they are now forming a new children's organization so that from childhood on they can train the youth in the ways of socialism. This new organization differs from the Young Pioneers. The age limits are not so defined as in the Young Pioneers.

KADERKA said that in Czechoslovakia they have restored some cathedrals, churches, and synagogues, in order to convince the people that they do not wish to harm them.

Meeting with (FNU) DVORAK (ph), Czechoslovakian Ambassador to Russia

On the plane from Moscow to Prague, CHILDS had met

(FNU) DVORAK (ph), the Czechoslovakian Ambassador to Russia. He said that he was formerly the Minister of Trade in Czechoslovakia. He commented that there is now more economic co-operation between Socialist countries than ever before. He said that this was the reason he was assigned as the Ambassador to Moscow. He stated that economic experts and people who have a knowledge of trade are needed in the diplomatic corps.

Comments

It was learned that the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia was holding a meeting during the weekend of February 23 - March 1, 1959. This probably accounted for the fact that CHILDS only met with one member of the Central Committee.

One is impressed with the differences between Russia and Czechoslovakia. The Czechoslovakians have many fine cafes and restaurants. They participate in sports on a large scale. They talked about the role they are playing in the industrial development of backward countries. They are operating their own airline, even though their jets are Russian-made. They have direct flights to Egypt. They are manufacturing machines and machine tools. They are doing a lot of rebuilding. The only criticism heard of America was that the Americans had bombed many of their factories during World War II.

It was noted that many people in Czechoslovakia attend places of worship on Sunday. While the Communist Party of Czechoslovakia is one of the most loyal Parties to the Soviet Union, the CP of Czechoslovakia and the CPSU differ in many respects. This may be accounted for by the differences in the populations of the two countries. The CP of Czechoslovakia is not in a hurry to reach socialism. While the Czechoslovakians have extreme national pride, KADERKA said that the people are beginning to see that socialism is not contrary to their past mode of living.

ACTIVITIES IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA, PRIOR TO THE OPENING OF THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU
AND ADDITIONAL COMMENTS ON THE 21ST CONGRESS OF THE CPSU

Activities in Moscow prior to the Opening of the 21st Congress of the CPSU

During the period from January 17, 1959 to the opening of the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (CPSU) on January 27, 1959, MORRIS CHILDS and JAMES JACKSON were busy with other matters in addition to the problems of CHARLIE LOMAN and PAUL NOVICK, which have been described elsewhere.

NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS and ALEXAI GRECHENCO (ph) asked JACKSON to write an article for "Pravda" concerning the economic and political situation in the United States. CHILDS assisted JACKSON in the writing of this article. It appeared in the January 26, 1959, No. 26 (14785), issue of "Pravda", on page 5, under the caption "In the Interests of Peace".

During this period, GEORGE MORRIS wrote an article for the Communist Party - SU magazine, "Party Propaganda". It is understood that this article was published and that MORRIS received a sum of money for writing the article. The title of the article and the amount he received are not known.

Prior to the 21st Congress of the CPSU, JACKSON and CHILDS prepared reports for the Central Committee of the CPSU in regard to the current activities of the CP-USA. Also, three letters were addressed to the Central Committee of the CPSU, and these letters contained questions which the CP-USA delegates wanted to discuss with the leadership of the Central Committee of the CPSU.

NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS outlined the agenda for the 21st Congress of the CPSU. He told CHILDS and JACKSON that the heads of the delegations from Parties other than the CPSU might not be allowed more than five minutes for their remarks. He said that JACKSON could make a speech or he could read the "greetings" which the CPSU had received from the CP-USA and which were signed by EUGENE DENNIS and ROBERT THOMPSON. JACKSON and CHILDS read the greetings and decided that while they were adequate, that JACKSON should also make a short speech. JACKSON and CHILDS prepared separate drafts and JACKSON used his own draft.

ENCLOSURE

JACKSON had some radio interviews prior to the Congress. He also made short statements for various Russian magazines.

On January 25, 1959, NIKOLAI MOSTOVETS and ALEXAI GRECHENCO came to the apartment where JACKSON and CHILDS were staying and discussed a document containing a thesis on the relationship of Parties. They said that all Parties were being told not to tell the press about this thesis prior to the start of the 21st Congress of the CPSU. JACKSON and CHILDS said that they would tell TRACHTENBERG, but would not tell GEORGE MORRIS. The details of this discussion are being reported elsewhere.

During the pre-Congress discussions with MOSTOVETS and GRECHENCO, it was agreed that ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG would sit with the delegates, but as an honored guest and not as a delegate. He could not speak as a delegate, but was to receive all the other privileges of a delegate as a reward for his services as an old time Communist Party member. It was further agreed that GEORGE MORRIS would be the representative of "The Worker". MORRIS sat in the press gallery to the rear of the hall. Even the Russian press was excluded from the floor of the Congress.

Prior to the Congress, one [] (ph), who is in East Germany, sent a cablegram reflecting that he had communicated with AL RICHMOND in San Francisco and received permission to cover the 21st Congress of the CPSU as a correspondent for the "People's World". JACKSON and CHILDS decided against the sending of an invitation to [] to attend the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

JACKSON and CHILDS had a private telephone in their apartment. They were advised that they should not give the telephone number to anyone. They were told that if anyone wanted to contact them, it could be done through the Central Committee headquarters. Further, no one could visit the apartment of JACKSON and CHILDS unless previous arrangements were made. Then the persons would usually be accompanied by ALEXAI GRECHENCO, who was with JACKSON and CHILDS until he went to Leningrad for two days with GEORGE MORRIS and some delegates from Latin America. GRECHENCO became ill and was replaced by SEMA KUZNETSOV as JACKSON's and CHILDS' contact.

By way of comment, it is felt that these security measures were taken primarily for the protection of CHILDS and JACKSON.

Additional Comments on the 21st Congress of the CPSU

The 21st Congress of the CPSU started on January 27, 1959.

JACKSON and CHILDS were given credentials as delegates to the Congress. KOSTOVETS indicated that it was expected that the credentials would be returned. The credentials for CHILDS were in the name of "KEMP". Later, however, his correct name was on the invitation to the banquet, which was the last formal event in connection with the 21st Congress of the CPSU. CHILDS' true name also appeared at the place setting at the banquet.

CHILDS and JACKSON were assigned a chauffeur and a Chika (ph), the newest Russian automobile. This automobile attracted attention on the streets of Moscow.

On the morning of January 27, 1959, NIKOLAI KOSTOVETS suggested that JACKSON and CHILDS should enter the Kremlin through the rear gate, since reporters, photographers and others hang around the front gates. KOSTOVETS said that the heads of delegations from Communist Parties other than the CPSU would be elected to the Presidium for the Congress. Then he said, Remember, you are on Soviet soil. When you say something about your country, it might be misinterpreted. Thus, he was telling JACKSON and CHILDS not to say anything which might cause diplomatic entanglements.

On each morning of the Congress, GRECHENCO ate breakfast with JACKSON and CHILDS, and then rode with them to the Kremlin, which was heavily guarded by security police and plain-clothes men. It was necessary to show a pass to get into the Kremlin and to show the pass again before entering the hall where the Congress was held.

Delegates from the fraternal Parties sat on the extreme right-hand side of the hall as one faced the rostrum, except for those who were elected to the Honorary Presidium for the Congress. They sat on the "stage" and faced the other fraternal delegates.

The delegates from the Communist Party - USA sat in the tenth row. The Chinese, Polish, Czechoslovakian, Rumanian, Korean, and Italian delegates were among those sitting in front of the American delegates. The Italians insisted on taking movies of the Congress.

There may have been some delegates from the "illegal Communist Parties" sitting among the Russian delegates. Representatives from other "illegal Parties" sat in private rooms just off the balconies on each side of the hall.

Practically every major Communist Party or every Communist Party in a major country had a speaker and/or a representative on the Honorary Presidium. BORIS PONOMAREV, head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the CPSU, was in charge of making arrangements for the speakers from the other Parties.

The hours of the sessions were from 9:30 A.M. to 2:00 P.M., and from 4:00 P.M. to 7:00 P.M. The adjournment for lunch was from 2:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M. The CP-USA delegates returned to their apartment for lunch. As a rule, there was only one recess at about 11:45 A.M. or at 12:00 Noon. Sandwiches, buffet lunches, wine, beer, tea, coffee, and fruit were available during these recesses. No smoking was allowed during the sessions. The Russian leadership has started a campaign to stop smoking.

At the start of the Congress, one could see the strain as far as the Chinese delegation was concerned. It seemed odd that MAO Tse-tung did not attend the Congress and did not send LIU Shao-chi. He did send CHOU En-lai. During KHRUSHCHEV's speech, there was little applause by CHOU En-lai. One could almost feel the tension. The fact that KHRUSHCHEV emphasized a bond of friendship between Russia and China so frequently illustrated that there was tension between them. It is believed that some of these differences were ironed out before CHOU En-lai spoke.

The major time of the Congress was occupied by the economic and industrial development of Russia for the next seven years. The emphasis was on proceeding into a higher stage of Communism and the eventual abolition of the state organizations. Further, that by 1975 the Russians can live according to the slogan -- From each according to his abilities and to each according to his needs.

The Russians are raising their children in a communal life. They made some leading candidates to the Central Committee go into the remote areas in order to get elected. They are convinced that they will accomplish what they have set out to accomplish in the Seven-Year Plan. Further, that by a synchronizing of economies, they will be able to help other Socialist countries.

There are eight million Communist Party members in the USSR. The CPSU is strongly organized. It has 500,000 candidates for membership. Not just everyone is taken into the CPSU. There are twice as many members in the youth branches of the CPSU as there are in the Party itself.

Most of the delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU were not placed in private rooms off balconies. It was announced that 72 Communist Parties were represented. The delegations from the fraternal Communist Parties averaged about three members each. There may have been an additional half dozen or so delegations which were not officially announced.

The Leningrad Party organization furnished each delegate with a little red button containing a cameo of LENIN. Special postage stamps and envelopes were issued for the 21st Congress. Each delegate received cigarettes, cookies, and candy wrapped to indicate that they were packaged for delegates to the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

In the CPSU, there is no higher honor than being elected as a delegate to a Congress of the CPSU, except for being elected to the Central Committee or the Presidium. There were approximately 1,200 Russian delegates at the 21st Congress of the CPSU.

One day the Congress was adjourned early so that the heads of the delegations from the various fraternal Communist Parties could speak at factories in the Moscow area. The next day, under the banner of proletarian internationalism, all the Moscow newspapers carried stories on the visits of the delegations to those factories. Many of the speeches or statements of the delegates appeared in the press. JACKSON's speech at an electric railroad engine shop appeared in "Trud" ("Labor") and "Gudok", the trade union paper for the railroad industry.

Thus, certain speeches were expected from the delegates representing the fraternal Parties. The foreign delegates were used for propaganda purposes. This is repeated as the foreign delegates travel from city to city, in Russia, addressing special meetings in the factories, the city leadership, the Party actives, etc.

While some of the top leaders of the CPSU attacked the "anti-Party group" in their speeches, the Congress was not preoccupied with this problem. It was handled with finality. It was stated that the anti-Party group was bad, that it was licked, that it now has no following, and presents no problem for the present leadership of the CPSU.

All speeches to the 21st Congress of the CPSU were written. The Russians used the excuse that this was necessary for the simultaneous translations.

JAMES JACKSON was used at the 21st Congress to tell the rest of the Communist world that the Communist Party - USA is alive, that it rid itself of revisionists and ultra-Leftists, and is engaged in mass struggles on the Negro question, civil rights, and civil liberties, and that it can assert influence on the peace movement.

Each delegate to the 21st Congress of the CPSU, at least from the countries where the Communist Party is not illegal, received many Russian books. Each of the American delegates received at least two dozen books in English and two dozen in Russian. Some of these were translations of the works of MARX and LENIN. Some contained material on the Russian Seven-Year Plan. Some were novels.

EUGENE DENNIS and WILLIAM Z. FOSTER will receive a similar set of books. The Russians said that they will ship extra books to Imported Publications and Products for FOSTER and DENNIS, and agreed to do the same for CHILDS, since he did not want to transport these books from Russia to the United States.

On each day of the Congress, a security man in uniform would deliver to the apartment of JACKSON and CHILDS translations of the previous day's sessions of the 21st Congress, "Pravda", the British "Daily Worker", "Moscow Evening News", and similar publications. A special copy of "Pravda" was issued for the 21st Congress; on the first page it contained a likeness of LENIN in red ink.

INFORMATION CONCERNING

The following has been received from a source which has furnished reliable information in the past.

Leading functionaries in the Soviet Union feel that "America" is a very attractive publication and an excellent magazine from a technical point of view. According to these Soviet leaders, the magazine receives wide circulation in the Soviet Union and disappears rapidly from the newsstands. The Soviets, however, are not going to push for more circulation of "America" than they get for "USSR" in the United States. The only criticism that the Soviets made of "America" was that some things in the magazine are pointed too optimistically. As a result, some Russian people are not convinced that the magazine accurately portrays conditions in the United States since they know that there must be some problems here.

The foregoing is furnished for your information and should not be disseminated outside your Department.

During the course of the recent trip of our informant CG 5824-S to the Soviet Union he, along with other members of the Communist Party, USA, (CPUSA), had occasion to meet with representatives of the Propaganda Section of the Soviet Ministry of Culture. It is noted that the Propaganda Section is responsible for the publication of the magazine "USSR," which is distributed in the United States on a reciprocal basis in return for the Soviets allowing the distribution of the United States magazine "America" in the Soviet Union.

The Soviet officials at this meeting wanted an opinion regarding the effect of Russian short-wave radio broadcasts to the United States. Since none of the CPUSA representatives own a short-wave radio set, they were unable to give an opinion.

FUNCTIONARY

In discussing the above-mentioned magazine "America," one of the CPUSA functionaries, Alexander Trachtenberg, stated that it is not a good magazine. He was in general critical of its makeup and contents. The Soviets disagreed with Trachtenberg, however, and stated that "America" is very attractive and from a technical point of view is an excellent magazine. They continued that "America" circulates and disappears rapidly from the newsstands in Russia. The Soviets continued, however, that they are not going to push for more circulation of "America" than they get for "USSR" in the United States. The only criticism that the Soviets made of "America" was that some things in the magazine are painted too optimistically and rosily. As a result, some Russian people are not convinced that the magazine accurately portrays conditions in the United States since they know that there must be some problems in the United States.

ACTION:

The above information would appear to be of definite interest to State Department since it is firsthand report of the Russian viewpoint regarding the magazine "America." No dissemination of this information is being made at the present time in order not to jeopardize our informant's security. Upon the return of additional CPUSA functionaries to this country, however, consideration will then be given to dissemination.

NY 694-S, on 3/28/59, advised SA [redacted] that on said date JAMES JACKSON came to the informant's home to borrow the latter's car (1953 Ford sedan, dark green, license #Q1112) for a trip to Washington, D.C., beginning on the AM of 3/29/59. JACKSON stated he would drive his family to Washington, D.C. to visit his mother-in-law, and would return probably on 3/30/59 or 3/31/59.

According to JACKSON, he had arrived at Idlewild Airport at 10:30 AM on 3/27/59, via Air France from Paris, and had not been questioned at the airport. He said no one in the CP, USA, was as yet aware of his arrival. He requested that CG 5824-S be advised of his return to the USA, and that there was no immediate need for the Chicago informant to contact him. Chicago was advised telephonically on 3/28/59.

NY 694-S advised also that TIM BUCK, Canadian CP leader, had returned from the 21st Congress in Moscow on 3/25/59.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION CONCERNING
V. J. JEROME

V. J. JEROME attempted to mail some miniature bottles of liquor to the United States from Poland, but the post office would not accept them. JEROME gave them to GEORGE MORRIS, with the request that someone from the Communist Party - USA delegation to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union carry them back to the United States and mail them to his [redacted] at the following address: [redacted] Street, Rochester 12, New York.

MORRIS gave these miniatures to MORRIS CHILDS, since CHILDS was the first CP-USA delegate to return to the United States. It is understood that CHILDS, not wanting to transport these items, gave them away in Moscow.

On March 19, 1959, a postal card was received from V. J. JEROME. He said that he had attended the Congress of the Communist Party of Poland. JEROME gave the following return address: Osory Poenta Jeczorna, 1 K Warszawy Dom Literatow, Poland.

INFORMATION PERTAINING TO AN ARTICLE BY
BORIS PONOMAREV IN THE "KOMMUNIST"

The No. 15 issue, Series 1958, of the "Kommunist", contained an article by BORIS PONOMAREV, Head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. This article dealt with the international situation and the work of the various Communist Parties in the struggle against revisionism. MORRIS CHILDS and JAMES JACKSON, Communist Party - USA delegates to the 21st Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, did not know of the existence of this article until they arrived in Moscow during January, 1959. The article contains a section dealing with the Communist Party - USA. It recites how the CP-USA is conducting a fight against revisionism. On page 25, this article has the following sentence:

"The chief revisionists, Gates, Charney and Schneidorman, have openly gone over to the camp of American imperialism."

In the meeting between the CP-USA delegates and representatives of the leadership of the CPSU, JACKSON told PONOMAREV that he should make a correction in this article, since BILL SCHNEIDERMAN cannot be put into the same camp with GATES and CHARNEY. PONOMAREV shrugged off JACKSON's comment, but did say that maybe he will give the editors a correction some day.

Subsequently, in the presence of ALEXAI GRECHENCO (ph), of the International Department of the CCCPSU, and CHILDS, JACKSON wrote a letter to the Editor of the "Kommunist". Later, JACKSON told CHILDS that he received the impression that ALEXAI GRECHENCO did not like the contents of JACKSON's letter. However, CHILDS agreed with JACKSON that in order to avoid criticism in the CP-USA, it was necessary to show that JACKSON and/or CHILDS had taken some official action in regard to this article. Just prior to leaving Moscow for China, JACKSON left his letter with CHILDS and told CHILDS to take whatever action he thought best. CHILDS re-wrote JACKSON's letter and submitted it to the International Department of the CCCPSU. The following is the text of JACKSON's letter;

"In the issue #15 of the Kommunist there appears the very informative and useful article of Com. B. Ponomarev on the new stage in the international Communist movement.

"However, an error of fact and an irrefragable characterization in respect to the role of certain personalities in the Party situation in the U.S. occurs. At the bottom of page 25, last paragraph, there is the statement that 'The chief revisionists -- Gates, Charney, Schneiderman -- have openly gone over to the camp of American imperialism.'

"The fact is that William Schneiderman is a member of the District Committee of the Northern California District of the CP, USA. In the course of the struggle for a sound Marxist-Leninist line and policies in our own Party in opposition to the revisionist influence, some of Comrade Schneiderman's views were subjected to sharp criticism, however we never characterized Schneiderman as one who had 'gone over to the camp of imperialism.' On the contrary, we expect from Comrade Schneiderman a continuation of his long and loyal service to the interest of the American working class and to the upbuilding and strengthening of the Communist Party, USA.

"So far as we know, George Blake Charney who deserted the Party has adopted the standpoint of a bourgeois liberal reformist. We have no wish to count him in the camp of imperialism, though his position is certainly anti-Party.

"John Gates, on the other hand, has already commercialized on his wrecking role in our Party. He has shared a speakers platform with the notorious police agent, Philbrick, he has written a book further slandering the world Communist movement, the Soviet Union and affirming his renunciation of Marxism.

"With very comradely greetings,

"James E. Jackson"

"Dear Comrade:

"In the issue #15 of the Kommunist, there appears the very informative and useful article of Comrade B. Ponomarev on the new stage in the international Communist movement.

"However, an error of fact regarding the role and characterization of Comrade Wm. Schneiderman, a member of the CP, USA, occurs. This is to be read at the bottom of page 25, last paragraph. 'The chief revisionists -- Gates, Charney, Schneiderman, have openly gone over to the camp of American imperialism.'

"Since Wm. Schneiderman is a member of the Party and is active in the Northern California District of the CP, USA, and is not at this time linked with the above named enemies of the Party, it would be appropriate to give him a different characterization even though he has not yet openly repudiated his former false views. We are hopeful that Comrade Schneiderman, who has a long record of activity in the Communist working class movement, who has been subjected to sharp criticism by our Party, will continue his work and by word and deed show that he understands the Marxist-Leninist line of our Party and sees the true face of the enemy in the revisionists. But to state the fact correctly, we should not put Schneiderman in the camp of those who have gone over openly to the camp of imperialism.

"Dear comrade, you can use the above statement of fact as you deem best from an editorial standpoint. We do not yet know Comrade Schneiderman's personal reaction to the noted characterization, but we do know that in California we are fighting to destroy the last vestiges of revisionist influence and quite successfully. From a tactical point of view we believe that a distinction between Schneiderman, Gates, Charney, [redacted] Browder, and other notorious enemies of the Party would help the CP, USA, in this present stage of struggle.

"With comradely greetings,

"James E. Jackson"

"Note:

Comrade Jackson asked that I write this letter to the Komunist. We agreed on the general approach but not on every word as written, since Comrade Jackson had to leave for China. I am sure, however, that this is the viewpoint of our Party leadership on this matter.

"With warm comradely greetings,

"Morris Childs"

Reurlet 3-26-59.

#906318

A review of relet along with the enclosures thereto indicates that the security factors involved in this matter have been afforded due consideration by the New York Office. Based upon your assurance of full security, authority is granted herewith to make the necessary arrangements with George T. Waters, Sr., and the John Jackson family in order to establish plants for possible visual and photographic coverage of the initial meet between CG 5824-S and an unknown Soviet agent presently scheduled for 4-14-59. You should take into consideration the possibility that for one reason or another, this meet may be postponed until 4-16-59. Your arrangements should, therefore, be made so as to enable the necessary coverage on both dates if need be. Under no circumstances should either Waters or any member of the Jackson family be made aware of the nature of this matter.

As indicated in relet, there appears to be some doubt as to just where the actual contact will take place. In this regard, it is noted that according to the information initially provided by CG 5824-S, it was definitely indicated that he would be contacted in the Bronx Parkway which the informant was apparently led to believe was in close proximity to McGarry's Restaurant at Herold Avenue and White Plains Road. Your survey, however, disclosed that it is approximately one mile between these two points.

Since the informant received this information directly from the unknown Soviet representative in Moscow, it would seem that the informant would be in the best position to determine the exact location where this meet will be consummated. In this regard, it is desired, therefore, that this matter be immediately taken up with the informant by the Chicago Office. You should review his original instructions from the unknown Soviet and go over in detail the results of the survey made by the New York Office as set forth in relet in order that the informant can familiarize himself as promptly as possible with this general area and also in order that he can make an appropriate decision as to the exact spot where he thinks this contact will be made.

The Bureau again desires to point out that when the informant originally received his instructions, the unknown Soviet agent suggested that the informant should familiarize himself with this area prior to the meeting date. If at all possible, the Bureau feels that the informant should comply with this suggestion.

It is noted that in relet the New York Office requested authority that either ASAC Norman H. McCabe or Supervisor Warren Marchessault or both discuss this situation with the informant when he comes to New York. Relet pointed out that any such contact will be handled with full security. At the present time, the Bureau sees no need for any contact between the informant and a representative of the New York Office. Following the over-all analysis of this matter by the Chicago Office and the informant, however, if the informant feels that it would be to his advantage for him to contact a representative of the New York Office, authority is granted herewith for him to contact ASAC McCabe. This matter, however, should be left up to the informant and the Chicago Office should not make any suggestion to the informant that he might desire to contact anyone in the New York Office.

This matter should be afforded immediate and continuous attention in order that we can make all necessary arrangements to capitalize upon this development to the utmost.

Re Chicago airtel 3/10/59, which refers to a possible meet between CG 5824-S* and an unknown individual, on April 14, 1959, an alternate date of April 16, 1959, in the vicinity of McGARRY's RESTAURANT, which is located on Nereid Avenue and White Plains Road, Bronx, New York.

A very careful and discreet survey has been conducted of the particular area and it is noticed in refairtel that CG 5824-S* was told that the meet would be at 238th and Nierid (ph.) Street. Actually 238th and Nereid are one and the same street, it presently being known as Nereid Avenue. McGarry's Bar and Restaurant is an L shaped establishment with the main entrance on Nereid Avenue and the banquet entrance on White Plains Road. It is situated on the northwest corner of that intersection. The banquet entrance is normally kept locked and the entrance to the restaurant is normally on Nereid Avenue. It is an L shaped restaurant with the front entrance being some distance from the actual corner as other stores are located within the "L."

Enclosed will be found Exhibit No. 1, which is a map of the immediate area describing the location of McGarry's. Exhibit No. 2 is an enlarged map covering a much greater area, setting out the various streets in the neighborhood. It will be noted from Exhibit No. 2, Bronx River Parkway is several blocks to the west of the pertinent meet area. Refairtel refers to park benches in the area where the actual meet is to take place. A survey reflects that there are no park benches in the immediate area and the closest ones are located in the vicinity of E. 233rd Street and Bronx River Parkway. This would be at least a mile from McGarry's Restaurant. It would not appear that the benches located in the vicinity of 233rd Street and Bronx River Parkway are the ones referred to by the Soviet representative due to their distance from McGarry's Restaurant.

Letter to Director
RE: SOLO, ISC
NY 100-134637

Several photographs were discreetly made of the pertinent area for the purpose of planning possible coverage.

Enclosed will be found Exhibit No. 3, which is a photograph taken on the southeast corner of White Plains Road and Nereid Avenue, which photograph shows both entrances to McGarry's Restaurant, the one entrance on the left being the one on Nereid Avenue and the one on the right on White Plains Road. The stores referred to as being inside the L may be seen in this photograph. It will also be noted that the upper portion of the photograph shows the elevated railroad and this is the location of a regular stop on this elevated.

Exhibit No. 4 is a photograph of an apartment building located diagonally across the street from McGarry's Restaurant on Nereid Avenue. The photograph was taken in a southwesterly direction from in front of McGarry's Restaurant.

Exhibit No. 5 is a photograph of the same apartment building referred to in Exhibit No. 4. This apartment building is located on the southeast corner of Nereid Avenue and Richardson Avenue.

Exhibit No. 6 is a photograph taken from in front of the apartment house referred to in exhibit No. 5, of McGarry's Restaurant entrance located on Nereid Avenue.

Exhibit No. 7 is a photograph looking west on Nereid Avenue and taken from the steps of the elevated structure. It shows McGarry's Restaurant entrance on Nereid Avenue.

Exhibit No. 8 is a photograph taken from the southeast corner of Richardson Avenue and Nereid Avenue showing a view of McGarry's Restaurant in relation to the other buildings in that block.

Exhibit No. 9 is a photograph taken from in front of McGarry's Restaurant on Nereid Avenue which shows Whelan's Drug Store located on the southwest corner of White Plains Road and Nereid Avenue.

Letter to Director
Re: SOLO, ISC

It will be observed from a perusal of the photographs and charts that the area involved presents limited possibility from the standpoint of a photographic surveillance. The survey reflects that due to the nature of the terrain, there is little possibility that the persons involved in the meet would walk east on Nereid Avenue. The likelihood would be that they would either stay in McGarry's Restaurant or walk west on Nereid Avenue toward the Bronx River Parkway. The same would be true if they were traveling by car. The most logical place for a photographic surveillance is the apartment house located diagonally across from McGarry's Restaurant on Nereid Avenue, which is seen in Exhibits 4 and 5. The address of this apartment house is 676 Nereid Avenue. The apartment located on the fourth floor of the northwest corner of the building, which is Apt. #20, is occupied by Mr. and Mrs. [redacted] children.

Mrs. [redacted] of Photographer [redacted] of this office. A check of the indices is negative relative to the [redacted]. Also Mr. [redacted] advises that there is no question about the loyalty of the [redacted] and further that they are most discreet individuals. He states that a contact with the [redacted] would in no way affect the security of any operation in the neighborhood. He also states that arrangements could be made whereby the children would be out of the apartment for any designated period of time and that also the mother and father if it were so desired.

b7D

A perusal of Exhibit No. 5 will show the location of their apartment which covers two windows on the 4th floor of the front side of the building, plus six windows on the west side. One of the two windows on the front of the building is partially opened. This location would permit a photographic surveillance on anyone walking west from that building on Nereid Avenue, as well as directly in front thereof.

Letter to Director
RE: SOLO, ISC
NY 100-134637

The Bureau and Chicago are now referred to Exhibit No. 4 showing the east side of the apartment building. Mr. GEORGE T. WATERS, SR., who is a man of 70 to 75 years of age, lives alone on the 3rd floor, Apt. 15. His windows are the four on the third floor located towards the rear. This location presents an ideal spot to conduct a photographic surveillance of anybody in front of McGarry's Restaurant. GEORGE T. WATERS, SR., is a personal acquaintance of Supervisor JOHN J. DANAHER of this office. He has known the WATERS family in excess of 15 years. The occasion for the acquaintanceship was that for a six year period in the '40s, he maintained company with Mr. WATERS [redacted]. SA DANAHER advises that Mr. WATERS enjoys an excellent reputation, is very anti-Communist and is extremely loyal. He states that he is certain he could make appropriate contact with Mr. WATERS so as to be able to have his apartment available for our use during the pertinent period. Mr. DANAHER also states that there is no question in his mind but what appropriate surveillance could be operated from this apartment with full security. The indices of the New York Office, as well as the Police Department, are negative with regard to Mr. WATERS. b6 b7C

The New York Office feels that since it cannot be anticipated as to what will occur during and subsequent to the contemplated meet, and since it is possible that this would be the only meet between the informant and the unknown individual, that appropriate photographic and visual coverage should be given to this meet in an effort to identify the unknown individual. On the other hand, it is felt that this coverage should only be maintained if there is absolute security so that there would be no possibility of the unknown individual being aware of the existence of this coverage. A visual observation plant is felt desirable in addition to the photographic surveillances since it is not felt that we should rely entirely on photographs. The New York Office has agents who are thoroughly familiar with most representatives of Russia in this area and it is felt that it would be possible to identify the individual on the spot. It would be possible to operate both the visual plants in conjunction with the photographic plants requiring no additional plant locations. It is, therefore, highly recommended that the New York Office be permitted to operate two plants, one in the GEORGE T. WATERS, SR. apartment and the other in the [redacted] apartment. b6 b7C

Re: SOLO, ISC
NY 100-134637

In connection with this recommendation, it is understood that the New York Office will guarantee the operation of these plants with full security. Bureau authority is, therefore, requested to make the appropriate contacts in order to set up these plants. The New York Office further recommends against any additional type of coverage in the area. It is realized that by not having additional coverage it is possible, due to the mode of travel and the direction in which the participants of the meet walk, that no identification or photographs could be taken. It is felt that for the security of the operation, still no additional coverage be had even though this possibility exists.

It is noted that CG 5824-S* is expected to look over the site of the meet prior to the actual meet. It is possible that it would be desirable for the agents who conducted the survey and are familiar with the area to have an opportunity to discuss the plans of CG 5824-S* in relation to the area as he will find it upon inspection. It is to be noted that the instructions he received from the Russian representative cannot be followed in its entirety in view of the lack of park benches in the area. ASAC NORMAN H. McCABE and SUPERVISOR [REDACTED] have familiarized themselves with the area. Bureau authority is requested for either one or both of these agents to discuss the situation with CG 5824-S* when he comes to New York if in their discretion it is felt desirable to do so at the time. Any such contact will be handled with full security.

SOLO

Operation SOLO was a long-running FBI program to infiltrate the Communist Party of the United States and gather intelligence about its relationship to the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, China, and other communist nations. It officially began in 1958 and ended in 1977, although Morris and Jack Childs, two of the principal agents in the operation, had been involved with the Bureau for several years prior. The files posted here constitute the first two releases made from the FBI's SOLO file. They range from March 1958 to August 1960. Subsequent releases will be added in the future. Last Days in Moscow

ARRIVAL IN MOSCOW, RUSSIA

I arrived in Moscow, Russia, on the evening of April 29, 1958. A security officer boarded the plane and took my passport. I was the last person to leave the plane. Since I did not see anyone who appeared to be looking for me, I proceeded to the airport terminal and sat down to decide what to do next. In a moment a man about 40 to 42 years of age, about 5'10" in height and wearing glasses came over and said hello to me. This man is Nikolai Dimitrovitch Matkovsky and he has just become the head of the North and South American Section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. He succeeded one Korianov who is now in charge of a ten-man delegation from Russia to the new international communist magazine, "For Peace and Democracy," being published in Prague. The first issue is due on or about September 1, 1958. Matkovsky works under B. N. Ponomarev, who is the head of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and a member of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

Matkovsky stated that a cablegram announcing my arrival had just been received. He asked for the baggage checks and gave them to the chauffeur who was with him. The baggage was placed into the auto without inspection.

I was driven to a nine-story apartment building where I was to live all the time I was in Moscow. It is believed that this apartment building is utilized for persons whose identity must be protected or who must live in Moscow under security conditions. While the address of this apartment building is Number 8 Gorki Street, it faces Sovietskaya (phonetic) Square. It is near the Moscow Soviet which is a red building. It is also near the Marx-Engels-Lenin Institute. It is also near a large statue of Yuri "The Long Handed," the founder of Moscow.

The apartment building is divided by an archway. It has only a rear entrance. There are two elevators, a passenger elevator and a freight elevator. These elevators are guarded by women who sit in an enclosed glass structure. It is impossible to use either elevator without a key. The guards, who are always on duty, maintain the keys for the elevators.

I was taken to an apartment on the sixth floor. It is a seven-room apartment with three bedrooms, a study, a dining room, a kitchen and bath. The apartment is most elegantly furnished and contains everything a guest might need, including shaving equipment, tooth brush, pajamas, et cetera. The doors are padded and the walls are soundproof. The housekeeper for the apartment lives in the apartment all the time. She does the cleaning, takes care of the laundry, makes the beds, et cetera. A cook arrived each morning to prepare the meals.

The apartment is well stocked with staple foods, wine, vodka, brandy, mineral water, oranges and other fruit. There is a television set in the apartment. The study has a short and long wave radio and a record player.

Katkovsky came into the apartment with me and said that this is an apartment of the Central Committee and that this is where I would live. He had supper with me. The meal was practically a banquet, but was only the beginning of several such meals. The cook, who is about 30 years of age, had attended school to learn how to prepare various foreign dishes.

Katkovsky did not give me any Russian money. He said that I should ask for anything I wanted and it would be provided. He said that there was no need for money since I should not be seen on the streets, and the fact that I would have no money would help me to maintain my security. After eating with me, he left the apartment.

The study was well stocked with books and current publications in the English, French, German, Spanish and Italian languages. At my request, "The New York Times" or the European edition of either "The New York Times" or the "New York Herald Tribune" were brought to me from time to time. I also received "Pravda" several days a week and the "Moscow News," which is in English and is published on Wednesdays and Saturdays. I was also furnished with "Newsweek" from time to time. It was impossible, however, to obtain any American or British broadcasts on the short wave radio, even though the radio appeared powerful enough to bring in such broadcasts. It is possible that the antenna was so adjusted so as to prevent the picking up of these broadcasts.

Upon my return from China in July, the housekeeper told me that four persons from Western Germany had occupied the apartment while I was on the trip to China. On the last day before I left Russia to return to the United States, I accidentally observed that the housekeeper had a photograph of Joseph Stalin in her room.

FIRST DAY IN MOSCOW, APRIL 30, 1958

The usual routine was breakfast at 9:00 a.m., dinner at 2:00 p.m., and supper at 9:00 p.m. or later.

On April 30, 1958, Alexei Andreevich Grechukhin appeared at the apartment after breakfast. He is about 35 to 40 years of age and is very similar in appearance to John Williamson. He works in the North and South American Section of the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union under Nicolai. Subsequently he met with me for the next three or four days. At the end of this time he left Moscow for the United States as part of the Russian "Student Editors Delegation." He returned to Moscow in June and was with me from time to time after that.

On the same morning Matkovsky also appeared at the apartment. Both stated that they were happy to see me and that the leadership of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union thanks the Communist Party, USA, for finally finding ways of making direct contact.

On the evening of April 30, 1958, I was officially welcomed to the Soviet Union at a semiformal dinner in my apartment. In addition to Matkovsky and Grechukhin, V. P. Tereshkin was present. He is the chief deputy to B. N. Ponomarev. He is about 50 years of age, 5'8" in height and has a heavy build. His main hobby is fishing. He was well dressed. He is very jolly. While he does not understand English, both Matkovsky and Grechukhin understand English and speak it fairly well.

All three stressed the importance of the Communist Party of the United States. They stated that the Soviet Party is glad that the American Communist Party was able to defeat the revisionists. In fact, this is the best news they have had in a long time. In a general discussion they stated that they do not underestimate the American industrial capacity. All present drank toasts to proletarian internationalism, the health of the leadership of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and the leadership of the Communist Party, USA. Tereshkin made a toast to the day when the United States will arrive at communism at the same time that Russia does. In explaining this last toast, Tereshkin stated that because of the industrial development in the United States, once the communists get rid of the bourgeoisies, then United States communism can catch up with Russia, which is now in the first stages of communism. It is noted that this was a paraphrasing of statements by Nikita Khrushchev that the grandchildren of adults in the United States will see communism in the United States.

It was observed during this first semiformal gathering that the Russians are very rigid on protocol, operating like a military echelon. During the discussions the persons with lower ranks will remain silent unless asked to speak.

MAY DAY IN MOSCOW

On the morning of May 1, 1958, Grechukhin appeared at the apartment with Sema Kuznetsov. She is single, about 38 years of age, speaks English and works with Grechukhin and Matkovsky in the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. She was subsequently a frequent visitor in our apartment.

Grechukhin stated that the Central Committee had honored my request for a ticket to the May Day parade. I asked for directions to the Red Square and was told that I would have to pass through three or four guards before getting to my seat and that there was a chance that persons from the various diplomatic corps might see me. There was no way possible to get me into the Red Square secretly. After learning this, I said that it was my decision not to attend the parade because of the need for security. They stated that they were happy with this most correct decision and that actually I could see the parade better on television.

In addition to watching the parade on television, I could see part of it from my windows. The main slogans carried on banners in the parade and banners decorating the city dealt with peace and peace for the world. One slogan urged the carrying out of decisions of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union to surpass the United States in production. Another slogan was "Long Live the Glorious Party of the Soviet Union." Another slogan was "Long Live the Party Which is Leading Us to Communism, the Dawn of Humanity." All slogans dealt with the supporting of the leadership and the issue of peace. There were none of the usual "Down with Imperialism" slogans.

I was convinced from the first days in Moscow, and particularly after viewing the May Day parade, that the Russians have destroyed the cult of the individual. There were no photographs of Stalin in the parade but there were photographs of Lenin or Lenin and Khrushchev together. There was no single photograph of Nikita Khrushchev. When his photograph appeared it was with other members of the Presidium and such photographs were few in number. The members of the Presidium are listed alphabetically. I did not observe a photograph or a statue of Stalin in Moscow. I did see one mural of Stalin in a subway. Thus, up to a point, the Russians have destroyed the significance of Stalin. They have almost eradicated his name.

The military was not emphasized in the parade, although there were some missiles and motorized equipment. There were no aircraft in the parade. The emphasis was on peaceful pursuits and peaceful coexistence. In a speech Malinovsky stated that Russia is preparing for peace but is also prepared to meet any aggressors. The guest of the day was Nasser of Egypt.

MAY 2, 1958

Since May 2 is also a holiday in Moscow, Grechukhin and Matkovsky appeared at the apartment and said that I should take it easy on that day. They remained for supper.

Grechukhin suggested that I probably had a number of questions to raise with the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. He said that these questions should be framed as one Communist Party dealing with another Communist Party. Thus, I should formulate in writing those questions the American Communist Party wants to raise with the Secretariat or Presidium or Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

ACTIVITY PRIOR TO THE FORMAL MEETINGS WITH THE LEADERSHIP OF THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION

Several days were spent in preparing voluminous material on the Communist Party, USA, and current economic conditions in the United States and the questions to be presented to the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on behalf of the Communist Party, USA. During these days discussions continued in the apartment with Matkovsky, Sema Kuznetsov and Yuri Sergeovitch Ivanov, who replaced Grechukhin when the latter went to the United States. During this time I was also supplied with translations from the Government Information Service and translations of interesting articles in the Russian newspapers and magazines. The "London Daily Worker," which can be purchased in Moscow and throughout Russia, was also furnished to me. Occasionally, I was furnished a copy of "The Worker." I was told that only one copy of "The Worker" is sent air mail and it arrives about four or five days after it is mailed.

Yuri Sergeovitch Ivanov

Yuri Sergeovitch Ivanov is a translator in the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and it is believed that he also serves as a security officer. He speaks English with a British accent and at first was very formal. He carries the credentials of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, which open all doors at all times. He said that his mother is not a member of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. His father was a high-ranking military officer who was killed during World War II. He is married and has a daughter four years of age. He accompanied me on my tour of Russia.

Yuri's mother developed methods for the teaching of deaf and dumb children and later became an inspector of schools for the Russian diplomatic personnel. He lived with her in New Zealand where he learned English. Later, they were in China and passed through the United States from San Francisco to New York City after World War II. He has also been in England. He and his wife are both graduates of the Academy of Languages, the leading language school in Russia.

Yuri is trained to perfection in speech, dress, manners, et cetera. He was a "boy genius" and is well educated. He can recite poetry at length and knows most of the songs from "My Fair Lady." Except for the fields of art and music, he does not tolerate any criticism of Russian achievements. He is not as developed politically as are Grechukhin and Matkovsky. Both the wife of Grechukhin and the wife of Matkovsky are studying English, which is the number one language in Russia, next to Russian.

Discussions Concerning Marshal Tito and Yugoslavia

Every day I was in Russia someone from the International Department of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union was in touch with me. Sometimes it would be one person, often it would be two or three persons. They would not only see that I received all the newspapers printed in Russian and whatever was published in English, but they would hold discussions with me. They would talk chiefly about political problems. If some important political article would appear in a magazine only in Russian, they would send Yuri Sergeovitch Ivanov to sit with me for hours at a time just translating this material for me.

The most important political problem was the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists. They were very much concerned over whether or not I understood what was happening in Yugoslavia. They wanted to know how or what they could send to the United States, without violating any security, in the way of material that would help the American Communist Party to understand the struggle with Tito and the Yugoslavs. Grechukhin, Matkovsky and Sema Kuznetsov engaged in sessions with me in my apartment concerning this.

Much emphasis was placed on Yugoslavia at the beginning of these discussions. They showed me the most confidential documents which are circulating within the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on this particular question. They would read them to me but they would take these documents with them. The Russians are really convinced that Tito is an enemy and that he has some understanding with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and that he also has some understanding with the Social Democratic Parties in England, Norway, Denmark, Italy and France, especially with France since he has been fighting with the French Communist Party also. They made allusions that Tito may have been a traitor all the time.

The Russians gave considerable time to the "war" with Tito. Next to their fight against imperialism and the so-called struggle for peace, this is the most important question for them. This is why there has been a renewal of the fight against revisionism. If Tito would have gone along with them, they probably would have dropped the fight against revisionism. They want to hold on to the other communist parties by showing that Tito has violated everything that is holy and significant in Marxism-Leninism. They say that Tito's betrayal goes back a long way. They blame it first of all on the history of Yugoslavia and its factionalism. They say that when there is factionalism the enemy is able to infiltrate. Then they go into the war situation and say that Tito had representatives from the British Government and contact with Winston Churchill through liaison personnel.

Not only did the Russians disown the program which was adopted by the Yugoslav communists, but they are even more angry regarding the speeches made at and subsequent to the the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists. They blame Kardelj, vice chairman and theoretical leader of the Yugoslav communists. They refer to the speeches in which Tito praised the aid which Yugoslavia received from the United States on a level above that of the aid Yugoslavia received from the Soviet Union. In other words, Tito praised the United States for the disinterested aid given to Yugoslavia with no strings attached and alluded, as did most of the Yugoslav leaders in their speeches at this Seventh Congress, to the pressures from the Soviet side when they gave aid or to the strings attached by the Soviet Government when they gave aid to Yugoslavia.

One other important thing that the Russians become enraged about is the idea of big power hegemony advanced by Yugoslavia with Tito as the moving force. According to Yugoslavia, the following is the meaning of big power hegemony: When Yugoslavia considers big powers it limits them to the United States and Russia. Yugoslavia says that these big powers are just looking out for their own interests and the little nations get caught in the squeeze as these powers contend for better positions in diplomacy or other relationships in the international arena.

Why should this Yugoslav concept of big power hegemony enrage the Russians? They interpret this to mean that first of all Tito puts the United States in the same category with the Soviet Union or the socialist camp. Since the Soviet Union is supposed to be the apostle of peace and American imperialism is supposed to be the apostle of war, how and why does Tito equate them? This idea of big power hegemony means that Russia and the United States would both be equally guilty in case there is war. This is a violation of one of the fundamental tenets of Marxism-Leninism, namely, that capitalism and imperialism generate war.

Another thing which enrages them and makes them very angry is that Tito places stress on the idea of many roads to socialism. Tito emphasizes, as does the program of the League of Yugoslav Communists and the other communist leaders in Yugoslavia, that while the Soviet Union was the pioneer subsequently many other countries have established socialism or at least the beginning of socialism. Besides, Russia was a backward country at the time the dictatorship of the proletariat was established. Consequently, some of this backwardness was inherited, not only in the economy but also in the political structure.

Furthermore, Tito states that in the capitalist countries the state is playing more and more of a role in the economy because of the world tensions since World War II. Thus, elements of socialism represented in forms of state capitalism are coming into being and this state capitalism has within it the groundwork or elements of socialism.

The biggest sin of all which the Russians charge to Tito is that he says that the communists should not claim a monopoly on leading the country or the people to socialism. According to the Russians, this means that Tito denies the most important principle of Marxism-Leninism and that is the need for a vanguard Communist Party. Only this vanguard Communist Party can lead the working class through the dictatorship of the proletariat to socialism.

They spent days with me on this question of Tito. Whoever I talked with would always come back to Tito and Yugoslavia. The Russians were supposed to give Tito a loan and were supposed to ship to Yugoslavia certain supplies and parts for factories which had been built in Yugoslavia by the Russians. However, the Russians have been holding up these shipments. Matkovskiy stated that Russia gave aluminum to Yugoslavia and all that the Russians received in exchange were pottery and prunes. Therefore, let Tito sell pottery and prunes to the United States and get his aluminum from the United States.

The Communist Party of China is also placing emphasis on the need to destroy revisionism and Titoism. The Communist Party of China has been very rough on Tito as a part of its own campaign of rectification. The Chinese have virtually no diplomatic relations with Tito. The Communist Party of Bulgaria had a congress which Nikita Khrushchev attended and at which he made some very sharp remarks about Tito. Many communist parties were invited to this congress. Representatives of the Communist Party of Great Britain and the Labor Progressive Party of Canada were present. The point is that ordinarily hardly any other Communist Party would normally attend the Congress of the Communist Party of Bulgaria, but at this congress many communist parties were represented. Bulgaria plays a strategic role in regard to Yugoslavia. The Russians felt that there might be a lot of pressure from Yugoslavia or Bulgaria and wanted the Communist Party of Bulgaria to know that other communist parties were behind them by getting other communist parties to pass resolutions against Tito.

Every day for about two months, in one or another Russian newspaper, but chiefly in "Pravda," an article would appear which had been written by a leading figure in another communist party. These articles dealt with the Seventh Congress of the League of Yugoslav Communists. Only the Communist Party, USA, did not have such an article and thus they eagerly picked up a statement by Eugene Dennis on Yugoslavia and noted it in the Russian press. Some newspapers reprinted Dennis' statement which appeared in "The Worker." The Chinese printed the full text of a statement by Dennis.

In addition to using the Congress of the Communist Party of Bulgaria as a platform against Tito, the Russians also had Nikita Khrushchev at the Congress of the Communist Party of Eastern Germany and also used it as a platform for mobilization against Tito. Just as important was the Warsaw Pact Convention. Although only the industrial and later the international decisions were announced they also discussed Tito and condemned him.

The reason I placed stress on this is because it is almost an obsession with the Russians. They asked me if I knew how the people in the Communist Party, USA, will react to this. They asked if I knew whether John Gates has contact with the Yugoslavians. They wanted to know what Steve Nelson will do in view of this situation since he is a Yugoslavian.

After they read the confidential material of the Central Committee in regard to Tito, they told me that they had sent a copy of a letter dealing with Tito to the United States, specifically to Dennis. This was a letter just for members of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. It was marked strictly confidential and each copy was numbered. I had to fight with them to make a few notes. It went into the confidential meetings between Khrushchev and Tito. It gave the reasons for the resumption of the discussions with the Yugoslavians in 1954 and the basis of Khrushchev's visit to Yugoslavia and the meeting in the Crimea between Khrushchev and Tito. It went into the argument between Yugoslavia and Russia. It stated that the Russians were willing to give publicity to some of the differences but Tito asked that this be suppressed since they had some understanding and there was no purpose in making these differences public. Tito said, "Let us not emphasize these differences." According to the letter, the Russians were willing to make these differences public at that time but Tito wanted them hidden.

The Russians also charge Tito with double betrayal because while Yugoslavia did not sign the declaration of the 12 communist parties, the Yugoslavian representative at the meeting of all of the communist parties in Moscow in December, 1957, did agree to the formulations of the Peace Manifesto which, for tactical reasons, was separate from the declaration of the 12 communist parties. The Yugoslavian representative signed the statement of the 64 communist parties which blames imperialism for all the ills in this world, especially for being responsible for continued tensions in the world.

To sum up, the leaders of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union feel that Tito has to be destroyed as an agent of imperialism. The fight against revisionism is a fight to keep the socialist camp united. Acceptance of the Soviet Party as the leading party is part of this. Loyalty of the socialist camp to proletarian internationalism is needed so that a united front can be presented against imperialism. Tito has sold out to American imperialism. Tito states that the socialist state has become a bureaucratic state. Thus, Tito has opened up the "under belly" of the socialist states and it is believed that he has reached some agreement with the United States.

Only on a theoretical basis can the Communist Party of the Soviet Union rally the other communist parties by showing that Tito violated Marxian-Leninism and then sold out to United States imperialism. Thus, all communist parties will have to condemn him. Practical measures are needed to isolate and to defeat him. The Russians want to isolate Tito so that he cannot open up a gate through which imperialism might break into the socialist camp.

SECURITY PRECAUTIONS TAKEN BY THE RUSSIANS

It will be recalled that when word was first received that the Russians wanted a representative from the Communist Party, USA, to come to Russia, they stated that this representative would be guarded like someone representing the Communist Party of Iraq. They kept their end of the bargain. This has to be understood for the following reasons: My visit in Russia, my movements, my contacts with the top leadership were, to a large extent, limited by the fact that I had to live under the most extreme security conditions. I was not like a leader or representative from another communist party who could move around freely and make demands. The only questions they raised were in regard to security, security not insofar as they were concerned, but security insofar as I was personally concerned and security insofar as the Communist Party, USA, was involved. The Russians told me that they were not afraid that something would go wrong and that the United States Government would start to yell. They said that they could take care of themselves, that they are strong. However, if something went wrong in regard to their security for me then I might be punished by the United States Government.

At no time during my entire stay in Russia was I by myself, not for one day. Even when I was alone in my bedroom, a housekeeper was present in the apartment. I sometimes ate alone since the employees do not sit around the table with persons in my position.

On some days the Russians would appear at my apartment and make suggestions for short trips. I would be taken to the car with the curtains drawn. I would be driven into areas with cobblestone pavements, into forests and into villages or other places where the average foreigner never goes. Yuri Ivanov or one of the others would always accompany me. More often than not I would not get to take a walk even though I was at places where only the Russians are permitted to go. I never spoke English in public places.

They took me into areas where factories were numbered and not named. On the way I passed by the famous prison camp, Lyubyanka. At another time I was about 35 miles outside of Moscow. I saw emplacements connected with missiles but no questions could be asked. I was told these were trenches from World War II. I noticed guns, factories, barracks, et cetera. They drove me through this area at a very rapid pace.

I saw a lot of ballet and theater. These trips were organized under the strictest security regulations. I never sat in the body of the theater. They would take me to a box, usually the director's box which is closest to the stage. I only sat in the rear row since those in the front row could be seen from the other boxes. In the Bolshoi Theater, I occupied a suite of rooms containing telephones, desks, et cetera. This suite was guarded by an usher. I would arrive 45 minutes before curtain time and would be led through the side entrance. The manager or assistant manager or director of the theater would hurriedly lead me to the suite of rooms. When the theater lights went out I would move into the boxes. I would either leave early or very late. Always two or three persons, such as Grechukhin or Ivanov, would accompany me to the theater.

The same procedures in regard to security were followed in all cities and in all places I visited in the Soviet Union, such as visits to museums, in addition to the theaters. They would arrange private visits to galleries and museums either after hours or on what they called free days when the museums or art galleries were closed. They did this so there would be no possibility of an accidental or a chance meeting with a foreigner.

During all the time I was in the Soviet Union, I was not allowed a penny in Soviet currency. Not until my trip to China was I given one kopeck of Soviet money. I do not want to imply that I lacked anything. I could ask for anything and it would be delivered. Even when I was at one of the out-of-the-way places and expressed a desire for anything--anything at all--the person with me would buy it.

The Russians watched my attire very carefully. I always wore a dark suit and usually a white shirt. I wore a sports shirt with the collar outside the coat when it was warm since this is the way the Russians wear them.

When I was traveling or was to go to a meeting, I wore a white shirt, necktie and a hat. The Soviet leadership dresses in the most formal manner. They wanted everybody to believe that perhaps I am an important person. They did not want me to dress much differently than they do. I have never been dressed so formally when traveling or moving around than I was while in the Soviet Union. This was the requirement.

They also told me how to walk. I would never put my hands in my pockets if I was wearing a coat. This is considered to be bad manners and besides it is also the mark of a foreigner. I could never wear a tie clasp and a fountain pen or handkerchief could not be in view.

SEVEN QUESTIONS PRESENTED TO THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE COMMUNIST PARTY OF THE SOVIET UNION IN AN OFFICIAL LETTER FROM THE COMMUNIST PARTY, USA

On or about May 7, 1958, I presented a letter to the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union in behalf of the Communist Party, USA. It consisted of about three and one-half single spaced, typed pages. The letter contained flowery greetings to the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. It stated that this is the first time in a long time that the American Communist Party, through a representative, has made contact and is present in the Soviet Union. I said that this visit had aroused deep emotions and I was sure that if Comrade Dennis and Comrade Foster and other comrades of the Secretariat of the Communist Party, USA, were present, they would extend their heartfelt greetings and would probably feel similar emotions as they watched the enthusiasm of the Soviet people following the leadership of the glorious Soviet Party and marching on the road of communism, et cetera.

I repeated that I was bringing the greetings of Foster and Dennis, the members of the Secretariat and also the comrades in prison who "extend the hand of proletarian internationalism through the bars and send you greetings." I also said that I was bringing special greetings from Comrade Paul Robeson.

The letter explained that the lack of contact was not due to a lack of desire on the part of the leadership of the Communist Party, USA. I stated in the letter that the American bourgeoisie has been doing everything possible to frustrate the establishment of our relationship and that the revisionists were their helpers. Under the false slogan of independence, the revisionists try to prevent the Communist Party, USA, from working with the Communist Party of the Soviet Union.

The letter went on to state that the Communist Party, USA, had delivered some blows to the revisionists so that the political atmosphere has been cleared up. This made possible the contact with the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. The letter also stated that the Communist Party, USA, would have liked very much to have greeted Nikita Khrushchev on his elevation to the post of premier but in view of the various reactionary laws in the United States, the Communist Party, USA, cannot always express its feelings. Therefore, I am taking this occasion to congratulate Nikita Khrushchev on becoming premier of the U.S.S.R. It should be noted that I added this last statement because one of the questions presented in the letter dealt with the cult of the individual.

In the letter I emphasized the meaning of proletarian internationalism, stated that Marxism-Leninism is a universal thing and that the most experienced party, Communist Party of the Soviet Union, is a symbol of Marxism-Leninism and can be of great help to the American Communist Party. I said that proletarian internationalism is anathema to the bourgeoisie and their agents, the revisionists such as Gates and others. I told them that the Communist Party, USA, was ready to discuss a number of problems and to exchange information.

Questions Presented to the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union on Behalf of the Communist Party, USA
